Boasting the largest class in the history of the Hotel and Restaurant Division and with each member of the course especially recommended by hotel, restaurant and labor groups, the division is expected to have an active as well as efficient part in the college this semester.

Returning to the college as a faculty member attached to the Hotel Division, Major Albert Floyd, U.S.A. Reserve, retired, is a graduate of the division and member of one of the early classes.

During the war, Major Floyd was in charge of commissary and training schools for cooks and bakers in Alaska for the army. Prior to his induction he was associated with a local firm.

Major Floyd will take his place as instructor in restaurant operation with a large background in that field including experience in a large Sacramento hotel.

With the increased enrollment and conditions in the cafeteria overcrowded this semester a plea for students to keep their books and belongings off of the tables and to bus their dishes was made by Mozelle Milliken, staff member of the division.

Fourteen Instructors Join College Faculty

With the beginning of a new semester, 14 instructors have been added to the faculty with one former instructor returning from the armed forces, according to releases from the administration last week.

Those who are newly added to the staff are Arthur Austin, James Billwiller, Marjorie Cullen, William Davis, Thomas Dutcher, William Fischer, Velma Fleming, Albert Floyd, Richard Foster, Burton Gorden, John Hare, Thomas Murney, Nancy Sparks and Adolph Stall.

Returning to the college after serving in the Army Air Forces since November, 1942, is Evans Ecke, who will resume his duties as art instructor.

Sample of Registration Program Sheets

PRACTICE SHEET

PRINT: MR (MISS, MRS. OR MR.) ELVNN LAST NAME CHARLES FIRST NAME THOMAS MIDDLE NAME

	MON.	TUES.	WED.	THURS.	FRI.	SAT.
8:10 9:00		HYGIENE 2A		WILSON 132
9:10 10:00	SCIENCE 2A	SCIENCE LAB	SMITH	SCIENCE LAB	204
10:10 11:00		SMITH	JONES	334	255
11:10 12:00	ENGLISH 21A
12:10 1:00		LANGUAGE 2A — BROWN — 309
1:10 2:00		PHYS. ED. — (BASEBALL) BRADY — GYM
2:10 3:00
3:10 4:00
4:10 5:00

5626 SW 7-1-44

The Practice Program sheet pictured at the left is a sample only. Similar program sheets are contained in the registration book and are to be filled out as illustrated here. Students should, however, be sufficiently intelligent to substitute for the word "science" the specific science course, i. e., chemistry, physics, zoology, astronomy. Likewise, the word "language" should be replaced with the particular language studied, i. e., French, German, Spanish.

Assembly

Clark Eichelberger, Howard Morgan Will Speak This Friday

Making World Organization their topic, Clark M. Eichelberger, director, American Association for the UNO, the commission to study the organization of peace, and editor of Changing World, and Howard Morgan, editor of the California Technology Daily and a member of the board of student federalists, will speak at the first Associated Student Assembly this Friday at 10:45 a.m. in the WAVE Auditorium.

This is the time of the new College Hour.

The talks will assume some essence of a debate, as Eichelberger will speak on the progress of the UNO, and Morgan will discuss the part of federal union in the new world organization.

These talks are the first of a series to be given as a part of the newly revived President's Lectures, according to Lloyd Luckmann, director of the series. This system was first started by President A. J. Cloud in the fall semester of 1942, but ceased when Luckmann was granted leave from the college.

They are being revived this semester, however, and a lecture by a distinguished speaker will be given once a month at the college hour, which has been designated as 10:45 every Friday morning, Luckmann said.

Luckmann, added that junior college students will be admitted by presentation of Associated Student cards, to a series of lectures on World Peace and Security through the United Nations Organization, to be given this Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2, by the International Center.

A list of speakers and times of the talks are available in The Guardsman office.

Administration Sets College Assembly Hour

Introduction of a college hour when no classes will meet and when general assemblies, rallies, club meetings, and other college activities will be held, was announced last week by the administration.

The hour, actually 45 minutes, is set for every Friday from 10:45 to 11:30. At this time no classes will meet.

The system as outlined provides for a complete change in the hourly class schedule. All classes will meet, but for 45 rather than 50 minutes, and with only five minutes between classes. The exact Friday schedule effective this Friday, is as follows:

- 8:10 to 9
- 9:05 to 9:50
- 9:55 to 10:40
- •10:45 to 11:30• (college hour)
- 11:35 to 12:20
- 12:25 to 1:10
- 1:15 to 2

From the two o'clock hour on classes meet on the regular hour schedule.

Speaking for the administration, President A. J. Cloud said last week: "This hour is not to be considered a "free" hour because classes are not called. All students are expected to attend each college hour."

Dean Edward E. Sandys warned that the cafeteria will be closed every Friday for the college hour.

The college hour Fridays replaces the past scheduling of various hours when classes were dismissed to provide time on the campus for college activities.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII. No. 1 Wednesday, Feb. 27, 1946 Page 2

Scholastic Standards

Due Warning Given

ENROLLMENT at the college this semester has exceeded any, in the ten years of its existence, and promises to grow in forthcoming semesters, the increase largely being due to the daily return of veterans.

The college is filled to capacity, which will become apparent to new students as they are herded around, and to "old" students as they look about them and notice the large classes, and the mobs of freshmen crowding the halls between classes.

Students who last semester became aware of a definite change on the part of the administration—reflected in the provisions of the newly revised Associated Student constitution regarding studies—will find such a change even more marked this semester.

The college has revoked whatever measure of tolerance it permitted in wartime, and will unyieldingly demand the highest possible scholastic standards for all students.

A readmission board has been set up to investigate the cases of individual students on probation, and threatened with cancellation of their registrations, because of low grades.

Already in the past semester some 80 students have been dropped from the college registration books, and with the newly appointed board now in full operation, students should be duly warned by faithfully maintaining a "C" coverage, to keep clear of it.

To many, the knowledge of the existence of this board is not new. The Guardsman has given the readmission board full news coverage, and has previously editorialized upon its activities. However, the existence and actions of such a body are considered too important not to be brought to the attention of as many students as possible.

There are too many veterans seeking entrance to college who must not be denied the opportunity by lacadaisical, unthinking students who serve simply to swell the numbers, and it is to the latter that this warning regarding the readmission board is directed.

Associated Student Indebtedness

RELINQUISHING the position of controller this semester, that he may return to a program of fulltime teaching is Luther H. Lyon.

Mr. Lyon, who is being ably succeeded as controller by Oscar E. Anderson, has in that capacity filled, among other jobs, the one of unofficial financial adviser to past Associated Student Executive Councils. Not only because of the nature of his work, but because of his obvious and genuine interest in all Associated Student concerns, as well as because of the changes in administration and faculty, Mr. Lyon proved in the past to be the link between Executive Councils. Thus a remarkable continuity of action on the part of consecutive student governments was achieved.

Mr. Lyon, as the financial conscience of the Executive Council, never asserted himself in any way, nor interfered with its actions as long as financial matters were being carried out satisfactorily.

Apart from being the author of some pamphlets for club treasurers, excellent in their brevity and clearness, Mr. Lyon, together with Dean Edward E. Sandys, advised the committee headed by President Bob Mills last semester to revise the constitution, and pointed out many of the less evident pitfalls. Consequently, the Associated Students are in many ways indebted to the retiring controller.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavanor ..... Feature Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bain, Manuel Castro, Peter Certanti, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivien Freedman, Patricia French, Carmel Gannon, Ralph Hassen, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, Don Lucey, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams.
Joan Nourse Muscio ..... Faculty Adviser

—Linoleum by Chatelain

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

ON introducing this column the idea will not be to sling mud or slanderous remarks at any of the bands, activities, or people about town. The main idea in mind is to pass on info or any kind of riff that happens to show up.

Last week Benny Goodman, the all-time favorite, was heard at the Oakland Auditorium. As a band, B. G.'s organization has suffered very much as a result of the war. The arrangements and style are still the same old Goodman, but some of the individual men in the second or third chairs are not quite up to Goodman par.

This of course is quite unavoidable and will be corrected as soon as the boys get off their Army kicks. It was noticed by all, however, that Mel Powell is back with the organization and cutting some very frantic piano with the sextet.

The sextet was so very fine that even the criticizing ears of the local six cats were mellowed. The Goodman band is just about due for a comeback. It will be over a period, but the old man with the black stick is not ready for the has-been list for many a year.

The crying style is now on for the Boyd Raeburn band, which broke to bits in Idaho last month. Raeburn had one of the finest bands that has hit the road in the last century. The band was so thoroughly appreciated by the musicians that it was unbelievable. Down Beat, music magazine, acclaimed it more than any other young outfit.

The style was so radical that it could be digested and understood only by musicians and ardent swing fans. The arrangements of George Handy, the piano man, were new, startling, and beautiful. It is too bad that an organization such as this had to blow up. The only reason that this fatality occurred was the American people as a whole are so square that all they want is Let It Snow.

Needless to say, the downfall of Raeburn is a loss to lovers of fine music. Raeburn has waxed a very few discs on Gilt Edge. Collectors should get their hooks on them. They will probably become items along with Zerke, Barrigan, and Chu Barry works.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

WITH registration over and the new semester under way, a few observations regarding incidents of the past week are herewith indicated.

One buoyant young gentleman, bearing the appellation Byron Blaster, is a brand-new addition to the students here. Not that it is customary to welcome one individual alone and embarrass him, understand; it is merely that, after observing what Blaster went through during the process of registration, one cannot but feel that he deserves not only public recognition for his actions, but should also receive an extra combat ribbon in addition to those he now possesses.

Singled out from the multitude because of various factors, Blaster will undoubtedly become a recognized personage, if not a renowned legend around this campus, especially if he persists in the deportment he displayed last week.

Obviously eager to get down to business, Blaster was first observed by a compatriot as he alighted from the Groaning Caterpillar and tripped lightly up the front steps. After being informed that the office of the registrar was not the place in which to register, obviously, and that the big party was being held upstairs, he went aloft, arriving on the third floor after battling his way through miles of offensive hemp, most inconveniently placed.

Finally united with the butter line through the aid of about ten members of the faculty, he was escorted with other bewildered souls into a room on the second floor, where he was handed a card printed in a simply ravishing shade of blue, and told to "kindly be seated."

Just as he was getting comfortable in one of the big easy chairs, a nice gentleman began explaining how to fill in the cards.

"You print your name on the line that says 'print name,' and your address on the line that says 'print address'."

Afterward, the befuddled freshman was directed by Traffic Master Joseph Amori to the line on the left of the one on the right, went through a maize of inquiries by various and sundry individuals who seemed to be interested in the most unusual things, and finally emerged on the third floor, minus four dollars, and his rugged individualism.

And so the registration went. And now it is done. Welcome Blaster—welcome freshman. Have a pleasant stay.

Stephen

RAMifications

NOT long ago one of our leading scientists drew a rather vivid picture of Future Man. He was short of stature, small of body, and extremely large above the neck. That man, the scientist declared, will be near to genius, his large thinking capacity signified by his now abnormal sized head, his body shrunken by vitamin pills, dehydrated foods, and the complete lack of need for physical training. For wars will not be acts of physical combat, they will be mental struggles, easily solved by these great philanthropists.

New wrinkle along this line is noted in a release from the American Association of Junior Colleges which says, "Enrollment of veterans in America's Junior Colleges is expected to more than double during the next six months."

A new semester here has begun with more than 200 students over the original capacity of 3000 pronounced for this edifice. They roam the halls, bewildered by room numbers and numb from stair climbing. But in spite of the ceiling placed on enrollment by the Board of Education in 1940, more are coming. The ceiling is off!

Junior College heads all over the country predict a general upsurge of total enrollment by September, with some colleges expected to increase their size by as much as six times. Los Angeles City College alone has registered over 1000 veterans, making a total enrollment of 4300, some 2000 over the average for two preceding semesters.

All over the country the same trend is prominent. The most obvious conclusion is that American Youth wants to become educated.

The immediate result might be a higher percentage as well as a greater degree of literacy. The eventual outcome will, if science is correct, be a highly trained average mind. An average American citizen will complete two years of college. Later, perhaps, four, even five years of higher education may be either compulsory or a matter of social moves, if all indications are accurate.

Therefore, the Future Man, who will join us, say around 4000 A.D., will cap the evolution of the trend made famous by Horace Mann and his public schools.

Cumming

After Dark

AS we go nosing into the new year at full tilt, it is well to take just a few moments to stop and look in retrospect at 1945 and see how far San Francisco has progressed in bringing "cultchah" to the "pcepul."

All in all, it stacks up pretty well. Our opera and ballet companies did sell-out business, which is a story in itself when one thinks of how these two arts struggled to keep alive a short ten years ago.

San Franciscans are packing the house to hear the best symphony season in years, and the Symphony Forum is helping to make a great number of those audiences young college students. The Symphony Forum is a college organization open without charge to all college students. Its purpose is to create an interest and understanding of San Francisco musical life in the unmusical students as well as the musical ones, and to prove that music goes further than A Song to Remember and Chickery Chick.

Now, let's take a look at the theater. For the past year-and-a-half or two, San Franciscans have been cursed with a slew of nauseating operettas and questionable plays with a flyer every now and then at something quite good like the famous Othello of Paul Robeson and Blithe Spirit; otherwise we've had everything from Johann Strauss to Zazu Pitts. But—comes the revolution! We get Tallulah Bankhead in Foolish Notion, Oklahoma—and just try to get tickets!—Lady Windemere's Fan, Joe E. Brown in Harvey, Elizabeth Bergner in The Two Mrs. Carrolls and K. T. Stevens in The Voice of the Turtle. Quite a haul.

We notice with pleasure that the "higher arts" have nosed Hollywood's tripe a wee bit out of the way. The busy little gnomes down there haven't done so well this year. To date, there has been only one excellent picture which is without question, The Lost Weekend, which is currently doing the rounds.

Probably the most advertised picture of the year was Spellbound, but the less said about it the better. True, Ingrid the Able tried hard, but that's about all. Bette Corn in The Davis Is Green fell terribly short of the mark created by its stage sister, and we fear Miss Davis has met her match in La Bergman.

That just about covers it all, except to choose the worst movie of the year, which is rather difficult as there were so many bad ones. But perhaps the three worst money wasters—and time wasters—of the year were Rhapsody In Blue, Love Letters and Leave Her to Heaven.

It's rather fun to think of how many people are going to get a shock when Hollywood gets tired of technicolor and Cornel Wilde is put in black and white.

RAMblings . .

By Don Lucey
And Ralph Hansen

WITH the physical education department back to just about its pre-war strength, certain essential sports should expand even beyond the size they were five years ago.

One activity that falls in this category is swimming. At present this excellent form of recreation and body building is in a pitiful state at the college. While the students are entitled to use the fine pool at Jefferson High School in Daly City, only those who cannot pass a simple water test are privileged to engage in this healthy pastime. This should not be so.

No one will deny the advantages of swimming. It combines the qualities of muscle building with as much pleasure as may be found in any other sport. Has anyone ever seen a good swimmer or diver who did not have a well proportioned body? Probably not.

EFFORT COORDINATES

The reason for this development, among other things, is that swimming has one major difference in comparison with many athletics. Proper exercise in the water puts into use all the body muscles in one coordinated effort. That fact is very important, as any expert on the subject knows.

CREW AGAIN

Back in 1935 there was a great deal of discussion in regard to having a varsity crew at the college. This little flower blossomed into full bloom, and there was a crew here until 1940. During this period of time the crew did rather well as members of the California Collegiate Oarsmen's Association.

There has been talk around the campus again as to why we should not have crew now. There is undoubtedly more than enough talent present that would be only too willing to participate in the sport. What with the enrollment eagerly approaching the sum of four thousand, and approximately two-thirds of that figure men, there is no reason why there should not be a good turn-out.

The only factor that would hold back the resumption of this sport is the lack of equipment, but that is not too serious because the necessary equipment would probably not run over one hundred dollars.

Dunnigan Scores A Bucket

Red Dunnigan scores two points for the Rams, as Sale (13), Bennett (5), Linck (10), and another Sacramento cager look on helplessly. Standing at the right and ready for a rebound is Roland Jones, who was Ram high point man in the game although the Rams were smothered, 62 to 30.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 1 WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1946 Page 3

WAA

"Impressive" Sport Semester Activities Schedule Drawn For

With the most impressive schedule of events lined up since the beginning of the war, the Women's Athletic Association invites all entering women freshmen to join its ranks and participate in the various activities.

Under the guidance of Bertha Mae Keller, adviser, and Wanda McKenzie, acting president, the WAA has already assembled a tentative list of sports, one of which, at least, should fall into the range of each co-ed.

The first important calendar date of the WAA is the general signup and initiation of newcomers. This will take place the hour when classes are dismissed for club meetings.

"Olympic Meet" Planned

Highlighting the new semester is the Sectional Play Day next April, a minor "Olympic Meet," in which all state and junior colleges from Santa Rosa to Salinas compete in various sports.

This year, San Jose State College women are the hosts, and Miss Keller hopes that the local WAA develops several teams to represent the college.

Tennis turnouts are expected to increase sharply this semester because of warmer weather and increased enrollment, Miss Keller continued, recalling to mind that The Guardsman used to award a loving cup to the winners of a mixed doubles tournament. Each year, the victors' names were engraved on the trophy and the cup was placed in the main hall's trophy case.

Cup Shrouded In Mystery

Present whereabouts of the cup remain a mystery since the last male winner took the cup home, was subsequently drafted, and apparently the matter was dropped right there.

Regardless of the "cup mystery," Miss Keller thinks tennis and the mixed doubles tourney should return.

Basketball

Rams Tackle Menlo There Tonight, Play Salinas Here Friday

The Ram cagers face Menlo Junior College at Menlo tonight at 8 p.m., and this Friday night the Rams encounter for the second time this season a fighting Salinas quintet on the Ram court at 7:45 p.m.

Tonight's encounter is against the Menlo squad, defeated by Modesto, and the Rams will be after victory number six.

Friday night on the Ram court, the Rams face a fighting Salinas team that defeated them previously by the score of 33 to 31. Salinas, right after defeating the Rams, lost to the Maritime Cadets, and the Rams will be out to avenge defeat and may come up with a double victory this week.

With only two games left to be played, after Friday's game, the Rams find themselves in fourth place with six wins and four defeats. The Conference standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Sacramento	8	0
Grant	5	0
Modesto	7	1
San Francisco	6	4
Salinas	3	3
San Mateo	3	5
Menlo	2	4
Placer	2	6
Santa Rosa	1	6
Marin	0	8

The remaining games on the Ram schedule are as follows:

Feb. 27—SFJC at Menlo.
Mar. 2—Salinas at SFJC.
Mar. 6—Salinas at SFJC.
Mar. 8—SFJC at San Mateo.

Rams Lose To Salinas, Beat Placer, Grant

After losing to Salinas, February 15, in a thrilling game by a score of 41 to 43, the Rams once again resumed their conquest of the Northern California Junior College Conference basketball championship by defeating Placer, February 20, and Grant, February 22, by scores of 33 to 31, and 62 to 58, respectively. The Rams have now moved into third place in the conference standings.

The Rams lost to Salinas in a hard fought contest. Trailing by six points at the half, they came back during the second half and tied the score, but a Salinas basket and a successful tall, enabled them to win by two points. High point man for the Rams was Frank Ratto, with eight.

Last Wednesday the Rams defeated Placer at Placer, in another thrill packed game. The Rams revenged the two point defeat suffered at the hands of Salinas by defeating Placer by two points. Leading scorer for the college was Earl Malnick with 12 points.

In a wild contest here at the college last Friday the Rams defeated a hard fighting Grant quintet in a high scoring contest. Ratto led the Rams with 15 points.

First Track Signup Set Friday At 3:30

Track Coach Jim Jensen announced last week that the first track signup will be held this Friday, March 1, in the men's gym at 3:30. Those who are unable to sign up on that date will sign up on any day until Friday, March 15.

Those who are interested in intramural track will also sign up on the same day, Jensen said.

A track meet will be held on Friday, March 22, at Balboa, and medals will be awarded to the winners.

Coach Jensen urged all men to bring their own equipment, as pictures will be taken of the team this Friday.

Intramural

Wilson Succeeds Brady As Director, Outlines Full Sports Program Planned To Inaugurate All-College Sports Day

The men's physical education department this semester plans an enlarged and continuous intramural sports program, under the guidance of Coach Tom Wilson, new intramural director, who takes over the reins from former Coach Jack Brady, now Assistant Dean of Men.

Baseball

Bill Fisher Named Ram Ball Coach

William G. "Bill" Fischer, former St. Mary's All-American guard and coach of the Commerce High Bulldogs' baseball and football teams, was appointed last week as a member of the physical education department of the college and immediately named baseball coach.

After graduating from St. Mary's in 1932, he served as grid assistant there, transferred to Livermore High for the 1934 and 1935 seasons, and came to San Francisco's Commerce High in 1936, where he has coached for ten years.

Although he never won a grid title at Commerce, his teams were terrors of the league, continually upsetting favored opponents. Fischer's football teams finished second five times and third once in the final league standings.

Coach Fischer had a fairly large turnout last week of 22 Ram ballplayers. As yet, of course, he does not know how large the final squad will be.

The men signed so far include George Kochc, James Snowden, Robert Payne, Carl Warmdahl, Ernest Poggi, Victor Pudlowski, Roger Ranulo, Richard Sabatini, Richard Stanfel, Earl Lawrence, Hiram Short, Ed Kenna, Manuel Castro, Robert Powers, Ted Bofinger, Paul Cane, Charles Brabbit, Don Grant, Chester Andersen, Robert Ghiorzi, Robert McGovern, Leonard Simpson.

Of these 21 men, five are returning veterans from last year's championship team: Poggi, Grant, Castro, Kenna, and Ghiorzi.

There will be 16 league games this year with four games each against Modesto, San Mateo, Sacramento, and Marin Junior College, three games against San Francisco State, and two tentative games with Placer Junior College. Besides the league games, there will be some practice games which have not been announced as yet.

Fischer announced last week that a meeting will be held Friday at 3 o'clock in Room 107 in the gymnasium for all men interested in trying out for baseball who are not enrolled in the special baseball class.

Plans now formulated will run the numerous sports on a more elastic and overlapping schedule which will permit students to participate in various sports each week. For instance, a student may be playing basketball on Mondays, volleyball on Wednesdays, and still possibly play touch-tackle on Fridays.

The playing schedule of all intramural sports will be staggered to run to a final play-off day which it is hoped will inaugurate a San Francisco Junior College Sports Day.

On this day, in both afternoon and evening, with administration permission, all the final rounds of the intramural sports program will terminate, including the men's boxing show and the awards of medals and cups.

With the heavy increase in enrollment, which includes hundreds of veterans, Wilson is hopeful of having many of them as well as other students participate in the athletic schedule.

This program is voluntary for all of the students without limitation, Wilson said, advising, "Get a group of friends, pick a name for your team, and enter it in as many activities as you can. You do not have to belong to any of the organized clubs to enter a team. Watch for announcements in The Guardsman for the start of activities.

Intramural basketball is the first intra sport to get under way this semester. Signups start today, and the final date for the entries is next Wednesday, March 6, at 5 o'clock, when the blanks, printed on this page, are to be handed in to the men's gymnasium.

Each basketball team may have six players, but no member of the varsity basketball team who is earning a letter may compete. Club organizations may enter more than one team if they so desire. Probable days of the tournament will be Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at around 3:15 on these afternoons.

The program for this semester also includes track, badminton, ping pong, speedball (like rugby), softball, swimming, boxing, and touch football.

The schedule of games will be drawn and posted in the men's gymnasium and in the main building bulletin board Thursday, March 7, and play will start on Friday, March 8, at 3:15.

Intramural Basketball Entries Due March 6

Those interested in the opening intramural round robin must have their entries in by Wednesday, March 6, according to Intramural Director Tom Wilson. Entries will be accepted every day by Wilson in the office of the men's gymnasium through March 6. Managers of club or independent teams should fill out the application below.

Name of college organization represented .....

If independent team, name of team .....

Manager of Team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Captain of team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Name of Players: 1 .....
2 .....
3 .....
4 .....
5 .....
6 .....

Signed ..... (Team Manager)

Friday Dance Will Open College Social Season

Music

Northern California Junior College A Cappella Choirs To Resume Annual Spring Festival At S. F. State In May

Revival of the annual Northern California Junior College Choir Festival in early May was announced last week by Flossita Badger, music instructor here, and chairman of the festival organization.

The festival, which had been the highlight of inter-junior college activities in this area until the war curtailed its activities, is scheduled to be held during the first week in May with San Francisco State College acting as host to eight junior colleges.

The celebration will be held all day and all evening, with many activities and musical programs to be given. Among the events will be presentations by each two-year institution, a dinner in the evening, followed by a concert by the San Francisco State College Orchestra.

Representing this college will be the A Cappella Choir, the Women's Chorus, and possibly several soloists, Miss Badger said.

The junior colleges which will be represented are Modesto, Salinas, San Mateo, Marin, Yuba, Santa Rosa, Vallejo, and San Francisco.

Radio

Script Contest Open To New Students

The Carrington Award contest in radio script writing, for which college students are eligible, was opened last week by the Mutual Broadcasting System, Marie Weller, radio instructor here at the college, announced.

The weekly Carrington Playhouse dramatizations offer a $700 prize to the successful new radio script writer. Elaine Carrington, famed radio script writer who heads the contest, wishes to establish a clear, far-sighted recognition of new, much-needed script writers for radio productions.

New creative ideas and innovations that will contribute ultimately to higher caliber radio entertainment are the main purposes of the contest. It will be open for a 13 week period. Several students have already entered and others seeking additional information may obtain it from Miss Weller.

The spring semester promises to be one of the most eventful ever as far as the radio production department is concerned. Four veteran students here at the college were featured on a coast-to-coast broadcast last week discussing the G.I. Bill of Rights on KQW. They are Joseph Sweet, Associated Student president; Thomas Dean, XGI Society president; Lloyd Moulton, and Herbert Markall.

Chorus, Talent Bureau Reactivated Here

The college music department, off to an early start this semester, announced last week the re-activation of the college Women's Chorus and the college Talent Bureau.

The Talent Bureau, co-sponsored by Choir Director Flossita Badger and orchestra director Madison Devlin, was organized originally for the purpose of giving talented students the opportunity to perform at various college functions, as well as at occasional request programs off the campus.

Students interested in singing, acting, playing instruments, dancing, or any other diversion, are invited to see either Miss Badger or Devlin and arrange for an audition with them.

Miss Badger also explained that the Women's Chorus, whose activities had been temporarily suspended last semester, has been revived once again, and that there are still several openings for vocalizers with this group.

The college A Cappella Choir, also off to an early start, elected its new officers for this semester at a recent choir meeting. The new officials are James Finley, manager; Harold Freedman, assistant manager, and Marti Niggler, secretary.

Music students of the college who are members of the San Francisco Russian Opera Company chorus have started work on the last opera of the repertoire, Snow Maiden, by Rimsky Korsakov, Miss Badger said.

Miss Badger, chorus director for the opera, added that there are a few chorus positions open, particularly for tenors.

FPH To Construct 50 Vet Housing Units

Alleviating somewhat the acute housing shortage, the Board of Education recently approved purchase of land adjoining the college for the building of homaja huts to house veteran students and their families.

The homaja huts, similar to quonset huts, will take about two months to build once construction starts, according to Dean Edward E. Sandys, who already has a waiting list of 20 applicants. Present plans call for the building of 50 housing units which will comfortably accommodate 100 or more persons. Each unit is to contain a stove, hot running water, and an ice box.

The building of the huts is a Federal Public Housing project, Dean Sandys disclosed, with the San Francisco Housing Authority supervising this particular plan.

Hayland, Slovenko, Lawrence Named To Key Student Posts

With President Joe Sweet at the controls, the college governmental machine swung into action as appointive offices were filled by the president of the Associated Students with the approval of the Student Council.

Gwen Slovenko carries the secretarial load of the association in her appointment as Secretary. Taking the reins as Rally Commissioner is Earl Lawrence, while Vic Pudlowski heads campus sports as Athletic Commissioner.

Social Committee chairmanship went to Carol Hayland, elected vice-president of the Associated Students. Under the sponsorship of Dean Margaret M. Dougherty, this committee regulates all social activities of the college subject to the approval of the Student Council.

As during pre-war semesters, all student council members are required to enroll in Political Science a-b. This is a course in parliamentary government taught by Dean Edward E. Sandys.

The Executive Council has not yet decided upon a permanent meeting day and hour.

Following her social chairman appointment, Miss Hayland last week urged all clubs and organizations on the campus to take special notice of the clause in the newly revised constitution which states: "All social events must be cleared by the social committee."

Miss Hayland stressed that all organizations set dates for social events immediately. "If the social events of clubs and other organizations are not cleared by the Social Committee, they will not be recognized," she said.

Counseling Office Open To All Students

With the scholastic welfare of the student as its primary service, the college counseling and guidance program, headed by F. Grant Marsh, is available daily to those seeking advice or aid.

Assisted by Julio Bartolazzo, who has taken over the psychology 10 or vocational guidance course, students may call on Marsh at any time in his office directly across from the dean of men.

Among other problems, Marsh states that most students visiting him seek advice on improving their grades and taking the right subjects and courses. "However," Marsh revealed, "occasionally men and women want counsel pertaining to personal problems."

For those who might desire some tips on the right way to study and to prepare for examinations, Marsh has a helpful list of remedies ranging from "keeping the radio turned off to learning how to read rapidly and accurately."

—Photography Class Photo

Carol Hayland

Rallies

New Commissioner Sets Program Mar. 8

On the boards for the college hour Friday, March 8, at 10:45 o'clock, is what Earl Lawrence, newly appointed Rally Commissioner, last week said, "will be the first of a series of entertaining and successful rallies for this semester." The rally will be held in the WAVE Auditorium.

Lawrence has thus taken advantage of the day of the San Mateo-San Francisco Junior College basketball games, Wednesday and Friday, March 6 and 8, to launch his series of rallies.

Inspired by the lack of student attendance at last semester's rallies, Lawrence intends to combine the efforts of the Golden Cleats Society, the Block Society, the Pep Club and the Rally Committee to assure the students something worthwhile for their trek up and down the hill to rallies.

Already plans are rolling forward for a spirited attendance at the first rally to be headed by the Pep Club and the Block Society forming a red and white rooting section. Yells will be led by Hilga Haack, Warren Simmons, Marti Niggeler and Lawrence.

"Entertainment, we'll have, of which there is plenty in the college," Lawrence said, "and some will be engaged from outside."

A ceremony staged by the Block Society will start the rally along with yells led by the cheer leaders. Lawrence was secretive as to what the ceremony was to be and declined to discuss the subject further. He also remained mysterious as to the identity of the surprise guest he is planning to present to the students attending.

Pep Club Will Meet Tomorrow In Lounge

A meeting for prospective and returning members of the Pep Club will be held tomorrow in the student lounge at 2 o'clock, according to Hilga Haack, club president.

Miss Haack stated that she wants a large turnout of new and old students in order to build up the club. The pep club functions to create interest in rallies and student attendance at college games. Because of the enlarged enrollment, a larger pep club will be necessary to circulate among all the students.

Presiding at the meeting will be Miss Haack, Earl Lawrence, co-chairman, and Lois Hopkins, secretary-treasurer. The club's first undertaking, a bonfire rally, will be discussed. Although the committee for the rally are already assigned and plans are complete, a date for the bonfire rally has not been established.

Ernie Poggi, council member, and Lawrence have been assigned the task of providing wood and the amplifying equipment. Gwen Slavenko, Associated Student secretary, will handle the publicity. Food and refreshments will be provided by a committee headed by Joan Alen and bids and programs will be distributed by Miss Hopkins' committee.

Frosh Mixer Starts At 2:30 To Welcome All New Students

The traditional Frosh Mixer will be held in the women's gymnasium this Friday, March 1, from 2:30 to 5 o'clock, Carol Hayland, chairman of the Social Committee, announced last week.

"The purpose of the mixer is to welcome and to get acquainted with the new students," Miss Hayland said. "Everyone is invited to come and welcome new freshmen. It will serve as an introduction to the first off-campus dance on March 15."

Refreshments will be served, and students will dance to the music of Sammy Kaye, Harry James, and Stan Kenton—on records.

To the music of a band organized by Larry Pinder, member of the XGI Society, and composed mainly of students from the college, the first off-campus dance of the semester, whose purpose is to welcome new students, has all possibilities for successs, Miss Hayland said.

Probable scene of the dance will be the Gold Room of the Palace Hotel, Friday night, March 15. The affair will be informal, and all new students will be welcomed by officers of the college and members of the faculty.

Larry Pinder needs women vocalists for the band and last week asked anyone interested to call SKyline 9068 after 5:30.

The Social Committee is composed of Carol Hayland, vice-president of Associated Students; Nancy Cunningham, Associated Women Students president; Ted Bofinger, Associated Men Student president; Kent Bowker, Sophomore president, and Bill Smith, Freshman president.

Scholarship Society Lists Requirements

Requirements for membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college scholastic society, were announced last week by Edwin A. Cranston, the society's adviser.

Returning students who made a total of at least 30 grade points, excepting physical education, will automatically become members of Alpha Gamma Sigma. "However, any students who carried fewer than 12 units or received a D in any course will not be accepted," Cranston continued.

Also, any new students with high school CSF standing may become honorary members of the society. To become members, these students should see one of the club's officers, or Cranston, in Room 340.

Students who make membership will be notified by the society, but anyone who meets the requirements and is not notified should so inform Cranston, or Marilyn Stern, secretary from last semester, who will be in charge until new officers are elected.

Names of new members will appear in a future issue of The Guardsman.

Cranston added that the services of Alpha Gamma Sigma members has been offered to veterans who desire coaching in their courses.

XGI's Launch Affairs At Stag Party Monday

College life for the veteran swings into a full start when the XGI Society holds its first meeting on Monday, March 4, at 8 p.m.

Scene of the launching of society social activities will be the War Memorial Building, McAllister Street and Van Ness Avenue, in Hall 1, downstairs.

Under the direction of President Tom Dean, the XGI organization invites all veterans of World War II to attend. In the words of the notices handed each veteran at registration, "everything is free, just bring yourself, another buddy, troubles, and your appetite," the club welcomes newcomers to its stag get-together.

Readmission--Or The Wailing Wall Of 132

By Pat French and Jackie Hogan

"What do you think of the new board?"

"What board?" was the answer every time, and the answer to the answer is "The readmission board! —for students who were entangled in the briars of higher education."

Student reactions ranged from a nervous grin to a spout of outrageous indignation that resembled an editorial on human rights.

Room 132 was so popular last week that it was voted the room most likely to replace the student store as the spot where old friends meet.

"They don't ask your name any more," was the first complaint, "they just give you a number." (Numbers determined priority at the "wailing wall" for the reinstatement process.

Asking students what they thought of READMISSION, the biggest surprise comment was, "This is the first time I've ever seen anything LIKE college around here!"

Women students on the whole wrote the required letter for reinstatement in their stride. In fact, most of them took to the comb and lip stick for moral support.

Overheard in the wash room: "My mother told me to comb my hair OFF my forehead before going to 'the Jury.' She says I look more intelligent that way."

From the men came comparisons of the board to a court martial. One vet claimed he would "rather face a C. O. ANY TIME! I think I lost 15 pounds!"

Tracking down one of the 65 cases heard during the first two days of the new system, the question was put to a woman student just leaving Room 132.

She paused long enough to repeat the question. "What do I think of the new board?—I'm too scared to say anything. I have to go into the 'torture chamber NEXT!"

There were more comments—some unprintable, some unintelligible, and some unconstitutional. There were tears, and shoulder-shrugs, and prayers last week. The college was a miniature "Mudville," only it wasn't Casey who struck out.

Dr. Thomas A. Gabbert, chairman of the board, was earnest in his desire to help the students presented before the committee. He said that it was not the policy to see how many students could be eliminated, but to make them more anxious to profit by their experience and to raise the standards of the school.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1946 No. 2

Radio

KPO Presents New Program Series Of Great Literature

A new transcribed series of great stories immortalized in novels and plays and adapted for radio with ranking stars of stage and microphone is being presented over radio station KPO at 9:30 p.m. every Tuesday night, announced Leonard B. Gross, assistant supervisor Public Service, KPO, National Broadcasting Company, Inc., last week.

The program is called Your Playhouse of Favorites and has been on the air for two weeks, Pride and Prejudice and A Tale of Two Cities, respectively, having been the stories so far portrayed.

Future programs will include Charles Dickens' David Copperfield, Herman Melville's Moby Dick, Robert Louis Stevenson's Treasure Island, Alexandre Dumas' The Three Musketeers, and Louisa May Alcott's Little Women.

It is hoped by members of the KPO staff that the series taken from English literature will be of aid to students of schools and colleges, as the dialogue and events are being portrayed as originally written.

Gross, who was editor of The Guardsman in the spring and fall of 1940, at which time The Guardsman won All-American Honor Rating, will speak to members of the journalism classes and The Guardsman staff today at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. He will choose for his topic the principles of writing and editing news for broadcasting purposes.

Six Students Appear On KQW Saturday, 2:30

Six radio students from the college will be heard on the Youth Looks at the Future program this Saturday, March 9, at 2:30 p.m. over station KQW, Marie Weller, radio instructor, announced last week.

They are Herbert Markall, Gloria Craig, Peter Cerlanti, Phillip Markinson, Bette Davis, and Anthony Scaramozi.

College students seeking radio careers will be given an opportunity by writing original radio scripts which will be produced by Elaine Carrington, famed radio script writer, author and playwright, over the Carrington Playhouse, which is heard at 5 to 5:30 p.m. on the Mutual Broadcasting System.

—Photography Class Photo

Earl Lawrence, pictured above, has been appointed as Rally Commissioner for this semester. Lawrence, whose appointment was approved by the Student Council, has planned several successful rallies for the semester, first of which is this Friday at 10:45.

Smoker, Rally Highlight Week's Events

Rally

First In "Worthwhile Series" Set Friday In New College Hour

First of a series of "worth your while rallies" will be presented Friday in the WAVE's Auditorium, during the college hour, Friday at 10:45 o'clock, Earl Lawrence, Rally Commissioner, said last week.

The program will open with a Block Society ceremony, Lawrence explained, which is to signify the return of the society to its pre-war prominence.

Yells Slated

Following the ceremony will be a series of yells to be led by the five new yell leaders, Warren Simmons, Shirley Ross, Ted Brineau, Matt Krilitage, and Virginia Wickman.

The rally will be attended in body by the Golden Cleats and Block Society members, who with the Pep Club will form a red and white rooting section to inject further spirit into the yells.

Entertainment will be provided by Bob Elliott, playing some boogie woogie, and Jerry Ackey, singing several numbers.

Lawrence declined to give any more information about the surprise guest he will spring on the audience except that he is a local celebrity and will be engaged from outside the college.

College Spirit Urged

Stating that "college spirit is at an all time low, and something should be done about it," Lawrence says he has undertaken to give the students rallies that they will attend and enjoy.

He has chosen the day of the second San Mateo-Ram basketball game to present the first rally under his supervision.

"I have enlisted the aid of the Block Society, the Golden Cleats Society and the Pep Club along with the Rally Committee to really put this first rally over with a bang," Lawrence said.

The schedule class Friday which provides for the college hour is as follows:

8:18 to 9
9:05 to 9:50
9:55 to 10:40
•10:45 to 11:30• (college hour)
11:35 to 12:20
12:25 to 1:10
1:15 to 2

Walter Mails

Marine, Seal Hero With Red Cross

John Walter (The Great) Mails, above, who will speak to men of the college at the Associated Men Student smoker next Monday night, is a veteran of both world wars.

Between the wars he played considerable baseball for the Cleveland Indians and the San Francisco Seals and has just returned from overseas duty as a Red Cross field director.

Mails enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1942 and, after a tour of duty on recruiting work on the West Coast, received his discharge. Still eager to get overseas, he joined the Red Cross in January, 1945, and was assigned to the Fourth Marine Division in the bloody landing on Iwo Jima.

Mails' name is so strongly linked to baseball that audiences sometimes have a difficulty in seeing him in a role that has no connection with the national pastime. Yet Mails, who left baseball in 1942 when he resigned as publicity director for the Seals, has been involved in the war and is a forceful speaker on his work with the Red Cross in the Pacific.

In World War I, Mails was a sergeant with the 563rd Machine Gun Company of the 91st Division, stationed at Fort Lewis, Washington The peak of his baseball career came in 1920, when as a pitcher for the Indians, his team won the American League pennant and the World Series.

Not so well known about Mails is the fact that his mother, Mrs. Mary G. Newby, is Postmistress at San Quentin prison. Mails was born at San Quentin and attended St. Mary's College, Oakland. He is a member of San Rafael Elks Lodge No. 1108, and of the American Legion Post 408.

Counselor Thanks Student Assistants

(Editor's Note: The following expression of appreciation for student assistance during registration week was submitted to The Guardsman by F. Grant Marsh, head of counseling and guidance.)

"The task of registering our large student body at the beginning of this semester was not an easy one. More than 1,650 of those who registered were new students. Many returning students—members of the Alpha Gamma Sigma, Associated Women Students, and XGI Society —volunteered their services to assist these new students in completing their registration.

"I deeply appreciate the assistance rendered by these volunteers. Much of the success of registration was due in no small measure to their help and cooperation."

(Signed) F. GRANT MARSH, Head of Counseling.

Brady, Student Office Moved To Room 185

With the starting of a new college semester at the college, the Associated Students and veteran student advisers' offices have been reassigned. At present, the new Associated Student office is in Room 185, supervised by Jack Brady, new assistant dean of men.

Moving from Room 185 to make space for the new student office is the Veterans' Administration, now functioning from Room 148, and the office for Veterans' Advisers in Room 149.

Also Associated Student Council meetings will be held in Room 113 every Tuesday and Thursday at 12 noon, according to Assistant Dean Brady.

Smoker

Speakers, Movies Spark Monday AMS Tradition Revival

Not held since the Spring of 1943, the revival of a college tradition will come about next Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Ted Bofinger, president of the Associated Men Students, announced last week that a Men's Smoker will be held at the California Club, which is located at 1750 Clay Street, between Polk Street and Van Ness Avenue, on that date.

A spectacular array of speaker, including new faculty members, plus coaches, sports writers, and sports announcers, are among the many prominent names who are promised to attend.

The familiar name of Ernie Smith, who is known to all Bay Area sports fans as The Sportscaster, along with Walter Mails, formerly publicity man for the San Francisco Seals, ex-Marine, and presently with the Red Cross, head the list of celebrities.

Speakers from the college will be Dean of Men Edward E. Sandys, Jack Brady, assistant dean, and Franklin Sewell from the top of the hill.

Coaches to Speak

In addition, other speakers will include the five coaches, Tom Wilson, representing intramural sports; Jim Jensen, swimming and track; Jack Gaddy, football coach and chairman of the physical education department; Lee Eisan, football coach, and Bill Fischer, baseball coach.

Heading the entertainment planned for the evening are two sports films, one, the game between El Toro Marines and Fleet City, and Football Highlights of 1945.

Boys' Club To Appear

The San Francisco Boys' Club is sending a group to perform tricks on the trampoline and to demonstrate their ability in the tumbling field, Bofinger said.

To round out the program some of the talent from the college will be on hand to provide further entertainment. Climaxing the evening, refreshments will be served.

Bofinger, acting for the AMS, invited all men students to attend and enjoy a "get-together and "get-acquainted" evening.

Assembly

Speakers Urge Youth To Develop World Group Out Of UNO

What was supposed to be a debate between Howard Morgan, a veteran of World War II, and Clarke Eichelberger, World War I veteran, turned into a complete agreement that the youth of today, who are much more mature than students of the last war, should see to it that a World Organization based on the American ideals be formed immediately from the fine beginning made by the United Nations Organizations.

The speeches were given in the men's gymnasium last Friday in the college hour.

"In World War I, it was estimated that $800 was needed to kill one man. Ten dollars was the price of human life in yesterday's war," Sailor Morgan declared. He stressed the fact that "we cannot survive a third World War."

Eichelberger stated that since the United States has entered the U.N.O., the success of this organization will depend on America's leadership.

"Germany must be policed for at least several more years," he insisted, "even though men of this war, as those of 1918, want to get home as fast as possible. Some system should be maintained whereby the duty of policing the enemy will not fall on the shoulders of only a few American conquerors."

Points agreed on by both speakers were that their organization should not have any more government than is needed to secure peace, that an International Parliament should be elected by the people rather than by a specific clique, and that world education is necessary and illiteracy must be reduced.

The Student Federalists, organized in New York in 1942, of which Morgan is a member of the board, is of the belief that if Morgan and Eichelberger, who is the director of the American Association for the U.N.O., could speak in every community, they would be always able to find several people interested in this movement.

Car Pool Still Needs Autos And Riders

Students who drive to the college and are interested in having car expenses paid by forming a car pool, or students desiring a ride may leave names with Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Organization of the car pool is not limited only to East Bay car owners but also includes local students, "especially those living in the Marina," Dean Sandys stated.

The Rally Committee At Work

Photo by Carter

Planning the semester's rally schedule and details of Friday's rally, are left to right, Millie Laube, George Fabian, Betty Davis, Manuel Castro, Jane Doran, and Norma Busse, rally committee newly appointed by Earl Lawrence, rally commissioner and approved by the Student Council.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 2 Wednesday, March 6, 1946 Page 2

Book Exchange

Needs Shot In Arm

FOR the benefit of the Associated Students, the Women's Service Society operates the Book Exchange. Since the services rendered for the Associated Students, by the society, are gratuitous, and because the Women's Service Society is but one of the many organizations on the campus, by operating the Exchange at all, their work is rather to be appreciated than criticised.

Nevertheless, the Book Exchange, because of its very setup, does not operate as efficiently as it might. It is open only one hour a day, from 11:30 to 12:30, seeks little publicity, and being short-staffed, cannot give rapid service.

The fact that this is not the fault of the Women's Service Society, should clearly be emphasized. However, it becomes increasingly apparent that the Society should in the handling of the Book Exchange, receive active aid and discernable cooperation from the Administration, and other organizations on the campus.

That the Book Exchange is more than ever necessary to the college must be immediately apparent to all students, especially to those (and they are in the majority) who daily trade at the store at the corner of Ocean and Phelan.

It can be argued with some justification, that it is the prerogative of merchants to charge as much as necessity will force buyers to pay, and because that store exercises a virtual monopoly regarding college supplies, it leans toward such a policy.

Even with an adequate Book Exchange the owners and operators of the "Student Store" would never starve, business always being ensured them by the frequent changes in texts.

Nevertheless, it is felt that with the setting up of a larger organization, perhaps to include the Welfare Committee, under the leadership of the Women's Service Society, students would greatly benfit as a whole, and would not always be made to pay three-quarters of its original value, for a second hand book, which has in some cases passed from foot to foot. P.S.

Some Bone Picking

THERE are a couple of shortcomings in the system of registration in the College which need a good remedy immediately, if not sooner.

For one thing, changes are made in requirements for graduation and transfer to universities that students sometimes do not hear about until they are ready to leave the college. Then they are confronted with the news that they are lacking required units or courses because they didn't take this or that subject.

Another situation, different from the last, in that it involves an unfair inconvenience more than a dire consequence, concerns the system of always allowing students whose last initial is L to Z, to register first each semester. Perhaps this is done because the L to Z's are always last everywhere else. If this is the case, it seems as though authorities are bending backwards in attempts to be fair. It is to be hoped that they will alternate each semester and give the A to K's a break.

The other bone needing picking concerns the new ruling that no one be allowed to register ahead of the scheduled time. This, too, would be fair with certain revisions. Needless to say, it isn't right that some students with legitimate reasons for registering early should be flatly refused when others who happen to know the right people are permitted to go through the line. —C. G.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavenar ..... Feature Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bain, Manuel Castro, Peter Cerlenti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivien Freedman, Patricia French, Carmel Gannon, Ralph Hansen, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, Don Lucey, Adele Polnisch, Rosalie Rhode, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams.
Staff Photographers ..... Carl B. Carver, Don Lum
Joan Nourse Musclo ..... Faculty Adviser

—Linoleum by Chatelain

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Enrollment May Diminish By Two; Biaster Enjoys Life

TWO old friends, wearing the air of the 1946 collegiate, daily stroll hand-in-hand through these well-populated marble corridors. They are Attitude and Aptitude, and both show a decided determination to survive the struggle for existence which is becoming more turbulent as the weeks roll by.

Attitude appears to be the more popular of the two, and has a large following. She is a woman who apparently "gets around," and is seen about the campus in many varied guises.

Sometimes she strolls with her many cronies, down the hill and on out to Ocean Avenue, returning after an hour or two to rush breathlessly into a 1 o'clock class at 1:20 p.m.

Then, too, there are her other friends who follow her into the library at 3, and remain there, noses buried in books, until 5.

Aptitude is a studious sort of fellow, on the whole, and often impresses strangers as being of the preoccupied genius variety. He is the bright little boy who is usually the first to answer correctly any polysyllabic questions thrown in his direction.

Although most of his friends are of his cloth, he is occasionally seen palling with those fellows who are more apt at bridge and poker, and, therefore, must take especial care not to develop like interests through contact with them.

It is thought by some that in a month or two the college will be less crowded than it is at present.

• • •

Poor, war-worn Blaister! One day last week he opened the door of his 9 o'clock cheerless computing class at exactly two minutes to ten. The classroom was packed, but upon careful scrutiny, he spied a vacant chair in the last row.

Looking neither to the right or to the left, completely unconscious of the amazed instructor and the laughing students, he headed straight for the empty place and complacently sat down.

The instructor, unable to stand the strain, promptly dismissed the class.

Could it be that the strain of one week of living this tempestuous existence has had its telling effect? Maybe he was merely looking for a quiet place to study, and couldn't resist the first empty seat he saw during his stay here.

At any rate, he is definitely living up to his name and reputation, and is no doubt enjoying himself thoroughly.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

IN last week's column there was a copious amount of crying about the breaking up of the Boyd Raeburn Ork. Flips and twirls are now in order for swing fans, as it has been announced that a new Raeburn Tribe is being constructed.

The Herman crowd have again come on like Gangbusters with their latest idea. It is called Wildroot, and is comparable to Apple Honey, Northwest Passage, and Goosey Gander. It cannot be described in any manner so as to give anyone an explanation as to what it is like. It is just another very fine Herman arrangement that has brought him to number one position of the name bands of the country. The tune as yet has not been waxed but should be on sale in the near future. Herman's next cutting date is to be around the first of March.

NO NAME??

A few years back, when Mugsie Spanyer was on his way up, it happened that when time came to cut a few discs Mugsie had all kinds of fine riffs and wild ideas. It was late in the afternoon, with brilliant California H_2O streaking down like crazy. The discs were coming along fine except there were no names for the tunes.

The engineer gave the herd time off for a few minutes, and the boys dropped out to the lobby. All at once the crowd came roaring back into the cutting room desperately locking the door behind them. Nothing seemed to be out of order except on the other side of the glass window of the studio a small elderly pachuko stood waving a piece of paper at the combo. It seemed that a trivial few hundred dollars were owed to the little greaser by the drummer for a new set of skins. This little man, having no morals, was there to take the mortgage or the drums.

The men went on playing and cutting, but still there were no names for the discs. Finally the drummer being under much pressure from all sides expounded with a very fine title. The platter was called Serenade To A Shylock. It might be added that enough gold was pulled in to pay off the little man who from there on in watched his step when tangling with musicians.

Stephen

RAMifications

WITH corridors bulging and enrollment reaching new heights, one lone voice in the wilderness cries out, "This is not fair." Returned veterans are on bended knees asking permission to attend this renowned college, and one of those poor fortunates already assured of a place in his classrooms bemoans his fate that he must arise early in the morning, and complains bitterly about the food offered him in the cafeteria.

Constructive criticism received by The Guardsman office is appreciated and, generally speaking, forwarded to those channels in which it will do the most good. But, when supposedly intelligent people run down a college it has taken years to build up, use baby language, and protest the unfortunate fact that their parents choose to live in Berkeley instead of on Ocean-Phelan Avenue, San Francisco, things have, indeed, taken a sad turn for the worse.

It seems too bad that in an institution composed of many earnest souls whose attitude is not only mature, but highly intelligent, a few undeveloped characters roam—pleased with themselves and dissatisfied with their environment. It is only natural that they do not understand what is going on around them, for their minds have not yet reached the degree of maturity which grasps gravity not only in a classroom, but in life itself.

Their minds lack one vital link which will enable them to view their surroundings and say, "This college is a City Institution which has its weaknesses but which offers many great opportunities and services greatly overshadowing slight defects in organization." They lack a mature point of view. And until they themselves realize this, there is little, if anything, that their fellow-beings can do to make their time at college enjoyable.

Worthy veterans may now be placed on a waiting list for enrollment, and accommodations are stretching to a point from which the end is not far distant. There is really no room, therefore, for the few individuals who are unappreciative of the many advantages offered by the San Francisco Board of Education.

Cumming

After Dark

SOME one of these days, America is going to sit up with a start and realize that she has been doing practically nothing to aid her native musicians. This may seem irrelevant and unimportant in the world of today, but that is not so. It is most relevant and important that this country and every community in this country make the most of its musical resources in any form.

Every great civilization throughout the ages—the Egyptians, the Chinese, the Greeks, the Romans—saw in music a great emotional factor. Music was used with work, with play, with religion. They knew that the training of the emotions is just as important as the training of the mind or body. Americans have yet to realize this as well as the fact that their greatest musical resources are right here at home.

For more than thirty years this country has opened its gates and kow-towed to throngs of foreign musicians—Stravinsky, Milhaud, Toscanini, Hindemith, Koussevitsky and Rachmaninoff, to name very few—and has let its own composers struggle along as best they could. Everyone has heard of Rachmaninoff or Stravinsky, but how many know of Roy Harris, William Schuman, Aaron Copland or Howard Hanson?—again to name a few.

This is very different in the case of Russia—for an example—where foreign composers are excluded and native ones developed to the point of government support. Some may say that this system would reduce the initiative of the composer while actually initiative is greatly increased.

This step, however, would be a very large and radical one and certainly not recommended to be taken in one jump, but American music should not have to rely completely on personal donations. The government should take some interest in this question and try to further the cause of American music and other native arts for artistic achievement can be just as good publicity or propaganda for this country as anything else.

• • •

We notice with great interest that Dwight Fiske, the inimitable piano recitationist, is opening at the Music Box next month. Also coming up is Mae West in a play called Ring Twice Tonight. Hmmm.

Letters To The Editor

RAM'S HORN

• Open Letter To The Guardsman

To the Associated Men and Women Students:

In appreciation of the fine cooperation shown by the Associated Students of the college last semester in the activities of the past Associated Women Students program, gratitude is cordially given.

We also wish to thank all the members of the faculty who contributed so freely of their time and efforts to make a success of our functions.

Carol Hayland, president; Jeffrey Burress, vice-president; Claire Levesque, secretary.

RAMblings . .

By Don Lucey And Ralph Hansen

TIME has come when someone should complain about the block situation that is existing at the college now. Everyone is aware of the tremendous importance sports awards play in the prestige of any, college, and there is no reason whatsoever why the Ram letters shouldn't rank in class along with the best in the country.

Well, then, why hasn't something been done to improve them. We flashed that same question to Earl Lawrence, head of the Golden Cleats Club, who ought to know the answer, and by golly he did.

FELT OR CHENILE?

Lawrence stopped us cold when we were ready to gripe all over the place about how lousy SF looks in felt. He promptly told us that the problem has been met and conquered. On their way are 60 dollars worth of handsome cheniles. This will be happy news to the many fellows who didn't think much of the crummy felts.

However, we feel that one more step should be taken to improve the style of the block's appearance. This can be accomplished effectively if the persons empowered to change the color of the sweaters on which the blocks are displayed would do just that.

RED OR WHITE?

Since red and white are official with the Rams, why not wear the latter type of sweater instead of the former, which is now in use? It wouldn't hurt to give it a try.

White definitely adds class to the letters, and gives them a certain distinction, which is as it should be.

Another moan that is often given on this subject concerns the small size of the blocks. We hunted up an explanation on this matter from the aforementioned individual of a few paragraphs ago.

Mr. Lawrence pointed out that it is a standard policy of all higher institutions of learning for many years to make their letters so that they did not appear too outstanding, since the honor of the award was the main thing.

• • •

BASEBALL

Conversation among athletes around the college drifts to the sport of baseball every so often. The reason for this is because of the new baseball coach. From the trend of the talk it appears that Bill Fischer has been welcomed into the college coaching staff with open arms by the "boys."

Although it is rather early in the season to make any predictions, it seems as if the new team will at least place in the top money. It has the men to draw from, and it has the coach to weld these men into a good working outfit. If the ball club comes out on top this semester it shouldn't be too great a surprise.

100 Women Out For 14 WAA Sports

Not waiting for official announcement, almost 100 members of the Women's Athletic Association have already indicated their athletic preference on the sign-up sheets now posted in the women's gymnasium.

With a total of 16 different activities offered throughout the week, 14 sports have been spoken for at this writing. They are archery, badminton, basketball, bowling, dancing, fencing, golf, hiking, ping pong, riding, ice skating, softball, swimming and tennis.

Sign-ups will continue the rest of this week, all through next week and during the first general meeting of the WAA, Bertha Mae Keller, adviser, reported again. Actual play and participation commences shortly after the clubs are organized and their meeting day and hour are scheduled, she said.

Several WAA offices are vacated at the beginning of each semester and Wanda McKenzie, acting president, reminded all members to begin considering new candidates for WAA leadership this semester. Retiring officers and their position are Miss McKenzie, president; Irene Mouzakis, vice-president; Eleanore Wohler, secretary, and Leona DeBique, treasurer.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 2 WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1946 Page 3

Cagers Close Season Against Mateans

Al Munn Sparks Rams To Trounce Salinas 70-43, Top Menlo 42-38; '45 Quintet Appears Here Tonight, Friday At Mateo

San Mateo

The Red and White of the Rams will fly for the last time this season when they encounter the Bulldogs of San Mateo tonight at 7:45 o'clock on the Rams' Court, and on the San Mateans' court at 8 o'clock Friday night.

The Rams find themselves in fourth place with eight wins and four losses; the Bulldogs are in about sixth place with four wins and six defeats.

The Bulldogs lost to Grant in an overtime game, while the Rams defeated the Grant quintet easily. This, and the fact that the Rams defeated Modesto in one game while the Mateans lost both games to Modesto, makes the Rams a favorite to annex the two game series, and wind up the season rather successfully with nine wins and four defeats.

Thus far it seems as though the Sacramento squad will remain undefeated and take the championship, with Modesto in second place, and the Rams in third place. The standing to date is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Sacramento	8	0
Modesto	7	1
San Francisco	8	4
Grant	6	2
Salinas	3	3
San Mateo	3	5
Menlo	3	5
Placer	2	7
Santa Rosa	1	6
Marin	0	10

Menlo, Salinas

After defeating Menlo here last Wednesday, the Ram cagers revenged a previous defeat suffered at the hands of the Salinas cagers here Saturday night by trouncing the Cowboys, 70 to 43.

In Wednesday's game, which was played in Menlo, the Rams, led by a new-comer around the college, Al Munn, defeated the Menlo quintet, 42 to 38. Munn, who replaced Frank Skoglund, now serving in the Army, was high point man with 11 points.

The contest was hard fought, and only the Rams' superior play earned them the victory. Also outstanding for the college were Frank Ratto, Roland Jones, and Earl ("Floor General") Malnick.

Salinas Game Wild

The Rams again tightened their hold on the third place berth in the conference standings by defeating Salinas Junior College in a wild contest. Out to revenge an earlier two point defeat, the Rams tore into the amazed Cowboys like a herd of stampeding animals.

Sinking shots from every possible angle, the Rams proved to any and all critics that they can play good basketball when they want to.

Again the sensational Munn led the Rams with 14 points. Coach Tom Wilson emptied the bench, allowing every member of the team to enter the contest.

Centers Jones and Bill Kahn, forwards Munn and Ross Dunnigan, and guards Ratto and Malnick were outstanding for the Rams.

Riot Squad Imminent

At one time during the contest it seemed as though a riot squad might be necessary to restore order after the referee called two technical fouls on the Salinas team.

Bedlam again reigned when the scorekeepers became confused on the number of fouls against the Salinas center. The Salinas scorebook had four fouls against the player, and Richie Sedley, who was keeping the officials' book, claimed five. Sedley won the ensuing argument, and the center left the game.

Following this week's games, detailed conference standings should be available. Sacramento remained in the lead after last weekend's games.

Intramural

Track And Field Meet Set March 22; Signups Still Open

Plans for the Intramural Sports Program, for the spring semester, are proceeding very well, according to Tom Wilson, director. One of the first of the events will be the intramural track and field meet, to be held Friday, March 22, at Balboa Field.

All varsity track men, who have not won letters in track, will be eligible, in addition to all other men students. This track meet will serve as a testing ground for all men interested in varsity track. Track Coach Jim Jensen will be on hand to help supervise the meet.

Men Sign In Three

Men may sign up for any three of the events, Wilson said. Also a man may compete individually or for any organization within the college. The events to be included in the meet are as follows:

100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, 880 yard run, and the 120 low hurdles. In the field will be shot-put, javelin throw, broad jump, high jump, and discus throw.

Intra Manager Wanted

Intramural Director Tom Wilson is looking for two or three students who would be interested in the position of Intramural Sports Manager and Assistant Sports Managers.

A satisfactory manager is entitled to a Manager's Block Award, and assistant managers are entitled to a circle award, both on recommendation of the director. Please call at men's gymnasium for details.

The sign-up place for varsity and intramural track is the men's gym. Men may sign up for either varsity or an intramural track with Coach Jensen in the gym until Friday, March 15.

Ping Pong Starts Monday

All students interested in playing intramural ping pong may sign up for both singles and doubles. Students may compete for groups or for individuals. Present plans call for a round robin tournament. Sign-up will start Monday, March 11, and end Thursday, March 14.

An intramural scoreboard will be erected in the main hallway of the main building, on which will be recorded the accumulated score for each club, fraternity or organization which has a team in the intramural program.

All individuals who compete in the individual sports, such as tennis, ping pong, badminton, track, horseshoes, swimming and boxing, who belong to an organized group will have their points added to the total of the group they represent. All other individuals who do not belong to an organization will have their scores accumulated under the group name of Associated Men's Club.

The method for awarding points will be as follows:

1. All teams or individuals who enter a sport will be awarded two points.

2. All teams or individuals who reach the quarter-finals will be awarded a total of four points.

3. All teams or individuals who reach the semi-finals will be awarded a total of six points.

4. All teams or individuals who reach the finals will be awarded a total of eight points.

5. The winner will be awarded a total of ten points.

Each individual or team winner and runner-up will be awarded appropriate medals. A perpetual intramural plaque for each sport will bear the name of the individual or team winner. This plaque will be separate from the Grand Trophy Award.

Wilson also warned that today is the last day to sign up for intramural basketball, blanks for which were published last week.

—Photo by Lum
Coach Bill Fischer

Baseball

Vets Swell Horsehide Squad; 16 Games Set

Under the direction of Coach Bill Fischer, the first practice session for the 1946 baseball season was held on February 26.

Fifty men turned out, including returning veterans Manuel Castro, Ted Bofinger, Don Grant, Ed Kenna, George Koche, and Ernest Poggi.

Many prep stars will be fighting for positions, including Richie Stanfel from Commerce, Sherrill Houston and Bob McGovern from Balboa, Seymour Handelman from Washington, Bob Payne of Lincoln, and Richard Sabatini of Emeryville.

There will be keen competition among the players for the 20 positions on the squad.

The Rams will play 16 league games. Double-headers are scheduled for the following Saturdays.

March 23—Sacramento here.
March 30—San Mateo here.
April 6—Modesto there.
April 13—Marin there.
May 4—Sacramento there.
May 11—San Mateo there.
May 18—Modesto here.
May 25—Marin here.

Poly's Malnick Glories In Basketball, Appetite

By Staten Webster

If some day you happen to enter the "caf," the student store, or the Ram Shack and see a little man about 19 years of age, standing five feet, eight inches tall, and weighing about 150 pounds literally drowning himself with "cherry phosphates," you need not fear for the life of this individual. It is only Don Malnick, first-string forward on the Ram quintet, satisfying the atomic crave.

"Little Mal," as he is known to friends, attended Polytechnic High, where he played basketball for four years.

Malnick hopes to attend the University of California, where he will complete his pharmacy major. His hobby is playing cards.

Along with four other members of the first-string team he is unattached.

In every contest thus far played, Malnick has been outstanding. Although he is not in the upper bracket of scorers, he has played excellent ball, both on offense and defense.

Varsity Track Practice Scheduled Daily 2 To 5

Sign-up for the track began last Friday in the men's gymnasium. It will continue until Friday, March 15, with practice scheduled from 2 to 5 daily.

The track records of only two men are known to the coach, but some of the other men appear to be promising. Practice can be arranged to suit individual programs if necessary.

In addition to regular practice, men may work out individually at other times, and if their programs call for them to be in class until 4, they can still work out until 5 o'clock, Coach Jim Jensen said.

The first meet is scheduled for Friday, March 22, at Balboa. Medals and prizes will be awarded to winners. This will be the intramural track meet.

Don Grant takes a mighty swing in a practice game against the Maritime School, which the Rams lost, 7-5, last year. Grant is one of the few returning veterans. He will give any person going out for third base a tough time for that spot. Grant batted .300 last year, hitting a triple and two doubles, and drew more walks than any person on the squad.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

●Beta Tau: Newly elected officers for the semester are Bill Holmes, president; Vic Pudlowski, vice president; Frank Nelson, secretary; Jack Glasner, treasurer; Dave Valentine, custodian; Jack Argens, historian. A smoker is planned tomorrow at Luca's, with attendance by invitation only.

●Newman Club: Members will attend 9 o'clock mass on St. Patrick's Day, March 17, at St. Emydies. A breakfast will be held at the Palace Hotel immediately following mass.

●Phi Beta Rho: There will be a meeting tonight at the home of Pat Davis, 592-28th Avenue. New club officers are Hilga Haack, president; Barbara Dean, vice president; Pat Davis, recording secretary; Nadine Andrews, corresponding secretary; Gloria Faber, treasurer; Rosemary Gayle, historian.

●Theta Tau: At a dinner held recently at Venito's, Jeanne Williams was presented with the traditional past president's key by Gloria Craig, newly elected president. Other new officers include Millie Laube, vice-president; Delores Diviny, recording secretary; Nancy Ruttencutter, corresponding secretary; Mabel Edwards, treasurer, and Dorothy Conlan, custodian. There will be a business meeting tonight at Barbara Maklintock's home, 3394 Jackson Street.

●Pick and Hammer: New officers for this semester are Marge Whearty, president; Annette Rudinel, secretary, and Fred Whisman, treasurer. The next meeting is scheduled for the next club hour in Room 45. All members are urged to attend.

●Beta Phi Beta: Newly elected officers are Bill Poole, president; Jim Avrams, vice president; Carl Fain, secretary; Joe Sheehan, treasurer; Marshall Ross, historian; Lloyd Peterson, sergeant at arms, and Dean Haug as pledge master.

●Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: The 22nd bi-annual smoker was held last Monday night at the Palace Hotel. New officers are Kent Bowker, president; Bob Duncan, vice president; Art Consta, secretary; Walt Phenuster, treasurer; Larry Young, custodian, and Luis Hernandez, historian. The Tri Eps welcome back Phil Kemp, Al Butler, and Phil Bernauer.

●Delta Psi: Newly elected officers are as follows: Millie Hoffman, president; Jean Carrasco, vice president; Lucille Hoffman, secretary; Ginny Souder, C.A.B. representative; Jane Swendesen, historian. There will be a meeting at Eaddie Todd's home tonight at 7 o'clock.

●Kappa Phi: New officers are Helen Buckley, president; Virginia Burke, vice president; Barbara Chrisianson, treasurer; Margaret Hillman, secretary, and Nancy Sloane, historian. Sunday will be the day for the first rush tea to be held at the home of Virginia Burke.

●Alpha Lambda Chi: The traditional box of candy was passed at the February 20 meeting, announcing the engagement of President Pat Mahoney to Ernie Rubke, a former student of the college, and past president of the Beta Phi Beta.

First Dance Changed To Fairmont March 15

The scene of the Emerald Hop, the first off the campus dance of the semester, will be the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel, instead of the Palace, on Friday, March 15, from 9 to 12, Carol Hayland, chairman of the Social Committee, which is sponsoring the affair, announced last week.

The orchestra, composed mainly of the students from the college and under the direction of trombone player Glenn Roland, will provide the music. The woman vocalist for the newly organized 13 piece orchestra has not yet been decided.

All Freshmen will be welcomed by various members of the faculty, the Associated Student president and secretary, and the members of the Social Committee.

The affair will be informal, but the no corsage rule will be relaxed for this event.

Hotel Division

Puerto Rico Asks College Aid To Develop Industry

Quoted in the recent issue of the Public Schools Bulletin were excerpts from a letter received by the Hotel Division from the Cia de Fomento de Puerto Rico (Puerto Rico Development Company) in which the company disclosed plans of a program to develop the tourist industry in Puerto Rico.

"We understand that the San Francisco Junior College course in hotel administration is outstanding, and we would appreciate your help in solving our problems," the letter read.

"We would like you to outline an arrangement for this company to finance four or five scholarships every year for outstanding young Puerto Ricans to take the hotel administration course."

This is but one of the typical letters received by various departments of the college from interested concerns, executives, managers and students from all parts of the world.

Meanwhile, local division news centered around Tom Duffy, former student of the Hotel Division, recently discharged from the Navy, where he held duties as Chief Commissary Steward, and has been appointed as an instructor in the Maritime Cook and Baker school at Marina Junior High School.

The course is still open for Maritime Service under the auspices of the college for the purposes of upgrading men in the culinary department of Merchant Marine, Hilda Watson, chairman of the Hotel Division, announced last week.

Riverside President Here, Lauds Courtesy

Recent visitor to the college and luncheon guest of President A. J. Cloud was Dr. A. G. Paul, president of Riverside College, formerly Riverside Junior College, and also currently president of Southern California Junior College Association.

Paul is in the bay district for ten days visiting local junior colleges and attending the district conference on veterans' educational problems, which was held over the week-end at the University of California, as arranged by the State Department of Education.

Commenting on several points noticed about the college, Paul emphasized the courtesy he found in students from the time he began asking directions on the "K" car until he reached President Cloud's office.

Also commented upon by Paul was the clean condition of the building. He estimates the peak in enrollment of veterans in colleges will be reached in 1949, with pressure in all colleges for the next ten years.

Deadline Today For Filing Reg. Books

Campus wanderers become full-fledged students as the filing of registration books ends the entrance trek today. "Any student failing to file his book will be excluded from the college," warned Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar.

The library is the scene of the filing and all students who did not file their books Monday or yesterday must file them today. This is the final day for filing.

Instructors will call for a showing of registration cards on Thursday and Friday when any student without a card will be excluded from class.

Changes in program can be made only by securing an official blue slip from the registrar's office, and having it signed by the instructors involved, as well as by the adviser.

Final date for removing incompletes and for filing petitions for graduation is Monday, March 18.

Caspar, The Cafeteria Cheat

Readjusted Gremlin Lives In Smug World

By Alex

Introducing Caspar, the Cafeteria Cheat. This unsavory character lives in a smug little world of his own. Outside the mist he is dimly aware that there are other people, but he just doesn't GIVE a damn.

He haunts the cafeteria, a "re-adjusted" gremlin in civilian form. He leaves his books scattered on the tables, together with sundry dirty dishes, cigarette butts, old notes, and any number of objects calculated to make the most hard-ened lunchroom victim shudder and turn a pale chartreuse.

This joker is particularly fond of bull sessions that hold up the procession of hungry students, champing to eat and get away to class. But HE doesn't care, because in the whole wide world he is firmly convinced the sun shines only on him.

Caspar has his female counterpart, y'know. And she's just as unwanted a character as he. She adds little subtle touches to the litter he has left behind . . . lipstick papers, and all the rest of that mysterious junk trove that springs from the female purse. Oh, SHE'S a honey, all right!

Next time, on passing a mirror, take a quick look and see if Caspar isn't leering out. It's a blasted shame, too, for he COULD be a nice guy. All it takes is a little thought and consideration for the other fellow.

Music

Women's Chorus Changed To College Chorus; Auditions Continue Daily

Partly because of the great interest shown by men students wanting to participate in singing groups, and partly because of the decrease in the number of women who have expressed interest in the newly reactivated Women's Chorus, Flossita Badger, choral director, announced last week that a mixed chorus will be formed in place of the originally planned Women's Chorus.

Miss Badger added that positions in the chorus are open in every voice range, and that auditions are being held daily.

She also emphasized that membership in the A Cappella Choir and in the mixed chorus is entirely up to the individual, and one person may belong to both groups if he desires to do so.

The chorus, listed as music 11a, will be called the College Chorus, and will meet at 11 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday in Room 200.

The new A Cappella Choir for this semester numbers 55 students, giving hope for even finer entertainment of this sort than the college enjoyed last semester.

The new soprano section includes Beatrice Caldwell, Jane Chambers, Margaret Cusicanqui, Frances Fusches, Ada Hamlin, Gwendolyn Jones, Gemma Klein, Jean LaTourette, Willis Norton, Mary Roberts, Helen Setalon, Nancy Stangle, Jane Swendsen, Audra Tegelberg, Lillian Traraglio, and Astrid Wettin.

The altos are Geraldine Akey, Dolores Dickson, Marguerite Dumont, Helen Fudem, Peggy Gay, Phyllis Greenly, Jacqueline Hyman, Louise Moore, Marti Niggeler, Jeanette Petersen, Myrtle Pietschmann, and Jeanne Platos.

The tenor section is composed of Roy Abad, Remigio Archuletta, Robert Charles, James DeBenedetti, Roland Jones, Joseph Fraser, Ralph Ricks, Stan Stidham, Philip Thomas, Harry Wong, Howard Lum, and Leonard Yacorzynski.

Members of the bass and baritone section are Ted Briones, Lawrence Dupree, Robert Elliott, James Finley, Harold Freedman, Orin Gorsch, Fred Hammer, Charles Kahrman, Earl Lawrence, David MacDade, Gene MacGowan, Emory Mellon, Robert Pflager, and Leon Sher.

Martha Lee Heads Symphony Forum

The first meeting this semester of the musically appreciative Symphony Forum Club will be held this Friday at 2 o'clock in Room 200, Martha Lee, recently elevated to the chairmanship, announced last week.

Miss Lee, vice-chairman of the organization last semester, stepped into the higher position when Marvin Silverman, original organizer and first chairman of the branch here, was inducted into the army last week.

The Forum, which is an inter-collegiate organization sponsored by the San Francisco Musical Association, is a society for the promotion of greater appreciation and understanding of symphony music. Membership is open to anyone who is interested in and enjoys this type of music.

Drama

Tryouts Tomorrow For Thunder Rock

All men and women interested in acting are urged to try out for parts still open in Thunder Rock, the three act play by Robert Audrey, first on the list of productions in the Little Theatre.

Tryouts will be held in Room 209 tomorrow from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., Ruth Somers, drama instructor, disclosed last week.

No previous experience in acting is necessary and college credit is given those who are chosen for parts. Volunteers for bit parts are needed and should report at once for casting, which ends Thursday.

All rehearsals are held on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 1 to 3 o'clock. There are no night rehearsals. Unless additional actors join the group at once, plans for Thunder Rock will have to be abandoned.

"It is hoped that many students will avail themselves of this chance to learn the rudiments of acting for fun as well as for three units of college credit," Mrs. Somers said.

Recreation Classes To Hear Harold Meyer

First in a series of lectures rounding out the courses of recreational leadership, which were added to the curriculum last semester, is an address by Harold Meyer, Assistant Supervisor of Recreation in charge of the Recreation Commission, in Room 194 this Friday, March 8.

While Meyer will speak chiefly to students in the recreational classes, all students are invited to attend, according to Jules Fraden, instructor in recreational leadership.

What's In A Name?

Or When Are You Going To Start College, Little Man?

By Pat French and Jackie Hogan

Junior College or City College?

That is the question on the campus these days, all on account of a lot of misunderstanding happening to junior college-goers that start out like this:

(A friend of the family approaches):

"What are you doing now?" asks the friend of the family.

The student throws out his chest, flashes a red and white gleam in his eye, and answers, "I go to San Francisco Junior College!"

"Oh," his friend ad libs, "and when are you going to start to college?"

So it goes, everyone getting everything all mixed up. Everyone getting confused between "junior high" and "junior college"—no one knowing which "comes first." Anyway, the whole setup is very embarrassing.

That's the reason there's a question making the rounds about making the campus resound to the name of "city college."

But, wait, what will a motion like this lead to? What will happen if the dear old college gets rechristened?

No more nick name? No more rah-rahing and shouting to the old familiar "With an S, with an S, with an S F J C FIGHT!" Instead, there might be a dilly sounding like: "With a C, with a C, with a CITY." Somehow it doesn't strike the old home week cord.

Of course, there's the other angle that one college in San Francisco will be referred to as "state" and the other will be dubbed "city."

Basketball headlines might (and this is off the record) read: "City plays 'State' for National Championship." It is things like that that make headline writers go to war—on the current trend of name changing in colleges.

Students, on the whole, do not start tearing their tresses when the subject is mentioned. A good natured fellow in the French 21 class simply nodded and said it would be "nice to get away from the junior deal."

A more dynamic student rose to the occasion, and came out with the statement, "It would be all right (to change the name). It's a good idea."

But still another student, asked to give his opinion on the subject, replied in words which can be boiled down to this quote: "It sounds just as good the way the name IS, as far as I'm concerned."

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13, 1946 No. 3

College Social Season Opens

Emerald Hop Will Honor All Freshmen Friday Night In Fairmont's Gold Room

By Vivian Freedman

The Emerald Hop, which as the first off-the-campus dance of the spring semester is being sponsored by the Social Committee, is specifically designed to welcome new students, will be held this Friday, March 15 in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel from 9 to 12.

A reception line, composed of the following members of the faculty, their wives, and the executive members of the Associated Students, will receive students from 9 to 9:30:

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Cloud, Dr. and Mrs. J. Paul Mohr, Mary Jane Learnard, Dean and Mrs. Edward E. Sandys, Assistant Dean and Mrs. John Brady, Dean Margaret Dougherty, Student President Joe Sweet, Vice-President Carol Hayland, Associated Women Student President Nancy Cunningham, Associated Men Student President Ted Bofinger, Sophomore President Kent Bowker, and Freshman President Bill Smith.

Trombone player Glenn Roland, his band, and new vocalist, Lucille Mullen, will contribute to the success of the Hop, which not only will hold first place as the first dance of the semester, but also be the first time any members of the Associated Students have offered their musical talents to a college dance.

Larry Pendar, manager of the band, refused to make any comment on the band, but merely said, "Wait and listen."

Miss Hayland, Social Committee chairman, requested students to avoid using the seats on the left of the entrance to the Gold Room as these have been reserved for the members of the faculty and other guests.

"Let's all attend this first big dance of the semester and set the tone for future social activities," Miss Hayland urged.

The no-corsage rule will be relaxed, and admission will be by one Associated Student card per couple.

Miss Hayland added that this is the first dance of the semester under the new constitutional ruling that all social events must be cleared through the Social Committee. This clearance is required in order to regulate the dates of all social events and to prevent and correct any conflicting activities.

Alpha Gamma Sigma

92 Students Win Membership In College Chapter Of Scholastic Honor Society

Membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, college scholastic honor society, was won by 92 students this semester for achievements accomplished last semester, Edwin A. Cranston, AGS adviser, said last week.

The Spring, 1946, members are as follows:

Roy Abad, Elynore Angeli, Joseph Baxter, Robert Bayler, Lynnes Berthelson, Beverly Blank, Irwin Boxer, Cecilia Burg, Jeffry Burress, Glen Call, Thomas Chan, Muriel Charlip, Barbara Christensen, Alfred Covala, Barbara Crabtree, Gloria Craig, Bernice L. Crowder, Margarita Curieangui,

Patricia Davis, Joseph Dean, Muriel Dean, Oliver de Lalla, Helen Deleageane, Philip Dinsmore, Betty Doherty, George Duvall, Saiml Fassett, Carrielee Ferguson, Barbara Fong, Marion Francis, Angela Frassetto, Frances Frost, John Gabourel, Peggy Gay, Florence Gee, Martin Goldman, Gloria Goldstone, Anne Greco,

Carol Hackenberg, Eugene Hagne, Marie Harell, Helen Hayland, James Helmer, Mildred Hoffman, Donald Huntley, Roberta Johnson, Margaret Kay, Leland Kearnsy, Noreen Kindergan, Jack Lang, Lucille Lanzo, Annie Lee, Marion Lee, Mary Lee, Irene Loucks, Polly Louie, Patricia Luchetti, Beatrice Mahoney, Jean Maples, Allan Moss, Dorothy Mugele, Robert Muns, Eleanor Newell, Phyliss Pabst, Jack Palm, Miriam Poon, Muriel Powers, Adele Rogers, Nina Saharoff, Bernard Salwitz, Mary June Sheehy, Albert Silverstein, Paul Simons, Jack S. Sorenson, Melbourne Sparks, Barbara Stephens, Marylyn Stern, Betty Stockton, Nancy Stookey, Michio Suzuki, Loretta Sweeney, Joe Sweet, Constance Trigonis, Donald Wacks, Roberta Walker, Rolf Weissig, Marjorie Whearty, Gretchen Williams, Betty Wittrich, Eleanore Wohler, Mathilda Wong, and Marilyn Zito.

Students who made AGS, but are not registered at the college this semester are, Richard Allphin, Guadalupe Catillo, Morton Colvin, Samuel Condrey, Rose Dear, Esther Fleck, Barbara Hart, June Kren, Grace Lem, Peter Mattei, Margo Skinner, Howard Slaughter, and Zeda Walling.

Cranston stressed again that all new students who attained CSF, California Scholarship Federation, standing in high school would automatically become honorary members of the society. However, members of the club have no way of reaching these students, so they are asked to see Cranston or one of the club's officers.

Campus Financiers Plot Spring Budget

By Marge Whearty

Wall Street invades the college this week as campus financiers plot out student expenditures in the spring budget. Blueprinting the finance plan is the Finance Committee with Don Grant at the head. Grant was appointed by Associated Student President Joe Sweet, and his appointment was approved by the Student Council last week.

College organizations were asked to heed the committee's warning to file budgets with John Brady last Monday.

Gaining more power, the Rally Committee under Commissioner Earl Lawrence was given control of the Pep Club by the Student Council action last week.

Campus Housing For Vets To Start Soon

Construction on the Homaja huts, which are being built to house veteran students and their families, is expected to begin in approximately one week, Dean Edward E. Sandys disclosed Friday.

Qualifications necessary for a family to obtain one of the 50 huts, which are somewhat larger than the Quonset huts, are to be a married veteran with either the husband or wife attending this college. To procure one of the 25 remaining huts, applications must be filed with Dean Sandys.

Each housing unit consists of two small bedrooms, living room and dining room combined, kitchenette and bath, with all necessary furniture, including stove, ice box and hot running water.

AWS Schedules Frosh Women Tea March 26

A tea honoring Freshman Women will be given by the Associated Women Students, Tuesday, March 26, in Room 157, between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock, Nancy Stookey, assistant secretary, announced.

All women students and faculty members are invited to attend and to greet the newcomers. Pouring will be Miriam Escher, Phylis Haley, Dorothy Mercer, and Antoinette Wilson of the faculty.

Campus Clubs

Organizations Will Meet This Friday During College Hour At 10:45; 28 Groups Get Permanent Room Assignments

Spring club action slides down the ways this Friday, March 15, when the newly inaugurated Friday college hour at 10:45 a.m. is reserved for first organization meetings of the semester.

Chartered by the Club Advisory Board, 29 clubs set the college pace for campus activities. Definitely a part of campus life, club membership is advocated by Dean Edward E. Sandys, who last week urged new students to attend the societies of their choice.

Permanent club room assignments are as follows:

Alpha Delta Epsilon, Room 160; Alpha Gamma Sigma, 205; Alpha Lambda Chi, 211; Alpha Theta Epsilon, 158; Beta Phi Beta, 111; Beta Tau, 254; Bible Study, 312; Block SF and Golden Cleats, 194; Club Advisory Board, 257; Chinese Students' Club, 113; Cosmopolitan Club, 258; Delta Psi, 206; Drama Club, 310; Engineering, 37; Forum, 215;

Kappa Alpha Sigma, 347; Kappa Phi, 142; Music Club, 200; Newman Club, 212; Phi Beta Rho, 190; Pick and Hammer Club, 45; Pi Mu Gamma, 204; Symphony Forum, 208; Theta Tau, 191; Tri Epsilon, 132; Women's Athletic Association, 140; Women's Service Society, 193; XGI, Student Lounge.

Next Monday Last Day To File To Graduate

Students desiring to graduate this semester are warned that the last day to file petitions is next Monday, March 18, according to Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar.

Miss Learnard also pointed out that the last day to drop a course is Wednesday, April 3. Blue drop slips may be obtained at the office and must be signed by instructors and advisers.

Radio

Three Here Enter Scripts In Contest

Three students in the college radio department entered the Carrington Award Contest for new talent in radio scripts last week, according to Marie Weller, instructor.

They are Noel Preston, Mary Sullivan and Don Lucey. Mary Sullivan's writing talent was shown when her script was chosen for the Youth Looks to the Future program last week in which six college students participated. The topic of her script was Education for Peace. Betty Howard, whose name was misconstrued in last week's issue, was one of the participants.

President A. J. Cloud approved the script, pointing out that Civic Education is a motivating force of education for peace.

The contest is still open to all college students interested in radio script writing. Prizes are awarded for the best submitted and scripts are judged by their new ideas and conceptions.

Writers wishing to enter scripts in the contest should notify Miss Weller, who will give them the address to which scripts should be sent and more information pertaining to the Carrington Award Contest.

Debate

Annual Competition Deadline Tomorrow

College competition in the 1946 Hearst Newspapers Annual Oratorical Contest was put in the hands of Lloyd Luckmann, debate instructor, it was announced last week.

The deadline for individual entries is tomorrow, March 14. By this time, all students interested in giving an oration on Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States, are expected to notify Luckmann preceeding filing of entries.

Between this date and Friday, March 22, intramural competition in this college will be held by Luckmann in order to select one orator to represent the college in a statewide contest wherein one representative will have the opportunity of competing in the final national event for prizes.

Cafeteria "Suffers" From Success

—Photo by Carver

Success, too much of it, sometimes goes to the head. Success as far as the college Hotel Division is concerned in its management of the cafeteria may go to the head in the form of an ache, but it ends in a long, long line of students and faculty waiting for lunch.

As illustrated in the above picture, showing the extreme north-west end of the main cafeteria, the line extends into the north room, clear from the counters.

Although the Hotel Division has handled the tremendous overcrowding of the cafeteria efficiently and capably, some cooperation from the patrons is in order.

Also as shown above, right foreground, one table is occupied with piles of books. With an adequate rack for books along the west wall, the tables can easily be kept for their original purpose—places for students to eat their lunch, and places from which dishes and trays are to be removed by the student.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 3 Wednesday, March 13, 1946 Page 2

The Ram's Horn

Place For Student Voices

AT THE cost of becoming repetitious, The Guardsman, semester after semester, through this column finds it necessary to clarify for its new (and in many cases old) readers, the purpose behind its actions, and the reason for the existence of certain traditional features.

To be specific, there has always existed the Ram's Horn, although in a few isolated editions it has not appeared, because students, who never lack for complaints, criticisms, praise or unadulterated nonsense, have preferred in those cases, to unburden themselves personally, and have not taken recourse to pen and paper.

In general, however, there are always a number of students who realize the true function of the Ram's Horn, which is to provide an outlet to the individual student, give him an opportunity to have his views known to the rest, inform The Guardsman as to the sentiments of the Associated Students as a whole, and so keep that column supplied.

The Guardsman, accordingly welcomes letters directed to the Editor, and invites students to keep the Ram's Horn going, for it is their column. Moreover, in resorting more often to writing an intelligent letter, a greater service is rendered to the association as a whole, than by dozens of individuals who daily troop into The Guardsman office, and give full play to their oratory, and in so doing, sometimes become incoherent, and unfortunately take up time.

There are certain reservations that The Guardsman makes, and will at once clarify. No unsigned letters will be published. Though, potential authors need not be held back from writing for this reason, because it is the policy of this newspaper to print only initials, and original letters are not displayed.

To save space, and so give all students writing to the Ram's Horn section of The Guardsman an equal chance, in the past it has been necessary to cut unimportant portions of such letters. In the future, this will not be done, for no letter exceeding 100 words in length will be published.

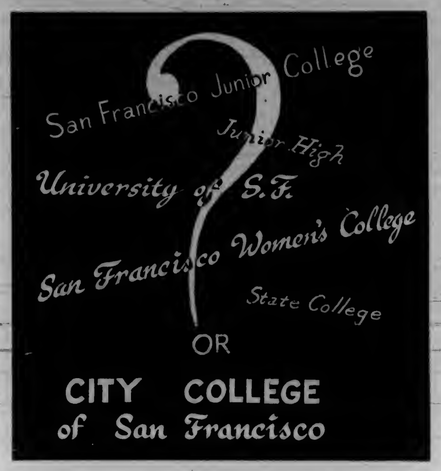
At this point, it might be well to point out that all letters are published at the discretion of the Editorial staff, and consequently crank letters, personalized attacks, and the burblings of certain unintelligent minds (with which this newspaper is periodically plagued) will not appear.

P.S.

Attendance Helps Spirit

FOR some time there has been a great hue and cry about the dearth of college spirit among the students.

Naturally, with the lowering of registration and minimizing of extra-curricula activities during the war years, active interest in the college did go down considerably. However, now with the large registration there is little or no excuse for that condition.



Also, for the most part, the students who make the most noise about this situation are the ones who lie all over the lawn and cafeteria when rallies and other activities are being presented.

The first step in restoring the much needed spirit would be a larger attendance at assemblies and at athletic competitions with other colleges. Now that the Associated Students have been promised "worthwhile" rallies this semester, it doesn't seem too unreasonable to expect them to take advantage of them.

C. G.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavenor ..... Feature Editor
REPORTERS: Dall Bain, Manuel Castro, Peter Carlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedmen, Patricia French, Carmel Gannon, Ralph Hansen, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymillier, Adela Rainitch, Rosella Rhode, Arthur Schwartz, Lucilla Scott, Barbara Stephen, Steten Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams, Alex Apostolides.
Staff Photographers ..... Carl B. Carver, Don Lum
Joan Nourse Muscio ..... Faculty Adviser

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Of Fumes And Scents, And The Power Of Chemical Reactions

AS YET only a few complaints have been rendered regarding one of the most urgent conditions existing in the college. No matter how much the issue is avoided, however, the facts must be faced!

Not wanting to arouse anyone to violence because of the last statement, one must hasten to explain that it refers strictly to the excitation of the olfactory nerves of students and faculty members.

Most likely certain fumes have been permeating the classrooms, stairways, and corridors of the college for some time; however, the overwhelming obnoxious aroma which was sniffed at the college recently brings the matter definitely out into the open.

It was only last week that the st - n - h of what might have been the odor of staling l - - b - r - - r cheese or a - k - - k gone wild nearly knocked over all those unlucky persons who happened to be walking down the southwest staircase.

That sort of incident, of course, is not an every-day occurrence, thanks to the janitorial system. It does serve to bring to mind, though, the various and sundry essences which almost daily assail the nostrils of the learned ones wandering over the campus.

Some of the most obvious scents are those which may be inhaled on the second floor, where the chemistry laboratories are located. From the depths of the caldrons and test tubes, so many unfragrant aromas are dispelled that we are soon liable to forget that lovely perfumes and other fragrant essences are also products of chemical reactions.

Then, too, around the northern extremes of the building, classrooms are often disrupted as students' noses come in contact with the pungent essences which are wafted upward from the cafeteria.

How can studies be persued when the mind's eye can picture only row upon row of freshly baked bread, chocolate-topped cakes, and quadruple-decker ice cream cones?

Together with the proposed change in the name of the college, the inclusion of many new courses, and the many proposed constructions and improvements included in the plans for the near future, why not have a perfume manufacturing course also?

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

WHEN introducing this column two weeks ago it was poked at the receivers or readers that there would be no mud slinging or panning. Mentioning the hit tune of Let It Snow seems to have caused a superfluous amount of yells and spells from various sports around the college.

In saying that all that people want is this song, what was intended was simply an example to illustrate the raving over very good but still commercial tunes. Songs such as this do play an important part in the music and listening world, but they are not considered by authorities as great.

In all of the institutions of learning there has been a decided emphasis on culture which includes listening and becoming familiar with fine classics and legitimate music. The idea brought forth at this time is to listen to the better swing music and become familiar with it as well as with better classical music.

There has been far too much beefing about the music of today by our learned educators and the upper bracket of brain pilots. If the practice of listening to and knowing the better swing and jazz works were stimulated, there would be many more enjoyable leisure hours for many people. A well-rounded personality is vitally important in these days. If some of the cats were not trying to soak up so much phony culture, they might possibly become real people, commonly known as "good men."

Music plays an important and vital part in the lives of every American. All kinds, all styles, all variations are important. Not just swing or classic or hillbilly tunes. Each different type is for someone's enjoyment. Music is an outlet for emotional strife and an enjoyable pastime, and should not be confined to narrow passages.

Musicians themselves never are too critical about a type of music in which they are not active. There is a very mad drummer in the East Bay who takes terrific solos on Saturday night then pops up brighter than ever on Sunday morning to sing in his church choir.

Igor Stravinsky, the great composer and conductor of the day, is writing a complete suite, not for the Philharmonic, but for Woody Herman, the greatest maestro of swing music. This combo of culture and vulgarity should prove very interesting.

Stephen

RAMifications

AT THE moment of writing this commentary, news is popping fast, thereby limiting the possibilities of predictions as far as world events are concerned. Wrong conceptions are also in much evidence, and so, on with the original idea.

Alarmists are again spreading rumors and opinions about the future relations of the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. These rumors and opinions are the typical stock-market boosters which reek of politics and war profiteering. They are being thrown at John Q. Puhlic from all angles except those of authority—and John Q. Puhlic, having been left in a vacuum of empty emotions after five long years of high-tension living, fighting, and dying, is eating it up, not only with satisfaction, but with relish.

Communism is a common topic for discussion at almost every convention of more than one person, and ideas on its use and abuse are among the cheapest of available literature. But failure to analyze why Russia resorted to such a revolutionary government is throwing otherwise-intelligent people into confusion which, to coin a phrase, "will only lead to blood-shed."

Just to give her the benefit of the doubt accept the notion that, in order to have some definite end in mind, a means to that end must be worked out and employed. Such, apparently, was the case when, in 1918 Russia went into convulsions and vomited that force which was keeping her in bondage of mind, spirit, and body. Since that time, the ideals of democracy have been few and far between, but, if Lenin's desires are ever to be carried out, democracy will one day come to a great and powerful nation. However, that nation needs a little encouragement. Warped minds are the product of bodies warped by starvation and terror, slavery, and injustice.

Understanding of such a situation as is now being thrown at us takes broadmindedness and fortitude. It will come when a majority of our nation quits crying, "We will fight Russia next." Wars are not begun by single persons; neither are they won by bigoted ideals. Just like everything else, the idea must first present itself, then be conquered in embryo stage before mass emotion can be established and carry away civilization in its entirety.

Cumming

After Dark

GERALDINE FITZGERALD, Sydney Greenstreet and Peter Lorre make up the trio of Three Strangers and do one of the nicest jobs to come from Hollywood in a long time.

Miss Fitzgerald has long been one of the ablest and most beautiful actresses down there, and that she has gotten a very bum deal up to now is very evident. After two memorable performances in Wuthering Heights and Dark Victory, she dropped from sight only to reappear with minor roles in The Gay Sisters and Wilson—and she practically took the whole show.

A few months ago she began her upward climb in the very good Uncle Harry, and now she is back in Three Strangers. Miss Fitzgerald has the remarkable ability to make every scene a subdued but wonderful gem, and her voice and diction are a welcome relief after the cheese graters we have had to get used to. It is good to see her back.

Messrs. Lorre and Greenstreet are old veterans at foul business and are familiar to all. Mr. Lorre does an excellent job as the idealistic drunk, and Mr. Greenstreet is wonderful as his same old self.

The story of Three Strangers is one of the most ponderous and incredibly complicated things to be found. It all has to do with sweepstake tickets, horse races, Chinese idols, revenge, murder, embezzlement, attempted suicide, drunkenness, supernatural forces and exhaustion on the part of the audience. But, nevertheless, it is a good vehicle for the three stars and the many minor players, all of whom are excellent, including one who bears a marked resemblance to Barry Fitzgerald.

• • • •

There are many ways to describe Because Of Him, but it can all be summed up as stupid, nonsensical, boring, a waste of time and inexcusable—inexcusable for having been made at all. The plot concerns itself with a young waitress who gets the autograph of a famous actor on what turns out to be a letter of introduction.

She probably could have gotten a ten year stretch on that one, but instead, she rises to heights unknown and is fostered by the famous actor and falls in love with a famous playwright. All too chummy for words. About the only decent thing about this movie is the Rodgers and Hart song, Lover, which the heroine sings in duet with herself. Real clever.

Those involved most in this cheerless comedy are acid-voiced Deanna Durbin, Franchot Tone, and Charles Laughton, who acts more like an imitation of Captain Bligh done by John Blauer than anything else.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 3 WEDNESDAY, MARCH 13, 1946 Page 3

RAMblings . .

By Don Lucey And Ralph Hansen

NOWADAYS sports have achieved a far different purpose than they were first intended for. Originated solely for recreational reasons, nearly every pastime has blossomed into a dollar and cents proposition.

Proof of this fact can be found by consulting any of the outstanding athletes around the college. There are few who were not enticed to attend some university if they were any good in their prep days.

TALENT FIGHT

This is especially true in baseball, but here you have battle between the colleges and professional league talent scouts. No sooner does a youngster pitch up a bat than he is beseiged by offers. You may think this is a little exaggerated, but you may readily satisfy your doubts. If you were to take a poll of the Ram diamond squad, you would be amazed to find that practically every player has had at least one, and probably two or three tempting propositions from clubs that are quite liberal with their cash for men with little experience.

STADIUM NEEDED

Speaking of baseball, we bring to mind this item from the "Department of Gripes." Seems as though the mound enthusiasts are sorely disappointed with their practice field, and we don't blame them. Ocean playground was not exactly designed as an A-1 ball park.

The fellows working out there complain chiefly about the sun. California may be foggy a lot of the time, but it certainly isn't when the Rams are trying to improve their fly catching ability.

Every Texas Leaguer, or blooper, as they are labeled, comes at its intended catcher in a blinding glare and turns an easy out into an error. No doubt about it. The sun, like the wind, is definitely against the college.

Besides this fact, we must also mention the condition of the infield. It is deplorable, to say the least.

The basemen dread the sight of a fast grounder headed their way. And who can blame them? With the ground far from smooth, picking one of those up is no fun. Something must be done and soon.

BLOCK SOCIETY HUSH-HUSH

There has been a rumor circulating around the campus to the effect that a Block Society still exists. Of course, if such an organization does exist it must be operating underground, because little evidence has been given during the past year of any such group.

It could be that the Block Society is laboring under the misapprehension that its members must operate in secret. If this is the case, they keep their workings a secret even from many of their members. The big questions are: Who is the president of the Block Society, and when do they hold their meetings.

•

Uncle Sammywell is starting once again to wreak havoc amongst the college muscle-men. They are all starting to look for caves in the hills since they have started to reclassify all 4-F's. It was reported by the Immigration Offiefals that "Tiny" Ghiorzi was apprehended while attempting to cross the border into Mexico. It's too bad that Richie Stanfel is being snagged by that nasty old draft board. The baseball team will lose a fine ball player in Stanfel. George Fabian is also due to leave soon. Brown, George.

Through no fault of The Guardsman or the college athletic department, the traditional San Francisco State and San Francisco Junior College baseball opener last Saturday was completely overlooked in the last edition of The Guardsman. The tragedy of the situation is that the most looked forward to game of past seasons has been this game with State, which was planned late last week.

Dynamic rivalry has existed between the two cross-city rivals for seasons past and the war has not diminished it by any extent.

Intramural

Basketball Signup Extended With Play To Start Friday

Extension of signups for intramural basketball through today was announced last week by Coach Tom Wilson, intramural director.

Reason for the extension was laid to the confusion rampant at the beginning of any semester until filing of registration books is completed.

With 12 teams already entered, however, competition appears keen, and the complete schedule is expected to be posted tomorrow, with play beginning this Friday at 3:30 p.m., Wilson said.

Schedules will be posted on the bulletin board in the main hall and also in the men's gymnasium.

Wilson Scores Apathy

"The seeming lack of interest shown is disappointing. For students who come to college to broaden their education and experience, to neglect the physical aspect of the thing is not a very good attitude. 'All work and no play,' you know—," Wilson said.

Each team may have as many as seven men, but must have five to qualify for play. Basketball will be played in a round robin tourney with each team playing all the others.

Game will be played in 20 minute halves of straight running time, Wilson explained, with two time outs permitted each side per half. Substitues will be permitted freely.

Track Sign-up Slow

The sign-up for varsity and intramural track has been very slow. All men interested can still sign up with Wilson or Coach Jim Jensen in the gym office before this Friday.

Each individual event winner will receive ten points, second place five points, and third place three points. Individuals may enter three events, and all students are eligible to compete.

Men interested in playing ping pong are expected to sign up this week with round robin play scheduled to begin next Wednesday, March 20. Matches will consist of the best two out of three games, with 21 points per game.

Horseshoes Tourney Begins

All those interested in pitching horseshoes in the intramural program are also expected to sign up this week in the men's gymnasium. Two games out of three will determine the winner and each game will consist of 21 points.

Wilson urged all clubs and organizations to get together and get teams in the various sports.

Carter Cory, pre-war block winner in football, was named to the post of intramural sports manager last week by Wilson. The posts of assistant manager are still open, Wilson said.

Intramural Head Tom Wilson

Former Ram Stars Back For Spring Football

With a large turnout, Coach Lee Eisan started spring training for the fall football season on March 4.

Eisan has several veterans returning from the service who have played in previous years. Bill Wada, quarterback on the 1941 squad, has returned after seeing action in Italy with the army.

George Newell, Art Ekdall, Duke Drake, and Bob Cavander, from the 1942 team have returned from the navy.

Carter Cory, a halfback, has been discharged from the air corps.

Also back in harness will be Staten Webster and Don Honert.

"The first two or three weeks will be spent in getting he men loosened up and in blackboard drills," Eisan stated. "After that we will get down to blocking and tackling, and anyone who wishes to go out for football in the fall, and has never played before, should definitely be out for spring training."

Track Holds Spotlight

—Photo by Lum

With 65 men turned out for the varsity track team this semester, after a layoff of four years, the Rams should be able to field a fairly good track squad with the material here in the college.

The men pictured above are among the first out for regular practice. They are, back row, Bob Elliott, hurdles; Gig Gonella, 880; John DiDio, high jump; Bill Barnes, high jump; Bob Caredio, 440; and Frank Mascheroni. Front row, Bud Fratesa, broad jump Evan Goldenberg, Pete Murray, 100; and Pat McMillan, hurdles.

Although the squad has not definitely been fixed as yet, it should be set before the first track meet, Saturday, March 23, against State, Marin, and Napa at Kezar Stadium. It has been announced that there are six scheduled track meets and two tentative meets. The scheduled meets are as follows:

March 23—State, Marin, Napa ..... Kezar
March 30—San Mateo ..... there
April 6—California, Modesto, Sacramento ..... Berkeley
April 20—State ..... Kezar
May 4—Modesto conference meet.
May 18—Fresno relays.

Baseball

Ram Nine Downed By S.F. State In First Game Of Season, 9-4

After being held hitless for four innings, the S. F. State Gators broke loose to pound out a 9 to 4 decision over the Rams at Harrison Field on March 9.

After the Gators had scored three runs in their half of the fifth inning, the Rams pickeed up one run on Ches. Anderson's single through short, a single to left by George Homsey, and an error on Ritchie Stanfel's grounder.

The Rams got another marker in the seventh when Arieta scored on an error of Anderson's grounder, but the Gators were not to be outdone and countered with three runs.

Manuel Castro led off the eighth inning with an infield single, stole second and went to third on the catcher's error. He scored on John Mack's infield out. Once again the Gators scored three runs.

Keck scored the Rams' final run in the ninth on Castro's single.

Brilliant fielding in the first inning resulted in a triple play for the Rams.

WAA Rates Chenille Award Block In April

Digging deep into its treasury, the Women's Athletic Association announced purchase last week of a supply of the newly designed chenille blocks for delivery next month. Costing approximately $2.20 each, the WAA Counell and Bertha Mae Keller, adviser, deemed the move a good investment for the long range plans of the WAA.

Women now in possession of the old block may request the new design immediately the supply reaches the college, Wanda McKenzie, WAA president, stated. In addition, any woman who earned her award last fall will receive her block as soon as possible, she promised.

Putting into practice the policy decided at a WAA discussion last semester, Miss McKenzie reminded members that the blocks are to be worn on white sweaters for uniformity.

Miss Keller, awaiting announcement of the time when club meetings are scheduled, urged all women, especially the frosh, to attend the WAA conference, become acquainted with the officers and old members and choose a sport club to join. At present, the WAA has an ample supply of excellent athletic equipment, a new coach in Nancy Sparks, and more time since physical education classes are again set on a two hour, one half unit basis, Miss Keller explained.

That a minimum of 15 women are required to organize and maintain a WAA club was also pointed out by Miss Keller, who is now encouraging practice sessions for sports already organized.

Besides the big Sectional Play Day at San Jose in April, Miss McKenzie and one other delegate are scheduled to attend an athletic conference at the University of California March 29 and 30.

Basketball

Rams Beat Mateans Twice, Place Third In Conference Play

Finishing the season in third place, behind Sacramento and Modesto, the Rams played their last scheduled basketball games last week, and took a pair of easy contests from a weak San Mateo quintet.

The score of Wednesday's game here at the college was 53 to 37 in favor of the Rams, and again Friday, in San Mateo, the Rams dropped the Mateans by a score of 47 to 35.

Led by Ed Smith, the Rams had an easy time of it in defeating the Mateans Wednesday night. San Mateo drew first blood and the score was tied three times. The Ram quintet gradually began to outscore their opponents and remained in the lead through the contest.

The game was highlighted by a number of personal fouls and the banishment from the contest of Mateau Forward Matulich on a technical foul.

Smith, a former Washington High star, and Al Munn, former Lincoln High cage ace, were the outstanding players on the floor. Smith was high point man with 16 points, and scored many sensational, long distance shots from the floor.

Defense Outstanding

The defensive play of Smith, Munn, Roland Jones, and Earl Malnick was outstanding for the college. Matulich of the visitors led his team with 16 points.

The Rams won easily in its final 1946 appearance on Friday night, although the contest was a bit more aggressive than the contest on Wednesday.

Both teams had a large number of fouls called against them. San Mateo won the contest of fouls by losing two first-stringers by the expulsion route.

Ratto Season's Top Scorer

The college five were led by Frank Ratto, Smith, Munn, and Jones. Ratto was high point man with 12 points, and finished the season as the Ram's highest scorer. Matulich again led the Mateans.

The Rams closed the season with a none too bad record, having won 9 and lost 4.

The schedule has now been completed, and Coach Tom Wilson has announced no post-season games. Improvement of this year's team over last year's squad can be attributed to the dynamic coaching of Wilson. His leadership produced a team that proved itself in all ways.

Varsity Whitewashes Salmon Champs, 12-0

The mythical touchtackle championship of the college was decided last Monday as a varsity six trampled the tournament champion Salmons by a score of 12 to 0.

The varsity team, led by Captain Richie Stanfel, outplayed its opponents in every period. The highly touted Salmon passing attack was nonexistant, as "Slinging" Rich Sedley was only able to complete one pass. The varsity line, spearheaded by Stanfel, Don Keck, and George Fabian, charged the Salmon backs so hard that passing and running was impossible.

The first varsity touchdown came after Vic Pudlowski tossed a complete to Captain Stanfel in the end zone. The second varsity touchdown came on the last play of the game, after Manuel Castro pulled in a long pass from Don Grant. Castro caught the ball after making a sensational leap to take the ball from the waiting hands of Ted Bofinger and Sedley.

Forum

John Ross, Former UNRRA Officer, Will Lead Group Discussion Of Near East Importance At Saturday Night Meeting

First semester meeting of Forum Club claims a highlight attraction in the presence of John E. Ross, economics and sociology instructor here, who will lead group discussion on The Near East and Its International Significance at the Present Time.

John E. Ross

The meeting is scheduled for this Saturday at 8 p.m. at 157 Kensington Way. advisers John Gerstung and Dorothy Mercer said last week. All students interested in discussion of current topics are welcome.

Recently returned from the Middle East, Ross was on leave from the college for three years in government work.

Ross, who left the college in the spring of 1942 to become senior economist with the WPB in Washington, remained in that capacity for one year. Later he transferred to the War Shipping Administration, and as assistant director was responsible for his manpower program with regard especially to merchant vessels.

Transferring once again, Ross worked for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation. As commanding officer for refugee "flight" teams, Ross, whose headquarters were for one year in Cairo, had under him a staff of physicians. In this particular job, he dealt primarily with refugees and with British military officials.

5,000 Repatriated

In the course of this job, he repatriated some 5,000 Jugoslavs in three flights. By flights, Ross explained, was meant sea trips, and consequently the refugees were transported across the Mediterranean.

While with UNNRA, Ross was in Greece during the Civil War that raged in 1944, and while driving supply vans was in danger from both sides, and had some narrow escapes. The hostilities, which were between the government and British troops on one side, against the guerilla and Greek Resistance movement on the other, lasted for a period of six weeks.

His last job took Ross through Greece, Yugoslavia, Palestine and Southern Italy, the latter in the wake of the Allied Armies. Before his last trip from Yugoslavia, Ross fell ill and was unable to leave as scheduled, an inconvenience which proved to be providential, for the ship was sunk.

London Hides Scars

Returning to the United States, Ross came through London, where he stayed three weeks. Conditions in England, he said, were extremely poor, and there were endless queues for everything, food, clothing, transportation.

Commenting on the overall devastation of the city, Ross said that London hid its scars well.

Music

Russian Opera Asks For 31 Paid Extras

The Russian Opera Company currently offered 25 men and 6 women students of the college volunteer work as paid extras in the company's productions of Prince Igor and The Snow Maiden next month, it was announced last week by Flossita Badger of the college music department, who is directing the chorus for both operas.

The parts will require no vocal exercises, and will consist mainly of standing on the stage in the guise of soldiers, and passersby. About the only requirement, therefore, will be the ability of the super to hold a spear upright and not be overcome by the sight of the large Opera House audience, Miss Badger said.

Work in the four performances will be salaried, and performers will also have to attend three rehearsals prior to the actual performances. The first presentation will be given on April 27, and all students who are interested in taking part have been asked to see Miss Badger in Room 200 any day this week.

New Drama Club Plans Membership Drive

First meeting of the newly-formed Drama Club will be held this Friday during the regular college hour in Room 310, at which time plans for activities during the current semester and a membership drive will be made.

The club was begun here last semester by students interested in acting, writing, and directing college productions to be given in the WAVES Auditorium during rallies and general assemblies.

Although the attempt to form a similar club here has been made almost every year since the college has been in existence, the idea has never before got a foothold.

Now, however, with the acoustics of the auditorium soon to undergo improvement, the organization appears to have a greater chance of surviving, and of carrying out its aim to promote a better understanding and appreciation of drama and the dramatic processes in the college.

Among the activities planned for the club are the presentation of short plays, dramatic readings, and monologues at general assemblies. Members have also discussed the possibility of presenting larger programs off the campus later in the semester.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

•Beta Tau: Plans are being made for a joint meeting with Theta Tau.

•Phi Beta Rho: There will be a regular business meeting tonight at the home of the president, Hilda Haak.

•Theta Tau: Rushing will start this semester with a tea held at the home of Mabel Edwards this Sunday, March 17.

•Chinese Student Club: The second annual Intercollegiate Conference will be held at Stanford University, Palo Alto, March 23 and 24. Officers have information and will handle reservations.

•Delta Psi: Two officers were omitted in the last Cavalcade, Sylvia Farber, treasurer, and Margaret Ramirez, corresponding secretary. The first rush tea was held at the Mark Hopkins Hotel March 10.

•Newman Club: New officers are: Bob Lynch, president; Jackie Hogan, vice-president; Gloria Pochini, secretary; Matt O'Neil, treasurer. There will be Mass and Communion at St. Emydius, followed by breakfast at the Fairmont Hotel, Sunday, March 17.

•Alpha Lambda Chi: A business meeting to complete plans for rushing will be held this evening at the home of Bernice Meyer, 1507 Masonic Avenue.

•Pi Mu Gamma: New officers are: Frank Yorkis, president; Dorothy Summers, vice-president; Lindsay Knutsen, secretary; Betty Lee Taylor, treasurer; Donald Gerber, publicity man; Richard Maass, Club board representative.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: There will be a business meeting Monday night. Postcards will be sent to all members giving the address.

•Beta Phi Beta: There will be a business meeting Monday night, March 18, at 892 Ashbury Street. Beta Phi's welcome back Al Moffet, Tom Kellogg, John Stahmann, and Johnny Lopeman, who is now home on leave.

•Kappa Phi. There will be a business meeting Friday night, and all members are urged to attend.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: Newly elected officers for the semester are Jennie Lau, president; Mary Sullivan, vice-president; Constance Johe, secretary, and Leona Wilkes, treasurer.

•Women's Service Society: All students who left their books at the book exchange to be sold may get them Friday, March 15, from 11:30 to 12:30, if they have not been sold. Students who desire may leave unsold books until next semester. The next meeting will be held at 777 19th Avenue tonight.

•Pick and Hammer Club: Launching semester club activities, the college geological society invites all students to attend its meeting during the college hour on Friday when moving pictures will be shown. All regular members are requested to attend.

•Music Club; Newly elected officers are Gene McGowan, president; Jim Finley, vice-president; Maxim Lyon, secretary, and Richard Cumming, treasurer. First meeting will be in college hour in Room 200.

Helen Ringius Named Forum Magazine Editor

Helen Ringius, well known member of the Forum Club, was named last week editor of Forum Magazine, annual literary publication of the college.

Purpose of the magazine is to publish the best works of poetry, prose, drama, and art work in black and white medium by the students.

All students are invited to contribute any kind of subject matter, not more than 1500 words, which will be accepted until April 29, Miss Ringius said.

Material should be given to faculty advisers Dorothy Mercer, Room 251; to John Gerstung, Room 237, or to Miss Ringiu, Fred Mayer or George Albertus, art editors.

Radio Amateur's Club Formation Underway

Open to all radio amateurs and to all those interested in radio, either as a hobby or professionally, is membership in the formation of a new Radio Club, according to Kenneth H. Masters, student organizer.

Students interested in participating are asked to meet in Room 48 on Friday, March 15, at 4 p.m., or to contact Masters by telephoning ASh. 4460, in Berkeley.

Cleanup Day?

Face Lifting Hits College—"Make It A Party, We'll Help," Students Say

By Pat French and Jackie Hogan

Spring brings with it the restless question of a college clean-up day.

This question posed this week to many and varied students of this institution brought a wide scope of answers, facial expressions, and vehement opinions.

Explanation that the whole idea was endorsed by authoritative sources and designed to give the college a much needed "face lifting," plus the fact that there would be no classes held during the housecleaning period, resulted in a completely different attitude on the part of respondents and some even offered suggestions to make the affair a gay "shindig."

Typical of the retorts was this question by an unobserving freshman: "What's wrong with the campus, it isn't that dirty—is it?" The obvious reply to this is, "Just look around, just look around."

Cornering a talkative student in the hall, these suggestions were obtained: "Why not have refreshments and have everybody wear Levis; we could even finish everything off with a bonfire. It could be loads of fun."

If the college clubs and service organizations really back the proposal and the students imbued with new found spirit cooperate, a two-fold purpose will be accomplished. If the term Clean-up Day is frightening, it can be called "the day everybody meets everybody else over a broom and dustpan."

"I can just see me going to Math with my Levi's on; what would the instructor say?"

This remark was made by a woman student who, although she was a bit dubious at first, soon decided that if the whole project is looked upon from a "fun, frolic and work" angle, it wouldn't be a bad idea.

Another student with a meek smile and a ready opinion said: "I'd do it if my friends would do it—only I haven't any friends." The chap standing next to him on the street car, also bearing the mark of the Red and White on his manly frame, pointed out that if classes were dismissed 90 per cent of the students would cooperate. "After all, it's our school; we should clean it up and not push it on to someone else."

"Sure, let's have it. It's not the daily grind of college life that you look back on but the unusual things like rallies, dances, and games, that you remember—clean-up day, why sure." This came from a student who also thought it would encourage spirit IF the students would do it.

An anti-social fellow, with a scowl on his face because he had just flunked a French test, simply muttered "Nuts."

Drama

Thunder Rock Tryouts Assure Late Semester Performance Of Audrey Play

Presentation by college drama classes this semester of Robert Audrey's Thunder Rock was assured last week, pending unforeseen developments, following tryouts for parts called by Ruth Somers, drama instructor.

The scene is the lighthouse on Thunder Rock, an island in Lake Michigan.

The leading character is Charleston, an ex-news correspondent who becomes the keeper of the lighthouse to detach himself from the chaotic world and if possible find an answer to some of its dilemma.

A bronze tablet in the lighthouse contains the names of passengers shipwrecked in 1849 near Thunder Rock. Charleston recreates them in his mind and endeavors to find out why they left the Old World and what they expected America to offer them.

They come to life in the play as the doctor, the laborer, the advocate of rights for women, and others, each revealing he gave up the fight for an ideal too soon.

This revelation inspires Charleston to re-join the world and leave his "isolationist" job as keeper.

Although definite casting has not taken place, hopeful thespians include Richard Cumming, Patricia Desmond, Gordon Feil, Helengene Granat, Frank Harding, Nadine Horeirtz, Phillip Markinson, Marcellyn Niggeler, John McDonough, Marie Simons, Thomas Panajes, and Donald Gerber.

Pi Mu Gamma To Hear Dr. Inman Tomorrow

Pi Mu Gamma, college pre-medical, pre-nursing society, will present Dr. Verne T. Inman, who will lecture in Room 100 at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

According to Donald Gerber, society spokesman, Dr. Inman, whose subject will be Let's Rejuvenate the Curricula, is part-time professor of orthopedic surgery at U. C. and is an authority in many medical fields.

Specifically stressed was the fact that the lecture is open to all students and faculty.

Married Student Club Meets This Friday

The Married Students' Club will hold a meeting this Friday morning during the hour for club meetings, in Room 322, Eugene Hague, chairman of the group, announced last week.

Married students who are new to the college are invited to attend the meeting for the purpose of submitting applications for membership and to meet other married students of the college.

Meathead Complicates Campus Parking Problem

By Alex

Joining the list of hard-to-gets are college parking spaces. Those who are fortunate have's may have tried to park a crate on the campus only to encounter Meathead, the wheeled wagon whiz, archetype of these parking space hogs who make life complicated for the average driver about this book-larnin' emporium.

Not content with placing his jewel at an angle, where it will remain untouched (other cars being unable to get within miles of the spot), this marblehead with a Jukes Family I. Q., delights in roaring around the college parking area, missing by inches the legally parked cars.

Like Caspar, he has never quite wised up to the fact that his little rose will still remain sweet if he allows others to park next to it. In fact, the chariot will probably look better a little hidden. Furthermore, life for others might be a little easier and parking a mere headache instead of a nightmare.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1946 No. 4

College Acquires Eighteen Acres

North End Of Campus To Judson Sold By Park Commission; Homaja Huts For Veterans To Be Constructed On Site

Negotiations begun in 1940 reached culmination last week as the college completed the transfer of 18 acres from the Park Commission to the campus. Bringing the total campus area to 70 acres, the tract of land extends from the "mud-flats" at the north-end of the college to Judson Avenue.

Guiding the expansive transaction through the intricate channels of city government, Joseph J. Phillips, director of city property, quickened closure of the land purchase. Both President A. J. Cloud and Dean Edward E. Sandys expressed the gratification of the college for Phillips' help.

This area is large enough to harbor 50 housing units, and "homaja" huts will be located there to shelter 50 veteran students and their families. Construction of the units is slated to begin soon, according to Dean Sandys. To date the Dean has received 55 applications.

Applicants met the qualifications necessary for a family to obtain one of the "homaja" huts. Each is a veteran with either the husband or the wife registered at the college.

With two small bedrooms, living room and dining room combined, kitchenette and bath, plus all necessary furniture, including stove, ice box and hot running water, the huts promise more than adequate homes for ex-GIs.

AWS

Frosh Women's Tea Party Slated For Next Tuesday At 2

With the selection of 40 women from the Associated Women Students to act as hostesses, plans for the Freshman women's tea scheduled for next Tuesday, March 26, from 2 to 4 o'clock in Room 157, were announced completed by Nancy Cunningham, AWS president.

Members of the faculty who will pour are Miriam Escher, Phylis Haley, Dorothy Mercer and Antoinette Willson.

The hostesses are as follows: Carol Hayland, Helen Buckley, Doris Doran, Roberta Robb, Jean Carraseo, Ginny Souder, Jackie Chopknik, Barbara Moule, Laurel Nelson, Helen Buckner, Roberta Johnson, Beatrice Mahoney, Gloria Pochini, Lucille Scott, Muriel Harrison, Lucille Hunt, Frances Stanpolis, Millie Laube, Pat Magee, Marty Mitchell, Helen Bailey and Joan Kato.

Roberta Krenkel, Nancy Sloane, Marilyn Givvs, Clementine Niven, Lee Ann Vonar, Barbara McClintock, Shirley Ross, Carlo Fain, Barbara Dean, Florence Mulligan, Janet Caine, Minnie Slaughter, Ella Ruth Watts, Nadine Andrews, Jackie Faxon, Shirley Ross, Hilga Haack, Doris Poretz, Bernice Chew, Anne Apostalus, and Norma Sun.

15 Instructors Added To College Faculty

Addition of 15 new instructors to the faculty was announced by the administration last week, bringing the total of new instructors this semester to 29.

The new faculty members and the courses they are instructing are as follows:

Marjorie Bailhache, foreign language; Louis Bernet, hotel division; Julio Bartolazzo, counselor; William Bush, engineering; Robin Dunn, mathematics; Kellogg Hunt, English; Francis Jennings, mathematics; James Jensen, physical education; Fred Kelly, veterans' courses; Betty Lundgren, library; William Morgan, English; Edward G. Neff, foreign language; William Ogle, veterans' courses; Margaret Steffan, English, and Roy Walker, ceramics.

Willus Russell has returned from military leave.

Parking

Drastic Action Set For Rule Violation

"Darby and Joe, who were Jack and Jill, are down on their luck if they're blockin' a truck on the ramp of the hill."

Drastic measures to stop illegal parking on the north and south ramps of the college building will be taken beginning today, Dean Edward E. Sandys warned last week. Air will be released from the tires of such illegally parked cars, he said.

"The Student Council has approved this drastic action, deflating the tires of those cars that illegally park on the ramps, thus blocking off the passage of trucks and other commercial vehicles," Sandys stated.

The action is deemed absolutely essential, because of the great increase of cars and trucks which must park in the area surrounding the college.

Peruvian Educator Visits College

Visiting the college last week as the guest of President A. J. Cloud was Alfonso Rivero, prominent South American educator from Peru.

In the United States studying social psychology and striving for inter-American cooperation among teachers, Rivero spoke of his dreams of bringing about a true understanding among American and Peruvian teachers.

"We must know each other as we are and not as we pretend to be," Rivero stressed as he explained his wish that American and Peruvian educators exchange materials, ideas, and school newspapers in order to better understand one another.

A friend of Graham Sullivan, former head of the Hotel Division here at the college, who is now with the Inter-American Educational Foundation, Rivero told how Sullivan has become very close to the people of Peru.

Married Students Club Active On Campus

Married students at the college who are having a difficult time making friends and adjustments are invited to join the Married Students' Club in Room 318, Thomas Porter, adviser of the club, announced.

The club, which is for married students only, is small but has worked out well for its members. If the group gets any larger, a second section will be organized.

Pictured above are officers of the Associated Women Students responsible for the traditional AWS tea for college frosh women to be held next Tuesday afternoon in Room 157. From left to right they are, Jane Doran, recording secretary; Nancy Cunningham, president; Betty Howard, vice-president; Nancy Stookey, corresponding secretary. Headed by Margaret Dougherty, Dean of Women, faculty members who will pour at the all-women gathering will be Miriam Escher. Phylis Haley, Dorothy Mercer and Antoinette Willson.

Rally

Sports Events Spur Men's Gymnasium Pep Next Friday

A rally to stimulate student attendance at the track meet and baseball games scheduled for Saturday, March 23, will be held this Friday in the men's gymnasium during the college hour, 10:45 a.m., announced Earl Lawrence, rally commissioner.

Plans for the rally entertainment are not yet completed, but it will be mostly talent from the college.

"There is more talent around the college than most of the students realize, and I intend to bring it out and present it to them at the rallies," Lawrence said.

Participating in the rally will be the five college yell leaders, Warren Simmons, Ted Brionis, Shirley Ross, Virginia Wassman, and Matt Krisinter.

The Pep Club, the Block and Golden Cleats societies will again join the rally committee in staging the rally.

Lawrence said that from now on he is going all out to have better rallies because of the success of the last rally and the attendance at the last game.

"I thought the rally went over fairly well," he added, "but after I saw the crowd that attended the game that night, I knew the rally had been a success."

Lawrence also pointed out that the college baseball and track squads will be competing the next day, and it is only fitting for the students to attend the rally.

Talent Audition To Be Held Tomorrow At 2

Students wishing to perform in college and off-campus programs will be given the opportunity to audition for the college Talent Bureau tomorrow at 2 o'clock in Room 200, Assistant Dean John Brady, chairman of the committee, announced last week.

The bureau has just been revived this semester after a period of inactivity during the war years. The new audition committee is composed of faculty members Flossita Badger, Madison Devlin, and Brady.

Student members of the bureau are Earl Lawrence and Beatrice Caldwell.

The Talent Bureau was originally organized for the purpose of giving talented students the opportunity to perform at various college functions, as well as at occasional request programs off the campus.

Students who sing, act, dance, play some musical instrument, or wish to participate in some other way in college entertainment, are asked to audition before the bureau tomorrow afternoon.

College Name Change Wins Faculty Approval

That the majority faculty vote on the changing of the name of San Francisco Junior College to City College of San Francisco was registered in favor of the measure, was announced recently by A. J. Cloud, president of the college.

The faculty approved the change in order to avoid confusion with other schools similarly named. The motion must be submitted to Dr. Curtis E. Warren, Superintendent of Public Schools, for sanction before further steps in the name-changing process.

Debate

Nine Enter Intra Contest Finals Here

Nine students here at the college entered the intramural contest for the Hearst Annual Oratorical competition held in Room 206 yesterday. One orator will represent the college in the statewide contest which will be followed by the national championship contest, Lloyd Luckmann, instructor in charge of the contests here, disclosed last week.

Results of this contest will be announced next week.

Contestants are Victor J. Hancock, James W. Meyer, Joseph C. Gole, Charles K. Wright, Thomas F. Dean, Richard J. Mann, Morris Grodsky, Conrad Grodsky, and Patricia Duryea. The subject of their orations was Andrew Jackson, Seventh President of the United States.

They were judged by President A. J. Cloud and Luckmann, who will determine which student has the best

(Continued on page 3, column 3)

A Cappella Choir Debut Scheduled For April 7

The first off-campus presentation of the college A Cappella Choir this semester will be given at the First Congregational Church on Sunday, April 7, Flossita Badger, choir director, announced last week.

The performance will be open to the general public and various members of the group will be featured as soloists, Miss Badger pointed out.

Another event in which the college music department has been requested to participate is the choral festival at which all high schools, as well as the junior college, in San Francisco will be reprcsented, Miss Badger revealed.

The festival will be under the direction of Charles M. Dennis, who is the director of music for the San Francisco Board of Education.

Artist Views Magazine Photographer

By Adele Reinseh

The greatly overburdened gentleman miscontrued to the left is one of the official builder-uppers of the college. He may be seen at almost any time of the day poking his camera lense in the direction of any object, person, or group of persons.

Yes, Phil Kemp is the official photographer of the magazine known as Student Life.

He has just resumed his activities on the magazine, as well as that of a student of artistic composition and form under instructor William J. Eckert, after serving with the armed forces since 1942.

For those persons who have not envisaged Kemp, and with all apologies to the very fine artistry of George Alberus' cartoon, let it be known that as far as actual appearances go, a photographer would have revealed Kemp as far better looking!

Bill Smith Vacates Freshman Class Office

Vacating the office of Freshman class president by filing a leave of absence, Bill Smith left the problem of a new appointment to be filled before the Student Council last week. As yet no candidate for the appointment has received the approval of the council.

Approval was given of the appointments of Warren Simmons, Shirley Ross, Ted Briones, Matt Krilitage, and Virginia Wickman for new yell leaders. Following the resignation of Don Honnert as Publicity Chairman, Quinn Moss, member of the council, was approved to fill the vacancy.

Campus financial matters are still in the hands of Finance Chairman Don Grant as the approval of budgets continues.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 4 Wednesday, March 20, 1946 Page 2

Student Government

Blackout?

IT is unfortunate that so early in the semester, criticism has to be levelled at the student government—such as it exists in reality. It is simple enough to use the blanket term, student government, which to date seems only to comprise a Student Council, and not a Student Council and President's Cabinet, as provided for in the lately adopted revisions to the constitution.

In the constitution (which appears in full in the students' handbook), under Article III, entitled President's Cabinet, there are listed the names of the officers comprising the cabinet. In order, they are, the President, the Vice-President, the Secretary, the President of the Associated Men Students, the President of the Associated Women Students, the President of the Sophomore Class, the President of the Freshman Class, the Rally Commissioner, the Publications Board Chairman, the Men's Athletic Commissioner, and the President of the Women's Athletic Association.

Further, under the Duties; the constitution provides that "The members of the cabinet shall present to the president and the Student Council all business of their respective departments. They shall also maintain their separate duties as designated in Article II or by the council."

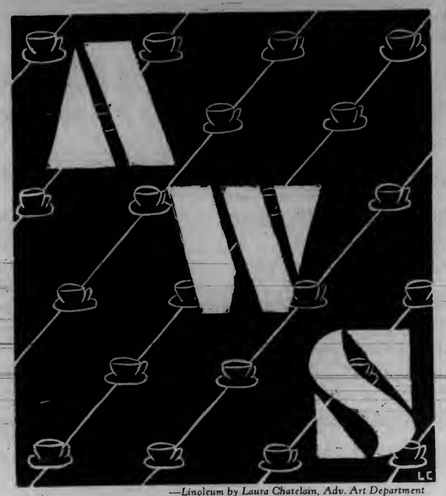
Under Meetings, it is provided that "The President's Cabinet shall meet jointly with the Student Council or at special times set by the President of the Associated Students. The members of the cabinet shall not have a vote in the council."

At the beginning of the semester a meeting of the Cabinet alone was called by the President, at which time certain committee heads were recommended.

Since that first cabinet meeting, President Sweet has not called a meeting of the cabinet, nor called it to meet with the council. To date, student government meetings have been held in an almost clandestine atmosphere—vague reports as to budgets, appointments, dismissals, occasionally seeping through.

While it is the function of the Daily Newspapers to track down activities, however inconspicuous they may be (and as regards this campus it is also the function of this newspaper), it is felt, that since it (coming under the Publications Board), is part of the government, the President should not only hold fully representative meetings, but also inform all members of the government as to the time, places and purposes of such meetings.

Although cabinet members do not have a vote in the council, nevertheless, their duties are in no way minimized in importance. Specifically the cabinet consists of those students who represent those interests within the college to whom budgets are assigned. In other words, the cabinet is made up of those students who formerly "spent" student funds.



It was to democratize the procedure in the allocating of funds that the cabinet was formed.

Under the constitution, the obligation of cabinet members to submit their budgets remains, but in practice, it appears that budgets have been submitted by the Finance Committee, whose function in such a matter is "to supervise and control."

All those having a part in student government, it would seem, need to re-read the constitution, and so ensure that the government operates in the democratic manner designed for it under its recently adopted revisions.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavanor ..... Feature Editor
REPORTERS: Dall Bain, Manuel Castro, Peter Carlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Patricia French, Carmel Gannon, Ralph Hansen, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams, Alar Apostolides.
Staff Photographers ..... Carl B. Carver, Don Lum
Joan Nourse Mistelo ..... Faculty Adviser

—Linoleum by Laura Chatelain, Adv. Art Department

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

College Out-Sciences Science, Creates 25 "Hour" Day

THIS renowned institution of higher learning has a perfect right to be smug and self-righteous these days. Almost overnight our reputation has been upped to rank with that of the greatest scientists and physicists of the nation, to say nothing of the world.

After months spent in the final compilation of evidence gathered over the past decade, the overwhelmingly astounding news was broadcast only three weeks ago for all to hear.

Startling though it may be, and even though it sounds somewhat like a new tidbit for Ripley, a method has been devised at this college whereby all Fridays are composed of 25 "hours."

Yes, the world knows at long last a way in which the hours of the day can be lengthened, and the innovation has already had world-shaking repercussion.

A few days after the extraordinary news was published in The Guardsman, messages from hither and yon were received here, all praising the magnificent job done. In some circles it is said that this phenomenon is slated to become as widely discussed as Einstein's Theory of Relativity and the smashing of the atom.

The next step to be undertaken is the addition of minutes to the hour, and seconds to the minute. What won't scientists think of next?

• • • •

Whatever Byron Blaster might have been in the past, college life is certainly leaving its impression upon this prospective Phi Beta Kappa.

Right now an old chum meeting Biaster for the first time in two months would probably not recognize him, since the slight mental change in him has been accompanied by an even greater physical change.

Only a short time ago he considered himself mighty lucky to escape the horrors of war with only a badly sprained ankle. Little did he know of the horrors in store for him here.

And now he wanders about our echoing corridors, fingernails bitten up to the elbows, hair standing on end in complete disarray, "tears in his eyes, distraction in aspect, a broken voice," and that familiar look in his eyes that proclaims to all who see him that here is a man who is undergoing all the appalling tortures of midterm examinations.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

GETTING away from the usual 64 bars of musical bulloney it might prove interesting to see how a scat musician cuts a bedtime story.

The following is entitled The Three Bears or Don't Put That Benzedrene in the Trumpet Player's Ovaltine.

Once there were three bears by the name of Benny, Hoppy and Offbeat. They were very frantic bears, and each played very righteous riffs. The bears lived in a racked out bungalow on the outskirts of town on Summit Ridge Drive.

They lived on music, playing from morning 'til night, Benny cutting piano, Hoppy a very fine tenor sax, and Offbeat terrific bass. Their sessions never ended, and on occasion they would expose their talents at one of the local gin mills in order to hook on to a little gold.

Everything about the lives of the three bears was very terrif, except for one thing. They needed a drummer for their combo. They had looked high and low but there just weren't any fine cats about.

One afternoon the bears felt in need for some square activities, so they took a cruise in their hot Phaeton. A few minutes after they had left, their residence was visited by one peroxided beast by the name of Mouldy Lockes. It seems that Mouldy had been given the business by her former employer and was on her way to face the ruthless world. When she saw the little ivy (poison) covered cottage she decided to stop in and take ten.

On arriving within, she found that the joint was empty like the inside of a bass sax. Seeing this, she made herself at home. Seeing the instruments and old copies of Down Beat around, Mouldy knew that she was among heisters.

After cutting a few bars of piano she whipped up a brew and retired to the boudoir for a bit of sacktime.

A while later the Three Bears arrived frantic for some chow and a session. A scream blasted forth from Benny Bear — "Someone got dolty hook marks on me ivories."

"Hey, some cat has been tappin' my reefers," bellowed Hoppy. Offbeat just looked very sad at finding his record of Honky Tonk Train with a very large crack.

After a brief huddle the Freesome threesome decided that the vandal was still at large. Attack! was the plan. The Bears advanced on the stairs, Benny wielding a busted A clarinet, Hoppy with an old trombone slide, and Offbeat a lasso made from a used up G string.

Sneaking into the bedroom, they found Mouldy knocking the sleep off like mad. "Wake up," they yelled. Mouldy woke up.

"Well, it's about time you cats got back, I'm hot for a session; and it just happens that I slipped my instruments in with my things."

"The Chick is righteous," the amazed Bears mumbled.

Mouldy raced down to her convert and drug out her drums. Yes, Mouldy was a drummer and very fine. The bears soon found out that Mouldy was the maniac they had been looking for. They started out with a frantic session, and as far as anyone knows they are still playing. It has been said that if you go down the road a piece on a fine night you can hear The Three Bears and Mouldy Lockes jamming far into the night.

Stephen

RAMifications

PUZZLED student officers, working hard and long to give the Associated Students everything their little hearts desire, are at a loss to understand the apparently total lack of that intangible something commonly known as college spirit.

Not a ghoul in flowing white robes, college spirit is the much alive personalities of a number of college-goers who are interested in every extra-curricular activity they can possibly include in an already crowded program. It is faith in the home team, vigor and vitality in conversation around the campus, the exertion of energy along the lines of classroom activities and effort to make scheduled campus doin's, not only worth while, but a big success.

The American people as a whole are forgetting too quickly what they have just gone through to maintain what is termed The American Way of Life. But the American way of life mustn't be very interesting, if they can so soon lose the memories and nightmares of a hideous war, and let the country of their choosing go to wrack and ruin while they are lapsing into a lethargy of mind and spirit which has never been equalled in the 165 years of constitutional duration

Is it necessary for another Lost Generation to appear before youth arouses itself and realizes that it is up to them? Unless civic leadership is awakened early in life, it seldom is awakened at all—not caring what or when college affairs are, and treating the subtle subject of rah-rah-for-our-team as if it simply is non-extant is no way to start out for a successful American citizenship.

In the final analysis, the what or how a student, or any citizen for that matter, feels in regard to life that is going on around him is negligible. The important item is that he feel . . . and, not a minor point, that he think.

Cumming

After Dark

(Scene:—A room overlooking Hollywood Boulevard. Von Mardsen is seated at a massive desk, wearing an Adrian original with a bulky diamond swastika in his lapel. Crouched in a corner, ready to spring, is Roberti, the executioner. Over the desk is a giant red neon swastika on a blue field. The gloom is gathering as Baron von X enters L. He deposits his umbrella—a stiletto carefully concealed in its folds; his hat—a length of wire carefully concealed beneath the band; and his overcoat—a sub-machine gun carefully concealed in the pocket—on a carefully concealed chair. He brushes the arsenic from his shoulders.)

Von Mardsen:—"Is it you, Baron?"

Baron X:—"Ja." (He goes to the window and looks at the busy scene of Trafalgar Square below.) "Have you found out yet?"

Von Mardsen:—"Von Hugo is working on him now."

Baron:—"We must know his secret. If the message this man holds in his power were given to the peoples of the world, it would cause such worldwide rejoicing that our whole cause would be ruined. That message of joy and salvation must be sabotaged before it gets out. Perhap it would be best to send Roberti in to work on him." (He shudders at the idea.)

Von Mardsen:—"Perhaps it would be best. Go, Roberti."

Roberti (as he goes):—"Let me play with the rabbits, George."

(The two men go to the window and look at the twinkling lights of the Golden Gate Bridge as Von Hugo bursts in.)

Von Hugo:—"My work is done." (He hands the two men a slip of paper.)

Von Mardsen:—"We have won." (Baron X is stewing in his own juice. Roberti bastes him with a bottle of Korble-Brut, 1928.)

Baron X:—"Won. Won. You have failed. Already these joyous words are speeding over the earth. See for yourself." (He sweeps open the French windows overlooking Time Square and there in six foot lights is the news:

"Gable's Back and Garson's Got Him." (Baron von X turns on his pivot tooth and leaves the room.)

Von Mardsen:—"I have failed." (He collapses in a small heap. In the background Vesuvius is erupting.)

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 4 WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1946 Page 3

RAMblings . .

By Don Lucey And Ralph Hansen

BOXING is a word that seems to be null and void around here. This is unusual, to say the least. It strikes us that this sport should enjoy a much larger following than it has at the present moment on the campus. Why it doesn't simply amazes this corner of the page.

Amateur fisticuffs stand in a place all by itself. Here is a pastime that has everything you desire. "Where is the fun?", someone might inquire. Well, there's plenty of it, if you'll just relax. The trouble experienced by most instructors in teaching fellows how to box is fundamentally the same that occurs in such activities as football, swimming, diving. It is fear.

However, this can be overcome easily enough if the student shows enthusiasm. With the proper training he will acquire the one thing that does away with his tension, namely confidence.

BOXING, FENCING COMPARED

One standing rule must always be observed in regard to prizefighting or boxing. The latter name must be used in speaking to students, but never the word "fighting." The reason for this is quite simple. When two men are engaged in a "fight," we immediately realize it is nothing more than a slugfest that will probably end in a knockout.

If Joe College would look at leather pushing in the same light as he does fencing, we'd really be taking a big step forward in the field of physical education. In the aforementioned activity, the idea is not to drive your saber through your opponent's stomach.

Boxing, therefore, should also be taught, not with the thought of flooring the other guy, but to develop muscular coordination, quick footwork, and awareness of mistakes.

BOXING STARTS SOON

As long as this column is rambling on about the manly art of fisticuffs, it seems entirely apropos to mention a little of the talent that is roaming about the halls. One of the most outstanding fisticuffers on the campus is Bob "Frenchy" Casavant. Casavant did quite a bit of boxing while he was in the Navy and is planning on turning out for that sport as soon as it starts.

Another local boxer who shows great promise is John Tolly. There must be some more talent around.

The A.M.S. boxing show used to be quite an affair. Last semester it was called off because of the lack of talent, but this semester it will probably be held because there is an abundance of talent.

BALL CLUB TALENT LADEN

This column made a prediction a few columns back to the effect that the baseball team should place in the top money. The neck may have been stuck out a ways, but it is still too early in the semester to damn any predictions. After all, there still have been no conference games and those are the ones that should be the deciding games.

How can the team lose many games with such stellar athletes as Paul Cane, Ted Bofinger, Chet Anderson, Vic Pudlowski, and Manny Castro. No fooling, those boys are good, and the team should not be judged by its first game, which was actually a practice game.

Intramural Competition Underway

Track Meet Today Previews Ram Contest With State This Saturday At Kezar

The lid comes off the track season today with the running of the intramural track meet, at Balboa Field. The first event is scheduled for 3:15 p.m.

The meet, originally scheduled for this Friday, March 22, has been moved up two days because of a varsity meet on Saturday, March 23, at Kezar against San Francisco State.

A squad for this first inter-college meet with the Gators is expected to be picked from the best performers in today's meet.

Twenty-five men have signed up to participate in the track and field events.

Track Coach Jim Jensen will be on hand to help Tom Wilson, intramural director, run the meet. Several of the men already are forming the nucleus of this season's track squad.

The following men have signed up in two or three of the 10 events in track and field:

Ernest Mattson, Hiawatha Harris, Dalla Mellie, Staten Webster, Bob Boyd, Richard Brown, Ed Byron, Dick Tucker, Evan Goldenberg, Don Brown, Robert Zapanta, Stan Levin, Harvey Roscelli, R. Cargdio, Pat McMillan, W. Carrol, A. Mouloos, G. Albertus, Ray Horton, Bill Bahr, J. McDonough, P. Murray, Al Lee, T. J. Kellogg, and C. E. Andersen.

"We expect to have a very successful meet," Tom Wilson, intramural director, declared.

Five Contests Slated In Local Cage Tourney

Five games are scheduled for the National League, in the current intramural basketball league, to be played tomorrow, March 21, in the men's gymnasium.

- 3:15—Vagabonds vs. Gung Ho.
- 3:15—Eagles vs. Demons.
- 3:15—Newman Club vs. East Bay Boys.
- 4:15—Banda vs. XGI Doggies.
- 4:15—Deli's Dandies vs. Stanfel's Double Play.

The following games are scheduled for the American League to be played Friday, March 22:

- 3:15—XGI Swabbies vs. Mustangs.
- 3:15—Chinese Club vs. Portals.
- 4:15—Redskins vs. Borio B. C.
- 4:15—Hoots vs. Phillips "77."
- Rovers vs. Bye.

Only one change has resulted thus far, that being the switch-over of the Gung Ho five to the National League.

Of the three games scheduled in the intramural basketball tournament last Friday, the Redskins defeated the Mustangs, 28 to 24, while the other two were defaulted.

The Chinese Club defaulted to the Rovers, and the Hoots defaulted to the Portals. The three scheduled games were in the American League. No games were scheduled for that day in the National League.

Guardsman All-Conference Quintet

As an anti-climax to the most successful basketball season since the lush pre-war era, Earl Melnick, spirited guard on Tom Wilson's cage quintet, was named as a first team guard on The Guardsman's All-Northern Junior College Conference Team for the 1945-46 campaign.

Guard Frank Ratto, who with Melnick provided the Rams with the most formidable back court defense in years, was selected on the second team.

Although the regular conference title was won by the Panthers from up-state Sacramento, the Rams finished third thanks to a double triumph over a hapless San Mateo squad.

Player	Team	Position
FIRST TEAM
CHARLEY HICKOK	Modesto	Forward
JOE MATULICH	San Mateo	Forward
ELDON BENNETT	Sacramento	Center
EARL MALNICK	San Francisco	Guard
RON RICO	Selines	Guard
SECOND TEAM
EDDIE ROSE	Menlo	Forward
BILL McFAYDEN	Grant	Forward
RON LIVINGSTONE	Modesto	Center
FRANK RATTO	San Francisco	Guard
JOHN STANICH	Sacramento	Guard

WAA

Change In Election Policy Adopted

Holding its first general meeting of the semester last Friday, the Women's Athletic Association recruited several new members to its roster and outlined some of the coming events.

Since a large percentage of the women attending the meeting were freshmen, last fall's sport managers described their particular athletic club, practice sessions, play days and in general, the social and health benefits that they derived through WAA activities.

A new policy in WAA tradition was explained by Bertha Mae Keller, adviser. Hereafter, the WAA will elect officers at the beginning of the fall semester who will also serve as leaders the following spring semester.

This plan was unanimously approved by the WAA Council who saw the previous handicaps of former officers who were elected and actually got into the WAA routine and activities about a month later.

The giant Sectional Play-day at San Jose State College has been set for Saturday, May 4, from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The local WAA now has plans to send the following teams to represent the red and white:

Badminton.....1 singles, 2 doubles
Tennis.....1 singles, 1 doubles
Archery.....2 individuals
Volleyball.....1 team
Basketball.....1 team

Three swimmers, who will be selected from Nancy Spark's class, will form the college relay team. Competition is scheduled in free style, back stroke and breast stroke swimming.

Intramural Netsters Begin Signup Today

All men interested in playing intramural tennis are urged to sign up with Coach Tom Wilson in the men's gymnasium beginning today through next Wednesday.

Players may sign up for singles and doubles, and the elimination tourney will determine the winners. Medals will be awarded winners and runners-up with two out of three sets determining the winner of each match. All men students are eligible to compete.

Plans also call for a free throw contest in the intramural program. Those interested should contact Tom Wilson in the gymnasium office. Entries will be received until next Wednesday. The contest will consist of 50 throws, and the highest score out of 50 will determine the winner.

Participants may throw any afternoon between 3 and 5 p.m. in the men's gymnasium.

More About Debate

(Continued from page 1)

ability to compete against representatives of other college such as Mrs. Dorothy Menzel of San Francisco State College, formerly Dorothy Pappas of the High School of Commerce, who won state championships consecutively for many years.

Last year, the state championship for the college students was won by Stanley Parmisano of St. Mary's College, who was sent east to participate in the National Championship Contest and who placed high among the leading college orators of the nation.

Cage Tournament Begins In Men's Gymnasium; Season To Last Throughout Semester

With 18 teams signed up for the intramural basketball tourney and divided into two leagues, play started last Friday and is expected to last through the semester.

Since the schedule was tentative, it will be posted in the men's gymnasium when definite. All games, however, will be played on Thursdays and Fridays until the tournament is ended and it is expected that four games will be played each day on a round robin basis.

In addition to regulation basketball rules, the following regulations have been added by Coach Tom Wilson:

1. All members of each team must play in at least 50 per cent of each half in order to be eligible for an award. This includes substitutes.
2. Games played in 20 minute halves of straight running time with two time outs permitted each side per half.
3. Each team must be on the floor by 5:15 (or 4:15 if scheduled then) or forfeit will be declared.
4. There will be no switching of players from team to team after play starts.
5. Each team must start with at least five players, but if any member is disqualified he may reenter the game with the other team's permission.

To two leagues are:

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Team—	—Manager
Eagles	S. Handleman
Newman Club	B. Pearce
Banda	A. Clemente
Deli's Dandies	E. Del Carlo
Stanfel's Double Play	V. Pudlowski
Vagabonds	C. Bedwell
Demons	J. Sorenson
East Bay Boys	T. Summers
XGI Doggies	——

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Team—	—Manager
XGI Swabbies	——
Chinese Club	H. Huey
Redskins	D. Schiavone
Gung Ho	W. Fong
Phillips 77	Z. Brickman
Rovers	F. Helmick
Mustangs	D. Mahoney
The Portals	Cavendar
Borio B. C.	J. Snowden

Seeking to become largely self-supporting as far as food is concerned, Bennington college is producing food on 100 acres of farm land comprising part of the college property.

Baseball

Rams Tangle With Sacramento Nine In Loop Inaugural

Coach Bill Fischer has announced a series of practice baseball games to get his team in shape for the opening game of the season against Sacramento this Saturday, March 23, in San Francisco, the diamond to be announced later.

This afternoon, the Rams will meet the Alameda Naval Air Station team at Alameda. Tomorrow afternoon they will cross bats with Sacred Heart High School on the Ocean View diamond.

On Tuesday afternoon, March 26, the Ram nine will play George Washington High School at Ocean View.

A return game against S. F. State is slated for Big Rec on Thursday, March 28. The Rams will be out to avenge an earlier 9 to 4 defeat at the hands of the Gators, who have had the jinx on the Ram for the past 27 games.

On March 11, the Rams were beaten by a classy and hard-fighting Mission High team by the score of 6 to 1.

Coach Fischer is giving each man trying out for the team a fair chance to prove himself. The squad has been cut to 27 men and they are fighting hard for positions on the squad.

Ram Nine Downs S. I., Grosso Music Wins

Breaking into the win column, the Rams downed St. Ignatius, 8 to 4, on Thursday, March 14, but lost to the Grosso Music nine, 5 to 2, on Saturday.

The Wildcats gained a 2 to 0 lead in the first inning and increased it to 3 to 0 in the third, but the Rams unleashed their batting power to score six runs in the fifth frame.

The Rams scored two more in the seventh when McIntire got life on an error and Follini smashed a home run into left-center field.

Grosso Music brought in two runs in the first stanza to take a lead they never relinquished. The Rams closed the gap to 2 to 1 in the second inning double and scored on Don Keck's grounder.

Grosso scored two more runs in the fifth, but the Rams came back with a run in the sixth when Ches. Anderson singled and scored on an error.

Curtain Falls On Basketball

Above are the members of the 1945-46 basketball team that finished in third place this year. Two of the above players placed on The Guardsman All-Conference team. They are Earl Melnick and Frank Ratto.

Left to right, back row, are Melnick, Don Payne, Bill Kahn, Bob Payne, Roland Jones, and Richard Bleck; front row, Lou Follini, Al Munn, Don Melnick, George Koche, and Frisco Sartor.

Silver Pole, On The Hour

The daily turmoil which ensues on every floor at the end of every hour has driven Alex, the harassed cartoonist, to give his impression of the main obstacles to be encountered in finding his way from class to class. Woman students (at present outnumbered) may have a different impression of hallway trekking.

Two Students Chosen For Play Friday

Two drama students here at the college have been chosen for choice roles in the forthcoming production, Situation Out of Hand, which will open its five day run at the Veterans' Auditorium this Friday night, March 22. Proceeds of the play will be contributed to a veterans' rehabilitation fund.

They are Frank Harding and Peter Cerlanti. Harding, a World War II veteran who saw action in the Far East, will play Professor Atwater, whose daughters entangle him in a situation of spies and romances.

The role that Cerlanti will play is similar to the part he took in last semester's production of Squaring the Circle. He will take the role of Lancelot P. Archibald.

The play is a comedy full of many new laughs. It was written by Lee M. Uris, who also plays the role of Jimmy Collins, an ex-Marine. Uris, also a veteran, saw action in the South Pacific.

Others in the cast are Lavert Elkins, Kay Andrews, Brailey Brown, and Seemah Battat. The play will run March 22, 23, 25, 26, and 27 at the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium, located at Van Ness Avenue and McAllister Street. Tickets for all performances are now on sale at Sherman Clay.

Summer Resort Jobs Offered To Students

Students interested in working at resorts this summer should file an application this month, advised Joseph Amori, placement director.

Managers and resort owners will interview applicants during the first week of April in Room 169, where applicants should refrain from writing direct to managers or owners of the resorts as all hiring is done through credited agencies.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jana Doran

•Beta Phi Beta: Informal initiation was held last Saturday at Jim Avram's home in Redwood City. There will be a joint meeting with the Phi Beta Rho. Formal initiation will be held Saturday.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Bill Arnsburger announced his engagement in the traditional manner to Margaret Redmond at the last meeting.

•Golden Cleats: Election of new officers will be held at the next meeting. A farewell party was given for Rich Stanfeld and George Fabian, who left for the army last Monday.

•Pep Club: There will be an important meeting of the Pep Club tomorrow at 2 in the student lounge. All members are asked to attend as there will be election of officers.

•Delta Psi: The organization is planning a second rush affair and a spaggetti dinner for March 28. It will be given at the home of Sylvia Farber.

•Kappa Phi: The traditional box of candy was passed by Helen Sonas, announcing her engagement to Jack Smith, veteran of the U.S.N.

•Music Club: There will be a meeting Monday evening, March 25, at 7 o'clock in Room 200. Student programs will be discussed and refreshments will be served.

•Theta Tau: Under the direction of Millie Laube, vice president, the first rush affair of the season will be held at the home of Mabel Edwards this Sunday.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: Formal installation welcoming new members and aimuni will be held at the St. Francis Hotel March 29. Reservations must be in by this Friday.

LOST: A black and white pen with the name Jean Sanderson on it. Sentimental value. Reward offered.

A Walk And A Talk

Rubinchik Reveals Surprise Plans Of Symphony Forum Re College Talent

By Max Rubinchik

Max Rubinchik, student veteran and recently elected vice-chairman of the College Symphony Forum, says that, "Those students who are interested in promoting the worthy cause of good music should pay particular attention to the young composers who are now enrolled in the various colleges throughout the bay area.

"The time is ripe for a change in outlook, he stated. "Let's give them (the young composers) a kind hand, for they're the young blood of the art. The 'future finders' is what I like to call them, for in time they will mould, modify, and invent old and new methods of musical expression."

At thi point of the interview, Rubinchik and this reporter stepped off the bus and proceeded toward his house.

"The trouble is that you can't always recognize them (composers) when they pass," he smiled. "However, we of the Symphony Forum have evolved a little plan of our own. We like to think that is the answer to a composer's dream, but it's a secret, you know; still in its embryonic stage."

A sly gleam crept into his eyes.

"You know, my friend," he smiled, "have you ever thought about composers? I mean every once in a while have you ever thought about them. Just a tiny once in a while. They're a tragic lot, you know. So few of them ever get a half way decent chance of bringing their music before the public. Now, isn't that sad? Isn't that one of the saddest stories on earth?"

By this time we had reached the front steps of his house.

"We of the Symphony Forum cried a little when we discovered this tragedy, but then we decided to remedy it, and so we created a plan whereby the student composers of the bay area will have a chance to appear with Pierre Monteux on the Standard Symphony Hour. Now, isn't that wonderful! Immense Oh Jubilee!"

"I can't tell you any more," he said. "The plan is too new, but we of the Forum feel that it's going to work, and so in the meantime we hope, and whisper, and plan. Silence is the by-ward. Come, my friend."

We stepped into his house and were gone.

New AGS Officers Plan Dance, Aid To Vets

Off to a booming start at its first meeting of this semester, the college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, elected as new officers Gretchen Williams, president; Margaret Kay, vice-president, and Jean Maples, seeretary-treasurer, President Williams disclosed last week.

Miss Williams went on to say that plans were formulated for many varied activities this semester among which will be the sponsoring of a school dance.

April 3 Last Day To Drop A Course

Any student wishing to drop a course must do so not later than Wednesday, April 3, assistant registrar Mary Jane Learnard announced last week.

To drop a course, blue slips must be obtained from the registrar's office and signed by both the instructors involved and the student's adviser.

XGI Group Sponsors Dance Slated For March 29

War Memorial Scene Of Coming "Waddle"

By Jean Beard and Trev Barrow

Big event of the semester for the XGI Society will be a dance designated as the Ruptured Duck Waddle, to be held at the War Memorial Building, Van Ness and McAllister Streets, Friday, March 29, from 8 to 12 p.m.

Tickets will be on sale here this week for $1.25 per couple, and the dance will be semi-formal.

Five pairs of Nylons will be given as door prizes at the affair. Members of the faculty are invited to attend the dance as guests of the XGI Society, officers said.

The same band which played at the Emerald Hop last Friday night at the Fairmont Hotel has been engaged for this dance. Larry Pindar, student band manager, has promised that there will be no more than five 5-minute intermissions during the dance. Entertainment will be provided during intermissions.

Joe Gole, vice-president of the society and chairman of the dance committee stated, "From all indications, this dance will be the 'Waddle' of the semester."

At the meeting held last Friday, Mal Toff, athletic commissioner for the society, and Harold Garriott, manager of the basketball team, said that plans have been formulated for participation in intramural sports events.

Joe Sweet, president of the Associated Students, spoke before the society urging closer cooperation between the various organizations in the school and asking for the veterans' help in establishing a new school spirit.

Editor's note: Material appearing in this section has been written and prepared by students in English 14.

Beaucoup Digs Into Atomic Research

Physicist Bats Breeze On "How High Is Up?"

By Del Pichon

Nuclear physicists have been crowding the headlines recently, and it seems that every scientist has been engaged in atomic research. However, there are a few professors who have stuck to their original researches, not wishing to give up the years of fruitless labor. One of these men is Monsieur Merci Beaucoup, Ph. D. AB, CD and EF of the University of Sorbonne, Paris.

Monsieur Beaucoup, a graying man of 50, continued his researches in secret while the Germans occupied France and at last was successful in finding the exact answer to that age-old question, "How High Is Up?"

Professor Beaucoup was kind enough to explain how he had made the diseovery and, in fact, he proved his whole axiom (formerly a theorem); it is printed below, in the words of the professor:

"Up, is that state, which is diametrically opposed to Down. For a period some held that Up was Thisaway, others contended that it as Thataway, and a minority believed that it was over Yonder. All these contentions are false, for Up is Whichaway. People, for a short period, were confounding Up with Down; Down was Up and Up was Down, things were going Up and Down.

"Senator Bilbo of the United States Senate cleared the matter temporarily, by voicing a resolution: 'Let it be known that Down was in Dixie and not, as was previously reported, on reese.'

"But to continue, the distance between down and up is twice half the distance between Up and Down. We call this point Twixt or Between, whichever is preferred . . . I prefer Twixt!

"Taking the distance from Twixt to Down, for Up is the unknown factor, we multiply it ten thousand times by the square root of Pl .01 6 7/100, which gives us exactly what we have been looking for.

"Taking this number we divide by 16 to the 45th power, add 10 and then subtract 30; square it and we have the distance from Twixt to Down. Now, knowing that from Twixt to Down is that far and that from Up to Twixt is the same distance, we multiply by four; this gives us the distance from Down to Twixt to Up and a bit over. So we divide by two and there, gentiemen, is 'How high Up is'."

The gentiemen of the press were speechless, to say the least, but they rushed to their respective offices and immediately put this great discovery in print.

As the dignitaries departed, Professor Beaucoup retired to his laboratory to commence work on another enigmatical problem, "How Long is a Chinaman?"

Hell Is A Noun, But A Helluva Word To Use, Majority Of Present Day Students Aver

By William Riley

What is hell like? A person often wonders after hearing the wide variation of descriptions applied to the spot. Possibly a good portion of people who ask the question will find out first-hand. They are the ones who take the advice, "Go to Hell," seriously. Most people, however, prefer to rely on the imagination of others for their concept of the establishment.

The temperature comes under the observation first. An electric storage unit is as cold as hell, but yet a molding furnace is as hot as hell. Not confusing at all, is it? Consider the climate conditions; it rains like hell, and it is dry as hell, it snows like hell, and the sun shines like hell. From these statements one can gather a very concise idea of the climate.

How are living conditions down there? Well, it's crowded as hell, and there's a hell of a lot of room. It's a pretty safe bet to imagine the establishment being crowded, however, for there have been quite a few applications in the past few years.

Seriously speaking, it seems about time that the profuse user of the word hell limit his use to the way it was meant to be used. And according to Mr. Webster, the word is a noun. There is absolutely no mention of the adjective heil whatsoever.

One or two things are fairly sure, however. Hell is a hell of a place.

Veteran Counsellor's Room Numbers Listed

By John Chames

In an effort to present a clearer picture to veterans on the administrative offices for their benefits, the following is the setup:

Richard Dettering, in Room 149, is the representative of the Veterans' Administration at the college. Dettering handles rehabilitation of veteran students on Public Law 16. He also answers questions in regards to benefits, payments, and letters of eligibilities on the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Claude T. Silva and his staff have their office in Room 155 and are here to help veterans on letter of eligibility, book requisitions and any other affairs pertaining to the college.

Also under Silva's direction are the counsellors in Room 142. These counsellors are Mrs. Alice Castro, Fred Kelley, William Ogle, and Adolph Stoll.

Aviation

Reservist Programs Stressed By Navy

By Kenneth Ford

Of special interest to discharged naval aviators, ground officers, and enlisted personnel of aviation rates, is the organization known as the Naval Air Reserve Training Program.

Lieutenant Commander E. V. Davidson, Reserve Training, public information officer at the Livermore Naval Air Station, states in a recent letter that the purpose of the Reserve Training Program is to maintain a well organized, well trained Naval Reserve able to join the fleet with the minimum of training in an emergency and that the Air Reserve will be divided into the ready and standby reserves.

Members of the ready reserve will attend weekly drill periods, which will include flying and ground training, and will spend a two week tour of duty at sea aboard carriers or in multi-engine aircraft of the reserve fleet. The ready reserve will be paid for the time that they devote to the Navy during this period.

Members of the standby reserve will not be required to attend weekly meetings, and consequently will receive no pay.

Until the start of the fiscal year, in July, 1946, no reservist will receive pay for any time that he may give to the Navy. Between now and July, however, reservists may, on a voluntary non-payment basis, fly naval aircraft from the Naval Air Station at Livermore, California.

For those who wish further information on the reserve program, letters or cards may be addressed to Commanding Officer, U. S. Naval Air Sation, Livermore, California.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1946 No. 5

Social

War Memorial Site Of XGI Society Waddle This Friday

Five, count 'em, five pair of nylons will be given as door prizes to five lucky women (one pair to each) at the XGI's forthcoming dance, the Ruptured Duck Waddle, which is to be held from 8 to 12 p.m. this Friday, March 29, in the main auditorium of the War Memorial Building, Van Ness and McAllister Streets.

The publicity committee, aided by several students of the commercial art class, has posters scattered throughout the building to remind all students that they are invited to the dance.

Tickets for the affair are on sale now, and those who haven't purchased one yet are advised to do so immediately as the supply is limited. The price is $1.25 a couple.

The dance is informal instead of semi-formal, as was reported last week. This means short dresses for women, business suits for men.

Glen Roland announced the addition of one baritone sax to his band, making a total of 14 instruments and one vocalist, Larry Pindar, band manager, said:

"The band will have no trouble with acoustics as they did at the Emerald Hop, because the War Memorial auditorium is much larger than the Gold Room and the stage is more conveniently situated."

Al Zadig, committee member, declared that it was almost impossible to obtain enough soft drinks to serve as refreshments at the dance, but that his refreshment committee will have enough on hand "if we have to make our own."

"Be careful, Al," Tom Dean, XGI president, warned. "Remember, soft drinks only."

All-Time High Reached With 3,297 Enrollment

Indicating a gradual return of prewar enrollment strength in the number of students currently attending the college, the registrar's office has announced that a new all-time high of 3,297 students are now registered this semester.

Of the current registration total, the men, 2,144 of them having enrolled thus far, far outdistance the women's registration, which stands at 1,153.

"Because of the vast numbers of ex-servicemen returning to the campus, the spring registration is far in advance of the figure we had, at one time, predicted," Dr. J. Paul Mohr, college registrar, explained.

The largest single class is the first semester men's class, which has a total of 1,205 registrants which, in itself, is a figure far in excess of the total number of women students for all four classes.

A registration bulletin break-down follows:

Semester in college	Men	Women
First	1,205	339
Second	525	433
Third	181	149
Fourth	233	232
Totals	2,144	1,153
Total new students:
Men		1,488
Women		373

At the same time, Mohr warned all students that next Wednesday is the last day to change a program, that is either drop a course, add one, or both.

(For a complete picture of the registration of veterans at the college, turn to page four.)

Parking

Council Big Wheels To Fine Campus Violators In Lieu Of Tire Deflation

By Marge Wheatly

It was a day of lament. Those doing the moaning were members of the Student Counell.

The subject undergoing rigorous denial by the mental powers was the decree by Dean Edward E. Sandys in anticipation of approval by the Supreme Beings, that the air would be let out of the tires of illegally parked cars. Needless to say, the council did not approve.

Sinee this authoritative body of the college has been exposed to all campus financial worries during budget time, their first thoughts ran, or rather galloped, along the money line: The way to punishment, according to them, is through the almighty dollar.

So saying, the New Order was passed. Those who park their cars on the drive in front of the college, or on the north and south ramps of the building, will see said possession towed away and the owner charged for the towing, the council voted. Tough stuff for law-breakers.

For the benefit of those who cannot read, the no-parking signs will be supplemented with red paint on the curbs. As yet the council has found no remedy for those who cannot read or are color-blind.

Clubs

Second Organizational Meet Of Term Allotted To College Hour, Friday 10:45

The college hour, this Friday at 10:45 a.m., has been reserved for the second organization meeting of this semester, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, said last week.

Thirty clubs will have until 11:30 a.m. to meet as groups in their assigned rooms.

Permanent room assignments are as follows:

Alpha Delta Epsilon, Room 160; Alpha Gamma Sigma, 205; Alpha Lambda Chi, 211; Alpha Theta Epsilon, 158; Beta Phi Beta, 111; Beta Tau, 254; Bible Study, 312; Block SF and Golden Cleats, 194; Club Advisory Board, 257; Chinese Students' Club, 258; Cosmopolitan Club, 113; Delta Psi, 206; Drama Club, 310; Engineering, 37; Forum, 215.

Kappa Alpha Sigma, 347; Kappa Phi, 142; Music Club, 200; Newman Club, 212; Phi Beta Rho, 190; Physical Education and Recreation Majors, 255; Pick and Hammer Club, 45; Pi Mu Gamma, 204; Symphony Forum, 208; Theta Tau, 191; Trl Epsilon, 132; Women's Athletic Association, 140; Women's Service Society, 193; XGI, Student Lounge.

The schedule for the remaining coiege hours this semester is as follows:

April 5, President's Lecture series; April 12, Rally; April 26, Rally; May 3, President's Lecture; May 10, Club Meetings; May 17, Rally; May 24, Club Meetings; May 31, President's Lecture; June 3, Rally.

Hancock Edges Dean In College Debate Finals

Winner by a close margin in the annual Hearst oratorical preliminary contest last week was Vietor Hancock, who received six votes for first choice and two votes for second place, Lloyd Luckmann, debate coaeh, revealed last week.

Runner-up was Thomas Dean with five votes for first piace and two votes for second place. Others participating in the contest to select one student to represent the college in the forthcoming college oratorical finals contest to be held on Friday, April 5, at the University of San Francisco, were Joseph C. Goie, James W. Meyer, Richard J. Mann, Morris Grodsky, Larry D. Pindar, and Robert Guilfoyle.

The topic of the orations is Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States.

The names of both Hanecck and Dean will be submitted for the finals.

Yosemite, Tahoe Job Applications Due Now

Students who file applications by Monday, April 15, in Room 169 for summer resort jobs in Yosemite National Park will be interviewed the following week, according to Joseph Amori, placement director.

Interviews will be held for positions in Lake Tahoe resorts the first week of April, he said, and those interested must file an application by the end of this week.

Although students file an application, he pointed out, selection rests with the personnel managers and owners of the resorts, who will conduct the interviews.

15 Students Named For Thunder Rock Casts

Two casts for presentation this semester of Robert Audrey's Thunder Rock are now complete, Ruth Somers, drama instructor, disclosed last week.

Casts include Richard Cumming, Gordon Feil, Fred Hammer, Donald Gerber, Philip Markinson, John McDonough, Thomas Panajes, William Riley, Belton Wolf, Patricia Desmond, Donna Duffield, Marie Simons, Linda Fisher, Barbara Stephen and Geraldine White.

Counseling

1 O'Clock Classes To Be Dismissed As Students, Advisers Meet Tomorrow To File Courses, First Midterm Grades

Altering the procedure followed in the distribution of grades last semester, students will be informed of their grades for each midterm period this semester by their subject instructor, at the close of the midterm periods, and will then file the grades with their faculty advisers, F. Grant Marsh, head counselor, announced last week.

All classes will be dismissed tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock to enable students to meet with their advisers and make out complete lists of their courses and the grades they received.

Since the first midterm period ended last Friday, instructors have been distributing grades this week by indieating the grades upon some type of homework or examination which is returned to the students.

Advisers will be located in the following rooms for tomorrow's meetings:

Cecil Aggeier, 211; Alfred P. Agosti, 100; Richard Allman, 160; Arthur Austin, 178; Flossita Badger, 200; Louis Berman, 312; John Booher, 233; Julio Bortolazzo, 150.

Alice Castro, 136; Claire Cuneo, 158; Edwin Cranston, 208; Jennet Durst, 136; Thomas Dutcher, 311; William Eckert, 347; Jeanie Eklof, 136; Miriam Escher, 215; Margaret Flourney, 303; Jules Fraden, 193; Arthur Furst, 194.

Thomas Gaffney, 113; Ruth Gavin, 300; John Gerstung, 132; Virginia Gohn, 222; George Green, 140; John Hare, 310; Rex Harris, 344; James Hughes, 254; James Jensen, 191; Mildred Jensen, 302; Edward Larson, 207; William C. Marsh, 212; William Mayo, 190; Dorothy Mercer, 356; Joan Museio, 111.

Harry Nelson, 405; Glenn Noble, 205; William Ogle, 133; Robert Parker, 206; Milton Polissar, 257; Thomas Porter, 204; John Ross, 256; Jane Scribner, 323; John Selig, 255; Claude Shull, 309; Llewellyn Snyder, 213; Adolph Stoll, 133; Stephen Tomer, 258; Hilda Watson, 107; and Nelson Wells, 335.

Administration

Quonset Construction Begins On Judson Area

Plans to obtain Homaja Huts from San Bruno have been changed and arrangements have now been made to get the slightly smaller quonset huts from Camp Shoemaker in order to advance the beginning of construction on the campus project, Dean Edward E. Sandys announced last week.

The architect began placing stakes last Monday for the location of the huts and "actual placement of the 'quonsets' should begin in two weeks," Dean Sandys said.

Though slightly smaller than the originally planned Homajas, the quonset huts will contain the same number of rooms, including living room-dining room combined, two small bedrooms, kitchenette and bath, plus all necessary furniture with stove, ice box and hot running water.

This project is one of many in an effort to curb the increasing housing shortage in the Bay Area. Said Eneas Kane, Secretary to Mayor Lapham, in conjunetion with the housing shortage:

"There's no use kidding persons wanting shelter. There's practically no housing available and they might as well know the truth about it."

The mayor, meantime, has authorized the San Francisco Housing Authority as the city's agent for procurement of Federal and State funds and surplus housing structures to be converted into dwellings for veterans and their families.

Officers, Deans In Dance Receiving Line

New to regular college dances is the reception line which may well come to be a college tradition. At the Emerald Hop season opener, Joe Sweet, Associated Student president, headed the line at the left above, assisted by Carol Hayland, vice-president and Social Committee chairmen; Nancy Cunningham, Associated Women Student president; Kent Bowker, Sophomore Class president who is nearly hidden by an unidentified student; Dean Margaret Dougherty, Social Committee sponsor; Dean Edward E. Sandys, and physics instructor Al Agosti. Observers report that the face peering into the camera at the far left was noticeably more cheerful in a matter of seconds.

—Photo by Career

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 5 Wednesday, March 27, 1946 Page 2

Examinations

Are Finals Necessary?

AMONG widely diversified groups of students, such as the more intelligent, the lazier, the wishful thinkers, and others not so easily classified, there has been expressed from time to time, the hope that final examinations at the end of each semester would be abandoned.

Discussion has centered around the possibility of holding, instead, perhaps informal one hour examinations, or even substituting for mid-terms and finals, a system of weekly or monthly short quizzes.

What is generally agreed upon, is that the total number of examinations cannot be reduced, but under the present system of three gruelling exams per semester, a student's grade is pretty well established by the first two. Finals, as they are now conducted, are mainly a test of endurance for the students, and can be of real value only to those whose first two grades are not satisfactory, and may possibly thereby be pulled up by a three hour feat.

That some instructors share the views expressed by the different groups of students, is borne out by the fact, that in certain cases, when a student has for some good reason been unable to take a final examination, he has not always been required by his instructor to take a "final," but on the basis of his two previous exams, and other work, has been given a final grade.

The fairness of the present system, is debatable, but undoubtedly, if it did not have some advantages, it would not be followed. Nevertheless, it can scarcely be gainsaid that by it students receive only the minimum benefit from their courses. The practice of cramming has been refined to the point of almost being a science, but how many students could take the same exams one month later, and achieve the same grade?

Surely instructors like to feel that their classes as a whole and individually have actually gained something from their courses, and must realize the shortcomings of the present system.

Were the whole question to be thrashed out between representative groups of students and faculty in an impartial and utilitarian manner, it is possible that a more satisfactory method of grade distribution could be devised. P.S.

Time Is Now To Heed Cafe Rules

SEMESTER after semester it becomes necessary to go through the old rigmarole again about the violation of cafeteria rules. Sad to say, this measure is for the benefit, not only of the new students, but also of the old students who have heard this song before and should know better by now.

Signs are posted in the cafeteria begging, pleading, even commanding patrons to bus their own dishes, but to no avail. Bottles and dishes still grace the tables long after their users have departed.

Racks have been provided to hold books, but books are still strewn all over the tables, chairs, and floor, cluttering the cafeteria more than it is already.

Even the occasional appeals over the loud speaker, by overworked Hotel Division students, are cheerfully ignored.

If the cafeteria is to continue running efficiently with its extra load this semester, this has to stop, and, to coin a phrase, "The Time is now." C.G.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gannon ..... Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavanor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catsello ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor

REPORTERS: Dell Bain, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Peter Carlantti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Ralph Hansen, Lulu Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams, Alex Apostolides.

Staff Photographers ..... Carl B. Carver, Don Lum
Joan Nourse Mustelo ..... Faculty Adviser

—Linoleum by Laura Chatelain, Adv. Art Department

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Tongue Twisters That Out-Befuddle; Woodsaws Would Saw Wood

A CURRENT variation of the time-honored problem of how much wood a wood chuck could chuck if a wood chuck could chuck wood has recently been puzzling the more intellectually inclined hereabouts.

It is a little ditty plundered from the battered pages of a much-read copy of the Women's Home Companion. However, if the I. Q. of the reader is lower than 150, there is hardly any reason to strain whatever gray matter exists; it is a problem to out-befuddle the most befuddled "A" student in philosophy.

"In fact, of all the wood-saws Wood ever saw saw Wood never saw a wood-saw that would saw wood as the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood would saw wood, and I never saw a wood-saw that would saw as the wood-saw Wood saw would saw until I saw saw Wood saw wood with the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood.

"Now Wood saws wood with the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood.

"Oh, the wood the wood-saw Wood saw would saw!

"Oh, the wood Wood's woodshed would shed when Wood would saw wood with the wood-saw Wood saw saw wood!

"Finally, no man may ever know how much wood the wood-saw Wood saw would saw, if the wood-saw Wood saw would saw all the wood the wood-saw Wood saw would saw."

After attempting to mouth that clever anecdote, and after painting your raw and gashed tongue with peroxide to prevent the infiltration of any bugs which might be prowling about, here's a suggestion proferred by Dance Magazine which is guaranteed to leave you speechless.

"Purse the lips in the whistling position, then relax their edges to spread them out like a flower, and at the same time lift the mouth until it actually bumps against the nose and meanwhile try to smile."

Since the present contingent of readers is composed of geniuses only (they having long ago outstripped those with lower mentalities), an intellectual conclusion may well be drawn regarding such examples of literary exposition such as the foregoing.

What more may be said than that it must be this atomic age in which we are existing which is affecting our train of thought!

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

AS THE paper goes to press many fans will probably be sick in bed or down at the old Golden Gate getting very knocked out by the one and only Frankie Sinatra, who in the past five years has developed into an American custom or a tradition like a hotdog or swing music. Mr. S. has been ridiculed, studied by psychiatrists with a complete going over, but it cannot be denied that the Voice really has something.

No one really knows what it is that he has, but he continually puts, not only the young bobbie soxers in the clouds, but a great portion of the listening world. People as a whole do like Sinatra and will continue to like him. There has been quite an amount of controversy over Bing Crosby and The Voice. This has been senseless with no basis for an argument. It has never been discussed by legitimate critics whether John Charles Thomas or Paul Robeson had the better voice or sounded greater. Each has a different type of voice and is appreciated by all. Such is the case of Crosby and Sinatra.

From a technical standpoint, Frankie has wonderful control, terrific voice quality, excellent range and fine audience presence. He has created a style of singing of popular ballads that has yet to be excelled. Many people have accused him of not being any good because of his physical characteristics and other very trivial arguments. This issue could be carried on, but it is not the general perception that a singer needs to look like a pug to sing and give his public the entertainment and enjoyment they want. Sinatra has given many people hours of enjoyment by his singing, and that is the code of all musicians, actors and entertainers.

• • • •

The King Cole Trio was heard on a one night stand at the Oakland Auditorium March 12. Nat Cole, singer and pianist of the trio, has also shown his marvelous creative ability in his song styles. Cole is one of the finest artists of today. His very cool voice styles have been acclaimed by the public over and again. There is nothing much to say about the Trio except "Oh, it's soO fine." Cole is supported by two very terrific musicians in Johnny Miller, bassist, and Oscar Moore, who is the number one guitarist of the nation, according to the Esquire jazz poll.

Stephen

RAMifications

SPRING (according to the calendar, that is) is here, mid-terms are over, and Joe College can sit back, relax, and laugh.

The usual weighty subjects so diligently rehashed in this space are temporary set aside (undoubtedly through lack of ambition, due deliberation, and other degenerating factors which the writer has often underrated in previous occasions), and the universal language of the laugh will herein be discussed.

Shakespeare once said, "Laugh and the world laughs with you, cry and you cry alone." You say you like salt in your beer?

Webster's definition of that intangible emotion is, "To show mirth, satisfaction, or derision, by an expression of the face and explosive or chuckling sounds from the throat." He then proceeds to elucidate further in seven more lines of fine type just exactly how to execute this intricate phenomenon.

But neither Webster nor Shakespeare have, to present information on hand, found a solution to a violent case of giggles in church or in the classroom. That remains for psychologists to analyze and solve. The question is, can they do it?

All this is beside the point, however. (Are there voices in the audience saying "What point?")

There are many different causes for laughs and many different variations of laughs. There is, for example, the man who slips on the banana peel. Maybe he doesn't laugh, but ten to one his fellow observer will split his sides.

Then, again, there's the infernal situation of the character who wakes up in the middle of the night to let out a heartfelt bellylaugh that can be heard for nigh on three blocks. The next morning the OPA calls up, and his eviction notice is filed. This is really too bad, since the house he's living in is the last one lacking captivity.

The above-mentioned variations on a laugh are simple, and indubitably well known to all.

The world is not yet lost, for in the midst of tension of tight diplomatic relations, men can still laugh.

Then, too, there is the editor of this noble enterprise, who enjoys nothing more than a hearty laugh while drowsing in the bathtub.

Let the message for this be to all earnest students: Live, relax, and laugh (laugh, that is.)

Cumming

After Dark

THE whole question of Hollywood's advertising raises a thousand cries., Undoubtedly, it is the cheapest, the most misleading, and the silliest trash ever to cause ink to be printed on paper. Of course, American advertising as a whole is not without blemish, as Philip Wylie points out so clearly in his masterful book, Generation of Vipers, but Hollywood per usual, takes the cake.

Pick up any movie sheet, and you will see the most incredible statements possible—What They Wanted . . . They Dare Take!; "The love story that will live with you today—tomorrow—and forever!"; "Slashing his way to your heart!"; and the prize of all, "Gable's Back and Garson's Got Him!" The thing is that all these little gems of wisdom, or what have you, all paint an entirely different picture of what goes on than what actually happens. One has to wonder just how many people they fool.

• • • •

One Monday night at the Opera House, a small woman came out on the stage, opened her mouth, and sang. In five minutes she had the audience at her feet. This was Jennie Tourel, who was making her first appearance in San Francisco to an unfortunately small audience. She is one of the most beautiful women appearing these days on the concert stage, and has one of the most magnificent mezzo-sporano voices that could ever be heard. Let us hope that her first appearance will by no means be anywhere like her last.

• • • •

The Voice of the Turtle has recently opened at the Geary Theater and is doing very fine business. The present cast includes K.T. Stevens and Hugh Marlowe, who was here three years ago in Gertrude Lawrence's Lady in the Dark. This play is taking over the place held for three months by Joe E. Brown's Harvey, which is one of the cleverest plays that is going around. Anyone who missed Harvey missed an excellent show and a most entertaining evening.

• • • •

The other evening, for reasons still obscure to me, I went to see another of those very painful extravaganzas. This one was Yolanda and the Thief, and had Fred Astaire cavorting around as a particularly troublesome juvenile. About half way through I started thinking of a friend who does a remarkable imitation of a chocolate soda. All in all, she is much more entertaining.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 5 WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1946 Page 3

Rams Tackle Mateans In Two Events

Baseball

Game With Gators Tomorrow Previews Twin Bill Saturday

Unimpressed by last week's dual win against the formidable Sacramento Panthers, the Rams will be out for blood and virtual mayhem when they meet an invading San Mateo Junior College nine in a twin bill at Harrison Field, this Saturday, March 30.

The first game will get under way at 12:30 p.m.

Both squads, as shown by recent practice games, have been experimenting with combinations in an effort to find a regular starting lineup. Bill Collins or George Koche will hurl the opener for the Fischermen, opposing either Bill Murphy or Johnny Marcus.

In an effort to overcome an early season defeat, the Rams will meet San Francisco State tomorrow at Big Rec, the starting time set at 3 p.m. Both the locals and the San Mateans have succumbed to the high-flying Gators by a 9 to 4 and 8 to 4 count, respectively.

RAMS DUMP SACS, 7-0, 5-4

With Bill Collins hurling a three hit shutout in the opener and George Koche spreading five hits in the nightcap, the Ram nine took a double-header from Sacramento by scores of 7 to 0, and 5 to 4 Saturday at Harrison Field.

Ralph McIntire led the local offensive, collecting four singles and a triple in seven trips to the plate.

Because of scholastic difficulties, there is a strong possibility that George Homsey and Pitcher Bill Dials may be "declared ineligible for NCJCC play," informed observers revealed this week.

The recent loss of Richie Stanfel, ex-Commerce High School standby, provides a problem of no mean standing. At the moment, Rog Ranuio has been doing a very exceptional job at the hot corner, and will more than likely start in the Mateo fracas.

The probable starting lineup for both the Rams and Bulldogs follows:

San Francisco	Pos.	San Mateo
Cain	c	Sibold
Collins	p	Marcus
McIntyre	1b	Doyle
Galvin	2b	Arey
Ranulo	3b	Nomellini
McNamara	ss	Richards
Anderson	lf	Verna
Ratto	cf	West
Sabatini	rf	Jones

Bofinger, Ranuio Lead Ram Batting Averages

With both men lashing out with four base hits in their six trips to the plate, Ted Bofinger and Rog Ranuio stepped off to an early lead in the Ram batting picture, pacing the locals with a .667 average for the first five games played this season.

Pitchers George Koche and Eddie Allemande have posted one win apiece to lead the mound corps.

Unofficial batting averages:

Player—	AB.	H.	AVE.
Bofinger	6	4	.667
Ranulo	6	4	.667
Follini	2	1	.500
Cane	5	2	.400
Keck	12	4	.333
McNamara	6	2	.333
Castro	10	3	.300
Koche	8	2	.250
Allemande	4	1	.250
Sabatini	10	2	.200
Anderson	12	2	.167
Galvin	7	1	.149
Homsey	7	1	.149
Markell	7	1	.149
McIntire	8	1	.125
Regusa	9	1	.111
Grant	4	0	.000
Collins	2	0	.000
Brabbit	1	0	.000
Ratto	1	0	.000

Unofficial pitching records:

Pitcher—	Won	Lost	Pct.
Koche	1	0	1.000
Allemande	1	1	.500
Collins	0	1	.000
Brabbit	0	1	.000

Helen Crlenkovich To Make Pro Swim Debut

Helen Crlenkovich Morgan, who formerly majored in physical education here at the college, last week turned professional, thus ending her amateur status, which in the years past have won for her nine AAU diving championships.

The one-time Fairmont Plunge star will begin a road show tour on April 3, in San Antonio, Tex., starring in an "aquatic extravaganza" called Rhapsody In Swim Time.

Despite a three year layoff, the former Mission High School graduate regained her two springboard diving titles last year in Los Angeles.

Varsity Tennis Starts With Sign-ups Today

Varsity tennis sign-ups will begin today at noon, in the men's gymnasium, it was announced yesterday by Tom Wilson, who shyly indicated that "tennis matches are in the offing provided a sufficient number of men sign up."

Following a meeting of the various Northern California Junior College Conference coaches, it was suggested that as a finale to the season's dual meets, three players from each college enter the loop finals in Sacramento during the first week in May.

Tentative meets have been "unofficially scheduled" with Menlo, Sacramento, Modesto, San Francisco State, Santa Clara, and various high schools in the Bay Region.

Sign-ups will continue starting today and lasting throughout Wednesday, April 3. Should a satisfactory number of men sign up, it was learned that varsity practice would begin immediately at Balboa Court.

—Photo by Lum

Marilouise Matthews

Ping Pong Champ Upsets Ratings

By Staten Webster

Up-to-now men ping pong players around the college have been rated as follows: those who could beat any woman student, no matter how poor a ping pong player she was, were average; those who could defeat some of their male opponents were rated good; and those who could defeat 95 per cent of their opponents were rated excellent.

As the use of the atomic bomb has antiquated previous methods of warfare, so has the advent of a certain co-ed into ping pong circles changed this system of rating the ability of players.

Some of the previously high-ranking male aces now find themselves in the same situation as the "outcasts" of India, without a definite classification.

For, according to the policy of male superiority, which is the belief of almost all men, how can a man rate himself, when a woman, a timid, weak female, defeats him at his own game?

Known around the student lounge as the "Belle Starr" of ping pong, she is none other than Marilouise Matthews, a newcomer to the college. Known by her most intimate friends as "Bubbles," she stands five feet, eight inches tall.

She attended high school in Oakland, California, and is a physical education major here at the college. After leaving the college she hopes to continue her studies at either San Francisco or San Jose State College.

Her hobbies are reading and sports. She works at the U.S.O. in Oakland and has been playing ping pong daily for one and a half years. While playing here at the college she has only lost one contest to another woman student, and this was a very close game played in the time between passing from class to class.

Her pet-peeve is baseball players, especially those of the All-City variety.

Intra Softball Team Signup Starts Tomorrow

All organizations interested in playing intramural softball are requested by Tom Wilson, intramural sports director, to sign up their teams between noon tomorrow and Wednesday, April 3.

All application blanks must be submitted to the men's gymnasium to either Wilson or Manager Al Garrett.

Each team must have at least ten men per squad in order to be eligible, and it was further pointed out that points will be added to the grand trophy award for all teams entering.

Track

Cindermen Travel South For Bulldog Meet Saturday

The red and white clad cindermen of the college will tackle the San Mateo Junior College Bulldogs in their first conference meet of the year this Saturday, March 30, at Burlingame, on the Burlingame High School track.

The meet is scheduled to start at 10:45.

Little is known about the Mateans, but the meet should prove to be one of great interest. The lineup for the Rams is not definite, as Coach Jim Jensen is unable to name his starters until the results of the intramural track meet, which was held yesterday, after rain postponed it, and the State meet can be compared.

The San Mateo signup, according to events, is as follows:

100-220—Bob McClure, Wilfred Hedspeth, Louis Vanini, Ed Zoppi, and Joe Oeschger.

440—Bill Komig, Joe Oeschger.

880—Bill Kilborn and Joe Oeschger.

Mile—Ed Gould, Rich Gustofson, George Bartlett.

Hurdles—Ed Henninger, Denny Main, Bob Morton, Jack Grady, Walt Antoniazzi, and Jim Brennam.

High Jump—Dick Miller and Bob Morton.

Pole Vault—Walter Antoniazzi.

Broad Jump — Wilfred Hedspeth, Odo Camerotto, Dan Sagehorn, and Louis Vanini.

Shot—Ken Bogle, Jack Dyer, and Odo Camerotto.

Discus—Walter Antoniazzi.

State Bests Rams

Sparked by Sprinter Ken Fox's double win in the century and 220-yard dash, the San Francisco State Gators bested the Jim Jensen-coached Ram tracksters, 72 to 64, last Saturday, at Ingleside Stadium, in a three way meet that found Marin Junior College accounting for but 13 points.

Leo Jackson notched a double win for the Rams, copping the high jump and broad jump.

WAA Membership Increases 30 Per Cent

That the total membership in the Women's Athletic Association would be increased now that first quarter examinations are completed, was affirmed this week by Bertha Mae Keller, WAA adviser. The current membership now stands at 165, a 30 per cent increase over the first week's signup.

All WAA clubs are meeting once a week and the schedule adopted is as follows:

Monday, softball at 3; tennis and volleyball at 3:45.

Tuesday, dancing, 8:15; bowling, 3; basketball, 3:45.

Wednesday, riding, 3:30; badminton, 3:45.

Thursday, fencing at 4.

Friday, swimming, 2 to 4, at YWCA pool.

The official status of fencing will remain undetermined until an instructor can be secured, Miss Keller added.

Play Day Soon

Entering an atmosphere of pre-war college days, arrangements are being made to send 12 WAA badminton players to the Play Day at San Mateo Junior College next month in response to their recent invitation. Officers of the local WAA hope to extend a return invitation to San Mateo for a basketball, badminton, and volleyball play day at this campus late in April.

Intramural

Banda Cagers Loom As Title Favorites In National League

The Banda cage quintet has been installed as odds-on-favorites to cop the intramural basketball tourney in the National League, as the local casaba carnival goes into its second week of play.

Paced by diminutive Benny Lau, one-time Lowell High School performer, and Bob Buchanan, late of the Borlo Athletic Club, the Banda Club has speed and finesse that may be hard to beat.

Because of scholastic schedules and whatnot, several of the teams in both loops have been forced to default their games, as witness the first round of play when four defaults were posted.

In one of the lone contests last week, the Redskins toppled the Warriors, 28 to 24, in an American loop opener.

The following games have been scheduled in the American League to be played tomorrow, in the men's gymnasium:

3:15 P. M.
Rovers vs. Portals.
XGI Swabbies vs. Borlo B. C.
4:15 P. M.
Chinese Club vs. Phillips "77."
Redskins vs. Hoots.

The National League Schedule is as follows:

3:15 P. M.
Demons vs. Gung Ho.
Vagabonds vs. East Bay Boys.
Eagles vs. XGI Doggies.
4:15 P. M.
Newman Club vs. Stanfel's Double Play.
Banda vs. Del's Dandies.

To eliminate the possibility of too many defaults, it is now possible to play a previously defaulted game provided both teams agree to the proposal, and provided it is played before the next regularly scheduled game, Tom Wilson, intramural director, declared.

It is requested that teams wishing to comply with the tourney's newest compliance contact either Wilson or Al Garrett, in the men's gymnasium.

In the other sports events lined up for this semester, table tennis, with 23 entrants thus far, seems to be the most favorable, with horseshoes, tennis, basketball free throwing, and swimming receiving limited attention.

Long Beach Football Series Inaugurated

Negotiations inaugurating a home and home gridiron series between the college and Long Beach City College have been officially approved, it was disclosed this week by John Brady, assistant dean of men.

The first game will be played in San Francisco with the 1947 fracas scheduled for Long Beach.

Contractural agreement on the resumption of play between the college and Los Angeles City College has not yet been reached, Brady asserted.

"The main difficulty lies in the fact that Los Angeles has not found a playing field suited to their needs. Both teams have an open date on November 2, but the whole matter is still pending," he added.

Should Los Angeles approve the contract, it will mark the resumption of football between the two colleges for the first time since 1941, when the southerners, paced by Jackie Fellows, overpowered the Rams, 14 to 0, at Seals Stadium.

First April Week Features Fashion Show, Pep Club Sponsored Bonfire Rally, Dance

Fashion Show

The success or failure of a Fashion Show scheduled for next Wednesday, April 3, at 10:45 a.m., tentatively scheduled in the WAVE auditorium, will determine whether or not this event will become a semi-annual occurrence, Pat McDonald, organizer and supervisor of the show, announced last week.

The models, selected from the women who attended the Barn Dance last semester, will display clothes from the Betty Francis Shop on Stockton Street. Nerice Fugate from House of Charm will be the commentator.

Highlights of the show is expected to be in the general form of a "drawing." Some men wearing X-GI buttons will be picked among the spectators and awarded a date with a model for dinner at Restaurant Lombard, Miss McDonald said, urging those eligible to wear their discharge buttons.

Bonfire Rally

Carrying out the theme of A Hot Time In The Old Town Tonight, the Pep Club will present its first undertaking of the semester Friday night, April 5, in the way of a Bonfire Rally and dance, Gwen Slovenko, who is handling publicity for the affair, disclosed last week.

Big event of the evening, under the auspices of the college, will be a band-judging contest. All high school bands of the city were invited to compete against each other. The four top bands will be placed in semi-finals, and a trophy will be presented to the winner, Miss Slovenko added.

A sports dance in the men's gymnasium following the rally will continue from 9 to 11:30 p.m. The dance will be stag, with admission by student card, and sports clothes will be worn.

Decorations for the affair will carry out the theme, under the management of Betty Howard, and food and refreshments will be provided by a committee headed by Betty Allen.

Ernie Poggi and Earl Lawrence were assigned the task of providing wood and amplifying equipment for the evening, Miss Slovenko added.

Talent Bureau Hears 5; Auditions Continue

At the first meeting of the Talent Bureau last Thursday, five students were added to the roster of members who can be called on to perform at college functions as well as special performances off the campus.

The five new members include two dancers, Sophie Daniels and June Hollett; one monologuist, Beverly Arnold; one singer of Spanish songs, Gloria Orzadco, and one crooner, Gordon Jackson.

These five were chosen at the audition which was presided over by bureau members Flossita Badger, Madison Devlin, Jack Brady, of the faculty, and Beatrice Caldwell, student members.

Further auditions will be held this Friday at 2 o'clock in Room 200. Brady emphasized that any student interested in trying out, who is unable to attend the regular audition, should see any member of the committee and arrange to have an audition at some other time.

Poetry Contributions Asked For Forum Mag.

Leading into selection of material for the spring annual publication of Forum Magazine, editors this week requested students interested to submit poems anonymously to the next meeting of the Forum Club, Saturday, April 16, at 1641 Jackson Street, where the discussion will be, Is This Poetry?

The Forum Club has since its inception sponsored Forum Magazine, while, however, literally having no voice in its publication. Many of its discussions have led to material published, editors say.

Forum Magazine, the Associated Students' official literary publication, is edited this year by Helen Ringius. Deadline for material, she warned, is April 29.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williems
And Jane Doren

•Alpha Lambda Chi: There will be a business meeting tonight at the home of Doris Doran, 1507 13th Avenue, Oakland. The second rush affair will take place this Sunday, at the home of Joyce Zachariah, 2917 24th Avenue, San Francisco.

•Kappa Phi: The traditional Chinese dinner will be the second rush affair to be held this Sunday at the home of Evelyn Stewart.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: The Tri E held a joint meeting with the Phi Beta Rho last Friday night.

•Beta Phi Beta: There will be a business meeting April 1. New members are, Dick Amorde, Bill Huston, Ray Webb, Pat Polleck, Art Frazier, Lou Luna, Ray Horton, and Johnny Didio. Formal initiation was held last Saturday night.

•Kappa Alpha Sigma: The organization held an installation dinner at Robert's at the Beach on March 14. Newly elected officers are Jackie Wells, president; Gloria Pease and Syd Winchester, vice presidents; Anita Kruer, secretary; Wilma Rafferty, treasurer; Nina Saharoff, historian; and Alex Apostolides, CAB representative.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: There will be a meeting Friday in Room 158.

•Pick and Hammer: The field trip to Mount Hamilton will take place this Friday at 3 o'clock. Members who plan on going should place their names with Marge Whearty or George Green, club adviser. Cars are needed for the outing.

•Phi Beta Rho: Gloria Antenuci, alumnus, will become the bride of Carl Dubose, Ensign, U.S.M.S., on April 7.

•Newman Club: A meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, April 2, 8 p.m., at St. Emydius Hall. Clipper Smith, head football coach for University of San Francisco, will be the guest speaker. There will also be football pictures, folk and square dancing and refreshments.

•Pi Mu Gamma: A business meeting is scheduled for Sunday, March 31, 2 o'clock, at 27 Urbano Drive. Take the K car to the El Rey Theater and walk down Victoria Street one block to Urbano Drive.

•Theta Tau: Plans are being formulated for the second rush affair to be held on Wednesday evening, April 3, at the home of Maggie Rogers.

X-GI Society officers, who have led organization for the dance scheduled Friday night, March 29, at the Veterans Auditorium, settle final details. Above left to right they are, standing, George Beckman, secretary; Harry Archer, treasurer; seated Joe Gole, vice-president and social chairman; and Tom Dean, president.

Hotel Dept. Personnel Rotated In Cafeteria

Posts in the Hotel Division were rotated last week in accordance with division administration, Larry Wong, instructor, revealed recently. Student manager is Wolfgang Muder, recently discharged from the military service, and former headwaiter at Jonathon's Club in Los Angeles.

Assistant to Muder is John Marks, recently from the Army, and formerly from San Joaquin Valley.

Manager of the breakfast crew is Mrs. Olga Holl, with Michael Dolan as assistant manager.

Sartor Leads Frosh; Hayland Heads CAB

Action of President Joe Sweet and the Student Council last week placed Frisco Sartor in command of the Freshman Class as president. Sartor carries on the control vacated by Bill Smith last week.

Since many members withdrew to join the armed forces, the Rally Committee was increased with the appointments of Jerry Ackey, Marlyan Wissing, Bob Caravana, Francis Harrington and Donna Davis by Rally Commissioner Earl Lawrence, with the approval of the Student Council.

Carol Hayland was named president of the Club Advisory Board at a meeting of that body last week.

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

Question Of Week: Someone Sang?

By Patricia Desmond

"The Question Of The Week."

On March 15, 1946, the news leaked out. It spread like wildfire throughout the city.

No one was supposed to have known, but somehow, someone had sung. The local police were informed that no longer was the news a secret—and so with extreme care, plans were laid for the handling of any outbursts.

Hospitals were notified to be on call for extra patients, everyone who was anyone was worried — nervous. The outcome of the strategic planning was to be tested in less than six days. Now the time had come. D-Day as far as the leaders were concerned was to be March 18.

At dawn of D-Day, a dark, rainy morning, the time was at hand. All the past week the question had been uppermost in the minds of the multitude.

Not—would we go to war with Russia within the hour?; not—should we lend four billion to Great Britain?; not—should we change our foreign policy in the Orient?

No, something far more serious was on the minds and lips and in the hearts of the thousands. The question of the week was, "Are you going to see Frank Sinatra?"

Veterans

Record Of Benefit Eligibility Advised

The Veterans Administration and California Veterans Welfare Board recently advised ex-service persons to establish their eligibility for loans and educational benefits even if they do not contemplate early use of the Federal and State aids. In doing this the veteran is assigned a case history which will expedite future action on future benefits.

Forms to establish eligibility (California veterans only) may be procured in person or by mail from offices at 417 Montgomery Street. A notarized or photostatic copy of discharge papers must accompany the application. Original discharge papers may be used as primary certification of eligibility for G.I. Bill of Rights. This action will speed up processing for subsistence allowance of veterans attending college.

In applying for a certificate of eligibility, V. A. asks that veterans send or bring to its offices at 49 Fourth Street the original discharge papers. It will take about 20 days to process and indorse them.

Veterans Swell Enrollment High By 1360

Veteran enrollment at the college reached a total of 1306, last week, 15 of this number being women, according to Claud T. Silva, head of the veterans administration at the college.

Of the total registered, 837 have already filed letters of eligibility for benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights. The rest are filing at the rate of 20 a day.

Thirty-five are attending under Public Law 16, the Rehabilitation Bill. These are veterans who incurred a disability while in the service. Twenty-five more are attending under the State Veterans Welfare Bill, and three are under the State Department Rehabilitation Bill.

The Story Of A Bearer In India

"Lincoln" Believed Americans A Race Of Supermen

By George LaJeunesse

Following British Army custom, we were assigned "bearers," or personal servants, on our arrival in India. On the face of this it looked a little rich for American blood, but democracy in action was yet to be reckoned with, and it turned out more the other way. Who benefitted more, the servant or master, is hard to say.

Preparations for the first bombing mission kept everyone fully occupied, so several weeks passed before we got a good look at the bearer drawn for the barracks. Up until this time he had answered to "Hey, you," and bustled about in his own work.

We discovered to our surprise that he could speak good English, although in a funny tone that combined British and Hindustani accents. His Americanization started from that point on, someone named him "Lincoln," and he began living up to it, in the manner of self-education at least.

"SALAAM, LINCOLN" WAS GREETING

He was painfully shy at first, but soon began to pick out favorites whom he sought out for the endless questions he had stored away. He would timidly approach the bed of one of the men and quietly stand there until noticed. We recognized his shyness by now and would put him at ease with "Salaam, Lincoln." This was always his needed cue to start the interview.

We could see something was troubling him, and it came to light one day when he appeared before one of the men for another of his daily talks. Lincoln was carrying a magazine this day, and could hardly contain himself.

"Tell me of this wonderful American Superman," he would request, his eyes sparkling more fire than the hot sun outdoors. Several of the men had noticed him earlier in the morning on the barracks porch. He had been poring through a copy of Action Comics, with all the attentiveness of a lawyer reading difficult legal passage. He seemed every bit as perturbed over what he had read.

SUPERMAN INDEED POWERFUL

In all seriousness the men would assure Lincoln that the "pukka sahib, Superman," was indeed a powerful force in American life. It was quite true that this Wonder Man leaped nimbly over the highest of buildings, raced speeding locomotives, and dashed to and fro across the continent as a shining symbol of justice.

During each afternoon siesta Lincoln would be bombarded with tales of this amazing American. Day by day they would mount in fantasy until Lincoln hardly knew where to turn. As if in living proof of these stories, B-29 Superfortresses from the nearby field would roar low over the thatched roof of the barracks. Lincoln would gaze skyward at these mighty bombers until he was bursting with pride over the accomplishments of his new masters.

In due time, however, Lincoln learned to separate fact from fancy to a degree, and then our education began. He was a Christian, probably the best one among us, and had been tutored for some time by an American missionary in the little village of Purulia, near the airbase. Lincoln was a bachelor, about 25 years old, and by now a respected man in his community because he was in the employ of the "American sahibs."

HUMOR WAS PURE, SIMPLE

He had a pure and simple sense of humor and would tolerate none of the rough language commonly used among men. When someone attempted to teach him choice slang phrases he would change the subject quickly by asking more of his many questions and flashing large grins of appreciation when anyone took the time to enlighten him.

Because of the tactical situation we had to leave India and move to the Pacific. As glad as we were to get away from the heat and misery of the Orient there were many of us on Tinian who remembered fondly the faithful little bearer who sincerely believed us all a race of "Supermen."

But not in the sense of physical strength alone; we like to think he admired us as true friends and ones who understood the serious problems confronting him and his unfortunate neighbors.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1946 No. 6

Quack Doctor Guest Of College

Photo by Kemp

By Kenneth Ford

Arriving by police escort and private car, Dr. Donald R. Anatidias, world famous waddle specialist, was welcomed as guest of the college on March 26.

A greeting committee and large crowd of students gathered as the eminent doctor stepped from his car and viewed the college for the first time. His eyes rested momentarily on the motto that tops the college columns, before he gravely ascended the stairs.

Escorted by XGI Vice-President Joe Gole, Dr. Anatidias was then introduced to Edward E. Sandys, dean of men. Perhaps the dean had expected something entirely different, for after viewing Dr. Anatidias, he was quite overcome.

An honorary Press Club membership card was then presented to the Doctor by a member of The Guardsman staff, followed by a tour of the college.

Dr. Anatidias, espying the many posters in the hall advertising the XGI Society Dance held Friday night, stated, "That dance looks as if it would be rather entertaining. There should be more of that sort of thing in the post-war college of America. Not only from the point of good-fellowship, but merely to have a good laugh. People should laugh more."

When asked about the prospect of war with Russia, Dr. Anatidias' eyes flashed steel grey as he said, "Ah—nuts!" (Probably the most intelligent observation made on the present situation to date.)

A symbol of many things in America today, the crowds of students noticed a remarkable thing. The doctor had started to waddle! As the car drove off, a loud and resounding "quack!" was heard.

Then everyone declared that Dr. Anatidias was a duck.

Ed.'s Note: In the picture above are XGI Society "promoters," Jack "W. W." Bemas, Trev Burrow, Tom Dean, Dick Mann, and Joe Gole interviewing Dr. Anatidias.

College Hour

Nobel Prize Winner To Speak On Atomic Age Friday, 10:45

Second of the President's Lectures featuring speakers from various academic departments on subjects of current interest will feature Dr. Harold C. Urey, Nobel Prize winner, this Friday, April 5, during the College Hour at 10:45 p.m. in the men's gymnasium. Lloyd Luckmann, director of the President's Lectures, announced last week.

Dr. Urey, a graduate of the University of California, will speak on the Implications of Atomic Energy. As the foremost leader of the Federation of American Scientists, he has come to San Francisco to speak on the Atomic Age at the Civic Auditorium the evening of April 5. Students wishing to attend the downtown lecture may obtain tickets for the event through the chemistry department for 50 cents.

The main purpose of these lectures, Luckmann explained, is to bring outstanding speakers to the campus to talk on topics of national interest. The first of these lectures on World Government, which was a huge success, showed that the students of today are vitally concerned with the world around them. Whether this is true because of the increased maturity of the students is not known, but one thing is evident, and that is the decided turn from adolescent dreams to adult interest in present day happenings.

Dr. Urey is well suited to speak on the subject of Atomic Energy as his research in this field has brought him worldwide acclaim.

Rally

Bonfire Rally In Men's Gymnasium Set For Friday Night; Four Bands, Singers From High Schools To Make Appearance

Final plans for A-Hot-Time-In-The-Old-Town-Tonight bonfire rally and dance to be held in the men's gymnasium Friday night by the Pep Club are now under way, Gwen Slovenko, publicity chairman for the affair, announced last week.

Competing against each other for the four top places, bands from eight of the city's high schools will provide the music for dancing in the men's gymnasium, following the rally, Earl Lawrence, rally commissioner, stated.

Bands, Singers Chosen

The four top bands and four singers will be chosen by members of the faculty, probably from the music department, for the final competition. Each of the four winners will play at one of the following four rallies, and the final winners will be presented with trophies, Lawrence said.

Invitations have been sent to all city high schools for their bands to enter the competition.

The dance, which will be stag, will continue from 9 to 11:30 p. m., admission by Associated Student card. Sports clothes will be worn.

Nothing Will Stop Rally

The task of supplying firewood for the bonfire and amplifying equipment for the evening has been assigned to Lawrence and Ernie Poggi, Miss Slovenko added.

This bonfire rally will be the first of its kind to be given in several semesters. Plans were made last semester to revive the practice, but circumstances prevented their being carried out. Lawrence stressed that such would not be the case this time, and that the rally would proceed according to schedule, come rain, shine or snow.

Registrar

College Annexes Part Of Excelsior School

By James Riggs

Enrollment this week of more than 200 veterans in the first off-campus classes since August, 1940, was announced last Wednesday by Claude A. Silva, veterans' administrator at the college. The new branch, under the supervision of Fred Kelly, occupies space on two floors of the Excelsior Elementary School building at Excelsior and London Streets.

Reminiscent of the scattered classrooms of 1935-40, the new branch is necessary to accommodate the large number of returning veterans and late registrations, Silva said. Provision has been made for another registration of students for this additional space on Monday, April 22.

Under the separate full-time faculty of nine, students may take any courses normally offered at the college. Because of the acceleration necessary to complete a semester's work in the remaining thirteen weeks, however, units of work have been limited to a maximum of twelve. Under this set-up, a three unit course may require from five to seven hours of class work weekly. Students registering next month will be limited to six units.

The 200 veterans now enrolled, of whom six are women, will have laboratory classes in the main building, thus marking the return of commuting, familiar prior to 1940.

Housing Applications Still Being Accepted

While only 50 quonset huts will be located on the campus, 79 married veterans have signed up for them and applications are still being accepted, Dean Edward E. Sandys stated last week.

Regardless of the number of applicants, only 50 huts will be available, but "some of the applicants may not want the huts by the time they are completed," Sandys added.

The stakes have been placed for the hut locations but the date construction will begin is not yet known.

The quonsets, being provided to ease the housing shortage, will provide ample room for veterans and their families with combined living-dining rooms, two small bedrooms, bath, kitchenette which includes stove, ice box, hot running water, and all necessary furniture.

Mardi Gras Freshman Dance Slated May 4

Mardi Gras will be the theme of the freshman dance, which will be held on the night of May 24, Frisco Sartor, president of the freshman class, disclosed.

Plans are now being formulated to have the dance as a masquerade in traditional Mardi Gras fashion, but if students do not wish to come in costume they will not be required to do so.

The Social Committee is working along with Sartor to have all the clubs in the college participate. Sartor's idea is to have every club put up a different type of booth.

The location for the dance is, as yet, not definite, but it will soon be announced.

Student Card Required For Copy of Guardsman

Because of the limited quantity of The Guardsman, distribution will be made only upon presentation of an Associated Student card, according to the statement made by Associated Student officer last week.

Increased enrollment but not 100 per cent Associated Student membership necessitates limiting the paper to those who are members of the Associated Students, as the rule in the handbook specifies.

This policy, which began with the last edition, is felt by student officers to be fairer and more efficient for all concerned.

Forum Editorial Staff Increased By Five

New assistant editors of the Forum Magazine are Jeffrey Burress, Paul Cane, James Helmer, Gwendolyn Slovenko, and Mary Zito, according to Helen Ringuis, editor of the magazine.

Contributions for the magazine may be submitted to the new assistant editors, besides the editor; art editors, Fred Mayer, or George Albertus; or the Forum Magazine sponsors, Dorothy Mereer, John Gerstung, or John Ross, before April 29.

Fashion Show, Freshman Hop Schedule Revamped

Two major changes in the social calendar were made last week when the dates for the Freshman Dance and the Fashion Show were moved ahead.

Frisco Sartor, president of the Freshman Class, announced that the date for the dance has been moved from April 12 to May 24.

Pat McDonald, who is in charge of the Fashion Show, said this event has been postponed until May 10.

Dean Replaces Hancock In Oratorical Finals

Last minute events have made it necessary for Thomas Dean to replace Victor Hancock as the college representative in the forthcoming oratorical finals to be held at the University of San Francisco this Friday, April 5, at 7:30 p.m., Lloyd Luckmann, debate instructor, revealed last week.

There are three divisions in the Andrew Jackson Oratorical Contest which divide the junior high schools, the high schools, and the colleges. The winner of the first two divisions is allowed to compete in the college finals for the Bay Area championship.

The finalist will be sent east for the final national contest to determine the best orator among the schools and colleges of the United States. Besides the prizes to be won, the students will receive the experience of both travel and debate. Every year this oratorical contest is given a new subject and this year the theme is Andrew Jackson, Seventh President Of The United States.

UC Scientist To Speak At Geology Meeting

Topping its activities for this month, the Pick and Hammer Club will have Dr. Ruben Stirton, head of the Paleontology Department of the University of California, as guest speaker at the home of George Green, adviser, 170 Lunado Court, Marge Whearty, president of the club, announced last week.

Date for the field trip to Mount Hamilton is April 12, postponing previous plans because of the weather.

Members who plan to attend are asked to sign up with Miss Whearty or Green.

Graduation Ceremonies Approved For June 21

Tentative arrangements were made last week to hold commencement exercises this year in the WAVE Auditorium at 7:45 p.m. on Friday, June 21.

"With the Navy and sophomore class willing," said Dean Edward E. Sandys, "the graduation will be held on that date." President Archibald J. Cloud has also made a statement to the effect that the prospective plans for commencement have the official stamp of approval.

Speaker for the exercises will be Charles E. Morris, District Supervisor of Schools and President of San Mateo Junior College.

Members of the commencement committee, in addition to Dean Sandys, are Margaret Dougherty, dean of women; Oscar Anderson, controller; John J. Brady, assistant dean of men; Laurine Bergen, hygiene and physical education instructor; and Thomas Wilson, intramural basketball coach. Chairman of the committee is Dean Sandys.

Previous to present arrangements, Dean Sandys had attempted to secure Sigmund Stern Grove for the graduation; however, the grove had already been leased on that date.

Veterans who have made up all their credits for high school will be given diplomas then.

1433 Students Receive Smallpox Vaccination

By Pat French

Vaccinations against Small Pox at the college reached a total of 1,433 students vaccinated last week, according to Assistant Dean of Men John Brady.

Dr. Thomas Jones of the Public Health Department, assigned to the college, was responsible for inoculating approximately 800 students with small pox vaccine the first day and finishing up the job on Thursday with 633 students waiting in line, sleeves rolled up, to get their "shot."

One of the faculty was thoughtfully on hand to do a professional "disinfectant swabbing," on each of the students while Dr. Jones unsheathed an instrument—not unlike a needle—and went to it to puncture a good number of "lefts" and a few "rights" on this Pasteur field day.

Students were noted to have risen to the occasion admirably. No faintings were recorded (for publication), no precptible turning of color or coat. In fact, dry throats and clamy hands were on the down swing from those encountered during the final examination period.

While a patriotic glow spread over all those encountering the serum, the remaining "slackers" in the Associated Student group resolved to "go down to the Public Health Building and have it done come Saturday."

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1941 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 6 Wednesday, April 3, 1946 Page 2

Traffic

Loitering Deplored

INCREASED enrollment at the college accounts in part for the exceedingly heavy traffic in the halls, especially between classes. However, a factor not to be minimized in the least is, that much of the jam and confusion, and subsequent delay in reaching classes, is due to both men and women loiterers.

Out of consideration for the rest of the Associated Students, those among them with whom time lies heavily, and who congregate in large numbers all along the corridors, and especially by the Silver Pole, should endeavor to find other more suitable and spacious places at which to exchange important news items.

No change from the conditions now prevalent is foreseen, except that those students of slow and stately gait may ultimately find themselves trampled underfoot.

However, a plea is made, and that is that some place other than the Silver Pole be designated as the number one rendezvous. With the advent of Spring, and the tentative promise of fair weather, perhaps the Flag Pole could take the place of the Silver Pole.

P.S.

Parking Space Is Inadequate

SEVERAL threats against students who violate college parking rules have been made this semester; but so far, nothing concrete has been done. The first measure offered, that of deflating the tires of the offenders' cars, was vetoed by the Student Council in favor of towing the cars away at the expense of the owners.

Since no immediate construction, except for the Homaja Huts, has been planned for the newly acquired grounds adjacent to the present campus, perhaps some of that land could be leveled off and used for a parking lot. With the expansion of the college, adequate parking facilities will be necessary, so why not start preparing for that now. As long as the parking space is inadequate, students will park their cars on the ramps and upper circle despite any threats or drastic measures taken.

C.G.

Smallpox

An epidemic of smallpox along the West Coast has led the local Public Health authorities to extend more fully their vaccination activities, and have been readily taken advantage of by the general public.

To ensure safety to all, especially to students, vaccination has been conducted at various schools throughout the city, and for two days, at the college.

Approximately 1500 students here profited by the opportunity offered them last week, and they, together with all the veterans (who have all been recently vaccinated) constitute roughly two-thirds of the total enrollment.

Although the epidemic has by no means reached alarming proportions, it is wise to take suitable precautions, especially if they are made exceptionally convenient. Now is the time for the remaining third of the Associated Students to attend to their vaccination against smallpox at the Emergency Hospital.

P.S.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gannon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheahy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavanor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bain, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Peter Cerlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia Franch, Ralph Hansan, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogen, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Stefan Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams.
Staff Photographers ..... Carl B. Cerver, Don Lum
Joan Nourse Muscio ..... Faculty Adviser

There IS No Parking Time

—Linoleum by Laura Chatelain, Adv. Art Department

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Roses And Epidemics, Or Is There Any Kleenex In The House?

THE days are getting longer, soon the rose gardens will be in full bloom, and students, as well as human beings, are recovering from the various and sundry maladies which are peculiar to this season of the year.

There have been rumors that many epidemic which attack at about this time (besides the omnipresent communicable diseases such as measles, mumps and leprosy) are causing a great deal of discomfort these balmy days.

One of the strangest of all has recently been classified by science as physioneuschisopathy. Indiscriminately attacking both the young and the old, the rich and the poor, it is well that this plague be discussed and its symptoms brought out into the open at this time, in hopes that a solution to the problem may be reached.

No remedy has as yet been found that will quickly cure this blight, and a number of poor unfortunates in our midsts have been suddenly stricken in the past few weeks. Although they are not as yet confined to their sanctuaries because of it, the distracted manner which they universally assume, usually prompts casual acquaintances and mere passersby to loudly exclaim that they should be.

Only last week one victim, a charming young thing wandered about the campus carting a bouquet of the State weed, and, as she tripped lightly hither, offered a faintly wilted blossom to anyone whom her fancy chose as a fitting recipient.

Another gruesome example of the last stages of physioneuschisopathy was the bleary-eyed gentleman who stood leaning against the Silver Pole and making feeble attempts to produce an adequate wolf-whistle every time a pair of saddle shoes walked past. Authorities are at present dragging Balboa Lake for the body.

Other evidences of the affliction are extreme absent-mindedness, a glazed appearance of the eyes, and a general feeling of lethargy all over the body.

Students observing any of these symptoms in themselves are urged to immediately take a leave of absence from college, find a large leafy tree with soft grass and moss beneath it, and sit there, either alone or with company, until the disease is cured. Work of any kind is considered fatal to sufferers.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

THE BAY AREA has been virtually stormed with good musical entertainment in the last few weeks—Sinatra at the Gate, Harry James and the King Cole Trio at the Oakland Auditorium. All of these entertainers have been received with open arms and very large box office returns. There is, however, one thing that swing fans should know. Here in San Francisco there are some of the finest musicians in the United States.

At the Back Stage, Howard McGee has been engaged for some length of time. McGee is head man and trumpeter of a very fine combo. His style is very much like that of the famed Dizzy Gillespie. McGee, like Gillespie, is very radical in musical ideas. He will be very enjoyable to ardent swing followers, but to the average person his music will be somewhat difficult to listen to and digest. The two mentioned are very advanced in their ideas but are nevertheless fine men. Gillespie is to modern swing as Stravinski is to legitimate music. McGee is following very closely to Dizz but excels in very fine ideas of his own.

At the Dawn Club, Lou Waters has been engaged for an indefinite length of time. Waters is just the opposite in creation from McGee. His style has been enjoyed by many before the war and is being greeted with the same accord as before. All of Waters' music is the old two beat jazz that is the mother of our modern swing. This listening of course is all personal taste like anything else. Jazz, and what Waters plays is real jazz, is something that in many ways is extremely difficult to play—not from a technical standpoint, but a highly polished and rehearsed organization is required, or the music is very sad and muddled.

One thing that should be mentioned at this point is the difference between jazz and swing. The common layman will often be heard calling swing, jazz. Jazz is the forerunner to swing. It is a two beat style of music that is basically rhythm. Swing is the modern music of today and covers a vast range of ideas and interpretation. Jazz is oftimes called Dixieland or Rickytick. Listening to McGee and Waters would straighten these ideas.

Stephen

RAMifications

THERE is a city in Tennessee which is internationally known for its enormous part in winning the war. The city is Oak Ridge, the hidden city wherein the atomic bomb was developed.

Oak Ridge is a model town. There is absolutely no juvenile delinquency. The young people are too interested in what is going on in the world and what effect present social, economic, and political crises will have on their future lives.

Their high school is a model high school, stressing cooperation between students and faculty, and producing young citizens who not only think for themselves, but are urging every American citizen to do likewise.

Their plea to civilization is a worthy one. They are fully aware of the atomic bomb and its ultimate effect on civilization: They realize if it is not controlled, and soon, that their families will not be safe from its dastardly destruction.

And so, the students of Oak Ridge High School have an organization which they have named Youth Council On The Atomic Crisis. It was originally a strictly local affair, advocating study of the atomic bomb and atomic energy to the end that it will be used for peace and peace only.

In the Christmas Message of 1945, which appeared in Oak Leaf, the school paper, the YCAC stressed their ideas to Modern Youth. This message is a masterpiece in the English language and has since appeared in countless newspapers, periodicals, and has been read on the radio. The publicity has been tremendous for this group, and now they are reaping their rewards in nationwide interest, admiration, and respect. What they want, however, is to show their elders that we, the Youth of America, not only can think, but we do think. And they earnestly wish that every American take his stand on the use of atomic energy in peace.

The boxes on the front page of the Oak Leaf carry the following message concerning the A-bomb which are quotes from James G. Stanby, Secretary of Oak Ridge Scientists: "There is no secret." "There is no defense." "There must be world control." And another from Dr. Morrison: "Q. 'Is there a defense against the A-bomb?' Ans. 'Peace!'"

The awareness of youth to the vital problems of today is being noted by every serious adult today. In a very complete discussion of the atomic bomb in the February 19th issue of the Oak Leaf appeared this quotation from a letter by Robert St. John, commentator and author:

"In hundreds of lectures which have taken me from coast to coast and border to border, I find that my most receptive audiences—the listeners who will give me thought for thought eagerly, intelligently and exploratively—are the students of this country. Our hope lies in them."

Cumming

After Dark

COLONEL WILDE is with us again. This time he is the son of Robin Hood and cavorts around a technicolor California countryside, rescuing queens and boy kings from ignominious downfalls, discovering gorgeous blondes, killing wicked regents and making quite a nuisance of himself all around. All in all, however, the picture is vaguely entertaining, certainly not very heady, but rather good fun.

• • • • •

We seem to have a habit of catching pictures on the rebound, but Blithe Spirit is worth catching any time. It is one of the subtlest and most amusing pictures currently doing the rounds. It is a British movie and is an excellent contribution for the English vs. Hollywood argument. It has to do with a successful author, who, in trying to get material for a mystery story, brings back the ghost of his first wife to the general consternation of his second. To spoil the story for any who haven't seen the show as yet would not be right, but the movie is recommended Grade AAA entertainment for all.

• • • • •

Frankie, "The Voice," has just sped through our town for a week's engagement, and now may we wish him God's speed on his way. Though Mr. Sinatra's talents may be questionable, his following is unquestionable. One has to wonder at the state of affairs that causes hordes of silly adolescents to make fools of themselves. What kind of homes allow their daughters to go down and stand in front of a theater at three in the morning—to either be rounded in by the police or to sit in there all day listening to a crooner?

True, his voice is somewhat pleasant, but his sense of pitch is questionable, and his sense of tempo is nil. Is it mob hysteria? One has to wonder why these "little women" have to seek solace through the animations of "The Voice" in a country where decent art not only abounds but runs rampant. The whole affair is rather deplorable.

University of North Carolina's college of war training has the same relative position in the university as any other academic school.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 6 WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3, 1946 Page 3

RAMblings . .

By Bob Catudio

WHEN Jack Brady pulled off his battered sweat shirt in lieu of a svelte pin-striped Bond's special, he left the men's physical education department—and thus, he relinquished in favor of Bill Fischer "his adept conception of phrasing the English language."

We cornered the slightly perplexed Fischer in his modest gymnasium headquarters and, evading the curious optic stabs of Jack Gaddy and Lee Elsan, the genial gentleman from Moraga began.

THESE COACHING WOES

"It's a mighty tough racket. This coaching, I mean. Take this baseball practice problem. All right, on Monday, three infielders are missing because of classes, and so on through Friday. When Saturday comes around, it's like starting a infield of comparative strangers."

We listen in rapt attention.

"I'm having my ups and downs this year, believe me! One day, we could probably go out and lick the pants off Cal, and tomorrow, we could possibly (but improbably) be set back on our pins by Girls' High."

JENSEN BEFUDDLED

Accordingly, the local baseball impresario pounded a huge fist on a desk and pursed his lips in defiant determination. To show how versatile he was, he even offered Jim Jensen one of those 1942 vintage, chocolate-brown neckties, to which the startled Jensen to this moment is muttering:

"Aw, Bill, I couldn't just take it from you."

So thus it was that we encountered Dean Brady's erstwhile successor, a hard-working guy who this year moved up a notch from his one-time boudoir at Van Ness and Fell Streets.

TENNIS DISTRESSING

Tom Wilson, who is neck high into the pile of papers that comprise the current intramural program, evoked a rather amusing rejoinder the other day.

"You know, we've never had so darn many entries for intramural basketball, and the defaults are accumulating right and left."

So Wilson, further alleviating the pain of silence, went on. His distraught concern for the forthcoming varsity tennis campaign drew the sympathizing support of but 11 racketeers.

KELLOGG FOR TRACK

Thus far, the seasonal allotment for varsity tennis is $100, an amount that could hardly stand a living chance at the Miami, Fla., Tennis Club.

Wilson has been eyeing Tom Kellogg, one of Jensen's best bets in the half mile run, to which Kellogg has confided:

"I've already talked with Wilson about spring tennis, but I don't know. I'll stick it out with Jensen's squad. Heck, I feel absolutely tired."

And to add a terse reminder, It could be pointed out that way back in 1942, the Rams swept their way to an NCJCC title—and seeded number five on the local menu was the same tired Mr. Kellogg.

Table Tennis Matches Threatened By Deadline

The deadline for first round matches in the intramural table tennis tournament has been set for Friday, April 12, it was disclosed yesterday by Tom Wilson, intramural director.

Thirty-four men have already signified their intentions of competing in the tourney, which necessitates the "early deadline."

All matches will be played in the observatory, and it was indicated that "intramural competitors will have first priority on the tables."

Spring Time Hopefuls Cavort

Some of Coach Jim Jensen's crop of current hopefuls. (In upper left), C. E. Anderson, discus tosser; (In upper right), Finish of the century with (left to right), Dick Brown, Pete Murray, Jack O'Connor, Pat McMillan, and first place winner Bob Caredio. (In lower left), First lap of the quarter mile, George Albertus leading with eventual winner Tom Kellogg close behind. (Lower right), Weightman Bill Behr.

Photo by Lum

Baseball

Rams To Travel For Crucial Double Bill With Modesto Bucs

Journeying south this Saturday, April 6, on their first road trip of the campaign, Bill Fischer's high-flying Rams will meet the Modesto Junior College Bucs in a crucial two game series.

Starting time for the first game is 12:30 p.m.

Threatening skies and wet grounds forced postponement of the NCJCC baseball encounter between the college and San Mateo Junior College, thereby necessitating the game to be "tagged on" to the tail end of both clubs' schedules.

The locals, still experimenting, will be up against unknown quality when they face the Pirates. In their loop inaugural, the Bucs were edged out in both ends of a twin bill by San Mateo, 7 to 6, and 5 to 4.

Bill Collins, bespectacled right-hander, as shown by his mound efforts against Sacramento two weeks ago, will more than likely oppose Charley Hickok in the opener.

If called upon, freshman Bobby Lee, who can play the infield as well as the outer garden, may toe the slab in the finale against George Koche.

In meeting the Modestoans, the locals will be up against last season's championship squad. Noticeably weak in the outfield, the Bucs will present a strong infield and a well-balanced hurling corps.

Tentative lineup

San Francisco Pos.	Modesto
Collins ..... P	Hickok
Homsey C	Hyduke
McIntire 1B	Pepelis
Galvin 2B	Healey
Ranulo 3B	Lee
McNamara ..... SS	Souza
Keck ..... LF	Nelson
Sabatini ..... CF	Nomi
Ratto ..... RF	Reilly

Crlenkovich Stars In Road Show Aqua Ballet

Helen Crlenkovich Morgan, one-time student who majored in physical education, makes her long-awaited professional swimming debut tonight in San Antonio, Tex., as the star of an "aquatic ballet," Rhapsody in Swimtime.

XGI Swabbies Dominate Balboa Track Festival

Paced by C. E. "Swede" Anderson, weight man, the XGI Swabbies dominated the Intramural track meet held at Balboa Field. Tied for high scoring honors were Bob Coredio and Tom Kellogg. Anderson copped a first place in the shotput and the discus, while Coredio took firsts in the 100 and 220.

An interesting note was the "1-2-3 finish of the 100 and 220."

The summary

100 yard dash—Won by Coredio; second, McMillan; third, O'Connor. Time—:11 flat.

220 yard dash—Won by Coredio; secopd, McMillan; third, O'Connor. Time—:24.2.

440 yard dash—Won by Kellogg; second, Albertus; third, Folger. Time—:57 flat.

880 yard run—Won by Kellogg; second, Roscelli; third, Goldenberg. Time—2:15.

Shotput—Won by Anderson; second DeMerritt; third Bahr. Distance—40 feet, 2½ inches.

Discus—Won by Anderson; second, Drake; third, Bahr. Distance — 110 feet.

Broadjump—Won by Goldenberg and Bahr, tie; third, McMillan. Distance—16 feet, 9 inches.

Intramural

Lau-Buchanan And Company Continue To Top National League Cage Standings

Hampered by scholastic schedules which have forced the postponement and default of games, the intramural basketball tournament trudges wearily into its third round of competition.

Experience thus far has been the telling trade mark stamped upon its rivals by the Banda quintet—top combo in the circuit—which is in undisputed possession of first place in the National League.

The Bill Lau-Bob Buchanan outfit has yet to meet its equal, which may account for its early tourney superiority.

Open Race

In the American League, the race is wide open, with the Chinese Club, Portals, Warriors, Hoots, Redskins, and Rovers still trying for first place.

Elsewhere in the intramural set-up, first round matches in table tennis have been given "a deadline date," it was announced yesterday by Tom Wilson, tournament director.

The deadline for intramural softball entries is noon today. Ten or more men are needed for each squad, and the total team points allotted the winner will be added to the individual or grand total for all tournament leagues this semester, Wilson pointed out.

Rain A Problem

Rain has halted most of the outdoor contests, such as horseshoes and tennis. Despite the seeming fixity in signing-up for some of the sports, the sport "will be held despite the number of entrants involved."

The following games have been scheduled in the National League to be played tomorrow in the men's gymnasium

3:15 P.M.

East Bay Boys vs. Gung Ho.
XGI Doggies vs. Demons.
Stanfel's Double Play vs. Vagabonds.

4:15 P.M.

Del's Dandies vs. Eagles.
Haymakers vs. Banda.

(The Haymakers have been substituted for the Newman Club in the National League.)

American League games for Friday, April 5, are as follows:

3:15 P.M.

Borlo B. C. vs. Mustangs.
Phillips' "77" vs. Rovers.
Portals vs. Bye.

4:15 P.M.

XGI Swabbies vs. Hoots.
Chinese Club vs. Redskins.

All men interested in playing badminton, touchtackle football, and volleyball are requested by Wilson to sign up in the men's gymnasium starting today, because signups will be open for two weeks.

McIntyre, Galvin Pace Fischer Bat Offensive

Hard-hitting Ralph McIntire and peppery Tom Galvin, heretofore stymied by an early season slump, climbed aboard the entire Sacramento mound corps to pace the local offensive with a .714 and .500 batting average, respectively.

Unofficial NCJCC batting averages:

Player—	AB	R	H	AVE.
Sabatini	2	1	2	1.000
McIntire	7	3	5	.714
Galvin	8	1	4	.500
Ranulo	6	2	2	.333
Keck	3	1	1	.333
McNamara	7	2	2	.286
Homsey	4	1	1	.250
Ratto	4	0	1	.250
Collins	4	0	0	.000
Follini	4	0	0	.000
Cane	3	0	0	.000
Castro	3	0	0	.000
Anderson	2	1	0	.000
Koche	2	0	0	.000
Regusa	1	0	0	.000
Bofinger	0	0	0	.000
Grant	0	0	0	.000
Houghton	0	0	0	.000

Unofficial pitching records:

	IP	AB	R	H	SO	BB	W	L	PCT.
Collins	9	30	0	3	10	5	1	0	1.000
Koche	7	26	4	4	3	1	1	0	1.000

NCJCC BASEBALL STANDINGS

	Won	Lost	Pct.	GB
San Francisco	2	0	1.000	....
San Mateo	2	0	1.000	....
Marin	0	0	.000	1
Modesto	0	2	.000	2
Sacramento	0	2	.000	2

Results of National League games played last Friday:

East Bay Boys 36, Vagabonds 25.
East Bay Boys 36, Vagabonds 25.
Banda 53, Dell's Dandies 28.
Haymakers 30, Stanfel's Double Play 29.

Results of American League games played last Thursday:

Hoots 39, Redskins 38.
Phillips' "77," default to Chinese Club.
Portals 51, Rovers 27.

Big Six scorers compiled from both leagues:

Buchanan, Banda, 34.
Lau, Banda, 29.
Fracchia, Banda, 25.
Schiavone, Redskins, 23.
Kuhleman, Redskins, 22.
Luke, Gung Ho, 21.

Track

Edwards Stadium Is Scene Of Saturday's Bear, Ram Spikefest

The Ram cindermen will cross the bay this Saturday, April 6, to tackle the University of California, and the Sacramento and Modesto Junior College varsities when all four squads hook-up in the first quadruple meet of the season, at Edwards Stadium, in Berkeley.

The meet is scheduled to begin at 2 p. m.

Barring rain, the locals will lock horns this afternoon with San Mateo and San Francisco State College, at Ingleside Stadium, in what has been termed a "warm-up session" to Saturday' appearance at Berkeley.

The first event will get under way at 3:30 p.m.

Coach Jim Jensen emphasized the fact that the meet is a non-conference affair, and that the outcome will not affect either teams' standing in their respective conferences. eJnsen had very little to say about his team, but did point out the efforts of Tom Kellog, his ace 880 man; Leo Jackson, and Bob Robertson.

Little information is known about the Bears from California, but it can be assumed that the Bears will field a strong team. Modesto will be led by Bud Guy, their ace sprinter; Ted Marr, 220 specialist; Julius Flores, middle distance man; Ron Livingstone, high jumper, and Ed Johnson, 440 dash sensation, who is rated by some as the best all-around athlete ever to attend Modesto J.C.

Nothing whatsoever is known about their respective conferences. Jensen the Sacramento cindermen. However, in the past, the Solons have always fielded a strong aggregation, and are not to be taken too lightly.

Hampered by rain during the week the Ram trackmen have been forced to practice indoors. This interference with the regular practice schedule may prove to be a disadvantage for all concerned.

WAA Accepts San Mateo Play Day Bid

Current practice sessions and the badminton Play Day at San Mateo Junior College this Friday, April 5, are helpful preliminaries leading to the Sectional Play Day at San Jose State College, April 4.

Besides the local Women's Athletic Association, similar organizations from Santa Rosa, Marin, Salinas, San Mateo, and San Francisco State Colleges will send their best competition. Play will be staged in tennis, archery, volleyball, basketball, badminton, and swimming.

Something new in the activities of the WAA is the free and encouraged use of the women's gymnasium during the 10:45 college hour each Friday.

Bertha Mae Keller, WAA adviser, has assured club and individuals that practice games, intramural matches, or tournaments may be run off if desired. The gymnasium has adequate equipment and space for basketball, volleyball, badminton, and ping pong, she stated.

The WAA Council, composed of elected officers and the managers of the various sport clubs, is rapidly becoming complete. Seven managers who have already taken over responsibilities are Loys Daskarolis, softball; Alma Pucci, basketball; Mercedes Treverton, tennis; Rita Chow, archery; Irene Mouzakis, volleyball; Alicia Saucedo, bowling; and Marilouise Matthews, badminton.

This group meets with Miss Keller about once a week in the women's gymnasium to handle correspondence, suggestions, and the general problems of the WAA.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Joanne Williams
And Jane Doran

•Kappa Phi: The traditional Chinese Dinner was held last Sunday at the home of Evelyn Stewart. Plans for a joint meeting with the Tri E's are being made.

•Beta Phi Beta: There will be a business meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock, 892 Ashbury Street, Oakland.

•Pep Club: The bonfire rally will be held Friday night. It will be followed by a dance.

•Pi Mu Gamma: There will be a meeting beginning promptly at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 7, at 1-18 Avenue, San Francisco. Take the "C" car. All members are requested to attend. There is only one more meeting left during which new members may join the society, which is open to all pre-medical, pre-dental, pre-nursing, and science majors.

•Beta Tau: Congratulations to Chet Anderson, Don Campbell, Frank Grant, Don Langendorf, Bill Riley and Bob Winegardner, who were formally initiated into the fraternity.

•Forum: A meeting is scheduled for Saturday, April 6, at 8 p.m., at 1941 Jackson Street.

•Alpha Lambda Chi: Wedding bells will ring for Jan Bultman, alumna, and Navy flyer Lieutenant James Alan on April 13.

•Theta Tau: The 11th rushing season will be completed with a Plantation Party tonight at the home of Maggie Rogers.

•Block Society: The following officers were elected at the last meeting: Carter Corey, president; Bob Parnow, vice president; Don Grant, secretary.

•Pick and Hammer Club: Guest speaker at the monthly meeting on Saturday evening, April 6, will be Dr. Stirton, head of the Paleontology Department at the University of California. All members are requested to attend the gathering at 170 Lunado Court. The field trip to Mount Hamilton has been postponed until Friday, April 12.

Music

Choir To Present Program April 7

For its first off-campus performance this semester, the college A Cappella Choir will offer a program, the first in a series of Lenten presentations at the First Congregational Church, this Sunday, April 7, at 4 p.m., Flossita Badger, music instructor, announced last week.

Two groups of music will be sung by the choir, the first consisting of a Latin anthem by Palestrina called Tenebrae Factae Sunt, a Negro spiritual entitled Were You There?, and the Cherubum Song by Tschaikowsky.

The second group of songs will include an English folk song, Early One Morning, and a Scotch air, Turn Ye to Me, which was arranged by Fred Warring.

Soloists on the program will be Betty Wales, who will sing Mozart's Alleluia; Emory Mellon singing The Blind Ploughman, and Nancy Stangle, who will render the Bach-Gounod Ave Maria.

The presentation is open to the general public.

The choir will also appear in a program in the college cafeteria on Wednesday, April 10, in observance of Public Schools Week.

Past Experience Pays For Job Applications

More than half of the 200 students who have filed applications for summer resort jobs possess past experience in this type of work, according to Joseph Amori, placement director.

This experience will enable students to compete more successfully with other Pacific Coast students for the resort jobs.

Resort managers report that the wages and salaries have increased but requirements for these jobs will be raised also.

AMS

Plans Call For Tentative Scheduling Of Barn Dance In Richmond May 10

Next on the Associated Men Students' calendar is a barn dance to be held on Thursday, May 10, revealed Ted Bofinger, AMS president.

Still in the embryo stage, the location of the dance has not been determined, but Bofinger with the aid of the Associated Women Students and the Social Committee has been looking for a suitable place.

Final decision of the place will be made by way of a poll among the students as to whether they would rather have the dance in or out of San Francisco.

There will be the usual cider and barn-like atmosphere, but Bofinger himself said last week, "How can we have a real barn dance without a barn? I have looked at several swell places, and I think the Alvarado Barn in Richmond is a swell place.

"The only factor against holding the dance in Richmond is that a lot of kids won't have means of transportation other than the train to get there. However, the final decision is in their hands. It's their dance and they should decide where they want it."

Bofinger further added that due to the boxing classes now being given by the physical education department, there will probably be enough material in all weight groups to stage an AMS boxing tournament. If staged it will be toward the end of the semester.

Students Invited To Enter Script Contest

The Carrington Award for Radio Scripts Contest is still in progress, Marie Weller, radio instructor, revealed last week.

The main purpose of the contest is to discover new writing talent. Successful scripts will be produced on Elaine Carrington's Playhouse time which is heard on Friday nights at 8:30 p.m. on KFRC. All students are invited to participate in the contest.

Theodus Candidate For California Assembly

Theodore Theodus, Navy veteran and student here at college, announced his candidacy for the office of assemblyman, representing the 20th San Francisco District, which includes the Protrero and Bayview districts.

Twenty-four years old, Theodus is running under the banner of the Navy Veterans who are sponsoring him and aiding him with his campaign. He has also filed on the Democratic and Republican tickets.

"I feel that there should be a change in the ages of men in office. I expect to make a career of politics with no outside activities to hamper my duties," Theodus said.

Residing at 473 Vermont Street, in the heart of the Protrero Distriet, he, with the aid of other veterans, is planning to start a house-to-house campaign by which he will become acquainted with the people he will represent. He will broadcast several of his campaign speeches over the local stations, but his campaign will be based mainly on personal contacts and pamphlets, which are now in preparation. He hopes to have his campaign going at full speed by the time of the primary elections, which will be held in June of this year.

Previously, he attended Mission High School and upon graduating came to this college. While here he held the office of Associated Men Student President and was active around the college. He entered the service in December, 1941, and was discharged in December, 1946.

Drama Club

Scaramozi Director Of Lambda Theta Chi

Organized last semester by a few students interested in drama, the new college drama club has gotten off to a start this term by selecting Lambda Theta Chi as its name and Anthony Scaramozi as student director of the group.

Other officers are Tom Panajes, assistant director; Sophie Elaine Meisome, stage manager; Larry Levy, property manager; William Riley, secretary-treasurer; and Peter Cerlanti, publicity manager.

The purpose of the new club will be to present worthwhile entertainment whenever the need arises. Scripts are being read to find a presentation equal to the high abilities of the organization. Several of the members have formed a committee to scan plays and skits written by either professionals or college students.

The newly elected student-leader of the group, Director Scaramozi, stated that since the college enrollment has increased tremendously, the need for more campus presentations has become necessary. "Our performances will be in no way amateurish," he promised, "and will include both comedies and dramatic plays."

The club is still open to students interested in either writing or acting out new scripts. Its meeting place is room 310 during the college hour and at the homes of the students.

Ex-President Of Beta Tau Fraternity Dies

Charles Gross, former president of the Beta Tau, died last Friday morning after a long illness. Born in 1925 in San Francisco, he attended Mission High School, and graduated in January of 1943.

Gross entered the college as a pre-medical major in the Spring of 1943, and left because of ill health in Fall, 1944.

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

Editorial

America And The Ideal Future

EVERY day one hears talk on the subject of the ideal future. It is probably the most popular discussion of the day, especially in the younger generation. Every young man and woman has foremost in his mind possibilities of an ideal future, especially those who sacrificed so much in the barbaric episode just terminated.

This could be compared somewhat to a mongrel dog who is hoping that her litter will be composed of beautiful collies. These United States of America are composed of many races, colors, and creeds, and each individual wants in his future, opportunity for himself and his descendants.

If the younger generation has hopes of making the future ideal it must begin with making America ideal. Then it must go on and make the world ideal, and do away with all wars. America must lead the way and show the rest of the world "how."

Albert J. Hanson.

XGI Membership Drive Will Start This Week

George Backman, secretary of the XGI Society, announced the opening of a new drive this week to double the present membership of the organization. There are now 450 veterans who have applied and been accepted for membership in the society.

Harry Archer, treasurer, urged all veterans to join the society. Those who wish to join may do so by applying to Mrs. Victor Hancock in Room 149.

Committees for housing, scholastic coaching, clothing, sport and social activities have been formed. Details concerning these committees will be found on the bulletin board located outside Room 155.

Mel Toff, athletic commissioner, and Harold Garriott, basketball manager, declared that the sports program of the society has a good start. They have two basketball teams and hope to organize groups to compete in other intramural sports. Any veteran who wishes to participate in these events should apply to Toff or Garriott in the men's gymnasium or on the playing field any afternoon.

Reveille Still Worries Ye Old Boot Camp Rook

One morning, after a hard night ashore, a member of the ship's band was awakened by the aggravating strains of Can't Get 'Em Up coming loud and clear over the worry box—especially loud.

Still soggy from sleep, the musician sat up in his bunk muttering all manner of unprintable threats. He shook his fist at the unseen tooter and loudly promised inhuman mayhem.

"You can't win, Mac," cautioned a shipmate from an adjoining bunk. "That's your own recording."

Medical Service

CSP Group Approved To Treat War Vets

The California Physicians' Service is now authorized to give treatment to veterans without their making application with the Veterans Administration. In this way, veterans attending college may select their own time without interferring with classes.

The C.P.S. entitles a veteran to care by his own physician in any of the following cases:

(1) Service-ineurred disabilities.

(2) Intercurrent illnesses when retarding or aggravating the recovery from a service-connected disability.

(3) Cases where veterans have previously filed a claim with the Veterans Bureau.

(4) Veterans attending college under the GI. Bill of Rights entitled to service-connected disabilities as described in subparagraphs 1, 2, and 3 above.

(5) Veterans receiving Vocational Rehabilitation Training are covered for necessary treatment for any and all conditions regardless of service connection. (Necessity for treatment must exist.)

Women veterans are covered for necessary medical and surgical care regardless of whether service-connected or not except in cases of childbirth.

In addition to treatment for illnesses, general and special examinations for rating purposes will be requested by the Veterans Administration. The veteran will then be instructed to contact the doctor of his choice for appointment.

Fiction Is Fiction

Noted Foreign Correspondent Reaches Best Seller List With Oyster Sequel

Harold L. Levy

Quentin Rainstorm, noted foreign correspondent, and author of A Farewell To Oysters, has just written another book, which, he proclaims, will outsell his first triumph.

The reader will remember that Mr. Rainstorm's first book dealt with a discussion of the relationship between the Oyster and the human stomach. In it he proved beyond question that the pearl-producing, sea-going organism, when it comes in contact with the gastric juices of the stomach, wages war on said juices, and inevitably wins.

The results of this theory apparently indicate that the oysters should stick to their own "racket," that of manufacturing pearls, and not try to branch out into the stew industry, leaving this field open to the country's congressmen, many of whom pride themselves on being able to fillbuster themselves into a stew.

In his new book, Washington Today Or Sorrell And Son, Mr. Rainstorm deviates from his usual topic of discussion, Burma Nightlife, and deals with the more serious, in an attempt to dispell any qualms in the reader's mind about the national government as it appears today.

He begins by pointing out that though all men are created equal, some are created merely on the excuse that they need bawling children around the house to drown out the voice of Walter Winchell on Sunday afternoons. Of course, the fact that they (the parents) must listen to the bawling of their offspring during the remaining six days of the week, never enters their minds until it is too late.

"And thus we have," states Mr. Rainstorm, "the beginnings of Selective Service."

The next four chapters, that is, Chapters II, III, IV, and V, contain endless repetition of a sentence, beginning with "Now is the time for all good men . . ," and ending with ". . . to come to the aid of the party." Proving, that even though he has nothing of great import to import to the reading public, Mr. Rainstorm is taking advantage of the fact that war-time restrictions upon the use of paper by publishers is at an end. So, we quote, "Why not use it?" These words show the marked influence of a nicotine stunted growth.

This book should provide the answers to a myriad of questions which are crowding the craniums of the American taxpayers today. Quentin Rainstorm has an adequate background in the field of politics, for before going overseas as a war correspondent, he spent 20 years in Spokane, Washington, which gives him the essential for his book on the national capitol.

LOST: Old saddle leather wallet containing student body card, pictures, social security card, please return to Carol Hayland, Room 185. No questions asked.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1946 No. 7

Associated Students

Administration Issues Challenge, Puts Responsibility Of Student Activity In Hands Of New Judiciary Committee

Issuing a momentous challenge to the Associated Student organization Dean Edward E. Sandys last week put full responsibility of student actions and activities in the hands of Associated Student officers.

Direction of this responsibility, and first attempt in college history at complete student government, was placed squarely in the hands of the Judiciary Committee, headed by Pamela Sampson, Guardsman editor.

Action was sparked by two unrelated incidents.

School Heads Give Warning

Warning was received recently from School Department officials to "clean up" the campus and building, with a deadline of three weeks allowed. Rather than "dictate" policy in this matter, Dean Sandys deemed it advisable to allow student government to assume reponsibility, retaining the provision that if student government proves ineffective, such student government will end and the administration take control.

The other incident occurred at a recent college social function following which the administration felt disciplinary action necessary to end "conduct unbecoming gentlemen of college stature."

As the spearhead of complete student control, members of the judiciary committee will work in the following manner:

Ted Bofinger, AMS president, has been placed in charge of the parking situation and will provide measures to eliminate illegal parking. He will also check with the various men's athletics and ensure that teams using equipment bought with Associated Student fund have student cards. In addition he will supervise the distribution of additional refuse containers about the campus.

Cunningham Supervises Cafe

Placed in AWS president Nancy Cunningham's hands is the entire cafeteria problem. Full enforcement powers have been placed in her hands, and those of committee deputies aiding her. She will also check the women's athletics, and the possession of student cards by team members.

CAB president Carol Hayland by this time will have secured from each chartered organization one or two members who will be deputized and empowered to accost students violating college rules.

The committee's publicity, handling public address system announcements, and posters has been turned over to

(Continued on page 4, column 1)

Alpha Gamma Sigma To Aid Veteran Students

Members of Alpha Gamma Sigma, honor society, who have one or two free hours a week in which they could coach veterans in all subjects, are asked to see Gretchen Williams between 11 a.m. and 12:10 p.m. today across the hall from the registrar's office, Miss Williams said last week.

The coaching of veterans, carried on throughout last semester proved successful, and with so many more veterans attending college, more coaching will be needed, she emphasized.

Veterans who have not yet signed up with Alpha Gamma Sigma and who would like coaching are asked to see Miss Williams at the time designated above. "This service is offered free by the Alpha Gamma Sigma," she added.

Rally

Radio Stars Guests For Friday Program

Featuring a galaxy of stars from all radio station KPO shows as entertainment, the next rally will be held during the college hour in the Wave Auditorium, this Friday, according to Earl Lawrence, Rally Commissioner.

As high point feature for a large student attendance at the rally Lawrence has made arrangements with Jack Gregson, known as the Hub of radio Hubba Hubba Club, to bring his organization to the college for a personal appearance at the rally. Gregson is bringing with him entertainers from the National Broadcasting Studios.

Big Turnout Expected

Lawrence stated that for this rally there should be a big turnout because "these people are good enough to come out to the college on their own time and their own expense to entertain us, we should show up at the rally and show them the welcome they deserve. All the entertainment that will be here is worth well over a thousand dollars and I think it is swell of them to come out here and entertain us for nothing."

Aside from the appearance of the club, there will also be entertainment from the college.

Elliot To Be Featured

Bob Elliot will display his prowess on the bass fiddle when he plays a duet with Roland Jones who will accompany him on the piano. The college yell leaders will be on hand to lead the gathering in yells and songs if time permits.

Lawrence added the fact that he had been very disappointed at the lack of attendance at the last rally. "I sure hope the same thing will not occur at this rally," he pleaded.

Quonset Construction Project To Start Soon

That reports that the quonset hut project is expected to be completed much sooner than the established deadline date of Friday, May 31, were confirmed this week by Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Contractors will be here tomorrow to make a tour of the area which was recently purchased from the San Francisco City Park Commission, Dean Sandys disclosed.

Rental prices for the forthcoming huts have not been established as yet but according to reliable sources rental will not exceed $40.

Applications for housing are still being accepted, and veterans are urged to submit their applications at the Dean of Men's office as soon as possible.

The majority of dwellings will provide ample room for veterans and their dependents since the interior fixtures include living-dining rooms, two small bedrooms, bath and kitchenette. This also includes stove, ice box, hot running water, and necessary furniture.

Here to attend the Tri-E Harvey Hop as guest of honor, is Harvey, the oft heard of, seldom seen Ectoplasmic Rabbit. Harvey obliged with an ectoplasmic effort long enough to have his picture taken only on condition that sufficient ecto-energy be on hand to replace what would be lost. The result shows Al Butler, dance chairman, Tri-E president, and Shirley Ross officially greeting him as he stepped out of his chartered bus. Miss Ross is presenting him with fruit for his labors.

Social

Harvey Materializes To Attend Dance Sponsored By Tri-Epsilon Next Tuesday

Harvey, the fabulous rabbit, materialized here Friday and consequently will be a guest at a Tri-Epsilon sponsored dance next Tuesday, April 16.

The dance will be held at the Crystal Room of the Hotel Whitcomb from 8:30 to 12, Kent Bowker, president of the group said, and all students are invited to attend. It will be informal and it has been decided that no corsages will be worn.

Tickets for one couple may be purchased for $1.75 from any member of the Tri-E and will be on sale at the dance, Bowker said.

Harvey, the guest of honor, has decided to take a week away from Los Angeles where he has currently been kept busy counting cut-rate moonbeams and chasing rainbows.

Tri-Epsilon members, however, warned students not to expect to see Harvey constantly at the dance, as an extreme shortage of ectoplasm keeps him from being physically present.

Harvey himself is sure, however, that students will derive satisfaction and happiness in the thought that he is there spiritually.

Harvey, after considerable coaxing, predicted that this dance as the colosal extravaganza of the season should be attended by every wholly or partially-minded devotee of the arts.

Members of the dance committee, Al Butler, Phil Kemp, and Bob Kruezburger, who acted as Harvey's chief interpreters said he is foretelling a grand and exciting evening for all students who attend.

Hal Lents and his orchestra will be on hand at Harvey's particular request to offer the best in musical entertainment.

Harvey, in his first visit to the college Friday, expressed satisfaction with conditions here. Questioned as to his plans for the future, he hinted that he might just consider registering. Wearied from his long stage run here, and foreed to return soon to Los Angeles where he is currently appearing, Harvey eyed the rolling lawns with obvious longing.

Easter Holiday Will Start Next Wednesday

Eastern Vacation for the college begins Wednesday, April 17, Mary Jane Learnard, Assistant Registrar said last week. Students will be expected to attend Monday and Tuesday of that week, Miss Learnard stated, "and college will re-open on Monday, April 22."

Facing students after vacation will be the second period mid-term examinations, which will end May 3, and grades must be turned in to advisers then.

This year commencement exercises will be held Friday, June 21, and the list of students who petitioned to graduate is being checked for future publication in The Guardsman.

Council Still Perplexed About Spring And Tires

By Dell Bain

Spring has been officially ushered in and trailing the new season is a new "remedy" for illegal parking.

The latest action taken has been the issuing of tickets by any police officer "who happens to be by-passing," according to Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Dean Sandys added that following approval by the Student Council last week, students have full authority to cope with this ancient problem.

"This time the students have asked for the job," Dean Sandys said.

In the past, many "solutions" to the problem have been reached. Every "plan of action" from letting air out of the tires to towing the cars off the campus, has been decided upon. As yet these decisions have been followed by comparative inaction.

Schools Week

Public Invited To Open House Tonight For Tour, Program

Participation in Public Schools Week this year will center around a program of orchestral and vocal music, and speeches tonight from 7:30 to 8:15 o'clock in the cafeteria, followed by a tour of the building until 8:45 p.m. The groups, which will consist of students and their parents and friends, will then return to the cafeteria for refreshments.

William A. H. Fleisher, general chairman of the 1946 Public Schools' Week Committee, has announced that, "Good Citizens! See San Francisco's Youth In-Education-For-Democracy" will be the invitational theme extended to parents and the public to visit the schools during this week.

Faculty Will Conduct Tours

In charge of the various parties which will tour the building will be Alfred P. Agosti, physical science; Cecil Aggeler, engineering; M Evans Ecke, fine arts; Margaret Dougherty, home economics; Glenn Noble, biology; Manfred Mueller, chemistry, and F. Grant Marsh, business. Faculty members acting as tour chairmen will also make arrangements for the faculty member in each room to have suitable displays during Public Schools Week.

In asking for complete cooperation of the schools, Superintendent of Schools Curtis Warren said, "Let each and every one of us endeavor to make this, the twenty-seventh annual observance of Public Schools Week in San Francisco, the most successful in its history."

Radio Group To Broadcast

Also preparing for Public Schools Week, Marie Weller, radio instructor, has been rehearsing radio production students in two new scripts which have been heard over the radio in the past few months. During this week, when parents and visitors are visiting the college, they will have the opportunity of seeing a broadcast in action.

Both of the scripts Miss Weller is rehearsing, Party Line and Yankee Olympus, were heard recently on the Cavalcade of America program.

Vacation Job Seekers To Meet Tomorrow

A meeting of all students who filed applications for summer resort jobs is scheduled in the Student Lounge, tomorrow at 12 o'clock, according to Joseph Amori, placement director.

Discussion at the meeting will include where the applicants' interviews will be held, how to be interviewed, requirements, salary scale, living conditions, and other closely allied subjects.

Those interested in saleswork during Easter Vacation should report to Room 169, immediately, Amori said.

Forum Club Deadline Extended To May 6

Because of midterms during the week of April 29, deadline for contributions to the Forum Magazine will be extended to Monday, May 6, according to Helen Ringius, editor of the magazine.

Any material of interest in prose, not more than 1500 words; poetry, or black and white art medium will be acceptable to Helen Ringius; Dorothy Mercer, Room 251; or John Gerstung, Room 257.

It is expected that tickets will be sold for the magazine, as usual, before publication.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 7 Wednesday, April 10, 1946 Page 2

Government

For, Of, BY Students

INCREASINGLY bad conditions around the college over a period of semesters, recently culminated in a protest by the Janitors' Union to the Board of Education regarding the excessive quantities of refuse carelessly thrown about by unthinking students.

This, together with several violations by students, has led the administration to present to the Student Council the option of either assuming fully the functions and responsibilities of student government, or having it taken away entirely.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation, the council has acted promptly, and in order to remedy the immediate and serious violations, has granted extraordinary powers to the Judiciary Committee, composed of a chairman and four members, who will in turn operate with and through the various organizations on the campus.

The success or failure of the Judiciary Committee in eradicating the violations so commonly practiced in the college, will to a considerable degree, indicate the capacity or incapacity of the Associated Students to govern themselves efficiently. The only regrettable aspect is the precipitancy with which this committee has been formed, and called upon to assume its task, which may possibly make for the trial and error procedure in its dealings.

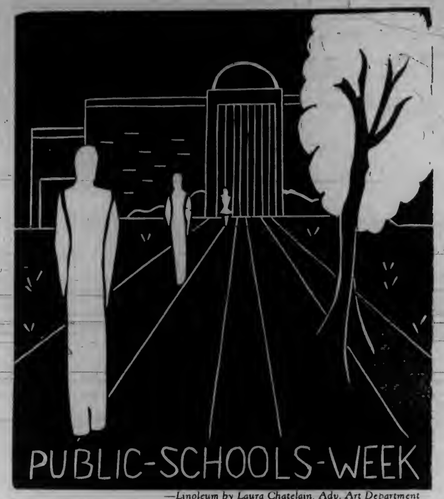
However, the main issue is, that failure to set up just such a committe empowered to handle campus violations, would not only jeopardize the very existence of student government, but, in view of the necessity for action by the Board of Education, would herald a more rigorous government by the administration, and the complete banning of certain practices now tolerated when confined to certain limitations.

Therefore, it is within the interests of all students of the college to heed the suggestions and rulings of the committee, which is a representative one, and whose actions are fully backed by the Student Cabinet and Council, and in turn, by the administration.

P.S.

Guardsman Distribution

DESIRING to find a more efficient means of distributing copies of The Guardsman, members of the Student Council decreed recently that the paper should be given only to Associated Student Card holders. This system is not only more efficient, but also fairer.



Previously, distribution of the limited number of The Guardsman, designed for members of the Associated Students, was a case of first come, first served. This way, many students who wanted a Guardsman, and who were authorized to receive one, never obtained a paper. This was even more deplorable in view of the fact that some of the students who did get the paper didn't even want it, and seldom read it.

At first, this newly inaugurated scheme for distribution was made an object of ridicule by non-members of the Associated Students, who came to The Guardsman office on Thursday or Friday, getting copies of the paper without having to present their non-existent student cards. However, this situation has been remedied, and no more papers will be issued except according to the ruling set down by the student officers.

C.G.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gennon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheehy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavenor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manual Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bein, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Peter Carlanti, Richard Cumming, Jene Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Ralph Hansan, Lulu Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, Don Lucey, Arthur Poymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Berbere Stephen, Stefan Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams.
Staff Photographers ..... Carl B. Carver, Don Lum
Joan Naurse Muscio ..... Faculty Adviser

—Linoleum by Laura Chatelain, Adv. Art Department

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Susanna And Sylvester Desert Harvey To Aid In Easter Celebration

WIGGLING their long, pink ears, and lightly tweaking their rakish white whiskers, two disciples of a recent road show have remained in the city to celebrate Eastertide here.

Yes, Harvey's younger sister and brother have decided to stay in the Bay Area in order to make the most of their biggest annual holiday.

After spending several weeks in ascent and descent hoping to find a suitable abode, Susanna and Sylvester finally came upon a lovely green slope with plenty of space around which, they decided, would serve quite adequately in keeping their tapering ears from becoming drenched in the liquid sunshine.

"So now Suzie, in her little blue bonnet with the yellow posies on top, and Syl, in his half-collapsed collapsible top hat, have found their Utopia among the Eds and Co-eds, and are running Butt-'er, the Ram, a hard race for the position of official mascot of the college.

Both bunnies are just a trifle shorter than Harvey, but they have nothing to be ashamed of in their five-foot-twelve statures; they quite make up in mischievousness for their lacking one and three-quarters inches.

These wovable widdle wabbits set the best examples possible for the fullest enjoyment of the Easter holidays. Their one purpose in life is to make the kiddies, from 1 to 100, happy and carefree—diffieult task though that may be.

The influence of the rabbits upon students and factuly has had a decidedly strange effect upon both of these intellectual bodies of persons.

Perhaps the most revolutionary consequence of their intervention in college affairs has been the incidence of greatly increasing everyone's appreciation of the weather durlng this season, and causing very many instructors to dismiss their classes 15 or 20 minutes early, so that the students may take the fullest advantage of the vitimin D rays.

The wabbits' main diversion, of course, is rolling super-eggs of red, blue, yellow, and many other colors, over the sloping front lawn, where they further amuse and greatly entertain loafers with their caprices.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

TWO weeks ago in this column the fact was mentioned that Woody Herman, the most radical of swing, would execute a complete concerto written by the famed classicist Igor Stravinsky. Friday evening, March 29, Herman not only executed it; he massacred it.

The failure was not only Herman's fault but, roughly speaking, Stravinsky just didn't come on. The Ebony Concerto was, like all the Herman tunes, very radical, but there wasn't anything there. The idea is that Stravinsky is a modernist himself, but his genius is confined to the symphonic side. Swing music is completely American. Stravinsky, Russian by birth, and not living and studying for swing, is in no position to write anything that is really righteous.

The concerto was so muddled and mixed up that even a hop-head couldn't get his kicks from it. It was not appreciated by drivemen or legit musicians.

Musicians (jive, that is) have been striving in the past few years to be recognized and considered by the Long Hairs and have partially succeeded. Some day swing will be observed and held on the same plane as the classics. It is still in its adolescence, but the advancement is coming. A few years back any clown who could blow a cornet and could cut a ra-te-ta was considered a jazz man. Today to get anywhere in the swing field, a musician must be as good a technician as a symphony man and have, along with his musical knowledge, the real stuff in his soul. Stravinsky is a frantic cat, to say the least, but he should leave the drive to men like George Handy and Neal Hefty.

Flips and twirls are for Dizzy Gilespie. Dizz is starting to organize a sixteen piece drive outfit. He will open at one of the name spots on Fifty-second street in New York. In the past, Gilespie has been with the Boyd Raeburn ork and lately heading his own combo. Dizz is one of the few very righteous non-commercial men in the country. The chairs have not yet been designated, but the band will very likely contain some very fine men. Swing fans should keep their eyes and ears on the down beat for Dizz. With Gilespie's excellent ideas, the ork should prove very interesting, containing something radically new for large outfits.

Stephen

RAMifications

IN LAST week's edition of The Guardsman, this column was dedicated in its entirety to a discussion, Youth And The Atomic Crisis. But even a whole column is not enough to cover so vital a subject completely.

It would take volume upon volume to express even the hazards that await the human race if the question of atomic control is left to politicians alone to solve. There has been, however, a decided tendency of analysis on the part of the leaders of our country, and an understanding of the problem of the atomic crisis seems not far in the offing. Lengthy debates among physiseists, congressmen, the President and the military element in the government have taken place, and due respect has been given to all phases of atomic energy in its direct relation to mankind and the future.

As mentioned in last week's column, the Oak Ridge High School of Oak Ridge, Tennessee, is proud of its Youth Council on the Atomic Crisis, and with good reason. The YCAC has gained the recognition it desired throughout the high schools and college of a nation, and is proving that the voice of youth is being heard. To look forward to a nation wherein honest minds will control civic government is indeed a magnificent aspect, and hope for this unprecedented Utopia is herewith raised to a level far above any previously felt.

* * * * *

To sing one's own praises has been considered by the best authorities, including Mrs. Emily Post, to be not only improper, but extremely bad etiquette, and conducive to a high degree of egotism.

Egotism, though, is farthest from mind when the reader is asked to recall an article concerning the future of the human race through education, appearing some months ago in this column, which advocated the trend of man toward education by masses. It stated that some day it would be compulsory for Mr. Average Man to at least attend college part time.

A clipping from the New York Times a week or so ago carried the information that a compulsory part-time college education for English youth between the ages of 15 and 18 is the result of a new British Education Act. The program, which is to be coeducational, will require 20,000 specially trained teachers; "The students will attend college at least one whole day or two half days a week for forty-four weeks a year."

Cumming

After Dark

THERE has been some undue secrecy about the doings of the college Symphony Forum. Some readers may not even know what the Symphony Forum is; some may not even care to know, but it may do everyone good to know what it is, and what it is doing.

The Symphony Forum is a college organization founded to bring about an interest in music among college students. During the year, the Symphony Association sends out guest artists to the different colleges to talk to and perform for the various forums. Some old-timers here will remember that Maxim Schapiro came out here last semester and give a very fine program. But the college's forum has decided to do something on its own.

Around the Bay Region there are musically talented young men and women in alarmingly large numbers. Most of these young artists have a very small chance of ever being heard, so this forum is helping them to be heard. Every other Friday night, informal gatherings are held at which three or four of these performers and composers give a short concert. The first two concerts given on March 22 and April 5, respectively, were successes, and there is no reason why the remaining programs should not be successful, too. These gatherings are open to anyone who is interested in listening to the junior members of musical America. There is a great future to this project, the first step of which will be a public concert some time next fall. Let no one say that the college is lagging behind musically.

While on the subject of music and symphony work, it wouldn't hurt to look at the current symphony season which is just drawing to a close. It has been a superlative season, as Mr. Monteux has introduced a very large number of new works to the San Francisco audiences. Perhaps the climax of the season was achieved last week, when Maxim Schapiro played the Bela Bartok Second Piano Concerto. Zowie! One of the most difficult works technically and rhythmically, the concerto was one of the finest things this year.

* * * * *

It seems that the Marx Brothers are making another film. This one is called A Night In Casablanca and has the three brothers involved in a spy plot. Go to it, boys.

* * * * *

Also coming up is the much talked of film, The Seventh Veil, which is coming to the Orpheum. From recent critics' reports, it is recommended to all.

RAMblings . .

By Bob Catudio

WAY back in the lush pre-ration era (circa 1941), the Rams and Los Angeles City College met unceremoniously under the Kleig lanterns at Seals Stadium.

And thus was born the local debut of one Jackie Fellows, an elfish, darting scat back who sprang a convincing 14 to 0 laeing upon the then hapless horde of Lee Elsan.

The transportation problem—such as it was then—practically severed the priorities and purse strings of many a neighboring academy. So, in fairness to all, the then current home and home series between the two institutions was shelved.

RAMS, CUBS MEET

This week, thanks to the foresightedness of all parties concerned, San Francisco and Los Angeles are again on the local blue plate menu . . . much to the vexation of Head Master Eisan.

In the grand old days, it was Eisan who created a literary legend by gritting his molars when he ruefully mumbled:

"This is the worst football team I ever coached, but don't worry, we'll improve. We can't get any worse."

A telephone call voicing official consent from H. A. Roeder, Angeleno business manager, is all that stands between memories of that Seals Stadium debacle and a sight-seeing tour of Wilshire Boulevard this fall.

JENSEN GLOWS

None too happy over the week-end outcome of his charges at Edwards Stadium is Jim Jensen, late of St. Mary's Pre-Flight, but on excellent authority, insiders cite the zest-for-living swagger of the naughty Nordic as a result of last week's revenge triumph over San Francisco State.

Despite the noticeable absence of Leo Jackson, who was picked-off in Lewis Hershey's bargain raffle, the local thin clads displayed an amazing reversal of form in comparison to their earlier season outings.

And anyway, guys like Bob Caredlo, Tom Kellogg, Bob Pederson, Bob Elliot, Bill Bahr, Duke Drake, C. E. Anderson and the rest of the faithful herd are bound to improve.

Rain and scholastic programs have hampered the Jensenites no end and this Saturday, the much-improved Rams face the Stanford University Cards on Angell Field.

When Bill Fischer takes his charges over to Kentfield this Saturday he will no doubt have his fingers crossed because the Mariners, following an unexpected twin win over San Mateo, are comfortably leading the loop on the strong right arm of Pitcher Art Shallock.

Fischer Nine Meets Marin At Kentfield

Continuing their quest for a top rung in the NCJCC baseball ladder, the Ram nine will invade the domain of the Marin Junior College Mariners this Saturday, April 13.

A double-header is scheduled with starting time for the first game set at 12:30 p.m.

In their games this season against the Sacramento Panthers and the Modesto Pirates, the Rams have displayed a well balaneed team. Although they have not been hitting the ball too hard, they have been getting an abundance of hits with men on the bases.

The Rams' defense, while not sensational, is steady and dependable, and the pitching is still of a satisfactory quality. Bill Collins, who will start the first game, will be gunning for his third victory of the season. George Koche will probably hurl the nightcap for the locals.

The Mariners have fared well in their practice games, thanks to Pitchers Art Shallock and Jim Younger.

Probable starting lineups:

San Francisco	Pos.	Marin
Collins	P	Shallock
Romsey	C	Vino
McIntire	1B	Hobson
Galvin	2B	Petretti
Ranuio	3B	Roberts
McNamara	SS	J. Younger
Keck	LF	Tierney
Sabatini	CF	Phillips
Ratto	RF	O. Younger

The Guardsman Sports

Intramural

Deadline Set For Three Tournaments In Men's Gymnasium

Deadline for submission of softball, badminton, and volleyball team entry blanks has been set for noon, this coming Friday, April 12, Tom Wilson, intramural director, revealed yesterday.

Schedules for first round matches and games in the aforementioned sports will be arranged during the Easter Vacation, and inaugural round contests will be held on or about May 1.

No official word concerning the proposed swimming meet slated for the Jefferson High School pool has been mentioned, but informed observers believe the college intrasplash will be held some time in the early part of May.

Swimmers Show Interest

Sign-ups for swimming are being accepted, however, and interest in the Jefferson aqua finals should increase, Wilson added.

With the intra-eage tournament ending its fourth week of competition, the Banda quintet is still racing through the National League, while a five team fight for first place looms in the neighboring American circuit.

The Chinese Club, Portals, and Warriors have proved themselves of front rank caliber along with the Rovers and Redskins. The Portals, especially, are slight favorites to cop the American League title.

The following games have been scheduled in the American League to be played tomorrow in the men's gymnasium:

3:15 P.M.
Borlo B. C. vs. Bye.
The Portals vs. Phillips "77".
Mustangs vs. Hoots.
4:15 P.M.
Rovers vs. Redskins.
XGI Swabbies vs. Chinese Club.

National loop games for Friday, April 12, are as follows:

3:15 P.M.
XGI Doggies vs. Gung Ho.
East Bay Boys vs. Stanfel's Double Play.
Demons vs. Del's Dandies.
4:15 P.M.
Haymakers vs. Eagles.
Vagabonds vs. Banda.

Results of National League games played last week-end:

Results of weekend National and American League basketball games:

Banda 34, Haybakers 28
Mustangs 52, Borlo B. C. 33
Rovers 47, Phillips "7" 35
Del's Dandies 49, Eagles 28
East Bay Boys def to Gung Ho
Stanfel's Double Play def to Vagabonds
XGI Swabbies def to Hoots
Chinese Club def to Redskins

Wilson Greets Rookie Varsity Tennis Squad

Lack of experienced material greeted Tennis Coach Tom Wilson this week as the Rams began hurried preparations for a belated spring practice on Balbon Park's windswept tennis courts.

Among those signed up were Al Munn, Dave Yamate, Norman Yee, Tom Skelly, Bob Zapanta, Grene Fratessa, Hector Salazano, and Angelo Lucido.

The most definite meet on the local racket schedule is the All-Northern California Junior College Conference finals to be held at Palo Alto (Stanford University) May 3 and 4.

For the general interest of all men, there will be a meeting of all varsity candidates tomorrow, in Room 107, in the men's gymnasium, starting at 3 p.m.

Football

Gridiron Tie-up With Los Angeles Hopeful

Contractual negotiations involving the long sought resumption of football between the college and Los Angeles City College were near an end this week, it was disclosed by Jack Brady, assistant dean of men.

For the first time since 1941, a "home and home series" will be in effect. This season's contest (if approved) will be played on November 2 in Los Angeles, while San Francisco is host to the southerners in 1947.

Earlier, in the month of March, an athletic tie-up was announced with Long Beach City College, "thus assuring the football squad a definite trip to Southern California every year."

WAA

Federation Attended By College Delegates

Continued support of a statewide Women's Athletic Association on the "betterment of athletic relationships" among the major universities and junior colleges of California was stressed last week by WAA officials at a gathering of 16 colleges in Stephen's Union at Berkeley.

Adhering to tradition, coeducational competition between schools was voted down, because of a general lack of interest among various clubs in the schools, Ann Ahokas, who attended the meeting with Wanda McKenzie, asserted this week.

New Blocks Ordered

Abolishing the triangular S.F. emblem on felt, women who have enrolled in the WAA are going to be wearing bright red chenille blocks on white woolen sweaters, it was disclosed this week by Miss McKenzie, group president.

Eligibility for the wearing of a block S.F. consists of at least a "C" average in classroom work, good sportsmanship, and an active display of interest in WAA activities. After receiving a first semester block, stars are awarded for each succeeding semester of active participation.

Bunny Shoot Scheduled

The first club to submit an organized program for the semester is the Archery Club under the management of Rita Chow, which is sponsoring a "Bunny Shoot," in the women's gymnasium, Friday, April 12.

To avoid abolishment of certain sports, it was emphasized that more women must turn out for basketball or the sport will be excluded for the semester, Mrs. Laurine Bergin, physical education instructor, revealed yesterday.

Baseball

Collins Racks Up 5-1 Win As Rams Drop 15-5 Comic Finale; Bucs Shell Three SF Pitchers As Locals Commit 10 Miscues

After Bill Collins had fashioned himself a fancy 5 to 1 five-hit win over the Modesto Junior College Bucs, the locals—committing ten glaring errors—took a comic turn for the worse in the nightcap losing 15 to 5 in one of the worst performances of baseball rendered this season.

Collins' triumph in the opener was an effortless beauty, save for the seventh panel when Modesto tallied its lone counter to snap wily William's string of consecutive scoreless innings at 15.

It came about when Bernie Sousa singled to left, pilfered second, and scampered home on Hal Ginsberg's one-ply blow to right.

Tano Belted Hard

The Fischer clan belittled starting Pirate hurler Paul Tano and successor Larry Mann for two runs in the second canto, and single markers in the third, eighth, and ninth innings.

Chet Anderson, Dick Sabatini, and Tom Galvin each delivered two hits apiece to enable the hard-working Collins to notch his second straight conference win.

While the Bucs were belting three San Francisco pitchers for 16 base hits, the Rams added to the debacle by committing ten miscues afield to add considerable amusement for a smattering of partial valley spectators.

George Koche started for the Rams and was hit hard before Charley Brabbit and Ed Allemande arrived on the scene.

Rams Begin Well

The Rams began in earnest via Frank Ratto bingle to center, a triple to the corner of right field by Galvin, and Sherrill Houghton bleeder one-baser into short left. In the Buc half of the initial frame, the house caved in on the Fischer troupe who began to rid themselves of seven innings of some bad baseball.

Everyone in the Modesto line-up collected at least one hit and the long drawn-out contest was marked by a heated verbal clash among umpires, fans, and players partly precipitated by reserve catcher Herb Markwell's sneaky put out of Buc Al Stovall "in the enemy dugout."

Elsewhere in the loop, Marin dumped San Mateo in both ends of a twin bill, 3 to 2 and 9 to 7 at Kentfield.

San Francisco (5)				Modesto (1)
Player, Pos	AB	R	H	Player, Pos	AB	R	H
Ratto, rf	3	3	0	Healey, 2b	4	0	0
Keck, rf	2	0	0	Sly'mkr, c	3	0	0
Galvin, 2b	4	0	2	Gainza, lb	3	0	1
Sabatini, cf	5	1	2	Lee, 3b	4	0	0
Romsay, c	5	0	1	Reilly, cf	4	0	0
McIntire, lb	3	1	1	Olsan, lf	2	0	0
Ranuio, 3b	3	1	1	Hyduke, lf	1	0	0
McNamara	4	0	0	Sousa, ss	4	1	2
Anderson, lf	3	2	2	Ginsberg, rf	2	0	1
Collins, p	3	0	0	Tano, p	1	0	0
				Mann, p	3	0	1
	35	5	10

Rams	021 002 011	5	11
	231 000 022	10	16
Bucs	000 000 100	1	5
	010 001 300	5	10

San Francisco (5)				Modesto (15)
Player, Pos	AB	R	H	Player, Pos	AB	R	H
Ratto, rf, cf	4	1	2	Healey, 2b	5	1	3
Galvin, 2b	4	1	2	Sousa, ss	3	2	1
Sabatini, cf	3	0	0	Gainza, lb	4	1	2
Anderson, lf	2	0	1	Lee, 3b	4	3	3
Cano, c	2	0	1	Stovall, cf	3	3	2
Markell, c	0	1	0	Pepelis, rf	3	1	1
Ranuio, 3b	3	0	0	Hyduke, lf	3	0	1
Grant, 3b	0	1	0	Nelson, c	3	2	1
Houghton, ss	4	0	2	Chalgrin, p	3	2	2
Bofinger, lb	4	1	1
Kacha, p	1	0	0
					31	15	16
Fillini, cf, lf	3	0	0	Bucs	411	063	x 15
Brabbit, p	1	0	0		412	153	x 16
Keck, rf	1	0	0
Allmando, p	0	0	0
	32	5	9

Rams	210 000 2	5
	211 112 1	9

Track

Rams, Menlo, Mateo Invade Angell Field

Invading Stanford's Angell Field for the first time in four years, this coming Saturday, April 13, the Ram cindermen will clash with the Stanford University Cards, and the San Mateo and Menlo Junior College varsity, in the Rams' second quadruple meet of the season.

The meet is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

Stanford varsity will rule as favorites because of the huge number of returning track veterans. This meet should prove very interesting to Pacific Coast Conference scouts as the affair will preview Stanford's return to competition for the first time in four years.

Little is known of the Menlo and San Mateo teams, but Coach Jim Jensen revealed that his men hold high respect for the abilities of these two teams.

The Rams, who revenged a former defeat at the hands of their arch rivals, San Francisco State College, last Wednesday, have shown a great deal of improvement in their last two meets. Last week's meet proved to observers that the loss of Leo Jackson, ace broad and high jump man, to the Army has not weakened the abilities of the team.

Jackson's loss will be felt, however, as Coach Jensen was relying on his services in the Fresno and Modesto Relays.

Interesting to note in Saturday's meet was the fact that the Rams, who were previously deficient of low hurdlers, captured two places in that event. Bob Pederson, the local's highest scorer along with the sensational middle distance man, Tom Kellogg, will lead the Rams.

Harry Tapoiro, a new addition to the team and former High School of Commerce football and track star, won the pole vault in last week's meet when he cleared the bar with a vault of 11 feet, 6 inches. This effort was Tapoian's first since his discharge from the Army Air Forces.

Eddie Bryant, the college's leading sprinter, can be counted on for some points this Saturday. Bryant, who has

(Continued on page 4, column 3)

YER OUT! Hard-hitting First Sacker Ralph McIntire is called out on a close play as Bob Link, Sacramento first baseman, stratches for a high one at Pathor Crowley Playground. Thanks to McIntire's "thundering bat," the Rams have definite reason to be one of the leading contenders for the NCJCC pennant.

NCJCC Pennant Parade

	Won	Lost	Pct.	GB
Marin	2	0	1.000
San Francisco	3	1	.750	1
San Mateo	2	2	.500	1
Modesto	1	3	.250	2
Sacramento	0	2	.000	2

Hotel Division

Maine To Hawaii Represented

By Lucille Scott

Fame of the Hotel Division is world-wide, as shown by enrollment of students in the division from such far divergent points as the state of Maine and the territory of Hawaii, it was revealed recently.

Typical students, William Burger and Albert Fuller, filed applications for admission in the division while detailed to army duty in the Philippine Islands, and Michael Dolan read of the division in a list of vocational schools issued by the Army while in Biarritz, France.

Burger, whose family resides in San Rafael, is a cousin of former student Thorne Holmes, and sold the idea of taking the course to his buddy, Fuller, of Montgomery, Alabama.

Dolan, who had a taste of the hotel business before being inducted into the Army, drove out from Blair, Nebraska, bringing his wife and planning to stay "for the duration" of the course, if not longer.

From Maine, is Raymond de Saint-Cyr, and former student at the University of Hawaii is William Beers.

Simon McMahon, native of Scotland and naturalized citizen of the United States, heard of the course through the U. S. Veterans Administration in Chicago on his return from duty in the Pacific.

William Cuff of New York City, with a background of experience in restaurant work, decided while in Brussels with an outfit of U.S.A. Engineers to go forward in this line on his discharge from the Army.

Three former students of the division, whose Army service took them to various parts of the globe, returned to complete the course. Urdon Cruzan of Oakland, while in the South Pacific theater made his decision to continue his work in hotel training.

William Barker, returnee, is a grandson of the late Henry Barker, for many years operator of the Key Route Inn and later operator of other Bay Area hotels. Dominic Silvestrini, with talents and training in the field of baking, spent his military service in training cooks and bakers.

Hotel Division students "from Maine to Hawaii" relax in the spring sunshine for a moment. Standing left to right, they are, Olga Holl, William Cuff, William Burger, George Perton, Donn Rogers, Robert Powers, Paul Larquier and Rulon Ogden. Seated left to right are, Albert Fuller, Erwin Sliger, Michael Dolan, Pauline Feyne, Alfred Zadig and John Marks.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

• Beta Phi Beta: There will be a meeting Friday night at 892 Ashbury Street, San Francisco.

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: There will be a joint meeting with the Kappa Phi this Friday night at the home of Margaret Hillman, 260 - 30th Avenue.

• Alpha Delta Epsilon: Art students will exhibit paintings at Paul Elder's the week of April 20.

• Beta Tau: There will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight at 2980 Franklin near Chestnut. All members are asked to attend.

• Kappa Phi: See Tri Epsilon. To welcome the new pledges, there will be a meeting Monday, April 15.

• Theta Tau: Plans are being made for a joint meeting with the Beta Tau. New pledges will be welcomed at a meeting on Wednesday, April 24.

• Phi Beta Rho: There will be a meeting tonight at the home of Barbara Dean, 8 o'clock, 44 Maynard Street.

• Block Society: A meeting will be held this Friday during the college hour in Room 194.

• Engineering Society: Anyone interested in joining the society, may see Quinn Moss or Irving Diamond and obtain all necessary information.

• Delta Psi: There will be a meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. It will be held at Clare Hanaway's—1695 - 35th Avenue, Oakland. Take the "A" train from the terminal.

• Pep Club: The following officers were elected at the last meeting: Carman Garcia, president; Doris Doran, vice-president; Peggy Gruner, secretary. The next meeting will be held Thursday, April 25, at 2 p.m. in the Student Lounge. All members are urged to attend.

• Phi Epsilon Rho: New officers for this semester are Loys Daskarolis, president; Shirley Gingg, vice-president; Shirley Wood, secretary, and Roberta Reams, treasurer.

Plans are being made for a horse back ride April 14, and the club hopes to invite all physical education majors from the University of California and Stanford to visit the campus some time this semester.

• Pick and Hammer Club: The trip to Mount Hamilton will take place this Friday. Students will meet at 3 o'clock in Room 45.

Music

Russ Opera Supers Meet Tomorrow

Students who will act as supers in the forthcoming productions of the Russian Opera Company, scheduled to begin Friday, April 26, will meet in Room 200 at 2 o'clock tomorrow to receive instructions from Flossita Badger, music instructor, as to time and place of rehearsals.

The company will give performances of Prince Igor and The Snow Maiden, and Miss Badger is directing the chorus for both of these productions.

Thus far, six women students and 18 men students have been selected as paid extras with the company. They are Suzanna Greenfield, Charles Greenfield, Adele Reinisch, Hilga Haack, Robert Charles, Joseph Hilbers, Claire Bruiner, David Berry, Richard Dumont.

Robert Jackson, Morris Grodsky, Gilbert Jones, J. W. Tolly, Foster Robert Thomas, Beverly Blank, Nina Saharoff, and Fred Hammer.

Since the company specified that 25 men were wanted for these positions, Miss Badger stressed that there are still a few openings for men who are interested.

A male quartet, which has been newly organized this semester by four members of the A Cappella Choir, will give its first performance at a meeting of high school principals and junior college president, which will be held in Galileo High School, Monday, April 15.

Members are Stanley Stidham, Fred Hammer, Gene MacGowan, and David McDade. Peggy Gay accompanies them on the piano.

More About Council

(Continued from page 1)

Joe Moss, Publicity Committee chairman.

While the committee is promised the full support of both the student council and the Administration, and accordingly wields considerable power, the chairman definitely stated, "its function is not solely punitive, and that inherently the Judiciary Committee exists to enforce law, order and maintain the rights of the individual student."

Tilden To Discuss Scout Patrol Friday

Choosing for his topic The Boy Scout Movement, John L. Tilden, executive secretary of the San Francisco Boy Scouts, will address students of the Recreational Leadership curriculum Friday morning, April 12, between 9:55 and 10:40 a.m. (not during the college hour) in Room 194, Jules Fraden, instructor, said last week, inviting all students to attend.

More About Track

(Continued from page 3)

finished second in both the 100 and 200-yard dashes behind State's Hal Fox, was timed in :10.1 in the century and :22.2 in the 220. Bob Elliot will lead the college's high hurdlers.

The relay team, which is undefeated in two meets, may come through with a victory, according to informed observers on the scene.

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

Course In Manners, Number Of Hep Cat Escorts Debated

The Woman's Angle

By Jo Ellen Caln

Perhaps shocking and astonishing is what follows, but it is very true. Any woman can well afford the company of three boy friends—if wisely spaced.

Under such an arrangement, Collegiate Trevy would come first in the program of the week. He is always handy around the school. Trevy is the fellow who can always be relied upon when such things as programs, dances, rallies, and parties occur. He gladly takes her to college affairs and proudly lets it be known that "she's my girl."

After classes are over, however, Studious MacNanara enters the picture. MacNanara is the type of man who happens to live in her neighborhood (within a radius of 16 miles) and drops over during week nights to help her with homework. Especially around midterms and finals does he prove to be helpful. (She's his girl.)

But, come Friday and Saturday nights and the time for the young lady to hit the high spots. This is where Prosperous Glavia comes in. Glavia has a wonderful job and has been getting considerable raises of late. Since he is a working man, he always has sufficient funds and gladly takes her whirling everywhere she desires. (She's his girl.)

All this arrangement works out well until Collegiate Trevy, Studious MacNanara, and Prosperous Glavia happen to arrive on the poor lady's doorstep at one time, but with a little tact and a few artificial tears a smart woman can straighten the situation out.

The Man's Angle

By Edward S. Heyman

Last Saturday night I dated and had a very enjoyable time with one of the opposite sex. But good grief—what has happened? Where is chivalry? I don't mean that the lost are of being a gentleman is lost in just the men; no sir, and no ma'm, the ladies don't even give you a chance to practice what your fathers used to do as a habit.

About this date, she was a bouncing red-head. And when I say bounce, I mean Bounce! I stopped my car, (and it is in good running order), irr front of this woman's house, started to get out, when all of a sudden a red blur streaked down the stairs, skidded to a sudden stop and said, "Ill Ed, here's Red look what a wreck, bet later we'll trek." (All in one breath too.)

This creature didn't wait for me to open the door when she got in or out. She just bounced one way or the other. And at dinner, did she let me get to the rear of her chair first to assist her in my best Emily Post manner? The inevitable answer is, no.

These little things that would make your mothers ashamed of this generation went on all evening. The only polite gesture I was able to make all evening was to pay my share of the check. Oh where is the little old-fashioned girl. What has happened to the little subtle politeness? Should there be a course in manners?

Editorial

Veterans Want To Be Citizens

ONE point which should be clarified or at least discussed for the men and women of the college, is this book-store-and-class-room-talk about the veteran and the people who were forced to stay at home.

Countless people have said that there is no real difference between the returning veteran and the general populace, which seems to imply that global warfare and its consequent psychological results can be wiped out by a well-spoken phrase or written line. This is absurd, and here is why.

The majority of the mature male population (and this is inclusive of female veterans) have been away from home, and in most cases away from the United States, for from two to four years.

They have dreamed and fought to get home, but the termination of the war has found them no more psychologically fit to return to marriage or college than Hitler was fit to teach a course in theology. So from an analytical standpoint, because someone may say there is no difference does not change the fact of long years of dis-association.

Many people are not interested in this phase of the post-war world because, frankly, it's rather boring and there has been so much of it.

It has nothing to do with babying or giving in to the veteran. It is a problem which should be treated intelligently, rationally, and understandingly on both sides of the fence, for every situation has its opposite.

People seem to believe that veterans want to be veterans, and they don't; they want to be civilians and that, in their own way, is what they are trying to be. Some of them haven't caught on to how to do it yet. Give them time; they will. K.F.

XGI Group Obtains Lease On War Memorial

The XGI Society last week purchased a renewable one year lease for a room in the War Memorial Auditorium in which to hold their monthly meetings.

The next meeting will be held Friday evening, April 26, in Room 313, W.M.A., followed by group discussion at which refreshments will be served.

To enroll veterans who wish to apply for membership there will be a society representative in the student lounge from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. every day this week. Questions regarding the XGI will be answered at this time.

"All vets in the college are urged to join the XGI Society and take advantage of the many things offered, such as housing, scholastic coaching, and social activities," George Backman, secretary, declared.

Tom Dean, president of the society, stated that with an increased membership, hence more influence, the society will be able to solve most of the problems which confront the college veteran now.

Belated Examinations For Vets In Room 100

Veterans who missed the entrance examinations at registration time will have an opportunity to make them up tomorrow in Room 100 from 9 o'clock until 1 o'clock, according to Claude T. Silva, head of the Veteran's Administration at the college.

These tests will include the Otis arithmetic and English examinations and the Kuder Vocational Interest examination.

Wartime Orphans Offered Legion Scholarship

Orphans of either a World War I or II veteran are now offered scholarships by the American Legion to continue a college education, according to a letter from Legion officers received by Claude T. Silva, Veterans Administrator at the college, this week.

Anyone eligible for this scholarship is entitled to 400 dollars for the first year and 100 dollars a quarter thereafter to continue a college education, the letter said. Only stipulation is that the orphan must be in financial distress and could not go to college otherwise.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1946 No. 8

College Hour

Friday Speaker Will Urge Students To "Unite For Peace"

Mrs. Elizabeth McCandless, youth delegate, will deliver an address entitled Youth Unites For Peace, third in a series of President's Lectures, this Friday morning during the college hour in the men's gymnasium, Lloyd Luckmann, director of the President's Lecture, announced last week.

Mrs. McCandless met with other delegates at the conference in London last November to form the World Federation of Democratic Youth, an organization to promote better understanding and greater knowledge of the young people of the world.

A resident of Los Angeles, Mrs. McCandless was the only delegate from west of the Mississippi at the conference.

While attending the conference, Mrs. McCandless, with a group of other delegates, visited France, Germany and Russia. Once in France, she participated in a youth program designed to help reconstruct a town in France. Her job was to act as a brick layer's helper for a full day.

She is now assistant director of the Los Angeles Youth Project, which is now a part of the Council of Social Agencies.

Junior College Grads Eligible To Teach

To meet the serious shortage of elementary school instructors in this state, the University of California is offering a ten week Emergency Elementary Teacher Training Course, beginning Monday, June 20.

Students who are graduates of a junior college are eligible for enrollment. The institute will be held on the Berkeley campus and will consist of lectures, demonstrations, discussion, and conferences. Work in various methods of instructing and participation in activities with groups of children will be included in the course.

Emphasizing the importance of the situation, Registrar Paul J. Mohr declared, "Unless a great many instructors are available by next year, several hundred elementary schools in California will be unable to open." The cause of the shortage, according to Mohr, is purely set on a financial basis. When the war began many prospective instructors went into war industries instead of school work because they would receive higher wages.

Almost all recruits for the institute came from junior colleges in Northern California last year, according to official reports from the Department of Institutes at the University of California.

Enrollment applications for the Institute in Teacher Training Course may be secured from the registrar's office.

Second Adviser-Student Midterm Meet May 10

Procedure for the distribution of midterm grades will be the same as that followed at the end of the last midterm period, F. Grant Marsh, head counselor, announced last week. Students are to secure grades from their subject instructor by Friday and file them with their advisors at the meeting of students and advisors which is to be held during the College Hour on Friday, May 10, and not at 1

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

Food Drive

Frosh, Sophs To Start UNRRA Campaign Today; Winners To Participate In San Francisco Farmer's Mart Broadcast

In a race expected to be more than usually heated because of its sudden beginning, college organizations start a college-wide food collection campaign today, pacing San Francisco's official drive 12 days.

Main competition will be between the Freshman and Sophomore classes, although different college organizations and the group of students whose classes are held at the Excelsior School will participate.

Receptacles for the food will be placed in the main hall, Associated Students' office, deans' offices, registrar's office, and other prominent places throughout the college. Care should be taken to clearly label all receptacles so that credit will be given to the correct party, Dean Edward F. Sandys warned.

The leading class or organization as of this Friday will be chosen to represent the college at a huge broadcast to be held at the Farmers' Market. On May 4 and 11, food contributions will be turned over to John Brucato, chairman of the Farmers' Market Advisory Committee, where the food will be held until facilities for shipping and distribution have been devised.

Actual arrangements for shipment of the foodstuffs will be directed by Secretary of Commerce Wallace, as chairman of the National Committee, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Herbert Lehman, former UNRRA chief, as honorary chairman.

The drive will be culminated with an Associated Men and Associated Women Students' Barn Dance on May 10. Admission will be by jars and cans of food.

Dean of Men Edward E. Sandys had this to say of the food drive: "One world—or none, is a very true phrase. If we can keep the various peoples of the world in good economic condition, we will be prosperous ourselves.

"Some of us may not be philanthropically inclined and do not feel that we must practice the Biblical adage that each man is his brother's keeper; then from purely selfish motives, let's help those who are starving in other countries, for their well-being will increase our own standard of living. Whatever your attitude, let's give as much food as possible."

Sophomores

Five Events Feature Week's Activities

Plans for a hilarious Sophomore Week are now well under way, with the usual High Sophomore formal, dress-up day, breakfast, picnic, and choice of Sophomore King and Queen highlighting the program, according to Kent Bowker, sophomore class president.

Date for the formal has been definitely set as Friday, June 7. Both the Colonial and Italian Rooms at the St. Francis Hotel have been reserved, and dancing will be from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Dress-up day will also be June 7, all day, and the breakfast will be held on the morning following the formal, June 8.

Rounding out the week's activities, the picnic will take place on Sunday, June 9, probably at Fairfax

Contrary to previous custom, candidates for Sophomore King and Queen this year must be sophomores, Bowker said.

Cafe Opens Face, Bounces Upper Crust

Upper crusts will be few and far between in the cafeteria from now on. To conform with directives from the Famine Emergency Committee, "open faced" pies will be offered in place of the flour consuming double crust.

Mozelle Miliken, hotel division director, announced the cut-back in the use of flour and wheat products Friday. The menu hereafter will include fewer wheat and flour entrees.

To give closer control over coordination of production and sales, and to reduce "turn-backs" to a minimum, all sandwiches will be made in the cafeteria kitchens.

College Calendar

Nine Week Summer Term Begins June 27

One summer session will be held in 1946 at this college, according to an official calendar approved by the Board of Education.

The session will meet for nine weeks beginning June 27, and will close on August 30, with July 4 as the only holiday. A schedule of courses to be offered during this time will be available this month, J. Paul Mohr, registrar, said.

On September 12, the college will reconvene for the fall, 1946, semester. This semester will close on January 31, 1937. Holidays to be given are Thanksgiving, November 28, and 29, and December 16 to January 6, 1947, has been set aside for Christmas vacation.

Following the midterm recess, February 3, 4, 5, the spring session will start on February 6, and run to June 13.

March 31 to April 4 is the time designated for Easter vacation and May 30, Memorial Day, will be a college holiday.

Publications

Forum Contributions Due Next Monday

Warning was issued last night by Helen Ringius, editor of Forum Magazine, that the deadline date for contributions to that publication is rapidly approaching.

Monday, May 6, is the final date material can be accepted and students may turn in their work in prose, of not more than 1500 words, poetry or black and white medium art to faculty advisors Dorothy Mercer, Room 251; John Gerstung, Room 257, or to Miss Ringius.

This year's issue will definitely appear in printed form rather than mimeographed as in previous editions. Forum Magazine will appear for sale some time in late May or early June. Tickets for their purchase are expected to be available prior to publication, as customary.

Other editors who are working on the staff of the Forum Magazine are Fred Mayer and George Albertus, Art Editors; Jeffry Burress, Marilyn Zita, Paul Cane, and Gwen Slovenko, Assistant Editors.

Music

Six Junior College Choral Groups To Sing Next Tuesday

A performance of choral groups representing six junior colleges will mark the return of a pre-war custom as The Northern California Junior College Musical Festival makes its appearance on Tuesday, May 7, it was announced last week by Flossita Badger, music instructor here.

Miss Badger, who is in charge of the entire affair, announced that an attractive program has been arranged for the event.

Headlining the program, which is sponsored by San Francisco State College, will be a concert at 2 p.m. in which all of the six junior college musical groups will participate. The concert will be held at the First Baptist Church, Octavia and Fell Streets.

A dance and reception will follow this concert, after which another shorter concert will be presented by the choral group at San Francisco State College.

The six participating colleges are San Francisco, Marin, San Mateo, Modesto, Salinas, and Stockton Junior Colleges. Unable to attend this year, are Sacramento, Yuba, and Santa Rosa Junior Colleges.

Heading a list of notables who are expected to attend, is Dr. Roy Freeburg, who is in charge of the San Francisco State College arrangements for the fete.

Miss Badger, acting on behalf of all of the colleges, invited all who enjoy choral music to attend.

39 Students Apear In Russian Operas

Seventeen members of the college A Cappella Choir, as well as 22 students who acted as supers in the San Francisco Russian Opera Company's production of Prince Igor last Friday night at the War Memorial Opera House, will also perform in the company's production of The Snow Maiden, by Rimsky-Korsakoff, the first performance of which will be given this Saturday, May 4.

Flossita Badger, music instructor here, has directed the chorus for both productions, surmounting the difficult task of teaching Russian songs to people who have had no previous knowledge of the language.

Approximately half of the chorus is composed of students here, and with the addition of the supers, the college is unusually well represented in the production.

Prince Igor will again be presented on Friday evening, May 11, and another performance of The Snow Maiden will be given on Friday evening, May 11.

AWS-AMS Barn Dance Slated For Men's Gym

Plans are now under way for the staging of the traditional Associated Women Student-Associated Men Student Barn Dance which will be held in the men's gymnasium Friday, May 10, from 9 to 12, Nancy Cunningham, AWS president, announced last week.

The dance will attempt to recapture the spirit of '49, with Virginia reels, square dances, and perhaps hog-calling, Miss Cunningham said. Keeping with the spirit of the evening, western or cowboy attire and ginghams will be appropriate.

Miss Cunningham also announced that the annual tea given in honor of high school women will be held on Thursday, May 16. Twenty students from each high school have been invited, and all indications point toward the success of the tea.

Forum Heads Supervise Advertising

Editor Ringius Wants To Teach English

By George Lajeunesse

Editors of college literary magazines are almost invariably typed as being of the "long-haired" variety, burled under a mountain of manuscript, forever searching for the great American novel, and sooner or later winding up teaching English.

Therein lies the story of Helen Ringius, this year's editor of Forum Magazine, shown at right with Business Manager Jim Helmer, supervising Anita Kreuer as she works on Forum posters.

Miss Ringius aspires to instructing English in her future years, but any comparison can cease at this point, for she proves herself a refreshing exception to the rule.

She, however, claims reading English literature as her favorite hobby and her main ambition in life is to complete a major in English at the University of California, followed by a long, leisurely trip to Greece.

A San Francisean by birth, Miss Ringius graduated from Mission High School. She served as a stenographer at the Anglo-California Bank before entering the college in the spring of 1944.

—An enthusiastic booster of Forum Magazine, Miss Ringius was named assistant editor of last year's issue. As editor of the current edition she hopes to see them "go like hotcakes" when placed on sale.

Jim Helmer Watches Magazine's Budget

From Denver, high in the Colorado Rockies, comes Jim Helmer, a transplanted San Francisean who holds the position of business manager for Forum Magazine.

Graduated from George Washington High School here in the city he is now preparing for graduation from the college this coming June.

After a stretch in the Army Transportation Corps during the war, he entered college to continue an interrupted career in the field of veterinary science. His ambitions point toward Cornell University in the East and, on the completion of a five year course, to engaging in embryological research.

Clean-cut in appearance, and typically athletic, Helmer is fond of tennis, riding and shooting an occasional round of golf. In relaxing he prefers varied non-fiction to fiction in his reading.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 8 Wednesday, May 1, 1946 Page 2

Student Government

Rule Enforcement

A LONGSTANDING policy of the Board of Education, which also applies to this college, is one which does not permit raffles, drawings or solicitations for money by campus organizations for purposes other than aiding, for example, the National Red Cross, similar institutions or Administration-approved charities.

For some considerable time this ruling has been elaborately overlooked by practically all clubs at the college, either through ignorance or convenient forgetfulness, and for a number of semesters, including the present one, clubs have introduced the custom of swelling their funds by the sale of tickets for raffles, or "drawings"

The sale of tickets, however, has not been confined between clubs but students belonging to the Association at large have constantly been approached, and have proved the best and most numerous sources of revenue.

In addition, it is the practice of sororities to assign to their pledges the job of filling glass jars with pennies, again the most satisfactory source proving to be the Association as a whole, since penalties (not in themselves severe) are sometimes imposed on pledges failing to obtain satisfactory results.

Consequently, students become the objects of extremely high pressure salesmanship.

These practices from which solely the clubs concerned and the winner of a "carton of cigarettes" or a "pair of nylons" derive any benefit, are unfair to the average non-organizational member of the college, and serve to contribute to the always existent anti-fraternity and anti-sorority sentiment.

The Judiciary Committee, in ruling that these illegal practices shall no longer be tolerated on or off the campus, is not only enforcing the Board of Education's policy, but is also through its action enforcing the protection which it affords the ordinary college student.

P.A.S.

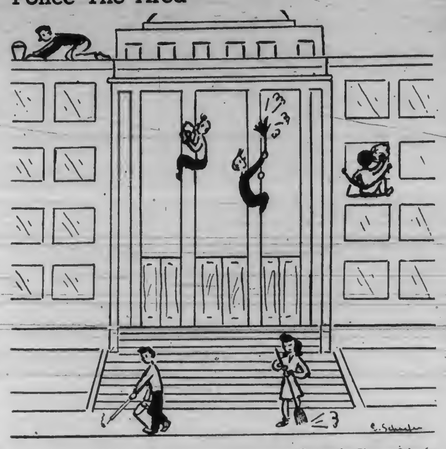
Trash Belongs In Cans

RECENTLY a not too successful campaign was introduced to the Associated Students. This campaign consisted of the posting of "Throw trash in the garbage cans" signs strategically around the campus. Unfortunately, "paper" isn't the only form of trash strewn all over the grounds by thoughtless students who can't seem to drag themselves as far as the trash receptacles.

Because of this lack of vitality on the part of the students, the lawns and walks are constantly littered with miscellaneous debris. This condition is particularly prevalent on the sunny days when some students eat their lunches outside the building. One would think that they would take enough pride in their campus to dispose of their scraps properly.

A month or more ago President A. J. Cloud proposed the scheme of having a campus clean-up day in the college. If this measure were adopted, perhaps it would start careless students on the right path for a neater college and prevent a revolt of long suffering college janitors.

C.G.



Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pemela Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gannon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheehy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cervanor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor

REPORTERS: Dell Bain, John Bayler, Jean Beard, Trav Burrow, Peter Carlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Rudolf Luft, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, George Lajeunesse, Shirley Langston, Howard Lavy, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Rainisch, Rosalie Rhode, James Riggi, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scot, Barbara Stephen, Stelon Webster, Merorlie Wheatly, Jeanne Willems.

Staff Photographer ..... Don Lum
Joan Nourse Muscle ..... Faculty Advisor

Police The Area

Cartoon by Eleanor Schaefer

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

The Purpose Of Names, Their Derivation, Or What Started Them?

EXPERTS have said that people's names are derived from the occupations in which their ancestors were engaged. This fact gives rise to the question as to which came first, the human or the "it".

As an illustration, take a word like beach. Everyone known what a beach is. It is now brought to light that there are also people who bear the appellation Beach to distinguish them from the Cannons, the Bushes, and the Papers whom they resemble so distinctly.

What we would like to know is, did the Beaches take their name from the thing that is so nice to lie on when the sun is shining brightly, or did their ancestors who possessed the name given that name to the seashore?

In a larger survey, such articles as chairs, beds, lamps, and other commodities would probably be found as final denominations belonging to real live human beings. But where do these names originate?

The names which are found in the Bible and in other great world literature are more or less assumed to be traditional and are merely accepted as existing entities. The Joneses and the Johnsons are likewise accepted because they are numerous and have their background firmly established from the days of the old Anglo-Saxons. The Smiths and the various names which have been derived from the rainbow similarly offer little nourishment for the cranial cavity, since their origin is rather obvious.

The remainder of the names are either odd sounding vowels and consonants mixed together without any seeming thought to euphony, and meaning absolutely nothing to anyone aside from their association with the person or persons who claim them as their personal and all-inclusive descriptions. Of course, many names which mean nothing in the English language have a very definite meaning in the language from which they are derived.

Having, to a certain extent, explained many of the various designations belonging to people, another inquiry comes to mind. Should our names serve only that one purpose, as the greater majority appear to, and exclude entirely designations, which bear other connotations as well, or should we refuse to do anything about the quick-arriving complete destruction of the entire planet, thereby nullifying all such profound thought?

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

The musical world is still in a turmoil over the Herd's concert at Carnegie Hall early this month. All the music was cheeringly appreciated except the concerto by Igor Stravinsky. Jumpmen and longhairs alike don't know whether they like it. It was a terrific job for the personnel to conquer anything as difficult as the work.

This does not mean that the work was too difficult from a technical standpoint, but the mental obstacle was really something to overcome. Quoting one of Stravinsky's associates, "These men have such a very broad conception of all kinds of music while concert men are so narrow."

This was a very fine and true compliment to the men of the Herd. At this time Herman has some of the finest men in the country sitting in. Fine men not only in the lead chairs, as in some of the main orks, but dependable in all chairs. The Herman crowd did an excellent job on the concerto, but the question now is whether the public will accept the concerto.

Comment by the boys after playing the concerto:

"Well, that's over; now we can really go."

Flips and twirls go this week to Herman.

Notice to Swing Hating Educators . . . The Los Angeles Public Night School is offering an adult class in American Jazz. Jazz has been called the one thing that America has offered to music. Flips for L. A. Public Schools.

For the local music hounds the place to go is the Back Stage. Entertaining is the Art Russet trio. The outstanding combo around is featured at the Band Box in Redwood City. A five-man combo headed by drummer, Lou Watkins, is the fine noise. Most sensational of the quintet is trumpeter, Ernie Royal. Royal is very close to McGhee and Gillespie in style, but has enough of his own very fine ideas to make his blowing very marvelous to hear. It's fine, cut it.

Something that the swing fans have been waiting for has finally happened. When Bobby Sherwood waxed The Elks' Parade a few years back, it was received with fine acclaim. Sherwood has finally come on again with his latest disc, Cotton Tail. It is a good composition but very much on the Herman kick.

Stephen

RAMifications

WHEN the typical blustering of the Great Gildersleeve is put to use against a problem of intense national concern, then, indeed, has that problem reached a peak which few individuals can refuse to notice. The apex of interest is the present pitiful housing situation that is gradually frustrating even the most mild of man.

The great Red Skelton, Bob Hope, Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Burns and Allen, and any other top-flight comedian that can be mentioned is slinging mud at Congress and its OPA about the housing shortage—perhaps with the vain hope that something will be done about it.

But houses cannot be built without lumber, cement, steel, and other items that are totally unprocurable at this moment because of an economic situation caused by OPA restrictions and the uncanny ability of the average human being to do unto others so that he can get a little more of that vital substance commonly referred to as money.

* * * * * *

Is it the politicians, or is it just John Q. Public? The trend of events seems to indicate the latter, and if this is the case, it is high time that John Q. Public got on his horse and began to see the pitfalls that he can't miss in his present state of oblivion.

According to James Crowley, the Washington correspondent, the entire House of Representatives is asleep to its duty, and the respective members are even going so far as to pass "joker bills" which, in substance, apologize to their constituents for the poor job they are doing with the legislative powers granted to them by the Constitution.

Re-election means relatively little to the merry-makers of Washington who really can't be blamed for their action, for they were sent to Washington by people who were supposed to know what they were doing.

The requirements for voting, however, are even more vague than in our very first election. The latest question that has been raised before the Supreme Court is whether it is necessary for a citizen to be sane when he votes. The dispute has not at the time of writing been heard, but if the negation wins out, the best place for the American people is in the nearest booby hatch. They will all unknowingly end up there anyway.

Cumming

After Dark

OVER the past two weeks, a great deal of excellent entertainment has piled up. It would only be right for the Theater Guild musical Oklahoma to head the list. It is unfortunate that this very fine show has had such a short run here in San Francisco, but it has been rumored that it will return after its Los Angeles run. It would indeed be unfortunate, if, during their sojourn down South, they were rounded in by the Hollywood boys, for to have this show expanded into the typical extravaganza would be a very great crime.

Oklahoma is no ordinary musical. It is one of the gayest and most jubilant shows going around and yet one of the most unpretentious. With some of the best songs which are heard these days, and which seem just as fresh now as they ever were, and with several top notch ballet sequences by Agnes de Mille, this show is one of the finest things you could see.

Recently at the Clay Theater was It Happened At The Inn, which is the first film to arrive here from postwar France. The story which on the surface would seem wild is quite incredibly subtle and builds up smoothly and really magnificently. It makes no difference whether you understand French, for the titles in English cover everything very thoroughly. The plot involves the family of Goupi, who act like a bunch of Fleagles who have just seen You can't Take It With You. Fine entertainment and recommended heartily to all.

It is unfortunate that Rita Hayworth, as tempestuous and bewitchy Gilda, should have interrupted the showing of the very excellent film The Seventh Veil, the latest English film, with Ann Todd and James Mason. However, it will be coming around the neighborhoods, and it would be wise to take it in. The background music of the London Philharmonic with Eileen Joyce at the piano is fine.

One has to remark upon that terrible blunder called Smooth As Silk shown with The Seventh Veil. It would not even be worth mentioning at all except for the utterly fabulous sequence in which young, country-sis-innocent asks her rich actress-sister what she should wear for the evening. The actress replied, "Oh, wear any old thing," at which point she picks up a $35,000 mink and hurls it at her sister.

* * * *

Eugene List, young American pianist, recently of the Army and the Potsdam conference, is appearing here tomorrow with the Janssen Symphony. That he should play Tschaikovsky's 1st Piano Concerto, we suppose, is inevitable.

LOST—A maroon Parker Lifetime fountain pen with name engraved Barbara Jane Stephen. Finder please return to The Guardsman office or Room 189.

RAMblings . .

By Bob Catudio

HE is wisest who has the most caution,
He only wins who goes far enough.
Walt Whitman

Duly skeptical about the outcome, Bill Fischer will lead a Saturday afternoon assault in the Capitol City when the locals start antagonizing the Sacramento Panthers.

Thanks to 20 days of rest via byes and holidays, the Rams have posted a catchy "5 and 1" record in the NCJC baseball conference.

Recently, during a pre-Easter lull, Bill Collins threw a right-handed 4 to 1 triumph over San Francisco State College. Collins was the victim of a few perilous panels, but still managed to top the summary marque a la William Gillette.

But here's the rub!

STATERS ARE OVER-CONFIDENT

Earlier in the season, following a 9 to 4 setback at the hands of the Staters, the Gator press, bereft of authenticity, emitted reams of verbal arpeggios—garrulous classics like:

Gators Score 27th Straight Win Over Rams—Jaysees Lose No. 27 To State.

Naturally, through no fault of the players or Fischer, this caustic chant from the Buchanan Street brain emporium suddenly drugged the locals with naught but sweet revenge.

"The sleeping dog has finally awakened," Fischer opined. "I don't mind losing a ball game, but when the opposition starts harping on 27 straight wins—well, jez, you know I'm kind of glad to beat 'em (S. F. State) at that."

Good news, too, is the end of Jimmy McNamara's batting slump, which snapped violently at Sau Rafael against the portside slants of Art Shallock of Marin. Shallock, in our books, bids fair to becoming one of the best pitchers in the loop.

LITTLE MAC TALKS

McNamara bashed out a single, double, and triple in three trips to the plate; walked once; stole two bases; scored thrice; batted in a run; and engineered two important double plays.

Between games, the silent one devoured a smattering of retail vitamins while Marin statisticians stared threats of mayhem.

"You're hitting the ball pretty good, Mac."

"Yep."

"Also, a little more luck and you might've had a homer."

"Yep."

"Your ankle doesn't bother you too much, does it?"

"Nope."

Very talkative gent, this guy McNamara!

Eisan Offers Preview Of Autumn Grid Power

Bolstered by a moderate return of pre-draft veterans and an enthusiastic turnout of more than 50 gridders, Head Football Coach Lee Eisan will direct an autumnal preview of his 1946 gridiron production with a light workout and scrimmage this afternoon on the college practice field.

Experienced hands joining the Eisan clan from service include Carter Corey, Al "Duke" Drake, Art Ekdali, Georgia Newell, and Glen Smith.

Newcomers who have caught the appraising eye of Eisan are Don Honnert and Cal Copsey, both standout performers at Lowell High School last year, and Frank Bennett, late of St. Mary's College.

Candidates for berths on the Ram eleven include Arfst Arfsten, Larry Bangs, Ken Bergstrom, Jim Barry, Izzy Bless, Tony Blanotta, Henry Coustelle, Dale DeLacey, Leo Fratessa, Raoul Gilbert, Cliff Gray, Bill Harmon, Leon Jacobson, Al Lee, Henry LeMaitre, Bob Loberg, Charley Seger, Al Terranova, Ellis Udaif, Carl Warmdahl, Tom Wong, and Ray Young.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 8 WEDNESDAY, MAY 1, 1946 Page 3

Football

Honest, Men, SF-LA Grid Date Okehed

Well, men, this time it's true!

After a month of veritable haggling between both parties, the oft-discussed San Francisco-Los Angeles City College football classic has officially been okehed, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, disclosed here yesterday.

The forthcoming season's contest will be played in Los Angeles on November 2, while the Rams will host the Angelenos, presumably in an are light fracas, in 1947.

Intramural

Grand Finale Set; BandasTopLeague

Culminating a semester of hard fought activity, the decks are now being cleared for the All Intramural Sport Night slated for Friday, May 24, in the men's gymnasium, first event starting at 7:30 p.m.

Scheduled for finale playoffs are the cage team finalists from the National and American Leagues, the boxing finals, and the badminton and table tennis championships.

Thus far, three cage squads, (two in the National loop and one in the American circuit) have unblemished records, but the undefeated Banda quintet is "still the team to beat." Other unbeaten clubs are the Portals, American League leaders, with a 4 and 0 record, and the Gung Ho aggregation, with a natty 3 and 0 performance to their credit.

Intramural Cage Leaders

National League:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Banda	5	0	1.000
Gung Ho	3	0	1.000
Demons	3	2	.600

American League:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Portals	4	0	1.000
Rovers	3	2	.600

(Four teams tied for third place.)

Results of games played April 11 and 12:

Portals 46, Phillips "77" 27.
Demons 35, Del's Randles 31.
Rovers 52, Redskins 40.
Gung Ho 50, XGI Doggies 36.
Stanfel's 30, East Bay Boys 26.
Bando 40, Vagabonds 26.

The following games have been scheduled in the National League to be played tomorrow in the men's gymnasium:

3:15 p.m.
Banda vs. Gung Ho.
Del's Dandies vs. Hayshakers.
Stanfel's vs. Eagles.
4:15 p.m.
XGI Doggies vs. Vagabonds.
East Bay Boys vs. Demons.

American League games for Friday, May 3, are as follows:

3:15 p.m.
Hoots vs. Chinese Club.
Phillips "77" vs. XGI Swabbies.
4:15 p.m.
Borlo B. C. vs. Rovers.
Portals vs. Mustangs.

The intramural swimming meet has been tentatively set for Thursday, May 9, at the Jefferson High School Pool. First event to start at 3:30 p.m.

Entries are still being accepted in the men's gymnasium, with the deadline announced as noon, May 3.

Track

Thin Clads In Romp With Marin, Mateo On Lake Merced Oval

Locking horns with exclusive junior college competition for the first time this season, the college trackmen will meet Marin and San Mateo Junior Colleges in a tri-way meet on State's Lake Merced field this coming Saturday, with the first scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m.

The ever-improving Rams, who seem to be developing the enjoyable habit of defeating their cross-town rivals, San Francisco State, in practice meets, rule as favorites to take their visitors into camp. The rams have proved in previous meets that they are the leading junior college team in this area.

The thin-clads of the college are a team which is comparatively strong in both track and field events, and will no doubt possess the best mile relay team in Northern California junior college track circles.

C. E. Anderson, ace weight and discus man of the Rams, has been improving his early season efforts and can be counted on for points in Saturday's meet. Eddie Bryant, former Castlemount High ace, will pace the Ram sprinters.

Bryant revenged two previous defeats at the hands of State's Hal Fox, when he nosed Fox out in the 100-yard dash last week, Bryant being timed in :9.8.

Bob Elliott and Bob Pederson will represent the Rams in the low and high hurdles. Tom Kellog and George Albertus, long distancemen, will, without a doubt, come through with top places for the college. Kellog has consistently finished second behind top middle distancemen from California and Stanford Universities.

Construction Complete On New Handball Annex

Completion of a four wall handball court at the south end of the men's gymnasium, estimated cost of construction approximating more than $375, was announced this week by John Gaddy, college physical education director.

Men students are invited to make use of the court from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the school week.

Tennis, Golf Hopefuls To Clash At Stanford

Tennis hopefuls from the NCJC net circuit will battle it out for the conference diadem at Stanford University, Friday and Saturday, May 3 and 4, it was disclosed this week by Tom Wilson, local tennis maestro.

Elsewhere on the Cardinal campus, conference golfers will tee off at 9 a.m. Friday, May 3, in 18 holes of medal play to be followed later in the afternoon with first round matches.

TOM GALVIN, peppery second sacker of Bill Fischer's league-leading Rams. The ex-Balboa High Schooler is currently tapping the ball for a hefty .440 average.
Photo by Lum

WAA

San Jose Scene Of May 4 "Play Day"

Competing in an intercollegiate Play Day for the first time since 1941, 39 women of the Women's Athletic Association will participate in a day long menu of athletics on the campus of San Jose State College this coming Saturday, starting at 9:30 a.m.

Activities will include the following: archery, badminton, softball, swimming, tennis, and volleyball. Women should plan to enter only one of the events listed above as all activities will be scheduled more or less simultaneously and in different localities on the campus.

Beside the local WAA, Santa Rosa, Salinas, San Mateo, Marin, and San Francisco State College will also participate to bring the approximate number of total participants to more than 175 women.

Competitors from the college will include:

Ann Ahokas, Hilga Haack, Mildred Hoffman, Frances Sellhote, Janice Beanston, Wanda McKenzie, Mary Mathews, Lois Weber, Alma Pucci, Betty Rhodes, June Monzakis, Roberta Reams, Virginia Wickman, Nadine Laery, Leona De Bique, Susan Miles, Joan LeNoir, Leona Kruse, Gwen Jones, Norma Busse.

Elenor Mackie, Dee Roberts, Loys Daskarolis, Marjorie Robinson, Rita Chow, Connie Trigonnis, Shirley Burnett, Elizabeth Kabeary, Lorina Olsen, Rosemary Elms, Lorraine Hanahan, Barbara McClintock, Joan Kato, Mary Jo Miles, Wilma Krase, Pat Tyler, Betty Alton, Zetta Ravekes, and Mercedes Treverton.

In lieu of the "intercollegiate aspect," the affair will more or less be staged in an atmosphere of friendly relations in an effort to bolster the renewal of competition amongst the competing colleges.

NCJCC PENNANT RACE

	Won	Lost	Pct.	G.B.
San Francisco	5	1	.833	.....
San Mateo	3	2	.600	1½
Modesto	3	3	.500	2
Marin	2	4	.333	3
Sacramento	1	4	.250	3½

Baseball

Fischer Clan Faces Sad Sacs; Collins Seeks Fourth Win

Starting the second half of the NCJC loop at the top rung of the baseball ladder, the Ram nine travels northward to the Capitol City to meet the home town Sacramento Panthers, this coming Saturday afternoon in a circuit twin bill.

Starting time for the first game is 12:30 p.m.

What with three weeks of rest behind them, the Bill Fischer clan will be in tip top condition for the Sad Sac fray. Bill Collins will ascend the hill in the first game and Charley Brabbit will hurl the abbreviated nightcap.

In winning three straight conference tilts, Collins has proved himself one of the best hurlers in the league bar none. The bespectacled right-hander has thus far whitewashed the Sacs with three hits; limited Modesto to five blows; and tossed a four hitter at Marin.

In their last meeting, the Rams twice bested the Solons, 7 to 0, and 5 to 4.

Lineups:

San Francisco	Pos.	Sacramento
Collins, Brabbit	P	Patterson,Link
Homsey, Cane	C	Jordan
McIntire	1B	Link
Galvin	2B	Ferri
Ranuio	3B	Lane
McNamara	SS	Priebe
Sabatini	LF	Ward
Ratto	CF	Clark
Anderson	RF
Follini	RF	Kirtland

McIntire, Galvin Top Local NCJC Offensive

First Baseman Ralph McIntire and scrappy second sacker Tom Galvin maintained their lead in the local batting picture in the NCJC baseball conference, unofficial statistics disclosed today.

Bill Collins is still the loop's number one chucker with a "3 and 0" record.

Leading hitters:

Player—	AB	R	H	RBI	SO	BB	Ave.
McIntire	17	6	9	2	5	3	.529
Galvin	25	3	11	7	3	1	.440
Ratto	20	3	8	1	3	1	.400
Houghton	5	1	2	2	2	1	.400
McNamara	17	5	6	3	4	1	.353
Anderson,C.	15	3	5	1	3	2	.333
Sabatini	18	4	5	4	5	1	.278
Cane	8	1	2	0	0	0	.250
Ranuio	20	3	4	3	6	4	.200
Keck	6	1	1	0	1	1	.167
Homsey	14	1	2	1	3	1	.143
Follini	9	1	1	3	3	0	.111

(Pitching records):

	IP	RA	HA	SO	BB	W	L	Pct.
Collins	27	4	12	23	15	3	0	1.000
Brabbit	9	8	8	6	6	1	0	1.000
Koehe	10	10	11	3	3	1	1	.500
Allemande	1	3	2	0	1	0	0	.000

More About Midterms

(Continued from page 1)

o'clock, May 9, the time announced previously.

Instructors will indicate the grades on midterm examination papers which have been given the past two weeks.

AMS - Intramural Boxing Carnival Scheduled May 24

With a wealth of material from which to draw, the college's long sought resumption of the Associated Men Students - Intramural semi-annual boxing show will become a reality on Friday, May 24, in the men's gymnasium starting at 7:30 p.m.

Entries are still being accepted by Jack Gaddy and Tom Wilson of the physical education department and a "deadline has already been set for noon of Wednesday, May 8.

Preliminary bouts from which finalists will be determined have not been scheduled thus far, according to Gaddy, but it is presumed that elimination bouts may be staged next week.

Prelims Set Soon

All men who enter the fistic carnival will be required to pass a minor physical examination, and once an entry is submitted, continuous training is a "definite prerequisite" leading to the inaugural three-rounders.

Returning from the wars after three years of service, Al "Duke" Drake, massive 190 pounder, is the only experienced battler who will participate in the coming show.

Following the nine or ten scheduled matches, finalists from the American and National Basketball Leagues will square off in a battle for the coveted intra tourney cage crown.

Championship matches in table tennis and badminton have also been scheduled for play in the men's gymnasium.

The presentation of intramural awards will be made during the intermission.

Gold and silver medallions and gloves will be presented to the first and second place winners, respectively, it was announced yesterday by Gaddy.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

•Alpha Delta Epsilon: The art society will have a showing at Paul Elders from May 21 to June 8.

•Alpha Lambda Chi: New pledges are: Phyllis Beetz, Lois Brewer, Alice Clayton, Angela Cooke, Genie Helm, Marjorie Jones, Lyndell Kratoff, Elinor Mackie, Beverly Mayers, Peggy McDonald, Theda McClarne, and Pat Sheeren.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: A picnic will be held at Fairfax Sunday, May 5. All those who plan to attend must sign up in Room 108 or 158 as soon as possible. Plans are being made for a Mother's Day Tea on May 16.

•Beta Phi Beta: A meeting will be held Monday night at 892 Ashbury.

•Beta Tau: All members are invited to attend a Reunion Dinner tonight at 7:30 p.m. at Lucca's.

•Bible Club: More students are urged to attend the meetings held during the club hour. Anyone interested in the study of the Bible with others, is invited to Room 312.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: There will be a joint meeting with Theta Tau this Friday night.

•Forum Club: The subject, Is College Offering Me What I Want? will be discussed on Saturday at 8 p.m. at 2251 Jackson Street.

•Kappa Phi: New pledges are Pat Allen, Pat Arenburg, Rita Buscaglia, Jennette Harshaw, Audrey Kemme, Betty Knudsen, Bobbie Krenkel, Barbara Larson, Sabina Magio, Barbara Puckhaver, Marion Walker, and Marilyn Wissing.

•Pep Club: The next meeting will be held tomorrow. All persons interested in becoming active members should attend.

•Theta Tau: There will be a short business meeting before the joint meeting with the Tri E's on Friday evening, at the home of Bessie Babin, 524 Magellan Avenue. The following women are being pledged: Lee Ann Boner, Mary Jane Corkrum, Beverly Huff, Nancy Hutchinson, Jay Phillo, Laura Pierce, and Clairess Platt.

Registrar

147 Sophs Petition For Degrees June 21

One hundred forty-seven sophomores have filed petitions to graduate this semester, according to files in the registrar's office.

Commencement exercises will be held on Friday, June 21.

The following are the prospective AA degree holders:

John Anderson, Robert Angwin, Elva Azevedo, Audrey Barthold, Janice Beanston, Raymond Bergman, Lois Blackmore, Beverly Blank, Theodore Bofinger, Harmon Bonte, Jr., Josephine Bosoni, Richard Bottini, Lida Branstead, Bernard Brickman, Virginia Burke, Shirley Burnett, Jeffry Burress, Evan Cameron, Jack Carlisle, Peter Cerlanti, Barbara Chambers, Laura Chatelain.

Rose Chin, Suzette Chin, Pansy Chow, Rita Chow, John Cochrane, Wallace Colthurst, Ellen Cronenwett, Margarita Cusicanqui, Julius DeVaros, Joseph Dean, Helen Delegeane, Irving Diamond, Betty Doherty, Laura Drake, Margueritie Dumont, Vivian Fong, Helena Fudem, Anna Fung, Margaret Fung, Elvera Fusco, Richard Gawthorne, Hilda Ghio, Ilio Giusti, Dorothy Gooding, Donald Grant.

Phyllis Greenly, Francis Griswold, Victor Hancock, Marie Harrell, Carol Hayland, James Hoo, Elizabeth Howard, Margaret Howe, Emma Jair, Constance Jehe, Ruth Jones, Maelene, Jong, Betty Jorgensen, Margaret Kay, Rugh Kay, Vahram Kesoian, Arline Kiley, Joan Kitkoski, Anita Kruer, Olla Lacy, Mary Lambe, Earl Lawrence, Betty Lee, Helen Leong, Marilyn Levison.

Irvin Lotze, Marion Loucks, Beverly Lucas, Phyllis Lucassen, Maurice Lynch, Priscilla McDonald, Wanda McKenzie, Mary McSwanson, Beatrice Mahoney, Patricia Mahoney, Jean Maples, Merle Marx, Fred Mayer, Susan Miles, Anita Morholt, Allan Moss, Joseph Moss, Helen Moustakas, Irene Mouzakis, Raymond Mueller, Ann Newell, William Newell, Jo Ann O'Day, Berton Oldham.

Age-Old Art Modernized

Pictured above is ceramics instructor Roy Walker, who is shown removing from the kiln a newly hardened plate.
—Photo by Kemp

Ceramic Craft Joins Curriculum

By James Riggs

One of the newest additions to the academic assembly line is Roy Walker's ceramics workshop on the third floor. Here the age-old art of pottery undergoes a few modern twists and emerges in the form of the specialized artistic field of ceramic handicraft.

Walker defined ceramics as "the study of earthenware produets, clays, glazes, and the building of modern ceramic shapes, with special emphasis on line form and surface enrichment." He also pointed out the phase of the course dealing with ceramic sculpture, which, he says, "is more or less American folk art in sculpture."

Briefly, there are three steps to development of ceramic products. The clay is carefully shaped to the desired pattern, then dried and hardened in the heat of the kiln, just as the Indians made their pottery dishes and jars. After the clay is fired it is given a shiny, non-porous finish by glazing.

"Glazing," Walker explained, "is simply coating the clay with a thin coating of glass."

Ceramics, comparatively new, in the modern sense, was used extensively in the field of occupational therapy during the war. This field, in which Walker was an instructor, helps the patient regain control of the muscles by the simple process of using them.

The course offered at the college is geared to fill the needs of three categories of students, Walker said. It is a semi-professional course for those who plan to enter the commercial end of ceramics, but includes students interested in three-dimensional form, and those who have found ceramics a fascinating hobby.

Margaret Walsh, Jacquelyn Wells, Leone Wilkes, Jeanne Williams, Eleanore Wohler, Roy Wong, Chuck Yee, Eugenia Yick, Marilyn Zito, and George Zoloth.

Mt. Zion Nurses Ask Women To Tea May 11

Commemorating Hospital Day, student nurses and the faculty of Mt. Zion Hospital School of Nursing last week invited sophomore women to tea at the Nurses' Residence, 2345 Sutter Street, Saturday, May 11, at 3 p.m. Women are requested to sign up with Dean Margaret Dougherty in her office.

Gloria Papazian, Frances Perscheid, William Piercy, Ernest Poggi, Edith Pressey, Victor Pudlowski, Lanore Quinnette, Dorothy Quong, Letta Ravelver, James Reed, Roberta Reed, John Rehfish, Rosalie Rhode, Julia Rice, Helen Ringius, Dorothy Rosenthal, Annette Sabel, Nini Saharoff, Pamela Sampson, Anthony Scaramozi, Nancy Schulz, Richmond Sedley, Laurence Sifers.

Beverly Simpson, Gwendolyn Slovenko, Helen Smerneotes, Rafael Solis, June Souza, Jeanne Sprott, Lois Stanfel, Maria Stanick, Barbara Stephen, Dwight Straub, Mary Sullivan, Norman Sun, Joe Sweet, Dorothy Switzer, Andra Tegelberg, Theodore Theodus, Jeanne Titus, Lester Tom, Constanee Trigonis, Arnold Wagner,

Galileo Alumni

Grads Observe 25th Anniversary June 6

Galileo High School will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary with a banquet given by the Alumni Association, Thursday, June 6, at 6:45 p.m. in the Galileo cafeteria.

A reservation, the price of which will be $1.25 per plate, may be made by writing to Ras Johnson, principal of Galileo.

The school began its quarter-century history in the Red Cross Building, Civic Center, in 1921, and moved to its present location at Van Ness Avenue and Bay Street in 1924. The first principal was Joseph P. Nourse, who in 1936 became Superintendent of Schools, and is now retired.

Subsequent principals were Fred Koch and the late William Wieland. The present head is the former Galileo football coach, who turned out some very potent gridiron aggregations in the years 1929 to 1939.

Prominent alumni of Galileo include such well known names as Harrison Brown of atomic research fame; basketball star Hank Luisetti; dance orchestra leader Bill Clifford, and Pat Elsner, diving champion.

Judiciary Com. Adopts Four New Regulations

By decree of the Judiciary Committee under the chairmanship of Pamela Sampson, four specific regulations are now in effect, governing the actions of individual students and organizations at the college.

Of the four new rules, the three of greatest importance, are that parking is to be only in certain specified areas, lending of Associated Student cards is not permissable, and no raffles, drawings or solicitations on the part of organizations are to be made on or off the campus.

Failure in compliance with these regulations, Miss Sampson stressed, will meet with action to be taken against both individuals and organizations.

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

The "Other" Side

Student Scorns Vet Privileges

[Editor's Note: Usually letters-to-the-Editor are published in the Ram's Horn. Since the following letter is related to material that appeared in this section of The Guardsman, it is printed here, and without comment.)

Editor, The Guardsman:

In the April 10 issue of The Guardsman, one "K.F." wrote an editorial in the Ram-Vet Digest concerning the difference between veterans and those of us who were forced to stay at home.

In the editorial he said that people were not interested in this phase of the post-war world because, as he expressed it, "it is rather boring and there has been too much of it." K.F. should have ended his editorial right there.

Actually the only difference between veterans and the average college student is the fact that vets get all of the breaks. Their way is paid through college, teachers favor them, there are people whose sole duty is to find them a home, and still complaints are heard from these vets. They seem to feel that a separate organization is needed (i.e., XGI Society) to look out for their interests, that they need a part of the school paper in which to express their views.

All of this is nonsense, and the sooner veterans attending this college realize it, the better off they will be. After all, they weren't asked to come back and disrupt established procedure.

Veterans are welcome, but only if they are willing to stop this moaning about imaginary problems and forget the fact that they had the privilege of serving their country as fighting men. Thus they will be able to start college as average students.

I.R.S.

XGI

Room 259 Assigned To Society Members

Room 259 last week was assigned as an office for the XGI Society, Dean Edward E. Sandys announced last Friday.

George Backman, secretary of the society, reported that the room will be ready for occupancy today and that a member of the society will be on duty there every day during college hours.

While any veteran who wishes to join the society may apply in Room 259, any members of the XGI in need of assistance should feel free to call there, according to Joe Gold, vice-president of the society.

At the meeting held last Friday during College Hour, a national representative of the American Legion spoke to the society members regarding Legion activities. Dale Schnell, director of the Veteran Rehab Center, 59 Fourth Street, San Francisco, spoke to the society Friday evening at their monthly meeting in the War Memorial Auditorium. Schnell explained the reasons for delay of government subsistance checks.

Following Schnell's address, a revised constitution was placed before the members present for a vote. After the business meeting all veterans present adjourned for refreshments provided by the society.

Man Proposes?

One Takes Issue With Columnist

By James Riggs

The little old lady next door came upon a provocative piece of letterpress wherein a woman columnist had expounded: "If women would do the proposing, the social structure would benefit immeasurably."

If a fish could swim, the exercise would do him good. Since the time of Eve, females have been plotting methods of trapping the unwary male and making him think he did it. In some primitive states a man will strain his lungs and consume enormous quantities of calories running his bride to earth, only to discover she has conveniently stumbled.

Cleopatra snagged her man with transparent guile and soft lights. DuBarry rolled up her score with a satchel full of tricks worth a ransom to any legitimate sorcerer. Maidens of the Orient caught men by the gross with their dances and naughty eyes. The veils of Egypt are merely a come-on.

When competition became too intense some enterprising female went into a trance and came up with the idea of exhorting papa to offer monetary consolation to any foolhardy male who would take it. Thus, even the woe-ridden males in the realm of poverty were not secure.

Women have enlisted the aid of all industry and science. Today the stores abound with all manner of seductive goo. Milady has her gowns designed with an eye to the finer details (?). Books have been written telling how to make the most case-hardened bachelor turn benedict.

Indeed, if women had not done the proposing since the beginning, the social structure would be no more than an undersized cornerstone.

Veterans

Pay Adjustments Deadline Tomorrow

All veterans who turned in their letters of eligibility during registration and have not yet been paid should report to Richard Dettering, Veterans' Administration training officer, not later than Thursday, May 2, it was announced last week. Veterans who applied for subsistence prior to March 15 and have not received a letter of eligibility should also see Dettering.

This does not apply to those who registered on March 27. Dettering's office is in Room 149.

Dettering also announced that all veterans who do not expect to attend the summer session at the college, or intend to register at another college after the close of the spring term, should file a copy of Form VR-58 with the Veterans' Administration prior to Wednesday, May 15.

It is essential that this be done, Dettering pointed out, to avoid overpayment of subsistence, for which restitution must eventually be made. The necessary forms may be obtained in Room 149.

Prep Credit Vets Will File Petitions.

Studen veterans who expect to have sufficient number of credits for high school graduation by the close of this semester should report to the Veterans' Counseling Office, Room 142, to fill out a petition for High School graduation.

Alice Castro, veterans' counselor, warned that all such petitions should be filed by this Friday, May 3.

CPS Clarifies Veteran Medical Service

According to the California Physicians Service, veterans drawing pensions for service-connected disability, and veterans who have filed claims for pensions, are eligible for out-patient treatment for service-connected disability only, from the CPS.

The CPS does not, however, have authority to hospitalize patients.

Veterans receiving vocational training under Public Law 16 have blanket authority for any kind of treatment, regardless of service connection, the CPS said.

All veterans wishing treatment by CPS must fill out a form, obtainable from the doctor giving treatment. The necessary form covers such information as name, serial number, claim number, and nature of disability.

It is not necessary, as has been previously announced, to receive permission for treatment from a veterans' hospital, the CPS spokesman said.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 8, 1946 No. 9

Food Drive

Relief Campaign To End May 10; Radio Broadcast Via KPO

The college food drive will officially end this Friday, and it is expected that a national broadcast over station KPO at the Farmers' Market will follow on Saturday, in which the winning class or organization will be represented along with other civic groups throughout the bay area.

When asked about the last two days of the drive, Joe Sweet, president of the Associated Students, said, "I expect great competition between the Sophomore class, the Freshman class, and other societies, fraternities, and sororities. Let's all get into the spirit of the thing!"

In connection with money contributions instead of food, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, stated that any organization that has collected money and has no connections through which it can purchase wholesale foodstuffs may turn the money in to him in Room 187 and he will buy the food at wholesale rates.

Beta Phi Beta has pledged three cans of foodstuff per member. In addition, each will contribute as much money as possible. Beta Tau and Alpha Gamma Sigma members will contribute canned goods and 25 cents apiece. Delta Psi will also contribute money and canned food, and the XGI Society has pledged at least from 25 to 50 cents per member.

Assistant Dean of Men John Brady said, "I am convinced that the college will make more of a showing than any school in the Bay Area, and that includes high schools, colleges, universities, and everyone else. This is the first post-war challenge that has been put to the students of the college. During the war they responded to Red Cross drives and many Blood Bank drives, and with the increased enrollment I expect an even better showing in this food drive."

President Joe Sweet has provided trucks to transport the food to the UNRRA storehouse at the Farmers' Market on Saturday. The food will be stored there until John Brucato, Chairman of the Farmers' Market Advisory Committee, has made arrangements for shipment and distribution of the food.

An advocate for relief in stricken countries, President Archibald J. Cloud stated, "The students' interest should be great in the movement to aid people from starving throughout the world. The United States has promoted this plan, and with the help of the many individuals and organization it will be a success."

First Huts For Married Veterans Arrive

By Dell Bain

Arrival of the first two quonset huts last week marked the major step toward campus housing for the married veterans of the college.

Although the huts consist of a crude shell-like structure at present, the blue prints reveal prospects of comfortable living facilities. "If no unforeseen complieations arise, the 25 huts will be ready for occupation by the middle of June," Major Walter E. Buckingham, Project Engineer of the Federal Public Housing Authority, predicted.

While requests have been made for 200 more units the allocations have not yet come through, Major Buckingham added.

Surpassing previous expectations the units when completed will compose satisfactory homes comprised of a living room combined with kitchenette measuring 20 feet by 10½ feet; two bedrooms, one 11 feet by 8 feet, and one 11 feet by 9 feet, with ample closet space in each. The bath consists of a stall shower and other necessary installations, while gas, lights, hot and cold running water will also be provided.

Each hut will provide two units, making a total of 50 "apartments." The completed interior will consist of plyboard petitions, while eight windows in each unit will provide ample light and ventilation, Willard Smith, superintendent of the construction, revealed.

The area around the huts will be cleared and streets and sidewalks will be put in.

The huts are being moved from Camp Parks across the Bay, which entails routing the huts around the Bay by way of San Jose, since Traffic restrictions demand that at least one lane of the highway be vacant at all times.

Applications for the huts are still being accepted and married veterans who wish to occupy one of the units are asked to submit their names to Dean Edward E. Sandys. Ninety-eight applications have already been made.

Associated Students

3 Council Members Ousted; Morris Is Named Secretary

In a shakeup of student government last week, the Student Council expelled three of its members for failure to attend council meetings.

Backed by the constitution, which states that "any member of the Student Council who is absent from three meetings without a valid excuse may be expelled from membership by the Student Council," the college controlling body cracked down on Gwen Slovenko, Associated Student secretary; Gloria Craig and Ernest Poggi, council members.

With only a pause for approval of the appointment, Joe Sweet, Associated Student president, introduced Audrey Morris to fill the office vacated by Miss Slovenko.

Sanction was given by the Council to the statement of the Judiciary Committee concerning raffles. Upholding the policy of the Board of Education, the legislators passed a by-law stating that "no games of chance be played on the campus after April 30, 1946."

With future elections dawning, the Council appointed Nancy Ruttencutter and Jack Glasner, co-chairmen of the Election Committee. Tentative dates for the election of student officers and sophomore King and Queen were set for Wednesday and Thursday, June 5 and 6.

Alpha Gamma Sigma To Host Students May 14

Alpha Gamma Sigma, college honor society, will entertain honor students from San Francisco high schools on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, May 14 and 15, Gretchen Williams, president of the organization, announced recently.

"Our objetive is to give each visitor a good time and make him feel at home," Miss Williams said. Visitors will be received at the main entrance of the building at 2:15 p.m. on both days and will be conducted in groups through the building and thence to the cafeteria, it is planned.

Committees appointed for the occasion include the reception committee, with Misses Maples, Stern, Kay, Trigonis, Hoffman, Doherty, Hayland, Williams, Blank, Johnson, Hunt, Townley, and Messrs. Call, Sweet and Wacks. Each member of this committee is asked to bring two or more friends to assist him, Miss Williams said.

Serving on the refreshment committee are Misses Berthelsen, Rogers, Crowder, Mugele, Cusicanqui, Harrell, Lavezo, Burress, Mahoney, and Messrs. Suzuki, and Salwitz.

The committee to provide entertainment consists of Mr. Abad, Miss Gay, Miss Fassett, Miss Zito, and Mrs. Greenfield. Flower arrangements are under the management of Miss Trigonis.

Midterms

Students To File Grades Fri. 10:45

Continuation of a new-this-semester method of filing grades for the second midterm period which ended Friday, May 3, will go into effect this Friday at 10:45 o'clock.

Students will meet with their respective advisers to file a list of midterm grades received from their subject instructors during the week, F. Grant Marsh, head counselor at the college, disclosed yesterday.

Following is a list of advisers and the rooms in which they will be located for the student-adviser meeting:

Cecil Aggeler, 211; Alfred P. Agosti, 100; Richard Allman, 160; Arthur Austin, 178; Flossita Badger, 200; Louis Berman, 312; John Booher, 233; Julio Bortolazzo, 150.

Alice Castro, 136; Claire Cuneo, 158; Edwin Cranston, 208; Jennet Durst, 136; Thomas Dutcher, 311; William Eckert, 347; Jeanie Ekiof, 136; Miriam Eseiier, 215; Margaret Flourney, 303; Jules Fraden, 193; Arthur Furst, 194.

Thomas Gaffney, 113; Ruth Gavin, 300; John Gerstung, 132; Virginia Gohn, 222; George Green, 140; John Hare, 310; Rex Harris, 344; James Hughes, 254; James Jensen, 191; Mildred Jensen, 302; Edward Larson, 207; William C. Marsh, 212; William Mayo, 190; Dorothy Mercer, 356; Joan Muscio, 111.

Harry Nelson, 405; Glenn Noble, 205; William Ogle, 133; Robert Parker, 206; Milton Polissar, 257; Thomas Porter, 204; John Ross, 256; Jane Scribner, 323; John Selig, 255; Claude Shull, 309; Llewellyn Snyder, 213; Adolph Stoll, 133; Stephen Tomer, 258; Hilda Watson, 107; and Nelson Wells, 335.

Social

AWS-AMS Barn Dance Rescheduled; Men's Gymnasium Site Of Affair May 11

Because of previous arrangements for use of the men's gymnasium this Friday night, the Associated Women Students-Associated Men Students semi-annual barn dance last week was moved ahead one day to this Saturday, May 11, from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Men's gymnasium officials had agreed that Lincoln High School students use the gymnasium to stage their boxing tournament, and plans were advanced to the extent that the Associated Student Social Committe changed the date.

AWS and AMS presidents, Nancy Cunningham and Ted Bofinger, promised that all dance plans will be carried through as originally scheduled.

These plans call for the wearing of levis and plaid shirts by the men and gingham dresses or pinafores by the women. Both organization officers predicted that such attire will set the spirit of the dance.

Other plans provide for square dances and contests. AMS leader Bofinger admitted that the hitch in the square dance plan to date is that no competent individual has yet applied for the vital position of "caller of the dances." Applications are therefore still open, he said.

Decorations are in the hands of a committee headed by Miss Cunningham, and the same committee will serve apple cider and doughnuts.

Art Weidner and his orchestra has been engaged for the occasion, it was disclosed this week by Miss Cunningham. Weidner, at present, is conducting his band which appears nightly at Seals' Stadium during the seasonal home stand of the San Francisco Club.

Admission is one Associated Student card per couple. Emphasis was placed on the fact that "borrowing of cards" would lead to Judiciary Committee action.

Sophomore "Royalty" Nomination Rules Set

Candidates for this year's Sophomore King and Queen must be sophomores, the grade status being determined by units, not by semester in college, Kent Bowker, sophomore class president, said last week.

Election will take place during the week preceding June 7, and winners will reign throughout Sophomore Week, and at the Sophomore formal.

Jeans for men and gingham dresses for women will be the proper attire for dress-up day, June 7, Bowker disclosed. A sophomore rally will be held during the college hour on that day.

SF High School Girls To Attend Tea May 16

Serving as an introduction to campus life and college routine, the semi-annual Associated Women Student tea will be given in honor of high school women throughout the city on Thursday, May 16, from 2 to 4 o'clock in Room 158, Nancy Cunningham, president, announced last week.

Invitations have been sent to various schools, and 20 students will be selected from each school. Some of the hostesses for the occasion will be Grace Horatani, Mary Lee, Adeline Cardell, Marty Mitchell, Joan Kotl, Jo Ellen Cain, Lyndell Krotoff, Beatrice Mahoney, Jean Caruseo, Clare Hanaway, Virginia Saider, and Betty Wright.

Choral Fete June 6 To Feature 600 Students

Totaling six hundred voices, a mass choral group comprising music students of this college, and seven city high schools, will sing at a choral festival Thursday, June 6, it was announced this week by Flossita Badger, music instructor.

Highlighting the event, Miss Badger said, will be four vocal selections in which all of the group will take part.

The recital will begin at 10 a.m., and after a brief pause for lunch, will reconvene for the remainder of the program.

Forum Magazine Will Make Early June Debut

Forum Magazine, the annual art-literary publication published each semester by the Forum Club here, will make its appearance early in June, according to Helen Ringius, editor-in-chief.

Its contents comprised of student-submitted material, the magazine presents a cross-section of black-and-white art work, short stories, essays, and poetry. The submitted copy is under the surveillance of a complete editorial staff.

Miss Ringius commented that as usual prizes will be awarded to students submitting the best art and literary work.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 9 Wednesday, May 8, 1946 Page 2

Food Drive

Give Before—Not After

MUCH has been written and said concerning the starving peoples of Europe, but this condition still seems to be intangible and hard for most of us to believe.

Since we have never suffered from starvation, it is natural that such a situation would be difficult to comprehend.

Hundreds of people are dying every day from lack of food, and they will continue to die until we help them!

Perhaps the easiest method of bringing this deplorable situation to our realization is to think of the countless children who have been caught in this famine. If those of us with younger brothers, sisters, and cousins would try to visualize them without food, without anyone caring to help them, then we might better understand the plight of these unfortunate people.

We have sufficient food for ourselves, and out of thankfulness, if nothing else, we should contribute to the aid being proferred by the more prosperous countries.

This is our chance to do our part. Right now a drive is being conducted in the college to collect food for overseas shipment. If each member of the Associated Students contributes even one or two cans of food, the cause will be aided tremendously.

Don't pass this plea off as mere propaganda. It is to be taken seriously, as duty, to be generous and help to alleviate as much as possible the suffering of these less fortunate individuals. Let's not forget. The time to send food to hungry people is before they die—not after.

C.G.

Cafe—Some Immune To Cooperation

ALTHOUGH cafeteria conditions have improved somewhat in the past few weeks, through the industry of the cafeteria management, there is still much to be desired in the way of accommodations.

There are still a number of students who remain immune to all publicity requesting cooperation in the matter of seeing that the rest are expeditiously accommodated.

These students, among whom there is left a smattering of aristocrats who cannot yet bring themselves to bussing their used dishes, or such trivial single objects as cups and empty milk bottles, have taken to "reserving" seats for as many as four or five friends. This practice serves to delay other students who already have obtained their lunches, and are thereby forced to add to the congestion by roaming up and down the cafeteria seeking vacant places. Reserving can be conveniently done only during the hours in which breakfast is served.

Moreover, a practice long banned by the administration, namely card playing in the cafeteria, has again been resumed, and to add insult to injury, is being indulged in almost daily during the rush of the lunch hours. That such inconsideration so flagrantly exists at this time, is indeed astonishing.

If these practices continue in the following weeks, strong action will no doubt be taken by the Judiciary Committee against the offenders.

P.A.S.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Clarmel Gaines ..... Managing Editor
June Shoaby ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lee Carvaner ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor

REPORTERS: Dell Bain, John Baylor, Joan Beard, Trav Burrow, Peter Carlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Rudolf Luft, Lula Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogen, George Laieunesse, Shirley Langston, Howard Levy, Don Lucey, Arthur Faymiller, Adela Raisisch, Rosalie Rhode, James Riggs, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Joanne Williams.
Staff Photographer ..... Don Lum
Joan Hawes Muscle ..... Faculty Advisor

—Linoleum by Laura Chatelain, Adv. Art Department

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Byron Biaster & Co. Create Mystery, Gaze And Gaze . . . And . . .

AS HE sat on a bench on the rear walk of the college, Byron Biaster was visibly thinking. Deep lines grooved his forehead, and there was a faint twitch in the muscles around his lips. The thoughts were seemingly of the profoundest nature.

Soon a friend silently joined him and they both sat on their bench staring dejectedly down into Athletic Gulch. After about 10 minutes, still another buddy appended himself to the two, and the little group, bound together by some mystical mutual understanding, mutely stared off into the distant Mission district.

Unable to quell further a rising curiosity over the unusual inactivity of the trio, an observer of the situation strolled over to the fellows and politely inquired, "Is anything the matter?"

The response was one raised eyebrow and a slight flick backwards of one right hand. The six eyes gazed fixedly in front of them.

The inquirer, not mollified in the least, countered with, "Did someone fail a test?"

Biaster put his vocal chords into operation. "No," he said.

The observer was slightly disconcerted. If it wasn't school work, he thought, what else could it be that would so completely deject all three at the same time and leave them so depressed? However, from the appearance of their faces, and upon due deliberation, he decided that some help would be needed for so complicated a situation.

He left the small gathering and went off in search of someone who would better able to solve the mystery.

After awhile, he returned with a companion. The two stood and observed the three for about five minutes before either of them spoke. Those who were being observed merely stared at the cirro-cululuses as they floated by.

No one spoke. In the distance, a bell rang. Those who were watching silently sauntered away. The two inquirers shrugged their shoulders, turned, and left. The three gazed on, profoundly absorbed.

Stephen

RAMifications

IN THE rush of praise that automatically, and rightly, went to returning war veterans, a gratifying note is the recent appreciation of the students of the nation expressed by top-flight news names such as President Truman, Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal, General Douglas MacArthur, and many others, their praises were brought together in the March 21, 1946, edition of Public and Education, a small booklet published by the National Education Association.

Going to school has been for generations the normal life of any young American, but many of us realized that we were decidedly under pressure for the duration of the war.

Intensified math courses, science, English, and other vital subjects were hurled with terrific force at all who could prove themselves adequate to accept the facts in a hurry. Instructors left their classes in the middle of a semester to recuperate from nervous breakdowns incurred by the strain of teaching school and working nights in war plants.

Collecting scraps for tin drives, old girdles for rubber drives, money for series "E" bond drives, and holding campus dances with names like Iwo Jima Jump became the extra-curricular activities of millions of students from the ages of 6 to 22. The only difference between high schools and colleges was that in college the women spent more time at the USO and gave hen parties.

But nobody ever thought that we were doing anything great . . . we were just trying to do our part in a struggle between two elements, one of which was going to ruin our lives if we didn't put our shoulders to the wheel and extinguish it by any means within our power. The means were admittedly limited, and some of us couldn't stand the empty feeling of standing by, waiting for news and always praying for the best.

That's why the Junior Red Cross did so well for volunteers. That's why the average high shool and college girl became, if only temporarily, a little more sober than her sister of four years back, and perhaps four years hence.

The praise that students received in that issue of Public and Education came as a surprise, but to say it was nice would be a great understatement.

Cumming

After Dark

JOHN VAN DRUTEN'S comedy, The Voice Of The Turtle, now showing at the Geary Theater, is a most interesting play. Interesting, perhaps, is an understatement, but all in all, it covers the situation rather well. To be more explicit, the play is sophisticated, very humorous, and presents three very fine parts for three very fine actors.

K. T. Stevens as the scatter-brained Sally Middleton is simply perfect and aets more like a case of arrested adolescence than a young New York actress. Hugh Marlowe's interpretation is everything it should be and Vivian Vance as the other woman is enough to practically steal the show.

The play is beautifully written and the stage design is one that could either make or break the show—fortunately, it makes it. One word of warning—don't see the play with seven other people you know. It's most distracting.

* * * * *

At the Clay Theater, the first film from Italy since the war, La Traviata, is very fine as soon as they get to singing, but so much time is spent in struggling with the young composer and curing the diva of a throat disease which, as it turns out, she doesn't have at all, that the audience sooner or later is worn out. As it is, the soprano faints at the end of the second act with an attack and three years later picks it up exactly where she left off. Real clever. But if you like operatic music, you'll like the show.

With La Traviata is an old British film called Sailing Along with Jessie Matthews. It is simply incredible. I'm afraid that when British movies turn song-and-dance they are really terrible.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

FROM time to time the author has been rebuffed on the use of the two words jazz and swing. Also, there has been some criticism on the part of some individuals that yours truly does not know what he is talking about. The fact that there is never a lot of technical phrases has been in courtesy to the people who are not interested in music except from a listening standpoint.

The following is for the cats who want the tech explanation.

The outstanding characters of jazz indicate that America is not its natural background. Jazz is a result of one culture imposed on another. The negro succeeded in bringing his music with him from Africa and in preserving its spirit. America presents a sociological culture which makes use of this negro music but it not the creator of it.

Structure, in terms of scale, rhythm, harmony and form, contains the material ingredients of all music. Analysis of the African tribal music may be summarized by the elements which point toward the evolution of jazz Melodically the pentotonic genus and the pattern of chain thirds predominate with little or nothing in the heptotonic mode. (Does anyone know whether our word HEP comes from that preceding pronoun?)

There is little in actual rhythmic patterns that carry through from African music to American jazz. But on the side of value and purpose rhythm weighs heavily, for both the African and the American negro desire their music to be primarily rhythmic, with a driving, urgent vitality.

This bull-oney could go on all day, but can be summarized and condensed very neatly:

1. Jass is the outgrowth of African tribal music, highly rhythmic in a twelve bar pattern of chord changes.

2. Swing is the outgrowth of jazz. It has modernized and will continue to do so.

Anyone who says that jazz is the only thing to listen to is very narrow indeed. Likewise to swing, jump, or blues fans. The people who in the past have been beefing should remember one thing. Music is for all kinds of individuals. Whether a person confines his listening to W. C. Handy, Paderewski, Guy Lombardo, Woody Herman or all, it is his privilege and his enjoyment that makes things go. Tolerance is friendship.

Letters To The Editor

RAM'S HORN

• Hunger May Be Just Imaginary Too

EDITOR, THE GUARDSMAN:

In reply to the letter appearing in the Ram-Vet Digest of the May 1 issue, signed by I.R.S., there are several points which should be brought out.

It is an established fact that veterans are taking more interest in the school work and governmental problems than the average civilian student. Countless educators and employees have testified to this fact.

The statement that veterans get all the breaks is one of the most ironical sentences that have appeared in print. Did veterans get all the breaks by having to leave home fires, and put in the best years of their life in stinking fox holes?

(Continued on page 4, column 1)

RAMblings . .

By Bob Catudio

UNLIKE the editorial department's Barbara Stephen, the pseudo-prolific publicist of atomic equations, the advent of one Jack Gaddy into the field of publicity strikes a chord of anticipation that is slightly out of tune.

Former habitant of the plush adobe shack that was St. Mary's Pre-Flight, the Gaddy of 1946 reads like a glossy copy of the printers' weekly.

THE EX-LOUIE SPEAKS

Bold faced with a touch of East Bay tan and staring 42 point Gothic streamers, the enthusiastic physical education director was ending a bubbling dissertation about the Julean calendar when we cornered him.

"Got a new story for you guys today," Gaddy entoned.

"Whaddya mean?"

"The AMS-Intramural boxing show has been changed to Friday night on May 31."

"How come?" we'd like to know!

At this moment, Gaddy, the ingenious one, arched an eyebrow at Thomas D. Wilson, who had just parked himself in a swivel-back chair behind a shiny Chippendale foxhole in lieu, mind you, of reclining atop a paper-littered desk.

"What a mistake," Wilson interposed defensively, countering publicist Gaddy's Wildian humor. "I must have been looking at the wrong page on the calendar."

"Page," Gaddy sneakily punned, "It was the wrong calendar. This is 1946."

So it was that the mystery of the calendar juggling concerning the forthcoming AMS-Intramural fistic carnival was solved!

WILSON HIDES AWAY

When last heard from, Wilson, who was at his civilian Forest Side Avenue headquarters, was seriously considering an offer from Senor Jorge Pasqual of the Mexican League.

When we left the sanetum of the men's gymnasium, we cornered a perplexed Al "Duke" Drake near a swinging door the other ayem and cannonaded him with questions.

THE DUKE SIGNS UP

Having returned to the campus after a hitch in the Navy, Drake, who looks the part of the proverbial perennial freshman, notified us that he has already entered the coming intra boxing show.

"I'm in pretty good condition," Drake remarked, "more so than my last fight here back in 1942. I've lost weight and am down to 190 or so right now."

Shortly after Drake's departure from college, he won the heavyweight championship of the Eleventh Naval District, decisively defeating a heavy, one Bob Panfer, of Louisville, Ky.

"I'm on a diet," the burly booper confessed, "and I'm nearly starving half the time."

Provided all goes well, this will be "Duke's" fourth consecutive AMS-Intramural confliet. If you can remember, the dieting slugger waltzed to an easy three round verdict over Bryant Finch.

Well, we walked away from the boy and left him staring at the distant sign on Ocean Avenue—Hamburgers 15c.

Swimming Meet Slated Tomorrow In Daly City

Revival of the college's semi-annual intramural swimming meet will be staged tomorrow at 12:15 p.m., as more than 25 hopefuls battle for top honors in the Jefferson High School pool, in nearby Daly City.

Last minute entries are still being accepted in the men's physical education department, and will continue to be accepted until the start of the individual events.

PITTSBURG, Kan.—(ACP).—Seventy-five veterans are now enrolled in auto and aviation mechanics at Pittsburg State Teachers College. This is one of the few colleges in the Middle West that offer auto and aviation mechanics to veterans under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 9 WEDNESDAY, MAY 8, 1946 Page 3

Baseball

Rams Capture Pair; Collins, Brabbit In Form, Ratto Spiked

WILLIAM LAND PARK, Sacramento, May 4.—While Skipper Bill Fischer nervously walked a foot deep trench in front of the bench today, he saw Bill Collins stagger to an unbelievable 18 to 11 win, outlasting four Solon throwers, while Charley Brabbit handcuffed the Sacs, 8 to 0, in the afternoon shortie.

Needless to say, the locals increased their first place margin in the NCJC loop to two and one-half games over second place San Mateo.

After the Rams had nicked Max Wilson for a brace of runs in the first inning, the Sacs retaliated with six counters in their turn—11 men marching to the plate.

Not to be outdone, the Fischers roared amends in the next canto, scoring six runs themselves. But action quieted until the sixth panel, when the locals iced the contest, handing Collins a rather unconscious and hallowed win.

In the nightcap, the Rams blasted Bill Nelson and successors Don McKenzie and Bob Linck something awful. Brabbit of the townics scattered five hits.

Outfielder Frank Ratto of the Rams sustained a painful spiked left hand in the second game, requiring attention at Sacramento Emergency Clinic. Ratto will be out of action for three weeks.

Tom Galvin garnered a hit in both games this afternoon to continue his streak of hitting safely in eight conference tilts.

Box score:

San Francisco (18) Player	AB	R	H	Sacramento (11) Player	AB	R	H
Sabetini, cf	5	2	2	Stanich, cf	5	1	1
Follini, lf	5	2	1	Ferry, 2b	5	1	0
Galvin, 2b	5	2	1	Clerk, 2b	1	0	0
McIntire, lb	5	4	2	Lane, 3b	4	2	1
Homsey, c	6	3	2	Ward, lb	3	2	2
Ranuio, 3b	4	0	1	Musso, rf	1	2	1
McNmra, ss	6	2	2	Wells, rf	1	0	0
Houghtn, rf	0	2	0	Linck, ss	5	1	2
Ratto, rf	3	0	2	McKenze, lf	3	1	0
Collins, p	3	1	1	Grady, lf	2	0	1
	—	—	—	Tomei, c	3	1	0
	42	18	14	Wilson, p	0	0	0
				Kirtland, p	1	0	0
				Patterson, p	1	0	0
				Nelson, p	0	0	0
					35	11	8

R	262	005	300	—18	R	631	000	001	—11
H	132	005	300	—14	H	222	000	011	— 8

San Francisco (8) Player	AB	R	H	Sacramento (0) Player	AB	R	H
Follini, cf	4	0	1	Stanich, cf	4	0	1
Ratto, rf	1	0	0	Ferry, lb	3	0	1
Keck, rf	3	0	0	Clerk, 2b	1	0	0
Markel, rf	0	0	0	Lane, 3b	4	0	1
Galvin, 2b	4	0	1	Ward, lb	1	0	0
McIntire, lb	3	2	0	Musso, rf	2	0	0
Anderson, lf	3	1	1	Wells, rf	0	0	0
Renuio, 3b	2	0	1	Linck, ss, p	2	0	2
Grant, 3b	1	0	1	McKenze, p	3	0	0
McNmra, ss	2	2	1	Wilsn, cf, lf	2	0	0
Houghtn, ss	1	0	0	Tomei, c	2	0	0
Cane, c	4	0	1	Nelson, p	2	0	0
Brabbit, p	4	1	2		—	—	—
	—	—	—		26	0	5
	32	8	9

R	022	130	0	—8	R	000	000	0	0—0
H	223	210	1	—9	H	110	110	1	—5

NCJCC Pennant Race

	Won	Lost	Pct	GB
San Francisco	7	1	.850	.....
San Mateo	4	3	.571	2½
Modesta	5	5	.500	3
Marin	2	4	.333	4
Sacramento	1	6	.143	5½

LOST: Black purse—either in women's rest room on third floor or in Room 257 at 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, April 25. Please return purse, paper, and keys. Important. reward. Connie R. Santiogo.

These revealing photos show why Bill Collins is thus far one of the best pitchers in the NCJC baseball conference. Collins has a record of four wins and no losses and faces San Mateo this coming Saturday. Former Coast Guardsman, the cagey right hander has a sharp-breaking hook and is a spot pitcher, relying on a well-timed change of pace to outfox the opposition. —Photos by Lum

Track

Cinderites Ramble Against NAS, Modesto, Sacramento

Under the arc lamps of Modesto Junior College's athletic field the college thin clads, in their first night meet of the season this Friday will vie in a tri-way meet with cindermen from Modesto and Sacramento Junior Colleges, and the Alameda Naval Air Station.

The opening event will start at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Jim Jensen emphasized in an interview this week the importance of this meet, in that the team's chances in the coming Modesto Relays, on Saturday, June 8, might be determined by its showing against its strongest Northern California Junior College competitors.

Although the competition will be stiff, informed track observers at the college believe that the Rams will come through.

Modesto, which boasts of being the strongest junior college track team in the locality, possesses a well-rounded team with many sprinters and weightmen.

Coaches are comparing the times set by the Modesto trackmen in a meet last week with Visalia Junior College, and previous times set by men here at the college. In the 100 and 200-yard dashes, Eddie Bryant has run far lower than the :10.5 for the century and :23.2 for the furlong made by Modesto's, Bob Shoemake and Jim Melrose.

The Rams also possess better times in the 440 and 880-yard events, the high and low hurdles, and the mile relay.

Fearless Fischer Clan Faces Mateo Challenge

Delayed once because of rain, the league-leading Rams motor southward to San Mateo this coming Saturday afternoon to meet Lee Bissett's challenging Mateans in a twin bill at Fitzgerald Field.

The first game is on the docket for a 12:30 p.m. start, to be followed by an abbreviated nightcap.

Thus far the class of the league, the locals will be fresh from a commendable performance against the Sacramento Solons. The Rams are on a four game winning streak and coast a record of seven wins and one loss for the season.

Bill Fischer of the locals will start Bill Collins in the afternoon inaugural, while Charley Brabbit "right hands" the seven inning windup.

Ed "Blackie" Bernard will oppose Collins in the opener, with Palmer Fallgren or Johnny Marcus nominated for duty in the finale.

Lineups:

San Francisco	Pos.	San Mateo
Collins	P	Bernard
Brabbit	P	Fallgren
Homsey	C	Matulich
Cane	C
McIntire	1B	Doyle
Galvin	2B	Nomelini
Ranuio	3B	Aree
McNamara	SS	Sibold
Sabatini	LF	Sibold
Ratto	CF	West
Andersen	RF	Jones

Block SF

Sweater Boys Cause For Campus Edict

Threats of expulsion and campus punishment aimed at students clad in block award sweaters "other than the provincial (sic) block SF sweater" were the chief points today in an edict of the college Block SF Society.

The edict will go into effect tomorrow at 8 a.m.

Student violators will be given one warning when apprehended and will be held for future violations, it was disclosed by society officials.

Mudville's Casey Well Received At San Jose

Enacting in pantomime a skit entitled, Casey At The Bat, the Dance Group of the college won loud applause last weekend from the spectators at the San Jose State College Sectional Playday Meet.

While the women went through slow motion, Selinda Lee, the narrator, recited the famous poem. The players were dressed in Gay Ninety baseball uniforms and there were several stooges in the audience also attired in the Ninety dress fashions.

Women who participated in the skit were: Irene Mousakis, pitcher; Norma Piatenest, as Casey, the batter; Adeline Olsen, the famous umpire; and Marilyn Zito, catcher and also manager of the group.

Tentative plans are now under way to determine the date of a sports banquet in the near future, according to Bertha Mae Keller, Woman's Athletic Association adviser. All members of the WAA will be invited to the event.

Plans are also under way to invite the San Francisco State College women's softball team to meet the college's team in a home and home series this semester.

Gossler Scores Easy Win For Tennis Title

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, May 4.—Top seeded George Gossler of Salinas scored an easy 6-2, 6-1 win over Menlo's Gordon Williams to win the 1946 NCJC men's singles tennis championship here today.

Lee Brooks and Bob Gilbert of Menlo captured the men's doubles title, outlasting Dave Todd and Rod Crump of San Mateo, 6-4, 5-7 and 6-3.

(Results):

Gossler (Salinas) def. Williams (Menlo) 6-2, 6-1; Bennett (San Mateo) def. Skelly (San Francisco) 6-1, 6-4; Brooks and Gilbert (Menlo) def. Todd and Crump (San Mateo) 6-4, 5-7, 6-3; Reinecke and Kiemp (San Mateo) def. Seschel and Bernhard (Menlo) 10-8, 6-1.

Intramural

Tourney Running Behind Schedule; Deadline Set

Three tournaments are running way behind schedule, it was disclosed this week by Tom Wilson, college intramural director, who immediately established deadlines for several of the tourneys.

All first and second round matches in tennis must be played by this coming Friday, or those entrants will be dropped from the list. The same deadline has been set for first round matches in badminton and ping pong contests.

The correct schedule of these three events are posted on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium.

"All entrants in the above sports are urged to go to the gymnasium and check the schedules and prepare to play off their matches," Wilson said.

All men and women interested in bowling are urged to contact either Wilson or Lee Eisan in the men's gymnasium. A handicap tourney is being prepared for men's singles, women's singles, and mixed doubles.

Those who do not have a handicap are urged to obtain one with the directors. All details regarding the entry and tourney can be obtained from Eisan or Wilson.

"A horseshoe tourney has been posted on the various bulletin boards," Wilson announced. "All men who are signed up for this event are requested to check this schedule and play off the matches as soon as possible."

Only two games were played in the basketball tournament last week. Gung Ho defeated Stanfel's Double Play, 54 to 30, and the Haymakers downed the Demons, 31 to 24.

The schedule has been disrupted because of Easter vacation and all managers have been requested by Wilson to check the revised schedule on the bulletin boards to determine their next scheduled game.

The All Intramural Sports Night has been re-scheduled from Friday, May 24, to Wednesday, May 29. This night will be the high point in the intramural program as was announced last week.

AMS-Intramural Show Now On May 29 Slate

Because of the previously scheduled Mardi Gras, the college's long sought resumption of the semi-annual Associated Men Students-Intramural boxing carnival has been rescheduled from its May 24 date, it was disclosed here yesterday by Jack Gaddy, physical education director.

The "new" date is Wednesday, May 29, in the men's gymnasium, first event starting at 7:30 p.m.

Deadline for entries has been set for noon today. Elimination bouts from which finalists will be determined have not yet been arranged, according to Gaddy.

Drama

Thunder Rock Set For May Production

Presentations of Robert Ardrey's three act play, Thunder Rock, by the college drama group are scheduled for Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, May 21, 22, 23, running continuously from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day, Ruth Somers, drama instructor, announced last week. Two casts are busy on rehearsals, and admission will be free.

The play deal with the question of whether the individual should help to move the many obstacles that confront civilization, or isolate himself in an ivory tower. The setting is Thunder Rock Lighthouse, though much of the drama takes place in the protagonist's mind. Some of the people are real; others are ghosts from the past. The period from 1849 to 1939 forms the historical background for the play.

Members of the Little Theater group who will appear in the series of performances are Richard Cumming, Patricia Desmond, Gordon Fell, Donna Duffield, Fred Hammer, Linda Fisher, Frank Harding, Marie Simons, Ronald Langton, Barbara Stephen, Philip Markinson, Geraldine White, John McDonough, Thomas Panajes, William Riley, and Belton Wolf.

Mt. Zion Tea For Soph Women This Saturday

Extended to college sophomores, the invitation of the Mt. Zion School of Nursing to a tea on Saturday, May 11, at 3 p.m. at the Nurses' Residence, 2345 Sutter Street, is still open to all women students interested in nursing.

Those who would like to attend are requested by Dean Margaret Dougherty to sign up with her immediately.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

•Omicron Phi Pi: New officers are are Meyer Sassoon, president; Grace Mayfield, secretary; Elva Azevedo, historian; Virginia Yew, treasurer. The next meeting will be at 295 Urbano Drive today.

•Kappa Phi: Lillie Mocabee announced her engagement to Lyle Duncan, formerly of the Marine Corps.

•Alpha Lambda Chi: There will be a joint meeting tonight with the Tri Epsilon fraternity at 2917 24th Avenue.

•Beta Phi Beta There will be a business meeting Monday night at 892 Ashbury Street at 8 o'clock.

•Music Club: Because of the adviser-student meetings during the college hour, the Music Club will hold its meetings at 2 o'clock in Room 200 on Friday.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: A Mother's Day tea will be held in Room 108, May 16. All members are invited to attend. Chairmen in charge of the committee are as follows: Hospitality, Connie Johe; decoration, Elvera Friseo; food preparation, Rai Wyner; food service, Mary Sullivan; and clean-up, Joy Hass.

•Beta Tau: A very important business meeting will be held in the student lounge tonight at 7 o'clock.

Aplications Due Now For Vacation Jobs

Students interested in summer vacation jobs such as waitresses, housemen, maids, truck drivers, and typists, are requested to file an application in Room 169, immediately, Joseph Amori, placement director, advised last wek.

Those majoring in civil engineering who are interested in summer employment as engineering aides with government agencies, should file applications as soon as possible.

Openings also exist in the forestry service this summer, and in part-time work.

Summer Session

Tentative Courses Listed; Student Choice Will Determine Final Program

Plans are now being made for a nine weeks' summer session to be conducted from Thursday, June 27, to August 30. Below is a tentative list of courses to be offered. Each student will be permitted to enroll for a maximum of nine units. Final course offerings will be determined if students planning to attend the session fill out the blank on this page, indicating thereon the department and course number desired. If he is particularly interested in some course not listed, he should indicate the course. Blanks, when filled out and clipped, should be handed to the student's adviser or be turned in to the library office by this Friday, May 10.

ADVERTISING ART
87a—Ceramics—2 units

ART
4a—Perspective—1 unit
4b—Perspective—1 unit
12a—Landscape planting—2 units
12b—Landscape painting—2 units
21a—History of art—3 units
21b—History of art—3 units
52a—Advanced painting—2 units

BOTANY
21a—General botany—4 units
21b—General botany—4 units

BUSINESS
50a—Principles of accounting—3 units
54—Machine calculation—2 units
58R—Remedial arithmetic—1 unit
58a—Business mathematics—3 units
70a—Business English—4 units
80—Typing—2 units
122—Fundamentals of salesmanship—2 units
132—Consumer economics—2 units
133—Business law—3 units
135—Business management—3 units
145—Commercial geography—3 units

CHEMISTRY
A—Elementary chemistry—4 units
21a—General chemistry—5 units
21b—General chemistry—5 units
25—Quantitative analysis—4 units

CIVIL ENGINEERING
21a—Plane surveying—3 units
21b—Plane surveying—3 units

ECONOMICS
21a—Economic principles and problems—3 units
21b—Economic principles and problems—3 units

ENGLISH
A—Elementary composition—2 units
H—High school—3 units
21a—College composition—3 units
21b—College composition—3 units
B—Reading and composition—3 units

FRENCH
21—Elementary French—4 units

GEOGRAPHY
1—Introduction to geography—3 units
3—Weather elements—3 units
21—Introduction to geography—3 units

HISTORY
A—United States history—3 units
24a—History of western Europe—3 units
24b—History of western Europe—3 units
28a—History of the western hemisphere—3 units
28b—History of the western hemisphere—3 units
37a—History of the United States—3 units

HYGIENE
21—Personal hygiene—2 units

MATHEMATICS
A—Algebra—3 units
B—Plane geometry—3 units
10—Engineering mathematics—3 units
20c—Trigonometry—3 units
21a—Intermediate algebra—3 units
21b—Intermediate algebra—3 units
23a—Plane analytic geom. and calculus—3 units
23b—Plane analytic geom. and calculus—3 units
51—Arithmetic—1 unit

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
22—Descriptive geometry—3 units
26a—Elementary machine drawing—2 units
30b—Engineering production laboratory—1 units
30b—Engineering production laboratory—1 units

PHILOSOPHY
26a—Introduction to philosophy—3 units
26b—Introduction to philosophy—3 units

PHYSICS
A—Elementary physics—3 units
H—High school—3 units
21b—General physics—3 units
21c—General physics—3 units
22a—General physics—3 units
22b—General physics—3 units
23a—General physics laboratory—1 unit
23b—General physics laboratory—1 unit
51—Engineering mechanics and heat—3 units

POLITICAL SCIENCE
A—Civics—2 units
21a—Comparative government—3 units
21b—Comparative government—3 units
23a—American government—3 units

PSYCHOLOGY
21a—General psychology—3 units
21b—General psychology—3 units

SOCIOLOGY
21a—Social institutions—3 units
21b—Social institutions—3 units

SPANISH
A—Language A—3 units
21—Elementary Spanish—4 units
22—Elementary Spanish—4 units
23—Intermediate Spanish—4 units

SPEECH
21a—Elements of public speaking—3 units
21b—Elements of public speaking—3 units

ZOOLOGY
21a—General zoology—4 units
21b—General zoology—4 units
30—Human biology—3 units

Summer Session Course Requests

Being quite sure I shall attend the summer session, I hope to enroll in the following courses:

Department	Course Number	Units

Name (please print) .....

Address .....

(Clip out and give to adviser)

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

More Letters To The Editor: Veteran Privileges?

(Continued from page 2)

Did they get a break by being maimed, by months of suffering in hospitals?

Did they get a break by having their educations grossly interrupted?

While their classmates completed their educations, the veterans went through heaven knows what hardships.

The veterans are to be commended on their desire to come back and complete their educations. They are years older than their fellow students, they have lost valuable years in the training of their minds. They are making sacrifices in order to make themselves better citizens.

But maybe it is too bad that they come back to disrupt the established procedure.

Wives and babies, a place to live, and food to eat, are certainly no imaginary problems. Next time the writer of that letter is hungry, he should perhaps tell himself, "It is just an imaginary problem."

While veterans had the privilege of serving their country, others had the privilege of completing their education. Don't forget that! Veterans did their part in the war, and are now trying to do their part in the community. Think that over.

William P. Riley

• "If We Hadn't Come Back . . ."

Editor, The Guardsman:

It might be well to clarify several things for you, my dear I.R.S., and I'll strive to leave sentiment out of it (in your ease at any rate, for such stuff, if sincerely expressed, is precious in this world). Your letter called to my mind a certain passage from Thomas Wolfe and that is, "Oh lost! And may the wind grieved ghost come back again." Take it for what it's worth, old boy.

Your letter did have some effect, however. For instance, I was talking to a friend of mine in the hall after classes the other day. The part of your letter about "imaginary" problems evidently influenced him a great deal, so taking off his wooden leg he started to walk down the steps, calling back, "After all, this sort of thing is only imaginary!"

Other imaginary problems might be stated such as veterans and their families (occasionally an imaginary baby or two) who are living in stinking little rat holes, and perhaps, veterans who are trying to attend college here and living on a song (due to the absence of equally imaginary checks, and brother! there I ain't kidding!)

Regardless of this vituperative satire, problems like this (that are arising throughout the country, no doubt) should be calmly and rationally discussed. It just might be that the veteran's attitude is a little lopsided now and then; and it just might be that yours is a little off wack, too.

The sooner you realize that the United States is a pretty swell place to live in (regardless of the empty cynics and money grabbers) and the sooner you realize that "all the people" should be willing to work and sweat and make sacrifices for it, then perhaps your outlook about veterans and imaginary problems will take on a little more the characteristics of realism. As to our coming back and "disrupting established procedure," I can answer that in a sentence: "If we hadn't come back, somebody else would, and if they had you wouldn't have much of anything left, and that goes for sugar, butter, tires, nylons and established procedure."

So now I think I'll pack up all my imaginary problems and take them home to my wife, my thirteen starving babies, and the landlord that sits on the window sill, waiting—waiting . . .

Kenneth Ford

• The Right To Write

Editor, The Guardsman:

In regard to the article published May 1, 1946.

"One I. R. S. is laboring under the illusion that the veteran is suffering from imaginary problems, and in reality, is getting a lot of breaks to which he is not entitled.

Would I. R. S. prefer that veterans be accorded the privileges of World War I veterans, and be allowed to sell apples on the street corner?

I. R. S. goes on to say, "after all, they weren't asked to come back and disrupt established procedure." I wonder if I. R. S. is aware of the fact that several thousands of them didn't come back at all. And many of those who have returned can never be paid with special privileges for the service they rendered.

Is it not better to say, "Look not at the veteran as a problem child but look at him as a man who has fought for the rights of free men." The rights that enabled I. R. S. to write that article in the Ram-Vet Digest.

Allan F. Butler

Action In The Excelsior Zone

200 Veterans Extend College Area, Study In Quiet Of Elementary School

By James Riggs

Last month, when more than 200 veterans found themselves once again bound for the forward areas, and found the combat zone to be Excelsior Elementary School, the main concern was the return of off-campus classes. The temporary death of the college as a single unit was duly mourned and forgotten.

What of the Excelsiorites now? The answer varies almost with the individual. Many are content, even happy, to be away from the crowded classrooms and confused corridors of the main building. Some are indifferent to environment, being more than usually concerned with the pursuit of education.

A few of them are wondering what the neighbors think when grown men and women, laden with books, daily arrive at an elementary school. Fewer still, and with some justification, feel like stepchildren, left out of the ordinary pursuits and frivolities of the main family.

When browsing around the corridors, where blatant posters and high-pressure ticket salesmen are conspicuously absent, the feeling of isolation is understandable. For the most part, however, close contact with the main building is maintained. It is hard to picture a dance committee, bent on collecting a record crowd, overlooking any possibilities.

Development of a library for Excelsior students is under way, and should be completed by fall, when the annex is expected to become the high school division of the college.

XGI Schedules Officer Elections May 31

Election of XGI officers to serve during the next semester, will be held Friday evening, May 31, in Room 313, War Memorial Building, Tom Dean, president, announced at a special meeting of the society last Friday at the college.

During the meeting, members were notified that the society has been invited to a dance to be given by the Balboa Park WAVES some time in the next two weeks. George Backman, secretary, declared that a large number of XGIs are expected to attend the dance, which will be strictly stag for both men and women. Admission will be by XGI card or by receipt for such card, Harry Archer, treasurer, declared.

In regard to the current food drive, Joe Gole, vice-president, said that all members of the society were asked to contribute one can of food or 25 cents and that the contributions thus far received have been very gratifying. Members of the society attending the Excelsior Extension brought their contributions to the college to be placed with those of the society.

Atomic substances produced in the University of California Cyclotron can be used for the diagnosis and study of vascular diseases such as hardening of the arteries.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXVI SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1946 No. 10

Associated Students

Council Studies Constitution, Backs "Wholesale" Amendments; Association To Meet May 24 To Vote Suggested Changes

In an almost "wholesale" amendment of the constitution last week, the Student Council approved proposed changes clarifying certain clauses. Examining the constitution nearly completely revised last semester, the council attempted to iron out most of its complexities.

Last Friday these changes were posted on the bulletin board on the main floor. They will be discussed and voted upon by the Associated Students at a meeting in the WAVES Auditorium Friday, May 24, during the College Hour, President Joe Sweet announced.

Topping the significant changes is the proposed deletion of the qualification for Associated Student presidency which requires the completion of one semester of Political Science 2a or 2b. It was suggested that a candidate for sophomore president be required to have completed at least 45 units instead of the 30 now required.

Campus student elections were slated for Wednesday, June 5, and Thursday, June 6. The Election Committee set noon on Wednesday, May 29, as the last hour in which to file petitions for candidacy in Dean Edward E. Sandy's office. These petitions may be obtained in the dean's office at any time.

Candidates will be introduced to the Associated Students at a rally on Friday, May 31. Pictures of those running for office will be taken on Thursday, May 30.

All arrangements for the electoral race are in the hands of the Election Committee, composed of Co-Chairmen Nancy Ruttenutter and Jack Glasner, and members Norma Busse, Allan Moss, Betty Stoekton, Joseph Moss, Kent Bowker.

Block SF Ten To Test Faculty Friday 10:45

The annual men's faculty versus Block Society softball game will be held this Friday during the college hour at the college football field, according to Dean Edward E. Sandys. The rally previously scheduled at that hour is cancelled.

The game has been played six times in the past ten years. To date the two teams are tied for first place honors with three victories apiece to their credit.

Assistant Dean of Men John Brady is in charge of all details and will also play for the faculty team. Other members of the faculty squad to date are Andy Anderson, Ed Sandys, Al Agosti, Bob Parker, Lee Eisan, Jack Gaddy, Tom Wilson, Bill Fischer, Jim Jensen, Lou Gerstung, and Tom Dutcher.

The Blpck S nine plus substitutes consists of Lawrence, Chicazola, Eckdall, Webster, Cory, Bofinger, Drake, Theoradus, Grant, Foreteiler, Ratto, Pudlowski, and Castro.

AWS

High School Women Tea Tomorrow At 2

Senior women of San Francisco public and private high schools will be honored at a tea given by the Associated Women Students tomorrow from 2 to 4 o'clock in Room 158, Nancy Cunningham, AWS president, announced last week.

Public schools which are expected to be represented are Abraham Lincoln, Balboa, Commerce, Galileo, George Washington, Girls' High, Mission, and Polytechnic. Private schools sending students are St. Paul, St. Rose, Immaculate Conception, St. Brigid, Notre Dame, St. Peter, and Star of the Sea.

Instruetors who will pour are Mary Jane Learnard, Mildred Jensen, Margaret Flournoy, and Antoinette Willson.

Students who will act as hostesses are Ann Carmizaro, Astrid Wettin, Minette Pope, Murial Powers, Mary Nash, Lucy Mae Lippert, Claire Bacigalupi, Marjorie Muffer, Gloria Pochini, Lois Weber, Barbara McClymany, Babe Ruth Sanderson, Virginia Wickman, Grace Horatani, Mary Lee, Adeline Cardell, Marty Mitchell, Joan Koti, Jo Ellen Cain, Lyudell Krotoff, Beatrice Mahoney, Jean Carasco, Clare Hanaway, Virginia Souder, Betty Wright, Millie Hoffman Jeanettee Hershaw, Florence Mulligan, Janet Caine, Ramona Pillman, Roslyn Tuska, Pat Arensburg, Barbara Clintock, Nadine Andrews, Marilyn Wissing, Carmen Garcia.

The three other AWS officers assisting Miss Cunningham in welcoming high school seniors are Betty Howard, vice president; Jane Doran, recording secretary, and Nancy Stookey, corresponding secretary.

Symphony Forum Plans Concert Friday Night

Interested students were invited last week to attend a Symphony Forum informal concert, this Friday night at 7:30, at 2654 Chestnut Street, located between Baker and Lyon Streets.

Compositions by the young Berkeley composer, Gordon Cyr, who will play them, are to be featured. Richard Cummings, student at this college, will present three songs he has composed, and will accompany James Orbison, vocalist.

Forum

Magazine's Art Editors Fred Mayer, George Albertus Relate Life Stories

By George LaJeunesse

Mixing the flying cinders of a college track meet with a brilliant array of water colors and paint brushes, George Albertus, above left, one of the two art editors of this year's Forum Magazine, is pursuing a varied life at the college.

Albertus is busy these Spring days both in the gymnasium as a member of Coach James Jensen's track team, a 440 yard specialist, and in going through art contributions of college students preparatory for the coming issue of the literary magazine.

A veteran of an anti-aircraft crew in Europe for two years during the war, Albertus admitted he had little or no time for art work during his duties. He entered the college once again after receiving his Army "diploma" at Camp Beale, Marysville, last January.

The lure of sports is proving strong and Albertus' future plans may include a career of sports cartooning. He intends to undertake a commercial course in advertising art illustration and expects to devote three years toward this end. On completion of that course, Albertus will either do magazine illustrations or his efforts will be found on the sport page of a daily paper.

Graduated from Balboa High School in 1942, Albertus claims San Francisco as his home town and lists athletics at the top of his hobbies.

Found in the ceramics workshop on the third floor, modeling in clay, Fred Mayer, above right, art editor of Forum Magazine, paused briefly in his work to shed some light on an interesting campus personality.

Mayer comes to the college from the High School of Music and Art in New York City, with a stopover for one year and a diploma at Lincoln High in San Francisco. He graduates this June and is preparing to resume education again at the University of California in the Fall for an art major.

Holder of several art awards, Mayer won a scholarship to the California School of Fine Arts summer session through the Latham Foundation. He was awarded this for a poster he created while at Lincoln High on the United Nations. Mayer also earned a $100 war bond on the strength of another poster, depicting war workers in action.

Expressing a keen interest in designing, Mayer used his scholarship to take a course in industrial design at the California School of Fine Arts. His hobbies are on the artistic side likewise, and he names puppets and marionettes as favorites.

Water color landscapes take a high position in his work, and Mayer has accomplished some oil paintings also. The future art instructor included lithography among his varied interests.

College Donates 3000 Cans To Food Drive

Following Lincoln High School by a short 700 cans of food, the college placed second in the Bay Area Food Drive, John Brucato, Chairman of the Farmers' Market Advisory Committee, announced late last Saturday.

Lincoln placed first with 3700 cans. The college placed second with 3000 cans and Presidio Junior High School third with 2300 cans. Southern Pacific Railroad employees contributed 2000 cans, and both Francisco Junior High School and the City Reereation Department turned in 1500 cans each.

Within the college itself the XGI Society took top honors with 900 pounds, followed by the Associated Students with 565 pounds, and the Chinese Club with 500 pounds. Alpha Gamma Sigma led the smaller organizations with 466 pounds.

When asked about the college's part in the food drive, Brucato said, "San Francisco Junior College has been the spark plug of the whole Bay Area in this drive. They are to be congratulated as the first contributors from San Francisco."

Debaters Will Argue Compulsory Training

Compulsory Military Training will be the subject of a debate in which four winners of a ladder debate held as part of the college debating course will take place on Friday, May 31, at the WAVES Auditorium, according to Lloyd Luckmann, instructor here.

It is likely that the contestants in this debate, to be held during the college hour, will be XGI members, Luckmann said. Acting as chairman will be Dr. A. J. Cloud, president of the college.

The contest, Luckmann continued, will be judged for the best team and the best speaker.

AGS Pins Available In Room 345 Daily

Alpha Gamma Sigma pins have arrived this week and may be obtained by regular and first semester honor society members, in Room 340, daily at 10 a.m., it was disclosed yesterday by Edwin Cranston, AGS advisor.

Guardsman

Fall-Semester Paper Wins All-American Rating, Compliments

Maintaining its lead among Junior College newspapers throughout the nation, The Guardsman was, for the eighth time since it submitted papers for judging in 1939, awarded the rating of All-American by the Associated Collegiate Press last week.

Awarded on the merits of papers submitted last semester, only one other junior college was given this highest possible honor.

The ACP is a nation-wide organization, composed of active newspapermen and professors of journalism, and is located at the school of journalism in the University of Minnesota.

Each college which is a member of the ACP submits a complete file of its publication which is judged according to news coverage, news vitality, feature writing, editorials, makeup, typography, and general quality of writing.

Under the leadership of Editor Pamela Sampson, and with the aid of Betty Jo Smith and Betty Lou Cavenor, news editor and feature editor, respectively, the paper has once again pushed its way to the summit.

According to the score book, in which the judge of each group of colleges notes his comments and constructive criticism of each paper, The Guardsman does "a very professional job. Easily one of the best in your class." In addition, the judge writes, "Congratulations to your staff and adviser. This is one of the finest jobs I've seen in judging this year."

The first All-American rating was won for the Fall semester of 1939, followed by a First Class honor rating for the Spring of 1940. It once again took the All-American honor rating for the Issues of Fall, 1940; Spring, 1941, and after a period of non-membership, a First Class for Fall, 1943; All-American for Spring, 1944; Fall, 1944, and Spring, 1945.

Other staff members last semester were Joyce Adelson, Josephine Bosoni, Bill Brownell, Manuel Castro, Peter Cerlanti, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Pat French, Carmel Gannon, Lisbeth Govan, Ralph Hansen, Frances Harrington, Louis Harnandez, Jackie Hogan, Helen Jouthas, Don Lucey, Marti Niggeler, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, Max Rubinchick, Lucille Scott, Jane Sheehy, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marge Wheatly, and Jeanne Williams.

GI's System Of Policing Cafeteria Effective; New Method Stems From "Operation Potato"

No more tray banging. No more coffee down the neck. Shoving, stumbling, and dodging are at an end. Charles Weber, student of the hotel division, brought a few Army techniques to college with him.

Weber was assigned to the job of head busman in the cafeteria as part of his training in restaurant operation. Specifically, his job was to supervise the handling of soiled dishes and to analyze the needs and methods of the job. He analyzed and was unfavorably impressed by the need for a more efficient and tidier system of bussing dishes.

The solution Weber worked out is familiar to all the veterans of GI chow lines. The new system simply consists of segregating the dishes into neat piles, a place for each and each in its place.

Weber may come by his talent for restaurant management naturally, since his father is a restaurant operator, but the new system speaks loudly of hours spent on the Army's "operation potato."

Two Hotel Division Graduates Turn Alger, Buy, Revamp Toulomne City's Kimball Hotel

By James Riggs

In the footsteps of Horatio Alger, two former hotel division students here have made good in the hotel world.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stanton, who recently bought the Kimball Hotel in Tuolomne City, California.

The Stantons received traiping in hotel operation at the college before the war. When Stanton went into the Army, his wife, the former Ursula Kolinski, returned to the college as cafeteria manager. Stanton, a native of Germany, was overseas broadcasting to the German people, urging their surrender, when his son, Tommy, was born.

(Continued on page 3, column 1)

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
Member Associated Collegiate Press 1945 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 10 Wednesday, May 15, 1946 Page 2

Examinations

Procedure Needs Change

BY THIS time it has certainly become clear to students at this college, and possibly to the faculty, that the present system of midterm examinations, and the obtainment of results, is far from satisfactory.

The second midterm period was drawn out over three weeks, and in many cases, students were unable to learn the results of exams taken the first week, until the deadline for handing in their grades to their advisers.

It is understood that instructors are under no obligations to inform their students of their grades until the day of the deadline. Under a more satisfactory system, a reasonable period of waiting would not be resented.

However, issue is not being taken with instructors, who are themselves as much victims of certain routines, as the students, but with the procedure governing midterms, now in existence.

Obviously, farsighted and drastic changes have to be made regarding examinations as a whole, within the college.

The method now employed differs slightly (that is, in its effect on the student) from the one used last semester, whereby students received photostats of their grades. The virtue of the present system is that it saves much clerical work. Under the old system, a student at least received all his grades at once.

It is appreciated that such a procedure could only be successful when enrollment was low. With enrollment now double, and expected to treble by next semester, any method based on the present procedure threatens to collapse.

A realistic attitude should be taken. It should be immediately realized that the college is understaffed, overcrowded, and that since there is no correction of papers by proctors, but only by already burdened instructors, the whole system requires a fundamental change.

Since three exams each semester throw an increasing burden on instructors, besides hardly giving an accurate picture of a student's progress, more examinations should be given. These quizzes should be of the easily graded type, true-false, and/or completion.

There should be no formal midterms, but twice during the semester (utilizing an ancient practice) students receiving a grade of D or lower should be notified. As for the rest, with bi-monthly examinations, it would be easy enough for them to average their own grades.

The idea of frequent examinations might sound like more work for all concerned, but if such examinations were to be strictly non-essay, they should in the long run prove less tiresome for both the instructors and students.

• • •

A liberal education should equip a man with sufficient perspective to: (a) understand the social and economic importance of the work he is doing, (b) understand the significance of his work as compared with the work of others in related fields, (c) appreciate the needs and interests of his fellow workers, (d) see beyond the requirements of the present job to those which, if met successfully, will lead to work of greater responsibility. Young men with perspective are needed everywhere.—Amherst Graduates Quarterly, November, 1945.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gannon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheehy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lee Cavanor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bain, John Bayler, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Jo Ellen Cain, Peter Cerlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Rudolf Luft, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, George Lajeunesse, Shirley Langston, Howard Levy, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalia Rhoda, James Riggs, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Sisten Webster, Marjorie Wheatry, Jeanie Williams.
Staff Photographer ..... Don Lum
Joan Nourse Muscio ..... Faculty Adviser

—Linoleum by Mary Marsh

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Best American Of Week—"Leave Us Believe It"

STUDENTS heard muttering such outdated phrases as "Hubba Hubba," "We'll Get You," and "Go Jump In the Lake," are liable to be ostracized from the more elite society here if they do not soon make a late spring changeover and begin using the language of the day. This was NOT announced last week by the English department of the college.

The best American as of this week may be found in the following paragraphs.

Instead of "Go jump in the lake," when moved to frustration, the correct thing to say would be "Go take a drop dead pill" or maybe, "Get lost, Kid." (It appears that in this new terminology, everyone, including oneself, is called Kid, or The Kid.)

When expressing agreement with someone else's viewpoint, the correct phraseology might be, "Leave us face it." When wishing to emphasize the truth of a statement; however, a "Believe me" should, at all times, be appended to the affirmative statement. For instance, "It is a lovely day today, BELIEVE ME!"

Two other phrases which are even more adaptable to almost any situation which might arise are being widely bandied about by various sophisticates.

When indifference is the mood, the "couldn't" group are put into use, and opinions, positive or otherwise, are covered in the "how" group.

To illustrate, when the conversation or lecture becomes tedious, "I couldn't be more bored!" is the expression used. Then there are "I couldn't care less" and "I couldn't be less excited."

In the "how" group, the possibilities appear limitless. "How dumb can you get?" or "How gorgeous"; "how ugly"; "How sleepy"; and so on into eternity.

When a Don is moved to give a long, low whistle, or mumble Hubba Hubba at the top of his voice, he should say, "Clock the kisser." A girl in the same complimentary state of mind might coyly exclaim, "Get that to handle your case." Pure admiration may thus be expressed with no offense.

To all of this, one well-known English instructor remarked, "How horrible can this get! I couldn't be more flabbergasted.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

THERE is a time when all good things reach a slump. The Bay Area is now in that condition. The traveling circuit hasn't had much to listen to in the last few weeks.

The best band to hit the gate of late is that of Buddy Rich, former T. D. drummer. Rich's band is still in its infancy and could stand a lot of cleaning up. The biggest and loudest beef is that there is too much Rich. The way the ork now stacks up, it is jump from start to finish. It is one of the finest show bands to be made up in some time. The style of the outfit is highly reminiscent of Gene Krupa of a few years back, featuring a copious amount of drum takeoff.

Rich himself has a terrific obstacle to overcome. That is getting over on the commercial side so as to receive a little gold. By this, it is not meant that Rich should go Lombardo on us, but after the newness wears off, a few jobs where people would like to dance stock will always help.

Speaking of Rich himself, nothing can be said to bring him down. He is one of the finest technicians in the business. Along with being a fine drummer, Rich is a good musician.

• • • •

While speaking of drummer bands, we should not overlook Krupa. There has never been such a fine transformation of a band in history. On seeing G. K. on his last engagement, the local six clowns were completely enthralled at the highly polished and rehearsed ork very much on the con to what it was in early days. Flips for G. K.

• • • •

One of the things causing discussion in the note life today is the reformation of the Glen Miller Orchestra, now headed by alto saxman, Tex Beneke. As yet there has been only one disc waxed by the new ork, namely Swing Low Sweet Chariot.

The discussion is mainly, does the outfit sound the same as it did in prewar days? There are pros and cons on the subject, but as of now, the cons are far in the lead. It is believed that Beneke is doing his best, and a fine job too, but it has not come to its old standard yet. The public is behind Beneke with high hopes of having some more of the fine music that made Glenn Miller immortal.

Stephen

RAMifications

THE night was fair and late shoppers were scurrying along looking for butter and mayonnaise. Out of the muddled noises of the not-too-busy North Murlingame shopping district emerged the familiar sound of the 5:17—on its 60 mile-an-hour-way to Redwood City. The Daylight would meet it at the crossing, if it wasn't late, but the low horn of the Daylight moaned a mile and a half down the track . . . it couldn't possibly meet the 5:17 at the usual time.

Suddenly there was a loud explosion . . . a man was dead and the lives of thousands of commuters from San Francisco were disrupted. . .

Eleven trains, lined up for over a mile, were spilling their passengers out into the hay field between the tracks and the road.

A truck driver paid no heed to the electric signal nor to the loud warnings of the charging train at Broadway, Burlingame, last Wednesday night. His vehicle dashed in front of the onrushing locomotive and was ripped completely in half . . . its twenty-five ton load of dirt formed a cloud so dense that the engineer of the Daylight could see nothing else, but the crack S. P. train screeched to a stop just three feet from the wreckage.

The ambulance was not needed. The mortician carried away the body.

Particles of the engine of the 5:17 were strewn for a quarter of a mile down the track, and three of its cars were damaged. Fortunately, no one was hurt.

With a little common sense on the part of the truck driver, the accident could have been avoided. He would still have been alive.

But common sense is not common to the average man. That is why college students are supposedly learning how to think constructively . . . learning why things all over the world have been in confusion for centuries, and from that knowledge are supposed to derive a formula for a shining Utopia.

Will this challenge be met? Or will death be met instead . . . at a small railroad station . . . because all of the signals of certain doom are just so much oblivion?

Cumming

After Dark

WELL, finally it's out. Last week Gaetano Merola, general director of the San Francisco Opera Company, announced his plans for the forthcoming season. There will be no new operas, but revivals will include Fidelio, Madame Butterfly, Romeo and Juliet, The Marriage of Figaro, Lohengrin, and Don Pasquale. Others will be Der Doschenkavalier, Boris Godounoff, La Boheme, Tristan and Isolde, La Traviata, La Forza del Destino, Il Trovatore, Rigoletto, Lucia, Lakme, and Carmen.

New and returning singers will be Bidu Sayao, Regina Resnick, Astrid Varney, Jussi Bjoerling, Set Svanholm, Laurence Tibbett, and John Brownlee. The old hands returning from last year will be Licia Albanese, Herta Glaz, Lotte Lehmann, Nadine Conner, Lily Djanel, Stella Roman, Margaret Harshaw, Thelma Votipka, Lily Pons, Charles Kullman, Raoul Jobin, Kurt Baum, Jan Peerce, John Garris, Ezio Pinza, Salvatore Baccaloni, Lorenzo Alvary, and Mack Harell. Conductors will be George Sebastian, William Steinberg, Pietro Cimara, and Paul Breisch.

• • • •

Last week, MGM's latest extravaganza, the Ziegfeld Follies, was displayed with much ballyhoo, and if you like interminable vaudeville shows, you'll enjoy this as it takes in everything from Red Skelton to the most incredible rendition of the Brindisi from Traviata.

Fannie Brice and Keenan Wynn take the show, and Lena Horne, despite of the stupid story around her, is the best musical number, although the Limehouse Blues shows up very well.

• • •

Showing up in magnificent contrast to the obviousness and inanities of the Follies was Eisenstein's Alexander Nevsky showing for four days last week at the Larkin Theater. With some of the most subtle direction to be seen in a long time, an original Prokofieff score, and an excellent cast, this movie is one of the high spots of cinema work either here or abroad.

Letters To The Editor

RAM'S HORN

● Ex-Secretary Explains

Editor, The Guardsman:

I should like to take this opportunity to display in print the reasons causing my removal as ASSFJC Secretary. I write this because I feel that your article in the May 8 issue does not convey the whole story to the reader.

The facts may be stated simply: (1) The Student Council meetings are held every Tuesday and Thursday at 12:10. (2) I have a French 24 class daily at 12:10.

That's all there is to it. Surely one person cannot be in two places at once.

Gwen Slovenko.

(Continued on page 4, column 1)

RAMblings . .

By Bob Catudio

SHATTERING precedent and timidity we ventured inside the feminine sanctimoniousness of the women's gymnasium.

Purely unrehearsed and strictly ad lib, we traded yarns—stories that is—with Nancy Sparks, the women's physical education importation who this year shed her gabardine Navy fatigues in favor of silk and rayon civvies.

"Battling the Grant in Diego is bad enough, but you know, Bob, to come right down to it, teaching was really a grind at first after such a long layoff. I guess I've changed and I rather enjoy my job now."

With a backdrop of coeds energetically kicking dents into gardener Bob Milani's newly-renovated turf, we politely listened. Words that dangled precariously in the air only to crash-dive on a battered word-filled notebook.

FEW SPORTS DOOMED

Practically speaking, mates, women's sports are competitively doomed. On authoritative word from Bertha Mae Keller, Women's Athletic Association adviser, we learned that feminine intramurals were a failure here at the college even before they began.

"Look," we implored of Miss Sparks, "haven't you any say on the stress of intercollegiate competition — for women that is?"

"Certainly. I'm very much in favor of the idea, but you'll find that in the long run women have no ambition for glory in the field of sports. They're—"

"Not the competitive type!"

"Call it that."

That was enough quibbling for us. So chalk up an assist for the women's section of the National Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

THE LADY ENLISTS

In case someone inquires, Miss Sparks, the lady in question, was graduated from Lowell High School and received her AB from the University of California in the year of Bottari, Meek, and Schwartz.

"Then I enlisted in the WAVES. You know, Hunter College in New York for training and a lot of time in San Diego. That's where I was discharged in February."

Exploiting new civilian tact, we bandied words on recreational leadership classes, playground supervising, and the U. S. Marine Corps, the latter because her brother is strictly leatherneck.

We reluctantly vanished from the scene a little later, leaving the incomparable Miss Sparks with the saddening prospect of climbing "Pike's Peak" for an entre of calories.

Picture a tomboy in lace . . . yep, chum, that's Nancy.

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 10 WEDNESDAY, MAY 15, 1946 Page 3

Rams Face Bucs In Crucial Twin Bill

Track

NAS Outpoints Rams 59 To 50 As Solons, Bucs Fade To Rear

MODESTO, May 11. — High-powered Alameda Naval Air Station outpointed Jim Jensen's up-and-coming Ram spikesters, 59½ to 50½, here last night, in an are light quadrangular meet that found Modesto and Sacramento Junior Colleges accounting for but 28½ and 26½ points, respectively.

Bob Pederson of the Rams, who won both timber-topping events, and Eddie Johnson of Modesto, who captured the pole vault and broadjump, were the meet's lone double winners.

Summary:

Mile—Won by Cole (A); 2, Haslet (A); 3, Marshall (M); 4, Lytgen (S). Time—4:37.7.

440 Yard Dash—Won by Cotton (A); 2, Ceredio (SF); 3, Albertus (SF); 4, Brice (A). Time—50.8.

100 Yard Dash—Won by Heck (A); 2, Hall (S); 3, Bryan (SF); 4, Seruggs (A). Time—10.2.

120 Yard High Hurdles—Won by Pederson (SF); 2, Elliott (SF); 3, Pogue (A); 4, Livingston (M). Time—15.8.

880 Yard Run—Won by Kellogg (SF); 2, Cole (A); 3, Park (A); 4, Brunner (M). Time—1:59.8.

220 Yard Dash—Won by Bryan (SF); 2, Cotton (A); 3, Hall (A); 4, Anderson (SF). Time—22.7.

220 Yard Low Hurdles—Won by Pederson (SF); 2, Miller (A); 3, Elliott (SF); 4, Bradbury (A). Time—25.3.

Broadjump—Won by Johnson (M); 2, Bradbury (A); 3, Kylor (S); 4, Didio (SF). Distance—22 feet, 9 inches.

Pole Vault—Won by Johnson (M); 2, Varoff (S); 3, Sidell A); 4, Tapolian (SF). Height—12 feet.

Shotput—Won by Schop (S); 2, Anderson (S); 3, Coler (M); 4, Anderson (SF). Distance—46 feet, 9½ inches.

High Jump—Won by Barnes (SF); 2, tie between Pederson (SF) and Livingston (M); 3, tie between Bradbury (A) and Barton (S). Height—6 feet, 1 inch.

Javelin—Won by Hodash (A); 2, Moran (M); 3, Coler (M); 4, Bennett (SF). Distance—191 feet, 9 inches.

Discus—Won by Grote (A); 2, Coler (M); 3, Schop (S); 4, Gibson (S). Distance—142 feet.

One Mile Relay—Won by Alameda Naval Air Station; 2, San Francisco; 3, Sacramento; 4, Modesto. Time—3:34.4.

No-Hitter

Coed Hurls Perfect Game Against Mateo

SAN JOSE (Undated).—Frances Scilipoti, diminutive coed right-hander, entered softball's Hall of Fame when she tossed a 23 to 0 no-hitter against San Mateo Junior College's women's softball ten here recently.

Final score: Ramettes 23, Bulldogettes 0.

Batteries: Scilipoti and Ann Ahokas.

WAA

SF State, Ramettes To Battle Friday

Four doubles and four singles contests in badminton will be played this Friday, May 17, against the San Francisco State College's Women's Athletic Association, first match starting at 3:30 p.m. on the Gator inner court.

Inaugurating a "home and home series," the college's women's softball squad, featuring the strong right arm of "no-hit, no-run" Frances Scilipoti, will host the Gatorettes in a softball game, Monday, May 20, at 3:30 p.m.

Results of the Sectional Playday held at San Jose State Teachers College indicate that the college fared well above expectations. In the badminton singles, Sue Miles won from Salinas and San Jose with Janice Beanston also a winner.

In the tennis doubles, Zetta Ravekes and Alma Pucci were overpowered by San Francisco State and San Mateo Junior College, while the lone tennis winner was Pat Tyler, Archery, under the management of Rita Chow, placed third.

"This is the first time that I've had the opportunity to attend such an affair and I found it both enjoyable in the social and competitive aspects," Nancy Sparks, women's physical education instructor, asserted.

Elsewhere on the campus, the swimming, volleyball, and archery teams exhibited great skill throughout the day. The 30 competing women were accompanied to San Jose by Bertha Mae Keller and Miss Sparks.

Plans are now under way for the semester Tourney Week of June 3 through 7, it was announced by Wanda McKenzie, WAA president.

More About Stantons

(Continued from page 1)

The hotel division received word from the Stantons, telling of their purchase of the Kimball Hotel from Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Penney, who are retiring.

The Kimball is Tuolomne City's only hotel, and the two former students are now busy improving and redecorating the 20 rooms and seven apartment suites. The hotel also has a large dining room which serves the entire community in addition to commercial travelers and tourists.

In a recent conversation with members of the hotel division, Mrs. Stanton discussed possibilities of employing hotel division students at the Kimball Hotel.

Rams Trade 4-0, 1-0 Shutout Job At Mateo

SAN MATEO, May 11.—Bill Fischer's league-leading Rams traded shutouts with San Mateo Junior College here this afternoon, the Bulldogs winning a 4 to 0 opener, while the locals took a 1 to 0 nightcap.

Matean Ed Bernard turned in the best hurling job of his career in besting Bill Collins, who suffered his first loss of the campaign. Bernard allowed but three hits and struck out 12 batters.

Charley Brabbit scored his second straight whitewash with a neat two hit job in the shortie.

First Game

		R.	H.	E.
S. F. J. C.	000 000 000—0	3	5
San Mateo	000 030 01x—4	4	1

SECOND GAME

		R.	H.	E.
S. F. J. C.	000 001 0—1	4	0
San Mateo	000 000 0—0	2	4

Intramural

Cage Loop Progress Falters; Portals, Bandas Still Tops

With results pouring in slower than economic dispatches from inside Russia, the college's intramural cage tourney this week staggers into its fifth round of competition.

In the lone contest played last week, the Gung Ho five decisively walloped Del's Dandies, 57 to 35. All other contests were rained out via defaults.

The Banda Combo still tops the National League with a "6 to 0" standard, closely followed by Gung Ho and the Demons.

In the American League, the Portals are atop the circuit ladder by virtue of their five wins against no losses.

Tournament play in other sports—table tennis, badminton, and free throwing—is virtually stalled with defaults marring a majority of scheduled games.

Finalists from both the American and National cage leagues will vie for top honors in the All Intramural Sports Night to be held Wednesday, May 29, in the men's gymnasium starting at 7:30 p.m.

Probable finalists in the basketball finale will be the high-flying Bandas and the Portals.

NCJC STANDINGS

	Won	Lost	Pct.	GB.
San Francisco	8	2	.800	.....
San Mateo	5	4	.556	2½
Modesto	5	5	.500	3
Marin	3	5	.375	4
Sacramento	2	7	.222	5½

From the Michigan State College campus comes a report of a fad which has been discovered among returned veterans who have begun wearing their "homing pigeons" discharge buttons upside down to signify the fact they are bachelors.

Fischer Nominates Collins To Stem Modesto Invasion

Returning to their home stand firmly entrenched in first place in the NCJC baseball loop, the Rams engage the Modesto Junior College Bues in a doubleheader at Big Rec (Golden Gate Park) this coming Saturday, first game starting at 12:30 p.m.

Coach Bill Fischer of the townies has nominated Right Hander Bill Collins to toss the first game against probable Bue starter Larry Mann.

Charley Brabbit, he of the deliberate arm motion, will right hand the afternoon shortie, opposing Don Chelgrin of the Pirates.

In their last meeting at Modesto, the Fischers copped the first contest, 5 to 1, and blew the nightcap by a ridiculous 15 to 5 measure.

Lineups:

Modesto	Pos.	San Francisco
Mann	P	Collins
Ginsburg	C	Homsey
Gainza	1B	McIntire
Healey	2B	Galvin
Lee	3B	Ranuio
Sousa	SS	McNamara
Hyduke	LF	Sabatini
Pepelis	CF	Follini
Stovall	RF	Andersen

Kezar Stadium Site Of Long Beach Tilt

Contractual negotiations involving the use of Kezar Stadium have been obtained, it was announced this week by Jack Brady, assistant dean of men.

Provided all goes well, this is the way opening day will look next semester:

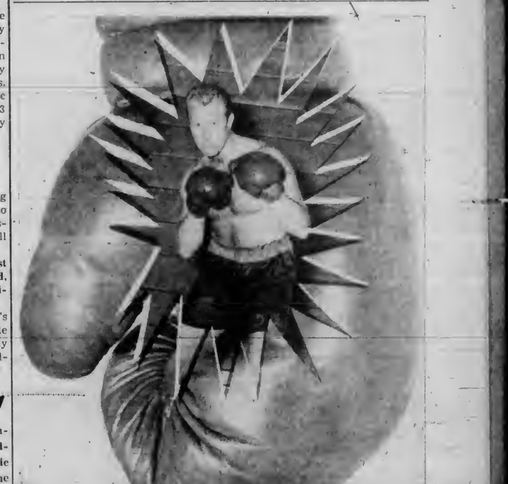
Football: San Francisco vs. Long Beach City College.

Place: Kezar Stadium.

Date: Saturday, September 27.

Drake-Seyranian Bout Tops May 29 Show

Unveiling a caravan of talent unmarked save by the lush era of 1941 and 1942, the college's semi-annual Associated Men Students-Intramural boxing carnival will make its seasonal debut Wednesday, May 29, starting at 7:30 p.m., in the men's gymnasium.



Elimination bouts have already been staged and it was disclosed yesterday by Tom Wilson that pairings for the carnival would be held either today or tomorrow.

Thus far, nine or ten bouts have been scheduled. In compliance with many requests concerning wrestling, it was announced "that two wrestling matches may be held during the intermission."

Feature attraction for the evening will probably be the encounter between Al "Duke" Drake and Leon Seyranian. Both men are in top shape and both are reputed to be hard-hitting heavies.

"Celebrities from various downtown city dailies will be in attendance, marking the event an athletic must in boxing circles," Wilson, the college's tourney director, asserted this week.

Besides the flurry of action in the ring, finals in the intramural basketball, table tennis, and badminton will be played. Block awards and gold and silver medals will also be presented at half-time.

Al "Duke" Drake, late of Commerce High and the US Navy, will more than likely tangle with Leon Seyranian come the night of May 29, in the men's gymnasium. This is the "Duke's" fourth Intramural appearance, having accounted for three previous wins. —Photo by Lum

Drama

Thunder Rock Opens Next Tuesday; Play Is Study In Social Problems

By Peter Cerlanti

Thunder Rock, the three act play to be presented next Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, in the Little Theatre, Room 209, is a study in sociological implications for people of today.

Robert Ardrey, the author, tells the story of David Charleston, foreign correspondent in the black year of 1939 who, rather than stay on in the world and watch it head for destruction, takes a job as a light-house-keeper on Lake Michigan. There he looks for consolation to the ghosts of six shipwrecked voyagers of another era, 1849, which he conjures out of his own imagination.

He finds his consolation, but not by withdrawing from the real present into the unreal past. He goes back into his world of 1939 reinforced with the knowledge that there is no such thing as escape. One after another, the obstacles to civilization do get smashed.

Charleston is portrayed in the coming production by William Riley and Charles Hammer, each leading one of the two casts. The embittered suffragette is played by Barbara Stephen and Marie Simons. Dr. Stefan Kurtz, a doctor from Vienna, is played by Thomas Panages. Streeter, plane pilot, whose answer to the question in the play is action in China, where he meets death for the sake of the cause, is played by Frank Harding.

Captain Joshua, Briggs, and Inspectors Flaming and Chang, are played by Richard Cumming, John McDonough, Ronald Langton, Phillip Markinson and Gordon Fell, Paul Lum, Harry Doung, and George Foug.

Performances will run continuously from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Each show will last two hours, but those who are unable to stay for one consecutive performance may see the play any of the three days an hour at a time. Light lunches may be eaten during the intermission at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Huts To Be Assigned On Basis Of Vet Need

Veterans most desperately in need of living quarters will have access to the first available quonset huts, Dean Edward E. Sandys promised last week.

"After discussing the matter with the first applicants to sign for the huts, it was decided that veterans with children and at present living under most unsatisfactory conditions would be the first to occupy the quonsets upon completion some time in June," Dean Sandys stated.

After these most urgent cases have been accommodated the housing units will be assigned according to the order of applications.

While 100 veterans have already applied for huts, applications are still being accepted in Dean Sandy's office, since arrangements are being made for 100 more quonsets, bringing the total number of units to 250.

This last group of huts is expected to be ready for occupation by September, Dean Sandys added.

Although rental for each unit has not been set as yet, according to reliable sources the rent will not exceed $40.

Sidewalks and streets will be put in around the huts, but actual landscaping will be left to the discretion of the individual occupants.

Those veterans already possessing furniture will be allowed to use their own in the huts at a reduced rental rate.

Social

Frosh Mardi Gras Slated For May 24

The traditional Freshman Dance will take on the aspects of a Mardi Gras in the men's and women's gymnasiums on Friday, May 24, from 7 to 12, Frisco Sartor, freshman president, announced last week.

"With the means toward an end of cooperative enterprise," Sartor stated, "various organizations of the college will operate a concession in the men's gymnasium solely for the amusement of the students. For those who tire of fortune telling, dart-throwing, and nail-driving, there will be a good dance band in the women's gymnasium."

Organizations can still participate, Sartor said, if they apply in time to complete arrangements.

Proceeds from the concessions will either remain in the respective organizations' treasuries or go in the general fund for improvements in the student lounge.

Orchestra for the occasion has not as yet been selected, but admission will be by Associated Student card, Sartor concluded.

Men Students Eligible For Pilot Training

Under the proposed Naval Aviation Program, now pending before Congress, junior college students will be eligible to enter the Navy for pilot training, the Director of Naval Officer Procurement announced last week.

The new V-5 program provides for payment of all expenses, including books, tuition, and lab fees, by the Navy for the balance of the two years of college required for flight training. Applicants will be paid 50 dollars a month while in college, and upon completion will be given approximately 24 months' training in Naval aviation.

Interested students may obtain complete information at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 785 Market Street.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

•Alpha Lambda Chi: There will be a pajama party for the members on Saturday at the home of Genie Helm, 652 Hensley, San Bruno.

•Beta Phi Beta: New members are: Steve Kritokakos, Remigio Archuleta, Melvin Dykeman, and Carter Corey. There will be a business meeting Monday night at 892 Ashbury Street.

•Delta Psi: Margaret Ramirez announced her engagement to Ralph K. Swofford of Los Angeles. New pledges are: Irene Brislawn, Jo Ellen Cain, Jackie Chopnick, Anne Harrington, Phyllis Hayes, June Hollett, Dorothy Hook, Audrey Judd, Lucy May Lippert, Rosmarie Mullen, Marie Simons, Nancy Stookey, Thelma Wallar, Charlotte Wiegmann, and Betty Lou Wright. Joint meeting May 17 with Tri-E at 3425 Cabrillo, 8 p.m.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: There will be a picnic with the Phi Beta Rho Sunday.

•Kappa Phi: The Annual Founders' Day Party was held last Friday night at the home of Janet Caine, to welcome back old members of the sorority.

•Phi Beta Rho: New members are: Lillian Travaglio, Anne Apostolos, Jean Stewert, Rita Cox, and Betty Jo Fletcher.

•Pick and Hammer Club: All members are requested to aid in the club project for the Freshman Mardi Gras. There will be a meeting during the next club hour.

•Theta Tau: The traditional box of candy was passed by Jeanne Williams to announce her engagement to Len Fleischman, formerly of the college. All members are invited to attend a dinner given by the freshmen members at the home of Jay Philow at 7 p.m.

•Music Club: The next meeting of the club will be held during the college hour on May 17, Room 200. Unless circumstances prohibit it, the outing will take place on Sunday, June 9. Members should be present for a vote on the changing of the club's name.

Art

ADE Exhibit Starts At Elder's May 20

Alpha Delta Epsilon art students will hold their eleventh annual exhibit at the Paul Elder Galleries, at 239 Post Street, between Grant and Stockton, from Monday, May 20, until Monday, June 3, it was announced yesterday by Frank Griswold, president of the college art club.

Students of Richard M. Allman's landscape classes have prepared varied local scenes in both land and seascapes, according to Griswold, and 25 canvases will be hung, representing the finest works in water colors and oils of this semester's art classes.

Started in the spring of 1936, this year's exhibit marks the eleventh annual showing of college art talent. Previous exhibitions have been held in the De Young Museum and Palace of the Legion of Honor, Griswold stated, and the coming event has been fortunate in securing for its locale the Elder Galleries on Post Street, another long standing San Francisco landmark.

The paintings will remain on display each day except Sunday during the two week period, between 9 and 5:30 o'clock.

Hotel Society Plans CNHA Dinner Monday

For the first time since the Spring of 1941, the Hotel and Restaurant Society will entertain members of the California Northern Hotel Association here Monday night, Hilda Watson, of the division, stated last week.

Students of the division will prepare and serve dinner for 100 members of the association and their guests and present a brief program outlining courses offered in the curriculum at the college.

Former State Senator E. H. Tickle, Carmel Hotel owner and operator and president of the association, will preside.

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

More Letters To The Editor

(Continued from page 2)

● No Boasts

Your May 1 issue carried a letter of criticism which I, as an XGI, would like to answer. Everyone, including myself, admits that the J. C. has provided special counseling, a shortened high school program, and certain other services for the returning veteran. But I emphatically deny that the faculty discriminates in his favor, or that the XGI Society has received privileges that it has not earned. The XGI Society proved its value to the J. C. when it obtained room and board for resident veterans, and promoted the housing now being erected on the campus. These successes aid the school, as well as the veteran, by promoting public education in San Francisco.

There are actually three main problems each vet returning to school may have: Finishing his education; earning a living; and having his own home. And last, the veteran does not boast of his prowesses, nor the privilege of serving his country as a fighting man.

Robert F. Guilfoyle

● No Disruption

Editor, The Guardsman:

I would like to ask I.R.S. (whoever he is) if he ever experienced the empty feeling of standing by waiting for news of someone close to him or praying for the best when he feared the worst. I don't believe he did or he couldn't feel as he does now.

As far as the statement "The vets get all the breaks," he is terribly mistaken. The vets get their way paid through school. Look at it this way, they worked hard for that. It is their payment for a job well done, just as I.R.S. probably gets paid in cash for a job after school. The reason we look for homes for vets is because they weren't here to get one when they could be had as was I.R.S.

I have yet to see when the XGI's have disrupted the school system in any way. Quite the contrary, I think they are doing a fine job. Keep up the good work. Remember, if it wasn't for these vets, many of whom couldn't come back to read your article, you wouldn't have had the chance to have written it for this or any other paper.

Al Garrett,
Theodore Silverthorn.

(Editor's Note: With this issue of The Guardsman, the question started by I.R.S. is ended as far as these columns are concerned.)

Veterans

"Vacationers" Must File Form 58 Today

Today is the last day to fill out VR Form 58, in Room 149, Richard W. Dettering, Veteran Training Officer, warned.

All veterans, going to college under Public Law 346, GI Bill of Rights, who plan to transfer to another college for the summer session or who are taking a summer vacation, must fill out this form.

Veterans attending college under Public Law 16 and those who are remaining at this college for the summer session do not need to fill out the form, Dettering said.

Campus Fatigue

Quonset-Happy Herman Blows Up—And Blows Up

By Del Pichon

Turning his attention from the scenery he had been admiring, ex-T-5 Herman P. Bumblesnoot (hereafter referred to as Hoim) stretched in his seat and tried to hear as little as possible of the lecture which was being delivered.

Searching for something to captivate his interest, he glanced out the window. Suddenly the scholarly silence of the class was disrupted as Hoim leaped to his feet screaming, "No! No! It ain't possible . . . It can't be true!"

"Oh, but it is true, Mr. Bumblesnoot," replied the instructor, "you see, Oxyhydroxidine plus two atoms of Hydorogen equals . . .!"

Hoim stared at him with glazed eyes and began to tremble violently. "No!" he screamed again, then abruptly kissed the deck.

As he awoke in Dean Sandy's office, the Dean was attempting to comfort him. "There! There! Take it easy, son. Do you feel better now?"

Hoim starred at him through bloodshot eyes. "You saw 'em, didn't you?" he said.

"Saw what?" questioned President Cloud, who was standing by.

"Those quonset huts," replied Hoim.

"Why, yes, those huts are for veterans going to school here," answered President Cloud.

"Quonset huts, Quonset huts! For three years in England I slept in 'em, ate in 'em, laughed in 'em, cried in 'em. I thought that I was through with them. Now here they are! Quonset huts everywhere! Quonset huts, quonset huts!"

Hoim began to laugh hysterically, then buried his face in his hands, sobbing aloud as he did so. Dean Sandys glanced at President Cloud, who nodded his head and said, "Yes, this campus fatigue is terrible."

Hoim recovered and was seen at college a few days later, apparently normal. However, when anyone mentioned the quonset huts his eyes would glow with a diabolic light and he would rub his hands saying, "You'll see! You'll see! Ha, ha, ha, ha, ha, hee, heeeeee! Yes! You'll see!" Then he'd hurry down the corridor laughing fiendishly.

It was a dark, foggy night when Hoim hurried into the quonset hut area lugging a heavy box. He stopped in the middle of the area, put the box down and opened it. He took some of the contents from the box and placed them in his arms. Moving furtively, he went from hut to hut hesitating a moment at each to place what he was carrying, under the huts. It was two hours before he completed his job and returned to the box to connect the wires. As he attached the wires to the detonating box, he glared malevolently at the quonset huts. "I'll see no more of you," he said, addressing the huts. Then he abruptly shoved the plunger on the detonating box.

A terrific explosion shook nearby residents as the quonset huts blew up and commenced to burn fiercely, lighting up the entire vicinity with an eerie glow.

Police, arriving shortly after the explosion, dragged Hoim from the debris. Hoim was gibbering like a raving maniac. "I did it! I did it! They're all gone! No more quonset huts! Ha, ha, ha, ha, aaaagh! . . . They're all gone." Gently the police beat him over the head with their billies and quietly carried him to their car.

Hoim, according to the latest report from the local constabulary, is now en route to an institution to complete his education.

XGI Says Excelsior Vets Have Spirit

Veterans attending the Excelsior Extension School are showing more college spirit than the students on the campus proper, according to Mel Toff, sole candidate for president of the XGI Society.

Harry Archer, treasurer, reported that 30 of these vets joined the society last week.

Fred Kelly, Veteran Counselor heading the extension school, said, "Members of the XGI Society were the first students to extend a welcome to the veterans here at Excelsior."

The following men have been nominated for office in the society: Toff, for president; George Backman, for vice-president; Bob Gilfoyle and John Zobel, for secretary; Maurice Witte, for treasurer; Jack Bemas, for CAB representative.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 22, 1946 No. 11

Thunder Rock Ends Tomorrow

Audience Acclaims Unusual Plot Of Lighthouse Drama

Packed houses applauded yesterday's presentations of Thunder Rock in Room 209, and hundreds more are expected to witness the four performances of Robert Ardrey's two hour drama scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and 12 noon both today and tomorrow.

Intermissions are called at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. each day, at which time lunches may be eaten, following Little Theater established custom.

As in the past, the play may be seen in parts so that students can arrange to attend a full performance without upsetting his class schedule.

Set in the lighthouse on Thunder Rock, the play creates a situation wherein Charleston, the man in the "ivory tower," looks to the past through the eyes of persons listed as passengers of a ship lost with all aboard in 1849. Comparisons between problems of the past and problems of today appeal to Charleston and form the basis for Ardrey's theme.

In the current drama group performances of Robert Ardrey's Thunder Rock, Photographer Don Lum has caught a representative scene. Above, William Riley, left, as Charleston, the light-keeper, resents the intrusion into his "ivory tower" of his friend Streeter, played by Frank Herding, and Chinese mechanic-gunner Cheng, played by Harold Doung. Philip Markinson, in the role of Inspector Flanning of the lighthouse service, sits at the right checking the books.

Among several parts double cast, William Riley alternates with Charles Hammer in the part of Charleston.

Interpretations of all parts are ably handled under the direction of Ruth Somers, drama coach, and the Little Theater stage has been realistically transformed into a lighthouse with brilliant lighting, sound effects, and scenery.

Associated Students

Election Petitions Draw Noon May 29 Deadline; Constitution Vote Set Friday

Regardless of the outcome of voting this Friday on proposed changes in the Associated Student constitution, all petitions for next semester officers and Student Council members must be submitted to Dean Edward E. Sandys by noon next Wednesday, May 29, the Student Council decreed at its last meeting.

Voting on constitutional changes, scheduled this Friday in the WAVE Auditorium during the College Hour, will affect qualifications for candidates for the offices of President of the Associated Students, President of the Sophomore Class, and seven Student Council representatives.

Under the suggested amendments the Associated Student President will not be required to have one semester of either Political Science 2a or 2b to his credit, and the president of the Sophomore Class will be required to have completed at least 45 units of work. This semester seven of the fourteen Student Council members were elected from the Club Advisory Board and seven from the students at large, but the new proposals require that all fourteen of the members be elected from the members at large of the Associated Students with seven representing the Sophomore Class and seven representing the Freshman Class.

Posted in the main hall on the first floor, these changes include the clarification of many terms throughout the entire document.

Open for candidacy are the following offices: Associated Student President, and Vice-President, President of the Sophomore Class, President of the Freshman Class, President of the Associated Men Students, President of the Associated Women Students, and 14 members of the Student Council.

With the blueprints for the electoral race stating the campus elections for Wednesday, June 5, and Thursday, June 6, petitions to run for office may be obtained at any time in Dean Sandy's office.

Campaign propaganda was given a free hand by the Election Committee with the ruling that a candidate may have one poster on the campus and two off.

"Royalty" Election On June 5, 6 Slate

Elections for Sophomore King and Queen will be held on June 5 and 6, in conjunction with the regular elections, Kent Bowker, sophomore class President, announced this week. All associated students may vote.

An election rally, to be held Friday, May 31, will mark the first appearance of the candidates before the student body.

Petitions may be obtained in Assistant Dean Jack Brady's office, and must be filed there by this Friday. Sole requirement for candidacy is a minimum of 30 units, placing the candidate in the sophomore class. Contestants may either run independently or may be sponsored by a college organization.

Winners will be crowned, not, as previously planned, at the beginning of Sophomore Week, but at the Sophomore formal, on June 7.

Eastern Scholarship Opportunity Here

The Johns-Manville Corporation announced through Edwin Cranston, instructor here, that it is selecting the second group of honor students to whom they will award college scholarships to Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Illinois, with concurrent business training at their nearby sales and factory offices at Chicago and Waukegan.

Students interested must have a "B" or better scholastic average and be in their second year of college. Full information about the type of work and the full requirements for the scholarships may be obtained from Cranston, in Room 340, daily for the next two weeks.

Music

Reduced SF Symphony Rates Given Students

Reduced prices for the 1946-47 symphony season are available to college students and a limited number of faculty members, the Symphony Association of San Francisco announced last week. Tickets at the new prices will be for extra performances of concerts held exclusively for college students on Thursday evenings.

The prices range from 85 cents to $1.20 for single concerts, with tickets for the whole 15 concert season ranging from $12.75 to $18. Seats may be reserved singly or in groups now and paid for next fall. Reservation cards may be obtained in Room 200.

This series of performances will be the first of its kind, and Howard Skinner, publicity director of the War Memorial Opera House, predicts that the entire house will be sold out.

If the concerts are a success, another will be planned to follow, he indicated.

Administration

President Cloud Named Chairman For Northern California School Part In National Save Children Federation

President Archibald J. Cloud was elected last week to the chairmanship of the School Participation for Northern California of the Save the Children Federation. This active organization is partly responsible for the instigation of the current "Hands Across The Sea—School To School" campaign.

Tentative arrangements provide for student participation here with the expected support of leadership by the Student Council in promulgating plans to enter the Northern California Drive.

The SCF has assisted in the care, health, and education in rural areas of the United States since 1932, and has now assumed the responsibility of feeding, clothing, and educating the children of bomb-gutted Europe.

In European and Scandinavian countries conditions are deplorable, SCF heads point out. In France alone 1,500 schools have been reported destroyed, and in Finmark, northermost province of Norway, 94 out of 120 schools have been totally destroyed and 90 per cent of Finmark's homes have been burned to the ground.

Three major relief programs are currently being carried out by the SCF. Plan two, applicable here, is called "Adopt A Shattered School" and invites any individual, church, school, or society to give assistance to a specific needy school in one of the liberated countries. This plan has been well received by the Student Councils wherever it has been presented. In Hayward, for instance, the council is to sponsor a benefit dance.

When the necessary amount is forwarded to SCF headquarters, a shattered school located in the country of the Hayward school's choice will be assigned. Recognition and appreciation of the American schools' contribution to their welfare will take the form of friendship-promoting letters which will be exchanged by the schools across the Atlantic with their benefactors over here.

Scholarship Pins Still Available In Room 340

Regular as well as first semester members of the college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, may obtain their pins daily at 10 o'clock in Room 340, Edwin Cranston, AGS adviser, announced last week.

Cranston added that members who apply for their pins need not bring any identification because he has a complete list of all members.

Social

Concessions Feature Mardi Gras Friday

Based on the pageantry and color of pre-Lenten New Orleans, the Mardi Gras, sponsored by the freshman class, will be held in the men's gymnasium this Friday from 7 to midnight, Fisco Sartor, freshman president, announced last week.

Costumes are not mandatory, Sartor said, but prizes will be given for the best costumes and the most successful booth.

Contrary to former plans, Ray Hackett's orchestra will entertain in the men's gymnasium, where students may dance.

"The success or failure of the Mardi Gras will determine whether or not it will become an annual affair with the purpose of raising funds for the treasuries of campus organizations and in improvements in the student lounge," Sartor emphasized.

Those organizations participating and their respective booths are: Music Club, recordings; Delta Psi, fortune telling; Theta Tau, coke concession; Phi Beta Rho, nail driving; XGI, gambling booth for novelties; Kappa Alpha Sigma, portrait studio; Tri-Epsilon, dart concession; Kappa Phi, candy kiss sale; and Alpha Lambda, ice cream cones.

Board To Decide On Additional Quonsets

Whether 200 married veterans will be provided with homes will be decided by the San Francisco Board of Education "some time this week," Dean Edward E. Sandys said Friday.

If the plan is approved by the board, 100 more quonset huts will be ready for occupation by September, Dean Sandys added.

Twenty-five huts have already been obtained for married veterans of the college and will be completed by the middle of June.

Guardsman Photographer Goes To Work

Assigned by the editor to bring in a picture of June Hollett, freshmen class secretary, Frisco Sartor, president, and Audrey Judd, vice-president, who have organized the class Mardi Gras scheduled this Friday night in the men's gymnasium, Guardsmen photographer Donald Lum bows out of The Guardsman office (lower left), equipment in hand.

Above this picture he is shown posing and snapping the three officers. Center top picture—Lum is removing the photo from the developer.

Back to The Guardsman office again with the finished pictures, a glossy print for best cut reproduction, Lum types out the names left-to-right—the editor's example of efficient photographer par excellence.

Below, right, is the finished picture—Sartor, between Miss Hollett, left, and Miss Judd, right.

The trail of Lum here portrayed was photographed by Bill Owyang, member of Bev Pesqueletti's photography class.

Lum himself attended Polytechnic High School, is now in his third semester here, has been studying photography for four years, and joined The Guardsmen staff this semester.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 11 Wednesday, May 22, 1946 Page 2

Constitution Voters

Accentuate The Trend

LAST semester one of the main projects of the President of the Associated Students was the systematic amending of the constitution, in order to rectify as many of the existing flaws as possible, and thus set up a framework, both suitable and practical, within which the government could function and the students best administer their own collective actions.

Accordingly, the constitution, at the hands of the then president and his committee, underwent a major change, designed to fit more exactly the needs of the college.

Since the "revision" was accomplished in some haste, was written by one group, and was only tested out by another group, this semester, it is natural that some flaws remain, and that possibly others were unwittingly created.

In any event, the present administration has decided that there do exist such flaws, and has drawn up various amendments correcting them.

While a standard practice of each new student administration seems to be that of tampering with the constitution, it cannot be denied that a rigid and permanently "intact" constitution makes for inefficiency in the long run, and perhaps even leads to a curtailment of student privileges.

In a college, such as this, where students stay no more than two years, and very often less, a flexible constitution, and one under fairly regular scrutiny, is the average students' best guarantee of his privileges—now more than ever before.

Accordingly, students should accentuate the trend shown last semester when one-third of the Associated Students voted for association officers. Up until then, only one-fifth or one-eighth of the Associated Students considered it in their interests to exercise their democratic privileges.

This Friday, and June 5 and June 6, the days of voting on the constitution and elections, respectively, will effectively demonstrate in black and white how many of the present students are interested in what concerns them most.

New Buildings Needed

WITH the expected enrollment of about 7000 students next fall, new buildings will be neded more than ever by the college. At present, the one main building is terribly inadequate and will be even worse next semester.

A couple of months ago, a move was instigated to start construction on new buildings. Up to now nothing else has happened. The space intended is now being used for the quonset huts for veterans and their families. These huts are sadly needed, but so are the college buildings. This does not mean that the huts should be neglected, but only that the college should not be.

The college is already full and overflowing, and when the enrollment is enlarged by about two or three thousand, it will be impossible even to walk down the corridors, to say nothing of getting past the silver pole.

If something could be done to speed up plans for construction before the influx of new students, it would save a lot of grief next semester.

C.G.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pemale Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gennon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheehy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavanor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bain, John Bayler, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Jo Ellen Cain, Peter Cerlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freadman, Kenneth Judd, Patricia French, Rudolf Lutt, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, George Lejeunesse, Shirley Langston, Howard Levy, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosella Rhode, James Riggs, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephan, Staten Webster, Marjorie Wheary, Jeanne Williams.
Staff Photographer ..... Don Lum
Joan Nourse Muscio ..... Faculty Adviser

Lajeunesse

Yes, We Know, But . . .

WHILE it isn't causing the very walls of the college to tremble and quake, some groups are heatedly conversing of the fast developing feud between Hizzoner Mayor Roger D. ("Down the Peninsula") Lapham, and one Henry Budde (who, by the way, gets credit for the foregoing quotes), a neighborhood publisher.

It seems recall, along with spring, is in the air. Squaring away in the political ring in one corner, appears to be the Mayor, with a formidable array of seconds, including all the downtown merchants and the four daily five cent papers. In the opposite corner is Mr. Budde, who gives his papers away, and an undetermined number of small neighborhood store owners.

Out in the confused gallery are a number of collegians up on Balboa Hill wondering just what it's all about. From the Ocean Avenue and Phelan Street delegation comes the consensus that all is not well with the city that knows, or knew, how. Maybe Mr. Budde is right. Should Roger D. ("Downtown's Darling"), and again the quotes belong to Budde, go back to playing with his boats, or could Budde be blowing off key and a few bars behind?

TRANSIT BY SEA WATER

Speaking of boats brings up the transit problem that faces the Queen City of the West. An idea has been broached to flood the thoroughfares with a few fathoms of sea water and buy a batch of landing barges off the dwindling Navy to supplement the decrepit trams that infest the streets. It would seem a trip up Market Street and through the tunnel via LST would be a lot smoother than trial by ordeal every morning on the "K" cat.

* * * *

Various factions are engaged these days in punching holes in the OPA while it climbs off the floor after getting a right hook from the Senate. The March of Time has an interesting reel going on in a downtown movie palace about the housing shortage, and presents a couple of esteemed public citizens arguing something awful the pros and cons of the whole thing.

While the OPA was hardly mentioned in the affair, it seemed to be the whole issue. It doesn't take a mind from the cloistered confines of a literary atmosphere to smell out the money grabbers that are now prowling about the country much the same as carpet baggers of old.

THIS GUY SEZ . . .

So the sides line up once again; this guy sez the OPA is keeping him from making a fair profit and the OPA sez this other guy is dashing the U. S. towards inflation and disaster. It's only pure and simple common sense that says production hasn't caught up with demand yet; if the ceilings are pulled off now, the sky will be the limit.

It costs something like 20,000 Chinese dollars to get a haircut in Chungking today, they say; and the college cafeteria would be a difficult place to get into if each student trundled his lunch money along in a wheelbarrow to get a hamburger and coke.

* * * *

Come next July 1, and a few of S. F.'s more flittery citizens will be looking seaward from 48th Avenue and awaiting the "tidal wave" that will engulf the whole Pacific Slope; the end of the world, as it were. They're going to cut loose with a third dehydrated bomb out on Bikini Atoll, and an anxious world awaits the results. Most observers believe the U. S. will be shopping around for a new navy on July 2, although Navy vets get plenty hot under the collar when the word "obsolete" is whispered in their midst.

THE EAGLE AND THE BEAR

The political implications set off will have a bigger boom than the mass of atoms itself. For, if "The Bomb" does liquidate a cross section of the country's first line of defense, the taxpayers are in for a beating to replace it with something new and different. And that'll put the Eagle on a plane with the Bear, for Joe doesn't own a navy either, to speak of.

Not that the whole deal isn't worth it, the test is only costing a few billion and the price tag on a new navy will be astronomical. But the U. S. had one foot off the gutter when Hiroshima was pulverized, and it'll take more than the wrath of an army of taxpayers to get it back to level ground again. Meaning that science is showing there is no limit to man's ingenuity; no one can put a ceiling on man's brains and no one will keep him from blowing his brains out either.

* * * *

Another unexplained phenomenon that is appearing at the breakfast table every morning is the condensed version of the staff of life, namely, the 14 ounce pound loaf of bread.

The state claimed awhile back that the bakeries were offside in thinking they could sell a pound loaf that was a bit shy in weight, and threatened an injunction. Not much more has been heard from Sacramento on this, however.

The bakeries claim it's the wheat shortage, and they reduced to help feed Europe, a noble thought at that. But it still costs a nice new shiny dime for the same commodity plus two ounces off a baker's thumb.

Stephen

RAMifications

THE sources of information which make themselves available to this frustrated columnist are often few and far between, and when and if they make a delayed appearance, the material which they proffer is often of a type unintelligible to the average column reader. But one extremely interesting source, who has been quoted in this space at least once before, is the Washington man, James Crowley.

Ideas, both noteworthy and newsworthy, have been presented on his Tuesday and Thursday night broadcasts of late that might play a definitely important part in the lives of capital and labor, which would revolutionize the entire relationship between them.

The latest and most startling suggestion brought out on Mr. Crowley's broadcast is one originating on a farm somewhere in the Mid-West. The originator is a girl who has lived the greater portion of her life on the farm. This alone would lend skeptics to criticize even before the idea has been laid open.

The gist of the whole thing is simply this: instead of labor calling a strike in order to obtain advantages such as higher wages and welfare funds, (meanwhile restricting endless industries and personal enterprises and swinging public opinion by a large majority to the side of management), why not let labor go on working while these differences are being settled and refuse pay—the exact thing they are now doing—but without inconvenience to anyone else?

In this manner, public opinion will naturally swing to the aid of labor, thus enabling it to gain advantages that might otherwise be impossible to obtain.

A strike of this sort could not last long, according to James Crowley's Friend Farmer's Daughter, for the obvious reason of inability on the part of management to exist without the profit which the government would automatically control until such time as all differences will be settled.

This is merely a theory, however. But it deserves, if only on its merits as original, to be considered by strike-conscious citizens. It is their lives that are being most upset by the trend of events in this country.

Cumming

After Dark

"THE BLUE DAHLIA" has the combined talents of Alan Ladd, Veronica Lake, and William Bendix, with a Raymond Chandler story to boot. All in all, the Chandler story stacks up the best, but Mr. Bendix, who can always be relied upon, turns in a very good performance. Miss Lake seems to have no bearing in the story whatsoever but is provided with quite a flexible part which enables her to wander on and off the screen at will. Mr. Ladd is appropriately formidable.

One of the finest bits is' Doris Dowling of "No thanks—thanks a lot, but no thanks" fame in The Lost Weekend who portrays Mr. Ladd's shrewish wife downright magnificently.

* * * *

The recent fad for neuroses has taken a very interesting turn with the appearance of Mary Jane Ward's The Snake Pit. The author in the process of the narrative, brilliantly takes the reader into the mind of Virginin Cunningham, a victim of a complete nervous breakdown, who is confined at Juniper Hill. "one of the best" mental hospitals. With beautiful mastery of her pen, Miss Ward so succeeds in transporting the reader into Virginia's mind that every emotion, every decline, every step forward to recovery is keenly and magnificently felt.

* * * *

The Little Theater of the Junior College is about to produce a play called Thunder Rock. This play of utmost interest concerns a young journalist who has isolated himself in a lighthouse to escape himself.

In trying to find some hope for the future he conjures up remnants of a past century with most interesting results.

Author Robert Ardrey has written a play that is smooth from start to end and is guaranteed to hold anyone's interest.

With only a few moments of over-trumpeting—as it were, the story solves the problem of the hero, tearing from him any hope of escape, and sends him into the world reassured.

Letters To The Editor

RAM'S HORN

• Machines Are Not Infallible

Editor, The Guardsman:

With the Industrial Revolution the innovation of machines into our lives was the certain turn of the forces of civilization to more extensive productive ends. We, the humble members of the college, feel that machines do not necessarily need be instituted into the system of education we enjoy; viz, the grading of examination papers by the IBM machine.

During the last mid-term period a history class fell prey to the error of the IBM machine, due to mechanical failure. Approximately half of the class had papers marked incorrectly. Some of the students felt that a mistake had been made, consequently the instructor was obliged to go over all

(Continued on page 4, column 3)

RAMblings . .

By Bob Catudio

TURFDOM'S Methusalistic yelp of, "And here comes Malicious," can easily be adapted to the most improved group of thin clads spotted in this neck of the woods if you can count the recent success of Jim Jensen's clan at Modesto.

"The boys have improved a great deal since that early meet at Berkeley," avers Jensen, boss man of the locals. "At Modesto, we surprised a lot of people, including Fred Earle (Pirate coach), who was amazed more than anything."

At this point, Lee Eisan burst in: "Have you fellows seen Mapelli?"

"We're weak in the weights division," Jensen groaned, "but with the breaks, we have a very fine chance to win the conference championships."

Tom Kellogg's sparkling 1:59.8 half mile effort and the marked improvement of timber toppers Bob Pederson and Bob Elliott stand out. Sprinter Eddie Bryant is coming along and don't discount Bob Caredio or George Albertus.

SPIKESTERS ARE FAVORITES

Performances and times do not lie, nor do they hide the fact that the Rams have been installed as top favorites to win the Northern California Junior College Track Championships. Lack of an entry fee kept many of the educational speedsters from participating in the Fresno Relays at Radcliffe Stadium last weekend.

Bystander Jack Gaddy, ringmaster of the gymnasium set, took the hint and began searching for a requisition blank.

"Now let's see. Stamps, envelopes . . . diapers, booties! Air mail stamps, post cards . . . perambulators, formulas. Yeah, Fischer needs stamps . . . diapers. Pay the light bill . . ."

BRADY SINGS LOUD

After a brief jaunt up the side of the Matterhorn, we paused for a moment in front of Room 185, where inside, Dean Jack Brady, fronting an audience of music lovers, sang out with his usual takeoff on how bad a baseball coach Francis O'Doul is this year.

"Take me, f'r instance. You know why I'm a good hitter? Because Babe Ruth and I both have the same birthdays."

Brady then explained how he clouted a home run against Polytechnic High when he was cavorting for Mission.

"It made me happy," Brady murmured.

So it was, mates, that we found ourselves imbued with the biographical lore of Big Rec in Golden Gate Park, cheap homers and stolen bases, the clover-leafed Seals, and an ensuing argument on the merits of a Copelandian treatment of "Cement Mixer."

Lee Eisan punctured an air of sixteen Mapelli?"

lence with "Have any of you fellows Needless to say, John Mapelli was not uncovered and when last seen, a flustered Eisan was stumbling through the Twin Peaks Tunnel wondering where Mapelli could be.

Fischers Still Lead League; Shallock, Collins Duel Saturday At Big Rec Park

Nearing the stretch drive of a hectic baseball campaign, the Rams will host neighboring Marin Junior College (and Art Schallock) this coming Saturday in a doubleheader, at 12:30 p.m., at Big Rec in Golden Gate Park.

In the last meeting between the two teams, the Fischers walked off with both games, Bill Collins edging Marin's Shallock in the first game, while Charley Brabbit emerged with a two-hitter in the seven inning quickie.

Outfielder Frank Ratto, who injured his left hand in the Sacramento fracas, will return to his spot in centerfield. Dick Sabatini, relegated to the bench because of bacealaureate difficulties, may be started in left field, giving the locals added batting power unknown since the San Mateo game.

The loss of regular shortstop Jim Younger from the Mariners has Coach Ed Jorgenson frantically patching up the Marin lineup. Needless to say, strong arm thrower Shallock, upon whom big league eyes are currently resting, is slated to see duty in both contests.

Elsewhere in the loop, Sacramento meets Modesto while San Mateo is idle.

Lineups:

Marin	Pos.	San Francisco
Shallock	P	Collins
Phillips	C	Homsey
Hobson	1B	McIntire
Wadlow	2B	Galvin
Roberts	3B	Ranuio
Tierney	SS	McNamara
Younger	LF	Follini
Petretti	CF	Ratto
Bino	RF	Andersen

The Guardsman Sports

Vol. XXII, No. 11 WEDNESDAY, MAY 22, 1946 Page 3

Baseball

Brabbit Saves Day, Hurls 6-2 Triumph; Rams Blow Opener

Charley Brabbit, the rabbit merchant from the Iowa farm belt, saved the Fischers from ignominious disaster Saturday when he fossed a 6 to 2 win over Modesto, after the Bucs edged the townies, 7 to 5, in a nerve-tingling 12-inning curtain raiser at Big Rec.

Tied at 5-5 going into the twelfth panel, Modesto's Harry Momi singled with the bases loaded, scoring John Gainza and Bobby Lee with the clinching markers.

Johnny Dinublo, Pirate second baseman, homered with one man on in the sixth canto. Paul Tamo outlasted Bill Collins, who was charged with his second loss.

SAN MATEO, May 18.—San Mateo twice defeated the floundering Marine nine, 7 to 0, and 5 to 3, here this afternoon to creep within one and one-half games of the San Francisco Rams.

In the nightcap, Brabbit, in allowing six hits, registered his fourth straight win of the season. Prior to Modesto's scoring, "Farmer Charley" had hurled 21 consecutive scoreless innings.

Ram Tom Galvin hit safely in both games, extending to 12 straight his feat of hitting this campaign in the NCJC loop.

First Game

Modesto (7)				San Francisco (5)
Player, Pos.	AB	R	H	Player, Pos.	AB	R	H
Sousa, ss	6	1	1	Sabatini, cf	4	1	1
Stovall, cf	5	1	3	Galvin, 2b	6	0	1
Gainza, 1b	3	2	1	Follini, lf	5	1	2
Lee, 3b	6	1	2	McIntre, 1b	6	0	1
Slaymkr, c	5	1	2	Anders., rf	5	1	2
Momi, rf	6	0	1	Homsey, c	6	0	2
Dinublo, 2b	6	1	1	Ranuio, 3b	5	0	0
Hyduke, lf	5	0	0	McNara, ss	5	1	0
Tamo, p	4	0	0	Collins, p	3	1	0
	—	—	—	Brabbit, p	0	0	0
	46	7	11	Hoghtn, pr	0	0	0
					45	5	9

Modesto—
R					200	002	100	002—	7
H					101	001	301	103—11
San Francisco—
R					000	130	100	000—	5
H					200	210	210	010—	9

Second Game

Modesto (2)				San Francisco (6)
Player, Pos.	AB	R	H	Player, Pos.	AB	R	H
Sousa, ss	3	0	1	Sabatini, cf	4	1	2
Stovall, cf	4	1	0	Galvin, cf	4	2	2
Draper, rf	3	1	0	Follini, lf	2	1	1
Lee, 3b	2	2	0	McIntire, 1b	3	1	0
Momi, cf	2	0	1	Anders., rf	3	0	1
Pepelis, 1b	3	0	0	Ranuio, 3b	3	0	0
Dinublo, 2b	2	0	0	Cane, c	3	0	0
Ginsburg, c	3	0	1	McNara, ss	1	1	0
Chelgrin, p	3	0	1	Brabbit, p	1	0	0
Dillon, p	0	0	0		—	—	—
Gainza, ph	1	0	1		24	6	6
Nelson, pr	0	0	0
	—	—	—
	25	2	6

R	000	002	0—	2	R		202	011	r—	6
H	000	103	2—	6	H		201	021	r—	6

Boxing

26 Finalists Top May 29 Fistic Carnival; Drake-Seyranian Bout Looms As Feature Attraction; Sports Celebs Invited

JACK GADDY, director of athletics, who is currently aiding Coach Tom Wilson preparing for the college's semi-annual Boxing Show come the night of Wednesday, May 29.

Twenty-six finalists, survivors of last week's hectic preliminaries, will grace the card of the semi-annual Associated Men Students-Intramural boxing carnival next Wednesday, May 29, in the men's gymnasium, first bout starting at 7:30 p.m.

Feature attraction is the bout between Al "Duke" Drake, 160 pound ex-Navy man, and Leon Seyranian, who is reputed to be a slugger of no mean standing.

Supporting the top-lined Drake-Seyranian battle is the light heavyweight bout between Mike Schnapp and Art Stranton, as well as the 165 pound brawl between the fast swinging Henry Swindler and newcomer Johnny Johnson.

Sports celebrities from the metropolitan area, including Ray Lunny, Jimmy Needles, Ray Daugherty, Roy Diedcrichsen, Lloyd Leith, Ralph Hillsman, and others, will be in attendance.

Between bouts during the intermission, the Getas Brothers will stage an exhibition wrestling match.

The card:

115 pounds—Chet Frierson vs. Howie Jeong.

120 pounds—Cliff Bedwell vs. Dick Nzin.

125 pounds—Benny Muniz vs. Ray Horton.

135 pounds—Dave Valentine vs. Henry Figueroa.

140 pounds—Al Bustamante vs. Bob Utsumi.

145 pounds—Warren Simmons vs. Larry Solomon.

150 pounds—Harry Tapoian vs. Dick Mahoney.

155 pounds—Bob Casavant vs. Bob Fleischmann.

160 pounds—Gordon Fell vs. Louis Ryan.

165 pounds—Henry Swindler vs. Johnny Johnson.

175 pounds—Mike Schnapp vs. Art Stranton.

180 pounds—Joe Moss vs. Bob Par-

Feature attraction finalists listening to Bill Fischer's instructions are Al Drake (left) and Leon Seyranian, both heavyweights. In the lower picture, Dick Mahoney and Bob Fleischmann willingly pose, though both boys will be facing different opponents May 29.

now.

Heavyweight—Al Drake vs. Leon Seyranian.

Besides the usual carnival of fisticuffs, finals in intramural basketball, table tennis, and badminton will be staged immediately following the conclusion of the 13 bouts, Tom Wilson, college intramural director, disclosed yesterday.

Presentation of awards for individual and team winners of the current intramural program will be presented. The college Block F Society yesterday announced that block awards will be distributed to varsity basketball players of the 1945-46 season.

Track

Rams Face Matean, Menlo Spike Forces

Opposing for the second time this season two of their local junior college adversaries, the college oval-men vie with fellow thin-clads from San Mateo and Menlo Junior Colleges this coming Saturday on San Francisco State College's wind-swept Lake Merced oval.

The first event, the mile, is scheduled to start at 10:30 a.m.

The last time the trio met was in a quadruple meet that included Stanford University. The meet was held at Stanford's Angell Field, and the Rams easily outpointed their junior collegian opponents.

On the basis of this display of power and their great showing two weeks ago in a meet held at Modesto, the Rams rule as natural favorites. The college, without a doubt, possesses the strongest junior college track team in northern California. The Rams have some of the best sprint and distance men in the conference, although they are comparatively weak in the field events department.

In the Modesto meet several Rams showed great improvement. Tom Kellogg proved to everyone that he is one of the best 880 men in the area, when he ran a brilliant 1:59.8 half mile. Eddie Bryant won the furlong in :22.7, which is far from his best time for the event, at :22.1.

Bob Pederson and Bob Elliott seem to be the two top hurdlers in the conference as they have consistently finished one-two in every meet with other junior colleges this season.

Bob Caredio and George Albertus also appear to be the leading 440 men in the conference as they too have not been defeated by junior college opposition.

Although San Mateo and Menlo possess better-than-average teams, their chances against the power-packed Rams, who have butted their way into the realm of recognition achieved by other powerful pre-war Ram teams, are very slight.

Make-Up Class Slate Announced By Gaddy

Men who have physical education classes to make up may report to the men's gymnasium daily, excepting Friday, from 8 to 2 o'clock, up to the Thursday preceding final examinations, Jack Gaddy, physical education director, reported today.

Failure to make up sufficient classes will result in the student receiving an "F" for the course.

Portals, Bandas Cop Tourney Basket Titles, Grace May 29 All-Sports Card

Fighting their way to the top of their respective loops the Portals and the Bandas have won the right to meet each other in the finals of the Intramural Basketball Tournament. Each team was undefeated in regular play.

It has been the lot of the Banda Club to trounce each of its opponents by around twenty points thus establishing their reign as tourney favorite.

The Lau-Buchanan combo was reputedly the hottest thing in the league, and after a couple of weeks' rest, should be in top form. The Portals will be in there in opposition fighting and in the most hotly contested game of the intramural season.

The game will be a part of the All Intramural Sports Night, Wednesday, May 29.

The tennis singles and doubles tourneys have moved into the semi-finals and finals, with the winners being awarded their medals Wednesday, May 29.

"The badminton finals should be played off by May 22 so that the awards may be presented later," Tom Wilson, director of the intramural program, announced yesterday.

The schedule for the horseshoes tourney has been posted in the men's gymnasium and second round games must be played by today, third round by Friday, May 24, and the finals by Tuesday, May 28. Each game will consist of 21 points, and the match will be determined by two games out of three.

Four teams have signed up to play touch football and the round robin schedule has been posted on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium.

WAA Schedules Group Election Next Month

An election will be held Friday, June 7, during the college hour to nominate and vote into office Women's Athletic Association officers for the coming year, it was disclosed this week by Wanda McKenzie, WAA president.

"The WAA constitution states that we shall hold only one election a year. Officers that will fill the positions of president, vice-president, and secretary, will hold that office until next spring," Miss McKenzie asserted.

Plans to purchase a wooden block to hold the WAA gavel have been decided upon. The gavel has engraved on it the names of all the preceding presidents and at the present time there is inadequate engraving space. In lieu of the gavel, names will be engraved on the block.

The WAA Dance Club presented their famous skit, "Casey At The Bat," May 14 and 15 for California Scholarship Federation students who visited the college from various high schools in the locality.

"The WAA would like to play a softball game against the faculty men," Ann Ahokas reported, "but as yet nothing has been arranged."

Jeffrey Burress

Assistant Editor Says Forum Tops

By George Lajeunesse

An avid San Franciscan to the point of reading any and all literature that brings to light the customs and mannerisms of the West's cosmopolitan metropolis, Jeffrey Burress, assistant editor of Forum Magazine, would be a valuable asset to the local Chamber of Commerce in promoting the Bay City.

As a promising English literature instructor, Miss Burress names Cable Car Days as one of her favorite books in the study of the history of her native city. A graduate of St. Rose Academy in San Francisco, she is completing her second and last year in the college. Next September will find Miss Burress attending the University of California in nearby Berkeley, continuing an English major.

In her capacity as assistant editor on the magazine, she has reviewed this issue's contributions and has predicted "the best issue the college has ever had" when Forum Magazine goes on sale early next month.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

•Kappa Alpha Sigma and Alpha Delta Epsilon will have a joint beach outing and barbecue at Kelly's Kove tonight.

•Mu Iota Psi: At the last meeting of the Music Club, voting changed the name to Mu Iota Psi. Pins will be ordered for members, and plans are being made to present a program for the Commerce High School Music Club.

•Phi Beta Rho: Meeting this Wednesday at 155 Beverly Street. Attendance is required.

•Delta Psi: The formal initiation will be held Tuesday, at the home of Jean Carrasco, 2614 Anza Street, at 8 p.m.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: The Inter-Fraternity Exclusive will be held this Sunday from 4 to 8 o'clock at the Town and Gown in Berkeley.

•Alpha Lambda Chi: A joint meeting with the Beta Tau is being planned.

•Beta Phi Beta: There will be a business meeting this monday night at 892 Ashbury.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: There will be an important meeting for the nomination of new officers Friday. All members must attend. The club picnic will be held at Fairfax, Sunday. Those who plan to go please sign up.

•Pick and Hammer Club: All members are asked to cooperate with the club booth at the Mardi Gras. Members should see Adviser George Green or Marge Whearty for details.

Anderson Organizes Men's Service Society

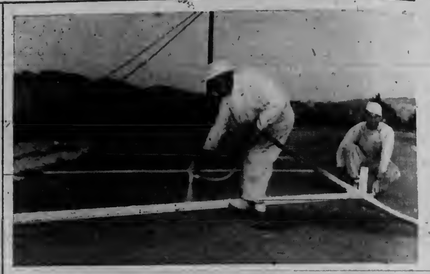
Under the guidance of Oscar Anderson, college controller, the nucleus of a Men's Service Society is currently developing as a parallel to the Women's Service Society.

With a few men students who have volunteered to take tickets at the dances and help in college activities as the starting point, Anderson has started the beginning step toward the organization.

Anderson urged all campus-minded men students to see him about participation in the proposed society.

Art Exhibit

Devlins Portray SF With Allied Themes



With San Francisco From Two Points as a theme, Madison Devlin, music instructor here, and his wife, who paints under the name of Leola Dixon, will present an exhibit of photographs and water color paintings at the Legion of Honor Museum, in Lincoln Park, beginning Friday, June 14.

The exhibit will consist of approximately 15 photographs by Devlin, contrasted by the same number of paintings by his wife. To show the distinction accurately, both have chosen the same subjects.

Topics will be typical of San Francisco color, Devlin said. The list of pictures includes Stern Grove, St. Paul's Church, Union Square, and Chinatown.

"Although different points of view were intentional with most of the subjects," Devlin said, "we took the same approach to Union Square." Both pictures were made from the sixth floor of the Butler Building, which Devlin believes to be the first time this angle has been used.

Mrs. Devlin is a member of the San Francisco Women's Art Association and studied under Millard Sheets. Devlin has been active in the field of photography and is responsible for pictures that have appeared in several college publications.

Re-marking the parking lot on the circle drive to make the best use of all available parking space was completed last week. The above picture was taken by Don Lum as the painters "came round the bend" on the north end of the campus.

Emphasizing the need for cooperation on the part of all concerned, college controller Oscar E. Anderson pointed out that parking space now available should be sufficient if the students "play ball."

Illegal parking will result in the removal of the automobile at the owner's expense, Anderson continued. Of the 200 stalls on the circle drive, the first 30 on each end are reserved for the use of regular employees.

If all drivers park correctly in the marked stalls, Anderson pointed out, parking on the sidewalk along the north and south ends of the building should not be necessary. Although dangerous, parking next to the sidewalk is still permissible, he said.

Re-zoning of the parking lot is the latest development in the effort to ease the parking situation. Space now available includes both sides of Phelan Avenue, the vacant space south of the main building, and both sides of the circle drive.

More Letters To The Editor

(Continued from page 2)

the papers in question.

A few students had their grade changed, which goes to prove that machines can be wrong, they are not infallible. The $64 question, professor, is, "Are IBM machines necessary to our modern educational system?"

A. Klpnis

• Council Meeting Conflicts

Editor, The Guardsman:

The Student Council of our college is, as we all know, a governing body over which the President presides. The members of the Student Council are enrolled in a course called Political Science 2A,-B, which is held Tuesday and Thursday at 12.

It seems that some of the members have regular college courses at that hour which makes it almost impossible for them to attend the Student Council. It is true that the members were elected to office by the Associated Students of our college. At the time of their election, they did not know what hour their council would meet, as is evidenced by myself and the course I am enrolled in at that time.

At the beginning of the semester, I explained to a member of the administration that I would be unable to attend the meetings and told our President, Joseph Sweet, that I should resign, to which he replied that it was unnecessary.

Mr. Sweet should have accepted my resignation, but unfortunately, he did not, because he discovered too late a clause in our constitution which permits no more than three absences.

In this college we have a Judiciary Committee. If anyone violates regulations, he should be able to defend himself before this high body.

Ernie Poggi

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

Herman Runs Into Military Trouble, Now On Cafeteria Garbage Detail

By Del Plehon

Ex-T-5 Herman P. Bumblesnoot parked his jeep in front of the college. Then pulling out his trip ticket he checked the mileage registered on the speedometer and wrote it in. Jumping out of the jeep, he quickly checked to see that each tire had the regulation 32 pounds and found everything to be in order. Satisfied, he straightened his campaign ribbons and neon discharge button, grabbed his books and hurried into the cafeteria for a cup of coffee and a sandwich.

Getting his coffee and sandwich, he seated himself at a table and began eating. He was suddenly interrupted by someone asking, "How's the chow, mister?"

Hoim glanced up at a short, fat, bespectacled, and exceedingly repulsive person possessed of two startling blue eyes surrounded by bloodshot whites. This . . . thing . . . was apparently addressing him.

"Lousy," Hoim replied tersely.

The short, fat person beeame livid, then apparently controlling himself said, "What did you say, mister?"

"I said da chow wuz lousy," Hoim reiterated.

"You say, sir, when you speak to an officer of the K-9 Reserve," the fat person screamed. "And sit at attention! . . . Remember that!" He glared at Hoim a moment, then said, "Now eat that food . . . all of it!"

Hoim stared at him bewildered and slowly began to eat. The "officer" watched him awhile then gradually walked off, glancing back over his shoulder occasionally.

As an announcement was made to clear the cafeteria, Hoim arose and began to walk out, leaving his dishes on the table.

A loud shout echoed through the cafeteria, "Stop that man!" The shouter was the K-9 officer.

Two burly men grabbed Hoim and held him as the "officer" waddled over.

"Tried to get away, ch?" he said. "You didn't eat all your food, you know; and what's more, you didn't bus your dishes. Why not!" he ended up loudly.

"Beeauz da chow is lousy . . . and a . . . and a' . . . I forgot the dishes," replied Hoim.

"Sir!" screamed the "officer" as he pulled a pad and pencil from his regulation K-9 pocket. "Give me your name, rank and serial number," he commanded.

"Herman Parsimminous Bumbiesnoot, Ex-Technical Corporal, 19151617," Hoim answered automatically.

"Let me check your dogtags," the officer said.

"I ain't got none," was the answer.

The officer's eyes gleamed like two coals and sweat poured profusely from his brow; it was only with terrific effort that he controlled himself and said quietly, "Well, Bumblesnoot, you'll probably get a summary court-martial for this, but right now you're going on a week's KP."

Hoim trembled. "No! No! Not that! Please not that!"

"Get up off your knees, Bumblesnoot, that isn't going to do you any good." Then turning from Hoim he addressed a greasy looking person standing by. "Put this man on garbage detail, Ex-Sergeant Seecoiojprenzie . . . and keep him there!"

Hours later Hoim drew his head from the inside of the garbage can that he had been cleaning and murmured, "Cheez! I might get busted." Tears streaming down his face he set to work on another garbage can, and his voice could be heard echoing out of the can, "Cheez! A K-9 court-martial!"

XGI

Society, WAVES Plan Dance May 25

In a merger of forces, WAVES at Balboa Park and members of the XGI Society are sponsoring an informal dance in the WAVE Auditorium, across from the college, Saturday, May 25, at 8 p.m.

Admission to the dance will be by XGI membership card or receipt. Dates will not be taken to the dance, as WAVES and XGI's will choose their partners on arriving at the auditorium.

George Backman, secretary, announced that there are still a few rooms available to members of the society and that the society is advocating the procurement of more quonset huts for use of married vets.

The Age Of Speed

A Woman Burns The Wire

By James Riggs

Everything in this age of atoms and airplanes seems to be keyed to speed. Everything, that is, except a woman's telephone conversation. Woman has taken her freedom of speech literally and her ability to say in two hours what could be easily said in 15 minutes has long kept her poor mate completely mystified.

Spending five minutes to get a number is beyond comprehension to the male who makes dozens of calls daily by simply dialing six digits.

When the connection is finally made, the fun begins. "My dear, did you see anything like how hard it is to get a cab these days? . . . What? . . . Oh, but I can't ride those rickety old street cars, my dear, I just simply can't.

"Well, she's probably very nice, but I just don't care for her type . . . Oh, yes, wasn't it lovely? . . . at 8?

"Well, my dear, I must hang up. Mrs. Thingamajig was over this morning, and I'm just worn out from her talk, talk, talk."

The next 45 minutes include a synopsis, an emphasis here, a retraction there, and a great many "Well, my dears."

The remaining 15 or 20 minutes are spent in expressing concern for each other's health and in giving much ill-heeded medical advice. Finally, after three or four "Goodbys," the receiver clicks, and the wires gradually return to normal temperature.

Radio Students Prepare Script For KQW Youth Looks To The Future Broadcast

College radio students are currently working on a script for the Youth Looks To The Future broadcast, to be given on Saturday, June 15, at 12:15 p.m. on Station KQW.

All members of the broadcast have not been selected as yet, but Bob Catudio, sports editor of The Guardsman, is to officiate as moderator. Julio Bortolazzo, member of the faculty, is also expected to speak. The discussion will be on careers.

Dates are being worked on for a series of talks to be given at NBC, some of which are The American System Of Broadcasting, Public Service Responsibilities, Radio News, and Announcing. These talks will be given by various personages of the National Broadcasting Company. Students who are seriously interested in attending should see Marie Weller, radio instructor, so that arrangements can be made.

Through the Columbia Broadcast-System, the General Electric Company is presenting the college with records from the Excursions In Science program, Miss Weller announced last week.

Boxing Show Tonight 7:30 (See Sports Page For Details)

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 29, 1946 No. 12

Associated Students

Election Petitions Due Today At Noon; Ballot Vote Seen

With the gates due to close on petitions for candidacy at noon today, preparations for the electoral handicap set for next Wednesday, June 5, and Thursday, June 6, swing into the last stages when office hopefuls are introduced to the Associated Students at a rally this Friday during the College Hour in the back court, or the men's gymnasium, depending on the weather.

"Absolutely no petitions will be accepted after noon today," Dean Edward E. Sandys emphasized. Petitions should be turned in to Dean Sandys' office.

Since voting machines are tied up by the city for the coming municipal elections, campus voting will be by written ballot in the cafeteria, Dean Sandys said.

In approving the amendments suggested by the Student Council at a rally last Friday, the Associated Students widened the presidential field by allowing a student to run for president of the Associated Students without one semester of either Political Science 2a or 2b behind him.

The changes insured the Sophomore Class a president with a minimum of 45 units to his credit, and broadened the representation on the Student Council by requiring that all 11 members be elected from members at large of the Associated Students.

Seven of these members will be drawn from the Freshman Class and the remaining seven will be elected from the Sophomore Class.

Office aspirants will be allowed to have one poster on the campus and two off, the Election Committee decreed.

Bank

Price Of Street Car Tickets Unchanged

San Francisco Municipal Railway last week gave evidence of its good intentions by permitting school "street car tickets" to remain at the old price of 50 cents.

According to Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, the tickets, in spite of the recent raise in regular fares, will continue to have 16 punches or rides, and will continue to be sold at the before-mentioned price upon presentation of an Associated Student or registration card.

Sophomores

Six In Royalty Race; Picnic This Sunday

Two events highlighted activity on the Sophomore Class front last week when six candidates were named for the class King-Queen election, and the date of the class picnic was moved ahead from Sunday, June 9, to this coming Sunday, June 2.

The four women competing for the coveted role of Queen are Jean Carrasco of Beta Phi, Gloria Craig of Theta Tau, Roberta Robb of Kappa Phi,and Gloria Silva of Kappa Alpha.

Jim Reed, representing Tri Epsilon, and Paul Cane, backed by the baseball team, will fight it out on the women's voting front for the privilege of reigning as King at the Sophomore Formal.

Adobe Lodge Picnic Site

The sophomore picnic is scheduled for Adobe Creek Lodge, south of Palo Alto. Swimming is planned for the day, a barbecue in the late afternoon, and dancing from 6 to 7 p.m., Kent Bowker, class president, said.

Possibility of bus transportation depends on the number definitely signed up to attend the picnic by that method. A sign-up sheet will be posted on the bulletin board near the silver pole, Bowker said, until 5 p.m. tomorrow. If 40 students are signed up by then, a Greyhound bus will be chartered.

Drivers of private cars will find the best route, Bowker declared, by turning right from El Camino Real at the Los Altos sign beyond Dinah's Shack, following the railroad tracks to the first crossing, and turning left until the Adobe Lodge sign.

Tickets for entrance to the Lodge are $1, with Associated Student card. On sale at the bank here are tickets for 50 cents which pay for the barbeque.

Kings, Queens At Rally

Preceding voting for soph King and Queen, scheduled for the regular

(Continued on page 4, column 2)

Hotel Division Fame Is International

Students of the Hotel Division form a cross-section of the world—men and women with ambitions covering virtually every type of job in the hotel and restaurant industry have come from all corners of the country to study here.

William Beers made his first trip to the mainland from Hawaii to study hotel management. Milo Rigan drove to the coast from Buffalo, New York. One student is a native of Germany, another is from Scotland, others from Maine to Alabama, New York to California.

Among the first of its kind, the Hotel Division here has been widely recommended by the Veterans' Administration, hotel magazines, and vocational guidance groups. One ex-soldier first learned of the course from Army reference books while attending Biarritz University in France. Another, after living on buffalo meat and rice for a year during the war, simply wanted to be around good food.

Justly proud of the renown attained by their course, Hotel Division staff members say that applications already filed for next semester indicate a further spread of the division's fame.

Debate

XGI Members To Argue U.S. Compulsory Military Training In Room 100 Friday

Competing for student interest with the Associated Student officer-candidate rally this Friday during the College Hour, four debaters, all XGI members, will present the first debate of its kind in college history at the same hour in Room 136.

Lloyd Luckmann, debate coach, said that location of the debate may be changed, in which case announcement will be made over the public address system.

Subject for debate is Resolved, That Universal Compulsory Military Training Should Be Adopted In the United States.

Speakers for the affirmative in this clash of words are Mel Toff, formerly with the 8th Air Force, and Conrad Grodsky, also an ex-Army man. Richard Bounicristiana, and Victor Hancock, both former fighting men will argue the negative.

Plotting the negative side of their debate on Compulsory Military Training, Richard Buonicristiani, far left, and Victor Hancock have evidently found a humorous note for their argument with Conrad Grodsky, standing, and Mel Toff, who will uphold the affirmative this Friday during the College Hour in Room 136.

The affirmative is expected to be based on a practical argument, after the manner of those in the Government who advocate a standing army to provide maximum protection.

The negative, on the other hand, is expected to be based on an idealistic argument built around the aims of the United Nations organization.

The four participants were chosen as a result of ladder debates held during the current semester.

While final arrangements have not yet been made, it is possible that President A. J. Cloud will preside, with judges still to be named.

Music

Mission High School Scene Of June 6 Fete Featuring College, Prep Choirs

Choruses and A Cappella Choirs, representing seven city high schools, and a musical group representing the college, will blend their voices at a music fete to be held at Mission High School Thurday, June 6, according to Flossita Badger, music instructor here, who is in charge of the affair.

Each group will present a selection of songs, and four vocal selections in which all the groups will participate.

Three folk songs to be presented by the college choir are tentatively listed as Fire, Fire My Heart, an English madrigal; Turn Ye To Me, a Scotch folk song, and Early One Morning, an English folk song.

In addition, the entire choral group, totaling six hundred voices, will sing the opening chorus of The Creation, by Haydn; Jesu Joy Of Man's Desiring, by J. S. Bach; Waltz from Faust, by Gounod; Ye Watchers And Ye Holy Ones, a 17th century hymn arranged by Bourdon; and Without A Song, by the late Jerome Kern.

Dr. Cloud Names 11 Department Heads

Appointment of 11 members of the faculty to act as chairmen of their respective departments was disclosed this week by President A. J. Cloud in a faculty bulletin report.

The following is a list of newly-appointed chairmen: biological sciences, Glenn A. Noble; business education, F. Grant Marsh; chemistry, Manfred Mueller; engineering, William K. Mayo; English, Edward E. Sandys; foreign language, Thomas A. Gabbert; hotel and restaurant division, Hilda Watson; mathematics, Thomas J. Bass; physical education, John Brady; physics, Alfred Agosti; and social science, Robert Parker.

SCF

Student Council To Discuss Relief For European Education

Tentative arrangements are under way here to promulgate the adoption of a shattered school in Europe in connection with the Save the Children Federation's "Hands Across The Sea—School To School" campaign to aid distressed school children throughout Europe and the Scandinavian countries.

The proposal to adopt a shattered school will be placed before the Student Council tomorrow by Assistant Dean of Men John F. Brady, who will head the committee here at the college.

In connection with the proposal Brady said, "A college of this size should be able to assume responsibility of at least one shattered school in Europe. If we could only realize just how lucky we are. Then we would give, and give, and then give some more!"

Under Guy E. Shipler, Chairman of the National Committee, the Federation has assumed sponsorship of 3,000 schools in Belgium, Holland, France, and Norway. Northern California, headed by Archibald J. Cloud as Chairman of School Participation, will be responsible for 200 schools, 44 of which have already been assigned.

Three major relief plans are currently being carried out by the Federation. Plan one is the "Emergency Clothing Fund," with headquarters at 8 Washington Place, New York 3, New York. Plan two is the "Adopt A Shattered School" proposal which is being introduced here at the college. Plan three consists of the sponsorship of an individual child to the amount of $8 a month or $96 a year.

Enrollment To Decide Fall Housing Problem

"If an enrollment of 6,000 students is obtained for next semester, the Board of Education will permit an allocation of 100 more quonset huts to the college campus, Dean Edward E. Sandys announced yesterday.

Dean Sandys requested that all veterans who have signed for huts fill out two copies of the questionnaire to be found in the office of the dean of men. These slips are to obtain the information necessary for the San Francisco Public Housing Authority to notify each veteran when his hut is ready for occupation.

The first 50 units will be completed by the middle of June. If the additional 100 quonsets are obtained, 200 more units will be available to veterans by September.

Anderson Clarifies "Diagonal Parking Allotments"

Further clarification of the parking situation, along with the answers to several questions about it, came from Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, last week.

Answering questions as to why the parking stalls were not put closer together to utilize all available space, Anderson said, "The stalls were marked off in accordance with recommendations from the California Department of Motor Vehicles." Under provisions of the California Vehicle Code, diagonal parking spaces should be at least eight feet wide.

Although space behind the main building has not been zoned on the sidewalk side, parking is permissable, Anderson pointed out, emphasizing the need for consideration of others on the part of all drivers. "Parking on the campus is regulated in accordance with existing city and state directives," Anderson continued. State law provides for at least three feet between cars parked parallel to the curb.

The issue regarding jurisdiction over cars parked on the campus has been clarified, Anderson stated, and San Francisco police definitely have complete jurisdiction, and will deal with parking violators in the same way illegal parking is handled on the city's streets.

Cars parked on the ramp in front of the building or in the red zones at any time will be considered as illegally parked, Anderson said. Further, parking in the yellow truck loading zones, parking for more than ten minutes in the green zones, and parking in the white zones other than to discharge passengers is prohibited.

"The faculty member patrolling either end of the circle drive in the mornings is not a guard to push anyone around," Anderson explained, "but merely a guide to the students who are not yet familiar with the new parking system." Large signs to be placed at the beginning of the reserved area are planned to take over this function, Anderson went on.

Anderson expressed gratification for student cooperation on the parking situation and said he hopes it will be carried on to an even greater extent next semester, when attendance is expected to be almost double the present amount. Plans are being made to have additional parking space available for the increased student body next fall.

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 12 Wednesday, May 29, 1946 Page 2

World Chaos

Students' Responsibility

FROM the Food For Freedom Committee of the University of Minnesota, The Guardsman last week received a circular letter, five thousand copies of which are being circulated among the students and faculty on that campus.

The letter urges that petitions be sent to the President of the United States, as well as to all state congressmen, requesting an immediate return to rationing, because of the disastrous condition of starving peoples in Europe and Asia.

The Food For Freedom Committee, in requesting college-wide support, states ". . . our moral responsibility as future citizens of this country and the world authorizes us to take direct action in the face of this international crisis . . ."

Whether the institution of peace-time rationing in the United States would really be the most effective manner in which to aid the starving peoples of Europe and Asia, in view of the widespread black market activities which would be carried on, is highly debatable.

Perhaps rationing would be the most satisfactory solution, if at the same time stricter controls were applied, which would effectively eliminate the black market. However, recent action against the OPA would indicate the era of controls of any sort is over.

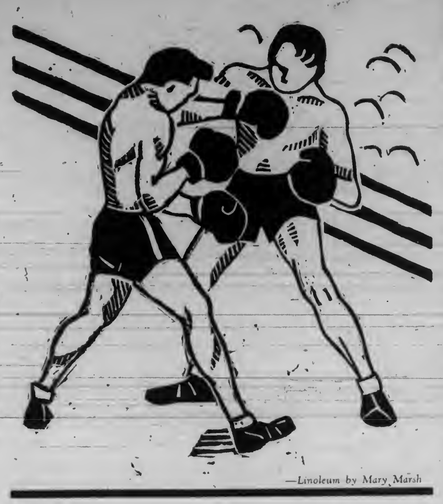
Nevertheless, the point made by the University of Minnesota's Food For Freedom Committee is a very real one namely, that it is the responsibility of students, as future world citizens, to take whatever action is necessary to alleviate the suffering of starving peoples. Although the action they have taken is worthy of the highest praise, its successful outcome unfortunately is doubtful.

Accordingly, we should be more than ever reminded of our own obligations and by the elimination of waste, so characteristic of this country, perhaps save many lives. P.S.

Dance Would Aid SCF Drive

IN LAST week's issue of The Guardsman there was a story concerning President Archibald J. Cloud's recent election to the chairmanship of the Save The Children Federation of Northern California. Among the programs being carried out by the organization is the plan for the adoption of a war-shattered school in Europe by any individual, church, school, or society. This plan, applicable to the college, can be carried out in various ways; the most likely to succeed would be a benefit dance.

If the college were to adopt and aid one of these destitute schools, a large benefit dance in the men's gymnasium could be given to raise the necessary funds.



It is quite possible that there is not time enough left in this semester for such an undertaking, in which case such a dance could be scheduled for the early part of the fall semester.

Since the American people are always being told that they have a duty to perform for the devastated peoples of the world, the Associated Students might as well do something really constructive which would hold some special interest for them.

We have seen in the past that campaigns in the college which do not hold the interest of the students seldom meet with much success, but a dance would draw the majority of the students and amass a good sized sum for whatever school would be adopted by them. C.G.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gannon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheehy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavenor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor
REPORTERS: Dall Bain, John Bayler, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Jo Ellen Cain, Peter Carlenti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doren, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Rudolf Luft, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, George Lajeunesse, Shirley Langston, Howard Levy, Don Lucey, Arthur Feymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosella Rhode, James Riggs, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Stefan Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams.
Staff Photographer ..... Don Lum
Joan Nourse Muscio ..... Faculty Adviser

—Linoleum by Mary Marsh

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

If Rallies Are Shows, What Shall We Call Entertainment?

IN FORMER days, when a large army wished to muster its forces in one great drive and to unite in common action, the various sectors gathered together to receive their instructions and to raise their collective morale through communal contacts. Such a get-together was called a Rally.

Since those far-gone times, the term "Rally" has undergone some slight changes in definition.

Still retaining its original connotations, however, it refers, for the most part, to the gathering of a number of people for the purpose of building up the general spirit and morale for a strong, well-backed offensive, whether that offensive be in a great war, an important sports event, or in a decision which must be reached concerning the welfare of all involved.

From all outward appearances, however, no longer do we gather together as an absorbed, interested group of persons bent on the best outcome of issues most relevant to ourselves; we now rally together in order to enjoy the appearance of guest stars, hear our fellows render music and cheers in various forms, and perhaps just to see and be seen by the "crowd."

If it were true that, as the evidence indicates, the majority of moderns have become so objective as not to care one way or another what the team or group as a whole does, then rallies become entirely useless entities, since each person's individuality could not possibly be influenced by a few speeches, rousing yells, or the sight of a rugged athlete.

On the other hand, if individuals are not interested in the outcome of a game or an issue, why become so fanatically enthused over the appearance of a celebrated personality from the entertainment world?

The conclusion would seem to be that moderns, no matter how individualistic they appear, are still hero-worshippers at heart, with the same ability to be roused to action, given the proper encouragement.

If this is the case, a proper distinction should henceforth be made regarding the differences between vaudeville shows, politically incised meetings, and gatherings which are actually meant to be rallies—or does the present-day college student derive such great pleasure from the illusion that he is saving something so very vital by getting two or three items for the price of one?

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

THE situation of no big timers in the Bay Area is still in order. As this column does not dig slanderous or derogatory remarks about any of the orks about town, Henry King will not be discussed.

The Glenn Miller Tex Beneke will go Hollywood some time in August for a flick based on the life of the leader. The band is still on the road, last heard in Detroit. The column is also on bended knees for calling Beneke an alto saxman when he really is all tenor. Sorry.

* * * *

Something more for our esteemed educators to think about is the following info gathered from reliable sources.

The Carver Club, U.C.L.A. student organization, presented a jazz concert at the university's campus auditorium that not only pointed up the role of music in aiding race relations, but also supplied a very satisfactory afternoon of entertainment.

Some of the talent assembled included the King Cole Trio, Benny Carter and staff, Kay Starr, Delta Rhythm Boys and such star swingsters as Lester Young, Eddie Beal, Bumps Meyers, Ray Bauduc and a dozen others.

Could it possibly be that jazz (modern swing, etc.) is finally being accepted by some of the cultural instigators?

* * * *

With summer coming on, many of the name programs will be substituted by different entertainers. One of the fine summer shows will be the Kraft Music Hall. Replacing Bing Crosby will be the King Cole Trio, top small combination of the year. Eddie Duchin, currently on the show as piano soloist, will emcee.

* * * *

The yell is still on as to where the new Boyd Raeburn ork is. It was last reported in L. A. in its reformation, but it has not been heard as yet. Keep listening—the inside dope is that it will cut all.

* * * *

For all record fans, it has been reported that Duke Ellington will sign with Musicraft Record upon the expiration of his contract with Victor Recordings.

Stephen

RAMifications

THERE was a loud shriek as the K car jerked forward from its ump-teenth stop. A young man fell senseless to the floor.

Books, adorned with the familiar S.F.J.C. Student Store cover, lay strewn over his emptied seat, and in his clenched fist was a copy of last week's Guardsman.

The night before, hungry, tired and impatient, this young man had waited for a half hour after work and watched five over-loaded trolleys pass him by, while the wind played a lively tune around the corner of Powell and Market.

At last a K crept up, swaying precariously with the weight of 50 persons more than capacity allowed, and slowly ground to a stop . . . the rear door three feet and 25 people past the weary citizen.

Shins became numb, and pulverized feet were but bloody pulp beneath the angry hordes.

At last the bell clinked twice, and the conductor began his rhythmic "Inhale, two, three, four. Exhale, two, three, four . . . kindly step back in the car, please . . . inhale, two, three, four . . ."

At great length, Van Ness was reached. The familiar sound of the buzz was heard, and a bass fiddle player of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra emerged from the interior of the car . . . with his bass fiddle. A path to the door was cleared, and when he stepped off the car, those still able to do so took their handkerchiefs and wiped their less fortunate companions off the windows.

Gradually, the Muny inched its way up the hill, and suddenly (!!) it was in the tunnel. Passengers inside the car strained their eyes reading the evening newspapers, while those outside clutched valiantly to their hats . . . whose security was imperiled by the whipping wind of the empty cars speedily making for the Terminal.

Forest Hill Station and its bright glimmer gaped forth, and our hero fought his way out . . . pushed to the elevator. Once outside, the eternal struggle began again on the Tenth Avenue bus.

A City Father, reading this, would remark: "My, my. All this for only a dime!"

Cumming

After Dark

THERE appeared in last week's Guardsman a front page notice to the effect that season tickets for the coming Symphony Season would be sold at less than half-price for all college students. Perhaps some have noticed the posters around the campus advertising this fact and offering reservation cards, but it is for those who haven't that this column is lovingly dedicated.

A special series of Thursday evening concerts at special prices is being inaugurated for the sole purpose of attracting college crowds.

Before the war, the custom among the Bay Region colleges was to buy a group or a block of seats and for everyone who wanted to go to the symphony concerts, but now, with the refilling of these institutions of higher learning and the great need for good recreation and entertainment, the Symphony Association is experimenting with this new series entirely for college students. And it certainly looks as if the experiment is going to be a success.

The most attractive part of the whole thing is the price of the seats. Perhaps some readers noticed it in the paper; perhaps some didn't, but it is worth mentioning again. Season seats are sold at two prices—$12.75 and $18, or 85 cents and $1.20 per concert.

* * * *

On display last week in the Little Theater was Robert Ardrey's play, Thunder Rock, and a most interesting play indeed. It is unnecessary to relate the plot beyond the fact that it is about a young journalist retiring into an ivory tower existence and given new hope for a better future.

Comment must be made on the simply magnificent job done by Ronald Langton as Briggs, the miserable Cockney. Anyone who missed the performances passed up a most entertaining two hours. All parts were done very well except for a character dressed as a sea captain who kept wandering on and off the stage; delivering vitriolic little gems. Most confusing.

Letters To The Editor

RAM'S HORN

• Parking Lot Proposal

Editor, The Guardsman:

It is constantly being brought out that in the next few years the college will be even more crowded than it is right now. In view of the turmoil created this semester, how can the college possibly take care of this increase in the problem of parking alone?

Some steps have been taken to create adequate parking facilities, but they have fallen hopelessly short. The college circle is still so crowded that it is a source of joy to the people engaged in the business of straightening fenders and grills of automobiles. The cars parked on Phelan Avenue present

There is one solution to this problem, and that is

(Continued on page 4, column 1)

Vol. XXII, No. 12 WEDNESDAY, MAY 29, 1946 Page 3

The Guardsman SPORTS

Program for Tonight

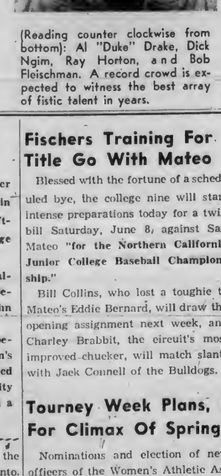
FIGHT CARD

	—Weight—
Chet Frierson	115	Howie Jeong
Dick Ngim	120	Cliff Bedwell
Ray Horton	125	Benny Muniz
Dave Valentine	135	Hank Figuera
Al Bustamante	140	Bob Utsumi
Warren Simmons	145	Larry Solomon
Dick Mahoney	150	Harry Tapoian
Bob Fleischmann	155	Bob Casavant
Gordon Fell	160	Lou Ryan
Johnny Johnson	165	Hank Swindler
Mike Schnapp	175	Art Stranton
Bob Parnow	185	Joe Moss
Lee Seyranian	Heavy	Al Drake

Referee—Roy Diederichsen.
Judges—Ray Lunny, Jimmy Needles, and Ray Daugherty.
Timekeeper—Jack Brady.
Fight Announcer—Lloyd Leith.
Master of Ceremonies—Bob Catudio.
Basketball Referee—Lieutenant Ralph Hillsman.
Presentation of Awards—President A. J. Cloud.

WRESTLING EXHIBITION

Pete Morgan (195 lbs., Los Angeles) vs. Angie "Baby" Getas (200 lbs., San Francisco)
Referee—Harry Nelson.



INTRAMURAL CAGE FINALS

Lineups: PORTALS	vs. Pos.	THE BANDAS
Player		Player
Smith, G.	Forward	Lau
Toff	Forward	Buchanan
Corey	Center	McPherson
Honnert	Guard	Hagerty
Carter	Guard	Fracchia

TABLE TENNIS EXHIBITION
—Faculty Engineering Department—
Oscar Anderson and Cecil Aggeler vs.
Bill Mayo and Jim Schon

(Reading clockwise from bottom): Lee Seyranian, Warren Simmons, Benny Muniz, and Bob Parnow. Current interest is focused on Seyranian, who is battling Al "Duke" Drake in feature attraction.

(Reading counter clockwise from bottom): Al "Duke" Drake, Dick Ngim, Ray Horton, and Bob Fleischman. A record crowd is expected to witness the best array of fistic talent in years.

Rams, Modesto Top Favorites To Grab NCJC Track Championships Friday

In quest of the Northern California Junior College Conference track championship, the local spikemen will invade Modesto Junior College's Athletic Field this Saturday night, where they will clash with fellow spikemen from other Northern California junior colleges.

The meet, which will be held under the arc lamps, will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Jim Jensen revealed this week that he is not over-optimistic about his team's chances, but he did admit that their chances are about as good as any other squad. Jensen also stated that he plans to take about 20 men with him in the Modesto invasion.

As things "stack up now," Modesto will furnish the stiffest opposition to the Rams' efforts. With the return of Jim Melrose from a short scholastic exile, Modesto will possess added strength in the 440 yard dash and the low hurdles.

Modesto's weightmen are probably the best in the conference with the possible exception of Sacramento. Griffen Marshall, the Modesto miler, is also one of the best 880 yard dash men in the conference. His time, however, does not top San Francisco's Tom Kellog's 1:59.8 for the same event.

Bears Wallop Rams In "Informal Meet"

BERKELEY, May 24. — Brutus Hamilton's University of California Bears routed the San Francisco Rams here at Edwards Stadium this afternoon in "an informal track meet in which points were not tabulated."

In the absence of Terry Haws, speedster Leo Kahn of the Bears won both sprints in times of :10 and :22.7 seconds for the century and furlong, respectively.

NCJCC BASEBALL STANDINGS

	Won	Lost	Pct.	GB
San Francisco	9	4	.692	.....
San Mateo	7	4	.636	1
Modesto	7	7	.500	2
Marin	4	7	.364	4
Sacramento	3	8	.273	6

Faculty Men Out To Beat Block SF'ers

In an effort to revenge an earlier defeat, the Faculty Men will again meet the Block SF Society softball team today on the college practice field at 2 p.m.

Last week the Society squad walloped the Faculty Men, 7 to 0, behind the shutout hurling of John Chicazola and Al Drake.

The long heralded contest between the Society and the Women's Athletic Association was cancelled this week because of the inability of the two teams to agree upon a starting time.

Fischers Training For Title Go With Mateo

Blessed with the fortune of a scheduled bye, the college nine will start intense preparations today for a twin bill Saturday, June 8, against San Mateo "for the Northern California Junior College Baseball Championship."

Bill Collins, who lost a toughie to Mateo's Eddie Bernard, will draw the opening assignment next week, and Charley Brabbit, the circuit's most improved chucker, will match slants with Jack Connell of the Bulldogs.

Boxing

Record Attendance Predicted For AMS Ring Show Tonight

Collegiate fistiana unravels itself tonight in the men's gymnasium when the Associated Men Students-Intramural semi-annual boxing carnival takes place, first bout starting at 7:30 p.m.

Twenty-six "gladiators" will step ringward and a gala crowd, including President A. J. Cloud, is expected to be on hand for the festivities. Sports celebrities from San Francisco and the Bay Area will make an appearance.

Notables appearing tonight include Ray Lunny, retired local fistic favorite; Lloyd Leith and Roy Diederichsen, cage tutors at Mission and Lincoln High Schools, respectively; Lieutenant Ralph Hillsman, one-time University of California hoopla expert, and Ray Daugherty, physical education administrator for the San Francisco Board of Education.

Jimmy Needles, director of athletics at the University of San Francisco, and Jack Brady, assistant dean of men here, will also attend.

Chief bout tonight is the Al "Duke" Drake-Leon Seyranian brawl which is causing undue consternation among the local horde of front row ringsiders. Both battlers are fast, experienced, and have a tendency to "swing from the grass top."

During the intermission, an exhibition wrestling match will be staged between Pete Morgan, 195-pounder from Los Angeles, and Angie "Baby" Getas, 200-pound San Francisean.

Cage finalists from the college intramural league—namely the Portals and Bandas—will square off for the intra diadem immediately following the 13 bouts, it was disclosed last night by Tom Wilson, intramural director.

Sloppy Infield Gives Marin 8-6 Gift Game

Good pitchers are being betrayed by their own mates . . . as witness to the fact was the Saturday encounter that found Marin's Art Shallock staggering to an 8 to 6 win over the sloppy Rams, who set an all-time high in stupidity with 12—count 'em—errors.

Seven unearned runs were charged up to Charley Brabbit, who lost his first go of the season, while southpaw Shallock fanned 12 men to run his strikeout total to 85 whiffs.

The box score:

Marin (8) Player, Pos.	AB	R	H	San Francisco (6) Player, Pos.	AB	R	H
Younger, lb	5	1	2	Sebatini, cf	4	0	2
Bino, cf	4	1	0	Galvin, 2b	3	0	0
Silkwood, cf	0	0	0	McIntra, 1b	5	1	1
Phillips, c	5	1	2	Anderson, lf	4	0	2
Tierney, 3b	4	1	0	Ratto, rf	4	1	1
Shallock, p	3	1	1	Renuio, 3b	3	0	0
Petretti, ss	5	1	2	Grant, 3b	0	1	0
Grimm, 2b	2	1	0	McNmra, ss	3	1	1
Roberts, rf	5	1	2	Houghtn, ss	1	1	1
Christen, rf	0	0	0	Cone, c	3	0	0
Collin, lf	4	0	0	Brabbit, p	2	0	0
				Koche, p	0	0	0
				Markal, ph	1	1	1
				Homsey, ph	1	0	0
	37	8	9		34	6	9

R	030	000	230	—8	R	000	110	004	—6
H	101	100	330	—9	H	100	311	003	—9

Purvis, Covaia Champs

Al Covaia and Shirley Purvis won the individual bowling championships of the college last week and will receive merits of their kegling prowess tonight during the boxing carnival in the men's gymnasium.

Covaia averaged 187 pins and Miss Purvis rolled a 155 standard.

Tourney Week Plans, Elections On WAA List For Climax Of Spring Semester Activities

Nominations and election of new officers of the Women's Athletic Association were placed on a Friday, June 7, slate, it was disclosed yesterday by Wanda McKenzie, WAA president.

Purchase of a wooden block to replace the WAA gavel was approved during the group's last meeting, and "names will be embossed on the block honoring current and future group officers."

Plans for the semi-annual "Tourney Week" of June 3 through June 7 are being decided upon by various clubs within the WAA.

College Houses Ultra Modern Store

Room 258 Becomes Merchandise Unit

By Barbara Stephen

The college's merchandising curriculum, headed by Virginia Gohn, recently obtained a working laboratory of its own.

Complete equipment made a hitherto unheralded appearance at the college shortly before Public Schools Week. Blonde maple counters and plate-glass mirrored cabinets are the main features of the ultra-modern "store" which was sponsored by Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

The architect of the display cases was Timothy Pfleuger, the architect for the entire college, and also for I. Magnin's new store on Geary Street.

Demonstrating the use of their new merchandising laboratory are, left to right (standing) Jean Jackson, Jeanne Joubert, Angela Fressetto, Barbara Stephen, and Irma Kiefer, all students in the merchandising department.

Official opening of the project will take place early next semester, when store executives, school officials, the State Department of Education, representatives from the Retail Dry Goods Association and Sears Foundation will gather for the formal dedication ceremonies.

The use of the unit as a laboratory, located in Room 258, is demonstrated in the picture, in which members of the curriculum are practicing selling techniques. Merchandise shown is the property of the students, but in the future, downtown stores will contribute the necessary items.

Next fall, a course in display will be added to the curriculum which now embraces four major subjects: retail selling, store organization, merchandise analysis, and buying. As of this last semester, there are more than 40 students enrolled.

An eighty-year-old former undergraduate student at the University of Arkansas recently registered to complete work he started sixty years ago. A junior in Arts and Science, he wants to major in English and Journalism.

Deadline Friday For Leaves Of Absence

Next Friday, May 31, is the last day upon which a student may apply for leave of absence without automatically failing all courses, according to Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar.

Students taking an official leave of absence should understand that such action affects the posting of a clear record, Miss Learnard said, while negligence in applying on time results in complete failure, regardless of previous grades during the semester.

More About Sophs

(Continued from page 1)

election days, June 5 and 6, candidates will be introduced as a preliminary to the Associated Student candidate rally this Friday.

Winners in the royalty election will reign at the Prom, slated for the Colonial Italian Room of the Hotel St. Francis, Friday, June 7. Paul Law's orchestra will play.

Bids for the Prom are now on sale at the bank for $2.

Spring Grid Practice Ends With Squad Game

Spring football practice drew to a close Monday afternoon when the Red and White squads of Lee Eisan's aspiring Rams barged headlong into an informal 40-minute brawl.

Previously scheduled to end Friday, June 14, practice was terminated this week to allow the more than 50 candidates time for final examinations which begin Thursday, June 13, Eisan disclosed.

First game on the local's menu is the Long Beach City College battle, scheduled Friday, September 27, at Kezar Stadium.

Classes Meet As Usual Tomorrow And Friday

Tomorrow, Memorial Day, and Friday will not be observed by the college as holidays, and consequently, classes will be held at usual, according to the registrar's office.

Reason for the non-observance of Memorial Day this year is that the college has only one day over the minimum number required.

Forum

Assistant Editor Cane Plans Future In Advertising; Magazine Out June 10

By Del Bain

A former Navy flyer, engaged in submarine patrol duty off the coast of Florida and Cuba, Paul "Pablo" Cane ("pronounced as in sugar"), assistant editor of the Forum Magazine, is completing his second semester in the college as an English major.

With plans to enter the advertising and promotion field, Cane is transferring to Stanford University next semester, where he expects to complete his education.

As assistant editor of the magazine Cane says, "It's terrific! Best I've seen." The Forum Magazine will be on sale Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 10, 11, and 12, at the silver pole and in the cafeteria, he said.

The purchase price of the magazine has not been determined, but it will not exceed 75 cents, Cane said. The magazine will be sold on a cash basis, as tickets will not be sold prior to the magazine publication.

Radio Students Attend NBC Institute Today

For the purpose of study in highly departmental radio, the National Broadcasting Company will hold an institute this afternoon from 2 to 5:30 p.m. in the NBC Building for students of the radio curriculum in the college, Marie Weller, instructor, announced last week.

Discussions by NBC staff members will cover production, continuity, sound, sales, public service, announcing, news editing, and music clearance, followed by a tour of news rooms and studios.

Students will witness the rehearsals and broadcasts of The Hubba Hubba Club and Trouble Shooter, Miss Weller said.

Although the institute is for students of the radio division, other students may make arrangements to attend by seeing Miss Weller early today, she pointed out.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams
And Jane Doran

- Alpha Theta Epsilon: All members should go to Room 158 this week and vote for new officers for next semester.
- Beta Tau: There will be a meeting tonight in the student lounge at 7:30 p.m.
- Beta Phi Beta: There will be a joint meeting tomorrow night with Delta Psi.
- Delta Psi: There will be a dinner dance at the Claremont this Saturday, June 1, in honor of the new pledges.
- Kappa Phi: There will be a business meeting this Friday night.
- Phi Beta Rho: The semi-annual initiation will be held at Sigmund Stern Grove, Friday, from 3 to 6 p.m.
- Theta Tau: There will be a business meeting tonight. Plans are being made for another open house.

. . . The RAM-VET Digest . . .

Veterans

Certificates In, No Checks, Reports 149

All veterans who turned in their Certificate of Eligibility prior to April 15 and have not received their checks by this Friday, June 1, are asked to report to the Veterans' Administration office in Room 149, no later than Tuesday, June 4, according to Richard Dettering, veteran training officer.

Veterans who applied for benefits prior to May 1 and have not received their Certificate of Eligibility by June 1 are also requested to notify Dettering of the fact.

Veterans who are not continuing at this college during summer session are again reminded to report immediately to Room 159 and fill out the necessary form to disrupt their checks for the summer, Dettering declared.

Around And About

Patient Fellows, Blood Bank Interest Reporter

By James Riggs

Local color: One of the most patient fellows around these parts is the janitor, who daily wipes the markings off the walls in the men's lounge—same thing every day, and never a word in protest . . . Runner-up is the cashier in the cafeteria who waits with a poker face while his customers fish through several pockets to dig up a dollar bill for a cup of coffee.

A that-way couple outside Room 190 each afternoon cooing at each other—spring comes and goes, but love goes on (she says) . . . What might be a scarf, but is probably a dish towel, taking its place beside sweaters and bobby sox in the nomenclature of feminine attire.

Novice lip readers ogling the class in radio announcing, commenting on what they can't hear . . . A yappity-yap party around the silver pole wondering why others stumble over them . . . The sparse ranks of the contingent of sidewalk superintendents at the quonset hut project—why not move the silver pole down there?

A student with one eye on a history book, the other on a rummy game, and both ears on a gab fest—versatile . . . Citizens noticing the flag at halfmast, wondering what it means and why . . . The generator atop the main building gathering rust—who belongs to it, anyway?

A poster outside the cafeteria that once read—"Deposit Cigarette Butts Here"—unfunny, Magee . . . A new car around the campus, with the fenders caved in already . . . A gull making figure eights over the parking lot, looking for a likely target.

Unspellable noises from the radio lab on the ground floor getting entangled with a Poly Sci lecture—on some days it's hard to tell the difference . . . Roy Walker installing his ceramics exhibit on the first floor, blandly ignoring kibitzers . . . A plowed-up plot on the front lawn, apparently abandoned.

* * *

Points of interest: College men and women in line at the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank, almost before the ink was dry on the appeal for more donors . . . Boxes and barrels comfortably full of canned food to take the bite out of some uncomfortably empty European stomachs . . . People are pretty good, after all.

A picture of Jasper Klotch in The Guardsman office—a haberdasher's nightmare, designed to make Esquire shudder . . . At the same time, The Guardsman's display of Associated Collegiate Press awards is worth a peek—number one spot eight times.

"Doc" Sewell giving Communism the Pegler treatment—in subdued language.

* * *

Word of mouth department: "I thought a phone call was all you could buy for a nickel these days."

"She doesn't dance. She just hangs on for the ride."

"I got an F in Chem, but only because I have to sit next to people who are as dumb as I am."

"My brother got some nylons, so I traded him my two white shirts for 'em."

More Letters To The Editor

(Continued from page 2)

to make use of the vacant spot to the south of the college. As it stands now, it isn't of much use as a parking lot because of its rough condition and the fact that when it rains cars would be in danger of getting stuck.

At present the plans for this lot are to use it as a site for a library. That is a fine idea, but so far no actual work has been started on this building.

If any solution is honestly being sought for the anticipated parking problems of the future, this should be given consideration by the administration.

Objections might be raised as to the cost of this project. Bear in mind, however, that before a library could be built on this site it would have to be cleared and leveled anyway. The additional cost of hard topping it with a light coat of tar or some other substance should not cost too much to make it impractical to provide a parking lot for the students who drive to college.

Nick Chames.

WAVES Visit Cafe, Plan For Dance

By Trev Burrow

Gasps of admiration, accompanied by discreet whistles, greeted six lovely WAVES from Balboa Park as they entered the college cafeteria to have lunch with members of the XGI Society last Thursday.

The WAVES, PhM 3c Florence Cleveland, MaM 2c Alexandra Marshall, CphM Barbara Thompson, S1c Vivian Walker, Y1c Charlotte (Stinky) Williams and S1c Pat Young, with the XGI's, extended a personal invitation to all veterans attending the college to come to their dance which was held last Saturday evening.

One WAVE, MaM2c Marshall, accompanied Mel Toff, George Backman, Robert Bertram and Trev Burrow to the Excelsior Extension School to make certain that the college veterans there were informed of the dance.

Lieutenant (jg) Jeanne Hoffheimer, WAVE Public Relations Officer, reported the dance a huge success and expressed a desire for another early this summer.

XGI

Society Elections Slated For Friday

An election of XGI Society officers, to serve for the fall semester, will take place this Friday evening, in Room 303, War Memorial Building. Howard Marg, society member, announced.

Joe Cole, vice-president, who was a candidate for president, was foced to take a leave of absence in order to be with his wife, the former Margie Stevens, of Montana.

Candidates for office are Mel Toff, for president; George Backman, for vice-president; Bob Gilfoyle and John Zobel, for secretary, Maurice Witte, for treasurer, and Jack Bemas, the CAB representative Candidates for the XGI advisory Council have not yet been named.

Tom Dean, president, urged all members of the society to be present for the election. Dean declared that members will have to take a more active interest in the organization's affairs if they are to be a success.

Les Holden, of the refreshment committee, affirmed that refreshments, as usual, will be served after the meeting.

All XGI's are asked to stop at the society office in Room 259 some time this week to fill out the new membership cards.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, 1946 No. 13

Kent Bowker Dean Haug George Newell Frisco Sartor

Associated Student, Soph Polls Open Today And Tomorrow

Record Voting Expected As Four Candidates Campaign For Presidency

In a two-day electoral race, Associated Students will run off their campus political derby in the college cafeteria from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and tomorrow.

Line-up for the Spring elections shows four contenders for the winning place of Associated Student President in the persons of Kent Bowker, Dean Haug, George W. Newell, and Frisco Sartor.

Vice-presidency of the Associated Students will fall to either Nancy Cunningham or Gretchen Williams.

College men students will place their bets on either Bob Catudio, or Bill Holmes, for President of the Associated Men Students, while the feminine wagers for Associated Women Students will be placed on Nancy Ruttencutter, Janet Caine, Nancy Stookey, and Shirley Ross.

Freshmen will push either Bill Riley, Richard Mills, or John Tolly across the finish line as class president, while Mille Laube runs the track alone as unopposed for Sophomore President.

Freshman representation on the Student Council will be decided from the following nine: Beverly Huff, Frank Grant, Don Langendorf, Bob Winegardner, Wallace Morgan, Don Burger, Jeanette Harshau, Thelma Wallar, and Dee Roberts. Of these nine, seven will be voted onto the legislative body.

Sophomore candidates for the Council are almost insured offices since there are only seven people running. They are Don Waeks, Ginny Souder, Jacqueline Chopnik, Laurel Nelson, Barbara Christensen, Beverly Thompson, and Rosemarie Mullen.

With election days comes the end of campus redecoration set by various campaigning elements.

Dean Urges Drivers To Sign For Car Pool

Additional requests for rides from the East Bay were received by Dean Edward E. Sandys last week, and drivers are asked to sign up for the car pool in his office immediately.

The car pool is open both to San Francisco and East Bay residents. Both drivers and passengers have found the sharing of rides profitable and pleasant, Dean Sandys said.

Administration

Board Approves 6,000 Enrollment Next Fall

While granting approval for the enrollment of 6,000 students next semester, the Board of Education also passed the plan approving allocation of 75 more quonset huts to the campus, Dean Edward E. Sandys announced last week.

The large number of students expected to enroll next semester will necessitate the arrangement of two shifts of classes, beginning at 8 a.m. and extending through 9 p.m., administration leaders indicated.

This will provide an opportunity for a number of veterans to obtain an education who would otherwise be denied the privilege, Dean Sandys added.

While 150 students have applied for huts, only a few have filled out the required questionnaire, according to Dean Sandys.

These white slips are information guides for the city Public Housing Authority.

College Hour Features New Officers, Speaker

Two features will highlight the final College Hour of the semester this Friday at 10:45 in the back court.

Newly elected Associated Student officers will be formally installed in office, Dean Jack Brady said last week, and athletic awards will be presented.

As the conclusion to the President's Lectures Series, Dr. Stewart G. Cole, executive director, Pacific Coast Council of Intercultural Education, will address students on the general topic of tolerance and good will.

Eleven In Race For Royalty "Rule" At Class Formal Friday At St. Francis Hotel

Elections for Sophomore King and Queen are slated to take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and tomorrow with the regular student officer elections in the college cafeteria. Voting will be by written ballot, and all Associated Student members may vote for both King and Queen.

Women competing for the honored title of Queen are Betty Ann Alton of Phi Beta Rho, Jean Carrasco of Delta Psi, Gloria Craig of Theta Tau, Elinor Mackie of Alpha Lambda Chi, Dorothy Quong of the Chinese Students' Club, Roberta Robb of Kappa Phi, Adele Rogers of the Student Council, and Gloria Silva, Kappa Alpha Sigma.

Carter Corey of Beta Phi Beta, Vic Pudlowski of Beta Tau, and Jim Reed of Tri Epsilon will vie for the Kingship.

Winners Crowned Friday

The two winners will be introduced and crowned at the Sophomore formal, Coronation Ball, to be held at 9 p.m. this Friday, June 7, in the Colonial and Italian Rooms of the St. Francis Hotel.

In addition to the regular Beta Tau and Theta Tau trophies presented each year to the King and Queen, this year the college will give a loving cup to each of the winners, which will be theirs to keep.

Formal dress will definitely be in order for this year's prom, according to Kent Bowker, class president.

Bids Now On Sale

Bids for the prom are now on sale at the college bank, where they will be sold until late Friday. Bids may also be purchased at the door. An Associated Student card will not be required for entrance.

Plans for dress-up day, also Friday, June 7, remain unchanged, except that there will be no sophomore rally because of conflict with an awards rally scheduled for that day. Men are expected to wear levis, and women gingham dresses for the day's festivities.

Forum

Literary Magazine Goes On Sale Today; Short Stories, Poems, Art Exhibitions Featured In 32 Page Annual Publication

Featuring an entirely new design in the latest offset process, the 32 page Forum Magazine, college literary publication, goes on sale today, Helen Ringius, editor, announced last night. Salesmen will appear at the main entrance by the silver pole, in the cafeteria, and in various classrooms throughout the day, she added. The price has been set at 25 cents.

Representing the combined talents of the college art and English departments, this term's issue contains 14 varied articles, 11 poems and 11 illustrations in black and white medium. Fronted by a design in three colors created by Laura Drake, the cover was produced by the silk screen process, with Miss Drake and George Albertus collaborating on the actual printing. The title page was done by Artist Anita Kreur, and the makeup by Albertus.

Forum contains a widely assorted list of titles in the 14 articles by college contributors.

The complete list includes Man and the Broken Atom by Adele Rogers, Summernight in Three Scenes by J. A. Kershaw, City Rat by Joyce Kern, Death Dream In Chelsea by D. A. Devinney, Edjucation, They's Nothin' Like It by B. J. McCormick, Saneha by John Bruce, The Manager by Jeffrey Burress, Experiment 235 by Charles Scott, Adulterated Mixture of Everything by Helen Ringlus, Bengali Beauty Shop by George Lajeunesse, Half of the Take by Don Farrar, Emergency Case by Pat French, Bolero by Roy McCoy, and Arrival and Departure by J. A. Kershaw.

In addition to the above mentioned prose, Forum features a balancing array of poems and illustrations. World of Creme de Menthe by Pat French and Beverly Jeanne Blank's On Being Told To Speak Louder are representative of the poems that will appeal to all tastes. Among the art work's created for this issue are Atomic Fantasy by Charles Scott and Tiger and Skin by Omar Chili.

Further credit is due to Laura Chatelain, Marie Chlubna, Marjorie Maffei, Marjoria Shull, Gloria Silva and Ray Solis, all assistant artists on the staff.

Gwen Slovenko

Marquette Claims Forum Worker

By George Lajeunesse

One of the many mid-westerners that have migrated California's way in recent years, Gwen Slovenko, business manager on the staff of Forum Magazine, comes to San Francisco by way of Chicago and the shores of Lake Michigan.

An Illinois resident since birth, Miss Slovenko has attended the college for the past two years and will graduate this month.

Preparing for a career as a dental hygienist, she hopes to return to Chicago after the summer vacation and enter Marquette University next September.

Business manager of last year's Forum and in the same capacity for this season's issue, Miss Slovenko finds time to witness all college sports events and names them all as particular favorites.

She backs her fondness for athletic events as a member in active standing of the Pep Club and has handled much of the publicity for the club's various rallies and social affairs.

Semester Bills Due In Bank By June 14

All outstanding bills to be paid from Associated Student budgets must be submitted to the student bank before 1:30 p.m., Friday, June 14, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, announced last Monday.

It is necessary for all student organizations to present their bills for settlement to the bank by this time, Anderson explained, and unused budgets revert to the general fund.

Students who wish to purchase street car tickets for the final week of classes must do so before the bank closes, as more tickets will not be sold after Friday, June 14, until summer session starts.

All student lockers must be vacated by the same date also, in preparation for students attending summer session, Anderson added.

250 To Graduate From WAVE Auditorium

Approximately 250 students will graduate from the stage of the WAVES' Auditorium across the street from the college at 7:45 p.m. on Friday, June 21.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Charles Morris, president of the San Mateo Junior College.

There will be no charge for invitations which may be secured in Room 185.

Lloyd Luckmann is in charge of commencement arrangements.

Sophomore Queen, King Candidates Seek Throne Election Today

Carter Corey Betty Ann Alton Jane Carrasco Gloria Craig Elinor Mackie Jim Reed Gloria Silva Dorothy Quong Adele Rogers Roberta Robb Vic Pudlowski

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 13 Wednesday, June 5, 1946 Page 2

San Francisco Junior College

Stock Taking Of Standards

AN EXCELLENT idea put forth by Joe Sweet, president of the Associated Students, at the beginning of the present semester, was the careful tabulation and subsequent publication of grade averages scored by the various campus organizations.

To tabulate and publish organizational grade averages much before the end of the semester would not be practicable, nor would it present an overall picture of their progress.

Now, therefore, is the time when Sweet's idea should be carried out, the details of which may very well be discussed in Council, and with representatives of the faculty.

The underlying intention in making campus organizational grade averages known to the Associated Students, and to the administration, is to see exactly to what degree invitational, non-invitational, and other societies which exist at the college, help their members academically.

Moreover, the information would reveal how far the organizations whose aims are to promote the welfare of their members and the college as a whole succeed.

Increased enrollment is making for (and will do so to a greater degree) keener competition. Organizations, striving to lead the college socially, will have to concentrate on doing so scholastically in the near future.

Such an innovation as it would be at this college has been practiced at other colleges, more recently in connection with ascertaining how the returning veterans stand as compared with their fellow students. It was found by the Men's College of the University of Rochester, in a recent survey, that the veterans by comparison with non-veterans are doing a better job.

P.S.

Students Say "Study, Don't Cram"

FINAL examinations seem to be a necessary part of college routine. But are they so important that a full week must be set aside for them?

If classes were held as usual until the end of the quarter, having an examination during the last two class periods, more material could be presented or a comprehensive review could be held in class. We are here supposedly to get an education, so we should make the most of our time. Why are students so anxious to have as few classes as possible? One would never guess we spend time, money and energy; to attend these classes.

When students know they are going to have a few days without regular assignments before finals, there is a tendency to procrastinate and let the work accumulate until that time. We have burned plenty of midnight oil reading the last two hundred pages of an economics or a history textbook before the final examination. This type of studying is far from ideal.—The Ohio State Lantern, Ohio State, Columbus, Ohio.

• • •

In Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins' latest report on the state of the University, he said: "We can be certain . . . that the characteristic phenomenon of the years ahead will be increasing leasure for all people . . . Adult education must fill the vacuum which the reduction in hours of labor will create in our lives."

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pamela Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gennon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheehy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavanor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bain, John Bayler, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Jo Ellen Caln, Peter Carlenti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doren, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Rudolf Luft, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, George Leinweuse, Shirley Langston, Howard Levy, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, James Riggs, Arthur Schwartz, Lucille Scott, Barbara Stephan, Steten Webster, Marjorie Wheatly, Jeanne Williams.
Staff Photographer ..... Don Lum
Jean Neuns Muscio ..... Faculty Advisor

—Linoleum by Mary Marsh

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Silver Pole Loaners May Find Their Backs "Polished"

FURNITURE polish, according to John S. Cook, head janitor of the college, is the burnisher used to keep the Silver Pole in proper trim at all times.

This startling fact was revealed last week, and was immediately followed by the equally disillusioning statement that the Pole is composed, not of silver, but of stainless steel, which merely serves as a shell covering a solid rock foundation extending from about ten feet beneath the ground straight up to the observation dome.

Mr. Cook said that the Pole was planned originally as a foundation and support for the German-ordered telescope which was scheduled to occupy the "round room" atop the building. Where it passes through the first floor of the building, the Pole has become the favorite meeting place and one of the best-known landmarks within the building.

The beaming mast serves as official host (or perhaps hostess—) to any and all visitors to the college, unless they arrive by way of helicopter. It stands rooted firmly in the very vitals of the structure, functioning as help-mate to all who traverse that general vicinity, and displaying its utility and versatility minute followed by blustering minute.

When a student staggers weakly from the depths of the cafeteria, totters limply down the hall, trying desperately to recuperate from that last double "choc malt" before the 1:10 bells rings, he can always count on the Silver Pole, cool and shining, to provide the proper momentary support.

When husband and wife get separated during the process of moving from one Q. H. to another, they can always be sure to literally bump into each other again at the glistening post.

Perhaps the most prominent contribution the venerated column offers to students lies in the very convenience it presents just by being located where it is. It has become the one sure place in the college where, at any time of the day (and night, too), friends and enemies, husbands and wives, the invited and the uninvited, may be trampled, bruised, and mauled with all the equality due their esteemed positions.

Crawling from between the legs of conversing students, Mr. Cook raised himself to his full four-foot-ten stature, and plaintively begged the assemblage to "Pulceze try to leave finger marks some other place than on the Pole." If not, another shortage is liable to be created—furniture polish.

Stephen

RAMifications

EVERY so often we all pause, and without our knowing it, find ourselves remembering things we have known, whether they be happy or sorrowful. A date, a name, a voice, anything can start within our minds the chain of reminiscence, from which we also try to foresee events, which because of some change, either by loss or addition, can never be the same.

Wednesday, May 29, 1946

A day of anxious shopping, week-end planning, long faces of elevator girls widowed by the recent war. Young school kids, running about adolescently yah-tataing about the "four day vacation." Frustrated resort owners, tearing hair and answering telephone calls. A day of last minute jobs, reminders, and signs. Advertisements . . . void of the usual punch and selling only respect and admiration for the brave soldiers who died that this nation need not perish from the earth.

Thursday, May 30, 1946

A fog swept morning. A thrill of peace after a victorious war . . . a war that cost men. Not the men from another country, another state, another county, nor from another town . . . but your brother, your uncle, your father, your husband, or your sweetheart . . . Flowers, but a symbol of affection and remembrance, placed gently and lovingly on the graves or in front of the crosses marking the last material resting place, while souls communed more deeply with the immortal qualities of the ones on whom the door has forever closed.

Automobiles, cutting in and speeding . . . traffic deaths to be remembered another Memorial Day. Impatient office workers "relaxing" at a pace that would astound their everyday companions, and encourage their wives to greater ambitions of scrubbed kitchen floors and more beautiful gardens.

Closed shops and department stores, banks and bakeries, holiday scheduled buses, trains, and trolleys. Small signs hung over the door: "This store will be closed from May 30 to June 3." A quiet neighborhood with only a stray student awaiting late street cars . . . late to classes and not much caring. Veterans remembering last year . . . Luzon, the effects of Guadalcanal . . . Iwo Jima, their pals, their discharge, the ones that didn't make it back to reunion so carefully planned for V-J Day Plus, in "'Frisco."

A few tears . . . mostly gritted teeth. Hearts cracking again under the renawakened sorrow. A dream of better days, less pain, fewer troubles.

Sunday, June 2, 1946

Frantic drivers, headed for the City. Worn out mothers, wearily telling vivacious offspring to put out their father and kiss the cat goodnight . . . Wondering eyes turned heavenward to prophesy the weather of the coming day, and wardrobes scanned for an all-season outfit before slumber catches and holds until the dream of too much golf required that extra 40 winks on Blue Monday.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

THERE has been directed to this column some questions on the subject of the personal life and the off stand life of swing musicians—why they become jump players.

Many people greatly misunderstand these men, thinking of them as tea smoking characters and not as skilled technicians.

You will find that most good musicians are not really "hopped up" cats, but just plain ordinary guys working for a living in the job that they were cut out to do.

After this statement, the question usually arises, "Then why do they talk like a bunch of wild men?" If the shop talk of a musician is analyzed, a person will find it is not the much publicized jive talk played up in the funny papers, but the different terminology used by the men in expressing their ideas. It is more of a technical nature than anything else. You will find that in any business or type of work there is a certain amount of talk that is not understood by the outsider. This is the case of the musician; it is just shop talk, not some frantic new language.

The life of a musician is very rough. Traveling and late hours are a continual physical strain. As far as family life goes, many of the men in traveling orks go for months without seeing their families. Yes, they even get married and have children.

Most people ask, "If it's such a hard life, why do they go in to it?" or "How did they ever get started in swing music?"

As has been stated before, the top men are usually really highly skilled technicians. There are usually years of studying with good concert teachers and playing with unknown bands for experience.

Summarizing the situation as a whole, a swing musician is just another guy, playing a horn or beating a drum, and really is as human as you or I.

Cumming

After Dark

IN TOWN for a short time on their transcontinental tour was the Philadelphia Orchestra, under the direction of Eugene Ormandy. The orchestra played three programs, one of which was scheduled at the last minute and for which we can thank the railroad strike. Top honors went to the Friday evening program, which included the Beethoven Seventh Symphony, Debussy's two nocturnes, Clouds and Festivals, and the Richard Strauss tone-poem, Death and Transfiguration which sent everyone, including Mr. Joseph Cotten, from the opera house completely transfigured and out of this world.

Mr. Ormandy's work is entirely different from our own Pierre Monteux.

Ormandy has a magnificent orchestra at his fingertips, as it were, and brings from them music that creates a magnificent over-all picture.

That over-all picture is a wonderful and stirring thing, but when Monteux takes hold, one not only gets the magnificent whole, but also the magnificent little details—a melody here, a rhythm there, and so forth—so that everything takes on a new and greater meaning.

The Saturday evening concert was much more of a "pops" concert and included the Brahm's Fourth Symphony, Debussy's Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun and the Polovetsian Dances by Borodin. We were silently gloating at the end of the San Francisco Symphony Season at the fact that the Polovetsian Dances hadn't been presented except in the performance of Prince Igor by the Russian Opera Company from which it could not be omitted, and so Ormandy has to come and play them. That was probably inevitable—along with the Tschaikovsky First Piano Concerto.

The quickly scheduled Sunday afternoon concert was an all-Tschaikovsky concert, which, to our tastes, is as gruesome a thing as could be invented. It has been proven before that the tastes of San Franciscans have a tendency to be underestimated.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXII, No. 13 WEDNESDAY, JUNE 5, 1946 Page 3

Hail Rams!

CHAMPS are the following named spikesters: Back row (left to right)—Evan Goldenberg, Bob Elliott, John Didio, Bill Barnes, Al Drake, Jack O'Connor, Ed Benedetti, Jim Folger, C. E. Anderson. Front row (left to right)—H. K. Anderson, Bob Caredio, Tom Kellogg, Track Coach Jim Jensen, Hervey Roscelli, George Albertus, and Eddie Bryant. Missing from photo are Bob Pederson, Bill Bahr, Harry Tepoian, John Mepelli, Al Johnson, Frank Bennett, and Francis Mascheroni.

Coach Jensen, experimenting with a squad of veritable newcomers, surprised all and sundry in the league this year by turning out a well-balanced group that has shown both spirit and willingness to win.

As expected, Kellogg, Pederson, and Bryant sparkled in Saturday night's arc light meet in Modesto.

Next stop for the locals is the Modesto Relays this coming Saturday evening, first event starting at 7:30 p.m.

—Photo by Lum

1946 Track Title For Rams

Sacramento Loses Hold On Conference; Pedersen Captures Three First Places

By Bob Catudio, Guardsman Sports Editor

MODESTO STADIUM, Modesto, Calif., June 1.—There wasn't a prouder or more happier man here tonight than Jim Jensen, who nervously watched his "kids come through" with San Francisco's first Northern California Junior College Conference Track and Field Championship with a total of 56½ points to shatter a six year tenure by Sacramento.

Modesto captured the runner-up spot with 43 points, while Sacramento garnered 34½ and Salinas 19 points.

Tamalpais speedster Bob Pederson of the Rams won three first places, but it was an unexpected splurge in seconds and thirds that did the trick. Pederson won both hurdle events plus the high jump.

Double winners were Modesto's Eddie Johnson, who swept the pole vault and broad jump; Ken Styvars, who nabbed both sprints in fast time, and Sacramento's Jim Lytgen, who notched the 880-yard run and quarter mile.

The meet was a veritable hair-breadth gallop, with the new champs and Modesto running neck and neck. Then a near sweep in the high jump and a one-two performance by Pederson and Bob Elliott of the Rams in the low hurdles convinced all concerned.

To make matters concrete, the townies—sparked by little Pat MacMillan's sparkling second lap relay effort—nabbed the mile relay with 35 yards to spare.

This was Head Coach Jensen's maiden whirl into track and field, and the squad in entirety, with triumph assured, scrambled into the grandstand and presented Berkeley Jim with the coveted gold trophy cup.

Track Summary

Mile run—Won by Marshall (M); 2, Folger (SF); 3, Dwight (M); 4, Guldin (Sac.). Time—4:37.1.

440 Yard Dash—Won by Lytgen (Sac.); 2, Ceredio (SF); 3 Courrier (Sal.) 4, Brunner (M). Time—:51.

100 Yard Dash—Won by Styvars (Sal.); 2, Hall (Sac.); 3, Bryant (SF); 4, Anderson (SF). Time—:10.

120 Yard High Hurdles—Won by Pederson (SF); 2, Elliott (SF); 3, Smith (Sal.); 4, Rogers (SF). Time—:15.7.

880 Yard Run—Won by Lytgen (Sac.); 2, Kellogg (SF); 3, Marshall (M); 4, Floras (M). Time—2:02.2.

220 Yard Dash—Won by Styvars (Sal.); 2, Hall (Sac.); 3, Bryant (SF); 4, Anderson (SF). Time—:22.1.

220 Yard Low Hurdles—Won by Pederson (SF); 2, Elliott (SF); 3, Smith (Sal.); 4 Salariu (Sal.) Time—:25.

Javelin—Won by J. Moran (M); 2, Coker (M); 3, N. Moran (M); 4, Drake (SF). Distance—180 feet, 11 inches.

Discus—Won by Coker (M); 2, Gibson (Sac.); 3, Bennett (SF); 4, Anderson (SF). Distance—134 feet, 4½ inches.

Shot Put—Won by Schooly (Sac.); 2, Coker (M); 3, Anderson (Sac.); 4, Anderson (SF). Distance—46 feet, 6 inches.

Broadjump—Won by Johnson (M); 2, Smith (Sal.); 3 Didio (SF); 4, Guy (M). Distance—22 feet, 3¼ inches.

Pole Vault—Won by Johnson (M); 2, Varoff (Sac.); 3, Johnson (SF); 4, Tepoian (SF). Height—13 feet, 4 inches.

High Jump—Won by Pederson (SF); 2, Barnes (SF) 3, tie between O'Connor (SF) and Barton (Sac.) Height—6 feet, 1¼ inches.

Mile Relay—Won by SF (Albertus, MacMillan, Kellogg, and Caredio); 2, Modesto; 3, Sacramento; no fourth. Time—3:32.8.

Final Point Score—San Francisco 56½; Modesto 43, Sacramento 34½, Salinas 19 San Mateo 0, Menlo 0.

FROLICSOME capers during a spring session football game shown in the runs of (left to right) Quarterback Staten Webster, Georgie Newell in the clutches of Earl Lawrence (35) and Manny Castro, and Halfback Carter Corey in right panel.

NCJC Baseball Title At Stake

Rams Face Mateans In Quest Of First Diamond Crown In "El Rammy History"

By Art Paymiller

H hour has been set for this coming Saturday at 12:30 p.m.

Maestro Bill Fischer's Rams, noted for its erroneous ways, will host San Mateo Junior College at Harrison Field in a twin bill that will "decide the Northern California Junior College Baseball Championship for 1946."

It will be a renewal of pitching assignments for Bill Collins and Bulldog Ed Bernard, and Iowa born Charley Brabbit against San Matean Jack Connell, the unorthodox southie.

The townies need but one victory to cinch its first baseball championship in the history of the college.

Insiders look to two closely-contested contests if the last two meetings of the clubs can be used for judgment.

The visitors have a jump over the locals in one department that has been instrumental in all of the Rams' setbacks, namely, fielding. Faulty infield commission has enabled the unpredictable townies to establish a new loop reeord for the most errors in one game—12.

Lineups:

San Mateo	Pos.	San Francisco
Bernard	P	Collins
Matulich	C	Homsey
Doyle	1B	McIntire
Jones	2B	Galvin
Arce	3B	Ranuio
Richards	SS	McNamara
Faligren	LF	Andersen
Nomellini	CF	Sabatini
Sibold	RF	Ratto

NCJC PENNANT PARADE

	Won	Lost	Pct.	GB
San Francisco	10	4	.714	....
San Mateo	9	5	.643	1
Modesto	7	9	.438	4
Marin	6	8	.429	4
Sacramento	4	10	.286	6

Guardsman All-Intra Cage Team, Spring '46

FIRST TEAM

Player	Team	Position
LEONARD SIMPSON	Del's Dandies	Forward
WILLIAM LAU	Bandas	Forward
ROBERT BUCHANAN	Bandas	Center
CHARLES McPHERSON	Bandas	Guard
DONALD CARTER	Portals	Guard

SECOND TEAM

RICHARD FONG	Gung Ho	Forward
ALBERT CLEMENTE	Bandas	Forward
HARRY TAPOIAN	Hayshakers	Center
CARTER COREY	Portals	Guard
ARTHUR PSALTIS	Hayshakers	Guard

HONORABLE MENTION

William Fong, Daniel Gee, (Gung Ho); Raymond Loberg, (Vagabonds); John Fracchia, (Bandas); Melvin Toff, Donald Honnert, Arthur Eckdall, (Portals); August Modeste, Myron Sosnick, (Phillips "77"); Charles Gibbs, (Eagles); Edward Del Carlo, Arthur Paymiller, (Del's Dandies); Daniel Schiavone, Warren Kuhlman, (Redskins); Richard Mahoney, (Mustangs); Frank Feeney, (XGI Swabbies); James Snowden, (Borlo B. C.); Benjamin Van Iderstine, William Ryan, (Rovers); Fred Sandine, John Sorensen, (Demons); Donald Grant, (Stanfel's Double Play); Herbert Bemesante, (XGI Doggies), and Robert Tehaney, (Hoots).

Seyranian Given Draw In Al Drake Encounter

Clean-cut newcomer Leon Seyranian stole the thunder of a near record crowd when he receipted for an unpopular three round draw with favorite Al "Duke" Drake in the feature attraction of the Associated Men Students-Intramural Boxing Carnival staged in the men's gymnasium.

A chorus of boos greeted Referee Roy Diederichsen's and the three judges' decision for it was thought in most quarters that the forward-charging Seyranian had much the better of the go.

Harry Tapoian, 150-pounder, kayoed Dick Mahoney in the first heat after a wild flurry of short rights.

Cliff Bedwell TKO'd Dick Ngin and 125-pounder Benny Muniz TKO'd Ray Horton.

Fight Results

115 pounds—Chet Frierson decisioned Howie Jeong.

120 pounds—Cliff Bedwell TKO'd Dick Ngin, second round.

125 pounds—Benny Muniz TKO'd Ray Horton, second round.

135 pounds—Al Lee and Dave Valentine drew.

140 pounds—Bob Utsumi decisioned Al Bustamante.

145 pounds—Warren Simmons decisioned Larry Solomon.

150 pounds—Harry Tapoian KO'd Dick Mahoney, first round.

155 pounds—Bob Fleischman decisioned Bob Casabant.

160 pounds—Gordon Fell decisioned Lou Ryan.

175 pounds—Larry Louie decisioned Art Stranton.

185 pounds—Bob Parnow decisioned Joe Moss.

Heavyweight—Leon Seyranian and Al Drake drew.

XGI's Win President Cloud Perpetual Award

As a reward for scoring the most team points during the current intramural season, the XGI Club won the President Cloud Perpetual Intramural Trophy with a point total of 84 points.

Runner-up was the Gung Ho group with 51 points, closely followed by Beta Phi Beta with 47 points.

Faculty Wizards Drub Block SF Club, 8-4

By Manny Castro

Behind the masterful (heh heh!) tossing of Julio Bortolazzo, the baccalaureate behemoths of the Faculty defeated the Block SF'ers Wednesday on the college athletic field before a smattering of slightly amused spectators.

Bortolazzo, in spacing 11 enemy blows, was the big gun (heh heh!) in the Faculty attack along with Jack Brady and Joe Amori.

Box score:

Block SF (4)	AB	R	H
Chicazole, p	4	1	3
Shyehan, c	4	0	0
Corey, 1b	4	0	0
Smith, G, 2b	4	0	1
Grant, 3b	3	0	1
Eksdall, ss	2	2	1
Webstir, 11, 3b	3	0	2
Bofinger, cf	3	0	1
Carter, rf	3	0	2
Lawrence, 11	2	0	1
	29	4	11

Faculty (8)	AB	R	H
Players, Pos.
Bortolazzo, p	5	2	2
Elsen, c	4	0	0
Brady, 1b	4	2	2
Anderson, 2b	3	0	1
Gaddy, 3b	4	1	1
Amori, ss	4	0	2
Fischer, lf	4	1	1
Sendys, cl	4	0	1
Ogle, rf	4	1	1
Wilson, lf	0	0	0
Jennings, lf	1	0	1
	35	8	11

Block SF
R	0	1	2	0	0	0	1	—	4	R
H	1	3	4	1	0	1	—	11	H

Faculty
	0	2	0	1	0	3	1	x—	8
	0	3	1	4	1	2	x—	11

CORVALLIS, Ore.—(ACP).—Men who want to carve roasts properly, prepare meals or just cook will have an opportunity to learn when food preparation for men is given next quarter.

Reds Whip Whites 18-0 In Grid Finale

Prospects were visibly brightened following a Red 18 to 0 win over the helpless Whites' squad in a regulation football game that closed Lee Eisan's spring football sessions for 1946.

The Reds scored in the second quarter, Quarterback Staten Webster passing 18 yards to wingman Jack Bennett in the end zone.

After a Whites' advance had stalled momentarily on the Red 48-yard marker, the high-geared Reds marched again—this time on Halfback Art Eckdall's scintillating 52-yard gallop down the sideline for a score.

The lineups:

Player (Reds)	Pos.	Player (Whites)
Buchanan	LER	Henery
Chicazole	LTR	Loberg
Nelson	LGR	Ferramore
Copsey	C	Cooper
Lanthier	RGL	Smith, W.
Splindler	RTL	Gray
Bennett	REL	Bergstrom
Webster	Q	Newell
Eckdell	LHR	Castro
Corey	RHL	Harmon
Lawrence	F	Bengs

McIntire Paces Locals With .360 Bat Mark

Ralph McIntire, towering Ram first sacker, is currently leading the college nine with a respectable .360 mark, unofficial NCJC batting statistics disclosed today.

Player—	AB	R	H	SO	BB	AVE.
McIntire	50	16	18	11	6	.360
Ratto	31	5	11	7	4	.355
Andersen	38	9	13	5	5	.342
Galvin	57	10	19	10	4	.333
Sabatini	38	9	12	11	5	.316
McNamara	43	13	12	13	4	.279
Keck	14	1	3	7	2	.214
Follini	32	5	6	8	4	.188
Ranuio	45	4	7	10	7	.156

Music

600 Students Join Festival Tomorrow

Unique, in that it is the first time it has been done, in San Francisco, six hundred music students representing the seven city high schools, and vocal talent representing the college, will join together at Mission High School, beginning at 10 a.m. tomorrow, to present a program of choral music.

Charles Dennis, director of music for the San Francisco schools, is in charge of the program.

Featuring four selections, in which the massed-choral group will participate, the program will also include renditions by each of the schools' A Cappella Choirs and Choruses.

Listed on the tentative program, as selections in which the entire group will participate, directed by Dennis, are Fire, Fire My Heart, an English madrigal; Turn Ye To Me, a Scottish folk song; and Early One Morning, an English folk song.

Among other songs especially arranged for the massed-choral group, will be the late Jerome Kern's Without A Song.

The program will be an attractive one, Flossita Badger, choir director here, said, and students and friends are invited to attend.

Pulitzer News Winner Visits College

Winner of the Pulitzer Prize for 1944 and Call-Bulletin columnist for the past four years, Jack S. McDowell was a luncheon guest of President Archibald J. Cloud and inspected the Hotel and Restaurant Division at the college last week.

McDowell was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for outstanding work on a series of articles about the flight of blood from the blood bank to the battle front on Guam, 48 hours away.

Summer Registration Set For June 27

The following schedule of summer session classes was released last week by the administration. Registration for former students, and those enrolled here now, is scheduled Thursday, June 27.

Course—Units—Days—Hours

ADVERTISING ART
67a—2 units—daily—9:10-11:00
67a—2 units—daily—12:10-2:00

ART
4ab—1 unit—TTh—1:10-4:00
12ab—2 units—MWF—12:10-4:00
21a—3 units—daily—12:10

BOTANY
12a—(Lect. and Lab.)—4 units—MTWTh—8:15-12:00
21b—(Lect. and Lab.)—4 units

BUSINESS
26a—(Lect.)—3 units—daily—1:10
50ab—3 units—daily—9:10
54ab—2 units—daily—10:10-12:00
58a—3 units—daily—10:10
70ab—4 units—daily—8:15-10:00
80ab—2 units—daily—10:10-12:00
122—2 units—MTWTh—1:10
132—2 units—MTWTh—12:10
133—3 units—daily—1:10
135—3 units—daily—2:10
145—3 units—daily—10:10

CHEMISTRY
A—(Lect.)—4 units—daily—8:15
A—(Lab. 1)—4 units—MW—12:10-2:00
A—(Lab. 2)—4 units—TTh—12:10-2:00
A—(Lab. 3)—4 units—WF—2:10-4:00
A—(Lab. 4)—4 units—TTh—2:10-4:00
A—(Lab. 5)—4 units—TTh—10:10-12:00
21a—(Lect.)—5 units—daily—2:10
21a—(Lab. 1)—5 units—MWF—8:15-11:00
21a—(Lab. 2)—5 units—MWF—12:10-2:00
21b—(Lect.)—5 units—daily—1:10
21b—(Lab.)—5 units—MWF—2:10-5:00
25—4 units—daily—2:10-5:00

CIVIL ENGINEERING
21a—(Lect.)—3 units—MTWTh—1:10
21a—(Lab.)—3 units—MW—9:10-12:00
21b—(Lect.)—3 units—MTWTh—12:10
21b—(Lab.)—3 units—TTh—9:10-12:00

ECONOMICS
21a—3 units—daily—10:10
21b—3 units—daily—9:10

ENGLISH
A—(Sect. 1)—2 units—MTWTh—8:15
A—(Sect. 2)—2 units—MTWTh—9:10
A—(Sect. 3)—2 units—MTWTh—10:10
A—(Sect. 4)—2 units—MTWTh—11:10
A—(Sect. 5)—2 units—MTWTh—12:10
A—(Sect. 6)—2 units—MTWTh—1:10
A—(Sect. 7)—2 units—MTWTh—2:10
A—(Sect. 8)—2 units—MTWTh—11:10
B—3 units—daily—8:15
H—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—10:10
H—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—11:10
H—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—8:15
H—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—1:10
H2—3 units—daily—10:10-12:00
14—3 units—daily—10:10-12:00
21a—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—8:15
21a—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—9:10
21a—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—10:10
21a—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—11:10
21a—(Sect. 5)—3 units—daily—12:10
21a—(Sect. 6)—3 units—daily—9:10
21a—(Sect. 7)—3 units—daily—10:10
21b—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—9:10
21b—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—10:10
21b—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—1:10

FRENCH
21—4 units—MWF—8:15-10:00, and TTh—8:15-9:00
22—4 units—MWF—10:10-12:00, and TTh—10:10-11:00

GEOGRAPHY
3—3 units—daily—11:10
21—3 units—daily—12:10

GERMAN
21—4 units—MWF—8:15-10.00, and TTh—8:15-9:00
22—4 units—MWF—10:10-12:00, and TTh—10:10-11:00

HISTORY
A—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—9:10
A—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—10:10
A—(Sect 3)—3 units—daily—12:10
A—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—1:10
24a—3 units—daily—12:10
24b—3 units—daily—1:10
28a—3 units—daily—2:10
28b—3 units—daily—3:10
35—2 units—MTWTh—12:10
37a—3 units—daily—10:10

HYGIENE
21, 22—(Sect. 1)—2 units—MTWTh—10:10
21, 22—(Sect. 2)—2 units—MTWTh—11:10
21, 22—(Sect. 3)—2 units—MTWTh—1:10
21, 22—(Sect. 4)—2 units—MTWTh—2:10

MATHEMATICS
A—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—8:15, and MWF—9:10
A—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—10:10, and MWF—11:10
A—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—11:10, and MWF—12:10
A—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—12:10, and MWF—1:10
A—(Sect. 5)—3 units—daily—1:10, and MWF—2:10
B—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—8:15, and MWF—9:10
B—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—9:10, and MWF—10:10
B—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—11:10, and MWF—12:10
B—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—12:10, and MWF—1:10
B—(Sect. 5)—3 units—daily—1:10, and MWF—2:10
10—3 units—daily—1:10
20c—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—9:10
20c—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—10:10
20c—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—11:10
20c—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—12:10
21a—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—8:15
21a—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—9:10
21a—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—10:10
21a—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—11:10
21a—(Sect. 5)—3 units—daily—1:10
21b—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—8:15
21b—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—10:10
21b—(Sect. 3)—3 units—daily—1:10
21b—(Sect. 4)—3 units—daily—12:10
23a—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—8:15
23a—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—9:10
23b—3 units—daily—8:15
51—(Sect. 1)—1 unit—MW—9:10
51—(Sect. 2)—1 unit—TTh—11:10

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
A—(Sect. 1)—2 units—daily—8:15-10:00
A—(Sect. 2)—2 units—daily—10:10-12:00
A—(Sect. 3)—2 units—daily—12:10-2:00
22—3 units—daily—2:10-5:00
26a—(Sect. 1)—2 units—daily—10:10-12:00
26a—(Sect. 2)—2 units—daily—12:10 2:00
26a—(Sect. 3)—2 units—daily—8:15 10:00

PHILOSOPHY
26a—3 units—daily—10:10
26b—3 units—daily—11:10

PHYSICAL EDUCATION
½ unit—MTWTh—8:15, 9:10, 10:10,11:10, 12:10, 1:10, 2:10

PHYSICS
A—3 units—daily—9:10-11:00
H—3 units—daily—11:10-1:00
21b—(Lect.)—3 units—daily—1:10
21b—(Lab.)—3 units—MW—8:15-11:00
21c—(Lect.)—3 units—daily—11:10
21c—(Lab.)—3 units—TTh—1:10-4:00
22a—3 units—daily—12:10

POLITICAL SCIENCE
A—2 units—MTWTh—11:10
21a—3 units—daily—1:10
21b—3 units—daily—12:10
23a—3 units—daily—8:15
23b—3 units—daily—8:15
36—2 units—MTWTh—8:15

PSYCHOLOGY
10—(Sect. 1)—1 unit—MTWTh—9:10
10—(Sect. 2)—1 unit—MTWTh—12:10
10—(Sect. 3)—1 unit—MTWTh—2:10
21a—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—9:10
21a—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—10.10
21b—3 units—daily—2:10

RADIO ENGINEERING
51a—(Lect.)—8 units—daily—9:10
51a—(Lab.)—8 units—daily—10:10-3.00

SOCIOLOGY
21a—3 units—daily—11:10
21b—3 units—daily—12:10

SPANISH
21—Sect. 1)—4 units—MWF—9.10-11:00, and TTh—9:10-10:00
21—(Sect. 2)—4 units—MWF—11:10-1:00, and TTh—11:10-12:00
22—(Sect. 1)—4 units—MWF—12:10-2:00, and TTh—12:00-1:00
22—(Sect. 2)—4 units—MWF—2:10-4:00, and TTh—2:10-3:00

SPEECH
10—3 units—daily—12:10
21a—(Sect. 1)—3 units—daily—10:10
21a—(Sect. 2)—3 units—daily—11:10
21b—3 units—daily—12:10

ZOOLOGY
21a—(Lect. and Lab.)—4 units—MTWTh—1:10-5:00
21b—(Lect. and Lab.)—4 units—MTWTh—8:15-12:00
30—(Lect.)—3 units—daily—12:10
30—(Conf. 1)—3 units—MW—11:10
30—(Conf. 2)—3 units—TTh—10:10
30—(Conf. 3)—(For Zool. A Credit)—MW—1:10-3:00
30—(Conf. 4)—3 units—TTh—2:10

WAA 'Tourney Week' In Full Swing

Tourney Schedule

Today — Badminton tournament — women's gymnasium—4 p.m.

Tomorrow—No events scheduled.

Friday — Volleyball tournament — women's gymnasium — 11:45 a.m. "Cupid's Rendezvous" archery tournament — archery range — 11:45 a.m.

Monday, June 10 — College WAA basketball team vs. Lowell High School—Lowell girls' gymnasium—3 p.m.

Coed Olympics In '39

Tourney Week in the fall of 1939 was based on "city-wide Olympics," the feature attraction being a regulation horse show at Golden Gate Park's San Francisco Riding Academy. Hockey and golf matches were also staged by the WAA.

Semester Membership Zooms 30 Per Cent

By Jo Ellen Cain and June Sheehy

Draw down the curtain on the Women's Athletic Association.

Murmurs of red chenile blocks . . . "no-hit, no-run" Frances Scilipoti . . . sectional Play Days . . . Stephens Union politicos . . . and lo the poor WAA secretary that must keep a tab on a predicted splurge in membership next semester.

Increase In Membership

First indication of WAA popularity was shown in a matter of numbers, according to Wanda McKenzie, group president, who asserted "That organizational membership zoomed 30 per cent this semester."

"Excellent showing," the elated Miss McKenzie avers.

Play Days were an important feature on the women's sports calendar and the emphasis remained on a social rather than collegiate competitive basis. Women, however, still trained vigorously in order that they be selected on the many teams that represented the college.

Sixteen different activities grace the WAA platform.

Adhering to feminine tradition, WAA block award winners will be sporting red chenile blocks on white woolen sweaters upholding the satin and silk days of the Lana Turner era.

Social Events Held

Promulgated support of a statewide WAA on the "betterment of athletic relationships" among major universities and junior college of California is being stressed.

Besides the usual round of athletic events, clubs within the WAA are staging "social get-togethers" and tournaments in an effort to force attention upon the women of the college.

Thus ends the 1946 edition of the WAA!

Unhindered for the first time since more than 300 women is not an impossibility next semester, according to the hectic year of 1941, the current gallop of the WAA is on a peacetime gait. A record membership of Laurine Bergin, of the women's physical education department.

Group Nominations In Room 140 This Friday

Nominations and elections of officers in the WAA for the coming semester will be held Friday, June 7, in Room 140, at 10:45 a.m., it was announced by Laurine Bergin, acting adviser of the group in the temporary absence of Bertha Mae Keller.

Nominations will be in order for four offices — president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer.

WANDA ELOISE McKENZIE, current president of the WAA, who, according to observers, is doing a bang-up job to accelerate present interest in the group.

Banquet June 11 At El Jardin Restaurant

Concluding a semester of social and athletic activities, the semi-annual WAA banquet will be held Tuesday, June 11, at the El Jardin Restaurant, 22 California Street, starting promptly at 6:30 p.m.

The names of incoming group officers will be announced during the evening festivities, "in Hollywood Academy Award style," it was disclosed yesterday by Wanda McKenzie, organization president.

Non-members of the WAA who wish to attend the banquet are urged to contact Miss McKenzie immediately.

Record Turnout Of Women In Tourneys On College Campus

More than 200 women will participate in week-long tournaments starting today in the women's gymnasium at 4 p.m. when the semi-annual WAA Tourney Week is staged.

Volleyball, table tennis, archery, softball, badminton, and basketball are on the agenda.

The following named women will take part this week—Wanda McKenzie, Irene Mouzakis, Ann Ahokas, Janice Beanston, Lois Webber, Betty Rhoades, Virginia Weekman, Leona DiBuque, Lulu Mae Gibson, Roberta Reams, Alma Pucci, Zetta Rovekes, Patricia Tyler, Mercedes Treverton, Marilouise Matthews, Dee Roberts, Frances Scilipoti, Margaret Robertson, Edna Goodie, Susan Miles, Mary Lee, Marian Lee, Leona Kruse, Jane Hagmeir, Aileen Yamate, Loys Dascarolis, Rita Chow, Alicia Saucedo, Nancy Stookey.

Gloria Swicegood To Join Women's PE Staff

One-time major in pre-med here at the college, Gloria Swicegood, who was graduated from the University of California in 1940, will be added to the college's women's physical education staff next semester.

Miss Swicegood is currently instructing at the University of Texas in Austin and, according to reports, is in charge of women's intramurals on the Longhorn campus.

The newly-appointed instructor will return to San Francisco next month pending the termination of classes at Texas University.

Final Examination Schedule

FALL SEMESTER, 1946

Classes	Day	Hour
SPRING SEMESTER, 1946
8:15 MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 13	8:15-11:15
8:15 TTh	Wednesday, June 19	8:30-11:00
9:10 MWF and Daily	Tuesday, June 18	9:00-12:00
9:10 TTh	Monday, June 17	8:30-11:00
10:10 MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 20	9:00-12:00
10:10 TTh	Wednesday, June 19	11:30- 2:00
11:10 MWF and Daily	Friday, June 14	8:15-11:15
11:10 TTh	Friday, June 14	11:30- 2:00
12:10 MWF and Daily	Tuesday, June 18	1:00- 4:00
12:10 TTh	Monday, June 17	11:30- 2:00
1:10 MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 20	1:00- 4:00
1:10 TTh	Wednesday, June 19	2:15- 4:45
2:10 MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 13	2:15- 5:15
2:10 TTh	Monday, June 17	2:15- 4:45
3:10 MWF and Daily	Friday, June 14	2:15- 5:15
3:10 TTh	Friday, June 21	1:00- 3:30

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1945 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII SAN FRANCISCO, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1946 No. 14

First Post War Graduation June 21

Honor Grads

Maples Edges Kay, Harrell, Saharoff To Win Scholastic Award — 2.72 Average

Four pretty graduates, who boast brains as well, posed for Photographer Don Lum when they were named honor graduates of the class of 1946. Left to right above they are Margaret Kay, Nina Saharoff, in front of her; Marie Harrell, behind the cup, and Jean Maples holding the Scholastic Cup she won for highest scholarship.

The honor graduates thus become permanent members in Alpha Gamma Sigma, California State Junior College Honor Society.

Miss Maples achieved a grade point average of 2.72 in her two years at the college to win the Scholastic Cup, and is also valedictorian at commencement, Friday, June 21.

Margaret Kay graduates with a 2.50 grade point average, second highest, and is salutatorian.

Miss Harrell came through two years with 2.33 average, while Miss Saharoff reached a high of 2.30.

Both Miss Kay and Miss Saharoff are foreign born, Miss Kay having been born in Stuttgart, Germany, and Miss Saharoff in Shanghai, China. The former is a graduate of Lowell High School, while Miss Saharoff is from Girls High.

Miss Maples prepped at George Washington High School, and Miss Harrell is from San Pedro High School in California.

Dr. Cloud To Confer 248 Degrees; Maples Named Valedictorian

In the first peace time commencement since 1941, President A. J. Cloud will confer 248 Associate of Arts degrees upon graduates of the college, Friday, June 21, at 7:45 p. m., in the WAVE Auditorium.

Jean Maples, Alpha Gamma Sigma member and winner of the annually awarded Scholastic Cup, will be valedictorian, introduced by graduating student Allan Moss.

Other student speaker is Margaret Kay, salutatorian and runner-up for the Scholastic Cup, who will be introduced by Joe Sweet, Associated Student president.

Morris Guest Speaker

Charles S. Morris, president, San Mateo Junior College, is the guest speaker and will be introduced by Dr. Curtis E. Warren, Superintendent of San Francisco Public Schools.

BIDS NEEDED FOR ADMISSION

Commencement bids, available in Room 185, must be presented to the officer-in-charge at the gate to the WAVE Naval Station, on Phelan Avenue across from the college. They will not be taken, but must be shown to gain admission, Dean Margaret Dougherty said Monday.

Graduates are required to be at the WAVE Auditorium at 7 p. m., Friday, June 21.

Commencement Program

Processional . . . Graduates
Pomp and Circumstances . . . Orchestra

Madison Devlin, Conductor

The National Anthem
Greetings . . . Hon. Garret McEnerney II, President, Board of Education
Turn Ye To Me . . . Scotch Folk Song, arranged by Scott
Early One Morning . . . English Folk Song, arranged by Fitzgerald
Were You There . . . Negro Spiritual

A Cappella Choir—Flossita Badger, Director

Salutory . . . Margaret Kay
Introduced by Joseph Sweet II, President, Associated Students
Valedictory . . . Jean Maples
Introduced by Allan Moss
Introduction of Charles S. Morris by Dr. Curtis E. Warren, Superintendant of Schools
Address . . . Charles S. Morris, President, San Mateo Junior College
Conferring of Degrees and Scholarship Honors . . . Dr. A. J. Cloud, President, San Francisco Junior College
Alma Mater . . . Sherman Grant '39

A Cappella Choir

Recessional . . . Graduates

Representing the San Francisco Board of Education, Garret McEnerney II, president of the board, will open the program with greeting to the graduates and guests, immediately following the traditional processional and singing of the national anthem.

Music will feature the A Cappella Choir, directed by Flossita Badger, in three numbers, Turn Ye to Me, followed by Early One Morning, and Were You There.

Summer Grads Included

The list of 248 recipients of degrees includes students who completed their work in either of the summer sessions last year, and February and June, 1946.

Members of the faculty committee on graduation are Oscar Anderson, Laurine Bergin, John Brady and Thomas Wilson. Lloyd C. Luckmann, debate coach, assisted in arrangements.

Associated Students

Haug Receives 331 Votes To Grab Presidency; Stookey, Holmes Win

Dean Haug

Dean Haug took the presidential frosting from the campus political cake at the college elections last Wednesday and Thursday, with a count of 331 out of 908 votes cast, representing approximately 26 per cent of the Associated Student members.

Haug won the office over opponents Frisco Sartor, who netted 251 votes; Kent Bowker, who drew 197 ballots, and George Newell, who claimed 129 supporters.

With 609 Associated Students giving the final push; Nancy Cunningham jumped into position as vice-president of the Association, ahead of Gretchen Williams, who received 272 votes. Only 881 voted for this office.

Bill Holmes took the Associated Men Student presidency with a ballot cast of 299, while opponent Bob Catudio totaled with 206 votes.

Stookey Heads AWS

Winning the office of Associated Women Student President, Nancy Stookey overtook the three other candidates with the strong arm of 126 ballots. Nancy Ruttencutter brought 95 positive results; Shirley Ross, 69, and Janet Caine, 55.

Almost doubling the total of his nearest contender, Dick Mills became Freshman President at the request of 415 voters. Bill Riley claimed 242 backers, and Jonh Tolly, 201.

Unopposed Millie Laube was approved as Sophomore President.

Winegardner, Waller Lose

Representing the Freshman Class on the Student Council will be the following seven students: Beverly Huff, 477; Frank Grant, 519; Don Langendorf, 496; Wallace Morgan, 458; Don Burger, 509; Jeanette Harshau, 446, and Dee Roberts, 456. The remaining two of the nine candidates were Bob Winegardner, who received 428, and Thelma Waller, who received 345.

Sophomore representation on the council was automatic since only seven candidates were running:

"Free World Club" Out

Fighting the last bouts of its spring semester political free-for-all, the Student Council wound up last week's rounds by forcing the "Free World Club" to hit the canvas with a knockout vote of 7 to 4 over the Club Advisory Board recommended charter, last Tuesday.

Election

XGI Group Clarifies Balloting Protests

Rumored protest of Associated Student election procedure came to an amiable conclusion last week, when a letter was submitted to the Student Council, suggesting an amendment to the constitution, which would eliminate questionable "goings on." The letter was signed by Mel Toff, XGI Society President, and read by Trev Burrow, society member.

Center of the controversy was the presence on the Election Committee of several students also running for office. Neither the Constitution nor Election Committee rules have any regulations covering such a situation.

Criticism Not Personal

Without directing any personal criticism at the individuals involved, students protesting pointed out that the members of such a committee should be protected from any post-election reverberations.

Committee members running for office were Nancy Ruttencutter, chairman, candidate for Associated Women Student presidency, and Kent Bowker, Associated Student presidential candidate.

Two Limits Provided

This amendment would mainly prevent members running for office from being affiliated with the Election Committee and further provide that no more than one member of a single chartered organization could serve on the committee.

Because classes end today, action is postponed until the Fall.

Thursday Luncheon To Honor President Cloud

President A. J. Cloud will be honored at the eleventh annual Faculty Association luncheon to be held in the cafeteria tomorrow at 11:45, college controller Oscar E. Anderson announced last week.

Faculty Association president, Jack Brady, will install new officers of the association, whose names have not yet been announced.

The A Cappella Choir will sing three songs, and the male quartet will sing Old Man Noah.

Guests at the luncheon will be school board members and Mrs. Cloud. Because of the crowded schedule on the first day of final examinations, no guest speaker have been planned, Faculty Association committee members said.

Carol Hayland, Bob Mills Win President's Award

Bob Mills

Carol Hayland and Bob Mills were named last week as the two outstanding graduating students of June, 1946, and will have their names inscribed on the President's award plaque.

In the fall of 1945, Miss Hayland served as president of the Associated Women Students of the college which she entered on graduating from Lowell High School. She was elected vice-president of the Associated Students and President of the Club Advisory Board for the spring of 1946.

Mills has held the office of Associated Student president twice, once in Spring, 1945, and also in Fall, 1945.

The President's plaque was established in 1940, and has inscribed on it annually the names of the graduating man and woman who have contributed most to the college throughout the year.

Previous winners are Harold Hoffman and Dorothy Trood, 1940; Leonard Gross and Mary Francis Malone in 1941; Dorothy Ann Kraul and Francis Chrisman in 1942; Don Jensen and Ernestine Cervelli in 1943; Jacqueline Thompson and Charles Loughridge in 1944, and Lois Robinet and Robert Bisio in 1945.

Carol Hayland

The Guardsman
Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1941 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1946

Vol. XXII, No. 14 Wednesday, June 12, 1946 Page 2

Elections

Questionable "Goings-On"

IN the Ram's Horn section of the present edition of The Guardsman is printed a letter from a student which gives written evidence of other reports received regarding certain questionable "goings-on" during the elections of June 5 and 6.

That certain objectionable practices were indulged in during the Fall elections has belatedly come to be general knowledge. At that time the use of machines in the voting procedure was throught to be proof against abuses. However, it appears that there was a widespread laxity regarding the use and re-use of Associated Student cards, as well as the "accidental" mishandling of the machines.

SUSPICION ADMITTED

No actual proof of sharp practice in the election which has just taken place has been submitted, but certain high student officials themselves have admitted a feeling of suspicion regarding the balloting.

It was clearly evident that competitive feeling ran high this last time, possibly because of the larger number of candidates for Associated Student president. This feeling was demonstrated by the wanton and childish destruction and mutilation of posters, as well as by the apparent lack of limitation as to the number of posters on and off the campus.

As far as can be determined, the Election Committee failed to specify in the amount of detail apparently necessary, the rulings regarding posters and other means of publicity permitted each candidate, as well as the penalties for infringement of the rules.

COMMITTEE'S POSITION EMBARRASSING

While no one person or groups of persons through their behavior or for any other reason can be held accountable for the widespread rumors regarding the election, the Election Committee, in order to protect itself should have consisted only of students not themselves running for office.

Those members of the Election Committee themselves running for office are among the college's most highly respected students, but they should have realized the embarrassing position into which they could be maneuvered as a consequence.

Much the same point of view has been expressed in a letter written by the President of the XGI Society and which has already come to the official attention of the Student Council. That letter, too, while not casting aspersions at the integrity of the Election Committee or other officers of the Associated Students, also suggested that preventive measures should be taken by those officers, to eliminate all possibility of unfavorable talk.

OFFICERS DESERVE CLEAN SLATE

It would seem, therefore, that the most judicious action of the Student Council would be to immediately devise some method, short of another balloting, if only to stifle the comments of the Associated Students and to give the entering officers a completely clean slate in the coming semester.

It is a pretty sad commentary on the integrity of the Associated Students when enough of them raise sufficient enthusiasm to make for a really representative and spirited election, and then it has to be ruined by a small group of selfish individuals, who, in consequence, put the whole Association in a bad light. —P. S.

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1946

Pemele Sampson ..... Editor
Carmel Gannon ..... Managing Editor
June Sheehy ..... Assistant Managing Editor
Betty Jo Smith ..... News Editor
Betty Lou Cavenor ..... Feature Editor
Bob Catudio ..... Sports Editor
Manuel Castro ..... Assistant Sports Editor
REPORTERS: Dell Bein, John Boyler, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Jo Ellen Cain, Peter Cerlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bo Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Rudolf Luft, Lulu Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, George Lejeunesse, Shirley Langston, Howard Levy, Don Lucey, Arthur Peymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, James Riggs, Arthur Schwartz, Lucilla Scott, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marjorie Wizarty, Jeanne Williams.
Staff Photographer ..... Don Lum
Joan Nourse Muscio ..... Faculty Advisor

—Linoleum by Mary Marsh

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

Department Dept. Scrutinizes Student Social Actions

THE subject of proper individual deportment is rarely, if ever, thought of in a college where intellectual endeavor is primary. However, students here are, for the most part, extremely well-trained in that ultimate of all the graces of society—the ability to enter a room late with all the poise they possess.

Ingenuity is seldom taken into consideration, a fact which renders actions of the "A" student in deportment very much alike.

The female of the species will poise herself in the open threshold, calmly flexing her arches until the desired degree of attention from the assembled scholars is deflected properly.

After she is reasonably sure that every optical nerve in the room is concentrated upon her person, she will proceed on the long journey to her seat.

She pauses slightly before each chair, smiling slowly and knowingly. On passing the desk occupied by the distracted instuctor, she turns her head and nods a pleasant "good morning." As she seats herself, she always bids a sociable "hello" to her neighbors.

After pulling her chair into the desired position, noisily dropping her books on the floor in spite of the place provided for them, she again nods to the instructor, who takes this as a signal to once again resume the lecture.

Men students who are ranked in the upper social brackets are those for whom the vitriolic glances of the instructor, when watching the scholar make his tardy presence known, holds no terrors.

Waving his hands in hearty greeting, and occasionally clasping them expressively above his head, the peculiar man - about - the - hill enters the lecture room quite happily, indicating his private opinion as being that they should be darned pleased that he troubled to show up at all.

It is rumored that some students are slated to fail the course because their previous training was evidently based on the old-fashioned theory that when entering a classroom after the appointed hour, the proper procedure should be to keep the eyes fixed firmly on the floor, a guilty expression on the face, and with all the humility the soul is possessed of, should shrink quickly and quietly into the nearest available seat.

Stephen

RAMifications

SAYING goodbye is hard. It has been found among the hardest of all things known to man to accomplish successfully and graciously.

The last semester has been a continual stream of fun, people, good times, and homework. The fun . . . little things that have happened on the campus. The assemblies at the WAVE auditorium and down at the men's gym . . . the piano blasting boogie-woogie art . . . those ping-pong tournaments in the student lounge . . . the endless card games . . . the lines in the "caf" . . . arguments on the what-is-to-come of future life in these United States.

People always around, always helping the blue days go faster, the good days to be happier and gayer. Warm sun (when it shone) . . . the green terra firma of the back court . . . with hardly an inch left to lie on for all the many pagan sun-worshippers.

Dances and picnics. Girls and fellows . . . becoming friends and "steadies" as the Spring wore on until the warmth of summer brought out the rash of first-loves all over the campus.

New faces, harder examinations . . . midterms, daily quizzes . . . but few gripes. Earnest veterans crowding the library . . . good to see after so many semesters of strolling in to empty tables.

The legendary Silver Pole . . . so impossible to circumnavigate around noon time . . . or 10 o'clock Wednesday morning after The Guardsman comes out.

The long walk up the hill from the gyms. The feeling of "I'll never make it!" . . . the precipitous look of that last lap from the drive up to the building. The tender pokes about dear ole' Pneumonia Hill.

The Soph Formal. That choked-up feeling when the King and Queen got crowned, and you realized it was probably your last Soph Formal.

These are the reasons it's hard to say "goodbye." But new thrills, joys, dejections and sorrows await us on that proverbial Path of Life. The memories of two years well spent will never dim.

Elliott

The Cat's Meow

AS this column goes to press, the music world is in a rough spot, as Czar of the musicians, James P. Petrillo, tangles with the Congress of the United States.

—Petrillo, who is head of the American Federation of Musicians, is either about to be told off or in some way have his ears slapped back.

The big question is this: Can Congress put the screws on Petrillo or is the American public going to be without music? This little man has to be shown now or never. With his past record of some of the rottenest tricks ever played in labor, it is about time that something was done about him.

A few years back, there were no labor unions for musicians and nothing holding these men together. The majority of the men entertaining were underpaid and generally being kicked around. Along came the A. F. M., and skilled musicians began receiving a living wage and were protected from the mistreatment of individual persons. On a whole a very fine organization. Then along came Petrillo, filling a good thing with rotten coordinates, bums, power happy gangsters, and not any one who was looking out for the working musician. Since Petrillo's reign, the A. F. M. has become so sour that many musicians themselves are thoroughly fed up with the whole mess.

The enjoyment of the whole nation is now in the hands of the congressional boys who are out to stop Petrillo. The A. F. M. was organized to keep vultures like Petrillo from robbing the men who do the playing. Here's hoping that the boys in D. C. can put the K. O. on J. C. P. (the heel).

* * *

The latest report in local note circles is the release of a new Lu Waters Jazz album. Waters is still engaged at the Dawn Club here in S. F. Water's outfit, according to reliable Jazz critics, is getting back into his old very fine way of playing. It is difficult to find real Jazzmen to replace pre-war chairs in a real New Orleans Combo such as Waters'.

* * *

On the traveling circuit there have been a few top orks, but nothing to do flip overs. The best bet about town is the Back Stage, local Jamspot, now featuring Saunders King.

Cumming

After Dark

PLAYING at the Larkin Theater is The Open City, an Italian film dealing with the Germans in Rome.

Filmed with equipment stolen from German stores, this picture was produced during and after the actual occupation of the city.

Many of the players are unknown to the screen and were actually taken from their homes for the film. The result is one of the most beautiful jobs of movie technique to be shown here in the past years. It is truly remarkable that such excellent results can be obtained from poor equipment and inexperienced actors.

The picture is not pretentious; it has a message and a story, and it tells the story and conveys the message in the quickest manner possible.

Instead of keeping the film at a white heat of intensity and suspense, which could very easily have been done, moments of let-down, usually humorous, have been injected very wisely and very well.

The story has its "Tosca"-like moments, too, which would be expected from a film on Rome, especially the torture chamber sequence, which is definitely quite horrible.

* * *

Kitty is in town. It's bursting with character actors who fly in and out at whirlwind pace and will have you completely exhausted at the end of the one hour and some odd.

Those hitting and the high spots are Constance Collier, Cecil Kellaway, Sara Algood, and Reginald Owen, all very fine, and all worth the trouble.

The story—in a word—is complicated and leaves practically nothing to the imagination. It's a rather messy conglomiration of Dickens, Shaw and Hollywood, which is a formidable combination for anyone's money.

Mr. Gainsborough finds Kitty an exquisite model, paints her portrait, and has all London wondering who she is—but, of course, he doesn't tell.

A young ne'er do well steps in and makes Kitty into a woman equal to any duchess, fulfilling his aim.

He is later thrown in jail because of financial difficulties, and Kitty marries very well and bails him out. She does become a duchess and even get her Pygmalion at the end of the picture.

Letters To The Editor

RAM'S HORN

• Voting Investigation Asked

Editor, The Guardsman:

I don't particularly care which of the candidates for the various student offices win, but in equal fairness to ALL the candidates, I suggest an investigation of the voting procedure which occurred June 5 and 6. It was perfectly obvious that "something fishy" was going on! How were the people chosen who took care of the distribution of ballots, punching of the student body cards, etc?

—CONSTANCE TRIGONIS.

(See Editorial Comment)

Rams Blast Mateo 15-4 For Title!

Boxscore

SAN MATEO (4)					SAN FRANCISCO (15)
Player, Pos.	AB	H	O	A	Player, Pos.	AB	H	O	A
Bernard, p-lf	5	0	1	1	Sabatini, cf	4	2	4	0
Doyle, 1b	2	2	4	0	Ratto, rf	4	2	1	0
Nomellini, cf	3	0	0	1	Galvin, 2b	4	2	5	1
Jones, 2b	5	4	1	2	McIntire, 1b	3	0	9	0
Matulich, c	4	1	15	0	Andersen, lf	5	3	3	0
Sibold, rf	5	2	0	0	McNamara, ss	4	3	1	0
Arce, 3b	4	1	2	1	Homsey, c	3	0	4	1
Richards, ss	3	0	1	0	Ranuio, 3b	2	0	1	0
West, lf	1	1	0	0	Collins, p	3	0	0	2
Nava, P	1	0	0	0
Connell, p	3	0	0	0
Totals	36	11	24	5	Totals	34	10	27	9

SAN MATEO	0	2	1	0	0	1	0	0	0	—4
SAN FRANCISCO	1	3	4	4	0	0	1	0	*	—15

Losing pitcher—Bernard.

	IP	AB	H	R	ER	SO	BB
Bernard	2⅓	19	6	8	5	4	5
Nava	⅔	4	2	2	2	0	1
Connell	6	23	2	5	3	10	4
Collins	9	45	11	4	2	3	8

Runs—Doyle, Jones, Arce, Richards (San Mateo 4); Sabatini 2, Ratto, Galvin, McIntire, Andersen 3, McNamara 2, Homsey 2, Ranuio 2, Collins (San Francisco 15); Errors—Matulich 2, Sibold, Arce, Richards (San Mateo 5); Galvin, McNamara 2, Collins 2 (San Francisco 5). HR—Sabatini. 2B—Matulich. 2B—Sabatini, Ratto, Andersen. RBI—Doyle, Jones, Sibold, Sabatini 5, Ratto 3, Andersen 2. SB—Bernard, Sibold, Ratto, Andersen, McNamara 2. PB—(Doyle by Collins), (Ratto by Bernard). WP—Nava. DP—McNamara to Galvin to McIntire. PB—Matulich. Umpires—Poole and Weyl. Time of game—2:51. Attendance—200 estimated.

Intramural

Athletic Expansion Vital Next Semester

By Art Schwartz

Acceleration of collegiate intramural athletics next semester on a possible two shift basis was asserted yesterday by Tom Wilson, intramural director, who foresaw an expanded physical education department to cope with the expected enrollment of 5,000 students.

The problem is simply: "Just what to do with intramural sports?"

Intramurals, such as they are, will be enhanced greatly during the fall semester, Wilson disclosed. Added to the current program will be football, a sport which failed miserably this semester in the number of student participants.

"Participation in intramurals gives the student who does not have time to compete in intercollegiate athletics a chance for physical competition that is so vital to the welfare of the individual," Wilson said.

Praise was heaped upon the shoulders of managers Carter Corey and Al Garrett, who, according to Wilson, contributed much to the success of the intramural department.

MEMBERS of the Northern California Junior College championship baseball team are: Back row (left to right): George Homsey, George Koche, Rogert Ranuio, Don Keck, Ralph McIntire, Chester Andersen, Ed Allemend, Bill Collins, and Paul Cane. Front row (left to right): Dick Sabatini, Tom Galvin, Herb Merkel, Don Grent, Sherrill Houghton, Charley Brabbit, Jimmy McNamara, and Head Coach Bill Fischer. Missing from photo are Lou Follini and Frank Ratto. Interesting to note was the fact that six of the locals were selected on the All Star team for 1946, and six of the players were selected on The Guardsmen All-Northern California Junior College Team. —Photo by Lum

FINAL BATTING AVERAGES

Player—	G	AB	R	H	RBI	Avg.
McNamara	10	47	15	13	8	.277
Andersen	9	43	12	16	10	.372
Ratto	8	35	6	13	10	.371
Galvin	11	61	11	21	11	.344
McIntire	10	53	17	18	9	.340
Sabatini	9	44	11	14	4	.318

1946 Grid Menu

Sept. 27—Long Beach City College at Kezar Stadium.
Oct. 4—Salinas Junior College here.
Oct. 11 — Sacramento Junior College there.
Oct. 18 — Modesto Junior College there.
Oct. 24—San Mateo Junior College here.
Nov. 2—Los Angeles City College at Los Angeles.
Nov. 8—Modesto Junior College here.
Nov. 22—Sacramento Junior College here.
Nov. 29—San Mateo Junior College there.

WAA softball team and current officers—In upper photo (back row: Virginie Wickmen, Lois Webbar. Third row: Wanda McKenzie, Frances Scilipoti. Second row: Llulu Mae Gibson, Roberta Reami, Marie Shumate, Ann Ahokas. Front row: Irene Mouzakis, Leone DeBique, and Nadine Lacey.
In photo to right—Current officers of the WAA in the personages of (left to right) Leone DeBique, Ann Ahokas, Irene Mourekis, and "der chief" of the group.

Placement Service To Continue This Summer

To meet the demand for job requirements the college placement office will be open during the summer session from June 27 to August 31, Room 169, according to Joseph A. Amori, placement director.

All students desiring summer work should file an application in the placement office at once, he said.

Track

Troy, Modesto Take California Relays

MODESTO STADIUM, MODESTO, June 8.—Modesto Junior College gained sweet revenge here tonight by winning the junior college division track title in the fifth annual California Relays with 46 points, defeating Sacramento which scored 32, and San Francisco with 31 points.

USC won the open college division with 62 1-5 points, the Olympic Club placing second with 56 1-5 points. More than 3,500 fans watched the Relays as six relays records were broken or tied.

SUMMARY

100 Yard Dash—Won by Styvers (Sal); 2, Bryant (SF); 3, Hall (Sac). Time—:10.1.
120 Yard High Hurdles—Won by Gabriel (G); 2, Pedarson (SF); 3, Smith (Sal). Time—:15.1.
Mile Relays—Won by SF (Alberto, MacMillan, Kellogg, Caredio); 2, Sacramento; 3, Salinas. Time—3:24.4.
Distance Medley Relay—Won by Visalia (Donnell-Seymour, Vierra, Williamson); 2, Sacramento; 3, Modesto. Time—11:08 (new record); old mark, 11:11.4.
880 Yard Relay—Won by Santa Monica (Case, Gill-, Jordan, Durkett); 2, San Francisco; 3, Salinas. Time—1:26.3.
Shot Put—Won by Schoop (Sac); 2, Coker (M); 3, Anderson (SF); 4, Pratt (V). Distance—46 feet, 11¼ inches. New record; old mark—46 ft. 9 in.
Pole Vault—Tie between Johnson (M) and Campbell (G); 3, Varoll (Sac). Height—12 feet, 10 inches.
High Jump—Tie between Pedarson (SF) and Barnes (SF); 3, Barton (Sac.) Height—6 feet, 1½ inches.
Javelin—Won by J. Moran (M); 2, Coker (M); 3 N. Moran (M); 4, Peterson (M). Distance—182 feet, 4¼ inches. New record; old record—177 feet, 5¼ inches.
Broad Jump—Won by Gill (SM); 2, Durkett (SM); 3, Smith (Sal); 4, Diida (SF). Distance—23 feet, 6½ inches.
Discus—Won by Coker (M); 2, Ghilotti (M); 3 Schoop (Sac); 4, Anderson (Sac). Distance—132 feet, 6 inches.

Final point score—Modesto 46, Sacramento 32, San Francisco 31, Santa Monica 19, Salinas 17, Visalia 17, and Glendale 9.

Faculty Edges WAA 13-12 In Thriller

A four run rally in the seventh panel all but embarrassed the Faculty softball team, which hung a 13 to 12 win sign over the Women's Athletic Association recently on windswept Balboa Park.

Oscar Anderson, money bags right hander, went the route for the winners, outlasting Franny Scilipoti and Sue Miles.

	R.	H.	E.
Faculty	501	203	20—13	10	8
WAA	010	160	04—12	7	9

Batteries: Oscar Anderson and Tom Wilson; Franny Scilipoti, Sue Miles (4), and Ann Ahokas.

FINAL NCJC STANDINGS

	Won	Lost	Pct.	GB
San Francisco	12	4	.750	...
San Mateo	9	7	.563	3
Modesto	7	9	.438	5
Marin	6	8	.429	5
Sacramento	4	10	.286	7

League Approves Cage Round Robin Schedule

Approval of a round robin slate of basketball games for the 1946-47 season was officially announced by Northern California Junior College Conference Commissioner J. Paul Mohr, who voiced the sentiment of all NCJC representatives.

Vallejo Junior College, formerly placed on probationary status, will enter conference competition during the fall semester in the "B" loop, it was disclosed by Mohr.

Sabatini Hero With Grand Slam Homer; Nightcap Forfeited

By Bob Catudio

Sparked by Outfielder Dick Sabatini's grand slam circuit clout, the Rams virtually annihilated San Mateo, 14 to 5, at Harrison Field to nab its first Northern California Junior College Conference baseball pennant in San Francisco's history.

Failure of the Mateans to play the second game of the scheduled twin bill gave the Rams a 9 to 0 win.

Bulldog starting pitcher Ed Bernard was shelled hard in the third heat, giving way to Bob Nava, who in turn was succeeded by southie Jack Connell, who pitched superbly, allowing two hits and whiffing ten men in six innings of relief.

Bill Collins, in registering his sixth win, gave up 11 base hits and was in trouble all along the route.

In the third canto, Chet "Swifty" Andersen dropped a double into short left, Jim McNamara skidded a single into short center, and Collins drew a pass. Sabatini then drove one of Bernard's pitches deep into left field over Outfielder Aaron West's head to clean the bases.

The locals scored three times in the second, four in the third, and pushed across six markers in the fourth inning.

Six San Franciscans On All Star Rostrum

Six San Franciscans and Marin's Art Shallock dominated the Guardsman All-Northern California Junior College Conference Baseball Team for 1946, a squad possessed of good hitting and superlative pitching.

Chet Anderson, Jimmy McNamara, Tom Galvin, Ralph McIntire, George Homsey, and Charley Brabbit of the Rams were named to the first team. Most difficult positions to choose were first base and shortstop.

It was virtually a toss-up between McNamara and Bernie Sousa of Modesto paralleling the choice between McIntire and Modesto's Johnny Gainza.

Southpaw Shallock, who ended the season with a 98 strikeout total, is the league's most valuable player, according to most of the loop maestros.

Guardsman All-NCJC Baseball Team

FIRST TEAM

Player	Team	Position
GINO NOMELLINI	San Mateo	Right Field
HARVEY WARD	Sacramento	Center Field
CHESTER ANDERSEN	San Francisco	Left Field
ROBERT LEE	Modesto	Third Base
JAMES McNAMARA	San Francisco	Shortstop
THOMAS GALVIN	San Francisco	Second Base
RALPH McINTIRE	San Francisco	First Base
GEORGE HOMSEY	San Francisco	Catcher
EDWARD BERNARD	San Mateo	Pitcher
ARTHUR SHALLOCK	Marin	Pitcher
CHARLES BRABBIT	San Francisco	Pitcher

SECOND TEAM

FRANK RATTO	San Francisco	Right Field
ALBERT STOVALL	Modesto	Center Field
RICHARD SABATINI	San Francisco	Left Field
WILLIAM ARCE	San Mateo	Third Base
BERNARD SOUSA	Modesto	Shortstop
FRANK RICHARDS	San Mateo	Second Base
JOHN GAINZA	Modesto	First Base
ANDREW SLAYMAKER	Modesto	Catcher
WILLIAM COLLINS	San Francisco	Pitcher
PAUL TAMO	Modesto	Pitcher
JOHN CONNELL	San Mateo	Pitcher

HONORABLE MENTION

Infielders—Jerry Pepelis, Andrew Hydute, (Modesto); Donald Keck, Louis Follini, (San Francisco); Oswald Musso, John Stanich, (Sacramento); Mario Bino, William Roberts, (Marin); and Frad Jones, Palmer Pallgren, (San Mateo); Infielders—Roger Renuio, (San Francisco); Robert Linck, David Lane, Glen Ferry Stanley Priebe, (Sacramento); Owen Younger, James Younger, Ralph Tierney, (Marin); John Dinublo, (Modesto); and James Doyle, (San Mateo. Catchers—Joseph Matulich, John Sibold, (San Mateo); Paul Cane, (San Francisco); John Phillips, (Marin); and Harold Ginsburg, (Modesto). Pitchers—Donald Chelgrin, Lawrence Mann, (Modesto); William Nelson, Max Wilson, (Sacramento); and George Koche, (San Francisco).

Summer, Fall Registration Procedure

Non-Resident Permits Due Before June Enrollment; Returnees Signup Sept. 16

Because the fiscal year starts July 1, new permits for out-of-county students who wish to attend the college summer session must be filed before Thursday, June 27, registration day for the session, Mary Jane Learnard, assistant registrar, announced last week.

Registration for old students who will attend the summer session will be on Thursday, June 27, from 8:30 to 11:30, for students whose surnames begin with the letters L-Z, and from 12:30 to 3:30 for those whose names begin with the letters A-K.

New students attending the summer session will take entrance examinations Thursday, June 27, from 8:15 to 12 for students with names beginning with L-Z, and from 1:15 to 5 for those whose names begin with the letters A-K.

Fall semester registration for former students will take place according to the following schedule: Monday, September 16, ABC—8:30; DEF—10 a.m.; GHIJK—12:30, and LM—2 p.m. Tuesday, September 17, NOPQR S—8:30 a.m., and TUVWXYZ—10 a.m.

The fall semester will be started Thursday, September 12 and 13, with entrance exams for new students, who will be called according to numbers issued to them as their completed transcripts are received.

Miss Learnard added that students may get their grades for the semester ending June 21, by either leaving a stamped self-addressed envelope in the registrar's office or by picking them up at the college any time after July 1.

Royalty For A Day

Alton, Corey Reign At Soph Formal

Reigning "royalty" at the Sophomore formal last Friday night were Queen Betty Ann Alton and King Carter Cory.

Miss Alton formerly attended Oakland High School and is now a member of Phi Beta Rho. An alumnus of Polytechnic High School, Cory is a member of Beta Phi Beta.

Carter Corey Betty Ann Alton

Forum Staff Windup

Marilynn Zito Adds Teacher Training To Magazine's Editorial Staff Duties

By George Lajeunesse

One of the busiest schedules of any college student can be found in the daily activities of Marilynn Zito, assistant editor on the staff of Forum Magazine.

Marilynn Zito

Winding up two years as an English major, Miss Zito will graduate this month and enter the University of California in the fall. In addition to a heavy program here, she has found time to give full attention to her fondness for creative dancing, being a member of an informal group of students interested in the modern dance.

Commuting between the hilltop college and Excelsior School, part of which was recently made a college annex, Miss Zito is currently engaged in experimental teaching at the neighboring grammer school.

Each afternoon between 2 and 6 o'clock she attends classes at Excelsior in new methods of instruction for children 4 to 11 years old. Her work at California will follow along these lines also.

Her hobbies are well taken care of by the dance group she is a member of at the college, which, at the present time, is looking for students interested in creative dancing as opposed to the ballet.

A graduate of Balboa High School in 1944, Miss Zito has resided in San Francisco for the past ten years. She is originally from New York City.

Publication Over Top In First Sales Hours

Completion of an "over the-top" sales campaign for this semester's Forum Magazine was announced last night by Gwen Slovenko, business manager for the annual literary publication of the college.

A limited number of copies of the publication have been received from the printer for distribution to students who haven't purchased this term's issue, Miss Slovenko said. Those desiring a copy should contact her while they last.

The price remains at 25 cents for the 32 page magazine, and the supply is not expected to last more than a few days.

In its tenth year of presenting college literary and art efforts, Forum reached a total of 1,000 copies sold during the short time it was on sale.

Tri-E's Sweetheart Is Rosemary Gayle

Selected by members of Tri Epsilon as their "Sweetheart" for the fall semester, Rosemary Gayle, student at this college and a member of the Phi Beta Rho, will be guest of honor at the Tri E dinner dance to be held at the Claremont Hotel, Friday, June 21, according to Kent Bowker, Tri E president.

Dual purpose of the dance is to welcome the new members into the fraternity and to award the sweetheart pin to Miss Gayle.

Book Exchange To Open

The Book Exchange will be open from 11:30 to 12:30 on June 17, 18, 19, and 20. All students wanting to sell or buy books should come to the Book Exchange first. It is run by the Women's Service Society on a non-profit basis.

Final Examination Schedule

SPRING SEMESTER, 1946

Classes		Day	Hour
8:15	MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 13	8:15-11:15
8:15	TTh	Wednesday, June 19	8:30-11:00
9:10	MWF and Daily	Tuesday, June 18	9:00-12:00
9:10	TTh	Monday, June 17	8:30-11:00
10:10	MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 20	9:00-12:00
10:10	TTh	Wednesday, June 19	11:30- 2:00
11:10	MWF and Daily	Friday, June 14	8:15-11:15
11:10	TTh	Friday, June 14	11:30- 2:00
12:10	MWF and Daily	Tuesday, June 18	1:00- 4:00
12:10	TTh	Monday, June 17	11:30- 2:00
1:10	MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 20	1:00- 4:00
1:10	TTh	Wednesday, June 19	2:15- 4:45
2:10	MWF and Daily	Thursday, June 13	2:15- 5:15
2:10	TTh	Monday, June 17	2:15- 4:45
3:10	MWF and Daily	Friday, June 14	2:15- 5:15
3:10	TTh	Friday, June 21	1:00- 3:30

All students enrolled in English A will take their final examinations at an hour and place as directed by their class instructors on Saturday, June 15. The examination is expected to last two and one-half hours.

XGI

Mel Toff, Backman Head Society In Fall

Preceding the college elections by one week, the XGI Society elected and installed new officers at the last meeting in the War Memorial Auditorium. Officers elected were Mel Toff, president; George Backman, vice-president; Robert Gilfoyle, secretary; Maurice Witte, treasurer; and Richard Mann, Club Advisory Board representative.

Elected to the XGI Executive Council were Isadore Belss, Trev Burrow, Howard Marg, Irving Marks, Bob Powers, Moshia Smith and Bob Stutz.

Leidig Explains Benefits

Immediately following the election, Don Leidig of the California Veterans' Welfare Board spoke to members present on the benefits offered by this state to veterans whose home was in California when they entered the service.

Because the Wave Dance was such a success, Lieutenant (jg) Hoffheimer, WAVE Public Relation Officer, has invited a limited number of the members of the XGI Society to a combined dance-boat ride, to be held on or about June 29.

Boat Use Granted

Lieutenant Hoffheimer reported that the WAVES had been granted the use of a large ferry for the affair and declared that the same band which played for the last dance will be present.

The ferry will leave San Francisco about noon and return before 8 p.m. Further details regarding the dance will be found in the XGI Office, Room 259.

200 Vets Earn High School Diplomas Here

Approximately 200 veteran students who have completed requirements for high school graduation here will be issued diplomas at the close of this semester, Alice Castro, veterans' counselor, announced last week.

Since the diplomas are being issued by the last high school the student attended or by the San Francisco Unified School District, no formal graduation ceremony is planned, Mrs. Castro said. Diplomas are expected to be ready for the students by Thursday, June 20, and the time and place of distribution will be announced later.

Budgets In Mothballs After 1:30 Friday

All organizations operating under budgets approved by the Student Council were warned last week that any outstanding bills to be paid from Associated Student budgets must be submitted to the student bank before 1:30 p.m. this Friday.

All balances remaining in separate organization budgets will revert to the general fund on this date, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, explained.

Students were also warned to purchase car tickets immediately, as they will not be sold between Friday, June 14, and the beginning of the summer session.

Lockers must be vacated on this date also to prepare for the new incoming session students.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jeanne Williams

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Officers for the fall semester are Don Burger, president; Carl Markum, vice-president; Bob Berrell, secretary; Dick Mills, treasurer; Morgan McMann, historian; and Al Butler, custodian. A meeting with the Tri Delts at U. C. is being planned.

• Kappa Phi: A meeting will be held this Friday night. Tickets are now on sale for the Kappa Phi formal to be held at the Green Hills Country Club Saturday, June 22.

• Phi Beta Rho: Officers for the fall are Shirley Ross, president; Rosemary Gayle, vice-president; Rita Cox, recording secretary; Jean Stewart, corresponding secretary; Wilma Kraze, treasurer, and Jackie Wallace, historian. Pat Davis announced her engagement to Bob Martin of Santa Rosa Junior College.

• Alpha Lambda Chi: Tickets are now on sale for $1.25 per person for the organization's picnic Friday from 7:30 on.

• Alpha Theta Epsilon: New officers for next semester are Helen Tanner, president; Jean Tanner, vice-president; Iris Williams, secretary, and Joy Hass, treasurer.

• Newman Club: Elected officers for the Fall semester are as follows: President, Gloria M. Pochini; vice-president, Ann Cannizzaro; secretary, Frances Fischer; treasurer, Leo P. Fratessa.

• Theta Tau: New officer for the fall semester are Mabel Edwards, president; Bessie Babin, vice-president; Maggie Band, recording secretary; Bev Huff, corresponding secretary; Jay Pholow, treasurer.

• Symphony Forum: The closing concert of the semester is set for this Friday night, June 14, at 8 o'clock, at 100 Magellan Avenue, which branches off Plaza Drive, which, in turn, is one block north of the Forest Hill Station.

Program includes the Prelude, Chorale and Fugue of Cesar Franck, and the Jeux d'eau of Maurice Ravel which will be played by Beulah Mitchell Forbes, young pianist of this city; Duke Euphrat, pianist, will play the Sonata "Appassionata" of Beethoven; James Orbison will present three songs by Richard Cumming which were postponed from the last concert; and Elizabeth Stuert, soprano, will present a group of songs.

• Omicron Phi Pi: A donation of $15 for the current food drive was decided upon by members at their last meeting. The money will be deposited with the proper authorities at the college.

The society also discussed problems of the food drive and the situation of the starving countries. Better system of distribution was argued as to the question of whether or not the United States was living up to its commitments to these liberated nations in Europe and Asia.

Speech Students Work For City Food Drive

Addressing municipal organizations during the past two weeks, campus speech students have forwarded college participation in the city Emergency Food Drive, Claude Shull, speech instructor, announced last week.

Before such groups as the Rotary Club, various Parent-Teacher Associations, and civic improvement clubs, the speakers urged support for the drive.

Among those who spoke were Loys Daskarolis, Harold Kallerup, Robb Kinibel, Beverly Lucas, Barbara McKendrick, Gloria Pochini, Joe Sifers, Lloyd Smith, Nathele Winberg, Joe Sweet, Raymond L. Tiffany, Daniel Kass, Marilynn Zito, Jack E. Stagg, and Melvin A. Chicozola.

Library To Keep Same Hours During Finals

Business will be conducted as usual in the library during final examinations, Eleanor Blinn, library assistant, announced last week.

All outstanding books must be returned on or before Wednesday, June 19, Miss Blinn reported, and students planning to attend the summer session must turn in books and withdraw them again after the beginning of the summer session.

Cafe Will Operate "As Usual" Through June 21

No change in schedule is planned for operation of the cafeteria during the final examination week this year, Hilda Watson, Hotel Division chairman, announced last week. The cafeteria will close only between the end of this semester and the beginning of the summer session, she said.

Mrs. Watson also announced the election of officers of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Society at the society's semi-annual dinner at the Hotel Whitcomb, Tuesday evening, June 4.

Officers elected were Donn Rogers, president; William Beers, vice-president; Pauline Pain, secretary; Edward Brogan, treasurer, and John Conrad, historian.

Quonset Applicants Must File PHA Blanks

To be assured of notification as each quonset hut is completed all veterans must fill out the questionnaire obtainable in the office of the Dean of Men, before the termination of the semester, Dean Edward E. Sandys emphasized yesterday.

These white slips which must be filled out in duplicate are to furnish the necessary information for the San Francisco Public Housing Authority.

Cafeteria Money Changing Offers Training In The "You Too Can Play By Ear" School

By Jim Riggs

"You too can learn to play by ear," according to money changers in the college cafeteria, who play their complicated machine mostly by sound.

Each amount of change has its own distinctive tinkle as it rolls down the chute to the customer's hand, they say.

Listening practice soon develops the cashier's ear for change to a point of high accuracy, and overcharges and the like, through mistaken change returning, become a rarity. After a while, cashiers carry on their aural money changing as confidently as a housewife selects a watermelon by the sound of its thump.

A cashier was interviewed in snatches during a busy hour, and only once was a customer shortchanged. Lack of time did not permit a discussion of what might happen when the cashier's hearing is off a few cents because of a head cold. As far as is known, none of the cashiers now employed is tone deaf.

SCHOOL YEAR

1946 — 1947

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College.

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII | SAN FRANCISCO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1946 | FRESHMAN EDITION

A City College . . . A Message From President A. J. Cloud

—Photo by Devlin

Dr. Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, has guided it through its 11 years of existence. He welcomed the first group of 1500 at an assembly at the War Memorial Opera House, August 26, 1935, a group that called San Francisco its campus. In August, 1940, Dr. Cloud greeted 3000 students, the total group which first called Balboa Park its campus and actually studied there. Today, he welcomes some 3000 new students, who bring the enrollment to its peak of between five and six thousand.

Greetings and best wishes to students and faculty alike!

The new semester opens with a registration unprecedented.

During the past year San Francisco Junior College has welcomed into its student-body a large enrollment of mature men and women returned from the armed services and the defense industries. Their record of achievement during the collegiate year, and during the recent summer session, has been most gratifying. They have proved themselves to be earnest, serious of purpose, willing and eager to work with intensive effort toward the fulfillment of their purposes in life within the shortest possible time.

In part, the great body of beginners is immediately drawn from the group of high school graduates; in part, from the classification of "veterans." I am confident that all elements will fit readily into a single, undivided student-body, and that they will prove as equally desirous of taking full advantage of the opportunities afforded by the college as their predecessors have done. Likewise, I am certain that those students returning with advanced standing will continue to maintain a high standard of achievement.

This college is a community institution supported by public taxation. In harmony with the philosophy underlying its creation, the college has made far-reaching preparations toward adopting its program to meet the newer needs of its student population. The teaching staff has been largely expanded as a means of avoiding oversized classes. New room space, housing accommodations, and many other additional facilities have been secured. Hours have been extended on a schedule running from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The faculty will inspire trust. Students will find their instructors not only competent, but approachable and friendly, and deeply interested in their problems. All in all, the college will be a good educational home for all who enter its portals.

Associated Students

Haug Heads 5000 Strong Organization; Rally, Men's Athletic Commissioners, Secretary Still To Be Appointed

Heading an Associated Student organization expected to number more than 5000, Dean Haug, sophomore veteran, and president, aims at solid establishment of government of, for, and by the students.

Nancy Cunningham, college sophomore and last semester Associated Women Student president, won the office of vice-president at student elections held last June.

The position of secretary is appointive, and has not yet been filled. The president appoints subject to approval by the Student Council.

Dean Haug

The Student Council is composed of 14 members, half elected by and representing the Sophomore class, and half the Freshman class. The council meets at least once a week and has full jurisdiction, in the form of votes, over Associated Student activities.

Working in conjunction with the council, the Student Cabinet is an advisory and representative group composed of elected or appointed officers who meet with the council but have no voting power.

The cabinet is composed of the following officers:

Haug, president of the Associated Students, elected.

Miss Cunningham, vice-president of the Associated Students, elected.

A secretary to be appointed.

Bill Holmes, president of the Associated Men Students, elected. All men students who are members of the Associated Students are automatically members of the AMS organization.

Nancy Stookey, president of the Associated Women Students, elected. All women students who are members of the Associated Students are automatically members of the AWS organization.

Millie Laube, president of the Sophomore class, elected.

Dick Mills, president of the Freshman class, elected.

A rally commissioner to be appointed.

Bob Catudio, Editor of The Guardsman, thus Publications Board Chairman, elected by Guardsman editorial staff.

A men's athletic commissioner to be appointed.

Frances Scillpoli, president of and elected by the Women's Athletic Association.

Clubs

28 Organizations Provide Play, Study

"All work and no play" is not the rule here at the college. Many clubs and organizations have been formed to furnish social activity for those who enjoy it. Students interested in joining one of the clubs open to all, should simply attend the first meeting when it is announced.

Among organizations tied into the curriculum are the following: Alpha Delta Epsilon, the college art club faculty sponsored by Richard Allman; Alpha Theta Epsilon, for home economics majors, whose sponsors are Claire Cuneo and Frances Mount; the Engineering Society, open to mathematics, engineering, physics or chemistry majors, William Mayo, adviser; Hotel and Restaurant Management Society, sponsored by Hilda Watson, for those in that division; Kappa Alpha Sigma, commercial art majors only, William Eckert, sponsor; Omicron Phi Pi, for honor students ma- open to all interested in geology. Michael Zarchin;

Phi Epsilon Rho, open to all women majoring in Physical Education, advised by Laurine Bergin; and Pi Mu Gamma, whose members are premedical or allied science majors, sponsored by Glenn Noble.

Among the many organizations are clubs open to all interested in a particular field but not majoring in it. Among these is Forum, open to all interested in discussion of topics pertaining to art and society, and literature. Its sponsors are Dorothy Mercer and John Gerstung.

For those who are musically-inclined or who simply enjoy music, there is the Music Club, sponsored by Flossita Badger and Madison Devlin.

The Pick and Hammer Society is open to all interested in geology. George L. Green is its adviser.

The college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, sponsored by Edwin A. Cranston, is open to those maintaining a B average in college studies or entering freshmen bearing gold seals on their transcripts.

Men students of the sports world should know of the Block SF, whose members are block-letter wearers, and the Golden Cleats Club, for football players. Both organizations are sponsored by Lee Eisan.

Miscellaneous clubs are The Bible Study Club, Marcus Skarstedt, sponsor; Chinese Students Club, Lawrence B. Wong, adviser; the Newman Club, advised by Thomas O'Neil; and The

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 5)

Activities

College Has Music, News, Drama, Radio

As productive activities in relation to the curriculum, the college offers music, drama, radio, journalism, and debating.

Under the heading of music are A Cappella Choir, numbered Music 12a; Men's Chorus, listed as Music 13a, under the direction of Flossita Badger, and Women's Chorus, Music 11a, under the direction of Gertrude Norgard.

Band "Returns" To Campus

Aimed primarily at playing for football games this semester, the band, newly returned to the curriculum, is under the direction of Madison Devlin. Appearance at the games depends on band turnout, Devlin said, and the college provides the large instruments. Band rehearsals are scheduled Wednesday and Friday at 2 o'clock, and the course is numbered Music 16a.

Highlight of the music department's fall program is the traditional off-campus Christmas festival.

Drama, numbered Speech 42a, under the leadership of Ruth Somers, will produce as many plays as time permits for student audiences. Last semester production was of Robert Audrey's Thunder Rock.

Previous experience is not usually required, and enrollment in the class is made through application to Mrs. Somers, during hours posted on her office door, Room 250.

Element of the journalism curriculum is The Guardsman, college newspaper published twice weekly. Faculty adviser is Joan Nourse.

Newswriting A Requisite

Membership on the reportorial staff is conditional upon completion of a preliminary course in news writing or evidence of experience in reporting. Courses are numbered English 14, 15, and 16abc.

Radio production, and its allied courses, are listed as Speech 11, 13, and 14 and conducted by Marie Weller. Programs, both over the college's public address system and on the major networks are a feature.

Debating, reinstated last spring, is again expected to be a part of the speech curriculum and a college activity.

The Guardsman

This Edition Is The Freshman Special

This edition of The Guardsman is a special freshman number, planned for distribution between tests and registration.

The first regular issue of The Guardman will appear Friday, September 27. Publication days this semester are now scheduled for Tuesdays and Fridays each week. All members of the Associated Students are entitled to copies.

Number System Will Streamline Enrollment

Because 3000 new students are expected to register here beginning Wednesday, September 18, administrative officials will introduce a number system to streamline the process.

Each accepted applicant has received a number and will register in set order at a definite time. Freshman registration ends Friday, September 20.

Mary Jane Learnard, college registrar, indicated that a student unable to register in accordance with his number will be allowed to register Friday afternoon, September 20, or the following week.

The Budget

Funds Support Wide, Varied Program

Most of the college activities are wholly supported by student funds and are free to members of the Associated Students.

Appropriations are made through the college budget to provide activities in which students may participate or enjoy after paying $4 to become members of the Associated Students.

Publications, the Guardsman, and The Student Handbook are free of charge to association members. Forum Magazine is semi-supported.

The Associated Men and Women Students, the Social and Rally committee events such as dances, rallies and guest entertainment are provided for in the budget. Dances other than those sponsored by AMS and AWS are also paid for by the association.

College sports, including awards and equipment for the Women's Athletic Association and intramural sports, traveling and medical expenses for all team members, are paid for with association funds.

(Continued on page 4, column 4)

The Lament Of Jasper Clotch

Had He Known College Regulations, He Too Would Be Here

Famous, but unlamented after his departure from the college portals, Jasper Clotch is a character of college history. His constant moan, following his clashes with college regulations, was, "Why didn't somebody tell me these things?"

As his final contribution to the welfare of college students, he left a series of escapades behind him which are a part of college lore.

Jasper first acclaimed fame when he stole a rival college's pennant after a game, and this fame apparently went to his head. From that bit of "glory" he went all out for escapading and landing wrong side up in print.

"Remember this," Jasper, "homecoming" for a day, warned a new student. "Remember that you don't park on the drive in front of the college.

"Above all, don't grab a parking stall that is marked reserved. You'll be hailed from class to move your car, and the space 'owner' will easily identify you by your license number."

From the hill overlooking Quonset Village, Jasper paused to ponder over what he could remember of the right side of college living.

A new student timidly stopped to ask him if there were rules against smoking outside the building, and, flattered, Jasper pulled himself together and tried to remember the rules.

"I have them somewhere," he said. "I'll find them in a minute." From his pocket he brought forth his press clippings, and thumbed through to the story of his next-to the last college escapade.

While in college, Jasper failed to heed the fact that smoking suddenly became allowed in the cafeteria, the student lounge, The Associated Student office, The Guardsman office, and outside the building, but definitely not in the corridors or entrances.

So Jasper continued hovering in the corridor corners with a lighted cigarette embarrassing his trouser pocket between drags until he was pounced upon by the Judiciary Committee and learned the art of the bouncer the wrong way.

Having assured the new student that he could smoke without question outside the building, Jasper let the wind blow sparks in his eye before setting out again for Ocean Avenue and his properly parked car.

Reminiscing, he recalled with pride the one regulation he had kept to the letter. He had never, not once, not even thought of lending his Associated Student card. Even if he hadn't lost it the day after registration, he knew that lending his card was one thing he would not have done.

In the glow of this tribute to his pride and his sense of honor, Jasper allowed only a little gloom to spread. Had he but known the the rule now drummed into his mind.

"Students who have incurred more absences than the number of units in a course," his mind recited to the rhythm of his stride, "will be required to show reason why they should not be disqualified from the course."

Had I but known, the phrase ran through Jasper's mind, had I but known, that three cuts in a three unit course would put me out . . . . Had I but known, I might still be a student here.

Going Our Way?

A Typical Freshman Enters College

Steps In The Venture Into A New World

IN JUST a matter of days now, you'll be registered formally as a student of San Francisco Junior College. It's a pretty big step, this one of growing from high school to college standing, and those of us who have already taken the step hope that you will become as easily at home here as we have.

Right now you have completed what we like to call a "battery of tests." This must seem a little like added injury, since not so long ago you were taking your final tests in high school, where you were familiar with the type of tests, the people giving them, and most likely feeling slightly nostalgic about leaving what you have known well for a venture into something new and strange.

But these tests that you have now completed have a different purpose. They are not to determine whether you will be the recipient of a certain grade. They are not to determine whether you will be allowed to register with us at the college. They are to help you in the progress of your work with us, and to help your faculty adviser in assisting you to insure your own success here.

First of all you were tested in English grammar. College courses require a great deal of writing, and unless you are sufficiently prepared in grammar, vocabulary, and composition, you will suffer. If this test shows that you are not sufficiently prepared, you will be provided further instruction here to the end that you need never fail a course because of difficulties with the English language.

You also have had an arithmetic test with the same purpose as the English test. If your chosen course includes mathematics or science, the college will be sure that you will not attempt them without giving you first the necessary preparation.

Then that same day of tests you gave your all in what we call a scholastic aptitude test. You see, some of you may have your hearts set right now on becoming newspaper editors. (You might even settle for becoming Editor of The Guardsman—this, your college newspaper.)

The college wouldn't want you to begin in this field if your own ability would make it impossible for you to succeed. For if you started and found you would much prefer to spend hours in scientific research, think of the time you might waste pursuing the elusive news story facts.

Or on the other hand, you might think you want to become a physician, yet you are unaware that much of the preparation for the medical profession demands science courses. Possibly you've just thought of how nice it would be to be a physician. You haven't considered that you just don't have a scientific mind. (Better be an editor in this case. Invariably reporters are baffled by science.)

So this test of your own ability will act as a guide so that you will not enter a field of study that might prove too difficult for you or of no interest to you. And it will aid in discovering, perhaps, talents that you do not know you possess, and interests that should be developed.

A Picture—You As An Individual . . .

Thus, even before you have entered a formal classroom as a college student, your adviser has formed a picture of you as an individual, you as one of us, and from that picture, no matter how it changes as you continue your college career (and it will change) your adviser is better able to give you assistance as you need it.

Right now you might be interested in knowing that there are several other tests available here which may aid in your selection of your life work. You can take them, provided you make application at the testing office and are willing to wait until there may be at least a slight lull in the overwhelming amount of work carried on there.

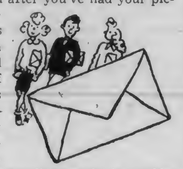
If you are interested in these tests, the results, added to your "picture," can be interpreted by your adviser. Throughout a semester, faculty advisers keep regular office hours for meeting students

You'll find without a doubt that your adviser will be happy to meet with you in consultation. It does not need to be concerned with a problem as such. It doesn't even have to be about your future in relation to tests. Instructors too have regular office hours, so that a good maxim to follow is that he who fails to consult his adviser and instructors when in doubt is missing one of the chief advantages offered here.

The Guardsman

Editor's Note: Cartoons on this special Freshman section of The Guardsman were drawn by Eleanor Schaefer, student in the advertising art department.

So Now You Will Register . . .



Three days, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, have been set aside for you to register. Monday, and Tuesday morning, we have been here before you to complete our registration, and some of us will be on hand to answer your questions and help if we can.

Registration is not easy the first time. There will be moments despite all the information you have been given previously when you will be thoroughly bewildered. Then's the time to count ten, remember that all the faculty advisers, the assisting students want to help. Perhaps if you have a word picture of what you will do next week the process will be easier.

In the first place, college classes meet sometimes three days a week, sometimes two days a week, sometimes every day in the week. Thus you may very likely have a program that will allow you two or even three hours in the day with no classes. Ah, what a time to do your studying, so that you can keep your evening date, yet be on the beam in your college classes. And the library is a pleasant and excellently equipped place for study. (Third floor south. You'll be there when you register—once you have a program, a college program.)

The Envelope Contains . . .

In the registration line—after we've asked you a great many questions, and after you've had your picture taken — you will be given an envelope. This envelope will contain a copy of your high school record and the results of your entrance tests. As you proceed through college, it will contain other information, until each envelope is practically a personality in itself, your personality caught in profile. (A word of advice. Don't ask your adviser to draw that profile for you the day you register. There are times set aside for this purpose, but that time is not during registration. You'll understand when you start to register, believe us!)

In various classrooms you will be assembled and given instructions in how to make out a Program Practice Sheet, a Trial Study List, and you will be told emphatically NOT to fill out the Official Study List the day you register. You will receive a Registration Book containing these pages and others, five pages in all. You will be told how and when to fill out and file the Registration Book and how to make any change in your program before and after you have filed your book. So now let's do it and get your Trial Study List made out, for that's your goal of your day of registration.

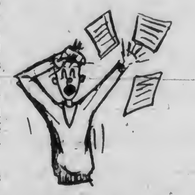
A Program Is Chosen . . .

Faculty advisers are assigned to guide students according to their major field. If you are in doubt as to your choice of a major field of study, there are advisers of general college courses who will start you on your way until you know "what you want to be." If you are not in doubt as to your major field, your faculty adviser will study that profile of you that the tests give him, add to the profile your grades in high school, and list for you the subjects that will best meet your aims for the future. Then you will make out your Program Practice Sheet. (You'll find a sample on page 3.

Let's say for purposes of illustration that your adviser finds you eligible for a general college course that will prepare you for transfer to a four year college or university at the end of two years, or be as a basis for special training to be completed here with us.

You are going to enroll in English, science, a foreign language, hygiene, and physical education to the tune of 15 units, a normal and not overloaded semester program. A new freshman student enrolls in hygiene, separate sections for men and women, and all students enroll in physical education each semester.

Your adviser shows you how to use your schedule of classes, you list all the days and hours the subjects you want are offered, and then, through what may look to you like a trick of Houdini, THEN, you have a program. It's easy. For instance, that English course you want is offered at 9, 10, 11, 12 (oh, no, there's no set hour for lunch here), and 1 o'clock, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.



That science course you want is a combination of lecture hours and laboratory sections. The science lectures come at one hour only, at 9 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Thus that hour is settled and you will no longer consider putting your English in the 9 o'clock hour.

The language you want comes every day in the week, at 9, 10, 11, 12, and 1 o'clock. The 9 o'clock hour is taken with science, and you'd like to eat lunch at 12, so hold out for 10 or 11 for language. If you choose 11, then English will be at 10.

Hygiene (the men's sections are numbered 21, and the women's sections 22, and some time we'll tell you about the student who confused the two) is on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12 o'clock. H'm. You want language to be at 10 to 11, and your other courses do not meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and you want lunch every day at 12. Well, easy as pie. Science, Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays at 9. English, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 10. Language, every day at 11. Hygiene—can it really be that you can choose to take it at 10 Tuesdays and Thursdays and sleep an hour later those mornings? It could be. But for one thing.

Then Confusion Reigns . . .

You forgot all about that science laboratory section. And you need two of them of three hours each. There they are, from 9 to 12 Tuesdays and Thursdays. There's another section from 1 to 4 Mondays and Wednesdays, but that's definitely out, for then you want to play varsity baseball, and baseball practice takes care of the four hours a week for physical education.

Yet all the other hours conflict with one another. It's impossible what with both hygiene and language coming between those 9 to 12 hours that some misguided individual decided sacred for a science lab. You undoubtedly are thinking as we did once: "This schedule is terrible. Why did I decide to come to college? The courses are all at the wrong hours. Doesn't anyone know how to plan things so that I can have what I want when I want it? I'll just refuse to accept such a program unless they'll change things so that I can have lunch every day at 12, play first base on the team, and still take the courses my adviser told me to take! What do they think my block letter's for anyway? Can't they see it?"

Remember what we said about counting ten? All the time you have been getting more antagonistic to your blood pressure, your adviser has been watching

(Continued on page 3, column 1)

More About Typical Freshman

(Continued From Page 2)

you with one eye while he helps another fellow student of yours, and at this point he comes to the rescue.

You CAN Have Your Cake . . .

You see, just because you are unfamiliar with college registration until you have been through it once, you have not realized that you can just about have your cake and eat it too.

Try it this way. Put those science labs Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 to 12 so that you can fit in your one unit of physical education the way you want to, by turning out for baseball four afternoons a week at 2 o'clock. Put your language in at 1 o'clock every day. Put your English in at 11 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Your science comes only at 9 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

And make the sacrifice. Take your hygiene course at 8 o'clock Tuesdays and Thursdays. See how easy it is? Even if you don't like the idea of 8 o'clocks, and we don't either, you want to play baseball, and you want lunch at 12 o'clock, and there are at least 4999 other persons who are having the same difficulty as you are having—only, the chances are much worse. Maybe on the way to those two 8 o'clock classes each week you can discover why the lords who rule our universe invented 8 o'clocks. And maybe one answer will be, so that you can enroll in your chosen program field and still play baseball in the afternoons.

Now you have a program, all filled out as shown on this page with name and number of the course, room number, and instructor's name, in the proper places, all of which information you have on the schedule of classes From this Practice Program Sheet, it is simple to transfer the information to the Trial Study List. Like this: Physical Ed. . . . Baseball (in place of a course number) . . . Brady . . . 2-5 Daily . . . Men's Gym . . . 1—this last means the number of units of credit.

When the Trial Study List is complete, your faculty adviser signs it, and you're on your way, almost a college student.

Your next step is to the sign-up room, where you affix your name to the class in which you wish to enroll. This step assures you of a priority if the class eventually becomes too full. You find the lists, then, that correspond to your program, sign your name, and by golly, you're in class. You're in all your classes! You're registered! You can go home until Monday morning, when you report at 9:10 (no later) for your science class in Room, let's see, what is that room?

Ah, Romance . . .

Funny thing. It happened to us this way, and maybe it will happen to you. On your way home on the bus you meet a girl who reminds you of her who used to sit in front of you in the fifth grade. You dipped her curls in the ink well, mainly because you wanted her to notice you. She did, all right! And this is the same girl.

The years intervening have given you a whimsical sense of shame, and given her a tender memory. For she knows now you were really showing her a compliment.

She's signed up for the same English as you, only hers is at 12 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. It would certainly be swell to be in her class. Maybe she would change . . .? But you're a gentleman now, a college student. YOU must make the sacrifice. You can take the English at 12 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and eat lunch at 11 o'clock those days. Maybe SHE would have lunch with you then. You'll have to find another opportunity to study her schedule.

But can you change now? After all the time spent in making out the program, can you change it? You're signed up in that class, you who thought that eating regularly meant eating lunch at the conventional hour.

Luckily for you, there's a man sitting across from you who was one of the older students helping at registration. You ask him if you can possibly change your program, just a change of an hour. It won't really upset anything, really.

You Change Your Program . . .

He tells you, then, what he learned the hard way two semesters ago. Sure, you can change your program. Before you file your Registration Book (and you can go into details of that process another time) you go to the instructor of the 12 o'clock English class and ask if you may be admitted. You get your name on the list if there is room, inform the instructor of the 11 o'clock class that you are withdrawing from that class, and make the corrections of time, room number, and instructor's name on your Trial Study List. And may romance pursue its happy way.

About a week after you have registered (there'll be a date stamped on the cover of your registration book) you will fill out the rest of the pages in the book, including the Official Study List, and file the book in the library.

If it's too complicated, ask an older student, ask your adviser. They want to help. But if you read the book directions carefully and study the sample program, you shouldn't have any trouble. In the library you will be adequately taken care of, and we assure you it is an experience, the suspense of which should not be diminished.

There Goes The Apple Cart . . .

Everything is rolling smoothly now. College is not so strange as it seemed in those long ago days when you took tests, or even in those long ago days when you registered, just one week ago. And over goes the apple cart.

Some classes are over-crowded. That English class, now at 12 o'clock, is filled, and there are those who can enroll in that course only at that hour. You are asked, politely but firmly, to change back to your original 11 o'clock hour, and just when you had made practically a standing date for lunch with HER.

Of course, you make the change, sadly. But your registration book is filed, so how do you do it? You get a blue change-of-program slip from the registrar's office. You write in as indicated the course you are dropping (the 12 o'clock English) and the course you are taking up (the 11 o'clock English). You take the slip to the instructor of each class concerned for his signature.

Then you ask your adviser to sign it, and you turn the slip into the registrar's office.

You can accomplish this simple feat not only when changing from one hour to another; you can change from English to history. And you can change your program every day until an announced deadline—provided you may enter the classes you want, and provided you are so reckless as to risk flunking the courses in which you are finally enrolled when the last day to change a program is "yesterday."

You're still pretty upset about not being in English with the girl you met on the bus, when miracle of miracles, she voluntarily offers to change a program to be in your 11 o'clock English class. "God's in His Heaven! All's right with the world!" You're lucky, and you know it.

And you really are. Some of your classmates found that every class they wanted to enter was filled to capacity. They went back again and again to their advisers, and eventually they managed some sort of program. Have you learned from them! You had the gleam of an idea that you might register late next semester to avoid the rush. Now you know you'll register when expected to, avoid the risk of meeting full and closed classes, and thereby avoid the risk of being enrolled in a program course you didn't choose just because some 4999 students were ahead of you.

Registration Day

A College Vocabulary

When Charles Thomas Flynn first came to college, he discovered a new world in which even the language was strange. Because he was curious, he studied the language and found that its vocabulary is limited but impressive.

These are the key words on which he concentrated.

- Registration Book: five pages used to record his program.
- Trial Study List: literally a "trial" program followed to determine its suitability.
- Official Study List: the final program.
- Grades: as in A, B, C, D, (or F); midterm and final.
- Midterm Period: divisions of a semester into three parts.
- Finals: examinations in each course given the last week.
- Units: college measurement of a course. Usually if a course meets three hours a week throughout a semester, it is assigned three units of credit.
- Special Student: one limited to a maximum of 11 and ½ units.
- Regular Student: one limited to from 12 to 16 and ½ units.
- Prerequisite: for example, passing English A is prerequisite to enrolling in an English course.
- Requirement: hygiene, physical education—among other things—are required for graduation.
- Major: 20 units in one field required for graduation.
- Certificate of Registration: card in registration book which is stamped when book is filed to indicate completion of registration.
- Advisor: faculty member, usually in student's major field, who—that's right—advises.
- Schedule of classes: list of courses, time, place.
- Drop slip: vernacular for change-in-program slip.
- Leave-of-absence: official notice of withdrawal from all college classes without penalty.

PRACTICE SHEET

PRINT: MR (MISS, MRS. OR MR.) FLYNN LAST NAME CHARLES FIRST NAME THOMAS MIDDLE NAME

	MON.	TUES.	WED.	THURS.	FRI.	SAT.
8:15 9:05		HYGIENE 21		WILSON 132
9:10 10:00	SCIENCE 21A	SCIENCE	SMITH	SCIENCE	204
10:10 11:00		LAB		LAB
11:10 12:00	ENGLISH 21A	SMITH	JONES	334	255
12:10 1:00
1:10 2:00		LANGUAGE 21 - BROWN - 309
2:10 3:00		PHYS. ED. - (BASEBALL) - BRADY - GYM
3:10 4:00
4:10 5:00

ES28 5M 7-1-44

TRIAL STUDY LIST MAJOR GENERAL 1

PRINT: MR (MISS, MRS. OR MR.) FLYNN LAST NAME CHARLES FIRST NAME THOMAS MIDDLE NAME

SUBJECT E.G. ENGLISH	NO. OF COURSE	INSTRUCTOR E.G. COOK	HOURS AND DAYS E.G. BMWF	ROOM	UNITS
PHYS. ED.	BASEBALL	BRADY	2-5 DAILY	GYM.	1
SCIENCE	21A	SMITH	9 M.W.F	204	5
"	LAB	"	9-12 T.TH	334
ENGLISH	21A	JONES	11 M.W.F	255	3
LANGUAGE	21	BROWN	1 DAILY	309	4
HYGIENE	21	WILSON	8 T.TH.	132	2
					15

Intramural

Registration Rush Staggers Physical Education Section

Hampered by what appears to be a sudden rush of men students to the campus, a two league system of intramural competition was in the offing this week, according to Tom Wilson, college intramural director.

Registration unofficially begins today and estimated figures of more than 3000 men enrollees are being given two-fold consideration by Wilson.

"Naturally we can't tell yet what we may have to do," Wilson declared yesterday, "but from the reports given us by the registrar's office, the intramural department will probably be in for a whale of a sign-up next week."

Potential sports already on the fall semester slate are basketball, softball, touch tackle football, bowling, swimming, tennis, badminton, table tennis, horseshoes, and possibly a few more sports of a group nature, Wilson said.

Intramurals, born in the pre-war days prior to the construction of the present campus, have been a part of collegiate activity high on the list of student interest.

Fostered by Jack Brady, now the assistant dean of men, and carried along by Wilson, one-time College of Pacific great, intra-collegiate activity affords students who do not have time for outside sports to engage in a system of supervised athletics.

TOM WILSON, former College of the Pacific cage star, who is starting his "umpteenth" session here at the college. Wilson is also head tennis coach, and will partially relinquish his duties as cage mentor to Ralph Hillsman.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Freshman Edition — MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1946 — Page 4

Football Campaign Begins

FROLICSOME capers during a spring session football game shown in the runs of (left to right) Quarterback Staten Webster, George Nawell in the clutches of Earl Lawrance [35] and Manny Castro, and Halfback Carter Corey in right panel.

Fischer — Eisan

Gail, Bear "Exes" Smitten By Bug

Line Coach Bill Fischer came straight out of Commerce High School, where he served as head football coach, to direct the Rams to its first baseball pennant in history.

Graduating from St. Mary's College "in the early thirties," the one-time All-American guard was appointed head football coach at Commerce High School in 1936.

Last baseball season at the college, his charges romped through the junior collegian loop, copping the circuit crown by four games. This campaign, however, the genial ex-Moragan will help coach the 1946 power laden Ram football machine.

Head Football Coach Lee Eisan was safely away from the University of California campus when he was smitten by the coaching bug. To make a long story short, Senor Eisan has been plying his gridiron tactics for Ram teams since 1939.

Conveyor of some of the season's gloomiest and mysterious predictions, Eisan will be at a loss to explain matters should his Rams win the title.

League Approves Cage Round Robin Schedule

Approval of a round robin slate of basketball games for the 1946-47 season was officially announced by Northern California Junior College Conference Commissioner J. Paul Mohr, who voiced the sentiment of all NCJC representatives.

Vallejo Junior College, formerly placed on probationary status, will enter conference athletic competition during the current semester in the "B" loop, it was disclosed by Mohr.

Grid Tickets

Ducat Duel Feature On Council's Agenda

Discussion concerning the proposed plan for selling tickets to the forthcoming San Francisco-Long Beach City College football game will feature a student council meeting Tuesday, September 24, Dean Haug, Associated Student president, disclosed recently.

The meeting will be held in room 185 and all elected members of the student council are urged to attend, Haug announced.

Outcome on the ticket battle will hinge on certain policies established by the department of education, Haug said.

More About Budget

(Continued from page 1)

All cultural activities such as the traditional Christmas and Spring Festivals given by the college music department are supported by the association.

The Student Council awards and supplies are included in the budget as well as funds for student elections.

Music and decorations for the Sophomore Formal and an auditorium, programs, gowns, bids and music for commencement are also taken care of.

Eckdall, Webster, Cory Key To Ram's Victory Optimism

Football hit the klieglight stage this week as more than 50 candidates began intense preparations for the current season which, in the somber mood of Head Coach Lee Eisan, promises to be "the roughest and toughest yet."

Light drills featuring tackling and blocking were held last week with light scrimmage scheduled this week on the college practice field.

Running from a modified single wingback, the Scarlet Herd will pin a lot of this backfield hope in returning veteran halfbacks Art Eckdall and Carter Corey, both one-time Poly carriers.

Quarterback Staten Webster, ex-Commerce High School, will be back this week, as will returnees Manny Castro, George Newell, Larry Bangs, Bob Buchanan, and Jack Bennett.

Selective service may possibly catch Webster and Castro, but on the whole, the squad will be composed of service veterans, according to Eisan.

Transfer of John Johnson to St. Mary's and Earl Lawrence to College of Pacific will not weaken the squad to any great degree. Giant tackle Mel Chiezola, who reported for spring practice, has not returned to the campus, but his spot will be ably filled by 245-pound Warren Spindler.

Number one football game on the local slate will find the Rams bumping heads with a toughie—Long Beach City College at Kezar Stadium, Friday, September 27.

The Vikings from Signal Hill, as information has it, may possibly run off the T-Formation with a wide variation of plays using flankers and spread formations.

Rated as strictly question mark material, the locals will be prohibitive underdogs at game time but, even denying the darkest of Senor Eisan's moods, may topple the southern Californians if all clicks well.

1946 Schedule:

September 27—Long Beach City College at Kezar Stadium.
October 4—Salinas Junior College—here.
October 11 — Sacramento Junior College—there.
October 18—Modesto Junior College—there.
October 24—San Mateo Junior College—here.
November 2—Los Angeles City College—there.
November 8—Modesto Junior College—here.
November 22—Sacramento Junior College—here.
November 29—San Mateo Junior College—there.

More About Clubs

(Continued from page 1)

Pep Club, (limited to 100 rooters for college games), sponsored by Joseph Amori.

Women's Service Society, which serves the college and whose membership is by invitation only, is advised by Verreli A. Weber. The XGI Club, open to all veterans of World War II, is advised by Claude T. Silva.

Social organizations for men are Beta Phi Beta, Beta Tau, and Tri Epsilon. Similar organizations for women are Alpha Lambda Chi, Delta Psi, Kappa Phi, Phi Beta Rho, and Theta Tau.

Scilipoti Voted WAA Prexy; Archery Looms High

New president of the Women's Athletic Association is Frances Scilipoti, who was elevated to the post recently at a WAA banquet held last semester.

Other officers for the forthcoming semester include Ann Ahokas, vice-president, and Leona DeBique, secretary-treasurer.

Potential archery champs—(left to right), Shirley Burnett, Rita Chow, and Nancy Stookey, all members of the Archery Club on the campus.

With a moderate influx of women enrollees on the campus, it was requested that applications for membership to the WAA be made as soon as possible, according to Laurine Bergin, acting WAA adviser.

Initial indication of WAA popularity was shown last semester via a 30 percent increase in membership. Feature attraction of the WAA program schedule is Play Day whose emphasis still is based on a social rather than competitive atmosphere.

Sixteen different activities grace the WAA platform, including volleyball, softball, archery, table tennis, badminton, basketball, and tennis.

Unhindered for the first time since 1941, a record catch of more than 300 members is not an impossibility, Miss Scilipoti said, many of whom will add archery, for an example, to their activities.

Centuries old, archery has received attention throughout the ages as a sport and weapon of skill and marksmanship. Before the knowledge of the invention of gunpowder reached the Americas, the bow and arrow was the universal arm of war from Patagonia to the Arctic Circle.

Around 1760, the desirability of archery as a builder of body muscles and eyesight was recognized and today, the weapon of Robin Hood is a part of the physical education curriculum in countless colleges throughout the nation.

Instruction in archery is available here at the college through the WAA Archery Club and regular physical education classes. A woman's bow is about six feet long and requires a pull of from 20 to 24 pounds. Strength, coupled with keen eyesight and practice, are factors which may contribute to the familiar cry of "bull's eye."

Vikings, Rams Clash Today

(See Sports Page For Details)

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII — SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1946 — No. 1

Associated Students

Governmental Body Appoints Five New Members To Office

The college political pendulum started swinging early this week when the Student Council, headed by President Dean Haug, filled five appointive offices and began work on campus finances.

Approval was given by the council of the appointment of Nancy Ruttincutter to the position of Secretary of the Associated Students. Kent Bowker was approved as Finance Chairman with Joe Sheehan taking over as Athletic Commissioner. Al Moffat was named Rally Commissioner and Nancy Cunningham was given the chairmanship of the Social Committee.

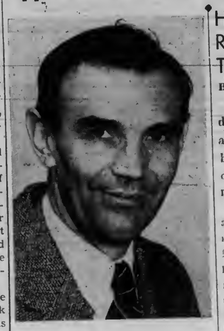
Ray Bisio was selected by the governmental body to succeed Dick Mills as Freshman President, Mills having withdrawn from the college. Bob Winegarded was chosen to fill the council vacancy left by Jacqueline Chopnik.

In a statement issued to the press at the Monday meeting, President Haug set forth his policy of improving the spirit of the college and helping the veteran in his campus life.

Haug's political views were made clear when he stated, "The Associated Student Government will be run by the Associated Students with and for the good of the Associated Students with no one organization having any jurisdiction."

First meeting of the Club Advisory Board is scheduled to take place sometime during the early part of next week. Haug will preside at this opening session. The time and place are to be announced later.

Quarters For Vets Ready For Occupation



The Veterans Housing on the west campus will be ready for occupancy today, it was announced by Dean Edward E. Sandys.

These quarters for veterans who are attending the college will consist of single rooms in the former WAVE barracks. Each room has a wash basin with hot and cold running water. The rent has been announced at fifteen dollars a month with a ten dollar deposit payable in advance.

Deposits are payable to the bank and receipts must be turned in to Dean Sandys' office before the rooms are occupied.

Administration

Mohr, Learnard Given Vice-President, Registrar Posts; Appointees Reminisce Of Years Prior To Post War Boom

J. Paul Mohr

Hectic Days Today Rate Second Nature To Busy Officials

By George Lajeunesse

Evidence of the college's future destinies being in experienced and knowing hands can be found by a quick look into the busy office of Dr. J. Paul Mohr, newly appointed vice-president.

Working alongside Dr. Mohr once again, formerly as his assistant in registration duties, was Mary Jane Learnard, now Registrar of the college, handling a long line of new registrants at the height of the sign up period last week.

Starting their eleventh year in college activities, Dr. Mohr and Miss Learnard can both trace the history of hilltop college as far back as the original organization in the early part of 1935.

Dr. Mohr's position as vice president of San Francisco Junior College reprcsents a long and successful background as former Registrar. Starting with the title of Director of Personnel, Dr. Mohr was one of the original faculty members named by the Board of Education to form the nucleus of the city's first junior college. Later named Registrar he held that office until July 1 of this year when he assumed the Vice Presidency of the college, being succeeded as Registrar by his former assistant Miss Learnard, at the same time.

Mohr Takes New Duties

A Bay Region citizen since birth, Dr. Mohr attended the old Crocker Grammer School in San Francisco and looks back on fond high school days in Polytechnic. Dr. Mohr is also a graduate of the University of California, holding degrees as an AB, MA, and PhD.

When relinquishing his duties to Miss Learnard Dr. Mohr took on new responsibilities of determining the curriculum requirements for future semesters of the college. With a new record established for incoming students Dr. Mohr has successfully plotted sufficient courses to meet the varied demands of a tremendously increased student body. With new arrivals reporting each day his office has managed to secure the necessary added help to provide a completely balanced program for the fall semester.

Interviewing dozens of new applicants per hour, Miss Learnard managed to pause in her work long enough to reminisce a bit of the old days when the college materialized

(Continued on page 4, column 3)

Mary Jane Learnard

Quonset Huts

October 2 Date Of Quonset Ceremonies

A dedication ceremony formally presenting the Quonset Huts to the college is to be held Wednesday, October 2, at approximately 2 p.m., Dean Sandys announced today.

The tentative list of civic dignitaries who will be present, according to Richard Audsley, of the San Francisco Housing Authority, is as follows:

Wilson Wyatt, Fedcral Housing Administrator; Earl Warren, Governor of California; Roger D. Lapham, Mayor of San Francisco; Archibald J. Cloud, President of the college; Dan Gallagher, President, San Francisco Board of Supervisors; Curtis E. Warren, Superintendent of San Francisco Public Schools; E. N. Ayer, Chairman San Francisco Housing Committee; Preston Wright, Regional Representative, National Housing Agency, and Langdon W. Post, Director Region VI, Federal Public Housing Authority.

Audsley hinted that other civic and military leaders would also be present, but that "because of last minute arrangements, the names will not be released at this time."

At the request of the Housing Administration, Trev Burrow, president of the college XGI Society, will act as master of ceremonies for the program and the radio show which follows.

College Rated Among First Ten In America

Campus egotists have another excuse to inflate themselves with the announcement by Look Magazine, October 1 issue, that the College is rated among the first ten of the 100 best educational institutions in America.

Published under the heading, "The Hope of American Education," the results came from a poll just completed from state school superintendents and other prominent educators.

Big House Counts Over 5200 Inmates; Washington Again Sends Most Victims

Fifty-two hundred Inmates! Such was the count at the Big House when campus officials clamped the cover on the college Snake Pit last Friday. Some 200 faculty psychiatrists helped to register 3000 new patients and 2000 former cases.

Psychoanalysis of registrants was carried on (with some being carried out) all last week with entering veterans claiming 50 per cent of the wards.

San Francisco institutions previously treated almost 50 per cent of the entrants with Washington, Lincoln, Polytechnic, and Lowell, in that order, sending the most victims.

East Bay sanitariums sent 25 per cent of this semester's new enrollment.

Miscellaneous, apparently a popular place, was the former home of almost 25 per cent of entering students.

The ratio of men to women students is three to one. The heaviest women enrollment came on Wednesday afternoon (a banding together for protection, no doubt, although the Chiefs were said to have arranged this in order to keep the women from having too many night classes. Evenings will probably be devoted this semester to Men's Stag Parties held at the college.)

With the warmest weather for therapy treatments, the college drew registrants from Singapore, Hawaii, Lima, Bolivia, and all points north.

Jackets (Strait, that is) are now hung in lockers, as the cures begin in all classes.

Rally

College Hour Scene Of Pre-Game Ram, Long Beach Doings

Football's autumnal madness will receive a spirited "shot in the arm" this morning in the men's gymnasium at 1:45, where a rally, heralding the afternoon contest between the college and Long Beach City College, will be staged.

Following the pattern drawn last semester, a college hour schedule will be in effect with classes meeting on the regular hours after 2 o'clock, Assistant Dean Jack Brady announced yesterday.

Football fans are further honored by the announcement that all students in 3, 4, and 5 o'clock classes will be dismissed on displaying game tickets to their instructors. The time schedule for today is as follows:

8:15 to 9
9:05 to 9:50
9:55 to 10:40
•10:15 to 11:30• (college hour)
11:35 to 12:20
12:25 to 1:10
1:15 to 2

Topping the bill for entertainment will be Ira Blue, noted sports commentator, while Ted Briones, yell-leader, and his assistants will create enthusiasm.

At this time the campus officers will be introduced to the Associated Students.

Rally Commissioner Al Moffat has announced the following schedule of college hours:

October 4—game with Salinas to be played here.

October 24—game with San Mateo to be played here.

November 8—game with Modesto to be played here.

November 22—game with Sacramento to be played here.

Inaugurated last semester, the college hour is set for every Friday from 10:45 to 11:30.

In an announcement directed at the Associated Students last week, President A. J. Cloud said, "This hour is not to be considered a "free" hour because classes are not called. All students are expected to attend each college hour."

Registration

Deadline October 1 For "Filing Books"

With an estimated total of 5,200 students making up the largest enrollment in the eleven years of existence of the college, filing of registration books is scheduled to take place in the "old cafeteria" on Monday and Tuesday, September 30 and October 1, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, reported this week.

Students are advised to be guided by the date stamped on the covers of their books, and to fill out the official study list as illustrated below.

Following the filing of registration books, changes in programs can be made by securing from the registrar's office an official blue slip which must be signed by the instructors involved and the adviser.

The deadline for removal of incomplete grades from last semester is set for Friday, October 11, and courses may not be dropped after Wednesday, November 13, Miss Learnard warned.

Through today, the official blue slip necessary for changing programs is not required.

The "old cafeteria" referred to in the first paragraph refers to last semester's eating rendezvous, now a study hall, and located in the basement of the college.

Sample Of Registration Program

XY 12 34 (PHONE) — OFFICIAL STUDY LIST — 1 (SEMESTER IN A. F. U. N. A. etc.)

PRINT: MR. (MISS, MRS. OR MR.) Flynn (LAST NAME) Charles (FIRST NAME) Thomas (MIDDLE NAME)

ADDRESS (NO. / STREET / CITY)

SUBJECT E.G. ENGLISH	NO. OF COURSE	INSTRUCTOR E.G. COOK	HRS. AND DAYS E.G. 8:00 MWF	MID-TERM 1ST	MID-TERM 2ND	SEMESTER GRADE	SEMESTER UNITS
PHYS. ED.	Baseball	Brady	2 5	Daily			1
Botany	21a	Smith	9	M.W.F			4
"	Lab	"	7-12	T.Th
English	21a	Jones	11	MWF			3
Italian	21	Brown	1	Daily			4
Hygiene	21	Wilson	8	T.Th			2
							14

APPROVED BY (FACULTY ADVISER) MAJOR General

DATE H.S. OF GRAD Washington

Good Deed For Today

Kezar May Be Scene Of Local Collegiate History

THOUGH the Viking seems a mouse we must watch him like a lion that hath come sneaking into town in the somber dead of night.

Seldom does The Guardsman involve editorials in the interests of collegiate sports, but we are mindful today of a rare autumnal production at Kezar Stadium.

The Vikings from Long Beach City College have come to town to do battle with the Scarlet Herd, beginning at 1:30 p.m.

This will be the college's only football game scheduled for Kezar Stadium this season. Kezar officials, knowing full well the decided lack of the college as a drawing power, will continue to snub the Scarlet Herd until we vindicate our status as a college of more than 4,500 students.

Let's go out to Kezar Stadium this afternoon in full force with the thought in mind that, besides seeing a sectional battle between two rival squads, we are interested in and capable of supporting the college of our choice in means other than academic.

The attendance record for a Ram football clash stands at a weak water 2,400 established during the San Francisco State College-Scarlet Herd conflict in 1941.

Lack of interest and student losses to the service accounted for the lean attendance figures during the war years—but the Hargrovian era is in historical storage.

We can give vent to our partisan feelings by spending an afternoon at Kezar with the hope of telling San Francisco that, "the Scarlet Herd is the best supported junior collegian team in the bay area."

Despite a veritable lack of student support, the Rams have already established themselves as a championship track and field and baseball power. But let's add football to the growing list.

We surely can't fill the stadium, but we can prove to the contrary the deflated expectations rendered by various civic-minded groups in a falsetto tone of mockery.

The Vikings from Southern California have a standard reputation of drawing big time crowds. If we fail to show out in full force today, our bid for athletic contention in the state has failed.

For today's good deed, follow the crowds out to the stadium!

Ford

After Dark

ANOTHER semester. Another set of headaches and another set of infinitely patient instructors. Sunny noon-times and drinking coffee and cokes in the bookstore. Midnight and another hour of study to go. Tension as the boom is lowered at midterm time. So it goes, life and love (and a small bit of study) walking hand in hand through the college's halls. Welcome back friends! Welcome home once again!

The Strange Loves of Martha Ivers is tops of the flicks in town at present. Van Heflin and Barbara Stanwyck both turn in superb performances, and Liz Scott bears out all of Freud's theories. The picture introduces a fine new actor, Kirk Douglas, who plays Stanwyck's ineffectual husband. You'll see more of him. . . .

There are several Farwell Taylor paintings now on display at the Black Cat. It's worth five minutes of any body's time to drop in and see his String Quartet. No, he won't sell. It's part of a series that will soon be displayed at the Rotunda Gallery.

For those interested in abstract painting, and (like me) don't know what it's all about, try reading "Why Abstract?" a book written in three sections by Hilaire Hiler, Henry Miller, and William Saroyan. It's a New Directions publication and tears down many of the misleading fables that surround the field of abstract art.

Romeo and Juliet will be presented tomorrow night at the Opera House. Boheme is on the program for this Thursday night, followed by Boris Godounoff on Friday. It looks like a good season for Monteux and the gang.

Opening September 30 at the New Stage Door Theatre on Mason (near Geary) is Shakespeare's "Henry V" starring Lawrence Olivier. For certain poor misguided souls, it's a picture and not the "legitimate stage." After seeing Janie Get's Married, let's call it "The legitimate cinema" for that separation in movie technique is now quite apparent in Hollywood productions.

The Guardsman

Official Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 1 Friday, September 27, 1946 Page 2

Around And About

with Nagle

WITH saddle shoes shined and with "ruptured duck" emblems brightly polished, approximately 5,200 students ran the gauntlet of registration last week. As Bob Hope might say, "Oh yes, registration. That's where students fall into lines longer than any Army chow line!" He would be just about right, too.

However, standing in line was the least part of registration. Troubles encountered included announcements that classes had been filled (which would have been all right, except for the fact that your schedule had JUST worked out right, and you were already standing waiting for the adviser's stamp of approval).

The fact that you then found yourself with one class at 8:10 and not another one until 4:10 rather upset you, but eventually everyone got straightened out. The students, or prospective students, went home eagerly (??) awaiting the first joyful day of class, and the advisers and instructors went home, shouted for an aspirin and an ice bag, and went to bed—having nightmares of long lines of students—all with credit deficiencies and class conflicts.

College isn't really bad—once you get used to it. The time will come when even freshmen will get used to college life (a time not too far distant, either). Yes, to the point of knowing where Room 143 is without asking directions three or four times, and knowing enough not to trump a partner's ace at the student store. They will lose that bewildered "why-college?" look, and will settle back and learn to enjoy the best two years of their lives.

Sophomores, of course, whether veteran or non-veteran, male or female, now know all the in's and out's of college life—and if they don't do so now—will look back in years to come and remember the football games, the heart-breaking losses and the thrilling victories; the spirited rallies preceding these games; the wonderful dances, with the Soph Formal as the climax to them all. These are just a few of the many gay memories one may have while waiting for the arteries to completely harden.

Yet, one needn't wait that many years—just mention the "San Francisco Junior College" to an ex-student of this honored institution and you've let yourself in for an evening of reminiseence—each separate wonder tale always prefaced by the phrase "you can never beat the 'JC' of Powell Street," or "Oh, I dunno—there'll never be a college equal to pre-war Junior College . . . Why I remember the Sacramento game when we couldn't get speeial trains . . . ," and before you can say "G.I." you've gotten yourself enveloped in another story.

But, never fear, the Junior College officials won't let any one of their bright and eager students down, and within a few years the younger generation of today will be hearing stories prefaced with the self-same "Why-I-remember-when's."

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Gloom In The Dailies Turns To Optimism For Wonders To Come

SHINING through the Crepe Curtain that hangs over the headlines of all the dailies currently ladling out gloom in large quantities is a bright glimmer of domestic optimism. Reflected in the inner pages of newspapers are newer and rosier advertising layouts unveiling the wonders to come into all homes, for a slight nominal fee.

ONE SHOULD LIVE SO LONG . . .

Lusty competition is returning among the purveyors of the dearly loved gadgets and gizmos that go into making easier living in a country that may yet have a car in every garage, television in each living room, and has, even today, produced fountain pens that write up to 15 years on one filling (depending on how much you use it) and are guaranteed, not for life, but forever.

White collar workers and students have their pick of any one of a hundred pens that write from three months to three years; one enthusiastic firm claims its little Daisy will come through with exactly 74,802 words, by laboratory test.

TREAT INSTEAD OF TREATMENT

Manufacturers are carrying on a feud of epic proportions, sandwiched in between the foreign news and comics, messages in glorious Technicolor, with surprising human interest twists that in some instances carry the touch of true confessions, and at the same time debunk the nearest competitor in a nice way. Big wheels in the manufacturing and public service end of things have taken up the banner for downright frankness, and everyone in the business is laying cards all over the table in full view of the consumer, and it's producing some weird reading.

DUZ DOESN'T . . .

Housewives will revel in the news of a revolutionary new soap powder that actually claims to do nothing . . . nothing that is except clean clothes.

NEXT TIME TRY . . .

Travelers are watching the battle between the railroads and airlines for supremacy in that field.

Appearing coincidentally with some headlines that left visions of tangled masses of aluminum sprayed across the hillsides of Nevada, representing some of the country's top airlines, was an ad depicting a family scene aboard an anonymous transcontinental train speeding over the land.

In a full color photo appeared the usual luscious matron, her slightly greying husband, and the well-scrubbed youngsters, all gazing at a pastoral scene in the midwest through a spacious and spotless window. The Mrs. turns and remarks to her spouse: "Isn't is a comfortable feeling, knowing we'll get there . . . by train?"

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

A NOT-TOO-CAREFUL scrutiny of past semesters at the college reveals that blunders of various sorts by newcomers are quite common occurrences during the first few weeks of the session.

In a sincere endeavor to relieve the situation as much as possible, some little hints and suggestions regarding the conduct and procedure accepted on the hill are presented here, with complete deference to the committee on rules.

Roller skating is not permitted on the walks surrounding the college. Those wishing to skate to and from Athletic Gulch may do so after filing their will at the registrar's office.

Cows, sheep, and hogs belonging to students may be pastured in the woods on the corner of Ocean Avenue during class hours; the front lawn is reserved for students.

Because of several mishaps during the past few semesters, men students are requested to remove their spikes, spurs, and hiking equipmont before entering the building.

Students wishing to make or receive phone calls in classroom will be permitted to do so between the hours of 10 p.m. and 8 a.m.

The library is a reference room and a study hall; there is a critical shortage of material with which to build chairs and tables, to say nothing of wall space. The prospect of renting cushions to students to be placed on staircase is presently being considered. In the meantime, it is suggested that built-in areh supporters sometimes relieve certain occupational maladies.

Language students are instructed to do as much of their studying as possible aloud in order to facilitate their powers of pronunciation; Balboa Park is located two blocks east on Ocean Avenue, and right around the corner from the college, but Golden Gate Park is larger.

Any inquiries will be promptly attended to if the inquiree will address a note and slip it to any janitor in the building, who will direct it to its proper plaee in the reference files of the paper.

University bookstore of Southern California is doing a land office business among the faculty and student fans who like to relax with a stimulating murder mystery. Leading in popularity is clue-detector Perry Mason, brain-child of Erle Stanley Gardner, while Ellery Queen, popularized on the screen by Ralph Bellamy, is runner-up.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Voice Of The College-Air Queries, Hates, Ideas, Praise Here

•Editor's Note: Traditionally, the first Guardsman of a college year carries a clarification of the Ram's Horn's purpose.

Primarily, the aim of the column is to allow all students in the college a voice in college affairs through the medium of letters addressed to the editor.

The editor himself preserves, as did his predecessor through the eleven years of the column's existence, impartially in publication of letters received. At the same time he reserves the right and responsibility of editing material should there be a question of good taste involved.

A survey of the 22 volumes of Guardsman history shows that the Ram's Horn, the voice of the college, embraces a wide variety of topics. Discussions have had their place and will continue, requests for information have been and will be published and answered, "debates" among individuals and groups have their place here.

Occasionally the attitude on the part of novice writers of letters-to-the-editor has been that the sole subject matter is criticism, constructive or destructive, of The Guardsman, the college, departments, even (heaven forbid) of individuals.

The editor welcomes criticism. It is healthy and leads to a widening of understanding, and to improvement of conditions where possible. Therefore, he particularly welcomes constructive criticism.

More than anything else, however, the editor hopes that the tradition of free discussion among students of any topic that interests them will be continued.

If it's a question, ask it here. If it's a grievance, get it off your mind here. If it's objection, state it here. If it's praise of the college or any part of it, don't hesitate. The Ram's Horn will publish your letters.

Guardsman Staff—
Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR.....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavenor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trav Burrow, editor; John Baylor, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Hayman, Shirley Langston, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Jack Rhodes.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Naurse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

Intramural

Cage Deadline Set October 4; Wilson Outlines Schedule

That the greatest semester for collegiate intramural sports was in the offing was yesterday affirmed by Tom Wilson, college intramural director, who has outlined an extensive schedule of athletics on the current semester agenda.

An unprecendented zoom in enrollment via the flow of discharged servicemen has enabled Wilson to submit a tentative deadline for the forthcoming intramural basketball tournament.

Team entries—eight men to a squad—must be submitted to Wilson in the men's gymnasium not later than noon, Friday, October 4.

Sports already included on the intramural docket include tennis, basketball, track and field, table tennis, horseshoes, volleyball, badminton, touch tackle football, and softball.

New addition to the college's intramural staff is Fred McFarland, one-time instructor in military science here, who this semester switches to tournament athletics.

"Athletics hold a definite purpose for men who have no time to participate in regular varsity sports," Wilson said. "Therefore, we shall try to create a program of worthwhile attention and interest to all."

Regularly scheduled league contests will be played from 3 to 6 p.m. daily except on Fridays, Wilson declared. Three intramural managers are needed and interested persons may apply for the positions in the men's gymnasium office.

As usual, medals for first and second place winners will be awarded during the semester. The President Cloud Perpetual Trophy, awarded biannually to the intramural organization amassing the greatest total of team tournament points, will again be the objective of most of the clubs.

Klemmer, Hillsman, McFarland Now At Men's Gymnasium

Shake hands with three new appointees to the college's physical education department, meaning Grover Klemmer, Ralph Hillsman, and Fred McFarland.

Klemmer, world famous quartermiler, is a product of San Francisco's Galileo High School, and the University of California. While at Galileo, Klemmer set records in the 440 and 880 yard events, which are still standing after six years.

At California he set the now recognized record for the 440-yard dash of 46.4 seeonds. During the war years, he served in the Navy and was stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training Station where he was a physical training instructor.

Hillsman is also a product of Galileo High School, where he was a basketball and track star for the Lions. After graduating from Galileo, he attended the college here for one year, where he played basketball on the college's only championship team. Hillsman then transferred to the University of California where he played outstandingly for the Bears for two years. He will aid in coaching the Ram cagers along with his regular instruction duties.

The third addition to the physical education department is Fred McFarland, former instructor of military science here at the college. McFarland, who was a major in the Army Reserves, left for the service in 1941, and served for six years with the Army in various Theaters of operation. He was discharged recently and has returned to the college as an instructor.

Minnesota university has the largest veteran enrollment of any college in the country with 5,500 vets going to school there. It is followed, in order, by New York University, University of Pittsburgh, Texas University, University of Washington and Southern California.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 1 FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1946 Page 3

Football Inaugural At Kezar

Record Crowd Expected To Witness Ram Opener; Local Entry In Underdog Role

By Bob Catudio

Returning from a sporadic three year interval of GI trouping and a lack of select manpower, Long Beach City College invades Kezar Stadium this afternoon to battle Senor Lee Eisan's provincials in the opener of "the toughest and roughest junior collegian season to bounce upon the local boardwalk."

Kickoff time is 3:30 p.m. and a "record" crowd of more than 5,000 fans is expected to be on hand for the classic festivities.

Vikings Slight Favorites

The Vikings, from Southern California, suh, are slight pre-game favorites, but Long Beach Coach Eddie Wagner, ex-Colorado University great, has some doubtful premonitions about the outcome.

"Our squad, for the most part veterans, is untested," Wagner explains, "but we'll give the fans a good show nonetheless."

Unhampered by scrimmage injuries, the Signal Hill inhabitants will cast 33 men onto the Kezar greensward with the lion's share of the attention falling to huge, 200-pounder Bib Kipper, Viking quarterback. Kipper is exceptionally fast for a fullback and is used to full advantage in the spread T-formation which Wagner employs.

Ekdall, Crouch Ready

Standouts in the Long Beach aggregation are Henry Ennen, a center with defensive ability of known repute in Long Beach circles, and Joe Riccovono, swift-moving halfback.

On the other hand, San Francisco, having completed its seige of week long, light scrimmages and basic fundamentals, goes into the fray prohibitive underdogs which means that maestro Elsan of the townies is "hoping for a possible upset."

Art Ekdall, 172-pound running back from Polytechnic High School, and newcomer Howie Crouch, 260-pound fullback, will bear the brunt of Eisan's perennial double wingback offensive.

All week long, the ambitious Rams have been drilling against Assistant Coach Grover Klemmer's Lamb squad in an effort to solve the mystery of the antiquated "T".

Psaltis Injured

Slight injuries have riddled the locals and have forced Coach Eisan to promote several third stringers forward. Linesman Art Psaltis, ex-Mission High School, will miss today's contest, the result of a sustained leg injury incurred in last week's scrimmage.

The invading forces, though not acceptable to the clash of "I fear San Francisco," are bemoaning the loss of star running back Max Culver, top scorer last year for the Signal Hillers.

University of Cincinnati officials are wondering if any other family can match the record set by one generation in the Seuberling-Burnet family in enrolling and graduating five of six grandchildren in the U. C. College of Commerce and Engineering. All five graduates are of the U. C. cooperative plan of technological education.

Quarterback Staten Webster tosses one down the field as Howie Crouch (left) and Ken Schuchard (right) block out Glen Smith and Georgie Maganaris respectively during a recent practice session.

Viking vs. Rams

Kezar Stadium 3:30 p.m.

No.	Player	Pos.	Player
46	Dugan	LER	Cronn
37	Knickheim	LTR	Tomasello
29	Thornton	LGR	Miller
40	Ennen (C)	C	Didio
36	Bordeir	RGL	Belcher
55	Hays	RTL	Hoffman
47	Ray	REL	Poznkoff
43	Kipper	Q	Webster
41	Riccovono	LHR	Rainey
17	Minor	RHL	(C) Ekdall
19	Stephenson	F	Crouch

Officials: Harlow Rothert (Referee); Pop Elder (Umpire); Carl Hoberg (Field Judge); Mike Orlick (Head Linesman).

Women's Athletic Association

Swicegood WAA Advicer; Christmas Party, Tourney Week To End Semester

Anticipating a sharp upturn in sports enrollment, the Women's Athletic Association will continue its sign up drive all next week in the women's gymnasium. The schedule of fall athletics is posted on gymnasium bulletin boards where women may indicate their sport preference as they enroll in physical education classes.

Gloria Swicegood has assumed the role of WAA Adviser replacing Bertha Mae Keller who has taken a leave of absence. Miss Swicegood was formerly associated with Texas University.

Scilipoti Leads Group

Student head of the WAA is Frances Scilipoti of Pittsburg, California, outstanding pitcher on last spring's softball team. Miss Scilipoti was voted president in the June elections, with Ann Ahokas, another softballer, capturing the vice-president's office. The electing or appointing of a secretary will be one of the first acts of the organization since formerly elected Marilouise Matthews has not returned to the college this semester.

Miss Scilipoti and crew will serve two semesters, until the next general election in the spring. The annual election plan went into effect last semester with Wanda McKenzie being the first WAA president to serve two terms. The plan was originally suggested by Miss Keller and later endorsed by the WAA Council. Finding the present arrangement more efficient, it is now included in the WAA constitution.

Events Outlined

As for activities this semester, Miss Scilipoti mentioned State College and Balboa High as immediate sources of Play Day competition and said that invitations from the city high schools may be expected. "Then there is the traditional Christmas party the week before vacation," the chief remarked, "while another big tourney week will climax the fall season."

Hillsman MAY Tackle Head Caging Position

Fall semester basketball practice will start shortly during regular physical education hours, it was announced by Tom Wilson, current head basketball coach, who also indicated that newcomer Ralph Hillsman "may assume a head coaching role next fall."

The statement — unsubstantiated, but reliably correct, according to informed observers—by Wilson was made on the grounds that an unprecedented enrollment had foreed the intramural program into a veritable Herculean task.

Leaves of Iowa State trees serve two purposes. After a summer of beautifying the campus, the leaves are gathered up to become mulch for the Horticulture Garden.

Game Captain Hank Ennen

Hurry Up

Grid Ducats On Sale Today About Campus

Ticket prices for today's Ram-Viking grid classic will remain intact, it was announced by Jack Brady, assistant dean of men.

Price list:

Students with Associated Student card.....40 cents
Students without Associated Student card.....$1.00
High School students.....40 cents
Children (under 12).....9 cents

Whitcomb Dirge

Weary Southerners Dream Of Victory

Masked indifference clouded Coach Eddie Wagner of the invading Long Beach City College squad at his Hotel Whitcomb headquarters last night as he gloomily looked forward to today's clash at Kezar Stadium.

"I'm hesitant because I know practically nothing of what the Rams will offer," Wagner voiced, "and I guess Lee (Eisan) is in the same spot."

Thirty-two gridders, plus a half dozen faculty members and earnest well-wishers of the squad, trouped into their Market Street rest stop a bit weary from a day long along the Coast.

Accompanying the front line troops was a caravan of more than 100 Viking student rooters who will be all out for triumph or nothing else, this being the initial test for both squads.

The majority of the invaders, sporting red and green sweaters lest the metropolitan atmosphere permeate their innards, toured the line from the hotel lobby to the Fox Theater across the way, but all were safely tucked abed by midnight.

"There's an important game coming up," Wagner reminded everyone.

So while the city slept last night, one very-worried football squad dreamed away in thoughts of crushing the local entry from the shadow of Mount Davidson.

Vallejo New Member In NCJCC Athletic Party

Vallejo, Calif., Sept. 27—School officials here at Vallejo Junior College yesterday announced a recent edict by Commissioner J. Paul Mohr effecting Vallejo's entry into the Northern California Junior College Conference "as soon as possible."

Viking Fullback Bob Kipper

Football Fans

Long Beach, Calif., Sept. 27—A small band of more than 100 Long Beach City College football rooters departed here last night en route to San Francisco where they will witness the initial performance of Long Beach's 1946 gridiron against San Francisco Junior College.

Navy Releases Property To College

Former WAVE Barracks Allocated As Housing For Student Veterans, New Site Of College Cafeteria, Auditorium

Formerly a separation center for WAVES, the Naval installation on Phelan and Ocean Avenues, became part of the campus as it was officially turned over to the college at a ceremony held there on Friday, September 13.

A stirring drama exemplifying reconversion from war to peace took place at Balboa Park WAVE Barracks on the morning of September 13th, when the last WAVE detachment on leaving their barracks lowered the flag.

Admiral D. R. Beary, USN, was on hand to officiate in handing over the buildings to the San Francisco Junior College, represented by President A. J. Cloud. Witnessing the scene, reading left to right, are J. Paul Mohr, Vice-President of the college; Oscar Anderson, Comptroller; Curtis E. Warren, Superintendent of the San Francisco Public Schools, and Commissioner George W. Johns, member of the Board of Education. Seen in the top picture are Albert Moffatt, Rally Commissioner; Les Holden, Richard Morse, and Robert Bertram, all XGI's, saluting and signifying acceptance of the buildings for peace-time educational purposes.

Among the officials presiding at this ceremony were Rear Admiral Donald R. Beary, Commandant of the 12th Naval District; Brigadier General David Hardy, Associate Superintendent of San Francisco Schools; Captain Walter B. Davidson, Chief of Staff and Aide to Admiral Beary; Lieutenant Commander Irene Williamson, Commanding Officer of the installation; Dr. A. J. Cloud, president of the college, and Edward E. Sandys, dean of men.

Climaxing speeches presented by these notables, the actual transfer was effected by Admiral Beary when he presented Dr. Cloud with a letter of title, awarding use of the installation to the college. Before the termination of the event, Trev Burrow, president of the college XGI Society, appointed General Harding, and Admiral Beary honorary members of the Society.

Dr. Cloud reported that though the college has the use of the installation, actual ownership is still retained by the Navy Department.

Dr. Cloud, explaining what changes will come about with the addition of this new area, pointed out that three of the buildings formerly used as barracks for the enlisted personnel, will be utilized as living quarters for unmarried veteran students.

Formerly the officers quarters, the singular building closest to the Phelan Avenue gate, will become the apartment area for married veterans and their wives. The exact number of occupants in each of these buildings has not yet been determined.

The president recalled that the college was fortunate enough to have taken possession of the original campus proper in August, 1941, just before the outbreak of hostilities. It was at this time that a construction program providing for the erection of buildings to occupy the area extending to Ocean Avenue and along the slopes which stretch toward the two gymnasiums, was dropped.

Dr. Cloud further pointed out that the WAVE area which was turned over to the college, is primarily a temporary measure to facilitate handling the five thousand students now enrolled in the college, and will probably be used until such time as the building program, abandoned at the beginning of the war, is resumed, and completed.

The cafeteria has already been moved and is in operation at the present time. This building occupies the former mess hall area and represents all that can be imagined in the way of modern culinary science. It is well equipped to handle the mass of students that will make use of this service.

The WAVE barracks were designed primarily as a separation center for members of the WAVEs. From all parts of the country and from stations overseas, these service women were sent to this point to undergo processing prior to actual discharge. Part of this processing included interviews with the personnel concerned. In order to facilitate these interviews, a building was erected in which partitioned offices were arranged. This, according to Dr. Cloud, provides the answer to the college's need for a building in which students may apply for counselling and guidance.

Since fire laws in the city provide for certain safety devices, including proper fire escapes, only ground floors of the buildings are intended for immediate occupancy. However, since a plan of construction involving the building of adequate fire escapes is in progress, the upper floors may later be utilized also.

Fire laws, however, will not affect the use of the auditorium, which is also entailed in the transfer. Formerly the college was allowed the use of this combination auditorium-gymnasium for Associated Student meeting, and other affairs.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

• Beta Phi Beta: The initial dance of the football season will be held this evening from 8:30 to 12:30 at the Forester's Hall, with music by Bob Emerson.

• Beta Tau: New officers for this semester are president, Bob Wishman; vice-president, Frank Nelson; secretary, Frank Grant; corresponding secretary, Jack Glasner; treasurer, Bob Winegardner; custodian, Al Uttenberg.

• Delta Psi: The first rush tea activities will be held on October 13 at the home of Nancy Stookey.

• Theta Tau: There will be a business meeting next Wednesday night. Besse Babin was married during summer to Al Gilroy. The couple are planning to live in North Carolina.

• XGI: There will be a meeting September 27 at the War Memorial Building, Van Ness and McAllister Streets, in Room 1. All veterans are urged to attend and bring dates if they wish. Following a brief initiation XGI refreshments will be served. The meeting will be adjourned early for dance.

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Members returning to the college are Fred Pierce, Ray Bisio, Jerry Driscoll, Al Hinds, Jack Rhodes, and Dick MacMillan. Plans are in order for an open dance to be held November 27. Ray Bisio and Kent Bowker took over the offices of treasurer and historian following Morgan McMann's and Dick Mills' withdrawal from the college.

• Kappa Phi: Summer activities included a tea held at the St. Francis Hotel and a pajama party held at Laurel Nelson's home.

More Administration

(Continued from page 1)

under conditions vastly different from anything existing today.

Early Days Recalled

In her position as Assistant Registrar she watched the growth of the college and can remember the very beginning when President Cloud comprised the entire college, acting jointly as "faculty" and "student body" combined.

When pressed for a comparison between the situation existing in the Registrar's office last week with the whole staff facing the largest influx of students in the college's history and the early days, Miss Learnard admitted there was a vast difference between the two periods.

College Enlarged

Today the college is rooted in a permanent structure on Balboa Hill; ten years ago it was hardly to be found, being located somewhere in the Board of Education's office occupying offices of employees who were, at the time, on their vacations. At one point, Miss Learnard observed, the college was entirely without housing. When the Board of Education employees reported back from their respective vacations, the embryo San Francisco Junior College found itself literally in the halls of the building and fortunate to have a roof over its head. The situation was remedied somehow and the college went on to find its way into various high schools around the city including Galileo and Mission.

Later, the University of California Extension Building at 540 Powell Street was utilized and this served as the "campus" for the rapidly growing college until the present building was completed in Balboa Park.

Despite a line beyond her desk that extended as far out as the Silver Pole and a constantly ringing telephone to contend with, Miss Learnard, when asked for her impressions of the current problem confronting the staff, smiled thoughtfully and replied, "Those were the hectic days."

Music

New Choral Groups Release Tentative Semester Schedule

Stressing the newly inaugurated men's and women's choruses, Flossita Badger, music instructor, announced this week the tentative programs to be presented this semester by the vocal music department.

Auditions for the choruses were given Tuesday and Thursday at 2:30 p.m. in Room 256 for men students and on the same day at 1 p.m. in Room 256 for women students. No experience is necessary for students desiring to sing in the choruses which will give performances both in the college and in some of the city's hospitals this semester, Miss Badger added.

A series of bi-monthly recitals to be presented by the men's and women's choruses, members of the college's vocal work shop, some faculty members and other talented students not enrolled in music courses will be begun next month. "Anyone interested in appearing in these recitals should see me," Miss Badger stated.

Main feature of the semester will be the annual Christmas performances which will be presented both at the college and at the Veterans Auditorium.

"Program plans have also been made this semester for the college orchestra," Madison Devlin, director, said, adding that experience is desired but not necessary.

Devlin also announced that a new music course, instrumentation, has been added to the college curriculum in which students will learn to arrange and write music which they will play in the orchestra during the following period.

Hero's Reward Planned For No. One Footballer

The first player who "hits pay dirt" for the college in the football game against Long Beach City College this afternoon at Kezar Stadium will be rewarded with 15 thick milk shakes.

The milk shakes are donated by Denny Dairies, a new creamery, which is located at 321 West Portal Avenue. Denny Dairies will have its grand opening on Saturday, October 28.

If the college should be held scoreless, the milk shakes will be awarded to the outstanding player of the game. The winner will be chosen by the Women's Athletic Association.

Proof of the above is contained in a signed certificate held in The Guardsman office, which certificate will be surrendered to the winning player after the game.

Drama Group Needs Actors, Actresses

That actors and actresses are needed at once for parts in plays for student presentation in the Little Theater was announced this week by Ruth Somers, dramatics instructor.

Interested students should apply for tryouts with Mrs. Somers in Room 250 or Lloyd Sisler in Room 28. Unless more students register for Speech 42a (acting) it will be impossible to provide the students with plays, Mrs. Somers declared.

Tentative plans indicate that two groups may produce plays this semester, one section under Mrs. Somers from 1 to 3 p.m., and another group directed by Sisler, in Room 28.

Students at Purdue University will soon be looking at great motion pictures as part of their classroom work. A course in the Art of Motion Pictures is being offered by the English Department. Twelve movies will be viewed and criticized during the course. These will include: The Great Train Robbery, Birth of a Nation, and Grapes of Wrath.

Library Extends Hours, Announces Regulations

The college library has been forced to extend its hours this semester because of increased enrollment of students. The new hours will be from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., according to Marcus Skarstedt, librarian.

Skarstedt pointed out that new students might not understand the rules of the library because of its generalized open policy. The shelves are open, which means that a student may select any book he desires. There is a tip sheet at the loan desk that will aid students to locate books on the reference shelves.

The staff asks student cooperation in maintaining order while in the library and ask that all books be charged out and returned on time.

There are more than 30,000 books on hand now and additions are being made all the time These new books are kept on a rack near the loan desk and may be checked out.

A feature of the library is the reading room where there are more than 200 of the latest editions of the leading newspapers and magazines.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1946 No. 2

Gov. Warren, Wilson Wyatt, Head Housing Ceremonies Tomorrow 2:30

Quonset Huts Region Now "Hurley Village"

Marked by the appearance of Governor Earl Warren and Wilson Wyatt, federal housing expediter, dedication ceremonies officially presenting the campus' veterans' housing site to the college will take place tomorrow on the north end of the campus, starting at 2:30 p.m.

The program will be broadcast over statewide hook-up.

The village of quonsets will be officially named Hurley Village in memory of Major John J. Hurley, former faculty instructor, who was killed in action in Italy.

Acceptance of the completed project will be made by Dean Edward E. Sandys who yesterday emphasized "that the project will be of great aid to veterans in need of housing."

The half hour program will draw numerous notables, including Mayor Lapham, College President A. J. Cloud, Preston Wright, regional veterans housing expediter; Thomas A. Brooks, local housing authority; Thomas Maloney, state assemblyman, and Garrett McEnerney II, president of the San Francisco Board of Education.

Preceding the ceremonies, a luncheon will be staged at the Hotel Whitcomb, according to Richard Audsley, of the local federal housing authority, while entertainment for the actual program will be furnished by the U. S. Navy Band from Treasure Island.

"Mr. Wyatt, of the national housing authority, is a man of great importance," Dean Sandys said, "being the final authority in all matters concerning post-war housing. One can readily understand the value of Mr. Wyatt's time; it is flattering that he should give his time to dedicate our quonset housing project."

Pictured above is the first Quonset Hut which was brought to the college months ago, during last semester. Since that day the huts have acquired coats of shining aluminum paint, interior decorations, and veteran students and their families. Tomorrow afternoon will mark the official opening of the Quonset area north at the foot of the hill, now named Hurley Village.

Social

"Serenade" Friday Night At Fairmont Gold And Red Rooms

Social season of the college will be ushered in this Friday, October 4, with an Autumn Serenade featuring handleader Dick Reinhardt, in the Gold and Red Rooms of the Fairmont Hotel.

According to Nancy Cunningham, chairman of the Social Committee, admission to the dance will be by Associated student card. Ban on the "no corsage" rule for informal dances will be lifted for the occasion, which begins at 9 p.m. and ends at midnight.

Band leader Reinhardt, now playing at the Edgewater, will have as vocalist Betty Brownell, formerly of the Henry Busse organization.

Social Committee, under the direction of Miss Cunningham, consists of Ray Bisio, Freshman president; Millie Laube, Sophomore president; Bill Holmes, Associated Men Student president, and Nancy Stookey, Associated Women Student president.

The committee has issued the following schedule for dance dates: Beta Phi Beta, September 27; Associated Students, October 4; XGI Society, October 11; Freshman Dance, October 18; AWS-AMS, November 8; Tri-E, November 27, and Sophomore Formal, January 24 or 31.

Fall Budget Deadline Slated 8 p.m. Tonight

Deadline for all Associated Student fall budget was set at 8 o'clock tonight by College Comptroller Oscar E. Anderson. Filled out in duplicate and signed by each sponsor, the forms, which were distributed last week are to be put into Dean Jack Brady's box.

Approval of each budget is given by the Student Council on requisition. Each item is discussed and lashes accordingly made.

Open from 11:45 to 1:15, the bank is selling car tickets to all students, but "is not the place to cash checks," Anderson added.

College Band To Play At Rally Here Friday

First appearance of the college band since the war will be at the Salinas Junior College rally here preceding the game Friday. The rally is slated for this Friday's college hour at 10:45, lasting until 11:30.

Madison Devlin, band instructor, announced that positions are still open in the trumpet, saxophone, and clarinet sections. The group meets in room 200 Tuesday and Thursday at one o'clock.

Planned by the rally committee, headed by Al Moffat, are rallies every week through to the Christmas period.

Future rallies scheduled are for the San Mateo game on October 24, the Modesto game November 8, and the Sacramento game on November 22.

Beginning Of The End

Tribute

Memory of Late John J. Hurley Honored By Christening of North Campus Homes

By Del Pichon

What's in a name? Well, in this particular case there's a lot in it. The Quonset Housing Project is about to be christened with a name that seems fitting in light of the man who held that name—Hurley. Yes, the Quonset area is to be named Hurley Village, in honor of a former faculty member, Major John J. Hurley.

What did he do that the Quonset area should be named in honor of him? Nothing very unusual for 1944. In fact, it was a very simple thing he did to gain this honor; he died on a battlefield in Italy, January 2, 1944. There is more to it than that, though.

Hurley had been a prominent athlete while in college and subsequently became an instructor in athletics when he graduated. In due course of time he became part of the Faculty of this college in 1930. He quickly gained friends and was well liked by members of the faculty and the students.

In '41, when the war broke out, Hurley, being a reserve officer in the Army, was called. In a short time he attained a Captaincy and was sent to England. He joined in the invasion of North Africa where by dint of his ability he was promoted to Major. He participated in the Sicilian campaign and was awarded the Silver Star for heroism in action. It was on the Italian front that he met his death.

Major Hurley was the only faculty member of the college to have been killed in the war. Therefore it seems a fitting tribute that the Quonset area should be named in honor of him, a soldier like the veterans who are to live in the huts.

SNAFU

Students "Complain" Of Literary Fraud

By William Riley

Solution of the crowded conditions existing at the San Francisco Junior College Student Store lies in the possible staggering of purchasing hours, William Ross, acting store manager, disclosed yesterday.

"Hours could be allocated," Ross said, "but it depends on the students' courses or majors. Even I know that there is need for improvement."

College students who had been standing in long lines for hours (yes, and even days) were heard to complain long and loud:

"I thought the Army was bad. The situation 'stinks!' "

"You wait three hours to reach the counter and find out the book is out of stock."

Facts and figures were discussed in drawn-out unintelligible yelps. A mechanical drawing kit, which sold for $9.75 last semester, is now worth the fabulous sum of $18.20, even though few additional items have been included.

Students who have "sweated out" the lines have remarked: "The prices are certainly scraping the ceilings of price lists authorized by the Office of Price Administration."

Veterans, sobered by the sudden transition into civies, were of the opinion that stationery kits, purported to be worth $3.20, are really worth the price of admission to Fox Theater and nothing more.

Certain books—chemistry, physics, psychology, geometry — are out of stock and will be replaced "sometime in the future," according to Ross, who also indicated that 50 per cent of the purchase price on second hand books is now being allowed.

Threats of telling all to the Better Business Bureau, the Office of Price Administration, or the nearest chaplain were bandied right and left.

All and all, the bus for Bellevue leaves the front steps of the main building at noon.

Freshmen Tea Delayed On AWS Semester Card

First social event of the fall semester calender of the Associated Women Students will be a tea welcoming all freshmen women, Nancy Stookey, president of the AWS, disclosed yesterday.

The exact date will not be determined until the administration of the college has been moved to the new administration building of the west campus.

The afternoon tea is held each semester to welcome new students and primarily to acquaint the new freshmen with the faculty and fellow classmates, and all women students of the college are invited to be in attendance.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 2 Tuesday, October 1, 1946 Page 2

This House Of Ours

Walls Come Tumbling Down If Disunity Reigns

THE veteran, as such, has fought his last battle and has merged himself into a house of beings called civilians. Acid satire on the part of a minor minority last semester struck hard with such farcical fanfare as:

"Veterans weren't asked to come back and disrupt established procedure . . ."

Granted that this is past history, we will all start on a civilian basis this semester and forget about the aforementioned entire situation.

Now this house of ours is large. Unofficial reports from the registrar's office indicate that approximately 5,200 students have already registered for the current semester.

The SRO sign is hanging in many classrooms and traffic jams between classes have reached unprecedented peaks. The lines at the cafeteria, bank, and deans' offices are long.

To some, there is untold confusion everywhere, yet everyone is assuredly aware of the superlative job the faculty has done, and is doing, to cope with the household difficulties of this house of ours.

Hardships are not at a premium!

People will be jam-packed into impossible situations much like a sell-out of first-nighters "waiting in the outer lobby only!" Odds can be posted in your favor if everyone puts himself to the task of heeding the counsel and instructions of the faculty and representatives of student government.

The bright selling point of this house of ours is the festive autumn carnival of sports that is upon us—remembered namely by the Friday afternoon gridiron clash between the college and Long Beach City College at Kezar Stadium.

The Associated Student officers elected to office at last semester's heated elections have planned a long list of household activities in the form of rallies, dances, assemblies, and athletic contests.

Certainly we can add to this display of civilian tact by honestly trying to take an active or eye-witness part.

Crowded quarters and the proverbial SRO sign for the more than 5,200 students here on the campus will have an effect that will border close to prospective contempt. Keeps the walls from tumbling down for yourself and for this house of ours.

Ford

After Dark

THE BIG SLEEP looms a cinema in the night after Sunset Boulevard is a shadow. Humphrey Bogart does some fine dialogue and as all the current idols are doing, gets the usual mauling and roughing up in a great variety of alleys and garages. America need not worry about rearmament. There are enough guns flashed in The Big Sleep to wage global warfare.

Highnote of the picture was Lauren Bacall's reference to Marcel Proust's writing habits. After that followed a line (like the one outside the bookstore) of gamblers, D. A.'s, blackmailers, eccentrics, gangsters, idlots, private detectives, coroners, and cadavers.

The end of the picture leaves Bogart, Bacall, and President Truman standing. Silence reigns.

* * *

The last column ended with the promise of information and sidelights on the forthcoming series of avant-garde films to be shown at the San Francisco Museum of Art. Here it is. The first of the series of ten films was shown last Friday at 8 p.m. The films are concerned with modern art forms—surrealist, non-objective, abstract, and fantastic. The series is being jointly sponsored by the Museum, the California School of Fine Arts, and Circle Magazine. The program last Friday dealt with the Precursors to the Avant-garde film, and included some very early Skladonowsky primitives (1896), a sequence from The Golem, and Robert Wiene's The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari. Inquiries should be directed to Mrs. Noble Hamilton of the Museum.

Around And About

with Nagle

AN enterprising gentleman walked into The Guardsman office last week offering 15 (count 'em) FREE milkshakes to the first RAM football hero to cross the goal line in the first game of the season. Provided the RAMS made no points (heaven forbid), he would not renege his offer, but offered the suggestion that one of the groups in the college combine efforts and piek the gent they thought was the most outstanding player in the game.

SPEAKING OF WOMEN

A recent issue of a women's fashion magazine sent several he-men ex-GI's out on a fact-finding survey to six women's college. Their report on what was being worn, and what they liked to see worn said "big demand for the black jersey pullover—easy fitting skirts —and plaids." To this we should add Belts—wide, narrow, criss-crossed, double, braided, and what have you. Mix together and you have a typical junior college student.

WANTED

Tennis shoes. With the floor of the women's gym all freshly refinished, gym officials shudder when so much as an eye roves around the floor unclad in tennis shoes. BUT, where does one find the shoes? Several local shoppes have large banners proudly boasting that inside they have tennis shoes. But, upon getting inside, a clerk eyes you suspiciously for even suggesting that they have such items. "Better luck next month," they slyly remark as you crawl out on all fours.

SEEN AROUND

Men's fashions have again been used for the model of the well-dressed San Francisco college gal. Namely, a suit with plaid skirt, ped-topped, and worn with a grey jacket complete with plaid revers a la the well-dressed man-about-town in tails.

HEARD AROUND

One of the humble staff writers of this sheet, complaining that his field jacket was too large because everytime he went out with a woman she coyly mentioned how "cute" his jacket was, tried it on, and immediately took possession. Seem his supply is now sadly becoming depleted.

Personally, we think it is a great idea—but we're holding out for an officer's type OD battle jacket.

MODERN GENERATION

Hot off the wires is the announcement that plastic hosiery won't help the nylon shortage for some months to come. Seems plastic threat can't compete with nylon in either endurance or price. ATTN: Physicists: What about "atomized" stockings?

RECONVERSION NOTE

Parked quietly outside the quonset huts on Phelan Avenue 'tother day was a tailor-tot. If General Eisenhower could only see his quonset huts NOW!

* * *

PROGRESS?

A step in the right direction is the acquisition of property inhabited by the Navy during war years, leaving us still—you guessed it—San Francisco "Junior" College.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Drive-in Derelicts; Counting Noses; Lost And Found

A quick tour of the used car marts, scattered about San Francisco like miniature golf courses of an era gone by, shows some likely looking hulks selling for fantastic prices despite a reputed OPA ceiling on such goods. Want ads show an even sadder story than the various car lots, for they usually name the price asked for the dubious modes of transportation. This is more than is normally showing on the windshields of the vehicles in question, provided they have a windshield on them to begin with.

Deluxe Models Have Wheels

When Henry Ford came up with his celebrated "A" model Ford, he probably had little idea of the rugged durability of his pride and joy; no lot is complete without one. Before the war, the bailing wire and Scotch tape limousines went for prices ranging from $35 to $50, now they can't be touched for less than $175. One model recently appeared, buried far down in the ads, boasting of brand new 1946 wheels and going for the modest price of $300. At least it did have wheels on it; though it would be a steal if it were up on blocks.

Next Bout on UN Card

Clearing the ground for the coming knock 'em down and drag 'em out brawl at Lake Success, which is sure to result when America requests control over certain strategic Paeific islands rather than entrusting them to joint control, Russia has recently asked for a complete, detailed inventory of all Allied troops in states other than ex-enemy territories.

The request was turned down by a seven to two vote by the Security Council, thus saving certain agencies a gigantic job, for to comply with the request strictly to the letter would require the services of many and varied departments, including the Explorer's Club and the National Geographic Society for technical advice on the matter.

Lost Patrol

It will be a tough job counting them but the Russians want a detailed report and by all means they should get exactly what they're looking for. Biggest difficulty in the matter will probably lie in the western Pacific where they have enough trouble on their hands finding misplaced islands, let alone men on them.

In the War Department, the Signal Corps should be quizzed most thoroughly on the subject because of the manner in which they recklessly scattered about small teams of Aircraft Warning units on eaeh and every rock in that big pond.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

SEEMS that the college is slipping, literally, that is!

Ah, the futility of architecture! The noted planners worry and fret for years about how to set a building so that it will not slide off the top of a hill, and, after getting it fully built, find that the addition of a mere two or three thousand extra persons on the summit are enough to cause gravity to enforce its law.

Thus, we find ourselves settling both on the northern and western bottoms of our precious mound.

Naturally this downslide accentuates one of the most painful problems of the college, namely, how to get to the top of the hill and still have breath enough to carry on the duties of the day.

Continuance of the upward treck for a few months may cause many students to become victims of long-wind-ed-itis, since the continued exertion will doubtless strengthen the lungs. Tuba players have found their paradise!

With the innovation of the West Campus, formerly housing the patriotic girls in blue, many a soul will shortly be soleless because of persistant hunger pangs. No longer are students able to appease a gnawing appetite simply by running down a flight of stairs and popping a handful of potatoe chips into the facial cavity.

Now they either bring along some coveted "K" rations, or an alpenstock.

However, if anyone straining his eyes at the present moment has any inclination to feel sorry for himself in his sad plight, let him be reminded that students at the college ten years ago had their problems, too, and today's hardships seem tame by comparison.

In September, 1936, the college campus consisted of the University of California Extension Building on Powell Street, Galileo High School, and Mission High School, each within an easy hour's distance of each other. In those days students suffered from long-leg-iv-itis from standing sideways on Powell Street between classes.

And now ten years have passed and times have changed indeed. While sliding gracefully down to the cafeteria, one has the thought that History has need of a bit of bicarbonate!

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Progressives Seek Remedies For Traffic, Book Store Congestion

• Look To The Beavers

Editor, The Guardsman:

Vets are wandering around the college halls asking each other, "When is your hitch up?" which, of course, means, "When are you getting out of college?"

Some of them, deluded souls, still think they are in the service. There are enough lines (book store line, coffee line, etc.) around here to give anyone that illusion.

Everyone realizes that the educational institutions in America are not equipped to meet the returning overflow of Vets, and are endeavoring to do this, BUT, does everything have to be run like the service?

Why not ask three or four fellows from each class to leisurely saunter down to the book store and piek up books for the entire class. Why do it the hard way? Some students have waited three hours in line and no soap. Let us look to the beavers; they are happy and they work together. Is it asking too much?

There still seems to be a parking situation around the college. Where are all the discharged coordinators and general office advisory boards that did their bit in organizing Army and Naval efficiency?

Or is the parking situation a tradition here?

—F. K.

• We're A Big College

Editor, The Guardsman:

J. C. is no longer in its infancy.

At one time the present Student Store served the college efficiently and well. (They tell us.)

This was quite a while ago. It is now time to grow up. Most campuses are aiding their students through student cooperatives. Why are we missing the boat?

We are progressing rapidly in our educational program. Why be medieval and expect 5,200 students to receive their books and various supplies through one monopolistic organization?

We have acquired Balboa Park. Expansion has begun. Let is continue.

We are in a big college, we want to be treated like a big college now.

Give us a Student Cooperative!

—Shirley Wood
Gloria Larson
Florence Gee
George Alexander
Marge Whearty.

Guardsman Staff—
Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Robert A. Cetudio
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cevenor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayley, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Jack Rhodes, Ron Crawford.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHERS: Donald Lum, Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hansan, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser ..... Joan Nourse
Business Adviser ..... Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 2 TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1946 Page 3

Quote

"It was an exciting and interesting ball game and I believe our boys were mighty lucky to come out on top. Yep, that third quarter passback from center was unfortunate, to say the least."—Ed Wagner, Long Beach City College.

Vikings Smash Rams 13-6 In Opener

WAA

WomenWAA Hopefuls Urged To Register For Fall Semester

Impressive and inviting plans were placed on the agenda of the Women's Athletic Association by Frances Scilipoti, WAA president, who yesterday reiterated a plea for more active participants among the college's women enrollees.

That the tentative list of sports for the current semester would include volleyball, tennis, archery, swimming, horseback riding, badminton, and field hockey, was affirmed by Miss Scilipoti, who also stressed "commitments for a dance to be staged shortly."

Women interested in joining the WAA are requested to contact Miss Scilipoti or Gloria Swieegood, WAA faculty adviser, in the women's gymnasium office as soon as possible.

Football

Cowboy-SF Tilt For Washington Bowl

Indifference concerning the site of Friday's football clash with Salinas Junior College was officially erased early yesterday by President A. J. Cloud, who announced George Washington High School Stadium as the scene of action.

The Salinas squad—coached by Eddie Adams—receipted for a thorough 25 to 0 setback last year at the expense of a war-time provincial Ram aggregation.

Partisans supporters have already tabbed the Rams as 3 to 1 favorites to measure the surly Cowboys.

Lineups:

SALINAS—	Pos.	—S. F.
Fastman	LER	Poznkoff
Williams	LTR	Hoffman
Hunter	LGR	Belcher
C. Garnero	C	Didlo
Pia	RGL	Miller
Jensen	RTL	Tomasello
McAdams	REL	Cronn
F. Garnero	Q	Webster
Twitchell	LHR	Rainey
Smith	RHL	Ekdall
Behlke	F	Crouch

Aftermath

Norsemen Return To Oil Center Normalcy

LONG BEACH, Cal., Oct. 1.—A bit weary, though none the less unhappy after their weekend tour, Head Football Coach Eddie Wagner and his 31 pigskin-toting proteges settled down to classroom study here yesterday.

"The boys played a swell game up north (against San Francisco Junior College)," Wagner ruefully remarked, "and we're looking forward to next year's game here."

Southland Trek Lures Bumper Cage Turnout

Fall semester basketball sign-ups took a decided splurge upwards this week as more than 35 hopefuls—mindful of a Christmas holiday sweep through the southland—reported to Coaches. Ralph Hillsman and Tom Wilson.

Prospects included service vets and promising high school graduates, but no "talk of championships" is being considered, according to Wilson.

Head Football Coach Lee Eisan

Intramural

Oct. 4 Deadline For Hoop Tourney

Effective deadline for intramural basketball entries in the college's forthcoming cago tourney is 5 p.m., Friday, Tom Wilson, intramural director, disclosed late yesterday afternoon.

Thus far not a single entry has been received by Wilson, but it is hoped that applications will be rolling into the men's gymnasium office early this week.

Feature attractions of the "all-out-mportant" tourney semester are the Associated Men Students-Intramural Boxing Carnival and the climactic Sports Night, whence medals for first and second place entrants and teams will be presented.

Team and individual entries will also be accepted for tennis, table tennis, volleyball, touch tackle football, horse-shoes, swimming, bowling and softball, Wilson said.

"Intramural sports should be an integral part of campus activities," Wilson explained, "and with the more than 3,000 men already registered here, tournament play should reach a new high."

The President Cloud Perpetual Trophy will again be awarded to the athletic organization compiling the greatest number of team points during the semester's tournament play.

Salinas Squad Preps For San Franciscans

SALINAS, Calif., Sept. 30.—Coach Ed Adams' Salinas Junior College gridders went through a light three hour basic fundamental drill here this afternoon prepping for Friday's San Francisco encounter.

Pivotman's Error Costly; Riccovono Paces Southerners

By Bob Catudio

Legendary Norseman luck and a swift-moving, 165 pound Viking halfback—Joe Riccovono—were largely responsible for Long Beach City College's 13 to 6 triumph over the Rams at Kezar Stadium Saturday afternoon before 4,000 partisan customers.

The invaders struck first on their initial offensive play of the afternoon when Riccovono slashed inside tackle, cutback to the sideline, and scampered 81 yards for the marker. Harry Minor booted the extra point.

In the second period, with 55 seconds remaining before the half, the Southerners barged across again, Riccovono hitting Left End Harry Dugan with a 28 yard aerial, putting the ball on the five from which point Minor skirted around end for the counter.

The locals tallied their lone touchdown in the second quarter when Quarterback Kenny White romped 20 yards off tackle.

Strangely enough, the Rams were one foot away from paydirt in the third period when Pivotman John Didio cut loose a loose passback from center that netted the locals a 23 yard loss, a setback from which they never recovered.

Staten Webster, starting quarterback, emerged from the game with a slightly injured ankle bruise that hampered his quarterbacking for the afternoon as both White and George Newell took over.

Standout Long Beach performers were the aforementioned Riccovono, tight Halfback Minor, Hank Ennen, center, and tailback Jerry Scott, who started the fracas in lieu of Bobby Kipper.

White, Art Ekdall, Don Grant, Chuck Belcher, and Didio, despite his unfortunate third period bobble, topped the local thespians. After being outcharged, outgained, and outmaneuvered in the first half, the owmies held the Signal Hill elan on even terms for the remainder of the afternoon.

But the die was cast on a slippery pellet that turned its nose away from six points and possible victory!

Score by periods:

Long Beach	7	6	0	0	—13
SFJC	0	6	0	0	— 6

Veracity does not consist in saying, but in the intention of communicating truth.

—Samuel Taylor Coleridge.

A Roos Bros service for discharged veterans

Free wallet-size, plastic sealed photostatic copy of your discharge papers

This is the actual size of the Plasti-seal.

Bring in your original Discharge Certificate and Roos Bros will make you a handy, wallet-size photostatic copy of it FREE OF CHARGE. This free photostatic copy will be securely sealed in a plastic cover to carry with you. You can then file away your original Discharge Certificate for safe keeping. Just bring in your Discharge Certificate to Roos Bros. It takes ten days to make this plasti-seal copy.

IMPORTANT—We cannot be responsible for discharge certificates mailed to us. Bring your certificate to Roos Bros so we can issue you a receipt.

This FREE service is available at all Roos Bros stores

Roos Bros
Outfitters since 1865

Intramural Basketball Entries Due October 4

Those interested in the opening intramural round robin must have their entries in by Friday, October 4, according to Intramural Director Tom Wilson. Entries will be accepted every day by Wilson in the office of the men's gymnasium through October 4. Managers of club or independent teams should fill out the application below.

Name of college organization represented .....

If independent team, name of team .....

Manager of Team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Captain of team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Name of Players: 1. .....
2. .....
3. .....
4. .....
5. .....
6. .....

Signed .....
(Team Manager)

Drama

Tryouts For Parts This Thursday; Many Roles Open

Tryouts for the productions of the college drama classes which meet every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon in Room 209 and and Room 28 will be open Thursday afternoon, October 3, from 3:10 to 5:00 p.m. to all members of the student body who are interested in taking parts in the plays, whether or not they are members of the class, Lloyd Sissler, and Ruth Somers, drama instructors, announced this week.

Students wishing to try out for parts should be sure of enough time in their schedules for rehearsals, they pointed out.

"I hope a great number will turn out and be interested in drama as an extra curricular activity," Sisler added.

New to the college this semester, Sissler has worked with drama and speech at the University of Southern California and has directed such productions as Tovarich, Man Who Came to Dinner, Arsenic and Old Lace, George Washington Slept Here, Sigmund Romberg's New Moon, and Victor Herbert's Red Mill.

J. Paul Mohr, college vice president, announced during registration the removal of basic skills as a prerequisite for Speech 41 and 42.

Students assigned to such courses, however, must take basic skills concurrently, he explained.

WANTED: Permanent part-time comptometer operators—$1.00 per hour. Call Rapid Computing Agency—GReystone 7143—1254 Bush Street.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Beta Tau: Smoker will be held October 3, Thursday, at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel.

•Delta Psi: Sunday, October 13, will mark the beginning of this season's rushing. The tea will be held at Nancy Stookey's home. A meeting will be held Tuesday, October 8, at the home of Jo Ellen Cain. The address will be posted on the bulletin board.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: A smoker will be held at the St. Francis Hotel tonight at 7 o'clock.

•Kappa Phi: The first rush of the season will be a tea held on Sunday, October 6.

•Theta Tau: There will be a meeting tomorrow night at the home of Maggie Band, 2587 22nd Avenue, starting at 7:30 sharp.

Deadlines for submitting news to this column are Monday and Wednesday at 1 p.m., The Guardsman office, Room 134.

Excelsior Continues Identical Curriculum

Excelsior Annex, located at Excelsior and London Streets, opened its doors to students on Monday, September 23. Operating along the same lines as during the previous semester, it provides facilities for those who find it necessary to make up high school credits. Though not expressly designed as such, the school's enrollment of more than 200 students, is made up principally of veterans.

Excelsior school operates under the joint jurisdiction of the Board of Education and the college.

ATTENTION—XGI's. For Sale: Two blue serge suits, size 40 regular, very reasonable: Phone ELtridge 3246 after 4 p.m.

Housing

Former Officer's Quarters To House Married Students

Housing facilities for single veterans are closed, but there are about 50 vacancies for married couples in the officers' quarters on the west campus, it was announced by Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Married couples may sign up for these quarters at Dean Sandy's office. Rental is 30 dollars a month now, but it is expected that the price will drop in the future.

Dean Sandys also said that the Quonsets are full now, with fifty couples in and fifty more waiting. There are more Quonsets on order, but a tie-up in the procurement section is making it impossible to get any more constructed at the present time.

Southland Announces Birth Of Junior College

Pasadena, California, gave birth to a Junior College early this month and tagged the offspring John Muir, after the famed naturalist of the same name.

Details of size and weight at birth are lacking but it is known that the college is coeducational.

Congratulations are offered Dr. Archie M. Turrell, principal of the youthful institution, and sincere best wishes are sent for all possible success.

If the college follows the precedent set by Pasadena Junior College, the citizens of California will be grateful for another place where the youth of the state may receive the best in education.

Music

College A Cappella Choir Organizes; Additional Voices Still Needed For Both Men's And Women's Choruses

Roster of the college A Cappella Choir was filled last week with the close of the audition period and a full complement of voice parts present.

In making this announcement, Flossita Badger, choir director, pointed out that openings do still remain in both the Men's Chorus and the Women's Chorus.

Auditions for the Men's Chorus, also under the direction of Miss Badger, will continue through this week, today and Thursday afternoons at 2 o'clock in Room 256. Credit of one unit is allowed for members.

Women's Chorus auditions are scheduled for today and Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock in Room 200. Members here also are allowed one unit of credit.

The latter group is under the direction of Gertrude Norgard, who joined the college music department this semester.

Mrs. Norgard was choral director at Balboa High School and was formerly a member of the music department of Lowell High School.

In the Women's Chorus most vacancies exist in the first soprano and second alto divisions, Mrs. Norgard said.

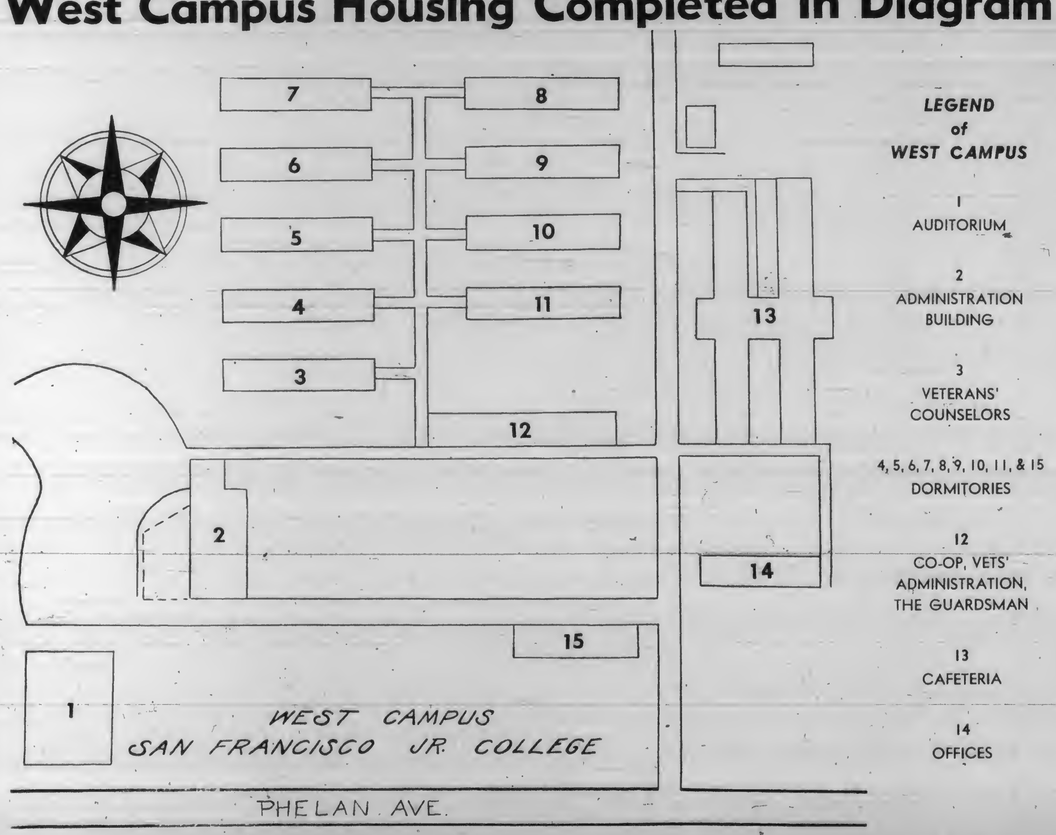
Tenors are needed in the Men's Chorus as well as an accompanist. Tentative plans call for training of a student director of the group, Miss Badger explained.

The choir, nucleus for the annual Christmas programs off the campus, numbers 56, including 16 sopranos, 13 altos, 11 tenors, and 16 basses. Pins are awarded to members by the Associated Student.

Employment

Demand For Office Help Grows Heavy

That many jobs are open for men and women students, was announced last week by Joseph A. Amori, placement director for the college.



Amori stressed the great demand for clerical workers, especially business machine operators. Part-time as well as full-time positions are now open. Students should seek employment only after being certain as to their courses.

Employment opportunities of all types appear on the work bulletin board near the main staircase on the first floor. As the positions are filled they will be designated as such, Amori announced.

Besides Civil Service work, there are jobs open for soda fountain positions, stock clerks, typists, garage work, bank work, and numerous others.

Because of the increased enrollment at the college, Amori warned students wishing particular jobs to apply as soon as possible to avoid disappointment. Students contemplating employment should apply at the placement office, Room 155.

West Campus Housing Completed In Diagram

Social

Traditional Frosh Dance Opens Season Tonight At Fairmont

Featuring the music of Dick Reinhardt and his orchestra, Autumn Serenade, traditional Freshman dance, will take place this evening, from 9 to 12 o'clock in the Gold and Red Rooms of the Fairmont Hotel.

In keeping with the past policy of Freshman semi-formal dances, the request was made that no corsages be worn by the women. This is a change from a ruling made last week.

From all reports, the dance is expected to be a gala affair and large numbers are expected to attend. The Social Committee in charge promised a gay time for all.

Admission to the affair will be Associated Student card, although veterans may wear discharge buttons and present their pink registration cards for admission.

The social committee in charge of the dance under the chairmanship of Nancy Cunningham includes Ray Bisio, Freshman class president; Millie Laube, Sophomore class president; Bill Holmes, Associated Men Student president, and Nancy Stookey, Associated Women Student president.

56 A Cappella Choir Members Name Leaders

Newly elected officers of the college A Cappella Choir and a complete list of the members were announced this week by Flossita Badger, choir director. Leslie MacGowan will serve as manager; James Finley, replacing Ada Hamlin who has left the college, is assisting manager and Jane Swendsen assumes duties as secretary for this semester's singing organization.

Soprano voices that will be heard in the new choir will include Gertrude Brown, Marion Bryant, Jane Chambers, Jacqueline Deasy, Margery Fulton, Gwendolyn Jones, Madeline La Fond, Juanita McKinney, Gloria Orzanco, Johne Olsen, Mary Roberts, Helen Setalov, Lois Smith, Jane Swendsen and Frances Thollander.

Tenors include Roy Abad, Leonard Butler, Howard Crouch, Joseph Fraser, Edward Gong, Roland Jones, Henry Kline, Ralph Ricks, Daniel Segrove, Gordon Smith, and Harry Wong.

Contraltos of the group are as follows: Geraldine Akey, Doris Doyle, Peggy Gay, Alice Hanu, Martha Lee, Vyeth Moffatt, Joanne Oakes, Louise Moore, Jeanette Peterson, Jeanne

(Continued on page 4, column 3)

College Hymn

Alma Mater of our hearts
Blessings be thine ever
Though we travel distant parts
Lose thee we will never.
For on mem'ry's sea of years
Thou wilt ever sail
Here's a toast through shining tears
To thee Hail! Hail!

* * *

Alma Mater dear to us
On Balboa's strand
Bind our souls in sacred trust
Guide us mighty hand.
All through life we'll see thy light,
Thee we'll never fail
Here's a pledge old Red and White
To thee Hail! Hail!

* * *

The above hymn was written by three men students in 1938, Sherman Grant, Chason Tucker, and Tak Iijima. The three, members of the A Cappella Choir, collaborated in words, music, and harmony, and copyrighted the results.

The only other college song is a "fight" song written for a college song contest held in 1945, and for which 23 songs were submitted, the winner of the contest being Al Rubke. The contest did not demand original words and music, but all of the 23 songs submitted contained original lyrics and scores.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1946 No. 3

College Hour Schedule

9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

AGS

104 Honor Students To Elect Officers At First Meeting

With the completion of the membership list of Alpha Gamma Sigma, scholastic organization of the college, plans are now under way to elect officers at the first meeting of the semester, announced E. A. Cranston, adviser.

Requirements for the AGS rating are 30 grade points in not less than 12 units and no D's or F's.

The following is a list of the 104 new members to the society:

Roy Abad, Ben Adam, Joseph Barton, Thomas Batzer, Richard Blhr, Charles Bookout, Mary Borg, Robert Brodkey, John Bruce, Eugene Bulin, Willard Cain, Thomas Cham, Mary Ching, Michael Coco, Bernice Crowder, Howard Dank, Irene Davis, Shirley de Curtoni, Stewert Dimon, Philip Dinsmore, Jack Dreifull, Mildred Ergas.

Barbara Fong, Granville Forrest, Rogert Fourcade, Mario Francis, Joseph Fraser, Peggy Gay, Florence Gee, William Godsave, Antoinette Gotelli, Eugene Hague, Florine Hamilton, Kenneth Gargreaves, Howard Hein, Loretta Hermann, Margie Hodges, Sherrill Houghton, Noreen Kindergan, John Kolimann, Wilma Krase.

Ronald Langton, Lucille Lavezo, Annie Lee, Mary Lee, Charles Le Week, Marvin Licht, Eugene Little, Pauline Louie, Eugene Luke, Marjorie Maffei, Mary Mangan, Grace Mayfield, Nello Micheleti, Dorothy Mugele, Betty Mullen, William Neff, Eleanor Newell, Albert Ng, Gordon Norbom, Philip Onstott.

Valentine Padovan, Franklin Piltz, Robert Powers, Shirley Purvis, Eleanor Reed, Helen Reed, Adele Reinisch, Helen Ringius, Barbara Robins, Adele Rogers, Dolores Sager, Carol Schutt, Mary Jane Sheehy, Albert Silverstein, Ernest Smith, Marylyn Smith, Marvelle Smith, Roland Smith.

Harriet Solomon, August Specht, John Stahmann, Nancy Stookey, Dorothy Swanson, Helen Tanner, Charles Thollander, Raymond Tiffany, James Turner, Donald Wacks, Charles Wendland, Sydney Winchester, Betty Wiltrich, Biddy Woverton, Everett Wong, Mathilda Wong, William Wong, Harmon Wong-Woo, Ronald Wylie, Cum Gong Young, Walter Zdasink, Winneton Zuckmayer.

All new students of the college who hold permanent membership in the California Scholarship Federation are eligible to become Associate Members of the Alpha Gamma Sigma by notifying Cranston.

Registrar

"Blue Slip" Required For Program Changes

With the filing of enrollment books completed this week, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, announced Tuesday the following procedure to govern all contemplated class changes:

An official change of program card must be secured from the Registrar's office. This card must ben taken to the instructor of the class to be dropped and also to the instructor of the new class the student desires to enter.

Upon completion of the card by both instructors concerned, it must be returned to the registrar's office not later than Wednesday, November 13.

Students dropping a course without observing this procedure are subject to an automatic failure in that course, Miss Learnard cautioned.

Drama

Oscar Wilde Play Production Planned

Presentation by the drama group of the Birthday of the Infanta, Oscar Wildes' famous play, is scheduled to be produced within the next three or four weeks in the Little Theatre, it was announced this week by Ruth Somers, drama instructor.

The play, dealing with a Spanish princess and a dwarf will be produced by the Speech 41B class in oral interpretation. Although only one act, "the play will run for one hour. It will be the opening production of the semester.

Drama hopefuls are requested to report to the instructor and time of days as indicated below:

Tuesday, October 8—Room 209, 1-3 p.m. (Somers).

Thursday, October 10—Room 209, 1-3 p.m. (Somers).

Tuesday, October 8—Room 28, 3-5 p.m. (Sisler).

Thursday, October 10—Room 28, 3-5 p.m. (Sisler).

John Blauer, Gloria Orzanco, Ronald Langton, and Marie Simmons, whose work is pleasantly remembered in former Little Theatre plays, will do the production as part of the class work in 41B. "Settings and costumes will be in keeping with the days of the Spanish Inquisition," Mrs. Somers said.

In the past, the Little Theatre has produced such three act plays as Young April, Brief Music, Letters to Lucerne, Spring Green, Squaring the Circle, and, last semester, Thunder Rock. Many popular one-act plays have also been presented.

Sisler said that for his first production at the college he is considering such comedies as George Washington Slept Here, Arsenic and Old Lace, and Heaven Can Wait. "One-act plays will be produced all along," Sisler added.

Room 28 is located in the student lounge and has a platform which Sisler hopes to have equipped as a stage in the near future. It can seat an estimated 125 people.

Olsen Named Veteran Sen. Training Officer

William I. Olsen has replaced Richard Dettering as Senior Training Officer in the Veterans Administration Office on the campus. He is assisted by Jo Ann Hancock.

All veterans who have applied for letters of eligibility since registering at the college are requested by Olsen to inquire at Building 3 on the West Campus.

Rally

25 Man Band Will Make Debut At Pep Grid Fest Scheduled For College Hour Today In Front Of Science Building

For the first time in the history of the college, a band will play the College Hymn at the pre-Salinas grid game rally to be held in front of the Science Building during the college hour today at 10:45, Rally Commissioner Al Moffat announced.

Darelyne Patton, a Freshman from Washington High School and versatile singer of popular songs, is to be the star attraction of the rally. Miss Patton, who has recently been connected with the Armed Forces Entertainment Committee, now entertains at various hospitals throughout the Bay Area, Moffat said.

Salinas to Appear

Peggy Gay and Roy Abad, masters of the accordian, who made their debut at last semester's rallies, are scheduled to appear. Representatives of the Salinas football team are expected to be present to air their views on the potentialities of the two teams.

Moffat stated that the XGI Sociey deserves a vote of thanks for the use of the Public Address equipment contributed for the rally. The rally is scheduled to last one-half hour, and Moffat emphasized that students will have plenty of time to get to class without leaving early.

Moffat Predicts New Era

"Now that the band is formed and we have capable yell leaders," Moffat concluded, "students may witness the dawn of a new era of college spirit which has been aroused by their own newly-awakened interest in college activities."

Members of the band are as follows: Fred Anderson, Calvin Apter, John Bay, Melvin Cheney, Nicholas D'Angelli, Nicholas Ernser, James Givens, Thora Grapes, Fred Howell.

Morris Jackson, Milton Knutsen, Walter Lauer, Guido Lavorini, Wayne Lazarus, Walter McRae, Joe Oliver, Johne Owen, Rudolph Pecci, Bob Rowe, Anderson Scott, John Sund, Mario Surael, Maxine Tryon, Frank Warn, Charles Winston.

Madison Devlin is director of the band.

Veterans

GI Bill Students Must File VA Forms

All veterans now in training under Public Law 346 (G. I. Bill) must have on record in the Regional Office of the Veterans Administration, San Francisco, by November 6, 1946, a completed VA Form 7-1961 in order to continue to receive subsistence payments after that date.

The report must be made by all trainees regardless of whether or not they are employed and the amount of income derived from such employment. It also must be submitted by those veterans who are not receiving, or do not anticipate receiving a subsistence allowance.

Blank forms may be secured from the office of the Veterans' Administration Training Officer, Building 3, West Campus. Completed reports should be returned to that office by November 1, 1946.

West Campus Housing Units Near Capacity

Accommodations for veteran students in the new West Campus addition are fast becoming filled, according to Edward E. Sandys, Dean of Men.

A total of 90 veterans has already moved into the former enlisted personnel barracks, while ten married couples are occupying the officers' quarters.

These housing facilities are available to veteran students and their wives only, and rent is 15 dollars per person a month. Blankets, linens and room furnishings are being supplied.

Administration

Lloyd Luckmann Now Assistant To President; Work "Strictly Nocturnal"

By Del Plehon

Directing the activities of education on a nocturnal basis is the job of Lloyd D. Luckmann, newly-appointed assistant to the college president, and Luckmann, ex-Hilltopper, went on record to acclaim his position as "strictly nocturnal."

As assistant to President A. J. Cloud, his duties are multiple and will run the gamut of every college agency. Perhaps it would be enough to say that from 5 to 10 p.m. he is the chief executive at the college.

Luckmann has a background that is in keeping with his present position—divergent. He was graduated from the University of San Francisco in 1931 with an AB, then he proceeded to acquire his MA at Stanford University. In 1932 he became an instructor in political science at USF simultaneously acquiring his LLB.

In May of 1935 he joined the faculty of the college, entering the political science department. Since that time he has remained with the college with the exception of a year or so, during which time he was attached to the Pacific Division Training Office of the U. S. Army Engineers in the capacity of chief expediter. At the present time he is striving for his PhD degree.

During the war, Luckmann devoted much of his time to federal agencies, many in which he still remains active, namely, the San Francisco Civil Service Training Unit and the War Assets Administration.

At present, Luckmann is located in Room 123, Dean Edward E. Sandys' office; he will be present in his office from 2 to 10 p.m. during class days.

"Night students should come in and ask for more varied courses, for it is impossible to meet their needs without knowing what their needs are," Luckmann said. "If enough people come in and declare their needs, the college will make an attempt to alleviate the situation by the introduction of a more varied curriculum."

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 3 Friday, October 4, 1946 Page 2

What Price Ceilings

Cry Havoc Hits Campus

THE just and domineering Thurman Arnold would do well to park his protests on the front steps of the San Francisco Junior College Book Store, where the threats and arguments against the aforementioned private utility are crashing to earth.

Innumerable students and a number of sympathizing faculty members are all out for means and ways to alleviate the "goodly intentions" of the book store that have backfired into a gag for semesters to come.

Long waiting lines, exorbitant prices, invisible commissions, and comic merchandise are taxing the local gentry's ability to think of words to describe the issue.

Were Mr. Arnold here, he would, no doubt, yell "monopoly and unjust" and have the forces of deviltry cringing in their boot tops, but no one has the right to convict prior to the articles of justice that must be factually presented.

Yet there exists a condition that must be remedied for all parties concerned, namely: the student, the educator, and the merchant. Suggested cures include the staggering of book purchasing hours and minor contributions of wit and method that shall forever remain anonymous for the intellectual honor of the frivolant. for the intellectual honor of the frivolous.

usual prices" for certain merchandise whose stability in context is the same—but whose financial value has loomed skyward in unthinkable figures.

Certainly the book store isn't the only private holding that relies upon textbook sales as its main course of livelihood. And judging from registration practicalities, the college, as a unit, could do as much (if not more) in aligning textbooks in a proper and yet convenient manner.

Yet Mr. Arnold is elsewhere and the cry of "Wolf" will still be eminent!

Ford

After Dark

FOR certain fans it is interesting to note that "Memoirs of Hecate County," by Edmund Wilson, is on sale in all the book stores of Pacific Grove, perhaps the most "moral" little community on the Pacific Coast. No sensational crime waves or excessive juvenile delinquency have been noted to date. Incidentally, the trial ended eight to four in favor of acquittal (teh-teh).

Tonight's program for the "Art in Cinema" series will be the French Avantgarde and will feature the famous "Ballet Mechanique," directed by Fernand Leger, and "Entr' Act," directed by Rene Clair. When Clair left Hollywood he said, "Bah, Americans don't go to the movies to see ideas! They go to see faces!"

For those still in the dark world of "never-no" concerning the Art in Cinema series, it is perhaps the most significant group of films ever to be shown here. The writer of this column is NOT working for the San Francisco Museum of Art, unhappy little man that he is.

One of the best things on exhibit at the San Francisco Museum is "Night Scene," painted by Matthew Barnes. Oh, brethern, it's powerful!

Isn't San Francisco getting arty? My, my . . .

* * *

Somewhat after the manner of Raphael Sanzio, Victor de Wilde has created unusual perspective in his painting, "Green Pastures," now on exhibit at the San Francisco Museum of Art.

* * *

The Adventures of Wesley Jackson by William Saroyan is so beautifully simple, so utterly human, that many people are rushing home and tearing up all their copies of Plato. Touching gesture.

* * *

For Digest lovers, there is an interesting condensation of the life of Oscar Wilde in the October issue of Omnibook Magazine. Perhap the wittiest Wildian Pearl dropped in the article: "Of what use is it to a man to travel 60 miles an hour? Is he any better for it? Why, a fool can buy a railroad ticket and travel sixty miles an hour. Is he any less a fool?"

Around and About

with Nagle

LAST Friday afternoon red and white streamer bedecked autos—caravaning to Kezar . . . men and women, 4,000 strong yelling for the RAMS . . . many hoarse and throaty voices resulting from yells (but that's all college life in the football season) . . . Sunday, students of the College giving forth their all for the U. S. F. Dons . . . proves we are democratic!

SEEN AROUND

Celebrating the college's loss at the dance after the game was Laurel Nelson, gayly dressed in a plaid cupped sleeve sport dress. In an all white cardigan jacket was Virginia Soulder. As far as we are concerned, all a wardrobe need consist of is a couple of skirts, AND a white cardigan jacket. Love those things!

Also seen around the dance was Shirley Ross, natily attired in a grey two-piece sport dress with three-quarter sleeves.

From these several examples, new students may gather that clothes for dances-after-games need be no problem—anything from sweaters and skirts to sport dresses, to practically anything but formals, goes.

As sports clothes are worn five days a week to class, we'd like to see a plan initiated to have all dances informal. True, sports clothes, particularly sweaters and skirts, are comfortable and typically Californian, but WHY wear them out dancing at night, too? A little dressing up "raises one's morale" immeasurably. San Francisco is known for its best dressed women—let's not let down the nation, and maybe wear dresses—black, print or wool, low cut peasant blouses and black skirts—oh, almost anything, but not sweaters and skirts to dances!

IT TAKES ALL KINDS

Things can, and often do, happen in Union Square Garage. This is one tale, and true, s'help me. A very flustered sweet young thing was waiting in line to hand in her claim check and fifty cents, when she suddenly discovered she had the fifty cents but that was all! Nervously she explained her plight to the desk clerk, and was asked to describe her car.

"Well," she replied, "It is a 1937 model." Hestitation ensued, and she continued, "But I just can't remember the make or color . . . but," she added hopefully, "you can't miss it because there is a Sealyham inside."

In case you've missed the point—a Sealyham is a type of dog!

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED

Namely, the Beta Phi Beta's new maroon ties—all brightly decorated with gold Greek letters down the front. No doubt they light up in the dark, too.

Seen at the dance were some of the Long Beach players—alone, too. A college Escort Bureau, no doubt, is being organized to take care of opponent team members for after-game-celebrations. Lines form at the right, gals.

What has happened to all the upper Geary Boulevard eateries for after the dance snacks? Smith's Drive-in down the Peninsula seems to be the current spot.

See you all at the football games—rooting for SFJC, Friday; California, Saturday, and USF, Sunday. What Prof has the nerve to give a week-end assignment after that schedule?

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Kilroy Joins Legion; Bull's Backfires Forty and Eighters;

THAT the French jammed forty men and eight horses into each of their famous boxcars in 1917 will be proven once again beyond any doubt during this week's convention of the American Legion. Of all the vital issues at stake during this meet at least that one will get a certain amount of agreement from all sides. He was here but just left.

"40 Hommes et 8 Cheveaux" is a byword of the Legion that will have to move over to make room for some new phrases. With such questions to contend with as internal struggles of the old guard and the new, the backing of a firm foreign policy, and furnishing the battleground for a fight between the armed services for and against merger and top command unification, the Legion will justify its latest meeting in the eyes of many if they'll only reach a definite decision as to just who "Kilroy" is and how he originated.

SITUATION NORMAL

Another term due to be bandied about during the week is "janfu," and its significance will vitally effect everyone in the country, not just Legionnaires. Referring to joint Army and Navy wartime operations, it is the reason behind the full scale brass hat invasion of San Francisco now taking place.

ARMY-NAVY GAME IN S. F.

In the Army's backfield fighting for a complete unification of the services are Generals Parks and Spaatz. Parks is a representative of General Eisenhower, and Spaatz is here on his own hook to argue for an accent on airpower in behalf of the AAF. Navy Department champions, fighting a merger tooth and nail in the face of the second Bikini bomb that all but doomed present naval warfare in a flood of radioactive water, are Admirals Nimitz and Halsey.

PART-TIME DIPLOMAT

Most colorful speechmaker of the lot will no doubt be "Bull" Halsey as usual. The former Third Fleet commander is noted for throwing some wild pegs into the outfield and shares a reputation with Henry Wallace for sounding off at the oddest moments.

Halsey put himself on the spot by promising to ride the Emperor's white horse down the main drag of Tokyo, and it later turned out he didn't know how to ride a horse. Later he told the world our fleet could go "any blank place we wanted to" and had to revise that one to read any place on the high seas.

Halsey's latest stirring statement was to term a weapon that killed 100,000 Hiroshima residents at one crack, a toy. He soon justified this by claiming he meant, in salty lingo, a new weapon.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

BEGINNING next week, The Guardsman staff will be ready to vie with all comers for the coveted title of Best Looking Staff Anywhere, with an almost certain conviction that it will come out on top.

The certainty springs from the fact that this afternoon, carting typewriters, copy paper, bound copies of The Guardsman from previous years, and about two dozen vari-sized erasers, members listed reverently below are scheduled to trundle sighfully down to the West Campus and settle themselves in what was, only a few short weeks ago, the mystic parlor where the illustrious WAVES came to be beautified.

It seemed an unusual place to plant a business-like newspaper office at first, with, after a little thought, it has several advantages which will do doubt make it very home-like.

Although most of the nicer features used in the process of beautification have been removed, enough of the vestiges remain so that reminiscenses will not be too difficult to call up, and a mental transformation of the room will probably haunt many of the occupants.

The most outstanding feature, or features, in the new office are the four lovely sinks along the wall. No excuse for being called a "dirty old newspaper office" from this day forward. In case there be anyone present who might think it poor taste to have plumbing in so obvious a place, the answer is that it will most probably set an example for all similar offices.

How convenient for the editor, after "cleaning up" four pages of work by the new reporters, to be able to "wash his hands" of the entire business right on the spot. An end to the perennial frustration of all editors is at last in sight. Sinks are the answer!

However, those cumbersome-looking globes of aluminum with holes ejecting comforting pre-heated air should never have been removed—not with the rainy season coming on! They would probably have saved many a case of pneumonia which will doubtless diminish the staff considerably. A sigh for conservative educators!

Logical consequences are the scarecrows of fools and the beacons of wise men.

—Thomas Henry Huxley.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Letters Engulf Ram Protesting Student Store "Lineup"

• Come Back Tomorrow
Editor, The Guardsman:

In view of the deplorable situation that exists in the procurement of books at the local book store, I am forced to write this letter to you in hopes that an answer can be given to some of the questions I am about about to ask.

I would like to know who is responsible for the selection of and notification of the books that are to be used at the college and who gives that list to the San Francisco Junior College Student Store? Is it a hard and fast rule that only this store can supply the books for this college? That seemed to be the opinion of one of the clerks at the store.

With almost six thousand people trying to get into the building to buy books there are a lot of hardships that arise. A friend claims that he got into line, met a girl and by the time they got their books they were married and had three children. It might not take that long to get books, but some students spend accumulative hours up to eight or ten to get their books and then don't get all of them.

Even if it is necessary to get the books at this store only, why don't they have a sufficient number of books on hand? It really hurts to stand in a line for five hours to get two or three of the books you need, only to be told, "Come back tomorrow and we'll have the rest of them."

Something should be done for the future. If it is necessary to get our book under conditions such as these, why can't each teacher make arrangements to send a list of the number and kind of books for the members of his class, and also have someone (department heads) supply the store with a fairly accurate estimate of the number of books that will be needed.

Then maybe we will be able to keep up with our studies the first week.

—Nick Chames.

Editor's Note: The Guardsman office has been deluged with letters relative to the book store situation, but lack of space prohibits printing all of them. Today's editorial on this page is written on the same subject. Letters to the editor regarding this situation, or possible solutions to the problem may be left in the Guardsman office before 1 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday afternoons.

• Hallway Traffic Jams
Editor, The Guardsman:

To relieve congestion in the halls:

1. Students should refrain from standing in the halls at the main entrance.

2. All students should walk on the right; down the halls and in the use of the stairs—"ALWAYS ON THE RIGHT."

3. Use the P. A. system at the start of each period for two (2) days so as to inform all persons on "traffic."

4. The assistance of an organization in directing traffic.

—Veteran.

Guardsman Staff—
Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR ..... June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavanor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Jack Rhodes, Ron Crawford, Staten Webster.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHERS: Donald Lum, Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hansen, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser ..... Joan Nourse
Business Adviser ..... Joseph Amori

RAMblings . .

By Jack Rhodes and Ron Crawford

ONCE more the college's august halls echo to the patter of several thousand feet, as the current mass of new freshmen cast forth by San Francisco's high schools and by the military service's replace departed sophomores.

Speaking of freshmen: Jim Jensen, track coach, is making a lot of frosh feel more at home simply by throwing a big smile at them and saying "hello."

RUMORS FROM U. C.

By way of the grapevine we hear that Harry Fromm, former all-city fullback and member of the "Fearless Foursome" of Poly in '45, is going to leave the Blue and Gold campus at Berkeley in favor of these portals. Nuff said!

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Featuring a fast, hustling club this year, the Rams start their Fall basketball practice with more than fifty men trying out for the squad. Coach Wilson thinks it will be the biggest turnout ever seen here, and more will follow after football season is over.

WHAT THEY'RE DOING NOW

Reports filtering in from agents planted far and wide over this state inform us that several of our ex-grid greats are doing themselves proud for their new alma maters.

Fur'instance, Earl (The Earl) Lawrence, all-conference end on the Rams' '45 pigskin edition, now holds down the flank position at C.O.P., while over at Moraga we have John Mapelli, Frank Bennett and John Johnson now gridding with the Gaels.

It may be noted that Bennett is trying hard to beat out Ed Ryan, last year's first string end of the Gael team of Sugar Bowl fame. Down Santa Clara way we have Don Keck and Dick Sabatini beating their brains out with the Bronco Jayvees.

WEEKEND PREDICTIONS

Because of a slight difference in opinion on the strength of the various football squads two sets of predictions will be made each week.

CRAWFORD'S SUREFIRE PREDICTIONS:

California over Oregon. Stanford will take USF in surprise upset, after discovering that USF has no defense. St. Mary's will put down the Alameda Air Station mainly because of Alameda's lack of organization, and Herman W.

Ohio State will take USC in a tough fight that really could go either way. Toughest game of the week will be the UCLA-Washington game with the Uclans favored.

Oregon State will do battle with Idaho and should come out on top. Nevada has a breather with Santa Clara, and our own Rams will take Salinas in the game to be played today.

RHODES' PEERLESS PICKINGS:

Oregon will move the lazy Bear aside to race up a conference win. The USF powerhouse will out-score the Stanford Indians. St. Mary's should be able to run over the still loosely organized Alameda Air Station, while Ohio State will be knocking against the strong USC line, although USC should come out on the long end of the score.

UCLA will have the big test when they run up against the Washington Huskies, but the UCLA squad should win with ease. Oregon State will recover from the beating they took last week and will down the Idaho Vandals, and Nevada will take Santa Clara, as SFJC is going to take Salinas today.

FOOTBALL SPIRIT

The football season has just started again and so fans are expected to fix up those ponpons, get out the warm winter underwear and rooters caps, pile into cars, and prepare to sit out in the bleachers, rooting for the team.

The first game is over, but let's see everybody out today when we lasso the Cowboy's from Salinas at 3:30 this afternoon.

Mind is the great lever of all things; human thought is the process by which human ends are ultimately answered.

—Daniel Webster.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 3 FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1946 Page 3

Football

Cowboys, Rams Go In Conference Game At Washington Stadium; Marshall Leong Added To Provincial List

By Bob Catudio

Wounded by a tempest of outrages suffered in a Viking Valhalla, the Rams and Salinas Junior College open the Northern California Junior College gridiron race this afternoon at George Washington Stadium, starting at 3:15 p. m.

Local stock jumped several points this week with the sudden appearance of one Marshall Leong, booming 200 pound fullback, who prepped at Mission High School rior to St. Mary's.

Whether the titanic Leong will see action today will remain to be seen, but a smile can be seen on the face of Senor Lee Eisan, the townie tutor.

The Salinas crowd—Cowboys, they call them—dropped an 18 to 6 fashion opener last week at the expense of the surprising Menlo Oaks. But on the sage counsel of Cowboy Coach Ed Adams, the Monterey County lads "will be gunning for the Legion Convention hosts."

TOUCHDOWN RUN in the making! Quarterback Ken White (1) of the townies fronted by Art Ekdall (75), Bob Woodworth (24), and John Lanthier (42) in the midst of futile Norsemen Chuck Hays (55), Bob Kipper (43), and Jerry Scott (26).

Stadium Directions:

Spectators attending today's gridfest between the Rams and Salinas Junior College will make use of the 30th Avenue entrance at Washington Stadium, it was announced this week by Otto Schmaelze, principal at George Washington High School.

Highlighting last week's play for the benefit of local partisans was the play of Ken White, who will, in the estimation of sideline informants, give Quarterbacks Staten Webster and George Newell a run for their money.

Scrimmage sessions this week featured passing sessions in lieu of the fact that the Salinas Cowpokes are generally regarded as weak sisters when it comes to combatting aerials.

Cowboys vs. Rams

Washington Stadium 3:15 p. m.

Head Coach:		Head Coach:
Ed Adams		Lee Eisan
Player	Pos.	Player
Eastman	LER	Poznikoff
Wills	LTR	Hoffman
Hunter	LGR	Belcher
Darnero	C	Didio
Pia	RGL	Miller
Jensen	RTL	Tomasello
McAdams	REL	Cronn
Carnero	Q	Webster
Twitchell	LHR	Rainey
Smith	RHL	Ekdall
Bohlke	F	Crouch

Eight Football Tilts Remain For Ram Eleven

Eight more NCJCC foes remain on the Rams 1946 schedule. Four of these will be played in San Francisco. A game with our arch rival, San Francisco State, still is but a faint possibility.

The remaining games are:

October 4—Salinas Junior College—here.
October 11 — Sacramento Junior College—there.
October 18—Modesto Junior College—there.
October 24—San Mateo Junior College—here.
November 2—Los Angeles City College—there.
November 8—Modesto Junior College—here.
November 22—Sacramento Junior College—here.
November 29—San Mateo Junior College—there.

WAA

Clubs Hold Elections; State College Hockey, Volleyball Play Days Planned

With an announcement that Women's Athletic Association clubs would meet next week to elect managers, WAA President Frances Scilipoti officially began the semester's activities.

Each club manager is responsible for her particular club and will be part of the Association Council, Miss Scilipoti said.

Changes in several sports were also announced by Miss Scilipoti. Hockey will be played until Thanksgiving, when volley ball will be played. This change is made in order to follow San Francisco State's program and so that more play days may be played with them, she said.

Women interested in archery should sign up for meetings any free period from 9 to 1 p.m. on Fridays, and the period with the most sign-ups will be the club meeting time.

As swimming clubs meet at the Y.W.C.A., women interested in this sport are reminded by Miss Scilipoti that they must have no 2 o'clock classes, as the pool may not be used after 4 p.m.

Miss Scilipoti also revealed that 51 blocks may be worn by women actively participating in one WAA sport and who maintain a scholastic average of C.

Intramural Basketball Entries Due October 11

Those interested in the opening intramural round robin must have their entries in by Friday, October 11, according to Intramural Director Tom Wilson. Entries will be accepted every day by Wilson in the office of the men's gymnasium through October 11. Managers of club or independent teams should fill out the application below.

Name of college organization represented .....
.....
If independent team, name of team .....
Manager of Team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....
Captain of team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....
Name of Players: 1. .....
2. .....
3. .....
4. .....
5. .....
6. .....
Signed .....
(Team Manager)

Champ JC To Be Decided At Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif., Oct. 3.—With post-season gridiron tilts ranging from Oil Bowls to Bermuda's Lily Bowl, the Junior colleges of the nation are not to be outdone.

The pick of the "Jaysees" will clash at the Rose Bowl on December 7, it was announced here recently, with the winner eventually becoming the Junior collegian champions of the country.

It is hoped that the contest will become an annual affair.

Intramural

Registration Jam Causes Extension In Cage Sign Up

Because of the extremely heavy registration schedule the deadline for entries in the college intramural basketball tournament was postponed to Friday, October 11.

This announcement came from the office of the Intramural Director, Tom Wilson, when it was found that registration slow-ups were not allowing the students an opportunity to organize their teams.

Applications to enter a team in the intramural play will be found on the sports page of this issue. All men in the college, with the exception of men on last year's varsity basketball squad, are eligible to enter the tournament.

Teams may be formed from clubs, college organizations, or any group of men that wish to organize a team. Applications may be filed in the main office of the men's gymnasium before October 11.

In a rough estimate of the number of teams expected to enter, Wilson, basing his guess on the turnout for last year's tournament, stated that around 20 to 25 teams were expected.

Wilson said, "In last year's schedule we had 20 teams entered and with the heavier registration this year, and the fact that many of the men want to play basketball but don't have the time to turn out for varsity sports, we should have close to 25 teams and possibly as high as 30 teams entered."

Other intramural sports will also be opening up in tournament play, Wilson announced. And intramural plans will coll for two or three different activities going at the same time which should include at least one sport in which all men in the college can take place.

Quarterback K. White Named Player Of Day

By Don Cowderoy

No football game is complete without a standout player, one who shines on that one particular game day.

Brilliant ball-packing and all round football "know how" make Kenny White easily the nominee for Player of The Day in last Friday's Ram-Viking game.

This little scat-back, a product of Lincoln High Schooi in San Francisco, was really moving in high gear last Friday.

He outsped the Viking secondary defense time and again, showing the shiftiness that made him a standout for the Mustangs from the Hilltop.

Besides piling up yardage with amazing ease, he scored the Red and White's only touchdown on a sensational scamper around end to hit paydirt standing up.

You will undoubtedly be hearing much more of Kenny White as the season progresses.

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS

Granat Bros.

NEWLYWEDS TREAT A SECRET

Dr. Anatidae, Son Expected Here Today

Faculty and students of the college may expect to hear and to see Dr. Anatidae and his son and colleague, Dr. Anatidae Jr., who will visit this college at 11 a.m. today.

Those who wish to obtain a glimpse of these famous personages may do so by waiting on the front steps promptly at 11. It is rumored that the Doctors Anatidae have the only solution for "What to do with the Atomic Bomb and Russia."

More About A Cappella Choir Personnel

(Continued from page 1)

Platos, Ruth Pool, Betty Lou Shepherd and Gertha Williams.

Completing the last as basses and baritones, are Marvin Bruison, Tresylian Brock, Richard Brown, David Burr, Elmer Dickey, Lawrence Durpee, James Finley, Harold Freedman, West Hammond, Charles Kahman, David MacDade, Leslie MacGowan, Albert Razum, Kenneth Schildt, Anderson Scott, Leon Sher, Robert Sherratt, Curtis Sundell, Charles Tholander and Charles Watson.

THE WHITE HOUSE

RAPHAEL WEILL & COMPANY

SUTTER, POST, GRANT AVENUE

SAN FRANCISCO

This little girl (could be you) earns money . . . and loves it . . . at

The White House, San Francisco

Come now . . . for $88888 . . .

on Saturdays, class-free time!

She's always supplied with money for clothes and far cakes! She picks up gems for her wardrobe and treasures for Christmas (all purchased at her generous White House discount). She sees the newest things first, straight from the fabulous markets of the world. And she loves being a part of the fascinating whirl that is a great and distinguished department store.

If you're the serious type

You have frivolous tendencies

You like to be first with the new

You're fashion-career-minded

You're tactful . . . a diplomat!

These advantages, too!

- Attractive rates of pay
- Generous shopping discount
- Low-cost employee cafeteria
- No time-clocks . . . and no "back-door" employee entrance

None too soon to begin earning spare-time money for Christmas!

Apply now . . . Employment Department . . . 4th Floor . . . The White House, San Francisco

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Bachelor's Club: Plans for this organization were completed last week, and include ambitions for meetings with college sororities. Officers of same wishing to arrange such meetings should call the secretary, Donald L. Gerber, at ORdway 8381. New officers are president, Vernon R. Liewald; treasurer, Lindsay Knutsen, and Club Advisory Board Representative, Richard M. Maass.

•Omicron Pi Phi: Meeting will be one week from tomorrow at the home of Michael Zarchin, adviser, at 259 Urbano Drive, at 8 p.m. Old members are invited to attend.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: In contradiction to last issue's statement, the smoker will be held this Monday night at the St. Francis Hotel.

•Beta Phi Beta: The smoker will be held the thirteenth of October. New officers for this term are President, Joe Sheehan; Vice-President, Al Moffat; Recreation Secretary, Tom Kellog; Corresponding Secretary, Pat Pollack, and Treasurer, John Didio.

•Kappa Phi: The sixteenth season of rushing will commence this Sunday at the home of Janet Caine, with a tea. New officers for this semester are: President, Robert Robb; Vice-President, Barbara Christianson; Recreation Secretary, Rita Biscaglia; Corresponding Secretary, Jeanette Harshaw; Treasurer, Jean Fraser, and Historian, Laurel Nelson.

•Alpha Lamba Chi: The first rush tea will be held October 13 at the Mark Hopkins Hotel. New officers for this semester are Nancy Cunningham, President; Connie Snell, Vice-President; Mary Lou Mitchell, Corresponding Secretary; Carmen Garcia, Recording Secretary; Cyndell Krotoff, Treasurer, and Angela Cook, Historian.

•Beta Tau: Smoker was held last night at the Sir Francis Drake Hotel.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: Invites old and new members to a meeting during the college hour, Friday, October 11, in Room 158.

•Delta Psi: At the last meeting Audrey Judd announced her engagement to Louis Peirano. New officers for this semester are President, Lou Hoffman; Vice-President, Ginny Souder; Corresponding Secretary, Rosemary Mullen; Recreation Secretary, Sylvia Farber; Treasurer, Edith Todd, and Historian, Carmel Gannon.

•Phi Beta Rho: The first rush affair will be held this Sunday, October 6, at the St. Francis Hotel.

•TZN Fraternity: There will be a meeting held at the home of Michael Zarchin, 295 Urbano Drive, October 7, at 8:30 p.m. All Jewish men and women are invited to attend.

•XGI Society: There will be a meeting on October 25, at the War Memorial Building, Room 1. Following the meeting, XGI refreshments will be served.

New Cafe Site Speeds Efficient Service

The new site of the cafeteria eliminates many of the difficulties which were encountered in the former site in the college building. The larger and better facilities offered by the WAVE mess hall were the principal motives which prompted the movement, announced Hilda Watson, Superintendent of the Hotel and Restaurant Division.

Up to this time the cafeteria personnel had been working in an improvised restaurant, with not too little difficulty. It is believed that the larger facilities will result in even greater efficiency and subsequently in better service to the students.

The cafeteria hours will be as follows: Breakfast, 8 a.m. to 10 a.m.; Lunch, 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.; Supper, 5 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. However, these hours are subject to change.

The cafeteria is open to all students of the college, and to those student veterans and their wives who are living either in the WAVE area or the Quonset Village, Mrs. Watson said.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1946 No. 4

Official dedication of Hurley Village for married veteran students and their families was made last Wednesday by Mayor Roger D. Lapham pictured left in picture 1. William A. Wyatt, Federal Housing Administrator, is shown in the upper right as he presented the key to Hurley Village to Roy Williamson, who with his wife and daughter was the first family to move into one of the huts.

Picture at lower left spots the speakers' platform for the ceremonies attended by college students. Lower right, picture four shows Wyatt again with Williamson.

Guardsman Photographer Donald Lum. covered the ceremonies, made the finished pictures in record time.

Dedication

North Campus Ceremonies Ended In Key Presentation To Hurley Village

Presentation of the key to Hurley Village by Wilson A. Wyatt, National Housing Administrator, to Roy L. Williamson, first occupant of the quonsets, concluded dedication ceremonies held last Wednesday at the North end of the campus.

Following an invocation by Right Reverend Monsignor James P. O'Dowd, Trev Burrow, president of the XGI Society, presented a speech vividly depicting the housing shortage and thanking college, city, state, and federal officials for their aid in attempting to alleviate the condition.

President A. J. Cloud, representing the college administration, said, "The college would probably maintain its present enrollment for the next generation, and that permanent housing was in the offing."

Burrow, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced E. N. Ayer, chairman of the San Francisco Housing Authority, who described the efforts of his organization in attempting to ease the housing situation. "More than a thousand temporary apartments are now taking shape in San Francisco."

Ayer declared, "The Federal Government and the State of California have contributed materials and finances for veteran emergency housing. Necessary legislation has been passed and building regulations set aside to expedite building."

Following Ayer, Mayor Roger D. Lapham warned that although responsible officials are doing their best, the influx of veterans will prolong the crisis. Despite the efforts of housing authorities the end of the housing shortage is not yet in view, though they hope that it will come soon.

In a speech emphasizing, "That Major Hurley did not die for, and would not approve of, housing for only those who have the money to afford expensive homes," Wyatt also explained the governmental policy on the housing situation, namely, "Homes for veterans now!"

Wyatt also pointed out, "That the veteran was promised 'freedom of opportunity' upon his return, but soon discovered that although he could attend school there was no place for him to live. These emergency units will not solve the shortage permanently, but the only apology which we can make at this time, is the fact that there are not more of them.

The dedication was graced by presence of Mrs. John Hurley, widow of the man in honor of whom the village was named.

Other persons assembled included Herbert Beach, Mayor of the City of Oakland; Langdon W. Post, regional director of the Federal Public Housing Authority; Preston L. Wright, regional representative of the National Housing Agency; Doctor William M. Thomas, Robert P. Bullard, Charles J. Boehn, and Vice-Chairman C. H. Turner, all of the San Francisco Housing Commission; Garrett McEnerney, president of the San Francisco Board of Education; Thomas Brooks, chief administrative officer of the City of San Francisco; Thomas A. Maloney, speaker pro-tempore of the California Legislature. Dean Haug, president of the Associated Students, represented the students.

Governor Earl Warren, whose presence was hoped for, was unable to attend the dedication ceremonies because of a previous engagement.

West Campus

New Site Is Future Center Of College

With more than 90 single veterans, and 12 married couples occupying living quarters, the cafeteria in successful operation, the West Campus is on the way toward becoming an integral part of the college proper.

The auditorium will be utilized to stage Associated Student functions as soon as movement of Navy owned furniture is accomplished.

The offices of both the Dean of Men and Dean of Women will be moved to the upper floor of building number 2. The lower floor of this building will comprise the student lounge, a study hall, and Associated Student offices.

Building No. 3 is to be the new home of both the general and veteran counseling offices, while Building 12 will be occupied by The Guardsman staff.

Building 13 has become a home for married couples. Students living in these accommodations may procure meals from the cafeteria, which serves three meals a day. However, Oscar Anderson, college controller warned that the evening meal may be discontinued unless there is heavier demand.

Anderson called attention to the rather ticklish parking situation. There will be a limited amount of parking allowed within the West Campus area and entrance will be limited to those holding special passes, he remarked.

Anderson placed added emphasis on student disregard of regulations pertaining to smoking, driving, and parking restrictions. If the situation continues, Anderson warned that steps will be taken to effectively deal with violators, and that possible "disenrollment" may result.

Associated Students

Councilman Burger Attacks Publication Schedule Of Guardsman; Student Editor Cites Growth Of All American Colleges

Proposed allocation of the tentative fall semester budget, which may affect the future publication schedule of The Guardsman, will highlight today's Student Council meet at noon in Room 111.

Focal point of attention during last week's council meeting involved immediate concern "as to whether The Guardsman will be published twice-weekly."

Growing demand, foreseen by last semester's student leaders, led to a twice-weekly publication already established to serve the entire Associated Student organization.

Budget Starts Debate

Debate pro and con stirred several council members to question the twice-weekly publication of The Guardsman, official college publication, following a presentation of the fall semester budget request of The Guardsman by Bob Catudio, student editor.

"There is more enthusiasm by the students for a weekly paper," Councilman Don Burger declared, "and I still don't see why there should be two issues per week."

That the college, as a unit, was growing and increasing in registration totals, was agreed by a majority of the council members who consumed the entire meeting in occasional flurries defending and objecting to the status of the publication under fire.

The Guardsman was first published during the fall semester in 1935. Since 1939 it has won nine All-American ratings by the Associated Collegiate Press, chief authority for most of the collegiate publication honors in the country.

Twice Weekly 1940-'42

Pressing demands via the increasing enrollment during the fall semester 1940 necessitated a twice-weekly publication which was "shelved in 1942 because of the war and a shortage of newspaper pulp."

"With an enrollment of 3,000 students, The Guardsman was published twice weekly," Catudio exclaimed, "and with the college expanding in every conceivable manner, The Guardsman should move forward and not remain behind with the relics of yesterday."

Catudio further bolstered his plea to support the proposed publication schedule of The Guardsman by pointing out the expansion programs already in progress at other colleges throughout the nation.

Social

XGI Waddle Slated For October 11

Third and biggest social frolic of the fall semester, the XGI Society's Ruptured Duck Waddle I, is slated for the War Memorial Auditorium, Van Ness and McAllister Streets, Friday, October 11, from 8 to 12 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased through Friday of this week at Room 259 or from any of the roving XGI's in bivouac around the campus vending tickets at $1.50 per couple.

Emerson Band Hired

Music by Bob Emerson, his band and vocalist, novelty entertainment featuring Jadoo Hi Wando, master Master Magician, door prizes, and palatable refreshments will round out this second annual XGI trotting tussel.

One prominent faculty member was moved to state that the first XGI Waddle had been one of the best and most successful college socials in a long time. XGI president Trev Burrow disclosed that this year's dance will be even bigger and better.

Affair Informal

It's to be an informal Waddle—neckrags (ties) will suffice for male haberdashery; femmes will shroud their toes in hose and cloak their chassis with some pleated streetwear.

A confab of the XGI Society is scheduled to meet two distinguished campus visitors, Dr. Anatidae, Sr., and Dr. Anatidae, Jr., today at 11 a.m., for an enlightening discussion on post-war problems. The two renowned visitors are expected to urge the entire student organization to attend the forthcoming dance.

Vets Advised To Keep All Records To Date

All veterans who missed Room 335 on registration day are advised by the Veterans Administration at the college to report to building 3 at their earliest convenience so that their records may be brought up to date by this office.

It was also pointed out that any Veteran who has not filled out a wage statement should do so immediately.

Guardsman Staff Moves To Larger Quarters In Building 12 On College's West Campus

Publication offices of The Guardsman, often referred to as "that sheet," moved to the West Campus last Friday, specifically Building 12.

The section assigned is amazingly adequate. In fact, it is a veritable amphitheater in comparison with the former diminutive, claustrophobic office in Room 134.

Yea, the new office is a haven for that maniacal, journalistically-inclined, masochistic group of students known as The Guardsman Staff.

The first Guardsman office, back in 1935, was all of a nine by twelve foot area originally designed for a janitor's mop closet, and appropriated in the Galileo High School building when the college had headquarters there and no campus of its own.

Room 134, permanent campus here, was a palace in comparison, and the thousands, millions of words and plots dreamed and written there are expected to haunt what is now a faculty office for some time to come.

Now The Guardsman has come into its own. Two people can turn around at the same time in Building 12. Typewriters are no longer on knees, and there is even room for the faculty adviser's desk, not to speak of wall space for nine framed certificates of All-American rating for The Guardsman, won despite gismotic ideas offered by the staff.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 4 Tuesday, October 8, 1946 Page 2

Campus Pay-Off

Student IOU's At New High

UNFORTUNATE in this day and age was the discovery of more than 650 "promissory notes" taxing the temporary credit line of the college bank to a point adjacent to total debit.

The promise to pay clause is based on an individual's reasoning and forthright good character which, if maintained during this hectic jumble of universal politicos, can be guided in saintly fashion.

There are no legal technicalities by which students may be bound to erase their promises to pay other than the right of the college giving one a chance to make good one's intentions.

The more than 650 IOUs alphabetically catalogued at the bank represent an approximate 12 per cent of the student body. Certainly this will detract and decrease the expected aggregate fund of the college which, to all suppositions, represents everyone.

There is, by all means, a cure for the financial immobility tying the invisible purse strings of the bank into a situation whereby the flow of student activities is handicapped by a "failure to pay a debt exacted in good faith."

Payment in the near future can alleviate this debt which will purportedly reach uncontrollable heights, according to the comptroller, "if the debtor attains that 'why should I pay' attitude."

Of course, there are no forces of community service prodding you to make payment of four dollars toward balancing the entire student body pool, but physchological factors and your fellow student need only be enough to captivate your conscience.

Number one headache (which makes the IOU situation all too important) is the slow return of dues credited to students entering the student body via the Bill of Rights.

Your obligation is the obligation of what you expect of others!

Moral of the story, should there be one, lies in the solemn fact that the good neighbor, despite his inadequate attempts to become a team player, will in the crises of an unwarranted emergency seldom shrink from obligations to himself and his partners in deliverance.

Ford

After Dark

THE ZIEGFELD FOLLIES, according to many, was a small taste of the future cinema. In fact, certain scenes border on Surrealism, (Chinese Dance Sequence in Limehouse Blues) if anyone bothered to notice. Fred Astaire claims he is running out of original dance routines, consequently will do his movie and dance swan song in Paramount's new picture, Blue Skies. After the Follies and Yolanda and the Thief, what do you think? If Astaire is getting stale, Dan Ave are curdled beyond recognition.

* * *

Although there has been much "cashing in" and commercialization of the works of the late Thomas Wolfe, John S. Barnes has taken the time and the trouble to break down many of Wolfe's famous prose passages into verse. The result is a volume of poetry called "A Stone, A Leaf, A Door." Louis Untermeyer, noted critic and prosodist, has written a very fitting introduction for the book.

It is indeed gratifying to note that Wolfe is finally being read and appreciated by the American public. It is not the function of this column, however, to state whether he is understood or not. Oh young writers, optimists! Beat your head against a wall, and WHEN you are dead, the literary flag will float over the land in your honor.

* * *

When will someone—somebody—anybody recognize the greatness of the film, Shanghai Gesture with Victor Mature and Gene Tierney? It is one of the most significant films to come out of Hollywood. It is NOT a cinema classic. Why? Perhaps it hits too close to home—for comfort!

* * *

George Harris' abstracts are being exhibited at the San Francisco Museum of Art. There is such a limitation of space that little can be said outside the fact that Harris is Good.

Around And About

with Nagle

DOES the luster in your hair send chills down his spine and turn his stomach (—urmph, 'cuse me, heart)? That is what happens to the eligible young male when his sweetie religiously follows the advertisements in the monthly women's magazines.

Lover Louie is bending-oh-so-tenderly over Matilda Mudface and cooing softly in her cauliflower ear, "If YOUR skin is rough-dry . . . unkissed, try Gerkins face cream." Of course, Mattie will take Lover's advice and rush down to her nearest drug store for the large economy 50 gal. vat of Gerkins and live unhappily forever, creaming nightly to acquire the skin that only a pickle could love. P.S.—Lover proposed at the drug store while helping Mattie lug home the second vat.

SOFT, WHITE, ROMANTIC

Real Life Rozie reads ADS a lot and likewise believes a lot, so she turns the page of her magazine—reads that Gravelike Hand Cream is insurance for her-hoped-for-raise, runs down to the We-Got-It-You-Carry-It Drug Store and buys an economy jar of Gravelike. This really wows her boss who notices her lily-white hands first thing the next morning. . . . However, the boss, being a died-in-the-wool nature lover, met a gal who uses "Woodsies Bath Supreme" (a bubble bath with that "smell like a forest" smell).

Of course, there are forests and forests. Whether this particular forest smells like a skunk that just passed through on its way to Disney's studio for an audition; a forest fire which had just been put out after the Irishmen's annual picnic, or whether it is honest-to-goodness primitive forest, no one knows. The ad just says "Smell like a forest"! If you don't want to smell like a forest and have birds lurking around you looking for a place to nest, then try Honeysuckle dusting powder. One dust and the bees love you!

Poor Rozie—one magazine alone acclaims that five different shampoos, two mouth washes, six soaps, two deodorants, four makes of nail polish, one facial cream, two hand creams, two hand lotions, and two tooth pastes all will give her the key-to-romance, make her a hostess to loveliness, give her sun-kissed sorcery.

But the best is yet to come. Just wait until Rozie starts reading the perfume ads. That WILL cause her complete collapse. Tabu, 20 Karet, Muse, Surrender—to name a few choice names.

HMM, WINDEX?

Our local survey reports that with one particular nationally advertised brand of 'luring' perfume the following remarks were made by various and sundry gentlemen to the lady wearing same—"Smells like a blueberry patch in Maine"—"An alfalfa field in spring"—and one gentlemanly soul sniffed and staidly stated, "Hmmmmm, Windex!" Why spend money on luxuries such as perfume when that is all that the smellee can say about it?

* * *

Remember that to change thy mind and to follow him that sets thee right, is to be none the less the free agent than thou wast before.

—Marcus Aurelius.

* * *

Literature is the greatest of all sources of refined pleasure, and one of the great uses of a liberal education is to enable us to enjoy that pleasure.

—Thomas Henry Huxley.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Beantown Revolt, Cabbie Now Citizen, Watch This Space

WHEN his next meal comes up with lamb stew again, or fish, or waterfront seagull, John Q. San Franciscan should mutely turn eastward at his table and salaam towards Massachusetts in reverent tribute to a man of fewer words and more action.

BEANS AND THE GOVERNOR

Even gubernatorial appetites depend on fresh red meat it appears, and Governor Tobin of that state suddenly got fed up on his diet of Boston baked beans without the all-important bacon and decided to quit talking about it and do something concerning the situation.

LOOKING INTO BULGING WAREHOUSES

Tobin has ordered state agencies to peer into all meat markets and warehouses in Massachusetts to determine just how much is being held back from the public and intends to slam the book at any meat operators found guilty on restraint of trade charges.

MISSING HALF REPLACED

For those who prefer round numbers and frown on dangling threads of any sort, the cab company that recently lost a fight to prevent another spoon in their local gravy when the city granted 80 new taxi permits, has leveled off that " . . . more than 869 veterans drive our cabs" claim to an even 870.

Some citizens lost sleep over the eerie state of affairs, wondering how there could exist more than 869 humans and yet less than 870, and felt the presence of a ringer in the midst. It is comforting to know now that the company no longer regards one of its employees as something less than human but has welcomed him into the mildst.

MEDITERRANEAN CRUISE

Secretary of the Navy, James Forrestal, has finally dropped the "good-will" tag on the carrier task force now operating in Mediterranean waters and, with State Department approval, has fixed the real label on it. As it reads now, the Carrier Roosevelt and accompanying ships are there to support Allied occupation forces, protect US interests, and support US policy in that area. On showing up in Athens harbor on the eve of the Greek elections, the crew of the FDR did everything but go ashore and cast a vote. What's more, they'll be followed by a parade of succeeding flattops all bent on upholding the get tough policy.

GETTING THE WORD AT LAST

Keeping in line with the modern ad fads of monotonous repetition and a too, too coy appeal to the public's sense of the sinister, a one-inch column now smacks the reader at each turn of the page with "Soon you'll know what's doing".

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

AFTER carefully studying the issue of The Guardsman dated October 7, 1936, the only conclusion to be drawn is that the same circumstances are continually arising. Looking at the issue of ten years ago is almost the same as looking at last Tuesday's.

There were the same troubles facing the college in those carefree, pre-A-bomb days as we are facing today, even though the location differs somewhat.

Students and faculty were worrying about parking space if they had cars, and about getting better and more frequent street car service if they didn't.

The football team had just dropped its first game of the season to the team from Los Angeles, and the editor of that day gave the boys a pat on the back in an editorial instructing them to profit by their mistakes and not repeat them in the next game.

The big discussion of the day ten years ago was whether it was more important for students to fully participate in extra curricular activities, principally dances, or whether scholastic endeavor should be primary. Exactly what purposes did college dances serve the individual student, and how much importance should dances receive in the course of each semester? Sound familiar?

Students were writing Rams Horn letters complaining that this paper lacked a good "humor" column; everything was too straight-laced and toed the mark too closely. Editors were responding that an effort in that direction had failed and that the proper facilities and talent were not available, and, moreover, no one really knew what humor was anyway, so the whole question was silly. Any complaints or definitions to offer?

A big front-page picture shows all of 33 picturesque acres of grass surrounded by woodland, with a few homes dotting the distant hills. This was known as Balboa Park, deeded by the city to the Board of Education for the building of the college. In that respect very little similarity can be seen: the grasshopper's Valhalla has reverted to concrete, bricks, jeeps, and humanity forging ahead.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Crowded Lockers, Traffic—Jammed Halls Irk Students

• Fibber McGee's Closet

Editor, The Guardsman:

Because of the tremendous number of hungry, knowledge seeking students this semester, a way should be devised which would be much simpler than last semester, to simplify the locker situation.

Last semester the situation was such that it could be compared to a bridge game being held in a phone booth. When a person went to his locker, he, without exaggeration, might easily find a student crouched in the corner of the locker, studying during his free period.

Even if one did not find a fellow-student hidden away in a dark corner, he might, often times, open the door and be showered with books and "junk" that would put the fabulous "Fibber McGee and Molly's" closet to shame. This, I say might be over-exaggeration, but it will give a person an idea of what will happen this semester with the enlarged enrollment.

It seems that a requisition should be sent through the proper channels to secure more lockers; or the proper authorities should alleviate the oncoming worries of the student who has no desire to stand in line with ten or twelve students sharing the same locker.

J.U.

• Keep Moving

Editor, The Guardsman:

In view of the large enrollment this semester, I think that some form of organization should be made in the halls between classes. As it is now the crowds in the halls seem to come to a complete standstill which makes it very difficult for the people who have to get to classes. Perhaps there could be some way to alleviate this by a "Keep to the right and keep moving" campaign.

Sheila Grant

Editor's Note: Students could alleviate this situation themselves by not loitering in the center hall between classes to hold their conversations, thus causing complete traffic standstill.

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF . . Robert A. Cetudio
MANAGING EDITOR . . Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR . . June Sheehy

FEATURE: Betty L. Cavanor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Reinisch.

NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chamos, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Ivey, Del Pi hon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marty Wheatly, Melvin Hansen.

SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Jack Rhodes, Ron Crawford, Staten Webster.

COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.

PHOTOGRAPHERS: Donald Lum, Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter.

STAFF ARTIST: Eleanor Schaeffer.

BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.

Editorial Adviser . . Joan Nourse
Business Adviser . . Joseph Amori

RAMblings . .

By Jack Rhodes and Ron Crawford

T'WAS interesting to note that for once the ticket scalpers got scalped instead. It seems their inflationary dream burst, when only 26,000 fans attended the first game on the Cards-Dodgers playoffs, this figure was 8000 short of the expected attendance.

PRO FOOTBALL

As usual the heads of the two professional leagues, NFL and the All-America Conference, are battling each other instead of trying to work together for the benefit of both. This time it's John L. Keeshin, owner of the Chicago Rockets of the AFC suing George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears of the rival league, for 250,000 simoleons. The charges? Libel.

It seems that Keeshin tried to hire Sid Luckman, star quarterback for the Bears, as a coach. This attempt didn't set too well with Halas who made a slighting remark or two about Keeshin and the AFC in general.

Oh well, boys will be boys or something. It seems rather silly to us because the Pro Footballers aren't doing as well as they expected, and a little cooperation might be in order. Particularly when a club such as the "49'ers" are out around 15 grand for this season.

BASKETBALL

Ralph Hillsman, the new Varsity Basketball coach, was quite a star in his former days here. He made the all-conference selection in 1936 and was also captain of the championship team that the college had that year. The first championship, by the way.

New stars for the squad this year are a couple of San Francisco high school lads. Neal Turner formerly of the 1946 championship team from Lowell and Art Saitis from the Mission High's "46" team. There are quite a few more whose names we haven't found yet, but Sacred Heart and Poly should both have representatives on the squad.

DEFINITIONS

While sauntering through a dictionary we ran across a definition of Sports: That which diverts and makes mirth. We were wondering whether that would apply to our football team.

More on football. What happened to the traditional football game between State and SFJC? Could it be that since over the years State has lost more games than it has won, the lads are a little afraid of the damage to what prestige they have? We noticed that the Gators weren't afraid to take on a weak Placer team. Oh, high and mighty Gators, why don't you try the Rams? There is an open date on the Ram schedule. How about it State?

SPIRIT

The Beta Phi's and the Phi Beta Rho's have the right idea. They are going to wear white shirts and blouses with red hats to all the football games. Some of the other organizations in the college might try the idea and show a little spirit for the college and the team.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 4 TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1946 Page 3

Newell Tosses 12-0 Win

Ralph Hillsman

New Basket Coach Was Ram Champ

By Jack Rhodes

Varsity basketball has a new coach this year.

Ralph Hillsman, graduate of the University of California, takes over the varsity basketball coaching reins from Tom Wilson.

Wilson has been coaching the basketball squad, but this year, with the large enrollment and the numerous activities in intramural sports (Wilson is the intramural director), he will be unable to give his full attention to any sport other than intramurals.

Hillsman, when asked for a statement, said, "Gee you got me . . . this is certainly quite a break for me."

Commenting of the team's prospects this year, he said, "It looks good . . . we'll have numbers if nothing else."

He should have little trouble getting used to the floor since he played on it for two years with the Rams.

Hillsman was a member of the conference championship team that the Rams put forth in 1936, and he was voted all-conference guard that same year. The championship team that won for the college that year was the first.

Perhaps Hillsman will come through with another championship in his first year as coach?

One out of every four Ohio State coeds is interested in becoming a prima donna. A poll taken revealed that the vocational interests of the coeds were music, fashion design, air transportation, interior decoration, the theater, personnel work, radio and social administration.

Ram Casualty

All-star Pocekay Kin Injured In Practice

Injury claimed a victim Wednesday when Emil Pocekay, a new acquisition to the college football team, had his arm broken in scrimmage.

Pocekay, who attended Richmond High, and was rated a very aggressive and highly promising end, had just moved up to the first string.

It may be noted that Walt Pocekay, brother of Emil, was voted the outstanding high school baseball player in America and played in the Bay Area All-star game. He journeyed to Chicago where he smashed out four hits on five trips to the plate.

From all indications athletic ability seems to run in the Pocekay family.

35 Strong Lamb Squad Tagged Grover's Rovers

Coached by Grover Klemmer, new coach and instructor at the college, and former star athlete at the University of California, some 35 grid hopefuls have turned out for this year's edition of the Lamb Squad.

This group is composed of players who were not able to make the varsity or who will be promoted to the varsity later after they have gained experience.

Known to Coach Klemmer as "Grover's Rovers," the team engages the varsity in almost daily scrimmages, and will play some high school and other junior college varsities.

Klemmer was unable to announce a set schedule at this time, but did reveal that his team will play San Francisco State's junior varsity on November 1. The scene of the clash is unknown at this time.

When asked about some of the players on his squad, Klemmer stated that he had lost the majority of his most promising material via the promotion route to the varsity. He did, however, praise the efforts of Gene Rogers a guard and Bill Koenig an end.

Five Prep Stars Out For Ram Basketball

Although no formal basketball practice has started yet, Coach Ralph Hillsman stated that all men interested in trying out for the squad should come to the informal sessions held daily in the men's gymnasium at 3 o'clock.

Many former stars have turned up, among them Bill Bahr, Don Carter, Ike Boone, Hank Pfister, all-city cager from Commerce High, and Mike Giannini, brother of the Olympic Club star, Teddy Giannini.

Bahr graduated from Galileo High School and played on the Olympic Club five with Hank Luisetti and Giannini. Carter, just out of the army, is a former Poly High cager.

No league schedule has been completed as yet. Hillsman also is contemplating a 10-day jaunt through the southland during Christmas vacation, but plans are not definite, and no information is available as to who the Rams will play if such a trip is made.

Women at Miami University are protesting that the cullinary department is hampering their chances for dates on weekends. Now that men are back for good, they want the onions omitted from the potato salad on Saturday and Sunday nights. Let's have it on some moonless weeknights, they plead.

Intramural Basketball Entries Due October 11

Those interested in the opening intramural round robin must have their entries in by Friday, October 11, according to Intramural Director Tom Wilson. Entries will be accepted every day by Wilson in the office of the men's gymnasium through October 11. Managers of club or independent teams should fill out the application below.

Name of college organization represented .....

If independent team, name of team .....

Manager of Team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Captain of team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Name of Players: 1. .....
2. .....
3. .....
4. .....
5. .....
6. .....

Signed .....
(Team Manager)

Intramural

Garrett To Manage Tourney; Entries Due This Friday

Applications for entries in the intramural basketball tournament will be accepted up to this Friday, October 11, intramural director Tom Wilson, announced yesterday.

Round Robin play between the teams entered will be the style of the tournament, with each team gaining points toward the President Cloud perpetual trophy for participation as well as for winning games.

Senior intramural manager for this year will be Al Garrett. Garrett was the senior manager last year, and with the added experience hopes to put forth a better and more efficient series of tournaments than ever. As yet no assistant managers have been chosen.

Anyone interested in trying for one of these jobs as assistant manager is expected to apply to Wilson in his office at the men's gymnasium. At the end of the semester, when the team awards are given, letters will be given to the intramural managers who were qualified in their jobs.

Main duties of the assistant managers will be the providing of equipment for the games and occasional refereeing when necessary. A general knowledge of the rules of all intramural sports is required, Wilson said.

Second tournament of the year will be six-man touch football. Nine members will be allowed to a team. Depending on the number of teams entered the tournament will be divided into leagues and championship play-offs will be held.

Individual sports, such as tennis, badminton, ping pong, will be held on an elimination basis.

All intramural activities will give points towards the final team award for the President Cloud trophy. One team may enter in as may different activities as it chooses.

Last year's winners of the trophy, the XGI Society, is again favored to win mainly, because of the large membership, with the Chinese Club again pushing close in second place.

WAA Lines Up Hockey, Badminton Playdays

More than 100 women have signed up for Women's Athletic Association participation, and a total of 150 women are expected to enroll before Friday, the final day for sign-ups, Frances Scilipoti, WAA president revealed.

"Women who have neglected to sign-up, and who are interested in WAA activity, however, may check with either a WAA officer or Gloria Swiegood, club adviser, for late enrollment," Miss Scilipoti said.

Although no official play-days have been scheduled, two tentative dates, a hockey play-day with San Francisco State College and a badminton play-day with San Mateo Junior College are planned by Miss Scilipoti within the near future.

Clubs met for the first time this week, according to Miss Scilipoti, elected managers, and the managers will meet this week for a council meeting to plan future social events and make arrangements for the above mentioned play-days.

The council members consist of the president, Anna Hokas, vice-president; Roberta Reams, treasurer, and managers. At the first council meeting election of a secretary will take place, as Marilouise Matthews, who was elected last semester did not return to the college this semester.

Aerial Circus Hits Cowboy Defense For Conference Triumph

By Bob Catudio

Sparked by the efficient right arm of Quarterback George Newell, the Rams, in their conference opener, ran roughshod over the Salinas Junior College Cowpokes, 12 to 0, Friday afternoon at George Washington Stadium before 2,300 partisan observers.

Early in the second canto, Newell hit Ray Pozenkoff, left end, with a 34 yard effort for the initial marker. Tackle Glenn Hoffman's try for the extra point sailed wide of the uprights.

Touchdown No. two, in the fourth quarter, found Newell rearing back again to pitch a 39 yard floater to Halfback Carter Corey, who caught the ball on the Salinas 12 yard line and raced across the goal line standing up. Hoffman's extra digit try was blocked.

The locals were at the pearly gates in the final period following reserve quarterback Jim Greene's 37 yard runback of a Salinas pass that carried to the six yard line. The townies' ground attack bogged and the Cowboys held the villagers on downs.

Impressive was the word for the appearance of one Marshall Leong, local fullback, who boomed for yardage on each ball-packing occasion. Leong will aid the Eisans no end during the week old campaign.

Newell, Pozenkoff, Corey, Don Rooker, John Didio, Den Miller, Art Psaltis—the entire cast indeed—performed notably for the local gentry, not to mention the Salinas duo of Wellington Smith and stork-legged Clarence Twitchell.

Score by period:

Salinas	0	0	0	0	0
San Francisco	0	6	0	6	12

Scoring: San Francisco (touchdown), Pozenkoff, Corey.

Statistics	Salinas	S.F.
Yards gained, scrimmage	72	125
Yards lost, scrimmage	25	13
Yards gained, passes	101	115
Passes attempted	24	11
Passes completed	8	5
Passes had intercepted	1	2
First downs	8	7
Scrimmage	3	5
Passes	5	1
Penalties	0	1
Fumbles	3	1
Fumbles own, recovered	2	1
Yards penalized	80	50
Punt average	31	36

Rams In Panther Clash Friday In Sacramento

The Ram gridders tackle another step on the conference ladder when they journey to the capitol city to take on the Sacramento Junior College Panthers on Friday, October 11.

The Panther squad, coached by Earl Hoose, former Stanford star, dropped 14 to 0 and 13 to 6 decisions to last year's eleven.

Staten Webster and Don Grant, two of last year's stars, will be ready to take up where they left off.

The capitol city aggregation will drop down to San Francisco to finish a two-game series on Friday, November 22.

Including this game, seven games remain on the Ram conference schedule:

October 11—Sacramento Junior College—there.

October 18—Modesto Junior College—there.

October 24—San Mateo Junior College—here.

November 2—Los Angeles City College—there.

November 8—Modesto Junior College—here.

November 22—Sacramento Junior College—here.

November 29—San Mateo Junior College—there.

"Campus Happiness" Hits New Standard

By Melvin Hansen

On various occasions it has been said that the veterans have returned home to reap the harevst of their labors.

They loaf as members of the "52-20" club or attend college with no thought other than the money involved.

Such is not always the case as is illustrated by two pre-legal students enrolled at the college. In addition to attending classes they operate a small business and maintain a home.

Victor "Vic" Hancock was born in a small town in Oregon in 1923. A few years later his family moved to Alaska, where he spent his childhood. In the fall of 1935 Hancock and his parents established residence in San Francisco. Vic enrolled in the public schools and in 1940 graduated from Lincoln High. Two years later he received his summons from the government and entered the Army Air Corps. While a Lieutenant, he flew 20 missions with the Twelfth Air Forces in the Pacific. As a member of this organization he won the Air Medal with one cluster.

Hancock was discharged September 23, 1945, and returned to his home in this city.

Hancock enrolled for that fall semester at the college where he met his wife, the former Jo Ann Laws. By January he had convinced her that two could live as cheaply as one so they became Mr. and Mrs.

Roy Williamson, Jr., a native Texan, entered the service in Houston in July, 1941. He became a gunner in the Naval Air Corps and he was stationed aboard the famous aircraft carrier Enterprise. While flying with this group he was awarded a personal citation for shooting down two enemy bombers.

Williamson paid dearly for these moments of glory as so many have. He lost his left leg.

Williamson, while convalescing in the Oakland Naval Hospital, met Violet Ingratia of Oakland. They were married in June of 1944. Upon his discharge in October of that year he and his wife moved to this city.

In February, 1945, the Williamson family was blessed with a bouncing baby girl, christened Jerry Lee. After the arrival of the baby Williamson found it extremely difficult to live on the government allotment.

He discussed the problem with Hancock and they decided to open a small business. They obtained a loan, and with it opened a filling station on Plymouth and Ocean Avenues. They divided the working hours to allow each to attend college. Business wasn't too good at first, but slowly it became better, requiring the help of another man.

These men, through hard work, have added the title of good citizen to that of good serviceman.

Veteran Vic Hancock and his wife, the former Jo Ann Law, are pictured at the left in front of the service station owned by Hancock and Roy Williamson, another veteran student. Williamson, who is shown at the right with his wife, the former Violet Ingratia, and their daughter, Jerry Lee, was presented with the key to Hurley Village, as the first veteran to move into one of the huts. Hancock and Williamson, both pre-legal students, bought the service station to supplement their aid from the government on the G.I. Bill of Rights.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Pep Club: There will be a meeting tonight at 7:30 in the former cafeteria. Old and new students are invited. Purpose of the club is to form a rooting section for the football games.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Plans are being completed for the Tri E dance to be held at the St. Francis Hotel.

•Delta Psi Sorority: Will have first rush tea this Sunday at the home of Nancy Stookey.

Deadlines for submitting news to this column are Monday and Wednesday at 1 p.m., The Guardsman office, West Campus.

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS
Granat Bros
SHREVE TREAT & EACRETT

Offices, Department Stores Seek Workers

File clerks and persons adept in the handling of various office machines are assured of employment either full or part time, Joseph A. Amori, placement director of the college, announced yesterday.

An urgent need at the present moment exists for office help, Amori stated, and although stenographers and typists are required in many offices, he reminded students that not all offices require stenographic help but need clerical workers as well.

Students interested in working during the holidays in department and clothing stores are requested to apply to Amori in the placement office located in Room 140. In addition to department store help, Amori also asked for names of students desiring to work at Yosemite during the Christmas season.

Amori reminded students that jobs available need not be temporary, as many of them offer students fine experience as well as future opportunity.

Drama Parts Open As Play Casting Begins

That parts were open for the production, Heaven Can Wait, was announced last week by Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor.

The play, based on the movie, Here Comes Mr. Jordan, is scheduled to go into production this week. The plot, which is familiar to most movie addicts, involves Joe Pendleton, a prize-fighter who cracks up in a plane. He is taken into heaven a little to soon on a heavenly error, and the story then evolves around his trying to find a new body.

More men are also needed for parts in The Male Animal, by James Thurbur and Elliott Nugent, to be produced by the Speech 42A (acting) class, Ruth Somers, drama instructor, announced.

The light comedy will go into production as soon as scripts have been received.

The Male Animal was first produced in New York in 1940, where it was a great success.

The cast in the college production will include Raymond Bisio, Jack Kermoin, Eugene Carlson, Julian Pace, John Blauer, Walter Mahoney, Joyce Barsanti, Shirley Dilke, Mary Drelfuss, Margery Fulton, Lauree Kaye, Cathryn Thompson, and others yet to be announced.

The one act drama, Birthday of the Infanta, formerly announced as going into production, has been cancelled because of unforeseen difficulties.

AWS Schedules Frosh Tea; Officers Named

The Associated Women Students' Freshman Tea will be held Thursday, October 17, from 2 to 4 p.m., in the Social Hall on the West Campus, Nancy Stookey, AWS President, disclosed today.

All women students of the college, as well as the faculty, are invited, she stated.

Officers of the AWS this semester are as follows: Nancy Stookey, president; Janet Caine, vice-president; Mary Nash and Pat Sullivan, secretaries.

CAB

Big Business On Calendar Tomorrow

Beginning bout of the Club Advisory Board will be staged tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the Student Council room, now housed in the Administration Building on the West Campus, when 29 college club representatives will meet, according to Dean John Brady, adviser of the group.

First on the agenda is the election of officers under the temporary chairmanship of Associated Student President Dean Haug.

Big business of the day will come when the board wades into the charter of the Free World Club, an organization affiliated with the nation-wide American Youth for Democracy which is fighting for official campus recognition. The FWC went two rounds before the CAB last semester, going down to the count of ten before the Student Council.

The 29 clubs urged by Dean Haug to send representatives are Alpha Delta Epsilon, Alpha Theta Epsilon, Engineering Society, Hotel and Restaurant Management Society, Kappa Alpha Sigma, Omicron Phi Pi, Phi Epsilon Rho, Forum, Music Club, Pick and Hammer Society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, Block SF, Golden Cleats, Bible Study Club, Chinese Students Club, Newsman Club, Pep Club, Women's Service Society, XGI, Beta Phi Beta, Beta Tau, Tri Epsilon, Alpha Lambda Chi, Delta Psi, Kappa Phi, Phi Beta Rho, Theta Tau, Pi Mu Gamma, and Bachelor's Club.

Radio Classes Slated For KQW Broadcasts

New semester plans are in the offing for radio classes with the announcement of a tentative program today by Marie Weller, instructor of the department.

Plans still incomplete but underway include programs on the regular Saturday broadcasts, Youth Looks to the Future, aired over KQW. A broadcast in conjunction with American Education Week, November 10 to 16, will be given over a local network. Programs are to be entirely produced by the students.

Another possibility for the future is the combining of musical talent in Flossita Badger's vocal groups with the radio department to produce a show for school presentation.

Miss Weller, boasting a large and talented group, explained that the course is given to instruct students in the skills of radio productions.

Hotel Division Treks To L.A. Convention

Now in Los Angeles to attend the three day meeting of the Western Hotel Association annual convention of October 7, 8, and 9 are representatives of the Hotel and Restaurant Division of the college.

Heading the college delegation is Hilda Watson, chairman of the division. Student delegates are three future restauranteurs, Robert Power, whose father operates the Nut Tree Restaurant at Vacaville, Calif.; Paul Larquier, son of one of the owners of Taix French Restaurant, Los Angeles, and William Kabeary, son of the operator of the Town House Restaurant, San Francisco.

Following precedent established at previous conventions, representatives of the college restaurant division have been invited to be present and to take part in discussion of matters pertaining to restaurant operation in the west. Two of the delegates are second year students, while Kabeary is a recently registered freshman.

A wrong-door is often a man that has left something undone, not always he that has done something.
—Marcus Aurelius.

AMS Mardi Gras Set, Activities Announced

The first scheduled event to highlight the Associated Men Student activities this semester will be the Mardi Gras on Friday, November 22, Bill Holmes, AMS President, announced this week.

Former students will remember last semester's colorful Mardi Gras with its concessions and varied costumes as one of the top dances of the year, Holmes said.

Clubs that would like to participate in the Mardi Gras are requested to submit the name and type of their concession to Dean Jack Brady's office as soon as possible. As usual, prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

Monday, December 9th, is the date set for the AMS Intramural Boxing Matches. These proved extremely popular last semester with both men and women students cramming the gymnasium bleachers.

The AMS will conclude the semester with a Barn Dance on Friday, December 13. This will be occasion for many high jinx in defiance of old, traditional superstitions.

The officers under AMS President Holmes are Frank Nelson, vice president, and Alf Uddenberg, secretary-treasurer.

DENNY DAIRIES
321A West Portal Avenue
Takes this opportunity to wish the S F J C all success in their second post-war year

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1946 No. 5

College Hour Schedule
9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

College Hour

Campus Clubs Will Meet Today, 10:45, In Rooms Assigned

Campus clubs start the semester show today at 10:45 a.m. during the college hour when they meet for the first time, according to Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Organizations have been assigned rooms listed below:

Alpha Delta Epsilon	160
Alpha Gamma Sigma	205
Alpha Lambda Chi	211
Alpha Theta Epsilon	158
Beta Phi Beta	111
Beta Tau	254
Bible Study Club	312
Block and Cleats	194
Bachelors Club	256
Club Advisory Board	257
Chinese Students	258
Cosmopolitan	113
Engineer	136
Forum	215
Kappa Phi	213
Music Club	200
Newman Club	212
Phi Beta Rho	190
Pick and Hammer	45
Pi Mu Gamma	204
Theta Tau	191
Tri Epsilon	132
Women's Service Society	193
Delta Psi	206
Symphony Club	208
Dramatics	310
Phi Epsilon Rho	255
Y.M.C.A.	206
Chess and Checkers	37

Vets Advised To File Reports By November 1

Veterans in training under Public Law 346 (G. I. Bill) are again advised to have on record in the Regional Office of the Veterans' Administration, San Francisco, a VA Form 7-1961.

This report must be submitted by November 1, 1946, in order to continue to receive subsistence payments.

William I. Olsen, Senior Training Officer of the Veterans' Administration Office on the campus, announced that of approximately 2000 veterans in the college, only 200 have submitted this report.

"Up In Central Park" Needs Usherettes

Women students enrolled at the college are needed to act as usherettes for the stage play, Up in Central Park, Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, revealed, from October 9 to October 19, for evening and afternoon performances at the Civic Auditorium.

"Ten women are needed every performance," Miss Dougherty stated, "and those interested may see me immediately in my office in Building No. 2 at the West Campus."

Usherettes are expected to be at the Civic Auditorium promptly at 7 p.m. and will be paid for the work, Miss Dougherty explained.

Inventory

Vocational Testing Scheduled Next Week

To assist students to clarify their vocational objectives, the college testing office, under the direction of Verrel Weber, will give a special session for interested students next Wednesday, October 16.

The information concerning these tests was released by Miss Weber last Tuesday and is published verbatim as follows:

"DATES: Inventory to be given Wednesday, October 16, and Thursday, October 24.

"PLACE: Old Cafeteria, the present study hall in the main building.

"TIME: Tests will be given hourly, 1, 2, 3, and 4 p.m. The time required for the inventory is about 40 minutes.

"WHO IS ELIGIBLE TO TAKE THE INVENTORY:

"All first semester students (except those enrolled in Psychology 10) are urged to take it. Those students enrolled in Psychology 10 will be given this and other similar inventories in their regular class periods.

"Any other students who are interested.

"Any members of the staff.

"Procedure: Students are NOT to be excused from classes to take the inventory. Anyone who wishes to take the inventory should report to Room 192 any time between 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. or 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. before Wednesday, October 16, to secure an eligibility card. These cards will be issued for a given hour on one or the other of the testing days. Only those presenting appropriate cards will be admitted to the study hall to take the test."

Heads Of Standing Committees Chosen

Chairman and members of the Associated Student standing committees were nominated last week, according to Dean Haug, president of the Associated Students.

Nominated head of the Finance Committee is Kent Bowker, last semester's Sophomore President. Under Bowker are committee members Don Grant and Carter Corey.

Because of the amount and intensity of publicity, there will be two chairmen of the Publicity Committee this semester, Haug announced. Bob Catudio and George Palviney head the group, with Al Moffatt, Tim Deliger, and Jane Doran as members.

The committee will publicize all college events and activities of interest to the college students.

The position of Rally Commissioner has been filled by Al Moffat, with Jane Doran assisting.

Yell leader for this semester is Ted Briones. Assistant Yell Leader has not yet been appointed.

Library Ballot

Place an "X" mark in the proper space which follows.

YES ( ) I would like to make use of the college library on Saturday mornings.

NO ( ) I would not make use of the college library on Saturday mornings.

Submit all ballots, properly marked, to the librarian's desk in the main building, Room 314, before Friday, October 18.

Student's Name .....

Home Address .....

Semester in College ..... Tel. .....

XGI Society

Second Duck Waddle Rolls Tonight With Nylons, Two Radios As Door Prizes; Tickets Still On Sale In Main Building

Waddlers, 1946 version, expert, novice, place, and show, will officially greet Dr. Anatidae and his son at the War Memorial Building when the curtain rises on Ruptured Duck Waddle II tonight at 8 o'clock.

Escorted by members of the college's XGI Society, which sponsors this semi-annual occasion when all students are invited to greet the day the veteran's way, Dr. Anatidae and his son are expected to be in excellent trim for their trek to the Waddie's site at Van Ness Avenue and McAllister Street.

Tickets for the affair may be purchased from the men in the halls who are wearing XGI ribbons on their lapels. Price is $1.50 per couple.

Members Pay Too

Contrary to the rumor which has circulated during the week, members of the society must purchase tickets as their membership card will not admit them to the dance.

"We have spent more than $700 so far for the dance, and the end is not yet in sight," Bill Thomas, XGI treasurer, declared.

John Tolly, social chairman, affirmed that prizes, including two radios and several pairs of nylons, would be given away as door prizes and added that dollar bills would be placed in some of the balloons which are to be released during the dance.

All students and faculty members are invited, XGI officers stated, regardless of membership or non-membership in the XGI Society.

Waddle Music Of The Best

The Bob Emerson musical aggregation, which will play the finest of waddle music for the dance, is composed of ten instruments and two vocalists and has just returned from a highly successful tour of Southern United States dance palaces.

In addition to the music the band will offer one or two original versions of the Shooting of Dan McGrew and the Face On The Barroom Floor as specialty numbers for intermission time.

Jadoo, the Hindustanian Wonder, will astound the assembled guests with a few moments of magic during the main intermission.

Library

Saturday Opening Up To Student Vote

Overcrowded conditions existing in the college library have forced attention to a possible remedy that may see the library hours extended on Saturdays between 10 and 1 p.m., it was disclosed this week by President A. J. Cloud.

That the number of students, in some cases, far outnumber the material and periodicals for use in the library was one of the chief concerns of many students who brought attention of the fact to the college librarian Marcus Skarstedt.

A ballot, which will indicate the trend of student thought in reference to the proposal, is published on this page. Space is allotted for a "yes" and a "no" vote, but regardless of students' selections, all ballots, properly marked, must be submitted to the librarian's desk before Friday, October 18.

Present conditions at the library find a scarcity of space for students who wish to study and the reserve book list is approaching unprecedented request totals, Skarstedt pointed out.

The library is located in the main building in Room 314, and a subsidiary branch is located at the Excelsior School, London and Excelsior Avenue, which now accommodates more than 500 veterans.

Vets Housing Units Returned To College

One hundred sixty-nine veterans' housing units have been turned back to the college for use of married veterans in attendance here, announced E. N. Ayer, chairman of the San Francisco Housing Commission.

The units had been earmarked for other use, but thanks to prompt action by college officials and housing authority planners, the units will be erected adjacent to Hurley Village for the benefit of those students who have been unable to find living accommodations for themselves and their families.

West Campus Fountain To Serve 1000 Daily

Seven hundred and fifty students are now being served daily at the newly opened fountain lunch counter in Building 12 and by the end of this week directors expect a count of a thousand, Instructor Earl Nearing manager of operations for the Hotel Division at present, said.

During the noon rush, students are now obliged to stand in line for tables. According to Nearing, this would not be necessary if tables were vacated at once when occupants finish eating.

"The fountain lunchroom is not a student lounge," Nearing said.

Tom Duffy, instructor in restaurant operation, is manager of the new eating place which is being referred to by hotel students as "Duffy's Tavern."

The fountain is at the south end of the building housing The Guardsman offices.

Associated Students

Student Council Approves Record Semester Budget

Unanimous passage of a record fall semester budget of $17,442 dominated a Tuesday meeting of the Student Council which found The Guardsman and the athletic departments each taking a lion's share of distribution.

Semester allocation for The Guardsman, which will continue to be published twice weekly, is $5,892 (with $500 return expected from advertising); football, $3,102, and basketball, $1,176. An appropriation of $2,000 in favor of a collegiate journal was also approved.

The complete list of appropriations is as follows:

Co-Educational Activities:
A Cappella Choir	$ 495.00
Alpha Gamma Sigma	90.00
Band and Orchestra	200.00
Dramatics	300.00
Rally Committee	125.00
Social Committee	535.00
Sophomore Week	500.00
Freshman Class	342.00
Miscellaneous:
Administration	100.00
Controller	175.00
Dean of Men's Fund	150.00
Executive Council	550.00
Publicity	250.00
Student Lounge	100.00
Publications:
Guardsman	5,892.00
Journal	2,000.00
Men's Activities:
Associated Men Students	650.00
Basketball	1,176.00
Football (regular)	3,102.00
Intramural	170.00
Women's Activities:
Assoc. Women Students	355.00
Women's Athletic Assoc.	185.00
Total Budget Passed	$17,442.00

Graduation Petitions Must Be Filed Today

Removal of incompletes and petitions to graduate at the end of this semester must be filed in the registrar's office today, according to the college calendar.

Method for removing incompletes is through arrangements with the instructor involved. Failure to remove the incomplete by today results in at best a D grade, the registrar's office warned.

Petitions to graduate may be obtained from the same office and must be filled out by the petitioning student.

Quack! Quack!

Dr. Anatidae, Son Visit College And Tell Of Ancient Art Of Terpsichore

By Del Pichon

Heralded by the scream of their police escort's sirens, the world-renowned Doctors Anatidae, famous advocators of the "ancient art of terpsichore," arrived at the college last Tuesday.

Upon viewing the assembled crowd that awaited his arrival, Dr. Anatidae Sr. was so overcome by the ovation that he forgot his prepared speech and begged Dr. Anatidae Jr. to take over. Junior's speech was as terse and as small as himself. "Quack!" It was greeted with a thunderous applause. (Such profundity is only born of a genius.)

The salutations over, the Doctors proceeded into the building to be welcomed by President Cloud, Dean Edward Sandys, and Oscar Anderson, comptroller. The introductions having been completed, Dr. Anatidae Sr. mentioned "this college is certainly possessed of a fine administrative group, don't you think, Junior?"

"Quack," said Junior in agreement.

"Would you like to tour the campus?" President Cloud questioned.

"Why I certainly would. I've heard so much of this college recently that I would like to learn more of it. How about you, Junior?" the senior Anatidae said.

"Quack," replied Junior.

"Good! Let's get under way then. We have other appointments this afternoon that can't be missed. Good afternoon, gentlemen. I hope you will excuse us."

"Certainly," said President Cloud, "we would be more than glad to."

(Continued on page 4, column 3)

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 5 Friday, October 11, 1946 Page 2

West Campus

Step In Right Direction

NEVER let it be said that credit isn't given where due by The Guardsman. Credit in this instance is due to those responsible for obtaining for the college the West Campus, formerly known as the WAVE Barracks.

It is needless to point out the fact that the college is almost hopelessly overcrowded. Though the acquisition of the West Campus is by no means a solution to the problem of how to accommodate all the students, it is a step in the right direction to relieve an intolerable situation.

It is well known that College President A. J. Cloud has been doing his best to convince those in charge of building priorities that more adequate accommodations are needed here. The fact that new buildings are not being erected is obviously the result of nation-wide shortages.

In the case of this Navy Separation Center, the civic funds won't be going to waste in a deserted center. The barracks are being put to good use, and the college will benefit by usage of the modern equipment already installed.

The auditorium, which will fill a sad need of past years is ideally equipped for either an auditorium or a gymnasium if it should ever be needed as such. The administration building's social lounge provides an excellent place to hold student dances as well as other events.

A most important feature is the boon of having the former barracks as housing for veterans. It is true that this is a throw back to the bad old days of life in the service, but most of the veterans occupying the barracks are ready to agree that it is much better than "living in the park."

Carmel Gannon.

Ford

After Dark

JANE EYRE, with the powerful Welles-Fontaine combination, is enjoying a return engagement at several of the district theatres. Don't miss it. (You might even see it again). A side note: Aldous Huxley, author of Time Must Have A Stop, Antic Hay, Point Counter-Point, and others, is now apparently one of the Goldwyn Boys. He wrote the screen adaptation for Charlotte Bronte's famous book.

Columbia Masterworks has recently issued Wagner's Die Walkure Duet (Act 1, Scene 3) recorded by Helen Traubel, soprano, and Emery Darcy, tenor, with the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra of New York, Arthur Rodzinski, conductor. It is a set of three 12-inch records and an invaluable addition to any music lover's collection.

The Theatre de la Mode is all very well and good, but if you want to see something really worth while, drop next door (De Young Museum in Golden Gate Park) and take in the post-war French Religious Exhibit. It will take your breath away. If you are too jaded to get your jollies from that, rap over to Napoleon's Throne (same museum) and rest awhile. Incidentally, the Corsican's throne is wired for a SHOCK!

Ernest Hemingway's The Killers, directed by Mark Hellinger, provides some first rate Hemingway dialogue (Uuuh! Aah. Ugh! Ooh. Bang! Whizz! Blurp!) and an amazing plot that makes for an evening's entertainment.

* * * *

Last Friday night a pale looking lad was seen dinging down the halls of the San Francisco Museum of Art, entirely oblivious to the rather old looking prints adorning the hall. He paused in front of a mottled conglomeration of paint that defies explanation and let out a long ecstatic "Aaaaaaaah!"

In his haste to take in the complete field of modern art, he had completely passed up some original work by Picasso and Henry Matisse.

* * * *

Hassel Smith, young San Francisco artist, has a ONE MAN exhibit at the Iron Pot which will run until the end of October. There seems to be quite a difference of opinion about his work. It's one of those things you have to see for yourself.

Around And About

with Nagle

TO strains of "Hold that line—hold that line" and "Block that kick," crowds ranging from 2,000 to 50,000 jam together weekly to witness various college, university, and professional football games. This column will be devoted to the poor unsportsman-like female who "goes along for the ride," as it were, but who, much to the disgust of her gentlemen escort, knows enough about football to have it engraved on the back of the streetcar token.

First of all—there are two teams. Generally they wear different colored jerseys so that the rooters (people cheering team on to victory) will be able to tell which man to throw coke bottles at. The players also have numbers on the front and back of their jerseys. These numbers are for the information of the officials who must know whom to blame in case someone gets kicked in the head with a cleated shoe. (The numbers backwards give the player's telephone number, so fans only need find the exchange to call up their heroes and congratulate them on a run.

FOOTBALL WEATHEROLOGISTS

Before the game gets started, the players come out and play catch—mostly to test the weather and see if they need a heavy or light weight jersey.

Then the players all retire to the dressing rooms to talk about whom they saw in the third seat of the tenth row behind the 43rd yard line. After comparing notes, they come out on the field with blood in their respective eyes.

The ball (an oblong egg-shaped object made of pigskin) is placed in the middle of the field, and somebody comes up and kicks it. Then the men on both teams pursue it—grab for it and pile up. This method of the mad chase and the massacre to the end zone (where goal post is kept) scores a touchdown! The crowds scream, yell, stamp feet, throw hats in the air, whistle and in other similar ways let the boys know "that they are right behind them."

CHASE IT OR DIE!

The ball is then kicked (sometimes) over the goal post, and another point is made. Following this the "chase the ball and be killed process" begins again.

Several terms of play might come up which one interested in football should know, namely: 1st down, 2nd down, 3rd down, and 4th down.

This does not mean the number of players who have fallen, tripped, been pushed, or have otherwise hit the sod, but rather means the number of times the ball has been stopped in its attempt to reach the goal post.

Every team is allowed four downs to get ten yards closer to the goal, and if they don't, well, the other team gets a chance at the ball.

"Time out" is a signal, given by a puffing referee or an exhausted captain, which means "come, water boy, we're thirsty."

"Back-field in motion" (no, silly, the player is NOT trying to rhumba) means a player in the front line of scrimmage is moving—and he shouldn't be.

"Too much time-out" is simple—the boys were just too thirsty; so another five yard penalty.

Enjoying a football game is simple. Watch the ball, and watch the crowd. When the crowd starts yelling, yell with them. Be sure you shout with the mass of humanity on YOUR side of the stand though.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

The World Looks At Uncle Sam— And Shouts Peeves

AMONG other peoples of a well populated globe nursing pet peeves against this Arsenal of Democracy can now be listed the Arabs and British, as a result of President Truman's remarks on the Palestine tangle. Truman started another chain letter fad for sharp replies via mail.

POISON PEN DEPARTMENT

Atlee has sent a "stiff note" to Washington. If all the stiff notes that have been received there since the war's end were laid end to end, they'd double track all the way to Number 10 Downing Street with enough left over for a spur track into the Kremlin.

For a nation carrying a bigger bat than Teddy Roosevelt ever dared to hope for, this nation has been getting a bad buffeting around by return mail from all corners in the past year.

EVICTION NOTICES

Postmarks have been widely varied, if diplomatic pouches carry such things: from Iceland, to Algeria, to the same old stand in Argentina. The tone of the letters remains pretty well the same, a broad hint that the lease is up, and will Uncle Sam start packing bags? A global war has left some loose ends about and irritation has set in over them.

Iceland recently demanded the removal of Army troops that have been standing by since the start of hostilities and have been finally persuaded to allow civilian technicians to remain for plane traffic to Europe.

Other "demands" range from the presence of an American radio station in Algeria to an insistence that we buy more canned corned beef from the good neighbor to the south. The former irk is understandable in light of present radio traffic being hammered into domestic homes, but there is still beef left over from the last war, and warehouse space is needed here for new refrigerators and washing machines awaiting OPA suicide.

THE BEARD TAKES A BEATING

Getting back to the bat, there have been numerous excuses to wield it if only to even up the score in the name calling session that goes on about the world. It's usually out loud over there but not much of it gets to these shores.

Americans away from the land were content to call the native soil Shangri-La, an understatement, and often just "the old country." Britain used the mild Uncle Spam, a doubtful tribute to the meat industry and their amazing talent for getting the worst out of cattle by-products.

He's Uncle Sap to the rest of Europe for too many reasons to list at one sitting, and the Orient knows him as Uncle Sham in many of their gatherings.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

USUALLY the greatest tributes are paid people only after they are much too dead to appreciate them. Today, however, it is our wish to say a few paragraphs about someone who is not really anyone. In fact, the tribute this time goes, while she is still full of life and oil, to a very heroic and deserving vehicle.

Since last spring, the most comforting chariot in the vicinity has been the merry Groaning Caterpillar, who untiringly serves the college in such an important capacity. A brave and unusually plucky conveyance, she countless times a day takes the entrance drive in the spirit with which it was evidently constructed; sheer malice!

But G. C. stoutly puts forth her two slightly worn front tires, gives her daily loads ungrudgingly up to her daily loads unbegrudgingly up to the front steps.

How comforting, on mornings when the building and the very streets entirely disappear due to the "light dew", to have the privilege of being packed like so many pieces of canned fruit, into the sometimes-waiting van.

Of course, as with any prominent figure, "Groanie" has had to undergo quite a bit of criticism during the past several months. Some have said that she always gives the impression of being just about ready to fall apart when she gets about halfway up the hill, loaded to her fenders with those students who still retain fond hopes of reaching their eight o'clock classes before eight-fifteen.

Then there are always those chronic complainers who don't think too much of having to wait for fifteen minutes while Groanie's Lord and Master finishes discussing the position of Russia in a recent issue with an up and coming political scientist.

However, Groanie thinks it is about time she began voicing some of her complaints about the overworked route she runs. It seems that after all these months she is beginning to get quite dizzy from running around in circles. Her plush has been worn to a mere frazzle, and she recently developed dark and unsightly circles under her headlights. Who has any more right than she to groan, "Oh, my poor, aching chassis!"

Ram's Horn

Writers Toss Orchids To Faculty; Protests Phelan Avenue Speedsters

Letters to the Editor

• Calm From Chaos

Editor, The Guardsman:

During the first two weeks of the fall semester we have seen the results of an influx of some 5,200 persons to the college. This is not an unusual situation these days. Many colleges are far more crowded than San Francisco Junior College.

Sure—courses are a little slow in getting started. So what—if there is a jam in the halls and there are waiting lines everywhere. Think what it must be like at California University where there are more than 22,000 students!!!

It's time for us to stop our complaining and try to make the best of a not-to-difficult situation. The faculty is doing an excellent job of organizing, considering the fact that the classes are over-crowded and that there is a shortage of textbooks.

Let's get on the ball and work together to bring calm out of chaos.

W. B. Keast

• Phelan Ave. Speedway

Editor, The Guardsman:

Lately, there has been a great deal of interest in traffic safety. This has been due largely to publicity given various nationwide campaigns. Therefore, it seems time we spoke of traffic safety in and around the college.

The thoroughfare known as Phelan Avenue is a special danger spot. This avenue is usually packed with cars parked on both sides. Yet, the way some students drive, it gives the impression of being another Indianapolis Speedway.

Not only is it dangerous for fast moving automobiles to meet, but the added hazard of jay-walking pedestrians is ever present. This danger to pedestrians is especially emphasized at the corner of Ocean and Phelan Avenues, where there seems to be a universal disregard of the stop sign on the part of most drivers.

It would be a great pity if any of us, especially the veterans, who have come this far, were injured, or killed, by an unthinking, careless fellow-student.

Remember that a few extra minutes are never worth a human life.

Howard R. Simpson

Guardsman Staff— Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR ..... June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavanor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Sivan Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Sinhon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Whoarty, Melvin Hansen.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Jack Rhodes, Ron Crawford, Staten Webster.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHERS: Donald Lum, Fred Lussig, Arnold Wechter.
STAFF ARTIST: Eleanor Schaeffer.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser ..... Joan Nourse
Business Adviser ..... Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 5 FRIDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1946 Page 3

RAMblings . .

By Jack Rhodes and Ron Crawford

T'WAS a pretty good week end for Rhodes and Crawford when it came to picking last week's football games. Crawford came up with the best average, hitting seven out of eight right, calling the Stanford over USF upset, and placing the Ohio State team over USC which was one of the tougher games to pick. For this week's predictions we have:

CRAWFORD'S GRID PREDICTIONS

St. Mary's over California, and Santa Clara should take Portland for their first win of the season. USF will take Detroit after the lesson they got last week from Stanford. Washington will take Washington State, mainly because they have one of the strongest lines on the coast.

USC will take Oregon State, as they're out for blood after last week's loss. Oregon won't have any trouble with Montana. The game of the week will be the UCLA vs. Stanford, this corner picks the Indians after the show of power that they displayed last week.

RHODES PEERLESS PICKINGS

St. Mary's shouldn't have any trouble with the California Bear. Portland U. will give Santa Clara their third straight defeat. USF will recover from last week's sad showing to take their revenge on Gus Dorais', Detroit team.

Washington's line will be the difference between a victory or a loss over Washington State. USC is still one of the strongest teams on the coast and should take Oregon State. Oregon will win their game with a weak Montana team.

Big game of the week will be the UCLA vs. Stanford game. This one is a tough one, for no one knows how strong the UCLAN line will be against the hard hitting Merriman, but still the Bruins should win this and go on to the Rose Bowl undefeated.

RUMORS WRONG

Rumors to the affect that Harry Fromm would be heading this way were slightly off the beam. Uncle Sam will have first priority.

GOLF STAR

One of the best golfers in the State of California is now attending classes here at the college. The young fellow's name? Bob Unthang. He was runner up in the recent East Bay Regional Tournament, losing out to Elmer Clites, who was the winner of the tournament.

Unthang claims Alameda for home, but has played on almost every golf course in the state, and shot either par or close to it on all. . . .

TRACK IS HERE

Cross country track outlook has perked up a bit with the appearance of Jack Vandermale, former Lowell cross-country star. Other prospects are turning up daily, while Coach Jim Jensen is getting happier by the day.

SPEAKING OF TRACK . . .

We were wondering whether that game last Sunday between St. Mary's and the Alameda Naval Air Station was a football game or a track meet.

It reminded us of the days when Lee Eisan took an inexperienced squad over to play the Coast Guard. There were only a few All-Americans and three or four professionals. The scorers stopped counting after 80.

Intramural

Deadline For Cage Tourney Today

With this afternoon set as the deadline for signups in the intramural basketball tourney, a host of teams will vie in the round robin beginning next week with play being conducted in the men's gymnasium.

Former stars decorating many of the squads, should bring some forebearance as to the type of play to be expected this year. Of course there will be "diamonds in the rough" uncovered in every fray.

Any groups who want to enter this tournament should see Director Tom Wilson or the intramural manager at the men's gymnasium this afternoon before 5 p.m.

Awards will be given at the end of the season with medals going to the first and second place teams, Wilson said.

Former All-City Man Named Top Gridder

By Bill Covall

To pick the player of the day from last week's battle with the Salinas Cowboys was by far no easy task. It seemed as if the team worked as a unit with every man playing a standout game.

However, if there is one man who could be pointed out by the adjective "outstanding," Denny Miller might well be he.

Holding down the left guard position on offense and taking the role of line-backer on defense, Miller was truly running in the form that made him one of the top linemen in the city while cavorting with the Mission Bears. It was this all around play that won him a coveted all-city post in 1944.

Upon his graduation from Mission, he enlisted in the Coast Guard and served for almost two years in all parts of the world. Miller is majoring in a business course here.

Rams, Sacs In Crucial Test

League Leaders Battle Tonight At Sad Sac Village; Mayhem Begins At 8 p.m.

By Bob Catudio

Hughes Memorial Stadium, Sacramento, Oct. 11—Undaunted by fear, whammies, and clinging to a "one game winning streak," the Rams face Sacramento City College here tonight, festivities beginning at 8 p.m.

Indications point to a record Capitol City crowd of 5,000 customers eager to watch Earl Hoos, Sad Sac mentor via Stanford U., unveil his triple-winging, fleet-footed offensive.

Coming so early in the season, the game could be classed as a "crucial" since both organizations are undefeated in conference play. The Sacs disposed of Modesto 19 to 0 last week, while the townies assaulted Salinas, 12 to 0.

Top performance of the week past is the improvement of the local's running attack featured by the added boom of Marshall Leong, the lead-footed plunger via St. Mary's. Add to this the regenerated right wing of Quarterback George Newell and Tackles Don Rooker and Art Psaltis—and a ball game is in the making.

Sacramento, a nice school by all odds, is paced by scooterish Ray Sules and Nick Tinicientini (oh migosh), the barrel-chested QB whose chief delight is cutting down opposing would-be tacklers.

Both squads are light in weight, the Panthers, especially, according to Hoos, the ex-Commerce High Schooler with the Yale brogue. The Sacs' backfield averages 154 pounds, the line a beefy 186.

Hopeful is the word for Ram head maestro Lee Elsan who vows that all the metropolitan lads will be in tip top shape, including Quarterback Staten Webster who sat out the Salinas fracas nursing a bruised leg tendon.

Halfback Carter Corey will replace John Rainey at the right wingback spot giving the Eisans a kicker of no mean standing. All in all, the contest is a veritable box office standout with the locals pinning a bedecked pennant on the stuff of which dreams are cast.

The lineups:

San Francisco	Pos.	Sacramento
8 Pozenkoff	LER	Orisek 61
21 Psaltis	LTR	Boudnic 52
23 Belcher	LGR	Sanchez 55
22 Didio	C	Ernst 56
19 Miller	RGL	Martinelli 50
66 Hoffman	RTL	Conniey 67
15 Cronn	REL	Bryant 41
7 Webster	Q	Tinicientini 66
12 Ekdall	LHR	Sules 37
18 Corey	RHL	Kline 44
17 Crouch	F	Price 70

NEWELL RUNS, TOO! Circling the Salinas end, Quarterback George Newell (13) of the locals picks up a few important yards. The effective aerial right wing of tailback Newell accounted for two touchdown passes in the Eisans' 12 to 0 win over the Cowpokes.

Half-Way Point Near In Milk Shake Derby

By Jack Rhodes

"Milkshakes for all!" With this statement Kenny White has been trying to devour the milkshakes that he won by scoring the first touchdown in the Long Beach game.

So far White has been able to down six of the fifteen milk shakes he won, this of course with the help of other members of the team. His assistants have been, Art Ekdall, Don Grant, Don Morrison, Bob Woodworth, and Ken Schuhard.

It has been reported that another offer similar to the first one will soon be forth coming from Denny Dairies. Next time, it is said the offer will be sundaes for the man that makes the most tackles in one particular game.

Grover Klemmer

Champ Sprinter Takes Post Here

By Ron Crawford

Contrary to the usual hardships we endure trying to interview people, we had no trouble finding and extracting Grover Klemmer's life history. In fact, he seemed only too co-operative with a striving reporter in what is usually a difficult assignment.

Klemmer, as most students know, is the holder of the world's record in the 440 yard spurt, but what many don't know is that he is at the college as a Physical Education instructor!

Getting back to his life history we find that he went to Galileo High School from which he was graduated in 1939. It was during his last two years at high school that he was first noticed as a great runner.

From Galileo he went to the University of California where in his freshman year he was a coach's dream on the track. Many sports writers predicted that he was the man to watch at the National AAU meet held late in his freshman year.

In his sophomore year Grover tied the world's record for the 440 in 46.6 seconds before a crowd of 19,000 spectators at Berkeley. It was only two months later at the AAU meet in Philadelphia that he broke the world's record with a speed of 46 seconds, which, by the way, has not been topped since.

In the fall of the same year he won the Colonel George C. Edwards Gold Medal which is given to the great trackmen of California by the Alumni Association. Klemmer was the fifth quarter-miler to be so honored.

At the beginning of the 1942 season he injured his leg, causing him to hang up his spikes for the rest of the year. In September he went out for football in which he made the first eleven. Later, he distinguished himself as a member of the Bear's cage squad.

Because Klemmer was so outstanding in these sports he was the seventh man to receive his letter 'C' in three sports.

In the entire history of the University, only the following have won this honor: Dave Meek '35, was the last to win the award. Meek won his laurels in the same three sports as Klemmer.

The others were John C. Sutton, '85, football, baseball and track; Fred C. Turner, '87, football, baseball and track; the late Clinton R. ("Brick") Morse, '96, football, baseball and track; Warren W. Smith, '02, football, baseball and track, and Olin ("Cort")- Majors, '21, football, basketball and track.

With these great Californians now stands Klemmer, '43, track, football and basketball.

In April of 1943, Klemmer enlisted in the Naval Aviation Cadet program, during which time he played for the mighty Great Lakes Pre-Flight football team. After his discharge in 1944 he married and now has a baby boy seven months old.

Grover coaches the Lambs, the college's freshman football team.

Cross-Country Men To Cavort This Semester

Plans were released this week by Track Coach Jim Jensen for the extension of the cross-country track program for this semester.

The class will be open to all men interested in distance running. Jensen will see men interested during their regular physical education hours in the gymnasium office.

To date no scheduled track contests have been listed, according to Jensen.

NCJCC SCORING PARADE

Player, College—	TD	EG	PAT	Pts
Sules, Sacramento	2	0	0	12
Corey, S. F.	1	0	0	6
Kline, Sacramento	1	0	0	6
Poznekoff, S. F.	1	0	0	6
Price, Sacramento	0	0	1	1

Block SF Election Set For College Hour

First Block SF Society meeting of the semester will be held today during the college hour, according to Carter Corey, president.

Most important business on the agenda will be the election of new officers for the fall semester, and the action to be brought against wearers of high school blocks or other non-college blocks worn on the campus.

Last semester's officers were Corey president, Bob Parnow vice-president, and Don Grant secretary.

NCJCC Grid Struggle

Team	Won	Lost	Pts	PA	Pct
San Francisco	1	0	12	0	1.000
Sacramento	1	0	19	0	1.000
Salinas	0	1	0	12	.000
Modesto	0	1	0	19	.000
San Mateo	0	0	0	0	.000

Three Women's Athletic Association Clubs Will Meet Today To Elect Managers

Women's athletic activities will begin in full swing today, Frances Scilipoti, president of the Women's Athletic Association, announced, with the first meeting of the archery, horse-back riding and badminton clubs.

At the first meetings today, club members will elect managers to represent their clubs in the Executive Council of the association, Miss Scilipoti revealed.

No social events have been planned as yet, Miss Scilipoti stated, because of technicalities arising from the budget alloted to the club; however, the situation is expected to be cleared up in the near future at which time more definite plans regarding social activities can be made.

In the athletic line, however, Miss Scilipoti announced, that play-days are now being planned with San Mateo Junior College and San Francisco State College badminton and hockey clubs. Last spring play-days were held with these two schools and arrangements were then made for additional play-days this fall.

Festival

Music Groups Plan Christmas Program, Off Campus Fetes

Traditional with the Christmas season, plans are near completion by the college music department for the annual Yuletide programs on and off the campus.

Off campus, the Veterans' Memorial Building will be the site of Christmas festivities co-sponsored by the choral groups, the Associated Women Students, and the Music Club.

Flossita Badger of the music department stressed that there are openings in this and in off-campus requests, for program for piano accompanists, soloists, instrumentalists, and entertainers. A unit of credit can be given for accompanists. Those interested are urged to see Miss Badger this Monday at 2 p.m. in Room 263.

William J. Eckert of the Advertising Art department will supervise the decorations for the Christmas program and Gertrude Norgard, Miss Badger, and Madison Devlin will share in supervision of the musical entertainment.

Colorful Mardi Gras To Be Held On Campus

Friday, November 22, is the date set for the Associated Men Student Mardi Gras to be held in either the West Campus or the men's gymnasium, it was announced this week by Bill Holmes, AMS President.

"An orchestra has been selected but no contracts can be signed until the Student Council acts on the AMS budget," Holmes said.

The plans for this year's Mardi Gras include the colorful booths that highlighted last semester's gala evening, prizes for costumes, and plenty of fun for all Associated Student card holders. "If everyone would come in costume, it could be the most colorful dance in the history of the college," Holmes added.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Art Consta and Mary Jane Forse were married recently. Tri-E dance is scheduled November 27, 1946.

•Theta Tau: The first rush tea will be held Sunday, October 20.

•Newman Club: The first meeting will be held next Monday at the St. Emydius Hall at DeMonford and Ashton Avenues, San Francisco. A special program is being planned, and anyone interested is invited to attend.

•Alpha Lambda Chi: A meeting will be held this Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the home of Beverly Mayers, 1623 Eighteenth Avenue. A joint meeting will be held at the home of Peggy McDonald, 2506 Twenty-second Avenue on October 17, with the Tri Epsilon Fraternity.

•Chess and Checker Club: All students interested in forming a chess and checker club should come to Room 37 during the college hour today.

•Pi Mu Gamma: New officers for this semester are President William Kurz, Vice-president Margaret Petropoulous, Secretary Dorothy Wagner, Treasurer Vivian Tietjen, Publicity Manager Betty Taylor, and C.A.B. Representative Frank Yorkis.

•Delta Psi: Martha Scott, new faculty adviser, was introduced to the group at the meeting Tuesday night. Plans for the rush tea to be held on October 13 were discussed.

•Engineerlug Society: All students majoring in engineering, chemistry, physics, or mathematics are eligible for membership and are urged to attend the meeting this Friday during the College Hour.

•Kappa Psi: All members are invited to the Beach Party tomorrow night.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: All freshmen women interested in Home Economics as well as old members are invited to a tea scheduled for Room 158 on Wednesday, October 16. Signups are due today in Room 158.

Telephone SKyline 7198 FREE DELIVERY

LYNCH & CORRERIS

Florists

Flowers For Every Occasion

GUS CORERIS -:- MAURICE LYNCH

1420 Clement San Francisco 18 California

JANE TOMLINSON

Campus Representative

Vic and Roy's

BEACON GAS STATION

CORNER OCEAN AVENUE AT PLYMOUTH

COURTEOUS SERVICE

by

THESE X-SFJC SERVICE VETERANS

FACILITIES FOR

EXPERT TIRE RECAPPING

— CARS SERVICED WHILE YOU ATTEND CLASSES —

Controller

College Bank Takes Active Role In Student Activity

By Harold Levy

Though popularly supposed by many students to be merely an agency designed to handle the sale of streetcar tickets and Associated Student cards, the college bank plays a far more active roll in student activities. This was the disclosure made this week by Oscar E. Anderson, controller.

Its main function is to finance the activities of clubs throughout the college, Anderson said. These clubs are divided into two main groups—non-budget and budget organizations. The non-budget organizations operate on funds derived from dues collected from their membership. The funds are then put on deposit in the student bank.

These clubs have access to these funds at any time, and need only present a written approval of the expenditure, either before or after the expenditure is made. The sponsor's signature is all that is required to facilitate the drawing of club funds from the bank, Anderson said, and it must be affixed to the request.

The budget type clubs, however, derive their financial support from a pre-determined budget of funds allotted to the particular club. The money allotted to these organizations comes from the sale of Associated Student membership cards.

The individual club must submit to the Student Council, which meets at the beginning of each semester, an itemized budget request. On approval of the council, the money is then granted.

To draw on their account with the bank, the organization must present to the controller's office a purchase order or an authorization of expenditures.

More Dr. Anatidae

(Continued from page 1)

"Quack," was the junior Anatidae's brief goodbye.

Escorted by Trev Burrow, president of the XGI Society, and various other officials of that society, the Doctors visited places of interest throughout the campus. They were enthusiastic over all of the facilities offered by the college to the students.

Doctor Anatidae Sr. summed up his enthusiasm in one quote, "The student Lounge is magnificent, wonderful; The Guardsman is an excellent paper; the restaurant is superb, the cuisine is too, too; the campus as a whole is very good. Don't you agree, Junior?"

"Quack," was Junior's fervent reply.

"What do you think of the Ruptured Duck Waddle II to be held tonight at the War Memorial Auditorium from 8 to 12 o'clock. It's only going to cost a buck and a half," asked Burrow.

"Okay," said Dr. Anatidae Sr.

"I'm sure that it will be the scene of terpsichorean gyrations that will rock the foundation of the whole science. One can easily picture these students leaping, cavorting, twisting, and contorting themselves in response to the music of Bob Emerson's band." Dr. Anatidae Jr. said quietly.

That ended the interview as the assembled group collapsed at the significance of his words.

"Oh, quack!" Junior said peevedly.

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS

Granat Bros.

"SERVICE TREAT & EACHER"

Car Pool

Dean Acts To Relieve Transportation Jam

Because of the enlarged enrollment at the college, the transportation situation has reached a crisis.

To help alleviate this problem, Dean Edward E. Sandys is currently conducting a local share-the-ride program.

Students operating automobiles to and from college that are not filled to a capacity are urged to contact Dean Sandys at their earliest convenience.

In his office, Room 123, Dean Sandys has a board upon which students can leave their names and addresses. This board is for those seeking transportation as well as those offering it.

The cooperation of all concerned is necessary to make this venture a success, Dean Sandys said.

Drama Groups To Play Here Comes Mr. Jordan

The great Hollywood hit, Here Comes Mr. Jordan, will be presented here in late November or early December, it was announced this week by Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor.

The production, officially called Heaven Can Wait, will go into immediate rehearsals. Sisler said that three male parts are still open. He can be reached for a tryout every day in Room 28 at 3 p.m.

The cast of Heaven Can Wait includes Bill Komons as Joe Pendleton, the saxophone playing prizefighter; Hal Harris as Mr. Jordon (the Claude Rains moving picture role); Elbert Priddy as Messenger 7013; Betty Young and Carmea Alvarez as Julia Farnsworth; Bill Riley and Merton Bereovich as Tony Abbott; Marie Wispell and Carla Perkins as Bette Logan, the girl in Joe's life; and Phil Markinson and Max Levene as Joe's manager.

Others in the cast include Dorothy Geenan, Isabelle Kohmona, Sal Maeda, Regina Warchot, and Gilbert Craig.

Busiest Ram Tackler To Feast At Denny Dairies

By June Sheehy

Not content with awarding 15 milkshakes to Kenny White for scoring the Rams' first touchdown, Denny Dairies, new West Portal Creamery, has promised 10 ice cream sundaes to the local football hero making the most tackles in tonight's game with Sacramento.

White, finding it not too difficult scooting around the Long Beach end to paydirt, found it not so easy downing his 15 shakes and brought a half dozen teammates to Denny's to help drink up.

If the linemen in tonight's are light struggle doubt their sundae capacity, this need not deter them from pouncing on the Sacramento Panthers at every opportunity. Denny doesn't mind if the winner brings a few assistants.

AWS

Frosh Tea Set For Thursday In West Campus Social Hall

Initiation of the West Campus social hall (building No. 2) into the college's social order will feature an Associated Women Students' Freshman Tea to be held Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock, Nancy Stookey, WAA president, revealed this week.

The tea is a traditional feature of the college, and is held the beginning of each semester in order to acquaint new women students with their instructors, faculty members, and other students.

Women comprising the committee to make arrangements for the tea are chosen from the women college students as a whole, and have already been appointed by Miss Stookey, and Margaret Dougherty, dean of women. Names of the various committees will be announced in the near future, Miss Stookey said.

The teas are held during the afternoon so that all women may attend.

Dental Treatment Available For Vets

• Veterans are entitled to a dental examination and treatment up to one year after their discharge from the armed services, the only requirement being that their discharges be other than dishonorable.

All those who are interested in the above are advised to contact James W. Leek, Assistant Training Officer of the Veterans' Administration in Building 3, West Campus.

HOTEL

ST. FRANCIS

presents

EDDIE FITZPATRICK

AND HIS ORCHESTRA

Nightly (except Monday) and Saturday for Tea

BURT WEIR

Campus Representative

Mural Room

DAN E. LONDON GENERAL MANAGER

HOTEL St. Francis

DAN E. LONDON, GEN. MANAGER

DENNY DAIRIES

321A West Portal Avenue

Takes this opportunity to wish the S F J C all success in their second post-war year

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1946 No. 6

Associated Students

Council Member Protests $2000 Journal Grant, Claims Appropriation Showed Inefficient Handling Of Student Funds

In a typical meeting of the Student Council last Tuesday, heated discussions arose which accomplished absolutely nothing. However, several interesting points were raised.

Don Burger, council member, brought out that although $2000 was appropriated for the publishing of a journal, no budget had been submitted.

Dean Jack Brady answered that there was no sponsor as yet to submit a budget for the proposed publication.

Since the proposed journal is hindered by its lack of a sponsor and editor, Burger announced that he thought the appropriation showed inefficient handling of student funds, as budgets of several organizations were cut to allow for the journal grant. He also demanded to know what would become of the $2000 in the event that the publication failed to materialize.

President Dean Haug answered that with the exception of a small fund withheld for future year books, the balance of the appropriation would be placed in an emergency budget fund.

Haug then appointed a committee composed of Virginia Souder, chairman; Beverley Thompson and Barbara Christenson to locate, if possible, an editor and sponsor.

The council also voted to notify approximately 600 students who had signed IOUs for Associated Student cards to settle their accounts as soon as possible.

This was the first meeting of the Student Council held in its new quarters on the West Campus. Location of the office and meeting room is the administration building, or building 2, which also houses the social lounge.

Meetings are scheduled for 12 o'clock Tuesdays and Thursday and are open to all members of the Associated Students.

A clerical error in the list of budget appropriations published last week when corrected yields a total semester budget of $17,942 rather than a total of $17,442.

The $500 difference belongs in the budget granted the Social Committee, bringing the total social budget to $1,050 rather than $550.

College Hour

Club Meetings Set Again This Friday

Campus clubs take over the college hour for the second consecutive time this Friday at 10:45 a.m., for their meetings, according to Assistant Dean John Brady.

After this performance the college calendar does not allow the organizations to take the stage until November 15. This slating also gives the clubs one college hour on December 13.

Rally Commissioner Al Moffet comes up for his innings with Football rallies scheduled for October 25, November 8, and November 22.

Highlight of the blueprint is the annual Christmas concert planned for December 6. It will be presented by the college music department under the direction of Flossita Badger.

When the final basketball schedule is studied determination of rally dates will be complete, Brady said.

Room numbers for club meetings will remain the same unless changes are announced before this Friday, he explained.

College hour schedule will be in effect every Friday throughout the semester as planned by the administration. This schedule will be published each Friday in The Guardsman at the top of page 1.

Bank To Open Nights From 5:45 To 7:15

Extension of banking hours to accommodate students attending classes here late in the day was announced Friday by Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud.

The bank will be open for business, car tickets, Associated Student cards, sales, and any other business, from 5:45 to 7:15 p.m. daily, he said.

Morning hours when the bank is open are from 11:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. on Saturdays from 10 to 1 p.m.

On the ballot printed to the right, students will reflect their opinion on the pressing situation, submitting such votes to the library on or before Friday, October 18.

AWS Opens Lounge Thurs.

Traditional Tea Will Honor New Women Students

Honoring new women students of the college, the Associated Women Students will hold their traditional semi-annual reception and tea this Thursday, October 17, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the official opening of the new social hall on the West Campus.

As is the custom at all the freshmen teas, faculty members will assist in pouring. This semester, Martha Scott, Margorie Cullen, Ruth Jensen, and Margaret Flournoy will do the honors.

Assisting President Nancy Stookey and Dean Margaret Dougherty with the plans for the affair are other AWS officers Pat Sullivan, Mary Nash and Janet Caine.

A committee of hostesses includes Clare Hanaway, Ginny Souder, Beverly Thompson, Irene Breslow, Jean Corrasco, Peggy Gay, Leona De Bique, Grace Keh, Joan Kato, Nancy Ruttencutter, Vivien Adozona, Connie Snell, Carol Johnson, Nancy Cunninghaun, Carmen Garcia, Suy Capeland, Lyndell Krotoff; Shirley Groswird, Betty Mullin, Cleanor Waegerla, Paula Elliott, Tina Muzio, Jeanne Newberry, Connie Laterell, Astrid Wettin, Patti Patterson, Dolores Maziarz and Ruth Ganella.

All women students of the college who are Associated Student members are automatically members of the AWS and are invited to attend the tea, Miss Stookey said.

"If the weather permits," she added, "refreshments will be served in the garden patio next to the social hall."

AN AWS FIRST. The AWS "Big Four" hurriedly preparing for the college's initial social event to be held in the West Campus Student Lounge this Thursday afternoon. Left to right are President Nancy Stookey, Vice-President Janet Ceina, Recording Secretary Mary Nash, and Corresponding Secretary Pat Sullivan.—Photo by Lum.

Modesto Post-Game Dance Set For Oct. 18

Following the football game with Modesto Junior College in Modesto next Friday, October 18, there will be a dance held in the Modesto gymnasium for the students of San Francisco and Modesto Junior Colleges.

The dance will start immediately after the game and will be concluded at 1 a.m. The music for the affair will be supplied by Johnny Lash and his ten piece orchestra.

Admission will be by Associated Student card and 60 cents. Refreshments will be served.

Community Chest

Red Feather Campaign Leaders Issue Appeal For College Volunteers

With the Community Chest of San Francisco already campaigning this year under the symbol of the Red Feather for $3,350,000, funds for 70 local agencies and USO, an urgent need for solicitors for the area about the college is apparent, it was disclosed yesterday by Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to the President here.

Making an appeal to college organizations to heed this plea for volunteers to assist in this worthy campaign, Luckmann asked that each club accept the responsibility for one of the following districts: Westwood Highlands, Miraloma Park, Glen Park and San Jose Avenue.

With a total of 45 workers needed, those interested are asked to see Luckmann in Room 123 of the main building.

The Red Feather is an award of honor for a good deed among American Indians and has been adopted nationally as a symbol of the health and welfare services of the Chest, and of the contributor who helps to support it.

The Red Feather window sticker and Red Feather lapel badge will be the badge of honor for San Franciscans who give generously to the support of Chest agencies for family and child welfare, delinquency prevention, and health services in the coming year.

Graduation Petitions May Still Be Filed

Although commencement exercises take place next June, J. Paul Mohr, vice-president, last week urged all students completing graduation requirements this semester to file petitions for their diplomas.

Applications can be obtained at the registrar's office. Upon these forms, the student places his entire program of units completed. The program is then checked by the office and if it is in order, the diploma is insured for the coming exercises.

Many times in the past, Mohr pointed out, students have failed to fill out these petitions in advance and have later regretted it. They were forced to leave the college for various reasons, and in the ensuing mixup, failed to receive the diploma for which they worked so hard.

Mohr also said that there is no charge for the coveted "Goat Skin." The caps and gowns are also furnished free of charge by the college.

Cannery Run Nets Record Haul Of Mackerel, Tuna—'Shakespeare'

By Marge Wheatly

Cannery conditions in the campus library came to a head last week with the request by sardine-packed students that the library lift the lid

With the fall run of fish bringing the registration to 5,000 strong (?), the library has continually been in the standing-room-only state. Students have come to President A. J. Cloud for a remedy of a malady which forces them to look to the Main Drag or neighborhood branches for reference work.

WHAT GOT AWAY?

Instead of tales of the longest one in history, students now speak of the largest reference book that got away.

Faculty fishermen cast out the assignments but few students can reel (read on Choseph) them in. It is not lack of bait that causes these failures but a serious lack of space and knives.

For since, as in every library, reference books, dictionaries, encyclopaedias, and bound magazines may not be taken from the canned-reading room, this semester has seen an all-time high (tide, that is) of reading crowds, according to Marcus Skarstedt, college librarian.

SHAKESPEARE EVEN

Even Shakespeare came out for a short one, and has not been seen since! He got lost three shelves back. So did 300 others, as the fourth week of classes begins. It's a tough life for those who wish to use the library.

Unable to wiggle their toes among the books, students must rely on outside influences for help. It is a lost semester for Skarstedt who is still attempting to man the main desk.

Hope for the future may lie in the Saturday opening. Until then, it is curtains for the gang. "Use" of the ballot ends this Friday.

Library Ballot

Place an "X" mark in the proper space which follows:

YES ( ) I would like to make use of the college library on Saturday mornings.

NO ( ) I would not make use of the college library on Saturday mornings.

Submit all ballots, properly marked, to the librarian's desk in the main building, Room 314, before Friday, October 18.

Student's Name .....

Home Address .....

Semester in College ..... Tel. .....

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 6 Tuesday, October 15, 1946 Page 2

Progress

Glorious Era Ahead

ACQUISITION of the west campus, thanks to the generous foresightedness of the United States Navy and the San Francisco Board of Education, has proved advantageous to both students and faculty members, despite the naval atmosphere that still exists.

Centralization of student government and the college administration, long a "must" factor, is being realized by all parties concerned. Complaints against the west campus are nil; praise is daily being heard from everyone.

In time to come, the structural beginning of campus buildings long promised will mark what may be the "glorious era" in the college's short but remembered history.

Certainly, no one will deny that the recent war was a motivating factor in obstructing our progress. But the time is approaching when priorities and municipality red tape will be shelved in lieu of high pressure pro-educational action.

The remarkable job accomplished by student and faculty leaders in making use of the west campus in so short a time is amazing in view of the many manual jobs to be performed, namely, janitorial service, carpentry supervision, and the rapid readjustment of many offices.

The name of the college has been slowly seeping into the minds and thoughts of many metropolitan taxpayers in contrast to a time when people exercised an "I never heard of the place" attitude.

But there lies a general thought for all of us.

Actual constructive plans are under way on territory so recently foreign to our minds. We have now reached the age of miracles when we shall have become surrounded by acquisitions and deeds thought impossible.

Progress? Certainly—and the show, to coin a phrase, hasn't yet started.

Ford

After Dark

THE Art in Cinema Series at the San Francisco museum of Art last Friday night featured the Continental Avant-garde, including the famous Emak Bakia by Man Ray, and the Sea Shell And The Clergyman by Germaine Dulac. The series has started out with some of the first abstract films that date back as far as 1896, and is gradually building up to the contemporary surrealistic film work of Luis Bueuel, Salvador Dali, Hans Richter, Maya Deren, Ralph Steiner, and others. Most of the film they have used is very bad, the lighting is very poor, the equipment (scenes, props, etc.) is inferior, the photography is mediocre, YET, with all this (and heaven too) the Art in Cinema Series so far surpasses the work of Hollywood and adjacent areas that, indeed, 'tis a shame—a low down dirty shame, however, tolerance!

Patience! Perhaps Hollywood will produce more pictures in the future on the order of the Follies, Citizen Kane, Cleopatra, Shanghai Gesture, Angels Over Broadway, Yolanda and the Thief, and others. If so, it will be worth while, and the cinema will grow into an exciting, and original form of entertainment.

Comes November 15, the San Francisco Symphony, conducted by Pierre Monteux, will feature the one-armed virtuoso, Paul Wittgenstein, who will play a master concerto for left hand, and that, dear people, will really be something to see.

New Directions has recently published Kenneth Patchen's (of the Greenwich Village Patchens) latest little automatic revolt, called SLEEPERS AWAKE! On many of the pages there are geometric figures fashioned with a typewriter. Other pages are composed of row after row of the same typed letters, so you see—ANY-ONE CAN WRITE A BOOK! Just hit the letter "L" (or "K" if you want to be different) a few million times, and you are the creator of a masterful piece of literature (?) that smashes at conventional forms.

Essentially, Patchen's book is a revolt against such rank amateurs as Tolstoi, Joyce, Proust, Lawrence, France, Mann, Wolfe, et alia. . . . Patchen writes this and disclaims any affiliation with the Dadist Movement.

Around and About

with Nagle

GLAMOUR is passe—glamour is hazardous—glamour is OUT! So said the 34th Annual Safety Congress and Exposition in Chicago last week. Glamour girls, it seems, are the chief topic of conversation when the convention meets, but only because the delegates are trying to cut down accidents which kill one person in the United States every five minutes, and they "Put the Blame on Dames" because of all their dangerous glamorizing equipment. Their reports struck at these items of apparel:

High heels—hazardous because women wearing them walk down hill to accidents all the time, lose their balance, sprain their ankles, break their legs. (The delegates, no doubt, shudder when they see a new shoe style—a shoe consisting of a sole, a buckle, a strap to tie the buckle to, and 3-inch heels.)

Rings and bracelets—cause accidents in factories, offices and homes, machinery gets caught in rings, rings stick on fingers, hand removed, sans ring, sans finger.

Drooping veils, feathers, and plumes—a fireman's pet hate as they easily catch fire. What fireman wants to interrupt his gin-rummy game just to squirt milady's face with a fire hose and douse the flame?

Sequins are another fire hazard, as they are highly inflammable.

NO ANKLES, PLEASE

The solution these lovers of femininity suggest is that women dress more sensibly.

True, that sounds like a solution—but take a look at the sensible, un-hazardous femme. Low shoes which can neither cause her foot trouble, nor cause her to turn, twist or to show a well-turned ankle.

No bedazzling half-dollar sized dinner rings flashing brightly on third fingers, no wide silver, hand hammered bracelets, no tens of thousands of bangle bracelets, ever-clanging for attention; nice sensible hats devoid of all trimming, and no inflammable decorations.

Now the Safety Congress has a model tres chic (which wouldn't bring so much as a whistle from any of the delegates).

NO BEAUTY, EITHER

But that isn't all! The Medical Association then comes forth and gives out with derogatory remarks regarding certain other "glamorizing" effects that women use. Mascara on eye lashes for instance. Some Pill Peddlers tear out remaining strands of their once-bush hair crops at the sight of it. "It gets into your eyes and ruins them" they shriek at some meek little slick chick who is only trying to make the most of what she hasn't got.

Pan-cake or liquid make-up tell about the same story. This camouflage is supposed (according to some medics) to clog up pores and eventually lead to a ruined complexion. However, both pan-cake and liquid facial preparations DO add a smoothness to the skin that cannot be acquired with powder.

Some types of hair lacquer are definitely taboo. So potential Powers models who grace the world with their up-do's would, if the proper authorities had their way, go around un-lacquered and with stringy hair slyly creeping down the back of their necks.

Now un-hazardous Hilda takes off her make-up as well as her "glamorizing" ensemble . . . picks out a career that will give her enough bread and milk to live on for many years to come, and settles down to enjoy a nice quiet future—alone.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Arsenal Can Be Found Again In Walgreen's

AN inevitable part of the retrenching program in getting a war-like nation back to peacetime footing again is the gigantic slices being taken out of appropriations for the defense of said country. With the war over and no longer present the need for spending a million or two per second to carry the thing out to a victorious end, the time for budgeting arrives and it's beginning to hit right where it hurts the most. With the cream of the Navy being wrapped up in mothballs and the Army rapidly being reduced to its familiar size of Boy Scout stature, armed might goes back to whence it came.

Back in the pre-Pearl Harbor days a rosy look at the strong arm of America could be found on the magazine racks of any drugstore or newsstand that carried a complete stock of weekly and monthly issues.

The Collier Complex is returning to daily life again to a nation that has two oceans on either side of it and the complete protection of a mountain of blueprints and ideas still in the heads of designers and engineers.

GUIDED MISSILES—

While there is some small talk of two new battleships about to be launched, either off the ways or off the drafting table, completely equipped for radio controlled warfare, weeklies such as the Saturday Evening Post, Collier's, Look, and so forth, are again cramming their pages with the latest in new plane design and they're as beautiful as ever, especially in four colors and a two page spread.

Boeing, Douglas, Lockheed and all the rest are getting into the one apiece stage, and each week brings a pretty picture and columns of adjectives describing the performances of the potential defenders but airfields remain barren, and the weeds are taking over waiting for the rest of the air armada to materialize.

THE BIG STICK

Another "Great White Fleet" showing of strength is in the offing with the readying of a flight of B-29's in the midwest awaiting the go signal from the State Department on a world cruise.

The flight will follow established Air Transport Command routes which will take it across Africa, India and the Pacific, but may detour by way of Europe. No question that the US intends to wave in full sight what it does possess at the moment.

FIRING SQUAD

Among other ambitions of most military leaders in the wish they harbor to die an honorable death. Keitel and Jodl awaiting the rope at Nurenberg have requested they be allowed to bow out of it by way of military firing squad.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

AN unprecented number of inquiries have been rendered regarding one of the more prominent "characters" who seemed to wander unhampered around the campus during the spring season so recently past.

He who seems to have gained such a large following was just a gangling young freshman when he first blundered his way to the attention of this columnist After witnessing only a few of his antics hereabouts last semester, few expected him to continue along this particular road of formal education.

But the salient Byron Biaster is back with us once again, more determined than ever to make a big name for himself, in one way or more if possible.

The reason few knew he was back with us is that somewhere between the first and third weeks of school Biaster found himself on the end of a very, very long line. When he got on the line he was not quite sure exactly what it was he was waiting for—books, a registration card, a chance to dance with the queen of the sophomore formal, or an ice cream cone.

Whatever it was, he decided it was worth it. So he waited, and it was not until this very morning that he at last was fully accredited to pursue his studies—at UCLA.

Undaunted, however, a slightly weather-beaten Biaster hopped on the morning Daylight, and at last word, will definitely report for duty tomorrow morning at eight, and once again attempt to get through chapter two in that most absorbing new novel, "Death Takes the Math 51 Instructor" or "How to Make Your Dreams Come True."

* * *

Now that the preliminaries are all but over with, and the first midterms loom ever closer, the inflated college is getting visibly into the swing of things. Brains, tongues, and nerves may be heard clicking at almost any time of the day.

It all comes down to the deplorable fact that as a people we have not yet reached a sufficiently high level of intelligence to appreciate the importance of books to the modern world.
Florence Finch Kelly

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

College Spirit Lacking Among Students; "Dings" Puzzle Newcomers

• Enthusiasm Low
Editor, The Guardsman:

It has been my misfortune to have been enrolled in several institutions of learning in my young life. Due to father's business obligations we have been forced to move many times. Because of this circumstance I've had ample opportunity to observe the standards and situations of schools in various parts of the country. Now as I'm a part of this college I can't help but compare it with the others I've attended.

My impression is predominently a bewildered one. Scholastically, I'm certain that this college will compare favorably with any Junior College and several colleges in the country. Its curriculum is complete; its instructors competent.

The Junior College has one glaring deficiency, however, SCHOOL SPIRIT. It is manifest that the spontaneous enthusiasm which is an integral part of college life is lacking here. There are some who seem to be endowed with an excess of school spirit but these are a mere handful. The enthusiasm of the general run of students is amazingly low. This serious deficiency should be overcome."

James Merrigan

• I Hear Bells
Editor, The Guardsman:

I'm not bitter. I'm confused; there's something I don't understand. Bells ring in my head and I can almost see spots before my eyes. I'm in a most terrible state.

It's all because of the bells, why do they ring? What's all this ding ding that echoes through the halls during the day? Don't misunderstand me, I'm not worried about the ringing at the beginning and end of the periods, I'm worried about the little dings that sound throughout the day.

I've searched the catalogue, read the bulletin boards, consulted friends and strangers alike, but still no answer. Why the ding ding?

Lawrence A. Truitt

Editor's Note: The ding-ding as you so aptly put it, is a signal system used to call the janitor, comptroller and Dean of Men, who because of their various duties are not always available in their offices.

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR...June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavanor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trav Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Friedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wachter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Jack Rhodes, Ron Crawford, Staten Webster.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHERS: Donald Lum, Fred Lustig, Arnold Wachter.
STAFF ARTIST: Eleanor Schaeffer.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

RAMblings . .

By Jack Rhodes and Ron Crawford

THE other day we mentioned the fact that the Beta Phis and the Phi Beta Rhos were wearing white shirts and blouses with red caps to the football games this season. It seems they weren't the only ones and our apologies go out to the Kappa Phis, for they are also turning out dressed in college colors. The rest of the students might take the hint.

FOOTBALL AGAIN

Football coach J. O. Christian of the Connecticut U. recently let forth a blast against schools that had commercialized their football.

Christian asserted that it "will hinder the academic program and fail to build character." The only thing we can say is Christian must have been robbed of his talent because formerly his players were given fifty dollars a month plus board and room and hospitalization, not bad for a non-commercial coach.

PREP PLAY IS ROUGH

Another young high school player was fatally injured the other day, Henry Frnka Jr., son of Henry Frnka former Tulsa coach, during a high school game in Oklahoma City.

Having seen the type of game played in the midwest, this column lays the blame on poor officiating. It is surprising that more accidents haven't happened during their basketball season for the officiating is even worse for that sport.

SUCCESSFUL TRIP

While few students were able to make the trip to Sacramento for the football game, the few who went made plenty of noise. If the college would like to see a winning team it might help if they would turn out for the games.

As an extra added attraction for the Modesto tilt, the hospitable valleyites have scheduled a victory dance (for who?) after the game. It looks like fun for all so let's have a beeg turnout.

THE CRYSTAL BALL

Looking way into the future, our football juggernaut (Wow!) should really hit its stride against our Peninsula Pets, the San Mateo Bulldogs. Although they were highly rated at the beginning of the season, it seems their bark was worse than their bite, for they were dumped but hard by a supposedly weak Marin squad to the tune of 19 to 0.

Touchdown Drive Is Ram Problem

By Bob Catudio

San Francisco Dressing Room, Sacramento, Oct. 11—Mischievous delight canvassed a four wall scene of steam, laughter, and a grin a mile wide upon the face of Lee Eisan who had to accept the fact "that the Rams were mighty good to wallop the Saes so decisively."

"The boys were pretty good out there. They lack a certain scoring punch within the 20 yard line," Eisan remarked, "but we'll brush up on all that next week before we tackle Modesto."

No serious injuries were reported save a twisted ankle suffered by John Didio, the ex-trackster, who played a bangup game on defense for the locals.

Denny Miller and Glen Smith, grade "A" gentlemen, were comparing bumps and bruises, Miller remarking: "I wish I could have played a while longer. That guy Maclas!" (Then silence . . .)

In the shower room, huge Marsh Leong began a delirious chant, "Oh, Psaltis, my boy." Needless to say, the swarthy Art Psaltis retaliated with a clammy slap on the back.

Earl Hoos, the Sac mentor, dropped by to remark upon the speed and line play of the 'Frisco squad and wisely entoned: "The best club we've met."

The scene, having faded into darkness, switched homeward bound 91 miles away near Alameda County.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 6 TUESDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1946 Page 3

Rams Wreck Panthers, 13-6

WAA

Nine Fall Sports Scheduled By Group

Schedule for the nine sports offered by the Women's Athletic Association this fall was announced Friday by Frances Scilipoti president of the organization, and is as follows:

Horseback riding—Friday, 2:30
Tennis—Monday, 3:00
Archery—Friday, 9:00 to 1:00
Badminton—Tuesday, 3:00
Swimming—Thursday, 3:00
Dance—Friday, 11:00
Bowling—Wednesday, 3:00
Hockey—Thursday, 3:00

Women having free periods during any of the above mentioned hours may sign-up with WAA, and by maintaining a C scholastic average, and by actively participating in any one sport offered by WAA may become eligible for the block SF, Miss Scilipoti stated.

In addition to the athletic activities offered WAA also will begin its social events in the near future. In the past a splash party, barbecue, mixer dance, and banquet have been held.

Rams Defend Baseball, Track Championships

The Ram's track and diamond men with two crowns to protect looks ahead hopefully to an equally prosperous schedule this semester.

Coach Jim Jensen has visions of his men crossing the tape first again this year. Some of his championship squad will be on hand again and with the large growth of the student body this year, Jensen's vision could be made a reality.

Bill Fischer again will be coaching the nine, and has golden dreams of keeping the title up on the hill. With all the material at his disposal it is quite possible to repeat last year's performance.

Another major sport for the college next semester is tennis. The team will be in the capable hands of Tom Wilson. Many potential net men have been seen wandering around the halls of college. Last year's team did not take the championship but made a good showing in the conference race. Out of this year's crop a strong team could be fashioned.

Oklahoma Gridmen Fly To Out Of State Games

Tulsa, Okla.—(ACP)—Coach Jim Tatum's Sooner eleven will be known as the "Flying Gridsters" this fall. The Oklahoma U. team will travel to every one of its out-of-state games by airplane.

"Transportation by air is very favorable to the team," said Lawrence Haskell, director of athletics, "because the players will miss fewer classes, they will get to sleep in their own beds the night before the game and they will be far less tired when game time rolls around."

The University of Oklahoma is believed to be the first state university that has restorted to flying to all of the out-of-state scheduled games.

Charley Brabbit, veteran All-Conference baseball chucker, yesteday indicated that his transfer to Modesto Junior College "was probable," hence his announced intention to obtain a leave of absence from the college.

Basketball

Cage Signup Starts Monday; 14 League Games Scheduled

The first official varsity basketball signup will be conducted Monday, October 21 at 3 p.m. in the men's gymnasium, it was announced this week by Basketball Coach Ralph Hillsman.

Although the signup is slated for Monday, practice won't actually begin until the following Monday, October 28, with workouts scheduled to be held from 3 to 5:30 p.m. daily.

Numerous ambitious cagers of the school have been attending impromptu sessions since the beginning of the semester, Hillsman revealed.

The first conference game will be played here Wednesday, January 15, against Santa Rosa Junior College. Preceding the Santa Rosa tilt is the Modesto round-robin tourney scheduled to take place January 9 through 11.

Functioning under a new system the league will be divided into parts A and B. The colleges will have made a complete circuit in two seasons time. The top teams in their respective leagues will vie in the championship Compton tournament from March 4th to 7th.

The Ram's 1946 schedule will have 14 league games slated, with various practice tilts being played as preliminaries to California, Stanford, St. Mary's and Santa Clara games around the Bay area. It is also expected that several high schools will contact the college for pre-season contests.

The season's conference schedule is as follows:

Santa Rosa—Here	January 15
Napa—There	January 17
Placer—Here	January 24
Stockton—Here	January 25
Salinas—Here	January 31
Sacramento—There	February 1
Sacramento—There	February 1
Saliuas—There	February 5
Sacramento—There	February 7
Santa Rosa—There	February 12
Napa—Here	February 14
Placer—There	February 21
Stockton—There	February 22
San Mateo—Here	February 26
San Mateo—There	February 28

Unique Rooting Section Formed In Northwest

Seattle, Wash. — (ACP) — Something new in the way of school support for the football team will be inaugurated at the University of Washington this fall.

A seven part glee club consisting of several thousand voices will harmonize to cheer the Huskies in the homecoming grid scrap with California, Saturday, October 26. It is expected to produce one of the most unique cheering systems yet devised, and, if the venture proves successful, may be established as a tradition.

Mateans Begin Plans For Gala Festivities

San Mateo, October 15—Rally committee officials began preparations here yesterday for the forthcoming San Mateo-San Francisco Junior College conference grid clash slated for the metropolitan city October 25.

A possible expected crowd of more than 5,000 fans for the inter-area rivalry has spurred committee members to planning a gala schedule of pre-game events, including the appearance of Sir Roger, the new Bulldog mascot.

Locals Smash Solons In Savage Feud; Eisans Uncork Power-Laden Offensive

By Bob Catudio

Hughes Memorial Stadium, Sacramento, Oct. 11—The crack Sacramento Football Express was derailed here tonight on the savage exploits of a masked band of Ram Guerillas!

Presentation of a new-found ground offensive before a record 5,500 witnesses found the Rams blasting Sacramento City College, 13 to 6, in a game that saw the banishment of two contestants whose fisticuff act started a near-riot.

Following a 55 yard punt by Quarterback Staten Webster, the locals marched 47 yards for a second period marker with Webster crashing over from the three. Glenn Hoffman booted the extra point.

Shortly afterward, the townies began a drive from the Sac 34 yard stripe, Ken White and Marshal Leong dividing offensive honors—and punctured the Solon end zone again, Leong barreling through from the one yard line.

The Panthers' lone tally came with but 41 seconds remaining in the ball game. A drive sparked by elusive Austin Brown found Roy Sules sweeping the Ram left end on a four yard payoff dash.

Banishment of Ram Denny Miller and Solon John Macias by Referee Wes Smith in the third canto participated what might have been a minor riot where it not for the neutral concern of the officials.

The lineups:

San Francisco	Pos.	Sacramento
Poznekoff	LER	Chambers
Hoffman	LTR	Doudnik
Belcher	LGR	Sanches
Didio	C	Rhoades
Miller	RGL	Martinelli
Psaltis	RTL	Connally
Cronn	REL	Bryant
White	Q	Piacentini
Ekdall	LHR	Sules
Corey	RHL	Kline
Leong	F	Price

Score by periods:

San Francisco	0	13	0	0—13
Sacramento	0	0	0	6— 6

Scoring: (SF) Touchdowns: Webster (sub for White), Leong. Conversions: Hoffman. (SAC.) Touchdown: Sules.

Officials: Wes Smith (Cal Aggies) referee; Dewey Holden (Simpson, Ia.) umpire; Frank Alustiza (Stanford) head linesman.

Substitutions: (SF)—Orgain, Stern, Crouch, Rainey, Newell, Webster, Schuehard, Reed, Rooker, Smith, Drake, Woodworth, Greene, Magannis, Grant, Gregory, Alaimo, Tomasello, Lanthier, (Sac.) — Dorian Brown, Green, Lyons, Macias, Hall, Simmermaeher, Stathos, Ernst, Cuffe, Orisek, Olwell, Stephens, Rugaard, Sherman, Sloss, Covich, Beith, Foster, Skarles, Rose, Moore, Wold Vasquez.

Statistics

	SF	Sac
Total First Downs	17	12
by rushing	13	11
by passes	4	0
by penalties	0	1
Yards gained, rushing	254	213
by passes	109	—1
yards lost	21	27
Net yards gained, passes-rushing	342	211
Forwards attempted	13	7
completed	7	1
incomplete	4	4
had intercepted	2	3
Punts, average	55	38

Player	TCB	YG	YL	Net	Ave.
Webster	11	52	4	48	4.36
Leong	12	56	6	50	4.17
White	12	73	2	71	5.92
Crouch	6	30	1	29	4.83
Corey	6	26	0	26	4.33
Ekdall	3	9	5	4	1.33
Rainey	2	8	0	8	4.00
Greene	1	0	3	0	—3.00
Newell	1	0	0	0	0.00

Conference

Rams Take Road To Clash With Modesto

Playing away from home for the second time this season, the Ram gridders travel to Modesto this Firday, October 18, to play the Modesto Junior College Pirates.

Boasting a conference record of one win and no losses, the Rams will probably be favored over the Blues, who have lost their first two games of the season.

Lee Eisan's squad, improving with every game, boasts a versatile backfield with power laden fullback Marshall Leong and hard hitting halfback Art Ekdall. On the passing side of the ledger, the locals have two of the best, quarterbacks George Newell and Staten Webster.

In reserve are 200 pound fullback Howie Crouch and speedy quarterbacks Kenny White and Jim Greene. Carter Corey and John Rainey alternate at the other halfback post.

Featuring a better than average line, the Eisanmen have good pass receivers in glue-fingered ends Ray Pozenkoff and Ken Cronn. Bolstering the center of the line is pivotman John Didio. Chuck Belcher, Art Psaltis, and Den Miller give their able support in the forward wall.

Remaining games on the schedule are as follows:

October 18—Modesto Junior College—there.
October 25—San Mateo Junior College—here.
November 2—Los Angeles City College—there.
November 8—Modesto Junior College—here.
November 22 — Sacramento City College—here.
November 29—San Mateo Junior College—there.

West Campus Dance On Block SF Calendar

First major activity planned this year for the Block SF Society will be an informal dance at 8 p.m. Friday, October 25, in the student lounge, located on the west campus, Building 2.

The idea for the dance resulted from the fact that the college will only pay the expenses of 30 football players for the trip to Los Angeles Saturday, November 2. The society is attempting to raise a fund to finance the expenses of several players who would normally be excluded by the college's policy.

The dance is to be stag and informal and tickets are now being sold by members of the society.

Glen Emerson's band will furnish the music for the affair, Block SF Adviser Lee Eisan announced this week.

In answer to queries as to the status of the Golden Cleat Society, Eisan pointed out that the Cleats is a separate organization entirely made up of football players only.

Staten Webster, Ram quarterback, was voted the outstanding performer of the night, a poll of Sacramento Bee, Guardsmen, San Francisco Examiner, and San Francisco Chronicle sports writers disclosed tonight.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Delta Psi: Plans are being made for the second rush affair which is to be a spaghetti dinner.

•Kappa Phi: There will be a joint meeting with the Beta Taus tomorrow night. The second rush affair will be held this Sunday at Barbara Christianson's home. It will be a traditional Chinese dinner.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: There will be a joint meeting Thursday night with Alpha Lamba Chi at 2506 22nd Avenue.

•Beta Tau: A joint meeting with Kappa Phi is scheduled tomorrow night.

•Alpha Lamba Chi: 2506 22nd Avenue is the address of the joint meeting to be held with the Tri Epsilons Thursday night.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: Invites the freshmen interested in Home Economics and the old students to a tea to be held in Room 158 tomorrow from 2 to 4.

•Theta Tau: The first rush affair will be held this Sunday.

Two San Salvador Men Join College Rolls

Jaime Pons and Mario Barriere, who are attending the college now, are from San Salvador.

Pons and Barriere were friends and attended the same schools together in their native country. Now they are together here studying architecture.

In their education system, they attend a primary school and then a secondary school before entering a university. In the secondary school they were required to study English.

Both of these men have been in this country for about six months. Pons had this to say about San Francisco, "Never before have I seen so many nice girls as there are here." All of which could lead to trouble for Pons if the girls of El Salvador hear about it.

Barriere smiled approval at his friend's statement but gave a more diplomatic statement saying, "The people here are very friendly."

On completion of their studies at the college, they intend to go to the University of California to complete their studies in Architecture, and then return to Central America.

Dr. Anatidae Quacks Story Of Waddle

The Doctors Anatidae were content. The Ruptured Duck Waddle II had turned out to be a gala success fulfilling their prognostications concerning the same. The dance had proved to be o pageant of terpsichoreon splendor featuring entrenchants, gavottes, waltzes, minuets, mazurkas, and various ritual fire dances indigenous to the peoples of the United States. Yes, the doctors were more than happy, for while perusing a recent issue of The Guardsman, as can be seen, they discovered the story concerning the dedication for Hurley Village.

"It does my heart good to see these veterons getting homes," the elder Anatidae said, "makes me feel good to see something being done for these boys. Don't you agree, Junior?" he asked beomingly. "Quack," said Junior contentedly.

Psychologists At Work

Inventory Testing Starts Tomorrow

Vocational interest inventories will be given tomorrow and next week on Thursday, October 24, in the old cafeteria, main building, hourly from 1 through 4 p.m.

These inventories have been instigated to assist students in clarifying their vocational objectives.

Students are not to be excused from classes to take the inventory. Those who wish to take the test should report to Room 192 between 8:30 and 11:30 a.m. or 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. any day before Wednesday, October 16th, to secure an eligibility card. These cards will stipulate the day and time the student will take his, or her, inventory. Only those presenting appropriate cards will be admitted to the test.

All first semester students except those enrolled in Psychology 10 are urged to take the test. Students enrolled in Psychology 10 will be given this and other similar inventories in their regular classes.

In the past, the vocational interest inventory was included in the battery of tests given upon entrance to the college. However, this year it was decided to offer students the opportunity of checking their individual interest inventories after the completion of registration.

Battery Of Vocational Interest Tests Prepared For Career Seekers

By Hank Weiss

Chance of a life time comes with the announcement by Verrel Weber, director of the testing office here, that vocational interest inventories will be meted out to any member of the student body who can muster enough ambition to drop around to Room 192 and pick up an eligibility card.

Time was when genius was never rated genius until it was too late and the highly gifted individual had passed on to land of his fathers.

However, with the modern advances of the Machine Age and Psychology, this protective margin has been lopped down to nil, and if it be that you are of superior intellect or agility you have to suffer with the truth now and avoid the usual approach of leaving the decision to posterity. But few of us will have to worry.

Most likely the individual or individuals who invented this complex procedure with all its intricacies and mechanical apparatus, have long since fallen to the state of feeble psychotics.

At any rate, this system of measuring the potentialities of individual success is a fairly sound one. Students who take the inventory with the intent of honestly discerning their qualifications in their proposed fields of endeavor will find this vocational meter an able asset.

However, "if a student attends the test with the idea of taking the inventory without purpose, in an undirected, nonchalant manner—he's hoodwinking himself," Miss Weber remarked upon interview. "If you want to know how you stand in relation to your future career, it is recommended that you choose your answers for their full individual worth to you."

This is the first time the LeThorpe inventory will be used at the college. The test consists of statements covering numerous subjects and activities in which the student states his preference.

Similar occupational interrogations have been held annually since the college's beginning. Results of the student are compared with those of numerous individuals who have achieved success in their varied fields.

This test does afford the advantage of scientifically surveying your chances for survival on the battlefield of your own choice.

It is intended to assist the collegiate to size up his armor for the fray; or in re-routing his plan of attack to the advantage of prolonging and enhancing his economical and moral existence.

A wise student will take time out to drop by Room 129 before this Wednesday to pick up an eligibility card . . . and see just how wise he is.

169 Housing Units Expected In Spring

Plans are now being made for 169 units to ease the veterans' housing shortage at the college, Dean Edward E. Sandys disclosed this week.

"The units won't necessarily be quonset huts," Sandys stated, "but any housing which is available." Plans were started once before but because of the lack of movable homes and material, had to be discontinued. The units are expected to be completed and opened for the Spring semester.

Of the 25 quonset huts now erected, only nine are unoccupied. Each hut houses two families and has its own house number and mail box. There are no individual public telephones, but there is a central one in the center of the group of huts. A regular scavenger service is offered the families and pickups are made on definite days.

Vet Representatives Set Counseling Hours

Representatives from the Veterans Administration Office on the campus will be at the Excelsior Extension every Tuesday, between the hours of 11 a.m. and 1 p.m., William I. Olsen, Senior Training Officer revealed today.

The representatives will attempt to assist the veterans in making up their wage reports and advise the students on any other problems that they may have.

Olsen has announced that letters of eligibility cannot be accepted at the Excelsior Extension, but must be turned in at the Veterans' Affairs Office at the Balboa Park campus.

The Excelsior Extension occupies two floors of the former elementary school building at Excelsior and London Streets. The annex is reminiscent of the scattered classrooms of 1935-40 and was occupied to accommodate the large number of veterans and late registrants.

Hotel Course Attracts University Graduates

At least nine universities are represented by former students, who are now registered in the college's famous Hotel and Restaurant Division courses.

Many of the students who are attending the course have already attained their degrees in Bachelor of Arts or Science, before enrolling in the Hotel and Restaurant Division.

Among the universities and colleges represented are: Cornell, Fordham, Stanford, University of California, University of Indiana, University of Michigan, University of Washington, Humboldt State College and Eastern Oregon College of Education.

Jam Session—Silver Pole Variety

Bumblesnoot Wanders Into Booby Trap In Attempt To Squeeze Through Halls

By Del Plehon

"O, mora! O, tempore!" wailed ex-T-5 Hoim Bumblesnoot, as he viewed the mob assembled around and about the Pillar at the entrance to the college. "Can it be possible," he whispered hoarsely to himself, "It's worse than last term; It appears to be impossible to get through that mob—but I must—in order to get to class . . . Well, here goes!" he said, rushing into the crowd only to be repulsed by a well-placed feminine elbow.

Hoim retreated to a neutral corner temporarily, then spying a hole in the crowd, he raced through. He was brought to a sudden halt by a female who stood solidly in his way.

"Say, watch it, fella! Who do you think you are . . . the neighborhood butcher?" she expostulated.

Hoim smiled wryly and excused himself as he moved on through the crowd. Suddenly he came upon a bevy of girls strategically situated so as to block either entrance or exit through the door.

"Pardon me, but would you mind letting me through?" Hoim asked pleasantly.

"Have you got your ticket to the Beta Kecha Gl sorority dance?" leered the girls in unison.

"No, I haven't." Hoim replied.

"Oh! You should get one. They're only sixteen dollars and seventy six cents apiece!" they screamed together as they assaulted Hoim with their tickets in their hands.

"No, thanks, girls! Now will you please let me through?"

"Well, I never . . . !"

"These veterans sure think that they are the stuff."

"No school spirit . . . no zip. I'll bet he's a drip!"

As Hoim crushed his way through the bevy of girls, he was suddenly aware of kicks in the shins, elbows in the ribs, blows on the head, and scratches on the face. However, he made it to the stairs with only seven or eight minor lacerations caused by fingernail files.

Hoim glanced up the stairs, which were comparatively clear, and sighed, "Well, I can still make class on time if I hustle." So saying, he rushed up the stairs; but as he turned the corner he was kneed neatly in the teeth by a cute blonde and knocked back down the stairs . . . . out cold!

He lay there babbling incoherently of women, crowds, tickets and the like, as unnoticing students trod upon his prostrate body. A petite brunette put Hoim out of his misery by stepping on his face and bending his lower plate, thereby stopping his babbling.

Drama

Athlete Bill Komons "Natural" For Lead In Heaven Can Wait

Bill Komons, student veteran, will play the pugilist lead in Heaven Can Wait, now being rehearsed in Room 28 every day according to Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor, who also said, "Robert Montgomery was a miscast in the screen version of the play, but Komons is my idea of a prizefighter, while Montgomery was not."

Komons, a modest lad, who gives out information on himself with the speed of a turtle crawling up a hill, stands an even six feet. A natural athlete, he was bitten by the footlight bug early in life. He has made numerous guest singing appearances in his home town in Martin Ferry, Ohio. He has aspirations towards radio work, but a cute gleam came into his eyes when Hollywood was mentioned.

Komons holds several track and field records in the East (Coaches take notice), and hopes to try out for the basketball team soon. He played high school basketball, and semi-pro.

Twenty-one years ago he entered this beautiful and complex world, and three years ago he entered the Army. Komons completed 45 missions as a gunner on a B-24 before he returned to the homeland and the college.

An exceptionally modest lad, Komons broke down and confessed that he hopes to do very well with his part of Joe Pendleton, the prizefighting saxophone player who has earthly and heavenly problems. "I don't think I'll get stage fright," he added, "but you never know."

The production of Heaven Can Wait is now only six or eight weeks from opening day. The cast seems to have adapted the poise of its ideal leading man, and the students who will attend the performances are assured of seeing a polished production.

Sisler wandered by long enough to add that "it will be presented in three acts, six scenes, and with three separate settings."

All the male characters in the play will be played by veterans who have served overseas.

The Male Animal, now being readied for a preview in the future under the direction of Ruth Somers in Room 209, 1 to 3 Tuesdays and Thursdays, also boasts a cast of veterans. Mrs. Somers spoke highly of the work of Ray Bisio, a veteran who was engaged in little theatre productions four years ago at the college.

Floriculture Class Takes Field Trip

Eight members of Harry E. Nelson's floriculture class here journeyed recently to a flower show held in San Mateo.

The group aided the Plath Nursery with an orchid display and in return for their services, were given a number of potted plants for a display in the name of the college.

Accompanied to the San Mateo show by Nelson, the group included Norman Hansen, Jack Elliot, Geraldine Walsh, Edward Hetzer, James Campsie, Gordon Stoddard, Milton Meyhart, and Norman Lemay.

The man who is avid of much power in a democracy well deserves watchful eyes upon his movements.
Florence Finch Kelly

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS
Granat Bros
TWELVE TREAT 8 FACETS

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1946 No. 7

College Hour Schedule
9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

Clubs

CAB, Other Groups Will Meet Today At College Hour

Thirty-one clubs respond to "command performances" again today during the college hour at 10:45 a.m. when they meet for the second time this semester to strengthen extra-curricular activities, John Brady, Assistant Dean, said.

Brady emphasized that the Club Advisory Board meets in Room 257 during this time and that representatives from each organization are expected to attend.

Smoothing out the rough spots in the schedule of room numbers, Brady assigned the XGI Society the old cafeteria as a meeting place.

With a few changes the schedule of rooms is as follows: Alpha Delta Epsilon, 160; Alpha Gamma Sigma, 205; Alpha Lambda Chi, 211; Alpha Theta Epsilon, 158; Beta Phi Beta, 111; Bible Study Club, 312; Beta Tau, 254; Block and Cleats, 194; Bachelors Club, 256; Chinese Students, 208; Cosmopolitan, 113; Engineers, 136; Forum, 215; Kappa Phi, 213; Music Club, 200; Newman Club, 212; Phi Beta Rho, 190; Pick and Hammer, 45; Pi Mu Gamma, 204; Theta Tau, 191; Tri Epsilon, 132; Women's Service Society, 193; Delta Psi, 206; Symphony Forum, 208; Dramatics, 310; Phi Epsilon Rho, 255; Y.M.C.A., 214; Chess and Checkers, 37; Club Advisory Board, 257.

S. F. Symphony Reduced Rate Tickets On Sale

Symphony Forum members who ordered San Francisco Symphony season concert tickets last semester will be able to pick them up at the student bank Monday, according to Flossita Badger of the music department and group sponsor.

Student music lovers who are not members of the forum and faculty members may purchase season tickets at the reduced rates. Balcony, balcony circle, and dress circle season tickets are $12.75; orchestra, box, and grand tier are priced at $18.75. Fifteen concerts are included in the season book, a reduction of less than half the price offered to the general public.

The forum was organized at the college last year by the San Francisco Symphony Association. The association, composed of bay area college groups, was organized to enable college students to acquaint themselves with musical artists as well as to inaugurate lower price rates.

Martha Lee, president of the forum, announced that the first concert is scheduled for mid-November.

Vets' Earning Reports To Be Complete Nov. 5

Veterans who received the form entitled Trainee's Report of Earnings with their September or October checks are reminded that these blanks must be completed and returned to the Regional Office of the Veterans Administration not later than November 5, 1946.

These blanks may be mailed in directly to the Regional Office, 49 Fourth Street, San Francisco, or turned over to the Training Officer in Building 3, West Campus.

This announcement is of particular importance to men who were attending summer session and thus were not required to complete re-enrollment notices at the time of registration giving the amount of their earnings.

DOG BITES MAN? No, but it could be! Guardsman reporteer Hank Weiss interviews Nancy Cunningham, Associated Student vice-president, and Dean Haug, Associated Student president, in their "new west campus" office. Quite a change from the main building!—Photo by Don Lum.

Activities

Council Plans Active Fall Semester Under Haug, Cunningham Leadership

By Henry Weiss

Included on the list of coming events planned by the Student Council for an active, jam-packed fall semester, is a post-game "Harvest-Hop," scheduled for next Friday, October 18 at the Modesto Junior College Gymnasium immediately following the Ram-Modesto grid tilt.

Also under consideration are a perpetual trophy (already approved by the Student Counells of this college and San Mateo Junior College) slated to stimulate and commemorate the rivalry between the Rams and the South Peninsula gridders, improvement of campus parking faeilities, a bus schedule lengthened to 7 p.m., a talent search under Ted Brionaes, head yell leader, to augment the ranks of our cheer leading squad, and so on ad infinitum.

Semester Termed Biggest

This semester will be the biggest in the history of the college, featuring in all around development in pace with the largest student enrollment in the records of the college.

Keeping in trend with these progressive changes are the students themselves, the Associated Student organization, headed by such students as President Dean Haug and Vice-President Nancy Cunninghom, social committee chairman, both of whose collegiate careers typify those of the average man and women hilltopper.

In addition to being chairman of the social committee and Alpha Lambda Chi president, Miss Cunningham is an active participant in all college affairs. With social science her major, all this activity is right down her alley. In conjunction with her college curriculum, Miss Cunningham has spent her off hours the past two years working as playground director near her home in Oakland.

Sadie Hawkins On Agenda

Fresh from the success of the last social evening at the Fairmont, her social committee is busy formulating plans for another dance in the future at the Civic Auditorium. Miss Cunningham has hopes that a Sadie Hawkins Festival may also be worked out for this semester.

When queried on the possibility of staging a female free-for-all-day on the campus she remarked, "it would be fine if one of the fraternities or sororities would knuckle down and pave the way for an Al Capp holiday."

Student President Haug is the prototype of the average male Ram. Born in far away Wildrose, North Dakota, Haug found his way to the promised land of the bay city and the college's windswept portals two years ago.

Haug A Pre-Legal Major

Despite a tough major, pre-legal, he has found time to participate in numerous student activities as a charter member of the XGI Society, former rally commissioner, past AMS vice-president, and now titular head of student government.

Urging broader student participation in campus functions, Haug declared, "If we're to make this semester a momentous one in regard to student achievements, everyone on the campus will have to participate — every individual, society, fraternity and sorority. A student's participation in collegiate affairs is definitely correlated with his, or her, academic pursuits. The fervor displayed thus far has been good; however, we want more rooting for our athletic squads, more spirited demonstrations such as the pre-game caravans. In short, we want every student of the college up on the Ram handwagon."

More Vocational Tests Offered October 24

To aid in clarifying individual vocational objectives, another series of specially designed tests will be offered by the college testing department on Thursday, October 24, according to Verrel Weber, director.

Like the previously held tests, these will begin on the hour every hour from 1 to 4 p.m. The tests will be given in the study hall of the main building, formerly the cafeteria.

Students desiring to take these tests, must apply in person to Room 192 any time today, Miss Weber announced.

Registrar's Staff Moves To New Offices

With the offices of the college deans now located on the West Campus, other administrative officials have moved into the former deans' offices in the main building.

Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, may be reached in Room 125 and J. Paul Mohr, vice-president, in Room 127 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The office of Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud, is now located in Room 123.

The registrar's office is open daily from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Evening hours are Monday, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 6 to 10 p.m., and Wednesdays and Fridays, 7 to 10 p.m.

Veterans

Graduates May Receive Credit From Service

Veterans, including former merchant seamen, with more than 90 days' service in the armed forces are eligible to receive credit toward graduation from the college provided they file an application for this credit with the Veterans Counseling Center, Building 3, before Friday, November 15. This was the announcement made this week by Grant Marsh, director of counseling.

The number of units awarded for service experience is dependent upon service schools attended and military duties performed. This awarding of military credit is not automatic. The veteran must apply in person in order to receive this credit.

To avoid confusion, the counselling office has arranged an alphabetical schedule. Students whose surnames begin from A to G inclusive, should apply during the week of Monday, October 21 to Friday, October 25. During the week Monday, October 28, to Friday, November 1, those in the H to M group are to be awarded credit.

Those whose names fall under the M to R category are scheduled for November 4 to 8, while the remaining veterans should report during the week of November 11 to 15, inclusive.

Former Navy personnel should make application for credit to William Schoon or Don Doolin, both of the Veterans' counselling staff. Former enlisted men of the Army Air Forces should consult Joseph Jacobsen. All other veterans should make their applications to either Alva McMillan, Waddington Blair, Alden Olson, or William Ogle, all of whose offices are in Building 3.

At the time of application for credit, the veteran should bring with him some sort of documentary verification of the training claimed. Originals or photostatic copies of discharges, forms 100, forms 553, and similar documents are satisfactory evidence of these claims. These documents will not be retained by the college, but will remain in the veteran's possession.

Associated Students

Proposed Journal Publication Slated For Next Semester

In a meeting of the Student Council last Tuesday the question of the proposed journal was again discussed. The committee appointed to look into the year book's possibilities reported that estimates had been received that the cost of publication would run between eighteen and twenty thousand dollars.

President Dean Haug said that a definite decision concerning the publication date of the Journal would have to be made during the meeting, or the publication would become a closed issue.

Don Barger, council member, stated that he was in favor of a yearbook, but whole-hearted cooperation would be needed in order to put it through. He further suggested that the money set aside for the journal be carried over and be used for a possible issue next semester.

Bob Winegardner, also a councilman, moved that the date for the journal be tentatively set for next semester. The motion was unanimously passed by the council.

Hang then appointed a committee under the chairmanship of Ray Bisio to delve into the possibilities of publication next semester.

It was also moved and carried that a charge of 15 cents be made to holders of Associated Student cards for admission to conference football games.

College Taking Part In Red Feather Drive

Composed of a nucleus of salesmanship and small business classes, the college is doing its part in the Community Chest drive which started October 7, J. Paul Mohr, vice-president, disclosed this week.

Having supervision of five districts, the classes are more or less in charge of the drive with volunteers assisting. According to Mohr, the business classes have a good background for this type of work and will receive some valuable new experience.

Volunteers are asked to see Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud, in Room 123 as soon as possible.

Library Poll Ends Today

Lena The Hyena Arrival Scoffed At As Rumor

By Marge Wheatly

Pressing moments in the college library continue today as students attempt to take the situation to the cleaners through their right of free vote. Such missiles are to land in the library by 5 p.m. today.

Silver pole-cats are balloting on whether the establishment should stay open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays to accommodate the 5200 customers who sneaked in the door during the revolution, or whether such bolshevists must head for the down-town bastile in their search for work.

Balancing the sleeping hours of several librarians in their hands, book perusers (that's what Daniel Webster said—he said that—that's the word he used!) wield the flat-iron of majority rule over ear-to-ear situation.

Faculty members were accused by various lower-shelf groups of forwarding the library rush by blanketing students with assignments, but such goings-on were lost on the top-kicks who are ignoring the rabble-rousers.

Rumors that Lena the Hyena was reported en route to clear the crowds were scoffed at by Librarian Marcus Skarstedt who says that he looks to the students for a helpful, intelligent solution.

Will he get such a solution?

BUSINESS OF THE DAY for college librarian Marcus Skarstedt.—Photo by Lum.

The Guardsman
Official Twice-a-Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 7 Friday, October 18, 1946 Page 2

Coffin Corner

Homicide For The Living

CONCERN for the living rather than the dead is uppermost in the minds of everyone. So say the poets and gold-plated historians who probably have never ventured astray near the Ocean Avenue-Phelan Avenue junction.

Perhaps it would be wise to reach into the barrel of side-tracking the issue by issuing a plea, need, request, and other forceful verbal embellishments for "a traffic signal" at the aforementioned corner.

Maybe one should wait until such a time when tragedy must strike. We are all concerned with the issue because each of us is involved in the "junction matter" during some part of the day.

The wise and doting fathers of the city may be alarmed to know that traffic signals are placed at hundreds of junctions in the city with less the amount of tri-junction traffic found here.

One more signal lighting system will certainly not jolt the temperant taxpayer. It should enlighten his conscience were a tragedy to strike without warning.

Automotive vision and the danger of the narrow passageway on Phelan Avenue are handicaps enough to unnerve the calmest of all drivers, not to mention the lot of the pedestrian who assumes a "live or die" attitude at the thought of crossing the discussed junction.

No one will take the matter seriously now, but when the next accident strikes home, cast a warning to the city officials whose campaign for safety has yet to reach this campus.

Charity Begins At Home

THE Community Chest drive to accumulate the charitable good will of San Francisco via financial donations has reached a point of reckoning. The "red feather" campaign is indicative of the times—helping those who can not help themselves.

You can help and share in this, the most critical of charitable tests!

Ford

After Dark

LATELY, there has been a great deal of dispute over the Hans Hoffman exhibit at the San Francisco Museum of Art (founded and unfounded). The greatest recurrent remark about Hoffman's series of abstracts is that he stood at least 20 feet away from the canvas and had a gay old time pitching paint.

Many of the canvases look like a "potted relief map". Regardless of the bobbing of bewildered heads, "Descent Into Hell" makes a definite impression and is worth a little study. It may be true, however, that ignorance breeds slander, but, shades of Picasso!

* * * *

Many, many, people have been asking this question: "Say, bub, what is this New Trend Writing? What does it all mean? Why all this use of metaphor and symbol?"

For those morose little individuals who never seem to lift their jaded eyes out of the miasmal procession of commercialism on earth, the best explanation might be—New Trend Writing is what Homer did when there were no other writers. As to metaphor and symbol—There are probably more metaphor and symbol in the jargon of the streets than any piece of literature.

AFTER DARK'S BOOK-OF-THE-WEEK SELECTION:

Simple Secrets of Dog Discipline by Horace Lytle. New York: G. P. Putnams Sons $1.50. Critical Comment: One of the most abstruse, yet clear cut works on the disciplining of dogs to come out of the twentieth century. How in the world did dogs get along before man?

* * * *

And so came the day of the great renuneiation. The great man planted his feet firmly in the State of Texas and shouted, 'Then and Now, David The King was never on This Side of Innocence. Perhaps The King's General Monty has been but That Was Long Ago!" whereupon he did a Solo In Tom Toms Before the Sun Went Down. The Black Rose wilted as evil night approached. He shouted, "The Sun Is My Undoing!" —Yoicks.

Allatimeallatimeyapetyyap———

Around And About

with Nagle

WHITTLING quietly and unobtrusively as though no one was around, sat an old man. His art work was in the beginning stages, and only a guess could be hazarded as to what the finished product would be. The onlookers paused, turned and ignored the flying chips of wood that were gathering on their "everyday" black coats, thinking to themselves, "Where but in San Francisco would one sit in the 5 o'clock crush and whittle—but—on a street car."

* * * *

The dedication of Hurley Village has now gone down in the annals of history for the college, with no one remembering the ceremony save perhaps the veterans who found solace in the announcement that more housing units would be made available in the near future. One memorable fact still remains outstanding to this writer.

Did any one else notice how one of the officials on the stand placed his left hand over his heart during the playing of the Star-Spangled Banner, and he, sensing the error, turned and looked at his fellow officials, became confused with the variety of homages being paid the hymn, returned the left hand, and continued the wrong way until the hymn was completed?

* * * *

Speaking of street cars, last week one of the seldom seen No. 5 cars was returning from a terminal run, when an elderly man tried to run to catch it. He didn't make it, and the motor man didn't wait for him.

One elderly foreign woman, enraged at the event, made her way up to the motorman, giving forth with a one-woman complaint, crying, "Oha pleasa Mister, waita for 'em, waita for 'em." When she saw the motorman had no intention of waiting, she began shaking her finger at him and continued, "For shame, now, ain'ta you ashamed of youraselfa."

* * * *

Last week at the University of San Francisco football game, a serviceman walked placidly through the stadium waving a pennant of the opposing team. In the middle of the USF rooting section he sat down, defying the killing glances shot from the rooters.

At first the thing was funny, and the young man received quite a laugh from the crowd, but as the rooting sections began to give forth their cheers, they decided the gallant young man should be sent to the next section. The Games Committee brushed off the assignment saying—"He's a serviceman," but the cheering section would not be appeased.

Finally the man was asked to move to the next section. This he did, but everytime the opposing team made a score, got the ball, did anything to oppose USF, the gentleman in question would arise, wave his pennant at the USF'ers and sit down with a complacent look on his face, his duty done for the moment.

One of the new instructors in the Women's Physical Educational Department announced the final examination in her Physical Fitness Class, which is featuring "endurance" this semester, would merely consist of running up and down the hill to the gymnasium not once, not twice, but three times. After reviving her fainted class—she was heard to remark—"and I was only kidding, too."

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Best Show In The Two Center Rings Outdoes P.T.Barnum

DURING the heydays of the alphabet soup reign that earmarked the New Deal and its maze of Washington bureaus catering to all the ills of a depression sick nation, utter confusion never reigned as supreme as it does today.

Everybody's working for the government, with the State of Missouri getting more than a share of the top-deck positions. If it weren't for housing and the boxcar shortage, the capital might well today be in St. Louis. The presidential yacht would have sufficient water in which to float on Ol' Man River, and Independence is only a short putt from St. Loole, Loole.

But that's all in the day after tomorrow, what's happening today shouldn't happen to a dog show. Out from under the Big tents strung along Pennsylvania Avenue is issuing more cacophonic discord than ever came out of one of P. T. Barnum's second hand calliopes.

CIRCUS IS COMING!

The biggest lion in the menagerie, the OPA, he's lost all his teeth and is strangling on its own rules and regulations. Suffering from too many ulcers on the half-shell, the Senate, National Association of Manufacturers, and the combined press of the country have been throwing it rancid peanuts for weeks on end.

Another stellar attraction of the Big Top that is stumbling under its own weight is the War Assets Administration.

MORPHINE AND GASOLINE

Always worth repeating is the story of the surplus Flying Fortresses that were sold for scrap to an enterprising junkman. The whole kit went for a song, but the song isn't over yet, the second chorus is in a blues tempo. Someone forgot a small matter of high octane gas reposing in the tanks of said Fortresses and, at the last count, some $700,000 worth of petrol went along with the scrap.

Surplus life rafts were being bought up like mad recently and some of the buyers were out of the shady character type found in the black market trade and the dens of Chinatown. The Orient enters here because, as it turned out, morphine vials were left in the rafts and they aren't being used by the present owners to relieve the shock of battle.

MAILMAN'S LAMENT

No one could get any madder at either of the two limping giants than the Post Office Department, especially the mailman on the beat. While grocery stores have their mailboxes crammed with OPA circulars twice a day, and small businesses are being crowded out of office space by WAA literature, it's the mailman that has to cart the stuff around to all doors, comes rain, sleet or snow.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

ONE of the principle vexations each semester stems from the fact that before a student has time to memorize his weekly program, not to mention getting down to sharp nailheads, and begins to crack the pages of his various text books, someone announces disconcertingly that "midterms will be held next week."

This is the best possible evidence of the great need to revise the nation-wide system by which instructors are now educated in their work preparatory to becoming members of the teaching profession.

Under a system which would produce the best possibly adjusted individuals and do away with the annoying quirks and complexes students of today so often develop, the methods used at present would doubtless take a neat psychological dive.

After all, the way it appears on the surface, the purpose of an education is to make an improved individual. However, as we trudge along nowadays, everyone knows that this is not really true.

The real, underlying purpose is to accumulate a certain number of units and grade points (usually accomplished by memorizing a few hundred pages of notes and condensed text material which is rattled off one minute and forgotten the next), so that after a period of years and semesters have passed, one can crash almost any party in town and be sure to find someone who is willing and equally able to discuss his "good old college days."

If colleges were conducted entirely without periodical examinations, think what it would do to improve the jangled nerves which beguile the average adult of today. People have, for the past decade, tried to explain the tremendous increase in the number of nervous breakdowns. Depressions, competition, the atomic bomb—all have come in for their share of the blame.

But these would all count for naught, if only examinations were done away with. Students would develop calm, collected, unflustered attitudes, and after their formal education was completed, no outside turbulences would possible be able to rattle their composure.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Outdoor Rallies Approved, Game Roster Requested; Afternoon Game Solution

• Football Roster

Editor, The Guardsman:

Why doesn't The Guardsman publish a complete roster of the players and their numbers of both the teams before the football games so that the students can better follow the game?

There should be a better spirit among the fans if they know who they are yelling for.

Fred Pierce

Editor's Note: A complete roster of all SF home games will henceforth be published—squad players' numbers included.

• Friday "Cut" Problem

Editor, The Guardsman:

In view of the fact that the football games are played on Friday afternoons, many students who have afternoon classes are compelled to stay at school and to miss the games. Although they have the alternate of cutting their afternoon classes and attending the games anyway, the average student does not like to miss his studies and to use up his maximum number of permissable "cuts."

I wonder if there is some possible solution to this problem that is facing some school-spirited students—maybe a double assignment could be given on the last day the particular class meets before the game, and if a majority of the students from the class go to the game, maybe the remaining students could have an open forum discussion on problems in the subject course they each personally have; therefore, the game-going students would not miss any otherwise valuable class discussion.

Paul Lindstrom

• Open Air Rallies

Editor, the Guardsman:

The planning committee for last Friday's rally should be congratulated. Shifting the scene of the rally from the gymnasium to the court made it possible for more students to actually enjoy it. The warm sunlight helped to create more spirit in addition to making it more comfortable for all of us. Let's keep our rallies out in the open!

Clint Logas

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR .. June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavanor, editor; Kenneth Bird, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adelee Reinsch.
NEWS: Trav Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pirhon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hanson, Hank Weiss.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Staten Webster, Dayton Lawson.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTIST: Eleanor Schaeffer.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser ..... Joan Nourse
Business Adviser ..... Joseph Amori

RAMblings . .

By Covell and Cowderoy

WITH our rampaging gridmen riding the crest of a two game winning streak, could it be that we really have got a football team? The way they looked last Friday night against the Sacramento (well, almost).

Coach Lee Eisan must have really lashed out with the old "Rockne" pep talk between halves. Denny Miller, outwart left guard, was banished from the contest for getting a leettle beet over anxious come the third quarter and had a few, shall we say, words with a supposed capitolite "host".

ATTENDANCE

An interesting sidelight of the game was that it broke the Northern California Junior College Conference attendance record with a throng of 5,500 humble souls. It's significant that a town of approximately 65,000 can outdraw a metropolis of nearly a million. We ought to be able to do a little better than that!

HOT STUFF

The pigskin warriors look real "purdy" in their beautiful new red jackets. These are entirely private enterprises with the boys digging into their own pockets for this apparel.

This is a fine example of the spirit the boys have bullt up for their team. Sudden thought! They should save numerous accidents by wearing these jackets when hunting season rolls around!

ADDITION

Out of the East Bay from a school well known for its many football greats comes another potential grid standout.

Bob Brickell, a triple-threat man from Piedmont High School, has just arrived at the college and will no doubt be donning a Ram uniform in the near future. Brickell made the all-league first team for Alameda County under the expert tutelage of Brick Hole, well known bay area mentor. He can punt, run, and is an exceptionally good passer.

Coach Lee Eisan will no doubt make good use of Mr. Brickell.

CAPITOL GLAMOUR

The most interesting sight at the Sacramento tussle in many eyes was not the performance of the gridmen but the contortions of three bee-autiful Elkgrove majorettes who displayed their talents to the multitude during the preliminary game between Elkgrove and Christian High Schools. Ah yes, those Valley queens!

SUNDAE TACKLE

Scheduled for the lucky boy who made the most tackles in the Sacramento tilt was 10 delicious, nutritious, super deluxe sundaes, (Umm good!). As you might have guessed, it was next to impossible to pick a specific member of our juggernaught (Wow), so-o-o we've done the next best thing.

To the first TACKLER who shows up at The Guardsman office will go the entire ten delights to do whatever he pleases with them. Okay boys, come and get 'em.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Grid Tickets

Hope Seen For Cut In Student Prices

Students heretofore paying up to one dollar general admission for the privilege of watching some of this season's conference games, may get the ante lowered to a maximum of 50 cents in the near future.

Somebody uncovered a Northern California Junior College ruling to the effect that students were allowed half of the original general admission upon presentation of their Associated Student cards.

Up to now students have been paying, in some instances, the same price for entrance as non-students. Evidently nobody knew this ruling existed, until a couple of student officials went digging through the files the other day and uncovered this pleasant bit of information.

Action is expected to be taken shortly on the ruling, and students may have something left over for an ice cream cone during the games.

WAA

Enrollment In New Sports Encouraged

With a varied program of sports offered by the women's physical education department, "there is no excuse for any women to leave this college without a playing knowledge of at least three sports," Laurine Bergin, chairman of the department, said recently.

The college supplies all the equipment required in the activities, including tennis racquets, and balls, hockey guards, badminton racquets and birds, archery bows, arrows and finger guards, Mrs. Bergin revealed, with the exception of horses, which each woman must rent by the hour.

Hockey is a new sport being offered this fall, she said, and the college is the only one on this side of the bay to offer the sport.

Enrollment in swimming classes is now small enough that individual instruction may be had by all participants, Mrs. Bergin stated. She reminded women that all that is needed is a bathing cap, because the college supplies the rest of the equipment.

"So many times on enrolling in physical educational classes, women choose the line of least resistence and enroll in a sport in which they already have a working knowledge," Mrs. Bergin said.

This is a great mistake, she believes, when the college offers so many other activities in which a student may enroll without the slightest playing knowledge, and which a woman may learn without fear of being laughed at, and in which she is not alone in her ignorance.

"It should be remembered that men prefer women who are proficient at many different sports, and since bowling, tennis, badminton and swimming have become household words, the women should take advantage of the opportunities offered them in the physical educational department and enroll in classes in which they have no previous experience," she added.

"Not Giving You Game"

Interview With Modesto Grid Coach Indicates Stiff Opposition For Rams

By Dayton Lawson

"I don't think we will be giving you the game," was the parting remark of Coach Fred Earl of Modesto Junior College, as he concluded an exclusive interview by telephone in Modesto Monday morning.

Coach Earl had a lot more to say concerning the coming contest between his team and the Rams of this college, come 8:15 Saturday evening at Modesto. Although his men have been beaten twice this year, there have been many reasons for their mediocre showing up to now.

In the first place, Coach Earl has just gotten out of the hospital, and for the first time this year will personally have charge of his squad.

Too Many Cooks

The boys have heretofore been handled by a group of assistants who weren't quite sure just what plans their ailing coach had this year. As a result, the team has been in the unhappy position of having "too many cooks spoiling the broth" as it were.

In the second place their all state tackle, big Ed Marlowe, has also been on the injured list since the beginning of this season and hasn't played so far.

Incidentally, he is the big reason, according to Coach Earl, why there have been so many gains through the guard and tackle positions this year. He's really a bulwark when he's in the pink, and he is expected to play the full game Saturday night.

Another little surprise package the Modesto mentor pulled out of his hat during the telephone conversation, was the fact that a fellow by the name of Ken Rose, whose position is normally quarterback, has ujst enrolled at Modesto.

Big Ten Kicker

Rose came from the University of Iowa, where he has played one year of football, and was one of the best kickers in the big ten conference, according to the records.

He has only been at Modesto a short time, and as a result hasn't played any games so far, but has been working out with the team, and learning the plays, and by game time Saturday, is expected to get a lot of playing time in.

Dinubio, center, is one of the heaviest men the Modesto squad has, weighing a mere 212 pounds. Duncan, their first string quarterback, is comparatively light, at 162.

Deception Rampant

Working their plays from the famous T formation, with man in motion, they mix things up with plenty of deception, and if the customers are able to find the ball nine times out of ten, they have very good eyesight.

Ram Coach Eisan when questioned about things in general concerning the coming game, didn't offer too much information, except that he had "heard that Modesto had lost a game or two this year." He isn't too worried about the Rams pulling this one out of the fire.

Eisan said that he would probably start the same boys who have previously started the last two contests.

Independent Bowling Clubs Formed By WAA

Bowling clubs sponsored by Women's Athletic Association, have no instructor, Frances Scilipoti, club president announced recently. Women interested in bowling may sign up in their own free time. Further information is contained on the WAA bulletin board in the women's gymnasium, Miss Scilipoti said.

Cross Country Track Squad In The Making

Plans for cross-country track sections, which are to be organized in the various men's gymnasium class, were stressed again, this week, by track Coach Jim Jensen.

Jensen related that the purpose of this project is to provide a source of interest for those interested in long-distance running and to prepare those men who will turn out for the distance events during the coming track season.

These sections will meet during the regular gymnasium classes. Any men, Jensen requested, who are interested in signing up will see him in the gymnasium office during their regular gymnasium classes.

Interesting events have been planned for the group although the schedule of contests has not been drawn up at this time, Jensen said.

Intramural

Cage Tournament Starts Tuesday; Rules Announced

With 11 teams signed up for intramural basketball competition, Director Tom Wilson announced Tuesday that play will officially begin Tuesday, October 22.

Games will be played every Tuesday and Thursday at 4 and 5 o'clock in the men's gymnasium. Five games will be played every day of competition with one team drawing a bye.

Wilson stressed the point that the official regulations must be followed to the letter.

Rules for intramural basketball competition are as follows:

1. All members of all teams must play in at least 50 per cent of the halves, in order to be eligible for an award. This includes substitutes.

2. Games will be played in 20 minute halves, with two time outs per half for each team included in the running time.

3. Each team must be on the floor ready to play on the hour or a forfeit will be declared.

4. There will be no switching of players from team to team after the tournament starts.

5. Each team must start with five members, but if any member is disqualified they may re-enter by permission of the other team.

6. The games will be played according to official basketball rules.

Following is the schedule for the first day of play:

Scheduled for 4 o'clock.
Lambs vs. Chinese Social Club
Ramblers vs. X. G. I.
Operators vs. Buccaneers
Scheduled for 5 o'clock.
East Bay Trotters vs. Portals
Poops vs. Tigers
Los Vaqueros—Bye

Varsity Basketball Signup Closes Monday

Sign-ups for the varsity basketball team will be accepted through next Monday, October 21, in the men's gymnasium, cage mentor Ralph Hillsman announced today.

Coach Hillsman also stated that official practice will start Monday, October 28. The team has been holding informal practice sessions for the past two weeks.

The tentative schedule for next semester's hoopsters appeared in the Tuesday edition of The Guardsman. The only new addition to the schedule is a game with the Cal "B" team during Christmas vacation.

Several potential stars are expected to be "uncovered" during the current intramural tournament.

Ram Guerrillas Invade Buc Lair For Third Win

By Bob Catudio

Modesto Stadium, Modesto, Oct. 18—Imbued with the dream that may be "victory number three," the Rams, decidedly the guerrila pack of the circuit, will meet Modesto Junior College here tomorrow night at 8:15 with advance ducat sales indicative of a 4,000 gathering of the curious.

Once riddled with injuries, the townies are back on the mend, which may account for their place on the long end of the 3 to 1 pre-mayhem odds. Center John Didio, slightly cracked in the Sac affair, will be back on the job tomorrow night.

Pirate host Fred Earle, once ailing top chief of the Buc ensemble, returns to the baccalaureate hench to direct the home town defense against the titanic townies of Senor Lee Eisan.

The Modestoans will be strengthened via the kleiglight debut of highly-touted Ken Rose, ex-U. of Iowan, where the light-footed Rose was acclaimed as a punter of the legendary Pat O'Dea school.

Bucs Are Bolstered

Bolstered in the line—battered by both Sac and Vallejo Junior Colleges—by Center John Dinubio, Tackle Bobby Smith, and Orville Young, the thirsty "T" plans of the Bucaneers will include an aerial assault sparked by elfish Bill Duncan.

Primarily concerned with developing a scoring punch from within the 20 yard marker, Senor Eisan and staff has devoted week long practice sessions to ground offensive and pass defense.

Eisan Denies Optimism

Tagged for par excellence performances in the still-remembered Solon encounter were Ken Schuchard, who relieved the ailing Didio early in the fray, wingman Roland Stern, and the ever-improving play of giant Don Rooker.

"We're a pretty good ball club now," Eisan said, "but it'd be a serious situation if we became too big for our own boots. Perhaps a better selection of plays and we could have had another score in the Sacramento game."

Topped by the gun shot artistry of Quarterback George Newell, the locals underwent a brief hour passing session yesterday against the Lamb squad. Wingman Ray Poznekoff, Jim Cronn, Sterling Orgain, and Stern are all available for duty and will probably be "over-worked" tomorrow eve.

Miller Is "Side-lined"

The ejection of scrappy Denny Miller from the Panther clash has incited the local clan to "ornery deeds." Miller, ex-Mission High School, and Sac wingback Jerry Caslas went through a hurried bit of fisticuffery prior to the banishment of both players from the game.

"I believe we are capable of defeating the Pirates," Eisan prophetically intoned, "but we've never met them this year. We don't know what they have. It's another tough ball game."

To date, the provincials have won a bottle of vital statistics from Salinas Junior College and the Panthers. The middle line boom of Marsh "the rice man" Leong and the regenerated Staten Webster has upped local stock no end.

Elsewhere in the conference, Sacramento will meet San Mateo Junior College at Mateo's McConville Field tomorrow at 2:15 p.m., newsworthy data involving Mateo's initial plunge into the hectic campaign.

N.C.J.C.C. STANDINGS

Team	Won	Lost	P.S.	P.A.	Pct.
San Francisco	2	0	25	6	1.000
Sacramento	1	1	25	13	.500
Modesto	1	1	18	19	.500
San Mateo	0	0	0	0	.000
Salinas	0	2	0	30	.000

Ram-Buc Lineup

San Francisco	Pos.	Modesto
Poznekoff	LER	Young
Hoffman	LTR	Smith, R.
Belcher	LGR	Williams
Didio	C	Dinubio
Miller	RGL	Harding
Psaltis	RTL	Allen
Cronn	REL	Wadsworth
Webster	Q	Duncan
Eldell	LHR	Highiet
Corey	RHL	Lovell
Leong	F	Merritt

Theodosius Tomato

Tomato Face Escapes Sad Salad Fate, Proclaimed King Of Culinary Court

One day last week a poor, little, orphaned tomato wandered into the cafeteria. Luckily he was seen by one of the members of the Hotel and Restaurant Division before some voracious student was able to descend upon him and devour him.

The homeless little waif told a pitiable story of bereavement that brought tears to the eyes of the cafeteria staff; even the usually cold hearted cooks, who are in the habit of dissecting tomatoes with no feeling whatsoever, cried voluminously.

It seems Theodosius Tomato, for that was his name, was brutally torn from the stem of his family tree at an early age and cast into the cold, cruel world to ripen with age. Then he got in with a bunch of rotten tomatoes, who tainted his character somewhat.

It was later that he got in with a bunch of green tomatoes among whom he became a leader, having seen much of the world already. He made fast friends with this group of fellows, but unfortunately, as Theodosius and his friends debarked at the college cafeteria, he fell into the grass and was lost.

Poor Theodosius. He cried and cried, but no one heard him. He was slowly shriveling in the hot sun; the sap of life was draining from him rapidly. Then with his last remaining strength he dragged himself into the cafeteria and was rescued by the kind-hearted staff.

Such a story would turn even the most cruel person's heart to water. The staff was sympathetic and immediately set to work to clothe and generally rejuvenate Theodosius.

The result can be seen in the accompanying picture. Thus attired Theodosius holds court in his palace, the refrigerator. He is now officially titled by Hilda Watson, division director, King of the Culinary Court, Royal Odor of Tomatoes.

However, Theodosius is expected to abdicate soon as he is afflicted with a strange malady that he contracted in his travels known as Overipenous deterioratis tomatoxic.

In the meantime the cafeteria staff is searching for a suitable king to replace him; when they do discover one, Theodosius will retire to his country estate, known rather crudely by humans as the Garbage Dump.

Block SF

West Campus Dance Tickets Go On Sale

Resumption of Block SF campus activities for the fall semester here at the college will include a dance to be held Friday, October 25, at the WAVES lounge on the West Campus starting at 8 p.m., according to Carter Corey, Block SF president.

Final preparations for the dance are being handled by a committee composed of Art Ekdail, Paul Dotur, Al Drake, and Glen Smith. The band for the occasion has not yet been selected.

Tickets are now on sale throughout the campus. The price of admission is 55 cents for men and 30 cents for women. Couples will be admitted on the purchase of an 85 cent ticket.

"All students are invited to attend the affair," Corey said, "and we promise to make the evening well worth their time."

Working in close cooperation with the Block SF dance committee is Lee Eisan, faculty adviser, who placed emphasis on the fine sportsmanship exemplified by the college Block SF organization.

Sports clothes and the "no corsage" rule will be the order of the evening.

Veterans' Brochures Available In Bldg. 3

Available in the Veterans Administration office, Building Three, West Campus, is a large supply of mimeographed brochures, which give complete information to veterans regarding the benefits of Public Law 346 and 16.

Many veterans failed to secure one of these publications during registration. "Each veteran should have one of these publications for ready reference," it was stated by William Olsen, Senior Training Officer for the Veterans Administration, on the campus.

"They not only contain general information regarding educational benefits, but inform the students as to procedure for veterans at the college," he said.

Information on entitlements, applications, letters of eligibility, subsistence checks, "C" numbers, transfers to other colleges and universities, interruption of status, Public Law 16, and state benefits, are included in the brochure.

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS
Granat Bros
SHREVE TREAT & FACKETT

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Alpha Lambda Chi: There will be a meeting on October 23 at 8 at Phyllis Beetz' home, 1801 18th Avenue.

•Phi Beta Rho: New officers for this term are President Mary Beringer, Vice President Jackie Faxon, Recording Secretary Rita Cox, Corresponding Secretary Jean Stewart, Treasurer Rose Murphy, and Historian Lillian Travaglio.

•Kappa Phi: The traditional Chinese dinner will be the second rush to be held this Sunday.

•Bachelors' Club: A meeting will be held this Friday during college hour. Anyone interested in joining is invited to attend.

•Theta Tau: Plans for the second rush affair are being made.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Interrogation will be held this Monday night at 2330 15th Street.

•XGI: There will be a meeting October 25 in Room 1 at the War Memorial Building. After the meeting, XGI refreshments will be served.

•TZN Fraternity: A social house party will be held on Saturday, October 26, at 2219 North Point St. All members are invited to bring a date.

•Alpha Theta Epsilon: Old and new officers should attend installation practice in Room 158 November 1, during the College Hour.

•Pep Club: Tonight, the Stag Drag sponsored by the Pep Club will be held from 8 to 12 o'clock in the recreation room on the West Campus. Music by Stan Kenton, Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, and all the boys will be provided for your dancing pleasure—a juke, of course. Admission to the Drag will be 25 cents per person, and sport clothes will be the featured attire.

Local Radio Students Slated For KQW Shows

Preparations for a possible appearance of college radio students in a forthcoming Saturday afternoon KQW presentation of "Youth Looks to the Future" were in progress this week, according to Marie Weller, faculty radio instructor.

Other programs under consideration by the college radio section are The American School of the Air, and American Education Week, during the week of November 10 to 16.

Dates for the above programs will be released within two weeks, Madonna Todd, of radio station KQW, announced yesterday.

Modesto

Inter-College Dance Set After Grid Meet

Modesto, October 18. — Number one intercollegiate social affair of the semester will take place here tomorrow night when Modesto Junior College sponsors its "Harvest Hop" in the men's gymnasium following the conclusion of tomorrow night's Ram - Bue gridiron clash.

Johnny Lash and his orchestra will provide music for the affair and admission will be by Associated Student card. it was announced by Margy Young of the Associated Women Students. All San Francisco students are invited to attend the affair.

AMS

Fun Booths, Band Feature Mardi Gras

Color will be the theme of the Mardi Gras to be given Friday, November 22, by the Associated Men Students in either the gymnasium or the West Campus auditorium, Bill Holmes, AMS president, said this week.

"This will be a costume ball," Holmes said, "and even if the students don't dress up, I hope they'll at least wear jeans and plaid shirts."

That the colorful stands which highlighted last semester's Mardi Gras will be back was assured by Holmes, who announced that already the Theta Tau has the coke concession, Beta Tau the ball throwing, and Kappa Phi, Delta Psi, and many other organizations are preparing to join in the fun.

A fine band has been promised for the dance, but until certain red tape has been either cut, or run to its death, it will have to remain a secret locked up in the heart of Holmes.

The Mardi Gras last semester featured a recording booth, artists who did things to the profile, and a fortune teller from old Egypt.

AGS Elects Officers During College Hour

Election of Fall semester officers of the college Alpha Gamma Sigma organization will be held today during the college hour in Room 205, according to Edward Cranston, honor society faculty adviser.

To aid in the selection of candidates for the semester, a committee of three, composed of Adele Rogers, Adele Reinisch, and Granville Forrest, has been appointed by Cranston.

"Any member of the society, however, other than the committee already appointed, may submit candidates' names to Room 205," Cranston said.

Students entering the college from high school or other colleges may become members of the AGS, provided they hold a permanent rating in the California Scholastic Federation.

Drama

Black Flamingo New Production; Heaven Can Wait Cancelled

Legal difficulties have cancelled the college production of Heaven Can Wait and in its place, Black Flamingo, a French Revolution melodrama by Sam Janney is scheduled for presentation late this semester, Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor, revealed this week.

The order to halt production came in the form of a letter from the Dramatist's Play Service which handles scripts and non-professional acting rights for the members of Dramatists' Guild of the Authors' League of America.

"Since Heaven Can Wait," it said, "is now under contract for an early Broadway production, it has been temporarily withdrawn from the non-professional market in key cities and towns throughout the states where there is a possibility of a touring company appearing."

Andrew J. Loffler, of the leasing department, added, "I consulted the manager and for the reasons stated above, I extremely regret to tell you that he will not authorize my releasing the play for non-professional production in San Francisco at the present time."

This information came as a surprise to Sisler and the cast. Copies of the play had been secured from a San Francisco play bureau, and that office had not been informed as to the impossibility of securing production rights.

Black Flamingo has been produced at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, The Little Theatre of Chattanooga, Tennessee; The University of Nebraska, Santa Barbara Community Players, and many other localities.

The cast as tentatively chosen includes many of the same students who were in Heaven Can Wait.

The production of the comedy, the Male Animal, progresses rapidly, and the famous Broadway hit is expected to be ready for audiences within six weeks.

ATTENTION
Engineeers
Draftsmen
WHITE PINE
DRAWING BOARDS
$3.00
J. C.
STUDENT STORE

Cafeteria

Round Trip To Cafeteria Timeclocked; Victim Sweats Out Line, Lectures

By Vivian Freedman

A new record has been set in the annals of college history!

Last week a potential track star set an all time high of 6 minutes 11¼ seconds of blood, sweat and tears, emerging at last with the fruits of victory, one tray of lunch!

Our candidate was selected from the pile stacked around the Silver pole. Out in front of the building his eyes were set toward the west, his feet pointed in the same direction, last minute orders were given as to his conduct, and as the gong echoed through the corridors and re-echoed from the valley below he began his trek!

Exactly 4 minutes and 13½ seconds later he was smiling happily at the distant hill and then turning he saw IT! A seemingly endless line stretched to the distant horizons, but undaunted, he found the end and blissfully took his place. When he picked up his change at the end of the 6 minutes 11¼ seconds, he breathed a sight of relief as he sat down and leaned back!

Fifteen seconds later he picked himself up off the floor muttering endearments under his breath! A member of the Hotel and Restaurant Division rushed up and told the victim to be patient a few days longer—chairs with backs were on their way.

Fourteen minutes later, filled with vim, vigor and victuals, he walked away from the table. Two seconds later he felt a hand on his collar and and his tray was handed to him! After bussing the dishes and receiving a stern lecture on the merits and demerits of dish-bussing he was allowed to depart.

Once more at the top of the hill, we glanced at our stop-watch—only 4 minutes 59¼ seconds. With slide rule, compass and pencils the time was totaled and it was discovered that 25 minutes 1½ seconds was the time element involved!

Our computations completed, we eagerly looked around for our star to thank him for his excellent cooperation and congratulate him on his splendid showing. We finally spotted him running back down the hill.

"Hey, where you going now?"

Breathing heavily, he paused and gazed happily up at us and answered:

"After a coke! Didn't you know that the new fountain has opened in the former WAVEs' Ship Service?" It has a seating capacity of 60 and is open from 10 to 4 p.m. After that hike I'm thirsty!"

Napa, California, prepare for one more!

MAURICE LYNCH
SFJC Alumnus
GUS CORERIS
LYNCH & CORERIS
SAN FRANCISCO'S SMARTEST FLORAL SHOP
Courteous Service — Prompt Delivery
1420 CLEMENT
Near 15th Avenue
Phone
SKyline 7198
JANE TOMLINSON
Campus Representative
BEST OF LUCK IN THE MODESTO GAME

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1946 No. 8

Associated Students

Second Estimate Reduces Costs Of Proposed Journal

In the Student Council meeting last Thursday the proposed journal once again received first attention.

Dean Jack Brady announced that he had received an estimate of 1500 books for a total cost of $5,700. Brady also said that in order that the journal be published at the end of next semester, work on the publication should start immediately.

Ray Bislo, chairman of the yearbook committee, said he would make more detailed study of the cost involved.

At a former meeting the council had appropriated $400 for the purchase of a public address system to be used in connection with college affairs. In connection with the project President Dean Haug announced that Trev Burrow and he had located a public address system which could be bought wholesale for less than $300.

The council unanimously voted to purchased the system, and Haug said he hoped to have it by the beginning of this week.

A committee was appointed by Haug to sell and take tickets at football games. Those appointed were Bill Riley, Frank Nelson, Bob Winegardner, Don Berger, Barbara Christenson, Laurel Nelson and Millie Laube.

Coming in for a lion's share of attention was the forthcoming Judiciary Committee.

In the college constitution the Judiciary Committee is listed under Article 4, Section 4 as follows:

"The Judiciary Committee shall be composed of a chairman and two men and two women members at large appointed by the president. Its duties shall be to exercise control over and pass judgment upon all matters pertaining to student conduct that are referred to it by the office of the Dean of Men."

Cafeteria Shortens Dinner Hour Service

That the dinner hours in the cafeteria has been changed and service will now be from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. only was announced last week by Gail Smith, current student manager of the dinner hours. Dinner was previously served from 5 to 7:30 p.m.

Shorter hours will enable the cafeteria staff to render more efficient service, according to Thomas Duffy, who is in charge of the dinner hours.

Other service hours will remain as before, Duffy said.

Men Outnumber Women Three To One Here

Administration personnel on completing the tally of enrollment last week, found of the 5,014 students enrolled, 3,639 are men, and 1,375 are women. Of the total enrollment 2,626 are veterans and 2,948 are in the first semester, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, announced.

The first mid-term period will end officially Friday, November 1, Miss Learnard said, and November 13 is the last day on which to drop a course. Students will receive mid-term grades from their advisers on Wednesday, November 6 and Thursday, November 7.

Miss Learnard again warned students that anyone desiring a leave must withdraw officially by filing an application in the registrar's office.

"Any student who withdraws without proper clearance from the office will automatically receive an F in all courses," Miss Learnard warned.

100 Years Of California

CALIFORNIA'S CENTENNIAL celebration will have college president A. J. Cloud as a committee chairman. President Cloud believes all students will profit by reading books on California's history, now listed in the college library.

State's Centennial Celebration Includes College Participation

Tentative arrangements were made in a committee meeting held last Thursday in the California State Chamber of Commerce Building, for a series of activities and events to take place during the California Centennial Celebration, 1946 to 1950, President A. J. Cloud disclosed last Wednesday.

The celebrations are in honor of California's admission to the Union in 1850.

Superintendent Roy E. Simpson, of the State Department of Education, is chairman of the California Centennial Committee and President Cloud, a representative of the California Teachers' Association, is chairman of the sub-committee. The sub-committee is developing details and means whereby various schools can participate in the celebrations.

Competition is being inaugurated in colleges throughout the state with the object of securing a design for a 1949 fifty-cent piece. The designs are to be submitted to appropriate state authorities and final decision will rest in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Although nothing is definite, it is thought that some type of recognition other than a monetary award will be made, President Cloud announced.

"The State Chamber of Commerce is willing to finance this contest," President Cloud remarked, "to promote interest and increase enthusiasm in the celebrations."

Several celebrations have already been held such as the recent one at Sonoma, The Bear Flag Incident. During the period many little events of California history will be celebrated. In honor of the centennial in 1948, issuance of a special stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of the discovery of gold at Coloma has been proposed by various groups in northern California.

President Cloud urged all students to read California books in the library and see how California was formed and developed. "There are many newcomers into the state who know nothing of California's background or history. These celebrations are to their advantage," Cloud stated.

Home Economics

Thursday Tea To Honor Vets' Wives

The hostess group of the Home Economic department will lay out the welcome mat for on-campus veterans' wives, this Thursday, October 24, according to Frances Mount, instructor.

Theme for the tea, beginning at 2 p.m. in the Home Economics dining room, will be Autumn. Following the tea, a tour conducted by the hostesses will give the wives of servicemen studying on the campus an idea what the college is like.

Miss Mount, director of the group, stated that the affair was not only to acquaint the women with the entertainment of a large group, but to make the veterans' wives welcome to the college, and to feel a part of campus activities.

She also expressed the hope that the wives will feel free to ask the department about any problems concerning food and clothing, or even enroll in the courses.

Children of the wives will be cared for by members of the group while mothers enjoy the afternoon, Miss Mount revealed.

Honored guests expected to attend the tea are Dean Margaret Dougherty, Dean Edward E. Sandys, Dean John J. Brady, President A. J. Cloud, Registrar Mary Jane Learnard and Vice-president J. Paul Mohr.

In charge of the afternoon's entertainment are co-chairmen Vivian Tietjen and Margaret Petropoulos.

New Veteran Courses Start November 4

Notices announcing new entrance examinations have been sent to approximately 250 veterans, who have expressed a desire to enter the college.

Examinations will start at 8:30 a.m. in Room 100 on Thursday, October 31. Registration is set for Friday, November 1, at Building 3 on the West Campus.

New students will start class work on Monday, November 4.

Because of the lack of proper facilities there will be no science or drafting instruction, but English, history, Spanish, and psychology courses will be offered, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said.

"If a student expects to enroll, he must file an application, turn in a record of former high school and college work, and if the legal residence is in Contra Costa County, Alameda County or any other junior college district, he must file a permit before Friday, November 1," Miss Learnard emphasized.

Inventories

Tests Determine Student Interests

The vocational interest inventory tests, last of which is being offered this Thursday in the main building, have attracted only a small portion of the expected 200 students that originally enrolled, according to Verrel Weber, director.

The number of students taking these "tests" in no way alters the objective of the series, Miss Weber said. The inventories are not tests, in that there are no right or wrong answers. They are simply a means of determining for the satisfaction of the individual concerned, what field of endeavor the student is best fitted for, she declared.

Through findings taken from the results of the inventory, interests for each student are divided into specific fields such as business, science, and others.

At the same time, the type of interest the student is inclined to favor is also determined. Finally the student's level of interest, which indicates whether his average is high or otherwise, is also shown.

Miss Weber notified those taking this inventory that they may get the checked papers from Grant Marsh, counseling department head, at his office on the West Campus, some time next week.

Eight Hotel Students Back From Sonoma Inn

Eight members of the Hotel and Restaurant Division have returned to their classrooms after getting a chance to put their training to a practical test at the California State Hotel Association convention at Sonoma Mission Inn.

The men, who were under scrutiny by some of the state's foremost hotel men, were William Beers, William Burger, Fabio Castillo, Albert Fuller, Edwin Greene, Samuel Morris, Charles Reynolds, and Raymond Tiax.

Administration

Luckmann To Attend UN Assemblies As Official Observer

Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud, will attend the meetings of the United Nations General Assembly as an official observer, from November 11 to November 15, at the invitation of Trygve Lie, Secretary General of U.N.

Luckmann, long active in college affairs and, among other things, one-time chief expediter for the Pacific Division Training Office, U. S. Army Engineers, is to sit in, at the general assemblies and will meet with several commissions of U.N.

Luckmann declared that he will be a "behind the scenes" observer and will make a complete report on what he sees to the community and the college upon his return from the meetings. Luckmann leaves by plane for New York on Saturday, November 9.

Fifty-one nations will be represented at the General Assembly which will meet in the United States for the first time tomorrow at Flushing Meadows, New York.

This week, through Friday, October 26, has been set aside as Welcome the United Nations Week. Booths will be set up throughout the city to give out printed information on the U.N. Stores are expected to have window displays commemorating U.N. during the week.

College To Convert West Campus Bldgs.

In a telegram received from Washington last week, approval was given to a petition from the college to make West Campus buildings over into classrooms and effect other improvements needed, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, announced last Thursday.

According to Anderson, five of the buildings, numbers 4, 5, 9, 10, and 11, will be constructed into classrooms, and also a row will be built along side of the auditorium.

The Federal Government is financing the project, which is to go ahead at top speed.

"Much of the delay," Anderson said, "will be due to the shortage of architects necessary to draw up detailed plans."

Changes necessary to state law requirements as to school building construction, will have to be followed, Anderson remarked.

Vets Air Problems, Want More Women

Situation Intolerable; Goddard Snatched?

By Arnold Wechter

"We want more girls!" That is the cry from the veterans in a recent poll taken regarding their problems at the college.

With three males to every female student on the campus, the competition is really torrid among the "wolves," so the veterans say.

Many solutions have been put forth for this problem, all of them very helpful and practical. Best solution was offered by Herbert J. Berreyesa, a former Marine private, now studying engineering at the college; his solution to this terrible situation is a mass raid on the student body of Mills College for Women in Oakland.

There is a rumor of a group of ex-servicemen plotting to go to Hollywood and kidnap lovely Paulette Goddard and bring her back to the campus as a possible enrollee. Husband Burgess Meredith was not available for comment.

Jasper Clotch, well known campus wolf, has volunteered to lead an expedition to New Guinea in search of belles for the lonsome veterans. Clotch, who is known as an expert on female pulchritude says, "All veterans are aware of the world famous beauty of the New Guinea natives and many veterans have told me that they would be proud to escort the girls."

William I. Olsen, training officer for the Veterans' Administration on the campus, said at the present time the Veterans' Administration has no solution to the problem.

On other problems and troubles, the average veteran is satisfied with his lot at the college.

Lavish praise was heaped by veterans on the Veterans' Administration for their speedy distribution of subsistence checks.

KIDNAP PLOT is discovered concerning the late enrollment of one Paulette Goddard, now at Peremount "Tech," in the college's renowned Poli. Sci. 21a class Any comment from the front row dwellers?

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 8 Tuesday, October 22, 1946 Page 2

Traffic Jam

Holiday For Death

THE thought of spending hard-earned money during the current period of skyrocketing prices and standstill merchandise causes one to disgustedly shake his head and cast whimsical remembrances of yesteryear.

And surely enough, the suggestion to be mentioned to the city taxpayers will cost a pretty penny, and the object under fire is one that merits serious consideration, namely—

The widening of Phelan Avenue.

Phelan Avenue—from Judson Avenue to Ocean Avenue—will be lined with parked vehicles as long as time shall exist. The normal passageway between the parked lines is narrow, dangerous, and could result in unfortunate disaster should an accident occur.

We have now legally acquired the West Campus whose eastern boundary can easily be distended inward to allow for construction should the seemingly uninevitable "yeas" of the taxpayers be heard.

Street widening construction jobs are in progress in many other sections of the city where the normal traffic is far below the daily vehicle and pedestrian traffic recorded here.

City officials on the job, have never "officially" been informed of the critical traffic hazard existing on the campus. Perhaps the "usual rumor" will leak out in such a manner as to create a purposeful campaign to widen Phelan Avenue.

Everyone of us during a part of our day becomes involved in the avenue that, at times, threatens to make the Indianapolis Speedway a veritable walkathon.

No serious accidents have been recorded yet, but safety rules are all so unpredictable.

You can be involved in an accident today, or even tomorrow, when the least of your worries, "the widening of Phelan Avenue" becomes something at which to look cautiously forward.

Ford

After Dark

YES folks, Hollywood has done it again, whether you want to admit it or not. The name? Make Mine Music created by Walt Disney and staff. In certain scenes, spellbound audiences view some of the best cinema impressionism to date. The Whale Who Wanted To Sing At The Met is wonderful. Nelson Eddy sings ALL the voice parts and does the narration. It is something to see. The Blue Bayou scene is equally breathtaking.

'Twould be interesting to see a course (a very special course you understand, for those interested), inaugurated here, and elsewhere, dealing with the literary merit of certain contemporary problem children. That is, books that fall into the category of works in dispute. Take Generation of Vipers for instance,' by Philip Wylie or the now famous Memoirs of Hecate County by Edmund Wilson, or various works by such writers as Tennessee Williams, Kenneth Rexroth, Henry Miller, George Leite; Kenneth Patchen and The New Trend Mexican and Australian writers. Or perhaps analyze that great work, Forever Amber, which would take all of five minutes. Seriously, it would be interesting to make a study of new writing forms and how they got that way.

A fine group of Abe Rattner's paintings are currently being exhibited at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. Hurry!

Someday (the inevitable perhaps goes here) Hollywood will buy up the rights to the early German film (1915), "The Cabinet of Doctor Caligari" and put the modern psychological film to shame. Let someone qualified do it. Someone like Orson Welles, Rene Clair, Otto Perminger, or Alfred Hitchcock. At least, it's an idea. Whaddya want . . . blood?

By the way, tickets are on sale at the college bank (at reduced rates) for students who wish to attend the special performances of a series of concerts to start during November. This series is under the auspices of the Symphony Forum. Anyone desiring further information contact Martha Lee, president of the Symphony Forum. This is one of the most worth-while organizations in the college.

Poem of the Week: "Parsley is Garsley"—Ogden Nash.

Around And About with Nagle

ONCE upon a time we were ignorant enough to think that men were lucky. They didn't have to read fashion magazines to see what was being worn, nor did they have to run out and buy a new hat just because the season changed, or because the newest color wasn't the color of the one they owned. No, they could wear slacks (any color), a sport shirt, own a suit and overcoat for semi-formal attire . . . and that was the extent of their clothes problem.

The naivete is now gone—maturity has been reached. The rude awakening came with the reading of a "for men only" slick fashion magazine.

MASCULINE MODELS

On page one, well-dressed man No. One walks into the scene wearing a six-button, double-breasted blue overcoat, black homburg, a white shirt (must have been laid in, ahh), grey, red and black club stripe tie, chartreuse gloves and black shoes. The hours it must have taken him to acquire the right accessories seems shocking.

But wait until Man No. Two appears on page two. Here is Joe College himself—standing near the stadium gate before a football game. He is dressed a perfection with yellow plaid scarf, long tan gab belted overcoat (shop lined), flannel slacks, brogues, and pin-check cap. Either San Francisco men don't have the reputation that the women do regarding well-dressedness, or they just don't appear on the streets dressed such. No, Joe College never showed up at any game dressed like that. Did he?

URQUHARD, DIAGONAL, OR HOUND'S TOOTH?

Then comes the Fashion Quiz! This has all vocation, Land entrance exams beat by miles. Trousers of a dinner jacket have (a) single braid, or (b) two lengths of braid on the side seam? The answer isn't obvious—you guess.

The most appropriate accessories with a dark blue overcoat are: (a) grey felt hat, (b) green hat, or (c) brown hat. Natch, every well-dressed gent would know the answer—it's C.

Another—a large Tartan design sweater is acceptable with (a) glen Urquhard plaid sport coat, (b) diagonal weave tweed, (c) large hound's tooth check. (The answer sheet says B.) If your worried about wearing Tartan design sweaters on the campus with old Army khaki slacks, don't worry. Probably no one will notice, and you'll be able to go through the halls without too many fingers pointed at you, and without receiving too many snickers.

A quotation quietly lifted from one of the articles reads as follows: "Common sense has supplanted nonsense with the result that being well-groomed is a multiple pleasure today where it was a nuisance yesterday. Fancy ideas . . . have gone wonderfully simple."

SENSE NOT NONSENSE

So much for common sense—and deletion of nonsense. However, "Proud as a Peacock" suspenders were shown several pages following, and they really appear more nonsensical and fancy; than wonderfully simple and common sense. For painted thereon ar designs, gayly colored to be sure, of feathers, hunting dogs, and surrealistic-type art. True, Common sense has supplanted nonsense!

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Vote Early And Avoid The Rush Of Rolling Stock

THERE'S a little guy to be seen almost anywhere about town that really get around these days; everybody sees him at one time or another.

Sometimes he's going down Market or Mission Street, at all times of the day and night, carrying a lunch bucket and a hurried expression in his eyes.

He's been observed out here at the college too, having just recently enrolled; in fact, he comprises more than 50 per cent of the student body, and a lot of people look upon him as quite a factor in the future of education, so he's pretty important at that.

The guy is the registered voter, and he used to think himself as pretty much the power behind his government. Lately, though, he isn't quite sure of himself.

THE POLLING BOOTH

Several times a year, he and his friends go around the corner to a little garage or schoolhouse to a polling booth. He goes inside a green curtain and pulls down a number of levers on a machine.

He comes out with a feeling of pride in his chest and goes home thinking all will be well.

THE NATION'S CAPITAL

Back in the house to eat and relax in the living room with the afternoon papers, the harried expression sets in.

Instead of the familiar names on the tabs under the polling booth levers, he finds a bunch of opinions and orders printed of people he's never heard of before; he certainly can't remember voting for them.

Picking his teeth clean of the fried halibut he had for the Tuesday night meal, the little guy wades through the columns looking for the selected representatives he and his friends had carefully chosen, but instead finds datelines from Chicago, Detroit, and all points other than Washington, the forwarding address of his selected representatives.

MEAT COMING SOON

From the Chicago stockyards comes word that through the courtesy of the American Meat Institute, the little guy can expect meat on his table any week now instead of the halibut he's been dining on for these many months.

Glancing out at the curb in front of his house, he wonders how much longer the old crate parked there can hang together. Detroit tells him they're sorry, but they don't know how long it will be before they can present him with a new one. In the meantime he'll have to get along with the street railway system, which is awaiting word from somebody regarding new rolling stock, too.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

IT IS interesting to watch what happens to notebooks and their contained notes as the semester progresses. The process of evolution w s never more consistent, and no m morphesis ever so complete.

The whole thing starts when the student purchases his brand-new, beautifully fine notebook. In which, he resolves, he will pen the best, most complete, most coherent notes in the class. The first day of class, everything progresses beautifully. Statements are put down according to the rules of the Harvard outline system, and neat I's, II's, and III's, liberally scattered with A's, B's, and C's cover the page in a fine hand.

The second day, the instructor goes into a background discussion, and the student isn't quite sure whether that should be included in his notes or not. After some deliberation, he decides against it, and uses the page for a beautiful abstract drawing instead.

The third meeting proves somewhat successful in that half a page is written, although the outline system is forgotten in the hurry to get the facts down where they are visible. The other half-page is occupied by a lovely flower pot, and the margins with an interesting bit of correspondence carried on with a next-seat neighbor.

By the time mid-terms rear their ugly heads, and studying must be done, the notebook is in a bad way—its pages smeared, little notes here and there with no possible way of telling to which subject they belong, and a very lovely collection of art work.

Thank heaven they print text books that can be read as a last resort and that notes can be borrowed from the "good kid" at the end of the row.

• • •

Organized search parties have been formed to try to retrieve the greatest loss of the century.

Students of the college have, as evidence shows, lost their goals and objectives, and until they find them again, may not be the composed and self-confident individuals the psychologists of today believe they should be. Therefore, last week and this the trek was made down to the maroon-and-green room that formerly satisfied other appetites, and the grand search has been going on ever since.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Permanence of Hurley Village Questioned; Free Periods Wasted

• Million Dollar Eenterprise

Editor, The Guardsman:

I would like some facts! What makes the public think that Hurley Village is only temporary? There have been a dozen so-called "temporary dwellings" erected in San Francisco within the last six years. These places do not look so "temporary" to me. What manner of man would tear down a million dollar enterprise, when he could get all the tenants he'd ever want?

I've heard some people say that these houses will have to be torn down and more erected in order to compete with permanent ones that are being built. This, I think, is ridiculous. There will always be people looking for cheap shelter, and while these people are to be had, these dwellings will continue to exist.

Any true San Franciscan knows what I mean and what this situation will eventually lead to.

I do not wish to leave the wrong impression. I do believe that the Veteran's Housing Administration is doing a wonderful job and should keep up the good work, but I would like to see, in writing, some proof that these houses are only temporary.

A Native Son

• Time Filling Schedule

Editor, The Guardsman:

In these times of reconversion to peacetime conditions, when minutes are valuable, it seems to us that some new "time filling" schedule should be adopted. It is rather unfortunate that so many valuable hours need be wasted by students of this college who can not obtain a satisfactory schedule of classes that will not permit too much time to lapse in between instruction periods.

We know that the faculty is not to blame for the present arrangement, but we feel that there must be some way in which this faulty system can be altered.

The sooner action is taken, the sooner our educational problems will be solved.

Lillian Witt
Dorothy Schimmel

Editor's note: Our suggestion to students caught with several free periods in between classes it that they study in the library, or in the student lounge on the West Campus.

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Cetudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR...June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavanor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adelo Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Nello Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyden, Harold Ivan Del Pichon, William Rilej, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marq Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Staten Webster, Dayton Lawson.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 8 TUESDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1946 Page 3

RETURN TO DYNAMITE FORM is one reason why Art Eckdall, ex-Polytechnic High School speedster, is one of the loop's best performers.—Photo by Lustig.

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

REPORTS from the practice field have it that the "poor little" Lamb squad, on various occasions, has outplayed its big brothers in daily skirmishes. Come next season, these Jayvees should be well qualified for spots on the senior eleven.

HIGH PRESSURE

Those Block Society members really turned on the steam in selling bids to their dancial extravaganza scheduled for next Friday night in the student lounge. The Fuller Brush Company should look up some of these boys. If you want to find out how many kids are not buying tickets to said shindig, just count the broken arms!

TRAVELIN' COACH

Lee Eisan, varsity football mentor, journeyed all the way to New Yawk to officiate at the Fordham-St. Mary's grid gigantic last Saturday. That's what you call being a real all around guy. Next week Murmansk A.C. takes on Stalingrad Abnormal. How about it Lee, can you make it?

TRACK HOPES

Track Coach Jim Jensen has a smile on his face these days. And little wonder. Almost the entire Polytechnic championship cinder squad of 1945 has found its way to this Hilltop institution. Seen wandering the halls are such sprintmen as George Ow, Jim Wyatt and Hank Judnick, top sprinters in any man's league. Bob Zarick and Bob Felizzatto, 440 and hurdle specialists, placed high in competition with trackmen from all over San Francisco. Yes, Mr. Jensen, we can see why you're smiling.

Art Eckdall Elected Block SF President

At the first meeting held by the Block Society this semester, the 13 members present elected the new officers for this semester. The new officers are Art Eckdall, president; Carter Cory, vice-president; Don Grant, secretary, an Ed Bryant treasurer.

Most important event on the society's calendar is the dance being given on Friday night, October 25. The money obtained from this dance will finance the Los Angeles trip for football players not among the 30 going to the clash at Los Angeles on November 2.

It was announced that all block lettermen of the college are eligible to participate in the Block Society activities.

The Women

Here It Is, How To Catch Your Man; Gentlemen Prefer Slam Bang Athletes

By Nancy Nagle

Gentlemen once preferred blondes, but according to a recent women's physical education department news release, this has all been changed, and gentlemen now prefer sporty, athletic types of women.

Now instead of calling up a luscious, curvaceous blonde, complete with built-in sweeping lashes, Oriental-like blood red fingernails, and slender trim ankles, the young man interested in women takes his phone in one hand, his little black book in the other, decides that Friday night he wants to go bowling—looks under "B" and calls the women who fall under the bowling classification.

The dainty femme fatale turns out to be a slick chick—with short curly hair, muscles galore (from bowling, playing tennis, and swimming hours daily), but with a tres chic figure, to boot. She rates first with young Cassanova because she can bowl a mean game—at least 267 on her off days. Cass (his nick-name) being another bowler from 'way back, likes this sort of dish.

"Dancing," he says, "is OK, but give me a bowling alley any day."

The same goes for men interested in tennis, swimming, badminton, and Oh-h-h-h so many other sports.

A girl can't go on a picnic now, pack a delicious lunch and then sit around and add her beauty to the already beautiful scenery provided by Mother Nature.

She must instead not only pack a lunch containing chicken-fried to the yummiest degree, but also be able to hold her own when it comes time to play softball.

A physical educational department might be changed to "How To Get A Man" department, and then women enrolling in college would enroll only in Home Econ X3c (packing picnic lunches), HTGM courses in above-mentioned sports, plus a short course in conversation—bringing out highlights in various world situations, World Series games, power of various football teams throughout the country.

Of course, economics, history, English, and philosophy, would be eliminated from a well-educated college woman's curriculum, but a married woman trying to raise 11 starving, yowling children, doesn't really care whether photosynthesis has to do with plant life or not, or whether the Byzantine Empire collapsed in 1936 or somewhat earlier.

WAA

Hockey Club To Meet Sacramento City College; New Fall Managers Elected

Sacramento City College will be hosts to 15 Women's Athletic Association hockey club members who will travel to that city on Saturday, November 2, for the first hockey play day of the semester, Francis Scilipoti, WAA president announced.

Richmond Union High School will play practice hockey games with the WAA club on Saturday, October 31, on the men's field here, before the club leaves for Sacramento, Miss Scilipoti added.

Annette E. (Fritz) Wardin, a graduate of Richmond Union High School was elected manager of the hockey club during the first meeting last week, Miss Scilipoti revealed.

Although an announcement was printed in The Guardsman last Tuesday stating that archery clubs would meet any hour from 10 to 1 on Fridays, the time has been changed to Friday at 10 a.m. and will continue through the College Hour, Miss Scilipoti said.

Alma Pucci, graduate of Oakland Technical High, was appointed last week to fill the vacancy of secretary in the organization, Miss Scilipoti revealed. Miss Pucci is also an active participant in WAA hockey, badminton and tennis.

Enrollment in the tennis club has increased 50 per cent, Gloria Swiegood, club faculty adviser announced. There are now 15 women enrolled in the activity.

At the first meeting of the tennis club, Audrey Morris, a graduate of Balboa High School, was elected manager, and Dee Roberts, a graduate of Richmond High School, was elected badminton manager. Further managers will be announced as they are elected, Miss Swiegood said.

A general meeting of all WAA members will be held during the College Hour today in the women's gymnasium, and all members are requested by Miss Scilipoti to attend.

WHIRLING DERVISH is ponderous Marshall Leong, lead-footed local fullback with yardage on his mind. Leong prepped at Mission.—Photo by Lustig.

Jayvees

Lamb Squad To Meet UC Ramblers, State

The Ram "B" team, affectionately called the Lambs, will make its 1946 pigskin debut Tuesday, November 26, when it takes on a highly rated California University Ramblers.

Other contests highlighting the Lamb schedule include San Francisco State's Jayvees on Friday, November 1, and Oakland Army Supply Depot, Saturday, November 9.

Judging from the Lambs' performance against their big brothers in scrimmages, much can be expected in the college football department.

Coach Grover Klemmer expressed optimism in his views for the coming season. Several men were pointed out as exceptional, although the whole team functions as a very well knit organization.

Standing out in the backfield are George Urbano and Harry Carlie. Both show the promise that makes them definite 1947 varsity material.

Gene Roger, Bob Parnow, and Bill Koenig form the nucleus of an formidable a line as a rooter could want to meet.

Since the varsity coach has the power to grab up any likely looking prospect and place him on the senior eleven, Coach Klemmer can never be sure of what his lineup will be from day to day. There is no fear however that he will not do adequately with the material he has on hand.

The only collegiate meeting between the Rams and their cross-town rivals, the Gators from San Francisco State, will be this "B" team skirmish at Lake Merced Field.

Football

Eckdall and Co. Top Modesto 14-0

Modesto, Oct. 20 — Sustained ground maneuvers and the arc light generalship of Halfback Art Eckdall enabled the Rams to batter Modesto Junior College, 14 to 0, here last night in view of 2000 bleacherites.

Eckdall passed 16 yards to Wingman Roland Stern for marker number one in the first period, and Staten Webster sliced over from the two in the final canto. Len Hoffman converted both extra points.

In nabbing their third straight conference win, the Rams netted 319 yards via passing and rushing to Modesto's 98, and tripped the Bues in first downs, 17 to 6.

San Mateo Bulldogs Next Gridiron Foe

The coming clash with the Bulldogs from San Mateo will be the first since 1941. After some uncertainty, the game will be played Friday afternoon, October 25, at 3:15, at the Balboa High School field, Onondaga and Cayuga Streets.

The Bulldogs in their first bid for victory were cowed to the tune of 18 to 0 by Marin Junior College. On their second attempt they growled over a scrappy Merchant Marine eleven 12 to 8. On the NCJCC Schedule they have yet to play, the outcome of their game with Sacramento this week will be of large interest to many persons around this campus.

From past performances the Ram-Bulldog clash will be a nip and tuck battle all the way with tradition as well as conference standing at stake.

Remaining games on the Ram Varsity schedule are as follows:

October 25—San Mateo Junior College—here.

November 2—Los Angeles City College—there.

November 8—Modesto Junior College—here.

November 22—Sacramento Junior College—here.

November 29—San Mateo Junior College—there.

Intra Cage Tourney Starts; Football Signups Due Friday; Ping Pong Next

The curtain will rise on intramural activity this afternoon in the men's gymnasium, with five basketball games scheduled to start the festivities.

Action will start at 4 o'clock with the Lambs facing the Chinese Social Club, the Ramblers meeting the XGI squad and the Operators tangling with the Buccaneers.

At 5 o'clock, the East Bay Trotters take the floor against the Portals, while the Poops match buckets with the Tigers.

One League, Ten Games

The teams have been formed into one league, with each team playing 10 games. Games will be played every Tuesday and Thursday with medals being awarded to the winners and runner up.

The deadline for entries for the touch-tackle football tournament has been extended to this Friday, October 25, intramural director Tom Wilson announced today. Each team will be allowed nine men, six men to start and three substitutes. Entries must be handed to Wilson in the men's gymnasium.

Competition will be either round robin or elimination, according to the number of entries received. Games will be played between 3 and 5 o'clock on days to be set at a later date.

Complete Schedule Posted

The complete schedule and rules for the tournament will be posted on the main bulletin boards in the gymnasium and the main building.

Intramural Football Entries Due October 25

Name of team represented .....

Manager of Team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Name of Players: 1 .....
2 .....
3 .....
4 .....
5 .....
6 .....
7 .....
8 .....
9 .....

Signed .....
(Team Manager)

Wilson further announced that all men students interested in playing ping pong should sign up for either the doubles or singles tournament in the physical education office before Friday, November 1.

Competition will be on an elimination basis, with medals for the winners and runner up.

Ping-Pong Any Time

Play will be permissible any hour of the day with the consent of both opponents. Winners will be determined by winning two out of three games, with the games to be played to 21 points. Games will be forfeited if they are not played on schedule.

Basketball comes back into the spotlight on Thursday, November 24, with five more games being played on the courts in the men's gymnasium.

Scheduled to be played at 4 o'clock: Lambs vs. XGI
Chinese Social Club vs. Buccaneers
Ramblers vs. Tigers
Scheduled to be played at 5 o'clock: Operators vs. Portals
East Bay Trotters vs. Los Vaqueros
Poops—Bye

Counselling

Service Credit To Aid XGI During Current Semester

Veterans, yesterday began trekking across to the West Campus and into the Veterans' Counseling Center, to file their applications for military credit toward graduation.

Credit amounting to six units is given for Army Basic Training alone, while certain service schools, which the veteran may have attended, earn even more.

A schedule to facilitate handling the vast number of veteran students is in force, with those whose surnames falling under the A to G group, reporting this week. The schedule extends to Friday, November 15, which is the final filing day for ex-servicemen and women whose names come under the S to Z category.

Evidence of training claimed must be presented at the time of filing, and can include Form 100, Form 553, and similar documentary proof.

The filing for college credit applies to all honorably discharged veterans and may, in some cases, apply to former merchant seamen, who attended Maritime schools.

Rutledge Now Manager Of Stanford Village

Carl Rutledge, former hotel student at San Francisco Junior College, is now manager of Stanford University's Stanford Village, formerly Dibble General Hospital.

Working with Rutledge at Stanford Village as his assistant is Dave Massingham, also a former hotel student.

Prep Diplomas

Prospective Grads To File Petitions

Students who have yet to receive their high school diplomas and are interested in receiving diplomas at the end of the current semester are advised to file high school graduation petitions this week.

The petitions will be available at the Excelsior Branch, as well as Building 3, West Campus.

By filing this week, students will give the counselors a chance to check and determine the students' eligibility.

West Student Lounge New Scene Of Socials

By Harold Levy

An old but still dormant request for a place to stretch may find its answer in the newest addition to the West Campus area, The Student Lounge. At least that was the current supposition, as the lounge threw its doors open Thursday to present a woman's "tannic acid and water" fete.

Not alone restricted to teas, however, is the new lounge. Amid warnings that rules relating to the use of the building must be complied with, Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, and Edward E. Sandys, dean of men, painted encouraging pictures of other social events soon to make their appearance there.

The lounge, which occupies the ground floor of the administration building, will couple its facilities as a social center, with the duty of serving as a study hall. For those students who persevere in this field, a special room adjacent to the main hall will provide the necessary space and silence.

The Other Side

Women Find Roads Of Progress Lined With Male "Silver Pole Chin Busters"

By Adelle Reinisch

Last week a vitriolic penster on this paper elaimed that some bumblesnouted character named Hoim lost his head (literally) in the vicinity of the main building, front and center. Checking his story against the facts, one comes to the conclusion that Hoim must have lost his head long before he ever came near this hilltop resort.

How could itsy bitsy Flossie Freshwoman, who hardly possesses great physical powers, do those oversized males any harm? She certainly can't get through the mob if they can't. She has to depend on just gently squeezing her way through.

And squeeze she does, and squeezed she is! She tries to worm her way in between two 6'4"s who have evidently just met for the first time since they ran a footrace up the Champs-Elysees and are pounding each other on the head to show in what esteem they hold the fond memory. Flossie can only ooze herself off to a less promisingly packed group.

She spies a scholarly looking chap with a determined chin and says to herself, "That looks like a way through!" So she grabs hold of his shirtail and shuts her eyes.

She has great difficulty holding on to that precious shirtail, and even when she feels two of her ribs crack slightly, she does not wince. Her curling locks proceed to uncurl under the unfavorable conditions, and her skirt does a complete twirl about her body.

Determined to get her bearings, she tosses her head back to remove her hair from her eyes and finds her chin on the receiving end of a good-sized dictionary whose owner had doubtless sent it on its mission with the best of intentions. Gentleman-like, the apology is perfuse.

"Chee, Joe, cancha try ta catch bettern that, huh?"

About ten minutes after the bell has rung she finally feels less pressure at her sides. She inhales, just to see if she remembers how. She decides it is safe to open her eyes, and does so just in time. In another minute she would have made that fatal right-hand turn and landed square in the men's wash room!

Quickly dropping the guiding shirtail, she stops to take stock of her belongings. Just the usual bruises, fractures, and one more tooth to add to her growing pile in the dresser drawer, thinks she.

As she takes her first step in the direction of her supposedly-waiting class, however, it dawns on her that "something new has been subtracted."

She looks down, and there they aren't. Where once has reposed a very purposeful pair of gleaming white saddle shoes, there now remains two degenerate, grey-bordering-on-black bobby sox from which peek ten decidedly irritated toes.

So there she sits, gaily singing "this little piggy went to market, this little piggy went to Junior College, etc," and will no doubt be carried away on the crest of the tide of athletes as they descend on the corridor when the big hand of the clock once again reaches its peak.

Educated Third Degree

Beaten Bumblesnoot Rated Sub-Moron By Battery Of Sympathizing Professors

By Del Pichon

While perusing a recent issue of The Guardsman, ex T-5 Hoim Bumblesnoot's eyes suddenly focused upon an interesting, and extremely volatile subject, the vocational interest examinations.

"Cheez! Dis is swell," Hoim can find out what I'm going to be. I always did want to know anyway."

On the day and at the time appointed, our hero appeared promptly in the old cafeteria to take his tests. He was handed test after test, but nothing daunted, Hoim applied himself assiduously to each examination until he had completed the entire battery. Then wearied by the tremendous concentration required to complete the tests, he left.

In a few days Hoim was called into the office of one of the psychologists analyzing the results of the tests for each individual. As Hoim entered the office, he was greeted cordially and offered a seat, which he accepted.

The psychologist glanced at Hoim's test results, then said, "Bumblesnoot, it is evident from the results of these reliable examinations that your cerebral cortex is similar in size and capacity to that of a member of the Anopheles family bordering on the sub-moronic level."

"Maybe dat's why I'm so smart," Hoim interjected.

expostulated gleefully, "Now I

"In light of this," continued the psychologist unnoticingly, "I think that you should apply yourself to the field of manual ampidexterity requiring no cerebral coordination, but offering none-the-less, remuneration capable of sustaining one member of the species homo saplens. I would suggest that you go into the agronomic branch of this service, that is, the removal and the subsequent replacement of the principal agronomic constituent . . . dirt!"

"Do you mean . . . !" Hoim began.

"Exactly!" replied the psychologist.

"No! No! Not that! Not . . . !" Hoim was cut short as the nameless terror cutched his heart. Suddenly he began to weep and sobbed out, "No! I can't do it!"

"I'm sorry, but that's the way it is," said the psychologist motioning to two burly men. "You are going to have to go to work!"

"No! No! Not work!" screamed Hoim hysterically as the two men led him away kicking and clawing at them viciously. "No! Not work . . . aagh!"

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

• Newman Club . . . The semi-annual Communion Breakfast was held on October 20 following the 9 o'clock Mass at St. Emydius Church.

• Symphony Forum . . . The forum will meet today during the college hour in Room 208. Martha Lee, president, announces a business meeting and election of officers.

• Music Club . . . A representative from Granat Bros. will be present today at the meeting during the college hour to display the club pins. Jane Swendson was elected president at the last election.

• Theta Tau . . . There will be a business meeting Wednesday night. Plans for the second rush will be discussed.

• Kappa Phi . . . All member are invited to attend a dinner honoring Mary Jane Forse, recently married, at the Riviera Restaurant. The second rush affair was held last Sunday.

• TZN . . . A social house party will be held Saturday, October 26, at 2219 North Point Street, at 8:30 p.m. College hour meetings will be held in Room 311.

Choir Meets Thursday Noon At Student Lounge

A Cappella Choir members will meet this Thursday at 12 o'clock in the Student Lounge, Building 2 on the West Campus, for an early semester social gathering.

Gene MacGowan, manager of the choir, in making the announcement, pointed out that the main purpose of the gathering is to acquaint new members with the choir.

"Usually," he said, "the choir has a picnic or a dinner at the end of a semester when some are bound to leave college. This semester we want to 'get acquainted' early."

Punch and cookies, possibly an informal program, are on the menu.

Ducat Sales Zoom For Block Society Dance

Campus sports will back the first benefit affair of the fall semester Friday, October 25, when the Block SF Society sponsors an informal dance in the Student Lounge on the West Campus, starting at 8 p.m.

Held to finance the expenses of several players who would normally be excluded by the college's policy, the dance will be a sports affair, with Bob Emerson at the band stand.

Art Ekdall, president of the society, has been urging all students to buy a ticket whether or not they are planning to attend the dance.

Tickets are now on sale throughout the campus. The price of admission is 55 cents for men and 30 cents for women. Couples will be admitted on the purchase of an 85 cent ticket.

Final preparations for the affair are being handled by a committee composed of Paul Dotur, Glen Smith, and Al Drake. The "no corsage" rule will be the order of the evening, according to Ekdall.

Holiday Season Jobs Still Available Here

With the holiday season almost here, applications are being taken by Joseph Amori, placement officer, for holiday jobs at winter resorts, the post office, railway express, and department stores.

Amori stated that the general wage scale has been raised, with holiday and part-time student workers receiving $1.00 an hour.

Those students wishing placement should not delay in seeing Amori in the placement office, Room 167.

College Hour

"Townie Spirit" To Feature Friday Ram, Mateo Rally

Unprecedented collegiate spirit is the byword of Al Moffat, rally commissioner, who tops the Friday limelight with a pigskin rally heralding the game with San Mateo Junior College.

Weather permitting, the rally will be held out-of-doors at 10:45 a.m. during the college hour.

Undefeated in the conference cycle, the Rams look to the first rally in three weeks to set the pace for another possible victory.

Appearing for the first time at a campus gridiron fest, the college band, under the direction of Madison Devlin, music instructor, will inject a bit of musical adrenalin into fans at the game.

Although they still lack uniforms, the "musical pace-makers" are ready, willing, and able to give out with the Ram fight song this Friday, according to Devlin.

Moffat set the dates for the next two rallies on Friday, November 8, and Friday, November 22, during the college hours, with club meetings scheduled for November 15 and December 13.

The final schedule of college hours has not yet been completed, but there will be an hour set aside each Friday throughout the semester, according to plans made by the administration.

College To Observe Am. Education Week

Tentative plans are under way for the college's participation in American Education Week, November 10 to 16, President A. J. Cloud announced this week.

Following a community-gathering dinner in the cafeteria of the former WAVES' barracks will be the adjournment to the Administration building for a panel discussion on modern problems, discussed by three or four instructors in social studies and science classes. Date of the event has not yet been disclosed.

Plans are also under way for a broadcast to be given by college radio students over a local network in observance of the week.

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS
Granat Bros.
SHREVE TREAT & EACKET

B & L RADIO SERVICE
HOME AND AUTO RADIO SALES AND SERVICE
OWNED BY EX-JC STUDENT
377 Jules Ave. At Ocean
JUniper 4-3019

RICHMAN-SEID Ltd.
CAMPUS CASUALS
For Men and Women
SAN FRANCISCO'S SMARTEST SUBURBAN SHOP LOCATED IN LAKESIDE VILLAGE
2666 Ocean Avenue Near 19th Avenue

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1946 No. 9

College Hour Schedule
9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

Rally

Back Court 'Spirit Tuneup' Today At 10:45 Heralds Big Game With Invading Bulldogs; Afternoon Classes Excused

Pre-game spirit for the first game with San Mateo Junior College since 1941 gets a fast whirl this morning during the college hour at 10:45, when Al Moffat, Rally Commissioner, emcees a football rally on the back court (weather permitting).

With the college band as a headlining item on the program, the rally precedes the fourth conference game for the undefeated Rams. Tentative plans issued by Commissioner Moffat slate the Benard Brothers from the Bal Tabarin on the entertainment platter.

For this first game with the south-of-the-county line neighbors in five years, 3, 4 and 5 o'clock classes will be dismissed "for the last time this semester" by administrative order of J. Paul Mohr, college vice-president. Mohr stressed the fact that all 6 o'clock classes, and those later, will convene as usual.

Making its first appearance on the campus gridiron, the college band, under the direction of instructor Madison Devlin, will beat the brass as the Rams and the Bulldogs compete for the big Tom Tom trophy.

Because Friday, November 1, is the last day of mid-term week, the Administration has announced that there will be no college hour on that day. This schedules the next college hour for Friday, November 8, when a football rally will be held.

Social

Block Men Sponsor Benefit Hop Tonight

Turf trippers throw out the lifeline tonight to their fellow pigskin artists at a sports dance scheduled for the Student Lounge, Building 2, on the West Campus at 8 p.m., when the Block SF Society, under Art Ekdall, president, sponsors a benefit affair.

Financing the journeys of those football players who would otherwise be unable to attend the game with Los Angeles, the dance brings Bob Emerson as the maestro.

Kick-off of the evening will come when the football team renders asunder a few musical numbers. This will come during the intermission, according to Ekdall, giving guests time to recuperate.

Strictly Sports Decreed

A strictly sports affair, the dance brings the West Campus into the limelight for a second time as the scene for a social fling.

Since the dance is a benefit gathering, the committee in charge, composed of Paul Dotur, Glen Smith, and Al Drake, urged all students to buy tickets, whether or not they are planning to attend.

The price of admission is 55 cents for men and 30 cents for women. Couples will be admitted on the purchase of an 85 cent ticket.

Ekdall reminded students the "no corsage" rule will be in effect.

San Mateo Invited

It is hoped by the Block SF Society that the San Mateo team will remain for the dance, "If," Ekdall added, "they will be able to make it."

Atomic Age Is Subject Of Panel Discussion

Education for the Atomic Age has been chosen as the general theme for a panel discussion to be held here in the Administration Building on the West Campus during American Education Week, November 10 to 16.

The discussion, following a community-gathering dinner in the cafeteria, is being held as the college's participation in American Education Week.

The Atomic power discovery is a turning point in human affairs and the destiny of the world is in its hands. How the United States can lead the way in the use of this power will be one of the questions that members of the discussion group will try to answer.

Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud, invited all who are intcrested to attend this gathering.

NBC Plugs United Nations Week

Launched by the National Broadcasting Company, United Nations Week ends tomorrow. Besides the network plans, many independent radio stations have celebrated the week with special programs and events planned to create interest in the United Nations Assembly in New York.

Several national organizations are cooperating with the National Broadcasting Company on the United Nations project.

Faculty

Noble Joins General MacArthur In Korea

Glen A. Noble, head of the biological science department at the college, left by plane Friday for Korea to join as a civilian member the advisory staff of General Douglas MacArthur.

Noble, an authority in his field, received his appointment to advise MacArthur and his staff on the biological problems of the country, through Washington.

Qualified for his new position, Noble was born in Korea, the son of missionary parents. He studied there until he returned to the States to enter the University of California, where he received his A.B. degree. Noble received his doctor's degree in the field of biological science at Stanford.

An instructor at the college since 1935, Noble will be succeeded as head of the science department by Kenneth L. Hobbs.

Noble is expected to return to the college in a year, when his appointment to the staff expires, according to J. Paul Mohr, vice-president of the college.

Placement

Job Meeting On West Campus Thurs.

Both men and women students who desire Christmas Holiday jobs are invited to attend a meeting in the Student Lounge, Building 2, on the West Campus on Thursday, October 31, Joseph Amori, Placement Officer at the college, announced today.

Jobs will be offered in the Post Office, Railway Express, department stores, and at Yosemite. The wage scales for these jobs have been increased, Amori said.

Students are warned that employers will not hire San Francisco Junior College students without proper credentials from the Placement Office.

Approximately 500 students have been placed in full or part-time jobs by the Placement Office, Amori stated.

Students have been given jobs in insurance offices, banks, department stores, service stations, factories, bakeries, soda fountains, restaurants and many other positions.

The Placement Office, which has just moved into its new offices in the Administration Building, still has many openings for students who desire work.

Women, experienced or inexperienced, are urgently needed for sales work in the afternoons and on Saturdays.

Work is scheduled in shifts, so students may continue classwork without undue hardships. Shifts are arranged at the following hours: 8 a.m. to 12 noon, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Associated Students

Council Names Judiciary Committee Of Five, Force Of 13 To Enforce Campus Regulations; Journal Decision Pending

Spotlight of the Student Council meeting last Tuesday shown on the Judiciary Committee and "force". A group of 13, composed of Don Burger, Bernie Davis, Frank Grant, Bob Winegardner, Bill Buckley, Mark Atweed, Harold Friedman, Frank Nelson, Jane Doran, Jackie Faxon, Tillie Toy, Claire Levesque, and Pat Sheerin, was appointed by Dean Haug to act as a force to enforce the rules of the committee.

A committee consisting of Burger, Grant, Buckley, Miss Doran and Miss Levesque was selected from the larger group to serve as a reviewing board to determine the course of action to be taken against student offenders.

Burger Heads Group

Burger, appointed chairman of both groups, moved that the larger be called the Judiciary Force and the smaller the Judiciary Committee. The motion was carried unanimously.

Once again discussion of the proposed journal fired the opening gun when Ray Bisio, yearbook committee chairman, stated that he had submitted a request for an estimate to Trover Hall Printers for a 115 page clothbound journal.

President Haug referred Bisio "to Mr. Redford, head of the Veterans' Counseling," in regard to the possibility of veterans purchasing journals at half price.

PA System Purchased

A public address system has been purchased for $293.87. Al Moffat, rally commissioner, volunteered his time and car for transportation and care of the P.A. system until definite plans could be made for its handling.

Associated Men Student President Bill Helmes asked that ten per cent of the club receipts from the Mardi Gras be turned over to the AMS to help finance its forthcoming barn dance. The council refused this request.

Frank Nelson, AMS vice-president, mentioned that cars are being tagged for double parking in front of the student store.

Five Volunteers Here Join Chest Campaign

Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud, announced last week that five students have responded to the appeal for volunteers for the Community Chest campaign, with a goal reaching $3,350.000.

The five students are from the business 135 class and are Lorraine Lucas, Bud Goldman, Stanley Fullalove, Charles Wood, and Paul Kyle.

Luckmann asked that as many more volunteers as possible apply to his office, Room 123. The college is responsible for five districts and should make a good showing, Luckmann said.

The Community Chest supports agencies for health service, public welfare, and the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

CAB

Recognition Denied Student Unity Club

Acceptance of one organization and rejection of another were voted by the Club Advisory Board at its last meeting.

Unanimous approval was given the Student Christian Association's charter, and a vote of 13 to 4 marked rejection of the Student Unity Club, affiliated with the American Youth for Democracy.

A heated disscussion emerged as John Tolley, CAB vice-president, declared that the Student Unity Club had communistic tendencies and based his statement on J. Edgar Hoover's and Walter Winchell's reports.

Jerome Vogel, representing the SUC at the meeting, declared, "All meetings and activities will be on the campus and we are primarily concerned with stimulating unity among the students of the college."

Rejection of the SUC is the second dealt this organization in its application for official recognition by the college.

The Student Christian Association is affiliated with the Y.M.C.A. of San Francisco and will chiefly promote sport, religious, and social aspects of the club.

Club charter applications must first go before the CAB, and, on the board's recommendation, the Student Council gives final approval before a club is officially active and recognized by the Associated Students. This action is provided by the constitution.

This semester's CAB officers are Pat Pollack, president; Tolley, vice-president; and Jo Ellen Cain, secretary.

Symphony Forum Sets Semester Objectives

The Symphony Forum last week resumed activities for this semester under the direction of Flossita Badger, faculty adviser, and Martha Lee, student president of the group.

Supported by the San Francisco Musical Association, which backs groups in most colleges in the Bay Area, the forum hears speakers and artists at meetings held at various institutions.

For the next two weeks the members of the forum will try to advance the sales of season tickets to a special series of student concerts. These tickets are on sale at the college bank.

There is absolutely no charge involved in becoming a member of the club as there are no dues. The only requisite that a tentative member must possess is a genuine appreciation of fine music and a small amount of time needed to attend the meetings.

The first meeting of the current season will be held in the West Campus Student Lounge November 13 at 2 p.m. At this time the group will be entertained by a featured soloist sent by the Symphony Association. All members of the student body as well as the faculty are invited.

AGS Active In Campus Social Life

By Adele Reinisch

Even if one does have a brain, there is still lots of fun to be had. This was the theme formulated by the college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, at its second meeting of the semester last Friday, where the group chose as its president, Nancy Stookey.

After having held elections and elevated into office, in addition to Miss Stookey, Adele Rogers, vice-president, and Adele Reinisch, secretary, members discussed the club's plans for various activities this semester.

Included among the proposals were plans to take an active part in the forthcoming Associated Men Student Mardi Gras by sponsoring a booth that will feature throwing darts at balloons.

Continuation of the service of supplying tutors for veterans, as well as for any other students requesting help in their various subjects, was assured this semester. Students may be assigned a tutor by getting in touch with either Miss Stookey or the faculty advlser for AGS, Edwin Cranston.

That the society plans shortly to move to new headquarters on the West Campus was announced by Cranston at the meeting.

"It is hoped," he said, "that the organization will be assigned to one of the vacant rooms in building No. 12. As soon as we are settled in our new quarters we will be in a better position to function as a unit and thus centralize our activities and give better service to the college as a whole as well as to our own members."

The new clubroom will be used as a private study hall for members and will also serve as a retreat and recreation hall where they and their guests will be welcome.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 9 Friday, October 25, 1946 Page 2

Grade "A" Beef

Hue And Cry On Exams Arise

MID-TERMS, as always, are creating a stir in the college this semester. However, this time it is for an entirely different reason than before.

Previously the hue and cry was for the "replacement of mid-term examinations" by more frequent tests throughout the semester. Now the students would be satisfied merely by the postponement of mid-terms for a couple of weeks.

Seemingly deplorable conditions were existent at the San Francisco Junior College student book store at the beginning of the semester and many students were unable to obtain the required material for some of their courses.

Consequently, they have also been unable to keep up with the lessons assigned.

It is true that a postponement of the examinations would disrupt the semester's schedule. But on the other hand, it is unfair to make the students pay in undeserved poor grades for a "situation" for which they were in no way responsible.

Because of the existing conditions, it would be advisable to dispense with the mid-terms all together for this period, thus removing a burden from the shoulders of the harassed students.

No regulations of a college should be so "iron bound and unyielding" that they cannot be altered temporarily for the benefit of all concerned.

If this plan does not prove feasible in the minds of those in charge, it is hoped by all that all instructors will consider the plight of the student and grade all tests accordingly.

Ford

After Dark

NEWS comes that the trial of Edmund Wilson's book, Memoirs of Hecate County will be resumed in the near future. The same "vehicle" will be used in the person of Stewart P. Cunningham, San Francisco bookseller. The first trial ended 8-4 (8 in favor of acquittal) and the trial, being a criminal case (Under Section 311 of the Penal Code), requires a twelve-man verdict either way. People are still reading "Heck-Aty" in Pacific Grove with no abnormal results other than the installment of kitchen facilities for two hot meals a day in "taverns."

Tonight the Art in Cinema Series will feature the Animated Film As An Art Form and will include the early works of Viking Eggeling and Walt Disney, together with some unusual contemporary developments, with Hans Richter's RHYTHMUS 21. People wishing tickets should first phone Mrs. Hamilton at the San Francisco Museum of Art to ascertain the availability of tickets, otherwise, it's No Soap!

FLASH! HOT OFF THE PRESS BOOK SELECTIONS! Mrs. Tootwhistle's Invention by Peter Wells, and Muffin by Fritz Willis will hold great appeal for book store addicts and gin rummy players. They are obtainable at your nearest book dealer. Inquire at children's section.

The Blue Cow painted by Bud Dixson is one of the best things currently on exhibit at the Museum. Earth End (oil tempera) by William Hesthal, Night Journey (oil) by Giglio Dante (not of Inferno fame), G-String Sonata (oil) by John Haley, and Landscape In The Beauce, which is part of the Albert Bender collection by Maurice De Vlaminck are some of the other worthwhile paintings currently on exhibit. David B. Lyons also has a painting which will present somewhat of an enigma to "converts" of the impressionist school. It is called "Finale" and painted in oil, much after the manner of Salvidor Dali. This is one of the best exhibits that the Museum has had in a long time. Art students cannot afford to miss it!

An unusal cinema device (not a new one) in Henry V now at the new stage door theatre. The stage setting in the picture is an actual enlargement of an Elizabethian stage. It's never been tried before—of course, the English would think of it first . . . da-da!

Around And About

with Nagle

ANY observant student of this honorable institution will notice the obvious lack of manners displayed by both the stronger and by the weaker sex. Upon recognizing this fact, a great deal of research was done in an effort to improve the situation. The following therefore are observations received from reading books on manners—may they benefit all!

WHAT'S YOUR HANDLE?

Introduetions are always puzzling to both educated and uneducated folk. In reality they are very simple. An introduction should be arranged by a third responsible party, and via this phrase, "Miss Smith, allow me to present to you, Mr. Johns," or "Miss Smith, permit me to present you to Mr. Johns." An improvement on, "Hay, Gismo, what's your handle?"

SALUDOS AMIGOS

The bow is the proper mode of salutation to exchange between acquaintances in public. A gentleman raising his hat completely from his head, the lady with a bow or graceful inclination, accomplish the same purpose. Verbal salutations may properly be, "How d'ye do?" "How are you," "Good morning," or "Good evening." The latter two seem more appropriate, as it is rather absurd to ask the state of one's health and not stay for an answer. Surely these have no relation to the now popularized, "Hi, what's cookin'?", "What's new?", or "What's the deal, McNeal?", have they?

NO MORE SLANG

A gentleman never permits a phrase that approaches an oath to escape his lips in the presence of a lady. If he does so, his pretensions to good-breeding are completely shot forever.

Interjections of phrases as, "You know," "Don't you see?", "You understand?" ought to be avoided, as the listener may listen or not as he pleases, and should not be called to attention with such trite phrases, get me?

FINGERS BEFORE FORKS

Dinner—ah yes. Paper enough to curb the present newspaper shortage could have been scraped together from the reams written on meal-time manner. But here just a few highlights will be pointed out. The cliche "fingers were made before forks" is out-dated for eating asparagus, fowl, bird, steak, etc. If fingers were made before forks, so were wooden trenchers made before modern dinner service. Most of us seem to use modern dinner service, so the argument is OUT.

WORMS THAT SQUIRM

Of dancing, our etiquette book says: "Dancing is a very trifling and silly thing, but it is one of those established follies to which people of sense are sometimes obliged to conform—then they should be able to do it well." But, friends, more quotable quotes say, "graceful motion of the arms, giving of your hand, and putting off and putting on the hat genteelly are part of a gentleman's dancing."

The correct invitation to be used in asking a lady to dance is, "Shall I have the honor of dancing this set with you?" NOT, "Come on Chicken—start kickin'."

Upon reading the above the students no doubt will become so manner-conscious that even school authorities will wonder at the great change coming over the students, and award an Honor Degree in Politeness.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Elections In November Have A Meaty Appeal

NEXT month ushers in the silly season again, and this time it isn't limited to Southern California, but spreads out in all directions. Observers believe the Democratic goose is cooked; the donkey has already gone the way of all flesh on the hoof.

Candidates for election and re-election are hard pressed for new slogans, none of them dare dig up "A chicken in every pot" again; there have been too many chickens in too many pots to risk that one breaking loose again for awhile.

LOTS OF BEEF IN PLATFORM

But this doesn't mean however that meat won't be the prime issue at the next run for the votes. Republicans are already advocating within their ranks to change the party symbol from the old elephant to a healthy looking young Texas steer.

From now on in every kitchen in town will be permeated with the odor of frying T-bones from the stove and rosy compaign promises from the little radio on the corner shelf.

It will be a case of Worcestershire Sauce on the living room table and apple sauce on the kiloocycles.

CONVENTION SITES CHOSEN

The Republican national convention is already slated for the Chicago stockyards; the Democrats will convene in Petaluma to throw eggs at each other.

A GOP landslide is predicted and the winners will be astride the party bandwagon, a refrigerated you-know-what truck, to receive the plaudits of a gratified multitude—a shower of sawdust and butcher paper with the seal of approval of Good Housekeeping Magazine stamped thereon.

Significant of the strategy to be used by the opposition, Governor Warren refused a dinner invitation to honor a visit by Henry Wallace; remember him? Word got across the border that the ex-Secretary of Commerce is bringing all the fish that were thrown at him in Madison Square Garden for the feed. The Governor undoubtedly prefers to stay in Sacramento to accept a steak barbecue invite.

GIVE THE MAN A HAND

Fraternities and sororities of the college planning future weenie roasts at the beach are requested to devote one minute of the silence on such occasions in homage to Senator Taft, for elevating the hotdog to its former high social plane.

Gold from Fort Knox will be released in sufficient quantity to foot the bill for all such outings, and admission to any meat market can be had upon presentation of the right election card.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

SO much emphasis has been given to the large majority of students who are either veterans or "just plain students" on one stretch of their road to Shangri-La, that a few students who really deserve recognition have been completely neglected.

The scattered few are those much-to-be-admired persons who have not attended school for ten, fifteen or, in some cases, as much as twenty years, and who are now back at their studies trying to bridge the gap and keep pace with the more youthful beavers.

To these persons must go all the credit possible for their spunk, to say nothing of their ambition. Who says the older generation are past their best days? If conditions at the college are a basis for judgment, it's the younger folk who had better get a hustle on; they have the prospect of competition not only from those behind them and all around them, but also from those they would not so long ago have discounted as negligible.

One of the plucky mature "juniors" is a very charming lady who has not been at school for all of twenty-five years. In those years she has led a most interesting and useful life, but to her it was just "average", and now she is back in school brushing up on some of those much-coveted science courses.

She spent several years before the war as a missionary teaching English-speaking children in Hawaii the principles of the Christian world. Just before Pearl Harbor she arrived on the mainland of China, after somewhat mastering the dialect, but the advent of the war cut her activities short before they even had a chance to get a foothold, and she was back on this side of the ocean on the last passenger boat leaving Asiatic waters during the war.

Now the trials and tribulations of chemistry are the solutions she seeks, and she is by no means alone. However, the day may come, she feels, when those solutions may be just as valuable in her work as her practical experience has been heretofore.

Also enrolled in classes may be found ex-secretaries, ex-forest rangers, and even an ex-glass blower. The college is truly a melting pot of interests, and too much cannot be said in praise of these persons.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

CAB Kayoes Another; Further Expansion Asked; Male Blasts SF Co-Eds

• "Student Unity" Floored

Editor, The Guardsman:

I, as a member of the Student Unity Club, protest the action taken by the Club Advisory Board on Friday, October 18, 1946. We, in good faith, attempted to bring before the student body an inter-racial, inter-faith club with a would further democratic principles.

Because we are affiliated with the American Youth for Democracy which, by some, is supposed of being a Communistic organization, we were all immediately branded as "reds", after which a hurried vote was called for to determine our status.

Here prejudices by some members of the CAB; half-hearted interest in true school democracy, by others; a definite dislike, by a few, of AYD freedom standards are the real reasons behind their refusal. Ours is a club which holds no closed meetings; a club which is controlled by majority rule. Can any logical reason be brought forth to deny our club entrance to the SFJC?

Manuel Joffe

• Further Expansion

Editor, The Guardsman:

Now that the war is over, we seem to have expanded; but do we call moving into WAVES barracks expanding? Are these the proud, best buildings we are to have as our new and rightly recognized college?

Jim Benulin

• Greedy Women

Editor, The Guardsman:

It seems inevitable that greedy people will always violate the rights and privileges of people who should have them.

Take for instance, the female students at this college. They are mostly "girls" rather than even half mature women, and in contrast to the high percentage of veterans, the "girls" should not be going to college at this time.

Of course, there is nothing to stop "girls" from going to higher institutions of learning, but in the present situation, with the young men of our nation, who are returning or have returned from the bloody battlefields of the world, it would be the patriotic duty of the "girls" to relinquish their entry into college so an ambitious veteran may have a chance at education.

Herbert Levy

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR.....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavenor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Naglo, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Beyler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pitchon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Ken Raymond.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Staten Webster, Dayton Lawson, Doris Hall.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 9 FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1946 Page 3

"Sleeper" Looms In Ram, Mateo Tussle At Balboa Turf Today; Upset In Wind!

Intramural

Twelve Cage Clubs Battle For Tourney Fame Next Tuesday

With the last minute addition of the Tau Chi Sigma squad, the final number of teams playing in the intramural basketball tournament reach an even dozen when entries closed.

Boasting many former cage stars, this semester's play promises to be of high caliber.

Laying claim to numerous veterans from last semester, including first string all-intramural forward Leonard Simpson, the Panthers possess a well-balanced team both in offensive and defensive ability.

The Portal five will put a rugged team on the floor with such stars as Carter Corey, Art Ekdall and Don Bonnert. Jim Hughes, former Poly High guard and Bill Bahr, by way of the Galileo and Olympic Club quintets will cavort for the Los Vaqueros five.

Stiff competition will come from the Chinese Social Club. Many of its members played for the fast and tricky Gung Ho organization which finished near the top in last year's competition.

With each squad playing 11 games, the tournament will run to November 25.

Following is the schedule for next Tuesday, October 29.

Scheduled for 4 o'clock:
Lambs vs. Buceaneers
XGI vs. Tigers
Chinese Social Club vs. Portals

Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
Ramblers vs. Tau Chi Sigma
Operators vs. Los Vaqueros
Poops vs. East Bay Trotters

Cage Prospects Bright In Pre-Season Sign-Up

Ralph Hillsman, coach of the Ram basketball team, disclosed this week that despite pre-season pessimism this year's cage squad is shaping up into a formidable organization and that prospects looked unusually good for this early in the season.

Coach Hillsman is counting on the return of three veterans who saw action last year to bolster his squad. These men are Bill Hahn, Frank Ratto, and Deacon Jones. They are expected to form the nucleus of this year's aggregation.

Quite a large turnout is expected for basketball this semester. There is no doubt many a new man will turn out whom Coach Hillsman has yet to come across, and many may be waiting for the opening gong of the official practice to ring. Signups closed last Monday, with the actual practice set to start next Monday, October 28. Any tall man who thinks he has potential basketball ability is urged to try out.

The first league game is with Santa Rosa Junior College, and later on in the season the Rams are scheduled to play the University of California "Blues" in a preliminary to the California-Illinois contest.

All in all, the prospects of a successful season are enlightening, and in a few weeks present forecasts can be judged.

BOARD OF STRATEGY for San Mateo Junior College in the personages of Keith Bedford, halfback; Harold Robinson, center; Coach Murius McFadden and Lee Bissett; Jack Donaldson, fullback, and All Conference guard, Neil Bossemeyer.

Photo by Foreman's Camera Shop, San Mateo

Jayvees

Baby Lambs Face Cal Rambler Bees

Inauguration day for the Lambs will take place tomorrow when "the black sheep" of the local family face the University of California Rambler Reserves at Memorial Stadium, starting at 11:30 a.m.

The midget edition of the townie varsity will be facing unknown quality and quantity when it faces the Bears. Coached by Grover Klemmer—an ex-U.C. hombre himself—the Lambs will probably start an untested eleven.

"We don't know what the opposition has to offer," Klemmer said, "but you can be sure that we will try our best to win our first game."

Several third stringers from the provincial squad may make the trip across the bay to engage the Ramblers. Provided all goes well, reserves such as Izzy Biess, Manny Castro, Bill Cassidy, Kermit Kyle, and others may adorn the Lamb starting lineup.

WAA Selects Five Club Managers For Semester

Managers for the Women's Athletic Association clubs elected last Friday are Beatrice Kenny, archery club manager; Macy James and Vesta Gray, swimming club managers; Clydagh Enos, riding club manager; Frances Scilipoti, president of the WAA announced.

Members also appointed Hank Harley to the position of publicity manager for the club, Miss Scilipoti announced.

Plans are now being formulated for the Sectional Play-day to be held sometime during the spring semester, Miss Scilipoti said.

Inasmuch as several women have expressed a desire for a table tennis tournament, Miss Scilipoti announced that this activity has been included in the WAA sports schedule. Women interested in taking part in this activity should sign-up in the women's gymnasium. As soon as the required number have enrolled, an hour for playing will be arranged, Miss Scilipoti said.

Ralph Hillsman, Ram cage mentor, is a native of the Philippines, coming to the United States at the age of 6.

Ducat Deal

Mateo Grid Fray Free To A.S. Card Holders

Admission to the San Francisco-San Mateo game this afternoon falls in three groups, Assistant Dean Jack Brady said today.

Ram rooters will enter the Balboa High School field without charge provided they present an Associated Student card.

San Mateo rooters will pay 50 cents with their Associated Student card.

General admission costs $1.00.

Northern California Junior College Conference rules of admission provide that the home team may determine admission charges for its own team rooters and charge up to 50 per cent of the general admission plus membership card for students from the opposing college.

Big Game "Tom-Tom" To Winner of Big Game

San Mateo, Oct. 25—A Chinese "tom tom" will be presented the winner of the second football clash between San Mateo and San Francisco Junior Colleges, according to Bob Stanger, student body president here.

The "tom tom", donated by Sonny Lewis, assistant head yell leader, is to have an embossed Bulldog on one end and a Ram's head on the other end.

Although the tradition has been of sportsmanship nature during the past years, the possession of the "tom tom" will enliven the spirit existing between the two colleges.

The presentation of the new award will be made at a later date to be decided by both colleges, according to Stanger. In their six years of gridiron rivalry each college has won three contests with the encounter today rated a tossup.

Cross country diet as prescribed In 1941 was—four parts carbohydrates to every one part fat.

• • •

Volleyball offers a strange combination of handball, basketball and tennis.

• • •

Helen Crienkovich Morgan, former national diving champion, attended the college in 19[illegible]

Locals Top Circuit Limelight At 3:15

By Bob Catudio

The neighborly San Matean toughie with sabotage on his mind comes into the Big City today searching for the over-confident Ram!

Analytically, it means the Big Game—the Rams meeting San Mateo Junior College this afternoon at Balboa Field starting at 3:15 with a packed gallery of 3,000 expected to witness the first inter-area clash since 1941.

Townies Have Edge

The townies, based on past performances, will hold a slight pregame edge over the Bulldogs, who last week upset the highly-touted Sacramento City College horde, 13 to 7.

"We still lack that so-called goal line drive," Lee Eisan, head master of the locals, entoned, "but with time we should overcome the fault. The boys are playing good ball and should be credited with all credit due them."

Only injury reported in the Modesto-Ram fray was a wrenched knee suffered by Noland "Colorado" Gregory, 168-pound provincial guard Gregory may be sidelined which may mean over time for Den Miller, Stan Belcher, and reserves Don Grant and George Maganaris.

Bossemeyer Paces Mateans

Paced by veteran Neil Bossemeyer, 195-pound All Conference guard from Piedmont, the Mateans will crash metropolitan society determined to upset the high-geared Eisans.

The peninsulans, bossed by Murius McFadden, started slowly this campaign and have rolled effortlessly past a cadet eleven from Coyote Point and the tumbling Solons.

Locals Lack Passing Attack

Both squads are big, with the Rams possessing the better of the two backfields, thanks to Marsh Leong, Art Ekdall, Staten Webster, and company. Practice sessions this week against the Grover Klemmer-coached Lambs featured ground defensive maneuvers and hourly passing drills.

The locals, save for the Salinas encounter, lack a passing attack. Despite the efforts of Quarterback George Newell to enliven the aerial offensive, the Rams have presented a definite overland weakness.

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

THE Singing Saints from St. Mary's have nothing on the Rams. After listening to the gridders harmonizing on the bus to Modesto we're of the opinion that they could hold their own against any glee club west of the Oakland Estuary. Staten Webster and Hame Crouch's imitation of the famed King Cole Trio is nothing short of sensational. Glenn Hoffman, Glenn Smith, and Art Psaltis carry the pitch pipes and lead the team in most of their renditions.

SPLICED GRIDDERS

Surprising, the number of our football clan who are married men. There are about five of them in all. Imagine, getting out there to fight all day only to go home and fight all night. But then, it isn't so bad after all, is it boys?

GRID MANAGER

An unsung hero of which little or nothing is ever said is the football team manager. He is on the job every day, handling equipment, anticipating the coaches every need, and generally an all around handy man. Sam Goldman is holding down this job and holding it down well. Sam is out of Mission High School and came to us direct from Uncle Sam's Swabee Union. Keep up the good work, Sam.

TRAVELING MAN

Lee Eisen, the wonder coach, the only official in all the land who can referee two games in a single day. Leaving early Saturday morning in his special jet job, he managed to arrive in New York precisely two minutes before the kickoff in the St. Mary's-Fordham tilt. If it weren't for a strong tail wind the other side of Denver, all would have been lost!

You might think that that would have been enough for any normal man. But, you forget, Eisan is no normal man! Upon the completion of the Gael-Ram farce, "Lost Horizon" Eisan again took to the air and with an Eskimo Pie in hand made his way back to the Golden State. Then came the real test of stamina. A second 60 minute contest between the Indians of Stanford and the Broncos from Santa Clara. People who saw the game noticed shadows falling over the turf. It wasn't from the sun folks. Nope, they were cast from the bags under our valiant mentor's eyes (little wonder).

It is expected that in the near future Eisan will "attempt three complete games. In that event, we're all for you coach!

In all seriousness Ramblings wishes to extend to Mr. Eisan a formal apology for the erroneous report that he made a trip to New York. All we can say is, Rambling was taken for a ride.

Bulldogs vs. Rams

Balboa Field 3:15 p.m.

8	Ray Poznekoff	LER	Frank Robinson	55
66	Glenn Hoffman	LTR	Bill Lewis	51
9	Stan Belcher	LGR	(C) Bill Bossemeyer	63
22	Johnny Didio	C	Beryl Ahrens	45
19	Denny Miller	RGL	Dick Slade	60
21	Art Psaltis	RTL	Dave Kell	48
24	Roland Stern	RGL	Cobb Adams	37
7	Staten Webster	Q	Dan Sagehorn	22
12	Art Ekdall (C)	LHR	Keith Bedford	50
18	Carter Corey	RHL	Bob Ratcliffe	62
25	Marshall Leong	F	Jack Donaldson	39

SAN FRANCISCO ROSTER

1 White, q	16 Cavender, h	34 Hardeman, h
2 Alaimo, e	17 Crouch, f	35 Ihle, t
3 Grant, g	18 Corey, h	38 Biess, t
4 Greene, h	19 Miller, g	38 Collischonn, e
6 Rainey, h	20 Slattery, h	41 Cassidy, t
7 Webster, q	21 Psaltis, t	44 Maganaris, g
8 Poznekoff, e	22 Didio, c	45 Johnson, c
9 Belcher, g	23 Woodworth, h	55 Schuchard, c
10 Henry, e	24 Stern, e	66 Hoffman, t
11 Gregory, g	25 Leong, f	77 Rooker, t
12 Ekdall, h	26 Dotur, t	88 Smith, t
13 Newell, q	31 Swanson, c	Castro, h
14 Orgain, e	33 Drake, t	Kyle, f
15 Cronn, e

AWS Women Open West Campus Lounge

A far cry from the too crowded Associated Women Student teas of yester semesters, this semester's tea, held last week, proved a success in every way. Officially opening the new student lounge located on the west campus, the tea served as a welcome to the new students, and a re-welcome to old students.

Pictured upper left is the welcoming committee awaiting the first arrivals. Left to right are Batty Lou Wright, Jean Newberry, Jean Carrasco, Bev Thompson, Janet Caine, Nancy Stookey, AWS president, and Lee Ann Bonar. Serving is being done upper right by Nancy Stookey, Janet Caine, Margaret Flournoy, pouring and Pat Sullivan.

Dean of Women Margaret Dougherty is pictured lower left with Tina Mutio and Miss Stookey on her left and Eleanor Waegerle on her right.

Lower right shows Claire Bacigalupi, far left, and Miss Stookey, far right, serving Claire Cuneo, right and Marjorie Cullen, left, of the Home Economics and English departments respectively.

The setting will also serve for the Block SF dance this Friday night.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Alpha Lambda Chi: "The Beachcomber's Binge" is the second rush affair this Sunday from 5 to 8 o'clock in the evening at the home of Claire Levesque, 714 10th Avenue.

•Beta Phi Beta: The 13 new pledges have undergone pre-initiation week ritual, to be climaxed by the informal initiation tomorrow.

•Engineering Society: Monday evening, October 28, is the date of the first meeting, in Room 136 at 7 o'clock. A guest speaker will be present. New officers are: President Dick Dickman; Vice President James White; Secretary Dave Thorne. Sponsors are William Mayo and James Schon.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon. "Remember When" is the theme for the November 27 dance scheduled at the St. Francis Hotel. Music is by Hal Lens.

•Lutheran Association: All students interested in organizing a club for Lutheran students are invited to meet in Room 309 at the next college hour. Sponsors for the group are Leona Danenbring, Frances Thollander and Edith Todd.

•Newman Club: A meeting is scheduled for 8 o'clock Monday, October 28, at St. Emydius Hall. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

•Pi Mu Gamma: Plans were made at the last meeting for a dance open to the student body on November 15. Council members elected were George Boyko, Pete Isola, Pat Tullius, Briawy McDonnell, Wetumka Moffatt, and Constance Latterell.

•Theta Tau: The first rush was held a week ago at the home of President Mabel Edwards. Plans are now being discussed for the second rush.

Elite Eatery

Duffy's Tavern Not At Zenith Success

By Harold Levy

Boasting a new juke box in addition to its attractive menu of "chokolut sodys," "cheesanwiches," and other welcome delicacies, the West Campus Fountain, dubbed "Duffy's Tavern" after its manager, Thomas Duffy, has not yet reached its pinacle of success.

Improved service will be forthcoming with the addition of another complete fountain unit, when plans for installation are put into effect soon.

Duffy, who is Restaurant Management instructor here, explained that the fountain-lunchroom is operated on a self-supporting, non-profit basis. It maintains a competent staff of Hotel Division students to offer its palate-tempting wares to an eternally hungry student clientele.

"Forever Crowded" would be an apt name for a book describing the noon-time rush for a place at the fountain.

The mob of pushing, shoving, hunger-driven students, ultimately results in only hindering service. To remedy this crowded condition, Duffy advised that service would be greatly speeded up if patrons would avoid unnecessary loitering at the fountain.

Freeman Lectures On Metropolitan Dailies

Howard Freeman, Publicity Director for the Western Division of the Office of Price Administration, spoke to the public relations classes here last Tuesday, October 22.

Stressing the restrictions and responsibilities of a public relations agent attached to the government, he also suggested that experience on a metropolitan newspaper staff would be helpful to future public relations men.

Freeman's speech was the first of a series to be offered to the students in the Public Relations classes.

Counseling Center Now Ready For Student Use

The student counselling center, located in Building 3, is now sufficiently organized to offer competent aid to all students, F. Grant Marsh, head counsellor, announced Tuesday.

Members of the counselling staff in Building 3 are Don Doolin, who may be found in Room 3; Aldin Olson and William Ogle, Room 4; Mary B. Perry, Room 5; Adolph J. Stoll, Room 7; William H. Schoon, Room 9; Waddington Blair, Room 11; Mildred Barnard, Room 12; J. Jacobsen, Room 13, Walter McCloud, and Alice Castro, now on sick leave.

James W. Leek and William Olson of the Federal Veterans' Administration handle letters of eligibility and anything regarding relationship between veterans of this college and the downtown offices, Marsh said.

City Education Group To Dine Here Tonight

Members of the Public Education Society of San Francisco will hold their Annual Dinner here tonight at 6 o'clock.

The program presented will include a panel discussion of major public school issues of today. Participating in the program are Dr. A. John Bartky, Dean of Stanford University Education; Roy Sorenson, Executive Secretary, San Francisco Y.M.C.A.; Dr. Frank Freeman, University of California Dean of Education; Melvin Philbrick, Superintendent of Edgewood.

Curtis Warren, Superintendent of San Francisco Schools; Mrs. Kenneth Evers, P. E. S. Executive Committee member, and Moderator Stuart Richardson Ward, founder, KSFO "California Council Table."

President of the organization is Edgar M. Kahn.

While writing a term paper at Kansas University, a student decided to test the theory that a prof doesn't bother to read the papers, but grades them by placing them on a scale and weighing them. In the middle of the paper he inserted this, "If you read this far, I'll buy you a coke."

Drama

Black Flamingo Goes Into Production At Campus Little Theater; Student Casts Named For Vivid Costume Piece

A wire, eliminating all doubt as to the production of Black Flamingo in Room 28 in the near future, was received last week by Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor.

Samuel French Inc. wired Sisler, "Play Black Flamingo Available. $25.00 Royalty."

Receipt of the telegram finally settled the problem of what would be produced this semester. The same cast that was scheduled for Heaven Can Wait will do the melodrama.

The cast includes Felipe Bodier, Philip Markinson and Bob Guilfoyle; Nicole, his wife, Carmen Alvarez; Clotilde, a servant, Betty Young and Isabelle Kohmavn; Bouriea, Bill Riley; Jregaud, Hal Harris; Francois De Lussac, Franklin Thurver; Eugene De Lussac, Roger Heller; Diana, Marie Wispell and Carla Perkins; Charlotte, Carla Perkins and Dorothy Heenan; A Priest, Merton Bercovich; Popo, Elbert Priddy; Gavroche, Gilbert Craig; and Rossange, Sal Maeda.

The play takes place on the evening of July 15, 1789, in the lonely inn of the Black Flamingo on the road to Vienna Le Chateau. There is brought together a strange group of people; aristocrats from war torn Paris, cutthroats to prey upon the aristocrats, and those who have been searching for Marie Antoinettes' necklace.

Sisler added that a large cast will be used in the production and that "several more parts are open." Those aspiring to the footlights can contact Sisler every day in Room 28 at 3 p.m.

Library

Yeahs Lose 24-15 Bout To Negatives

By Marge Whearty

Going down under the slamming defeat of a 24 to 15 vote, the suggestion that the library open its portals every Saturday, from 10 to 1 p.m., got the old one-two today when Mareus Skarstedt, head librarian, tallied the 24 negative casts.

Taken for two weeks, the vote was an attempt by the administration to mirror student opinion on crowded conditions in the college library.

The question arose when a group of students approached President A. J. Cloud about the difficulty in obtaining study space and books in the library under the normal hours.

Such a result leaves the library open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, as usual.

Illegal Parking Tops Campus; Police Rule

Warnings involving the illegal parking of vehicles on the college campus were issued yesterday by Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to the president, who again reiterated a plea to "comply with police department regulations."

Orders have been issued to "tag" all parking offenders and cars will be towed away by the department at the expense of the campus violators, Luckmann added.

250 Veterans To Enroll Here Next Thursday

Entrance examinations for approximately 250 veterans who desire to enter the college will start at 8:30 a.m. in Room 100 on Thursday, October 31. Registration is set for Friday, November 1, at Building 3 on the West Campus.

Class work will start on Monday, November 4, for the new students.

Courses in English, history, Spanish and psychology will be offered, but because of lack of proper facilities there will be no science or drafting instruction, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said.

Students who expect to enroll must file an application, a transcript of former high school and college work, and if the legal residence is in Contra Costa County, Alameda County or any other junior college district, he must file a permit before Friday, November 1, Miss Learnard emphasized.

Unprecedented Boom In New College Era

By W. T. Wilson

A junior college movement parallel to the high school movement of the last 30 years is spreading rapidly in all parts of the United States at the present time.

There has been a slow trend toward this movement for a number of years, statistics show, and 1946 has been the boom year with 60 new junior colleges already opened and more expected.

Many of these junior colleges are on the eastern seaboard which, until recently, didn't take to the junior college.

Experts state that this great boom is due to the fact that most of these Junior colleges are state endowed and also to the fact that people are realizing that their children deserve more than a high school education.

California has led the way in this movement and other states have patterned their junior colleges after the California set-up.

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS

Granat Bros. SERVICE TRUST & EXCHET

WOMEN

ARE YOU INTERESTED IN A PAYING FUTURE IN AN OLD ESTABLISHED FIRM WITH NEW IDEAS?
WE WANT YOU—THE BEST BECAUSE WE GIVE THE BEST.
PSYCHOLOGY OF SELLING CLASSES
PERSONALITY DEVELOPMENT
VACATIONS WITH PAY
PAID INSURANCES
SICK BENEFITS
BANKERS' HOURS
SEE YOU AT OUR PERSONNEL OFFICE—3:00-5:30

KRESS 939 MARKET STREET

For

XMAS MONEY!

COLLEGE STUDENT FOR SALES, CASHIERING AND STOCK WORK. POSITION OPEN NOW FOR SATURDAYS AND CHRISTMAS VACATION.

EXPERIENCE NOT NECESSARY BUT DESIRABLE.

APPLICATIONS NOW BEING ACCEPTED IN MOST ALL DEPARTMENTS.

A. Carlisle & Co. 135 POST STREET SAN FRANCISCO

HOTEL ST. FRANCIS

Presents

EDDIE FITZPATRICK

And His Orchestra

Nightly (except Monday) and Saturday for Tea

MURAL ROOM

BURT WEIR

Campus Representative

HOTEL ST. FRANCIS

Dan E. London, Gen. Manager

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1946 No. 10

All American

ACP Rates Spring Guardsman Tops In Junior College Field

Honors were again bestowed upon The Guardsman this week when the Associated Collegiate Press awarded the college newspaper an All-American Superior Honor Rating for the editions published during the Spring Semester, 1946.

According to the ACP, which is the top authority for most of the country's college publications, The Guardsman was selected for "A fine workmanlike job with a minimum of journalistic faults."

Credit for the accomplishment was due, in large measure, to the leadership of Pamela Sampson, editor, assisted by Carmel Gannon, managing editor; Betty Lou Cavaner, feature editor; Bob Catudio, sports editor, and Manuel Castro, assistant sports editor.

Serving on the reportorial staff last semester were Dell Bain, John Bayler, Jean Beard, Trev Burrow, Jo Ellen Cain, Peter Cerlanti, Richard Cumming, Jane Doran, Bob Elliott, Vivian Freedman, Kenneth Ford, Patricia French, Rudolf Luft, Luis Hernandez, Jacqueline Hogan, George Lajeunesse, Shirley Langston, Howard Levy, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller, Adele Reinisch, Rosalie Rhode, James Riggs, Arthur Schwartz, Lueille Scott, Barbara Stephen, Staten Webster, Marjorie Whearty, and Jeanne Williams.

Don Lum toiled as staff photographer, and Joan Nourse is the faculty adviser.

The twice-annual awards made by the ACP are based on the judgment of complete files of the publications of member colleges throughout the nation. The ACP is composed of newspapermen and professors of journalism, and maintains its headquarters at the School of Journalism, University of Minnesota.

Since its inception 10 years ago, The Guardsman has received the All-American award nine times, and the second highest award, the First Class Honor Rating, twice, once in 1940 and again in 1944.

Radio Panel Programs Scheduled Next Week

Future dates for radio fans are Friday, November 1 and Saturday, November 2, when members of Marie Weller's radio class at the college take to the air lanes.

First program will be aired over KPO's "American School of the Air", with a 15 minute discussion by Bob Catudio, Carol Kennington, Peter Golinno and Tanios Habeeb, on the importance of the Election. Habeeb will be the moderator.

GI's Merton Bereeovich and Philip Silverman will meet with other GI's from State College, University of San Francisco, and Gompers to discuss the Inadequacy of the GI Bill of Rights on the Youth Looks to the Future program over KQW. The show is presented at 2 o'clock.

Holiday Season Jobs Available On Campus

Students planning to work during the Christmas holiday season are advised to attend a meeting, given by the Placement Office, in the student lounge at noon, this Thursday.

Jobs will be offered to those qualifying for them in the Post Office, Railway Express, department stores and at Yosemite. They may be secured through the Placement Office only, Joseph Amori, Placement Officer, said.

Meet The Man With Senate Viewpoint

Don Burger Rugged Hombre; Extra Activities Easy

By Del Pichon

NEW LEGAL CHIEFTAIN is Don Burger, who was recently selected as top man on the college's fall semester Judiciary Committee.—Photo by Lum.

It would be difficult to find a student in this college that is as interested, and as active, as Donald Burger is in the welfare of the Associated Students.

Since his entry into the college last semester he has shown remarkable interest and ability in student administration. It was due to these factors that he was chosen to represent the freshmen in the Student Council, a post which he assumed this semester.

The post as freshman representative by no means limits his participation in student affairs, for in addition to this position he is President of the Tri Epsilon fraternity and an active member of the XGI Society.

Such an amount of extra-curricula activities would be the limit of the average student, Burger, however, holds two more positions in student administration, that of chairman of the newly inaugurated Judiciary Committee, and a member of the Judiciary Force.

Of the latter he is particularly fond, for he pointed out the aims of that organization by saying, "We have formed this force primarily as an aid, and a guide, to our students and their guests!"

Burger's background is typical of many of the students of this college.

He was graduated from Mission High School in the Fall of 1941, and in 1942 he joined the United States Marine Corps. While in the service he saw action in such places as New Caines, Peleliu and Woodlark Island; he was discharged in the winter of 1945 as a Corporal.

In the spring of this year he entered the college taking a major in Business Administration which he hopes to complete by 1947.

It is evident that Burger is an active person, so thoroughly interested in the college that he is bound to reach a higher pinnacle in student administration.

Freshman Class Dance On November 8 Slate

Plans are proceeding at top speed for the Freshman Class Dance to be held on Friday, November 8, from 8:30 to 12, tentatively in the West Campus Auditorium, with Hal Lentz furnishing the music.

Dress and theme for the occasion have not as yet been determined, pending definite arrangements for a hall. Freshman President Ray Bisio stated that the dress would probably be either sport or informal.

Among those serving on the committee with President Bisio, Vice-President Bill Riley, and Secretary-Treasurer Lynn Crotoff are Pat Sullivan and Marie Wispell. As yet no sponsor has been appointed for the class.

Dropping Of Courses Deadline November 13

Official warning has been issued again from the Registrar's office in regard to the dropping of courses.

Mary Jane Learnard has stated that courses may be dropped until Wednesday, November 13, but this does not mean a student may enter any class he desires.

"Classes were filled to capacity from the beginning and students should take this into consideration before dropping any course," Miss Learnard emphasized.

Miss Learnard also warned students who are planning to leave the college before the end of the semester to file a leave of absence slip with the registrar's office, for failure to do so gives the student automatic "F's" in every course in which he is enrolled.

Associated Students

Grid Team Finance Request Approved By Student Council

First request for a supplementary budget to come before the Student Council was submitted in last Tuesday's meeting by Ralph Hillsman, head basketball coach.

The request was for three hundred and fifty dollars which included two hundred and seventy dollars for sweat suits and seventy-five dollars for game balls. Nancy Cunningham moved the money be granted and it was unanimously carried.

The chairman of the yearbook committee, Ray Bisio, said that by the end of November initial arrangements for the Journal would be completed.

Lee Elsan, football coach, asked for a three hundred and fifty dollar supplementary budget to enable the football team to leave Friday morning for its game this Saturday night with Los Angeles City College.

Plans had been made previously for the team to leave Saturday morning with no chance of rest before the game that night. The money requested would pay for the added days accommodations. The request was unanimously approved.

The San Francisco Police Department is tightening up on parking violations. Students double parking in front of the student store as well as students parking on the circular drive in front of the Science Building will be fined. Al Moffat, Rally Commissioner, was appointed to inquire about posters warning students of traffic regulations.

Don Burger, chairman, and his newly formed Judiciary Force, had their "initiation" at last Friday's game with San Mateo. The group is awaiting the arrival of 15 hats to serve as a badge of authority.

Among the duties of the Judiciary Force will be the enforcement of smoking and parking rules and the control of student behavior at college functions.

The Student Council meets every Tuesday and Thursday at 12 o'clock on the second floor of the Administration Building. The meetings are open to all members of the Associated Students.

AWS

Halloween Is Motif For 'Record' Dance Thursday In Lounge

Local preparations for All Saints Day reaches its zenith this Thursday when the Associated Women Students open the doors of the Student Lounge, Building 2, West Campus, from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for a Halloween Dance.

The first afternoon dance held in the new Student Lounge, the mixer is only the start of several which the AWS would like to hold, according to Nancy Stookey, president. "If this dance is successful, we plan to have more held on various days of the week to enable most of the students to attend," Miss Stookey added.

Music for the affair will be provided by records broadcast over the new Public Address System, recently purchased by the Associated Students.

Headed by a panel of officers under Miss Stookey as president, Janet Caine, vice-president; Mary Nash, recording secretary, and Pat Sullivan, corresponding secretary, the affair is the second activity sponsored by the group.

Arrangements for the dance are in the hands of a Dance Committee composed of Pat Sullivan, Hank Herley, Joanne Schmitt, Jean Fitzgerald, Rita Avuerich, Rosalie Herbert, Winnie Lowl, Ruth Pool, Shirley Lotie, Audrey Paladini, Joyce Paine, Pat Pattison, Jean Fraser, Roberta Robb, Margaret Dotson, Jean Carrasco, Carmel Gannon, Lee Ann Bonar, Adele Rogers, Connie Satterell, Barbara Burke, and Leona De Bique.

Luckmann To Observe UN Meet For College

Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to the college president, yesterday continued preparations for his departure to Flushing, N.Y., where he will attend the general session of the United Nations.

Luckmann will leave Mills Field, Saturday morning, November 9, and will "represent" The Guardsman as an observer on the scene of action.

The Guardsman, official campus publication, will become one of the first junior colleges with a correspondent present at the UNO diplomatic meetings.

South America, Take It Away; 32nd Club 'Ready'

By Marge Whearty

The thirty-second is on the way! Yet in the unfolding stage, the latest addition to the campus club roster is in the making with the Latin-American Club under the sponsorship of George Green, college instructor.

Springing from a nucleus of three students from Latin-America, Oscar Reyes, Victor M. Solorzano, and Francisco R. Valdes, pictured left to right, the organization will help promote understanding among Latin-American and North-American students.

Open to all students the group will have its first real meeting on Friday, November 15 during the college hour, when attempts will be made to shape the club for presentation to the Club Advisory Board for approval.

With a many-fold program, the club will combine a few social activities with the serious business of helping south-of-the-border enrollees learn English while at the same time improving the Spanish of others.

Latest idea of the formers is to have correspondence between students in Latin-America and club members. Male members would be given the addresses of Spanish women, and feminine members could exchange letters with the Spanish men. This is just one of the phases of the club's Good-Neighbor Policy.

(Editor's Note—The two stories printed here are the English and Spanish versions of an attempt on the campus to organize a Latin-American Club under the sponsorship of George Green.)

Por Oscar Reyes

El 32avo club del colegio está por formarse! Todavía en su primera etapa el Club Laino Americano iniciará sus actividades bajo la tutela del Sr. George Green.

Promotores principales de la organizacion son los estudiantes latino-americanos fotografiadoc de izquierda adercha: Oscar Reyes, Victor M. Solorzano, Francisco R. Valdes quienes estan seguros que la nueva sociedad fomentará un mejor entendimiento en entre los estudiantes latinos y norteamericanos.

La sociedad abrirá sus puertas a todos los estudiantes y tendrá su primera reunion el Viernes 15 de Noviembre próximo durante la hora del colegio. Este dia se tratará de que el club tome cuerpo para su aprobación por la Junta Consejera de Sociedades.

Además de las actividades sociales el objeto principal del club será ayudar a los estudiantes latinos en sus dificultades con los estudios Otro de las ideas de la sociedad es estebecer correspondencia entre estudiantes Latinoamericanos y miembros del club; a los muchachos se les procurían de señoritas latinas y viceversa. Esta es una más de las actividades de Buena Vecindad que el club tiene programadas.

(The translation of the above story from English to Spanish was done for The Guardsman by Oscar Reyes, one of the founders of the new organization.)

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 10 Tuesday, October 29, 1946 Page 2

CAB Afire

The Minority Rests

THE bark of the campus Club Advisory Board has turned into the bite of the week that seeks a parallel with the battle of majority rule.

Another campus organizational applicant has been kayoed by the CAB, or rather, the power that forces the CAB to act in the manner that, at times, would appear undemocratic.

What standards of measures are used by the CAB to outrightly deny students the right to form a campus organization? By law, it is clearly seen that "the innocents are proved guilty" before a crime is committed.

The actions of people on the campus are daily noticed. But one has the right to a certain privacy off the campus. Therein lies the factor of social freedom.

What concrete proof can an organization of the CAB's nature have when it opens itself for criticism at the expense of a harrassed minority? Surely ordinary hearsay and rabble torment can not be tones of "injustice" to forever seal the birth of minorities.

At a time when judicial impartiality is on a global podium, the CAB semingly assumes a role of tempered indifference. The critic is banning the fruits of his profession before the first page is read.

You can not judge the moral character of an individual without giving him a chance to rub elbows with temptation. All well and good if the CAB proves itself right in the long run.

But they have encroached upon the free rights of man!

All talk and "no positive proof" makes the CAB a dull instrument of surgery which can sever the lifeline of neutrality to a point whence all community activity becomes marked for distaste.

The minority rests!

Ford

After Dark

STUDENTS AWAKE! Do you realize what you are missing? Do you begin to realize that some of you haven't lived yet? Do you know that there are some things in this world which will make your life a worthwhile thing?

At last, there is no need for satire or parody, and we can throw the growing host of false enclitics out the window, for—slow muffled rumble of drums—TRADER VIC HAS BUSTED INTO PRINT!

Aye, ye Extroverts and Hedonists, Trader Vic has published a book which goes by the name of Trader Vic's Book of Food and Drink, and it really smashes out at convention and blazes new trails!

The book is salted (quite heavily) with instructive remarks by the Trader himself, and larded with brilliant sage advice on food, drink, and exotic living. Be it understood, this volume is no ordinary recipe book. It is a "must" for city creatures interested in getting away from the trite and usual. It is a charmingly gay blueprint for distinctive living, and so on (ad infinitum) into the neon night.

* * *

Another movie that very few people seem to know about. It is called Isle of the Dead and stars Boris Karloff as a vigilant Greek General. The background music, as you have already guessed, is Sergei Rachmaninoff's Isle of the Dead. The picture is set during some sort of a Greek war, and opens with a score of Hollywood extras lying around with blobs of Heinz (57 different products) catsup smattered here and there. They are also moaning about higher wages. Vervolica (evidently a Greecian evil spirit) ramps among subterranean tombs and shadowed rooms throughout the picture.

A curious notion the spectator feels as he watches the picture is that the characters are comprised of a subtle network of Green gods and symbolic battles between mythology and modern science. The acting is, indeed, excellent, though a hit on the melodramatic side, and the plot is most curious . . . most . . . to be sure.

As soon as public service ceases to be the chief business of the citizens, and they would rather serve with their money than with their persons, the state is not far from its fall.

—Jean Jacques Rousseau.

Around And About

with Nagle

WITH masks worse than those nature provided, an army of children commanded only by the thought that they must scare and terrify all beings will go forth Thursday night to celebrate All Hallow's Eve.

It seems only a short time ago when Halloween was one of the great days to look forward to—like Christmas, Valentine's Day or a school holiday. The oldest family sheet was taken from the linen closet, a couple of holes poked in it to double for eyes, pumpkins were cleaned and hollowed out preparatory to adding the lighted candle, and soap was gathered and hoarded in anticipation of the day.

OBJECTIVES SIGHTED

At school gangs huddled in corners, deciding what horrible thing could be done to the old "crab patch" who lived down the street, and where to throw the messy contents of the neighbor's huge garbage can.

Finally the day arrived! Teachers at school were tolerant of their wearily-wating-for-night-fall charges, and gave the affairs of the day over to celebration in the form of apple ducking, drawing Jack O'Lanterns and other eerie figures, eating so-nuts, black and orange candy, and drinking cider. Although the sun seemed to want to stay around to watch the fun, finally it slipped away, and the dark of night took over.

ARMY OCCUPIES CITY

Then, with costumes, sheets and masks donned, and brooms mounted, the youthful army took to the streets. Housewives forgot to cringe when their windows suddenly turned up soaped completely from top to bottom; elderly couples hobbled to the door, answering the summons, and started to speak harshly to the young-'uns, then turned around and brought out candied apples and cookies that they had especially accumulated for the purpose. Age didn't make them forget their youth.

Yes, it was wonderful. But the was is used advisedly. The younger generation will be out again Thursday, armed with valuable hard-to-get soap, and another Halloween will pass into eternity. But, strangely enough, things have changed . . . old age has set into the college youth . . . for as one student aptly phrased it, "Yep, Hallowe'en use to mean a whole lot, but now it doesn't mean anything!"

STANDBY

CURTIS E. WARREN, superintendent of SF public schools, returned from an "educators' meeting" in Cincinnati, Ohio. Number one topic for posterity—"support of a Federal aid program to further promote American education."

Recent campus visitor, WALTER DOLD, City Hall deputy DA, arched his eyebrows, tilted his briefcase, and remarked: "I'm really not here on an official visit. But I've a son-in-law attending college here. Would that interest you?"

Inside informants have already pegged J. PAUL MOHR (he's only the vice-president) as the nucleus of an NBC "American Education Week" broadcast next month.

Credit librarian MARCUS SKARSTEDT with: "Well, I guess the library wasn't as crowded as people thought it was."

Classic RSVP gem of ART ROSENBAUM, of the SF Chronicle Sporting Green gang, runs something like this: "Tell Miss Stookey (Nancy, that is) I'm sorry I can't go to tea. I hafta work tomorrow."

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Bonanza Along The Big Street Floods The Box Office

GEORGE and the eagle have been putting on weight alarmingly lately. Martha would never recognize the Head Man from his recent pictures, and the eagle is taking on the proportions of a South American condor.

Putting on pounds by the minute, the picture of Washington on the dollar bill will never be recognized as him in another year, and the silver dollar is literally approaching the size of a Greyhound bus tire.

The all-mighty Yankee dollar, puffed up and expanded to new lengths and widths, still threatens to become the new national flag in the hearts of many.

TALKIES OR SILENT

Worship of the green stuff has reached a new high in these parts, and no better evidence of the craze for lettuce can be found than along Market Street, with its labyrinth of dime-a-dozen movie marts.

Alleged "first run" houses are packed to the overflow night after night. The one-armed joints are getting what is left over, and the field is still wide open for enterprising citizens owning slides, colored or otherwise, to display in any vacant store along the Big Slot.

HEADS BOWED, PUBLIC AWAITS

It's getting to a point where a line forms on a clear night to take a quick squint at the moon through a telescope. And for a dime the operator won't even let amateur astronomers gaze up at it with the naked eye, while sweating out the line.

What used to shape up as a pretty good main drag in any big city, Market Street has sunk to the level of Broadway in New York with a comparable number of honky-tonk shooting galleries and tattooing emporiums.

COMING NEXT YEAR, MAYBE

Getting back to the movie reviews however, it's still quantity and not quality that prods Hollywood into the frantic production of a solid stream of celluloid stinkerinos, to use the trade expression for them.

That even the double bill has survived the onslaught at the box office is incredible. Some cinemas must be sorely tempted to show nothing but coming attraction trailers, the crowds would jam in anyway.

How far they can go to get away with the petty larceny is evidenced in the policy of some theaters announcing "first run return showings".

Running out of fresh merchandise, the theater managers are hanging on to good drawing flickers with a heavy handed clutch. One better known temple of smash hits and no more dishes kept The Outlaw for months of overtime, and the place still smells like an old-time livery stable from the after effects of that horse opera.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

BECAUSE there are so many members of the college who are newcomers, not only to San Francisco, but to the bay area, and even the entire California scene who most likely know little of the history and the tradition of the college, this column will once a week, from now on, endeavor to familiarize newcomers with some of the tradition and background of the college.

Since charity begins at home, maybe someone will be interested to know how this newspaper got its name, and the evolutionary process it has undergone since it was first published, way back in August, 1935.

When the first edition came out, there was a dearth of genius in the college (very different from today), and it seems no one could think of an appropriate name for the new publication. Therefore, they decided temporarily on Emanon, which has no relation to namsdraug. That lasted all of two issues, after which some brilliant student won an Associated Student card as a reward for suggesting The Guardsman as an appropriate title.

The name of the student has been lost in the resulting confusion of those first few heetic months of organization and systematization.

The present-day masthead has no more significance than that, but the very manner of origin does in itself serve to illustrate the democratic spirit and cooperativeness which has, for these eleven years, dominated the department of journalism at the college.

The paper itself has withstood many changes over the years, expanding and contracting, and came through the war years with their accompanying shortages, praetically unscathed.

In the passing years the paper has been the proud recipient of a total of eleven awards by the Associated Collegiate Press, having just received its ninth All-American rating last week. (See story on Page 1.)

After the recurrent struggles the staff continually undergoes in getting out each edition, there is always a slightly melancholy feeling accompanying the sight of students unconcernedly using the converted pulp as they would have used in its natural state—to sit on!

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Boy Meets Girl Affair Requested; Lives To Be Spared With Driving Care

• Date Bureau Candidates

Editor, The Guardsman:

I couldn't believe my eyes when I read Tuesday's edition of The Guardsman. Imagine! Three fellow to every girl! And me, a goil, not knowing that! Of course I know there are a lot of fellows around—goodness knows I bump into them enough at the silver pole on my way to cl ss.

But, here I am—free, white, and nineteen—and I still have no dates Friday evenings, or Saturday evenings, or Sunday evenings . . . monotonous, isn't it? At first I thinks to myself that maybe I'm another "Lena"—aaggghh! But wait! There can never be another to compare with her! So, deciding I'm not as bad as she, and adding that to the fact that several of my other girl friends are in the same straits, I figure there's something wrong here.

You fellows say there aren't enough girls to go around. Well, I can tell you this—there'd be a lot more to go around if some of us gals knew how to get introduced to some of you hunks of men.

We gals are a bit old-fashioned, you see, and don't exactly enjoy flinging ourselves on top of you boys, (as we know by experience that would scare you away). Sooooo, will one of you "Orsón" boys get on the beam and come down with a bright idea on a "Boy meets Girl" affair?

A Brunette—(Not Goddard)

• "I Don't Want To Die"

Editor, The Guardsman:

The National Safety Council reports that traffic deaths during the past few years have increased at an alarming rate. Their figures show that while 17,022 Californians died in combat during the recent war, 18,517 persons met death on California's highways during that same period of time.

I don't want to die this year. Do you?

Robert Barr

Tomorrow, Maybe?

Guardsman Staff—
Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Cormel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR...June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Cavaner, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Rainich.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Baylor, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wachter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hani Weiss, Ken Raymond.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Staten Webster, Dayton Lawson, Doris Hall.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 10 TUESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1946 Page 3

Coaches Get Confused

"Get Greene in there. Where's Rooker? Wait, this isn't fourth down. Get those guards back a step. Go in there and tell Kyle to move over to the right side. Hold it up willya, ref, I—jeez I've got the wrong man in."

—Senor Lee Eisan

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

RAMS SLIGHTED

Such crust! What nerve! Imagine our illustrious institution's grid machine not being mentioned on the list of the 20 top junior colleges in the nation. We, who haven't lost a conference tilt. What a revoltin' development!

It wouldn't have been so bad but to have a team we have beaten rated above us is going too far. Sacramento's Panthers were clawed to the tune of 13 to 6, so what happens? They get number 12 spot on the list. Vallejo Junior College is near the cellar in the conference's "B" league so what do they pull through with? Number 10 no less.

Next Saturday we take on Los Angeles City College, number 4 in the rating. Maybe by then someone will give our team what is deserves.

SERIES RIVALRY

Last Friday's meeting between the San Francisco Rams and the San Matee Bulldogs was the rubber match in the series connecting the two institutions. Up until now each had won three games. One oddity to be noted is that in all the games that have been played, not one has been decided by more than a single touchdown. This shows the tremendous competitive spirit that has been built up in these two colleges.

SOCIETY SUCCESS

Orchids of the week: We tip our toppers to the Block SF Society for the fine dance they staged after the Ram-Bulldog clash. Their methods were at times, shall we say, ruthless. But none the less they were selling a good thing. The proeeeds will allow the football team's third string to make the trip to Los Angeles this coming week end. A fine display of sportsmanship by the Society and a showing of cooperation by the tenants of the "Hilltop Mansion" was evident.

FEMALE FOOTBALL

Rumor has it that there is strong sentiment toward following the lead of one of the South's leading institutions and initiating into our sports curriculum an annual sorority "Powder Bowl" classic. Yep, none other than feminine football. After surveying our local sorority sisters it seems this idea wouldn't be bad at all. Their skirts around end are already perfected and as for their pass defense, just ask any frat man!

Locals Marry Air, Ground Maneuvers

By Bob Catudio

Fate and fortune married the combined magic of aerial-ground maneuvers which found the Rams creating the "circuit's most feared junior collegian offensive."

The townies shoved the word "Upset" straight down San Mateo Junior College's throat, 35 to 18, and the local's entire cast arose from the pine bench onto Balboa Field sod.

"Well, gentlemen," Tackle Glen Smith chortled, "another ball game. Give us a good writedp, willya?"

Lee Eisan appeared pale and wan when Bulldog Jack Dohaldson punched across for the game's initial score putting the Mateans ahead in the ball game, 6 to 0.

"See what I mean," he boomed. "when you score you make the breaks. The linemen better play hack a hit and close in. See that! You're hitting 'em too high."

"Lookit," Art Ekdall, in serious mood, interrupted, "you know we have a pretty nice squad, but the ball games'll get tougher. We'd like to win them all if we could."

Sure, the townies are high-geared to death. "Hey, Psaltis, how do you spell 'Notre Dame?'"

Intramural

Cagers In Second Round; Bowling, Badminton Next

With the intramural basketball tournament well under way, Director Tom Wilson has announced the dates for the filing of entries in the bowling, badminton, and horseshoes tournaments.

All men and women students interested in entering the bowling competition should submit their entries to Lee Eisan at Mission Bowl or Wilson in the men's physical education office by Wednesday, November 13.

Matches will be held for men's singles, women's singles, and mixed doubles. Competition will be determined on the best score. Winners will receive medals and the organizations represented will be awarded points toward the President Cloud Perpetual Trophy.

Entries in the badminton tournament must be filed before Wednesday, November 6. There will be an elimination tournament in men's singles and doubles to determine the college's best players. The games will consist of 15 points for singles and 21 points for doubles. The best two games out of three will determine the champs. Matches may be played during the badminton classes at 8 o'clock daily or any time on Fridays or competitors other free time.

The winners and runners-up will be awarded medals and the organizations represented by the first four men in each event will be given points toward the trophy.

All men who wish to compete in the horseshoe tournament must file their names with Wilson by Friday, November 21. The person or team winning two out of three games will be declared the winner. Games will consist of 21 points, and will be played near the parking area behind the men's gymnasium. Medals will be awarded and the organizations represented by the first four men will be awarded points toward the trophy.

Another barnyard golf tourney is being planned by Wilson, with competition to be held at any hour. All students interested should see him in the men's physical education office.

On the basketball front The Lambs opened the first round with a crashing 77-28 victory over the Chinese Social Club. Jim Hughes was high man for the Lambs with 29 points. The Los Vaqueros five decisioned the Tau Chi Sigma squad 56-14. Horace Aubertine hit 16 points for the winners. Led by Ben Johnson, who scored 14 digits, the Tigers came up with a first round win over the Poops by a score of 40-22.

Although Vic Giannini scored 19 points, the Buccaneers could not hold the Operators and dropped a 50-32 decision. Jim Hughes hit 13 for the winners. Jerry Baldocchi's 18 points gave the East Bay Trotters a 59-36 win over the Portals while the Ramblers rambled over the XGI five, 43 to 24. Len Simpson was high man with 14 digits.

Games to be played on Thursday, October 31.

To be played at four o'clock:
Lambs vs. Tigers
Buccaneers vs. Portals
XGI vs. Tau Chi Sigma

To be played at five o'clock:
Chinese Social Club vs. Los Vaqueros
Ramblers vs. East Bay Trotters
Operators vs. Poops

Jayvees

Cal Ramblers Beat Local Lambs, 11-0

Memorial Stadium, Berkeley, Oct. 27—The University of California Rambler Reserves whitewashed San Francisco Junior College's Reserves, 11 to 0, yesterday before a "scant ayem gathering."

Bear Wingman Pete Leaf seored the lone TD via a blocked kick in the first quarter.

Townie flanksters Jim Hilke and Jim Koenig topped the Lamb performers, both playing practically the entire distance.

Score by periods:

San Francisco	0	0	0	0	0
California	9	2	0	0	11

Big Boys

Gregory Injured, Lanthier Returns

Coach Lee Eisan's varsity eleven suffered a setback at Modesto when the varsity guard Noland "Colorado" Gregory tore the ligaments in his leg and knee. Guard Gregory suffered the injury while making a tackle on a Modesto player late in the fourth quarter of the contest.

Although occupying the second string guard spot, Gregory was noted for his hard hitting defensive play and will be missed by the Ram squad. He is expected to be out for the remainder of the season.

On the other side of the ledger is an early season injured man returning to the lineup. John Lanthier, 190 pound stalwart right guard, who sustained a painful shoulder injury at the beginning of the year, has again donned the red and white uniform and was welcomed back to the fold with open arms.

Teaming with Stan Belcher and Denny Miller, Lanthier's return to the club will make the guard position one of the Ram's strongest. With his previous college football experience and competitive play, he should bolster the Ram contingent in its drive toward the Conference championship.

WAA Sponsors Modern Ballet Dance Club

Women desiring to learn the art of choreography, a form of modern dancing, may enroll in a class under Women's Athletic Association sponsorship at 10 a.m. every Friday, according to Janice Kreutzmann, instructor.

The enrollees learn theatrical ballet without the technical ballet technigues, Miss Kreutzmann said.

"More than twelve women have already expressed their desire to enter the club," Miss Kreutzmann reported, "and additional women interested may see me in the women's gymnasium anytime. If additional women are interested and are not available during this period, another period for the club meeting may be arranged."

SF blocks are available for women who comply with existing regulations, she said.

Every new woman student in the college is reminded by Laurine Bergin, chairman of the Women's Physical Education Department, that a physical examination by the college physician is required during the first semester of college.

Women failing to fulfill this requirement are in danger of having their grades withheld, Mrs. Bergin warned, and said that appointments for the physical must be made through her in the women's gymnasium, as the Doctor is in her office only two days a week.

Rams Kill San Mateo 35-18

Poznekoff, Newell, Ekdall Shine In Fourth Loop Win; Hoffman Sets Mark

By Bob Catudio

Against a withered wintry sky, the Scarlet Herd rides on!

Racing across the pigskin zenith in bold, shot gun fashion, the Rams annihilated San Mateo Junior College, 35 to 18, last Friday afternoon at Balboa Field to post its fourth straight Northern California Junior College Conference win.

The provincials ran the flanks and boomed through center, and uncorked an aerial blast second only to Bikini's "able" explosion.

Marshall Leong notched the townies' initial marker in the opening period, booming across from the two yard line. Early in the second quarter, quarterback George Newell tossed a 17 yard payoff pitch to Roland Stern who raced across from the six.

Newell then hit Lef End Ray Poznekoff in the end zone from 18 yards out. Not to be outdone by the wingtappy Newell, Halfback Art Ekdall let loose a tremendous 49 yard aerial to Poznekoff who slipped onto the end zone area for TD number four in the third canto.

Midway in the third panel, following a 27 yard runback of a Bulldog pass by John Rainey, the locals sent Howard Crouch spinning into paydirt from the one yard line.

Glenn Hoffman booted all five points after touchdown for a new circuit record.

San Mateo counted first in the initial frame when Fullback Jack Donaldson shouldered his way across from the one yard stripe. Ex-baseballer Bill Aree chalked up Mateo's second score on a 17 yard dash around the townie right end.

Reservist Vern Neves streaked seven yards for a six-pointer late in the fourth period.

Score by period—

San Mateo	6	0	0	12	—18
San Francisco	7	14	14	0	—35

Scoring: SM—Touchdowns, Donaldson, Arce, Neves. SF—Touchdowns, Leong, Stern, Poznekoff 2, Crouch. Points after touchdown, Hoffman 5.

Yardstick	SM	SF
Total first downs	11	15
by rushing	4	12
by passes	6	3
by penalties	1	0
Yards gained, rushing	135	180
by passes	120	152
Yards lost, by passes	4	0
by rushing	48	23
Net yards, rushing, passes	203	309
Passes attempted	16	10
Completed	10	6
Incomplete	5	3
Had intercepted	1	1
Punts, average length	36	31
Penalties	75	111

Football

Varsity Entrains For Los Angeles Saturday

The straw hat circuit tour of the local gridiron company carries deep into the heart of southern California, the Rams renewing belligerent acquaintances with Los Angeles City College this Saturday night at 8:15 on Gilmore Stadium turf.

Meeting for the first time since 1942, both outfits are issuing "all out" offensive orders. Coached by newcomer Don Newmeyer, the Cubs will spring a two team unit system at the townies.

Angeleno tailback Cliff Schroeder, pre-draft letterman, may see limited action for the Cubs. Schroeder was jarred in scrimmage last week and his strained right shoulder is not responding to treatment.

The Cubs have reported three others on the mend—wingman Don Hunt, John Joseph, a tackle, and guard Hank Thompson. But Trainer Jay Archer assures Angeleno followers that all will be in readiness.

About 30 local gladiators will leave the Third and Townsend roundhouse Saturday at 8:15 a.m., according to local maestro, Senor Lee Eisan.

Milkshakes Again Offered Eisan Clan

Denny Dairies, the sweet tooth benefactor of the college's football players, has awarded 10 milkshakes to Halfback John Rainey for being the first Ram to intercept an enemy forward pass during the San Mateo game at Balboa Field last Friday.

Meanwhile a certificate for 10 Denny ice cream sundaes is still in The Guardsman office, awaiting a claim from any Ram from the line or backfield to collect the certificate and treat the team.

The first recipient of a Denny award was Kenny White, Ram quarterback, who scored the first touchdown of the season and was awarded 15 milkshakes.

DENNY DAIRIES
321A West Portal Avenue

Serves the Finest Sandwiches and Ice Cream in San Francisco

MILK SHAKES
As Thick As You Want Them

Open 7 Days a Week till 12 p. m.

Music

Song Rallies Set To Familiarize College Music

In an attempt to familiarize the Associated Students with the college songs, the Music Department here, under the direction of Flossita Badger, will inaugurate a series of song rallies, the first of which is slated for Monday, November 4, at 2 p.m. in Room 200.

Motive for the series lies in recognition by college leaders that the majority of students do not know the college songs. This condition the music department seeks to remedy.

Emphasis will be placed on the college songs, Miss Badger said, but the group may also sing those songs that have survived "time and wear" to remain the all time favorites.

Informal gatherings of this nature have been held in the past in connection with some particular program. They proved such a success that the department has decided to hold them with a theme of their own.

In addition to the community singing, there will be featured soloists present to entertain, Miss Badger said.

Festivities will begin promptly at 2 p.m. under the direction of Madison Devlin with Gertrude Norgard, a new addition to the music faculty, at the piano.

The faculty as well as the student body is invited to attend and join the gathering in order to make the first song rally successful.

Pre-Modesto Rally To Feature Local Talent

Featuring local campus talent in a Variety Show, a rally is scheduled for Friday, November 8, during the college hour at 10:45, according to Al Moffat, Rally Commissioner.

The rally will herald the contest between the Modesto Pirates and the Rams. The pigskin tussle will take place in this city.

Approximately five amateurs, who will be chosen from volunteers, will appear on the show. Persons desiring to contribute their talent are asked to see the rally committee or Moffat.

Joaquin Garay, local celebrity of the Copacabana Club, is scheduled to make a personal appearance at a rally planned for Friday, November 22, Moffat also revealed.

Homecoming

LA Alumni Dance Set After SF Grid Tussle

Los Angeles, Oct. 28—Former students at Los Angeles City College will be welcomed back to the "old stamping ground" Saturday prior to the nocturnal renewal of gridiron rivalry between the Cubs and San Francisco Junior College.

A gala homecoming dance will be held on the campus and a dinner will be staged in the Student Union, according to Bob Hager, Alumni Association chairman. Alumni and guests will then be escorted to Gilmore Stadium.

Publications

Business Staff Added To Guardsman

The present semester marks the addition to The Guardsman of the business staff for the first time since 1942, advised by Joseph A. Amori, and composed of Charles Boehnke, Bob Hansen, and Burt Weir.

The staff has complete charge of all matters pertaining to advertising, circulation, paying the bills, and responsibility in all other business matters in connection with the publication of The Guardsman.

Of the three student members of the business staff, one will be named in the near future to the Publications Board. The present members of the board, as provided by the Associated Student Constitution, includes Bob Catudio, editor of The Guardsman, Dean Edward E. Sandys, Joan Nourse, Guardsman editorial adviser, and the editor of Forum Magazine. The constitution also provides that the Publications Board also include The Guardsman Business Manager.

Its function is further clarified in the Associated Students Constitution as follows:

"The Publications Board is responsible for all publications bearing the name of San Francisco Junior College, determines the status of official publications with the college other than those published by the Associated Students, and regulates distribution of any other printed material on the campus."

No publications, other than Associated Student official or recognized publications, may be distributed on the campus without the board's approval.

The Guardsman and the Student Handbook are the only official publications, and Forum Magazine is the only recognized publication.

College Hour Gives Way To Midterms

Because this Friday is the last day of midterm week, the regular hourly schedule of classes will be in effect, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said Friday.

Wednesday and Thursday, November 6 and 7, will be days conducted on the college hour schedule to allow the interval of 10:45 to 11:30 o'clock each day for distribution of midterm grades.

JUniper 7-7527
Sandwiches and Ice Cream to Take Out
Melody Fountain & Restaurant
Breakfast • Lunches • Dinners
Fountain Service • Sandwiches
JOSEPH and ALVERA VEGA, Proprietors
1641 OCEAN AVE. • SAN FRANCISCO

For
XMAS MONEY!
COLLEGE STUDENTS FOR SALES, CASHIERING AND STOCK WORK. POSITIONS OPEN NOW FOR SATURDAYS AND CHRISTMAS VACATION.
EXPERIENCE NOT NECESSARY BUT DESIRABLE.
APPLICATIONS NOW BEING ACCEPTED IN MOST ALL DEPARTMENTS.
A. Carlisle & Co. 135 POST STREET SAN FRANCISCO

Engineers Hibernation Over

Record Enlistment For 'Chain' Group

By Marge Wheatly

In virtually a hibernating state for several years, the college Engineering Society regained full consciousness this semester with more than 110 hustlers already blueprinted for the fall semester.

Nothing has stopped these beavers as they quickly dispensed with the business at their first meeting to elect Dick Diekman, president; James White, vice-president, and Dave Thorne, secretary.

Open to all engineering majors, the club has a lineup of guest speakers representing the various types of engineering jobs which will overlap the number of meetings planned for this semester.

Determined to have "no red tape, no dues, and no foolishness", Thorne explained the organization's two-fold program to acquaint fellow engineers with themselves and the various roads of their profession. An architectural major himself, Thorne stressed the fact that all chemical, mechanical, and electrical engineer majors, and all women interested in any of these fields, will be received with open arms.

BLUEPRINT FOR SECURITY might well be the aspirations of the trio of Engineering Society men pictured above. (Left to right) James White, Gordon Dickman, and Dave Thorne. Group adviser for the "metric chain gang" is William E. Mayo.—Photo by Lum.

During the college hours devoted to club meetings, movies from manufacturing concerns of all types will be shown. Evening meetings will be given to various guest speakers. All campus hour meetings will be held in Room 136.

Sponsored by William Mayo and James Schonn, engineering instructors at the college, the club has drafted a schedule to hold meetings every other week, and probably more often, according to Thorne.

"Not only engineers, but secretarial majors, are welcome to join the club to take notes for the boys during the meeting," Thorne declared.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jana Doran

• Beta Phi Beta: Old members welcomed back this semester are, Byrne Davis, Frank Reed, Walt Mooromsky, Jim Racer, Glen Stevens, Mark Atwood, and Earl Winkler, all recently discharged from the armed services.

• Beta Tau: A good time was enjoyed by all at the informal initiation held at Art Stranton's house on Russian River.

• Delta Psi: At a recent meeting Lucy May Lippert announced her engagement to Bob Schreiber, both students at the college. The second rush was given last Thursday at the home of Irene Breslawn.

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Final plans are being discussed for the "Remember When" dance which is planned for November 17 at the St. Francis Hotel.

• Kappa Phi: Plans for the pledge week are now being discussed.

• Phi Beta Rho: Sunday, November 3 is the time for the second rush.

• Pick and Hammer Club: Fall semester activities begin on Saturday evening, November 9 at 7:30 p.m. when the first meeting takes place at George Green's home, 160 Dunado Way. Business will include the election of officers and the planning of the semester field trip schedule, after which a guest speaker will be introduced. It is open to all students, and the club welcomes all those who are interested in geology to attend.

• Theta Tau: There will be a business meeting Wednesday night. The second rush has been planned for November 1, in the Student Lounge on the West Campus.

• Pi Mi Gamma: Membership is still open to all science majors. Anyone wishing to join should come either to the next club meeting at Room 204 or contact William Gretz, club president.

• NOI Society: Is starting a membership drive at the Excelsior School Extension.

Deadline for submitting club information to this column is 1 p.m. Monday and Wednesday.

AMERICA'S LARGEST MANUFACTURING RETAIL JEWELERS
Granat Bros.
SHREVE TRIAT & EACKET

Bulletin Boards

New Poster Committee Sets Up Office In Guardsman Room, Ready For Work

All college bulletin board display material will henceforth be checked and approved by a committee recently set up under the direction of William Eckert, graphic arts director.

This committee consists of Advertising Art students, and members of Kappa Alpha Sigma. They will be available in The Guardsman office, Building 12, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Steve Kritikakos is in charge, with Peggy McDonald and Richard Walls assisting.

These poster students will letter all posters needed by clubs and student groups for use in the college. The main bulletin ease on the first floor will be available for coming events. Poster sizes are not to be over 22 by 28 inches, and only one for each event, Eckert said.

The two bulletin boards directly behind the silver pole will be used for coming events and events of the week, Eckert explained, and all cards will be standard in size and lettered by the poster committee. All copy must be in the hands of poster artists at least one week in advance of the event.

Any posters not approved by these artists will be removed from the bulletin boards. Cards on these two bulletin boards will be up one week under heading "Coming Events" and then transferred for one week to "events of this week."

The display cases on the first floor will be supervised by Fanchon Gary. Request for their use must be made as far in advance as possible. Miss Gary is in Room 349 from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Monday and Thursday, and at 2 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday. Cards for the display cases can be obtained by leaving copy with poster artists at The Guardsman office. Eckert disclosed.

Deadline For Denman Scholarships Nov. 1

Applications for the James Denman Scholarships, awarded annually to a few women students of the college, must be submitted to Dean Margaret Dougherty not later than this Friday, November 1.

Two scholarships of $125, designed to aid students' educational expenses, are offered each year by Judge William Denman of the United States Circuit Court, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Cheatham, in memory of their father, the late James Denman, a former San Francisco school principal and superintendent, and later President of the Board of Education.

Applicants should discuss the contestants' previous scholastic record as well as plans and ambitions for the future.

The committee of judges will be composed of Ernest Cummings, Associate Superintendent of Schools; President A. J. Cloud, and Dean Dougherty.

Women applying for the scholarships must be graduates of one of San Francisco's public high schools, should have a good scholastic rating, and must be planning to graduate from this college.

All women students who qualify are encouraged to file their applications now.

Action To Be Taken On Stall In Vet Benefits

Veterans who applied for educational benefits under Public Law 346 (G.I. Bill) during registration week and who have not received Certificates of Eligibility are requested to report to the Veterans' Administration Office in Building 3 on the West Campus, in order that action may be taken to expedite the issuance of such certificates.

Veterans who have received their certificates and have decided not to use them are requested to report to the Veterans' Administration office.

BENNY'S RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—JUniper 4-9868

• MODEL BUILDERS •
TIRED OF BEING TAKEN?
TRY US ONCE AND COMPARE
BY MODEL BUILDERS FOR MODEL BUILDERS
FRANCISCAN HOBBIES
1803½ OCEAN AVENUE OPEN EVENINGS

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1946 No. 11

Registrar

Midterm Grades Out Wednesday, Thursday

Classes meet on the regular rather than the college hour schedule today, Friday, because this is the last day for mid-term examinations.

Mid-term grades will be distributed at meetings on Wednesday, November 6, and Thursday, November 7, at 10:45 a.m., with the college hour schedule.

Students whose last names begin in A to L, inclusive, will report to advisers on Wednesday, and those in the M to Z category on Thursday.

Room numbers for adviser-student meetings will appear in the next issue of The Guardsman.

Grant advised students who attend classes at Excelsior during the college hour to get grades as soon as possible thereafter.

Now that the first mid-term period is officially ended, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, issued official warning that students desiring leave of absence must keep in mind the legal procedure.

Wednesday, November 13, is the last day on which to drop a course, Miss Learnard warned, and no new classes may be entered now.

Three Faculty Members To Discuss World Unity

With President A. J. Cloud presiding as chairman of the evening, the question, Can We Attain World Unity? will be answered in a panel discussion among three members of the faculty on Tuesday evening, November 12, at 7:45 p.m., in the Administration Building on the West Campus, Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to the president, announced this week.

The program is being held as the college's participation in American Education Week, November 10 to 16. Members of the discussion group will include John E. Ross, William Goss, and John Gerstung.

"We wish particularly," Luckmann commented, "To invite parents, wives, and friends of students." Contrary to original plans, a dinner will not be given, but the cafeteria will remain open "to serve all who wish to avail themselves of excellent food," Luckmann declared.

Housing

Dormitories On West Campus Ready For 90 Single Vets

Additional housing accommodations on the West Campus for 90 unmarried veterans are ready for occupancy today, according to Fred C. McFarland, faculty member in charge of the West Campus.

Veterans wishing to live on the campus will be assigned, two to a room, on the upstairs of Buildings 6, 7, and 8. Each floor houses 30 men.

Before moving in, veterans must first pay a $10 deposit at the college bank in the main building, plus $15 for the first month's rent. The $10 deposits will be returned when the veterans move out, transfer, or graduate, providing no linens or blankets are missing, McFarland said.

Receipts for the deposit and first month's rent must be presented to McFarland in his office on the second floor of Building 2, where assignment of room will be made.

McFarland reported that he will interview veterans living in the dormitories for the position of floor proctors. "The job pays well," he said, "and we need three more."

Frosh Fantasy Dance Set For Next Friday

Plans for the largest Freshman dance to be held by the largest Freshman class in the history of the college progressed this week to the stage where the affair has officially been named the Freshman Fantasy.

The dance will take place next Friday evening, November 8. Sport dress will be the attire, and dancing is scheduled from 8:30 to midnight. Music will be provided by Hal Lent and his orchestra.

Those devoting their time to the affair are Freshman President, Ray Bisio; Bill Riley, vice-president; Lynn Crotoff, secretary; and committee members, Marie Wispell, Patt Sullivan, and Mary Cretan.

Admission to the Fantasy will be by Associated Student card only.

President Bisio announced Tuesday, "This is the largest Freshman class in the history of the college, and therefore, the Fantasy should have the largest turnout of any Freshman affair."

Song Rally Monday At Noon

SURPRISE PACKAGE in college music circles, Madeline La Fond makes her first vocal appearance here at Monday's song rally.—Photo by Wechter.

College Musicale To Feature Campus Music In Room 100

Taking its first bow of the fall semester, the music department, under the direction of Flossita Badger, begins a series of song rallies this coming Monday in Room 100 at 12 noon, with two soloists headlining the bill. This is a change from the previously planned hour and room.

Soprano highlights will be offered by Madeline La Fond, who has appeared in various operettas and U. S. O. shows. In her first semester at the college, Miss La Fond will make her initial appearance as a singer on the campus at this rally.

Also a newcomer to the college, Elmer Dickey will sing assorted baritone solos.

Seeking to acquaint students with the college songs, this series of rallies will place the main emphasis on these, with Madison Devlin, conductor for the affair, preparing projection slides of the songs.

With all faculty members and students invited to attend, the rally is only the beginning of many such informal gatherings planned.

Community singing not only of college songs, but also of old time favorites tops the entertainment, with Gertrude Norgard, latest addition to the music department faculty, at the piano.

Opera House Issues Call For Usherettes

The Russian Don Cossack production opening Friday, November 15, at the Opera House, is in drastic need of usherettes, Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, announced Tuesday.

Several other musical and theatrical productions being staged in the San Francisco area over the weekend are also in need of ushers and usherettes.

Dean Dougherty recommends ushering to all students who enjoy attending the colorful, prominent, and educational functions playing in the Bay Area.

Students who are interested are requested to visit Dean Dougherty in her office in Building 2 as soon as possible.

Radio Students On KPO Today At 2 P.M.

Four students of the college radio class will discuss the importance of the election this afternoon on the American School of the Air, aired over KPO at 2 o'clock.

Tanios Habeeb will be moderator for the group, which includes Bob Catudio, Carol Kennington, and Peter Galiano.

Merton Berecovich and Philip Silverman will meet with students from State College, University of San Francisco, and Gompers to wage pro and cons of the GI Bill of Rights on the Youth Looks to the Future program at 2 p.m. tomorrow over KQW.

Chest Drive Short; Campaign Extended

Having only 64.3 per cent of its quota filled, the Community Chest campaign has been extended to Friday, November 8. Originally the drive was scheduled to end on Monday, October 28, but because only $2,157.-181 of the $3,350,000 was collected up to that time, it was lengthened.

Two more volunteers from the college, making a total of seven, have offered their assistance in the campaign. They are Elmer Schenk and Alfred Ujic.

MAN WITH the Paul Robeson voice, Elmer Dickey will sing Ol' Man River at Monday's college song rally.—Photo by Wechter.

Red Feather

Tuesday Dance To Raise Chest Funds

A "Feather Merchant's Dance" to be held next Tuesday, November 5, starting at 11 a.m., in the Student Lounge under the cooperative sponsorship of various college organizations, will put another feather in the college's cap.

This time it will be the Red Feather of the Community Chest, for the dance is being held for the purpose of raising funds to donate to that organization.

The Associated Women Students, the XGI Society and the Chinese Club are cooperating at present in making arrangements for the dance. However, all other college organizations are invited to participate in this beneficial affair.

Those organizations wishing to do so should so inform Trev Burrow, Guardsman News Editor, in The Guardsman office, located in Building 12.

The dance is unusual in the respect that it will be held from 11 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, making it possible for the majority of the students to attend.

Admission will be free, but it is hoped that donations, which will be collected during the dance, will amount to a substantial sum.

UN Observer Luckmann Due In N. Y. Nov. 10

Leaving by United Airlines Saturday night, November 9, at 5 p.m., Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to the President, will arrive in New York on Sunday morning, November 10, to be an observer at the United Nations Conference.

Luckmann will act as a correspondent for The Guardsman, making the junior college one of the first junior colleges to have a correspondent at the Conference.

Some Reservations Left For L. A. Trip

Students planning to attend the Los Angeles City College game tomorrow at Gilmore Stadium in Hollywood may contact Dean Haug, Associate Student president, for possible remaining reservations.

An estimated 400 students have already made arrangements to attend the big game through services provided by the Emporium Travel Bureau and special service branch of Southern Pacific railroad.

Haug, speaking for the Student Council, urged that all students going to the Los Angeles game wear rooters' caps.

Council

Student Card Loss Hits Cage Request

Because $2,400 was refunded to 600 students who have left college, the Associated Student reserve fund is exhausted.

This information was revealed to the Student Council at last Tuesday's meeting by Oscar Anderson, controller, through Assistant Dean John Brady.

Thus the $350 previously granted by the council to Ralph Hillsman, basketball coach, was rescinded, and no additional supplementary budgets can be accepted.

Dean Edward E. Sandys announced that a number of terra cotta pipes to be used as ash urns would be installed as soon as possible. The money for these urns will be provided by the Dean's and Controller's funds.

Smoking will be allowed in the vicinity of these depositories, Dean Sandys said.

Strong emphasis has been placed on the fact that anyone smoking in an unauthorized location will answer to the Judiciary Committee which has the authority, with the approval of President A. J. Cloud to recommend to him that violators be expelled from the college. It has been established by the State Board of Education that the possession of cigarets by a student on the campus is sufficient cause for expulsion.

Symphony Forum—Most Peaceful Campus Club

No Dues, Roll Call— Just Music On Agenda

By Marge Wheatly

The most peaceful club on the campus, and the easiest to join, is the Symphony Forum Club, headed by Martha Lee, as president. With no dues, no roll call, no lengthy business—just music on its agenda—the organization invites all students to wander into its meetings and listen. Such constitute requirements for membership.

Foremost among its activities this semester is the obtaining of season symphony tickets at reduced rates for students. Available at the bank for the last time today, the orchestra, box and grand tier season tickets cost $18, while tickets for the dress circle, balcony circle and balcony are $12.75.

As the only officer, Miss Lee pointed out that the club is not wrapped up in cumbersome details, but that its sole aim is "to increase knowledge and understanding and therefore the enjoyment of college students at symphony programs."

SERIONSLY INTERESTED in Symphonic music, Martha Lee, Symphony Forum president, also finds a place for jazz and swing.—Photo by Wechter.

A music major herself, Miss Lee explained that this policy is carried out by listening to records and through the discussion of the music which is presented, and that not only music majors but all students are welcomed.

In its second year at the college, the organization is one of several groups established in Bay Area colleges, started and sponsored by the San Francisco Musical Association about eight years ago at Stanford and also at the University of California.

With Elossita Badger, head of the music department, as its sponsor, the campus branch of this constal euphonic organization will command its share of artists for college appearances.

Scheduled to appear "in the flesh" sometime this semester is Field Boone of the San Francisco Musical Association, according to Miss Lee.

Taking over the chairmanship of the club last semester when Marvin Silverman left, Miss Lee carried her duties over this semester. A graduate of Lincoln High, she heads the club as an exponent of symphonic music, does not frown on jazz and swing, and is a pianist and promising composer.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 11 Friday, November 1, 1946 Page 2

Force Versus Farce

Law And Order Rise Anew

WE have now grown to the status of a full-sized college whose educational and physical limits know no boundary.

With this realization in mind we find another Judiciary Committee on hand, appointed by the Student Council to "enforce" law and order on the campus.

"A Committee of five, a Force of thirteen."

Regulations and duties of the judiciary group will consist of "patroling dances and campus activities" and other daily campus actions that are far too menial and miscellaneous to mention.

There has always been talk and discussion involving the expulsion of students whose conduct was unbecoming a student of the collegiate level.

What constitutes the line between good conduct and that of a contrary nature? Has a student the actual right to "arrest" a fellow offender to the point of blockading his privilege to further attend college?

Numerous people will say "No," and be perfectly correct in their various attitudes. It can seem impractical to foresee a member of the "force" hailing an offender into the committee room because of some minor infraction of the committee's doing.

By all means, we are not ridiculing the selection of the Student Council, nor are we casting stones at the judiciary powers. In order to be honest, the facts must be tossed upon the table.

We can say safely that "the committees under discussion" will be watched by all and judged by what actions they take—provided potential misdemeanors are listed prior to arrestive action.

Gentlemen of the jury. We have one good and solid organization in the making that can either be a "force" or a "farce."

Ford

After Dark

THAT THING is here again! To be sure, The San Francisco Museum of Art, presenting (blast of bugles) The Art in Cinema, Series One. Now that animation as an art form has brought (or broughten) happiness into the beating, loving hearts of animaties, the series moves on and tonight presents some Contemporary Experimental Films in America, including Maya Deren's latest film, RITUAL IN TRANSFIGURED TIME, the complete works of John and James Whitney, and others.

It might be well to throw a few more remarks in here in the nature of a plug, and, incidentally, a plug where a plug is needed. The series is trying to accomplish several ends, which are pretty stiff against Hollywood (Synonymous here with Commercialism, whichever you like best). For one thing, Art in Cinema is trying to show the relation between the film and other art media—sculpture, painting, and poetry. It is also trying to stimulate a wee-bitty chunk of interest in the film as a creative art medium, which, unfortunately, requires SOME participation by the audience.

Contrast, if you will, the wide-eager eyed, passionate sincerity of the Art in Cinema audience to the gum-chewing, half-dead, vicariously thrilled, indigestion bloated ganglion of shifting heads that gazes dully up at a series of non-realistic, fantastic, glittering absurdities. That, dear ladies and gentlemen, is a Hollywood audience. You speak of exceptions? Granted—granted—there are exceptions to everything, but try, for just a moment, to consider the overall deleterious effects of the Hollywood output of gay phatasmigoria. NOT that there's anything wrong with Hollywood, you understand?

On top of all that, the series is trying to give assistance to those contemporary artists who labor in obscurity in America with no distribution channels for their work. In connection with creative film freedom, a bit of parallelism is quite in keeping, namely: The founding forefathers of America came here and founded what is now a great empire (i.e. The United States of America).

It's the same way with the cinema as an art form. Certain artists today want to free the film from the restricted limitations imposed by the Hollywood Monarchy. This group of artists wants to bring a real and vital art form, via the cinema, to the American public, and some day, with the help of Congress, God, and Hollywood they will. Salude ArteenCineema!

Around And About

with Nagle

TODAY marks the end of the first mid-term period. Professors, after lining the students up against the firing squad of flunkable examination questions, have decided that rather than give the death penalty of an "F" (not for fine, either) they will reprieve the students for another six weeks, and in the meantime give them a briefing on how to correctly study.

So for the benefit of all those students who missed the classes following the mid-term examinations, this column will list a few of the study habits which should be acquired—and may a professor strike us dead if we don't follow them!

Always be in good health before studying. If one has a cold, headache, or cracked sacroiliac just notify the instructor . . . all are sympathetic . . . and take a week off and go to the sea shore and recuperate.

OUT WITH THE PIN-UPS

Remove any physical hinderances that effect study habits. Yes, that means pin-ups of Lana Turner and Greg Peck. No one can expect to study—much less remember anything while gazing into the limpid pools of Gregory's cornea.

NOT THE THING—BUT PLACE

Form a place-study habit and study there all the time. Harrington's No. 5—table to the right is excellent. But be sure and use the same table all the time. Association with study, you know.

Wear comfortable clothes. Tight binding clothes bring distraction. A large insulated sheet with a hole cut in the middle for the head is wonderful.

DON'T STUDY—RELAX

Never memorize, read, nor do intensive studying immediately after a big meal or late at night—whenever fatigue has entrenched itself in the body go to a relaxing movie, and tell the instructor you followed the rules of study and were so extremely fatigued you couldn't study. If perchance the instructor is the non-understanding type, gulp another cup of black coffee, take a shot of benzedrine, open the books, and read and digest, read and digest.

Following the above rules—no doubt will surprise all the instructors "beyond words" next mid-term period. Everyone will get straight F's (this time for fine).

STANDBY

WE were chatting bith BRUTUS HAMILTON, U. C. dean of men, at Memorial Stadium. Clad in flannels and a loose-fitting polo wrapover, the good dean was apparently on a busman's holiday.

"Nope. Not a holiday. Came here to scout Kiemmer. See what kind of a team he's got . . . " (Final: Ramblers 11, Lambs 0.)

You can look for a "brand new book store" along Ocean Avenue. More people than you know are mighty interested in the deal . . . DENNY MILLER, candidate for All-NCJCC grid plaudits, is being tagged as another Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy." Helfitz, Rubinoff, and Miller!

Insiders claim the real reason why "Heaven Can Wait" was lopped from the college's dramatics schedule is: A top hat group of silk and four figure salaries is seriously planning to take a fling at the New England straw hat circuit and Broadway later in the season.

Hence, localities will have to be satisfied with "Black Flamingo."

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Hoss Versus Dawg—With Student And Vet Splitting Take

THEY'RE off in the first race at Bay Meadows! The noble nags are thundering down the stretch for the glory of the Sport of Kings and bigger and better textbooks in California classrooms.

When the odds switch on a favored bangtail, the state school system gets an added boost, and when Tote boards light up like Christmas trees, everybody's happy except the guy holding the wrong mutuel ticket.

Sporting a ten million dollar halo bought by its annual contribution to the furtherance of higher learning within the Golden State, the horse racing industry is about to do battle to protect the little red schoolhouse and the little green barns from going to the dogs.

THE POOCHES ARE BACK

Greyhound racing is knocking at the borders again; the hounds and electric bunnies are back once more with a halo all their own, thanks to the war and state veterans, wanting to set up house and kick in yearly towards vet rehabilitation.

Pious looks are more evident than ever around the stables of Santa Anita and Bay Meadows this season. During election month all jockeys will wear specs and refrain from coarse language. Bookmakers will go into serene seclusion until the menace is done away with.

TEXT BOOKS AND RACING FORMS

Gambling's illegality has been pounded from pulpit to blackboard, text books used throughout state classrooms contain miles of wording against any form of it, and many instructors have broken up a recess crap game among wayward students.

Yet every desk contains a by-product of the pari-mutuel age, and each class recital is an indirect salute to the majestic thoroughbred, his clean living jockey booting him home, and that little man who isn't always there the bookie.

Now the horse racing industry rises to its fullest stature to denounce dog racing as an illegal and unwanted form of gambling.

LEGION AND VFW SPEAK PIECE

The two largest vet organizations in the country have had words regarding the coming Proposition No. 2 as to whether the greyhounds shall or shall not race within the state, and their outlooks differ somewhat.

American Legion spokesmen are agin' the measure and have joined the horse racing industry and its biggest backers, the motion picture business, to call greyhound running a vicious racket and a form of gambling.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

PEOPLE might say there is little spirit among the students at this college; in fact, that cry has been sounded loudly and repeatedly during the eleven years the college has been in existence.

Maybe this condition of spiritlessness did exist in past years; there is reason to doubt it. But that it does not exist today is evident. To rave and rant that we "must get some real college spirit" is entirely an excess.

What is true is that the boisterous, enthusiastic loyalty which was heretofore defined as constituting real college spirit is passe in 1946. Today students find themselves bound together by common goals and interests, rather than merely by rah-rah enthusiasm evidenced in the revered athletic teams. Students have found that it is not entirely necessary to be rabid football fans in order to say that they have attained a certain degree of education.

There are, without a doubt, many who enjoy sports events with all their hearts, and who can still find time to attend games in addition to homework, and what goes with studying. They are bound together in the traditionally spirited way and lend an air of pre-war college live-wired zealousness to the campus.

However, there is also a large group, perhaps more than half, who have either escaped from or have simply outgrown this youthful form of exuberance, and who are content with a more sedentary existence, substituting mental exercise for the physical. This is the group whom the more energetic among us condemn as being spiritless, in fact, utter drudges and grinds, and who we are always trying to persuade to buy tickets to this, that and the other event.

Even though it might appear from outward observation that there is a definite rift among students because of these two very diverse attitudes, there is no real reason why there should be, since the college itself is by far the strongest binding factor.

As long as the intrinsic factor of people working side by side, under the same roof towards a definite goal exists, whatever their methods and means of achieving that goal are becomes secondary in importance, and unity of objective is primary.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

• "Quit Griping"
Editor, The Guardsman:

In answer to the Student Unity Club letter by Manuel Joffe. As I understand it, you brought your charter up before the CAB, and it was refused. The CAB is composed of members representing the different clubs of the college and thus give a pretty good cross-section of opinions from these organizations.

Now why, after bringing your constitution up before these people and having it looked over carefully and rejected, do you persist in saying that it was not fair and continue to make fools out of yourselves?

You don't seem to realize that every charter must go through the same bisecting ordeal that yours went through. If yours was rejected why not be a good sport about it and quit "griping". A Disgusted Student

• No Rank Pulling
Editor, The Guardsman:

In answer to Herbert Levy: Nothing in the G.I. Bill or any of the regulations of the Board of Education limits the "rights and privileges" of going to school to veterans.

Mr. Levy seems to think that the girls are not mature enough to profit from a course in college. Mere age and length of service does not guarantee maturity or special "rights and privileges."

We are students of S.F.J.C., not veterans and non-veterans. Most veterans had enough rank pulled on them in the services. There is no reason for veterans, or anybody else, to pull rank now. J. A. Spears, Jr.
(A 32 Year Old Veteran)

• No GI Priority
Editor, The Guardsman:

In reply to the "Greedy Girl Students" letter, I would like to point out that the idea expressed is only one person's opinion.

There are two points in the letter which do not go together. The first of these is "immature women". I agree with the writer that the majority of females in this college are immature. Never-the-less, if they have the

(Continued on page 4, column 2)

Students Deluge Horn With Opposition To H. L., Say Girls Here Not "Greedy"

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Robert A. Cajudio
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR ..... June Sheehy
FEATURE: Betty L. Covanor, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chamas, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Mara Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Staten Webster, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser ..... Joan Nourse
Business Adviser ..... Joseph Amori

Rams, Cubs Battle Tomorrow Night

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 11 FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1946 Page 3

Lineups

SAN FRANCISCO	Pos.	LOS ANGELES
8 Poznekoff	LER	Ramos 98
21 Psaltis	LTR	Josephs 94
9 Belcher	LGR	McCroskey 80
22 Didio	C	Bauers 84
19 Miller	RGL	De Pasquale 82
88 Smith	RTL	Giampetro 83
15 Cronn	REL	Schlossman 99
7 Webster	Q	(c) Schroeder 66
12 Ekdall (c)	LHR	Embree 57
18 Corey	RHL	Taylor 62
25 Leong	F	DaPorte 92

Football

Gilmore Stadium Scene Of North-South Clash; Townies Face Southland Jinx Before Expected 7,000 Angelenos

By Bob Catudio

TRAVELING SOUTHBOUND WITH THE RAMS—If there is a look of somber reckoning about Lee Eisan blame it on the coming invasion of the tinsel trappings that lie in the abyss that houses Los Angeles and all points south.

The intra-state showdown — the Rams versus Los Angeles City College's Cubs—unravels itself tomorrow night at Gilmore Stadium in LA at 8 o'clock before an anticipated throng of 7,000 fans.

Tangling for the first time since 1942, the Cubs, coached by newcomer Don Newmeyer, are perched atop 1½ to 1 pre-tussle predictions. The townies last defeated the Cubs, 7 to 6, in 1940, and have won four games to L.A.'s three.

Doubtful Action For Captain

Angeleno Captain Willie Wong, who dislocated his shoulder when the Cubs dropped a 28 to 26 decision to the Bakersfield Junior College Renegades, may ride the pine bench in favor of Reserve Johnny McCroskey.

The locals, on the other hand, are in creditable shape and minds are riding hope and hopefully. Recent founders of a combined air-ground offensive, the Eisans, top guns in the northern half of the state, "are ready!"

The line play of the villagers, vastly under-rated early in the campaign has shown remarkable improvement. Wingmen John Alaimo and Roland Stern are backing starters Jim Cronn and spectacular Ray Poznekoff in surprising authenticity.

Tackles are backed three deep. Art Psaltis, ex-Missionite, and ponderous Glenn Smith can now expect reliable relief from elongated Don Rooker and Glenn "PAT specialist" Hoffman. Ready in reserve are Al Drake, Paul Dotur, and Bill Cassidy.

Townies Well-Stocked Now

Rock-ribbed guard Denny Miller and squat Stan Belcher, best duo in the circuit, are a tackle and a prayer above two year vet Don Grant and George Maganaris.

Ex-trackster Johnny Didio, the brittle one, and Ken Schuchard are posted for split pivot duty.

"I'm not complaining about our offense," Eisan yesterday voiced, "because we've shown an ability to score when it counts. Los Angeles has always been tough. Maybe this is our year."

That the locals can pass when forced to was evident in last week's Ram-San Mateo Junior College contest when the locals piled up three touchdowns via passing spurts of George Newell and Art Ekdall.

The nocturnal passing jinx that has given way to strictly ground play may still infest the townies tomorrow night.

Nonetheless, Eisan and all the little Eisans were out of the Third and Townsend depot early this morning schedlled to arrive in Los Angeles today at 6:15 p.m.

Official traveling ensemble:

Ends—John Alaimo, Jim Cronn, Mack Henry, Sterling Orgain, Ray Poznekoff, Roland Stern.

Tackles—Glenn Hoffman, Art Psaltis, Don Rooker, Glen Smith.

Guards—Stan Belcher, Don Grant, George Maganaris, Denny Miller.

Centers—Johnny Didio, Ken Schuchard.

Backs—Bob Cavender, Carter Corey, Howard Crouch, Art Ekdall, Marshall Leong, George Newell, John Rainey, Wilfred Slattery, Staten Webster, Ken White, Otis Williams, Bob Woodworth.

FLEET-FOOTED HALFBACK Duane Chaney tried his best to carry the mail for San Mateo before finally halted by approaching Stan Belcher (9) of the Rams. Dick Slade (60) and Jack Donaldson (39) of San Mateo and Bob Cavender of the townies complete the family circle.—Photo by Lum.

NCJCC GRIDIRON RACE

Team	Won	Lost	PS	PA	Pct.
SAN FRANCISCO	4	0	74	24	1.000
Modesto	2	2	38	33	.500
San Mateo	1	1	21	42	.500
Sacramento	1	2	31	26	.333
Salinas	0	2	0	31	.000

Basketball

79 Turn Out For Varsity Cage Team

Seventy-nine basketeers, among them war veterans, high school players, and returning varsity stars, with the familiar sounds of "rebound, zone defense, and dribble" ringing in their ears, greeted Coach Ralph Hillsman in the first official basketball turnout on the campus last Tuesday.

Hopes are running high throughout the college that Coach Hillsman, in his first coaching job for the Rams, will bring home the bacon with a championship five. A former casaba star himself at the college during the pre-war years, the quick thinking, and dark-eyed Hillsman could express only a determined hope when he stated:

"The turnout this year was so great that to pick out any group of players or any individual is not possible at the present time. However, within the next few weeks we plan to organize the players into squads."

In addition to the regular varsity five, Hillsman intends to inaugurate a junior varsity. This Lamb five will play the preliminary games to the main contests which their big brothers, the Rams, will play.

Anticipating that the other junior colleges will possess strong teams, the Ram basketball coaching staff is scheduling various high school and private basketball clubs for their practice games, both for the Ram and Lamb squads.

Leadoff of these games with the different clubs and teams that Coach Hillsman has planned for his players, is that in which the Rams take to the court against the United States Marines of San Francisco on Thursday, November 14, here, in the men's gymnasium.

The Ram mentor expressed his most desired hope when he stated:

"I would like to have as many fellows sign up for basketball as possible. If there are any men who missed the first signup for basketball, they can see me in the men's gymnasium during the day, or at practice which begins at 2 p.m. every afternoon. No one knows how good a ball player he is until he has played out on the court."

WAA

Sacto Hockey Play Day Postponed; Mary Lee Appointed Club Vice-Prexy

Postponement of the hockey play day with Sacramento City College this Saturday was announced by Frances Scilipoti, women's athletic association president, inasmuch as the WAA club has had only a few meetings in which they could practice this semester.

"The play-day is only postponed," Miss Scilipoti said, "and will be scheduled again before the end of the semester. In the meantime, the club is practicing weekly, and has invited Richmond Union High School to play a practice game with them soon."

Several women have qualified for SF blocks from last spring, Miss Scilipoti announced, and the women who did not receive their blocks at the Tourney Week banquet last spring are asked to call for the blocks at the women's gymnasium. These women include Mary Hall, Nadine Lacy, Dee Roberts, Pat Desmond, and Connie Trigonis.

In lieu of the postponed Sacramento hockey play day, Miss Scilipoti announced a scheduled play day with Santa Rosa Junior College on November 16.

Mary Lee was appointed vice president of the club to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Ann Ahokas.

L. A. Homecoming Fete Includes Ram Game

Los Angeles, Oct. 31—Former students of Los Angeles City College will flock back to their campus hangouts Saturday as the college stages its semi-annual homecoming day for old grads.

Alumni will register on the campus and will be taken on a tour which will be climaxed by a reunion dinner at Student Union.

Guests and friends will then join a caravan to Gilmore Stadium, scene of the Cub-San Francisco Junior College football game Saturday night.

Cage Post For Wilson

Tom Wilson, college intramural director, is the new vice-president of the Northern California Basketball Coaches and Officials Association. Lloyd Leith was voted president and Bob Britt was given the secretary-treasurer post.

For

XMAS MONEY!

COLLEGE STUDENTS FOR SALES, CASHIERING AND STOCK WORK. POSITIONS OPEN NOW FOR SATURDAYS AND CHRISTMAS VACATION.

EXPERIENCE NOT NECESSARY BUT DESIRABLE.

APPLICATIONS NOW BEING ACCEPTED IN MOST ALL DEPARTMENTS.

A. Carlisle & Co. 135 POST STREET SAN FRANCISCO

BENNY'S RAM SHACK

1051 Ocean Avenue

Phone—RAndolph 9632

Intramural

Lamb Quintet Ties Scoring Record, Swamp XGI 105-25

Rapidly proving to be one of the best teams in the intramural basketball league, the high-flying Lamb quintet tied a 1942 scoring record for intramural basketball play when they cut loose and flooded the basket from all sides and swamped the XGI squad, 105 to 25.

Behind Pete Bucciarelli's 18 points, the Ramblers won their second game in as many starts by nosing out the Tigers, 46 to 37. The Chinese Social Club downed the Buccaneers 55 to 49.

Because of a change in the schedule, the Poops were forced to forfeit their game to the Tau Chi Sigma five and the Operators won on a forfeit from the Portals. The game between Los Vaqueros and the East Bay Trotters was postponed.

Following is the schedule for games to be played Tuesday, November 5:

Scheduled for 4 o'clock: Lambs vs. Portals; Tigers vs. Tau Chi Sigma; Buccaneers vs. Los Vaqueros.

Scheduled for 5 o'clock: XGI vs. East Bay Trotters; Chinese Social Club vs. Poops; Ramblers vs. Operators.

INTRA CAGE STANDINGS

	W	L	Pct.
Lambs	2	0	1.000
Ramblers	2	0	1.000
Operators	2	0	1.000
Los Vaqueros	1	0	1.000
East Bay Trotters	1	0	1.000
Chinese Social Club	1	1	.500
Tau Chi Sigma	1	1	.500
Tigers	1	1	.500
X. G. I.	0	2	.000
Buccaneers	0	2	.000
Poops	0	2	.000
Portals	0	2	.000

Intramural Grid Play Starts Today

Intramural football wanders into the limelight this afternoon with three games scheduled to inaugurate the 1946 season.

With 12 teams signed up for competition, Director Tom Wilson has divided the teams into two leagues, the All-American and the National. Games will be played every Monday and Friday on the field behind the men's gymnasium with the starting time for the first game set for 3 p.m.

The All-American League will open the proceedings Friday with the Poly Alumni Club clashing with the Cowboys at 3 o'clock.

At 3:40, the Beta Tau squad meets the college counterpart of the Galloping Gaels. The Seagulls and the Turtles will fight it out in the night-cap scheduled to start at 4:15.

The National League provides the competition on Monday with the Tau Chi Sigma squad playing the Portals at 3 p.m. The Albany Bulldogs meet the XGI gridders at 3:40 and the Smoked Irish tangle with the Chinese Social Club in the finale.

JUniper 7-7527

Sandwiches and Ice Cream to Take Out

Melody Fountain & Restaurant

Breakfast • Lunches • Dinners
Fountain Service • Sandwiches

JOSEPH and ALVERA VEGA, Proprietors

1641 OCEAN AVE. • SAN FRANCISCO

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Beta Tau: A joint meeting with the Phi Beta Rho is scheduled for next Wednesday.

•Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: A joint meeting is planned for tonight with the Kappa Phi.

•Forum Club: "Can Music Be Censored?" is the subject for discussion for the next meeting at Adviser Dorothy Mercer's home, 2251 Jackson street, apartment 4. Helen Ringius is chairman and Michael Coco and Roy Abad are to be guest speakers.

•Kappa Phi: There will be a joint meeting tonight with the Tri Epsilon Fraternity.

•Mu Iota Psi is the new name given to this organization which was formerly the Music Club. Pins are now being designed at Granat Brothers. Plans for a booth at the Mardi Gras will be discussed at the next meeting, a social affair to be held at the home of Gertrude Norgard, adviser.

•Newman Club: All Catholic students are invited to attend the meeting and dance Monday night, November 4, at 8 o'clock at St. Emydius Hall. Refreshments will be served.

•Theta Tau: The second rush affair will be held this evening from 7 to 9 in the Student Lounge on the West Campus. The affair is a "Lights Out Party."

•XGI Society: A meeting of XGI officers with other college veteran organizations' officers will be held November 6 in the War Memorial Building. Members are not required to attend.

•Chess Club: A meeting will take place today in Room 140 for all students interested in chess or checkers.

Modesto Game Rally Scheduled Next Week

To promote enthusiasm for the gridiron gamble between the Modesto Buckaneers and the Rams, a rally will be held in front of the West Campus auditorium Friday, November 8, during the college hour at 10:45, Al Moffat, rally commissioner, announced.

Entertainment headliners will be the Three J's, a trio of songsters who have made many public appearances around the Bay Area.

The Ram's performance against the Pirates will mark the game of the season and possibly chalk up another victory to the Ram's near perfect record.

Joaquin Garay, of Copacabana fame, will be the guest entertainer for the following rally slated for Friday, November 22, during the college hour, Moffat related.

The college hour calendar schedules club meetings for Friday, November 15, and Friday, December 13.

Soph Formal Setting Is St. Francis Hotel

Climaxing the semester's calendar of social events will be the Sophomore formal, booked for Friday, January 24, in the Italian and Colonial Rooms of the St. Francis Hotel, Nancy Cunningham, associated student vice-president, revealed.

The date the tickets will go on sale has not yet been determined, but the price has been set at $1.50 per couple, Miss Cunningham said.

On our shelves for Your Approval and Enjoyment

The Latest and Finest in Music as reproduced by the Major Recording Studios

The El Rey Music Shop

1949 Ocean Avenue

ELdridge 0911

Records Record Albums

Sheet Music

Store Hours:- 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

"Your Music Appreciation is Our Stock in Trade."

More Ram's Horn . . . "Women Are Women, Thank Heavens"

(Continued from page 2)

ability, I can see no reason whatsoever for barring them from attending a higher educational school.

The other fact is Mr. Levy's objection to women attending this college. If he doesn't like it, he can, and may, go to a private school.

My belief is that the average ex-G.I. wants only an equal chance to go to school, not a priority. This belief is supported by many other ex-G.I.'s to whom I have spoken.

From the manner in which the letter was expressed, I am inclined to think that the writer was a company clerk (without pulling details) for three or more years. The probability is that he did not even get within twenty yards of the gangplank of a troop-ship bound for overseas.

A Trooper from the 124th Cavalry

• Women Deserve Cheer

Editor, The Guardsman:

These few thoughts are dedicated to Herbert Levy and such persons that feel that the "giddy women" of the college should relinquish their higher education in order that the veterans might have an easier chance at the higher institutions of learning.

It is the patriotic duty of everyone to widen his scope of knowledge in order to stamp out the prejudice and ignorance that results in bloody battlefields.

The consequent shortage of manpower has made conditions such that more women than ever before will have to furnish a livelihood for themselves and possible dependents.

All women are not so fortunate that they have all their finances furnished. There are those who are having to work with little or no outside help. These persons deserve a cheer rather than insulting, half-thought-over remarks.

It may be concluded that those "immature girls" will be made to discontinue their education if they are interested in the social aspects rather than perception of learning.

Lucille Branton and Gloria Lindley

• Seriousness Overworked

Editor, The Guardsman:

What were women before they were women? They were girls. How many veterans would have gone to college if the government hadn't provided the chance? This is a democracy and that's why you can say what you want regardless of whether it hurts someone or not.

Colleges are training grounds for the citizens of the future and since women have a part in this government why shouldn't they also be trained? If this school is too childish for you why don't you go to another one?

Women are women and thank heavens for that. The serious minded veteran is a great thing but, after all, why not have a little fun. Too much war has given too many people a too serious outlook on life.

Raymond Blsio
Veteran World War II

• He'll Be Sorry

Editor, The Guardsman:

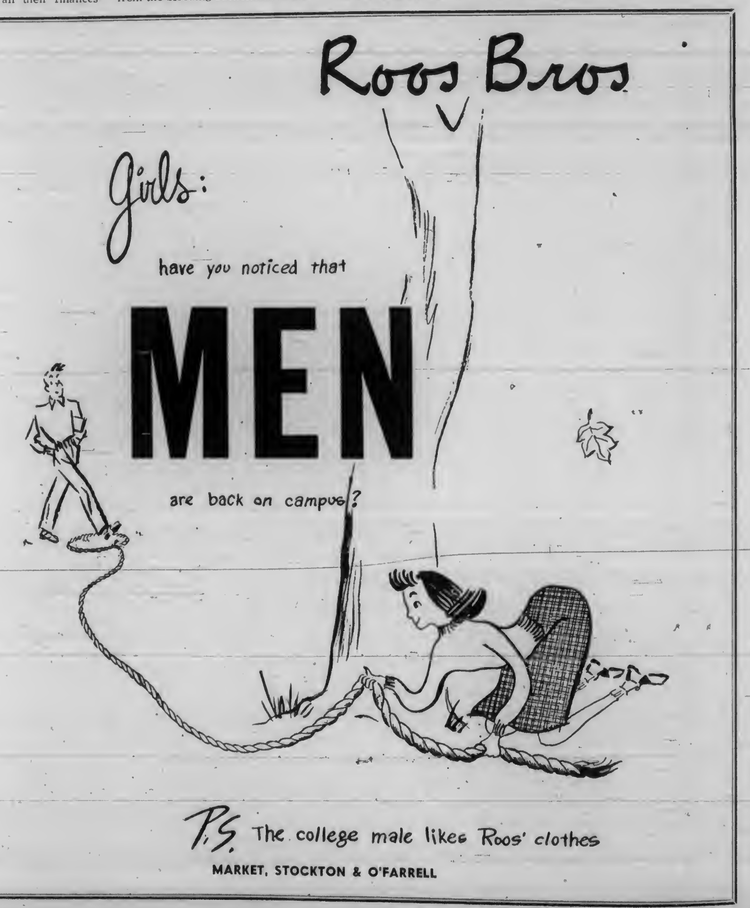
In answer to your letter in The Guardsman about Greedy Women. I think this Herbert Levy is as crazy as they come. It looks like he is trying to wave the flag in the girls faces, about this returning from the blooding battlefields of the world. This is one man's opinion and this doesn't mean that the othere veterans doesn't want women in this college. Because for one, I do.

If he doesn't like the women going to this college, why doesn't he get out, or transfere to all boys college. There are many in the state of California.

I was out there too, but that doesn't mean I wanted to be there. I know that if a man goes to the service he will come out more mature than he went in with.

But same men don't like the girl to be more mature than he is.

And this stuff that an ambitious veteran may have a chance to learn something, the girls wouldn't bother you if you don't bother them.



The girls like to grow up knowing something. Most men don't want dumb girls for wives, maybe this Herbert Levy does but I don't

We fought for this right, so that the people in the United States can go where they please.

So what right have this Herbert Levy got to say that the girls shouldn't go to JC or any other college.

I think this H. L. should write a piece saying that he is sorry for what he said.

Wesley Eagleson
Navy Veteran

Science

Du Pont Sponsors Demonstration For Engineering Society

Sponsored by the college Engineering Society, and featuring an array of new chemistry products, L. F. Livingston, Extension Division Manager of the du Pont Company, will present a lecture-demonstration here on Tuesday, November 19.

Announcement of this event was made this week by Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud.

Among the creations of chemistry Livingston will show are new plastics, drinking cups, lace, glider tow ropes, and netting made of nylon; flame-proofed cloth and wood; and neophrene synthetic rubber.

The extension division manager will also explain the mysteries of the new insecticide, DDT, and the manufacture of such new developments as rayon tire cords and cellulose sponges.

Livingston is an engineer graduate of the University of Washington. With du Pont since 1929, he served formerly as a faculty member of the University of Wisconsin.

Hallowe'en Spirit Seizes Women Students

The fervor of Hallowe'en gripped the home economics classes this week when the lab groups staged a number of parties, the last of which was held this morning.

In true All Saints tradition, the dining room of the economics department was decorated in an autumn and spook theme.

Refreshments for the parties were furnished by the women taking the course.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1946 No. 12

Community Chest

Clubs Sponsor Red Feather Campaign Dance Today, 11-4

Main event in the campus drive for the Community Chest goes on in the Student Lounge, building 2, West Campus, today from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., when college organizations sponsor a Feather Merchants Dance. Trev Burrow, chairman of the dance committee, announced.

Asking no charge for admission, the clubs look for voluntary donations to push college participation in the drive to the top for San Francisco institutions.

Societies Grant Funds

Meeting last Wednesday evening in the Student Lounge, the presidents and representatives of most college clubs designed plans for the dance, with various groups donating funds to back the affair.

Amounting to $135, these society grants furnished decorations, refreshments, and new records for the dance, with the remainder being turned over to the Community Chest.

Contributing associations were the Alpha Lambda Chi with $10; Pep Club, $15; Beta Phi Beta, $10; Engineers Society, $10; Kappa Phi, $5; Delta Psi, $5; XGI, $15; Chinese Club, $20; Hotel and Restaurant Division, $10; TZN, $5; Tri Epsilon, $10; Theta Tau, $5; Alpha Gamma Sigma, $5; Sophomore Class, $5; Freshman Class, $5.

Lambda Chi Decorates

Under the direction of Alpha Lambda Chi with Nancy Cunningham as president, the Student Lounge was decorated for the event, while the XGI Society shares the managerial load by furnishing the music from records and the Public Address System.

Headed by Burrow, the committee appointed at the Wednesday night meeting to take charge of the dance consists of Nancy Stookey, Nancy Hutchens, Nancy Cunningham, John Tolley, Don Clark, Kent Bowker, and Chester Fong.

XGI Calls Meeting

Called by the XGI Society, "this meeting of organization heads was the first jump in an attempt to coordinate campus clubs into a working unit facing college problems together.

The idea for the dance, first of the joint functions of the groups, came as a spontaneous response from the presidents to the latest civic drive for the Community Chest. All funds collected will be donated to the drive in the name of the college.

Brady "Pep" Man Of College

Assistant Dean Promotes, Directs Student Activities

By Hank Weiss

Hip deep in the administrative problems of the Dean of Men's office with Dean Edward E. Sandys himself is John Brady, assistant dean of men, faculty moderator for the Student Council, and major promoter of all types of student activity.

In conjunction with Assistant Dean Brady, student officers have planned numerous collegiate functions for the semester—the past Associated Student Dance at the Fairmont Hotel, pre-game rallies and post game dances—some past, some still in the future like the coming Barn Dance, Mardi Gras, Freshman Dance, and so on and on.

One of the things that has impressed Assistant Dean Brady most this semester is the "gratifying support our football team has been getting at their games from the entire student body. These big turnouts have enabled us to commandeer better facilities for the games, such as the use of Kezar Stadium. . . . I'd like to see this spirit continued," Brady said.

"It's heartening to find the Student Council so interested in this college spirit. Their scheduling of trips to out of town games, dances for out of town rooters, and all similar activities have been administered by student government with sparked enthusiasm.

"I think credit should be given to Associated Student President Dean Haug who puts in a great deal of time and is doing a fine job heading the council and selecting the various members of the judicial, social and publicity committees."

Brady divulged that a search is still on for an "ideal" spot to hold college rallies—especially the weekly pregame rallies of which there are four more slated prior to Christmas vacation.

GRATIFIED WITH the support given student activities at present, Assistant Dean John Brady, seated at his desk in his new office on the West Campus, hopes "to see this spirit continued."

Students are also encouraged to make full use of the new Student Lounge which functions not only as a hall for major collegiate activities but also as a rendezvous and open lounge surplanting the old basement lounge atop the hill.

Assistant Dean Brady boasts a wealth of experience in the college's activities. He formerly served as athletic instructor, faculty sponsor of Tri Epsilon, and chief mentor of intramural sports. At the present Brady, together with Joseph Amori, is a co-sponsor of the veterans' organization, the XGI Society.

A good right hand man in the office of the Dean of Men, with some important administrative categories of his own, Assistant Dean Brady continues to direct the Associated Students toward bigger and better student achievement.

Cow Palace Livestock Show Needs Workers

Students who desire to earn money for the Christmas holidays are again advised to so inform the Placement Officer in the Administration Building on the West Campus.

Thirteen male students are urgently needed to work at the Grand National Livestock Exposition. The exposition will be held at the Cow Palace from Friday, November 15, to Sunday, November 24. Four of the men must be at last 5 feet 11 inches and not more than 6 feet tall. The other nine just have to be strong and agile.

The hours for this job are from 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m. nightly and on Friday afternoon from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. Wages will be $1.25 an hour. "This is a golden opportunity for those desiring some extra money for Christmas," Joseph Amori, Placement Officer, said.

Ten men or women are also needed to work in a "Will Call" department of a large confectionary firm on Thanksgiving Day from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Immediate Need For Opera House Ushers

Ushcrettes or ushers are needed for tomorrow evening's lavish Don Cossack musical production at the War Memorial Opera House here in San Francisco, Margaret Dougherty, Dean of Women announced today.

All interested students are requested to contact Dean Dougherty in her office, Administration Building, West Campus, as soon as possible. Ushers are also needed for productions scheduled for the Bay Area throughout next week.

Students who ushered for Up In Central Park are asked to get a clearance slip from Miss Dougherty and report to Douglas Atherton, Room 170, Main Building, for payment. Atherton's office hours will be posted on his door.

Makower Replaces Leek As Veteran Officer

William I. Olsen, Senior Training Officers for the Veterans' Administration's office on the West Campus, announced Tuesday that Myron Makower has replaced James Leek as Assistant Training Officer.

Makower, a native San Franciscan, was graduated from the University of California with a Bachelor of Arts degree and teaching credentials. He taught for many years in the San Francisco Public Schools.

Later employed in personnel work for the Office for Emergency Management and the United States Employment Service, during the war years he served in the Intelligence Department of the U.S. Army as a private.

Makower, who has been married for some time, has just had an addition to the family, a baby, now six weeks old.

Leek, who was replaced by Makower, has been assigned by the Vets Administration to their main office in San Francisco.

Drama

Broadway Plays In Production; Local Boy Pete Cerlanti Makes Good At UC

By Ed Heyman

Despite rumors from the East that 9000 actors are fighting for 900 parts, production at the college of two stellar plays goes on.

Not a bit dismayed by the scarcity of parts in the theatrical world, actors in The Male Animal, being produced in Room 209 Tuesdays and Thursdays by Ruth Somers, drama instructor, and Black Flamingo, directed by Lloyd Sisler in Room 28 on the same days; are going ahead with rehearsals.

Both plays are now at the stage where the actors read and act their parts at the same time, while a harrassed director tries to take care of at least a dozen things at once.

This "bad news" for the future stage and screen stars of America is offset some by the "good news" that Peter Cerlanti, former student here, and participant in the Little Theatre production, Squaring the Circle, has been given the lead in Sidney Howard's play, They Knew What They Wanted, being produced at the University of California.

The first performance will be Saturday, November 23, and then the play will run for seven days.

AMS Names Seven Man Mardi Gras Committee

Associated Men Students lead off their semester activities with the traditional Mardi Gras Festival on Friday, November 22, Bill Holmes, AMS president, announced recently.

Committee members are as follows: Frank Nelson, Alf Uddenburg, and Holmes, AMS officers, with Janet Caine, Roy Barnett, Jane Doran and Steve Kritikakos selected from the Associated Students.

"The committee selections for the semi-annual festival has been completed and the students that I've chosen to initiate plans for the affair are competent, and have wonderful ideas for putting this dance over as one of the biggest social events on this semester's calendar," Holmes declared.

Gayly decorated booths sponsored by various clubs in the college will attract large crowds to the affair. Any club wishing to have a booth in the Mardi Gras is urged to notify Dean J. Brady immediately.

Registrar

Midterm Grades Out Wed., Thurs.; Rooms Of Advisers Listed

College hour schedule will be followed Wednesday, November 6, and Thursday, November 7, to enable students to obtain grades from their advisers, F. Grant Marsh, Head Counsellor announced last week.

To accelerate distribution, grades will be handed out alphabetically, with students whose last names begin from A to L inclusive reporting on Wednesday and those from M to Z on Thursday.

Students attending classes at Excelsior Extension with classes conflicting with this schedule are advised by Marsh to obtain grades immediately after class.

The following is a list of rooms for these adviser-student meetings:

Cecil Aggeler, 136; Alfred Agosti, 100; Richard Allman, 160; Arthur Austin, 178; Flossita Badger, 200; Marjorie Bailhache, 309; Mildred Barnard, Building 3; Margaret Beetem, 113; Howard Benninghoff, 229; Louis Berman, 179; James Billwiller, 209; Waddington Blair, Building 3; John Booher, 230; Charles Chesterman, 193; Edwin Cranston, 208.

Claire Cuneo, 158; Don Doplin, Building 3; Thomas Dutcher, 311; William Eckert, 347; Margaret Flournoy, 303; Frederick Foultz, 310; Marjorie Fox, 335; Jules Fraden, 201; Arthur Furst, 202; Thomas Gaffney, 312; Ruth Gavin, 300; John Gerstung, 204; Virginia Gohn, 258; William Goss, 211; George Gould, 307; George Green, 145.

John Hare, 334; Rex Harris, 28; James Hughes, 133; Joseph Jacobsen, Building 3; James J. Jensen, 191; Mildred Jensen, 302; Evelyn Kerkhof, 140; Brigitta Koerting, 307; Hnime Kinkade, 111; Edward Larson, 254; Luther Lyon, 207; William C. Marsh, 212; William Mayo, 132; Walter McCloud, Building 12.

Alva McMillian, Building 3; Eugene Meade, 215; Dorothy Mercer, 205; Thomas Murney, 190; Harry Nelson, Building 3; Glenn Noble, 307; Gertrude Norgard, 256; Joan Nourse, Guardsman Office, Building 12; William Ogle, Building 3; Alden Olson, Building 3; Robert Parker, 215; Beverly Pasqualetti, 31; Mary Perry, Building 3; Milton Polissar, 242; Thomas Porter, 322.

John Ross, 257; James Schon, 194; William Schoon, Building 3; Jane Scribner, 323; John Selig, 206; Claude Shull, 344; Claude Silva, 346; Llewellyn Snyder, 212; George Steuberg, 255; Adolph Stoll, Building 3; Stephen Tomer, 243; Roy Walker, 160; Hilda Watson, Cafeteria; Samuel Ziegler, 258.

Judiciary Force

Student Police Group To Operate For College Welfare; No Gestapo Tactics

By Harold Levy

Not the fear spreading awe inspiring "gestapo" that, on the surface it might appear to be, the recently inaugurated Judiciary Committee, is in existence solely to aid in enforcing campus regulations.

In addition to maintaining order at all student functions, the five member committee, supplemented by its thirteen member Judiciary "police" Force, also has authority to see that smoking regulations on the campus are complied with.

The committee expressed the hope that this, the worst violation at present, will find its termination soon, when placement of smoking "urns" about the campus, is effected.

Associated Student President Dean Haug, acting on behalf of Don Burger, Judiciary head, warned that though the committee is not designed to frighten students, or apply harsh methods toward accomplishing its goal, it will however take prompt action against violators of campus rulings.

Power to recommend suspension and probation, is vested in the committee, under approval of college President, Dr. A. J. Cloud.

Specially designed red and white hats will be worn by members of both the committee and the force.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 12 Tuesday, November 5, 1946 Page 2

Ballots Without Bullets

96th Golden State Election

THE battle of the ballot which ends tonight threatens to surpass the reknown Battle of the Bulge as newsworthy news fodder.

Registered voters from the campus will venture to the polls today to weigh the potential outcome of issues that have flooded the area via radio, newspaper, word-of-mouth, and pamphlets.

For today, of all days, is "election day."

For the more than 1,200 registered voters here a time-honored principle is ready for democratic and political use. Municipal and state issues are many and diverse; the voters unprecedented in number and contrary in thought.

There are propositions and issues on the ballot which will affect all of us in some manner. In contrast to the usual politicos that run rampant on the campus, today's statewide election will infringe upon our purported sense of righteousness.

A chance to help in selecting what you have decided as right is looming before you as large as tomorrow. In a true sense, the voter, logical or insane, is bound by individual policies.

His vote, though one of many, increases greatly in power when the polls have closed.

The citizen with soldierly background of war, and the civilian with a nucleus of homefront security, are "against a wall," facing challenges of greed, progress, sacrifice, and outright political falsities.

Balloting ends early tonight, for the civilian of the Bulge will then become a veteran of the ballot, on this, the State's "96th Election Day."

Ford

After Dark

SOME of you students who read this column will call this a fitting tribute to a man who has worked tirelessly for ten years to further the cause of good literature in America. He has worked with every conceivable art form. He has published big names and little names.

He has been called "fool" and "idealist" for trying to buck the name, resources, and prestige of the big Eastern publishing houses. Some printed patriots have even gone so far as to call him "insane". "riffin with misguided jollies", "crummy pink", "deleterious magenta", and, of course, the mammonite clan of empire-alists have called him "pacifist", all of which is absurd (except the pacifist).

By now, dear friends and friendly hearts, you are panting heavily, your eyescore bloodshot and bulging, your tongue is lolling disgustingly out of the corner of your mouth—you are wondering who this fabulous crusader might be. Pant no longer, brethren! His name is James Laughlin. Is the name familiar? No? Well then, he is the man in back of New Directions Publications.

N.D. is a publishing company, to be more explicit. It publishes books—books of a very high quality. N.D. is not in the dough, which, of course, is expected of any organ operating in the interest of art and not the almighty $$$$$$.

You may ask what is the man's goal? It is something more than a quaint series of pleasant sensations between two cloth covers. He is appreciated in the manner that Leaves of Grass and Ulysses was appreciated (i.e. the traditional kick in the pants).

It is left to literary critics of the future to evaluate his influence on letters, however, it can be said with some assurance that N.D. publications will still live when the now mighty Windsor-Mitchell-Caldwell triple threat combo have returned to the Libraya Tarpits for fossilization and re-treading.

Laughlin is indeed a radical. He has even gone as far as to judge Paul Eluard and Ezra Pound by their work and not their alleged political folly. Now that really is horrible, isn't it? Why ladies, that's unheard of! However, we always have the words of Joyce: "Boo, you're through! Hoo, I'm true!

Since wars begin in the minds of men, it is in the minds of men that the defenses of peace must be constructed.—Preamble to Constitution, United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The world cannot stand another global war and the thaing to prevent such a tragedy is education.—General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Around And About with Nagle

IN line with the notice that the ratio of men to women in the college is three to one. The following notice seen on the bulletin board last week might come in handy to some "searching" males. "Two women desired to be picked up on Jones and McAllister in the morning before 9:30. For arrangements, call (censored) number." We assume they want to ride to class.

ARE YOU THAR?

In Music 30, several days ago, Flossita Badger was going through the torture of roll-call and called the first name—Roy Abad. Several seconds elapsed, and the attentive gentleman awoke, shook his head in amazement and replied, "Oh, yes, what was that you asked me?" "Just if you were here," was her reply.

ASTRONOMISTS NOTE:

Ted Green, able business manager of the 1940—pre-war days, dropped in The Guardsman office last week, complaining that the new site was nice, but not as mad-houseish as the daze of Room 134. He, in recounting his present experiences, told the following tale. He's teaching primary grades up nawth somewhar, and got the following answer back on an examination paper. The difference between the sun and the planets is that the sun is hot and planets are medium."

IT FINALLY HAPPENED

An able professor the other day was deviating from his lecture notes and was telling his experiences during his college days or some such, when one bright lad spoke up and asked: "Say, ah, I'm gonna be an accountant, how is this stuff gonna help me?" Silence reigned. Composure gained. Answer given.

WHAT'S IN A CAR?

Outside reading in Economics 21a uncovers this quoteable quote: "The automobile is not a sign of excessive prosperity but a means of overcoming America's greatest handicap—excessive space". To the average college student the automobile also is a means of achieving independence. Money is a step in the right direction, but with a ear and twenty cents for one gallon of gas, fifteen miles of open road can be travelled—independence and freedom acquired.

STANDBY

PROVIDED you resemble a rugged facsimile of a Greek statue, drop in to the vets section in the west Campus' building 12. Majority of feminine opinion runs something like this:

"There are a lot of good-looking men here on the campus. Gee, I know a lot of girls who'd like to meet them." (The bus for the west campus will leave hourly from the Phelan Ave. gate.)

H. J. BRUNNIER, chief of the AAA, who will preside during the national convention in SF on November 13, lists as one of the major topics of discussion: "Intensification of traffic safety with special reference to safety education in American schools and colleges."

Number one supporter of the college grid machine is PRES. A. J. CLOUD, who still insists "We have a wonderful team, we have a wonderful team, a good group of boys." (A bit of Gertrude Steinatics in a good cause.)

SAM DUFF, newcomer to the "English staff," ran into linotype heroics at Modesto J.C. from whence the great man arrived. Seems the editorial staff thought so well of DUFF to publish an orchid-tossing, sentimental editorial on his departure to S.F.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Decontrol Solves A Multitude Of Production Troubles.

ANYONE in the college desiring to purchase a brand new typewriter, portable or standard, any make desired, can drop in downtown at his leisure and pick one up.

Another miracle in American production has been achieved, and overnight a flood of them will appear, coming "direct" from the assembly lines where they've been held up all these years because of strikes and so forth, or so it had been claimed.

Like the little Dutch kid that kept his finger in the dike to save Holland from being inundated, the OPA is finding its grip weakening on the industrial dam within this country.

COME AND GET IT

With decontrol the order of the day, newly removed ceilings on certain commodities show an amazing capacity for recovery from shortages and strikes. Production is now reaching heights far more fantastic than anything seen during the war.

Last week typewriter retailers were singing the blues about the terrific shortage and their puny allotment of one or two machines a week—all this accompanying the jingle of warehouse keys in their back pockets.

Today the decontrol program removed the ceiling from typewriters and a few other scarce commodities, and a "spokesman" for the industry immediately brings in word that they'll soon be in manufacture.

STUFF'S HERE, AND MELLOW

At the start of the war, industry came out of nowhere to build the mightiest armada the world has yet to see, comparatively overnight. That miracle stands as small time stuff alongside the one wrought just recently by the purveyors of certain liquid refreshments, mention of which is usually frowned upon in college papers.

It's only brought in here to illustrate the amazing genius of the makers—the ceiling was removed one night, and the liquid in question had aged five years by the time retail stores opened the next morning.

AWARDS FOR PRODUCTION

Airplane manufacturers and shipyards got a lot of pretty flags with a big "E" for efficiency stamped on them because of their efforts in grinding out badly needed equipment in a big hurry.

The government has been noticeably lax in presenting flags to radio makers for jamming the market with hundreds of new sets, and if housewives now breaking their backs on hand laundry ever wise up to where their new washing machines now repose, more flags will be flying—each with a brick wrapped up within the folds.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

PERHAPS the most active group in the college among themselves and also the one whose services to the college as a whole are most appreciated by everyone, is the highly honored Hotel Division which does more than the surface job of filling the alementary cavity, although few may realize it.

Under the supervision of Hilda L. Watson, who is the general manager and coordinator of the group, students at the college have been trained, and are at present undergoing training, to take their places in the finest hotels, restaurants, and resorts in this immediate area as well as in the wide-flung hostelries of the world. Those students who majored in the subject here may be found in almost every corner of the country, if not the globe.

Some persons have the erroneous idea that students of the division are studying to be waiters and dish-washers. However, this impression is immediately eradicated when the sight of tray upon tray of lucious whipped-cream cakes, juicy pies, and other colorful deserts greet the eye and craving stomach. Sheer art is incorporated into those palat-tingling, tooth-some morsels, and their creators are comparable to any painter or musician, and far more practical.

Besides the excellent staff of instructors here, the students also are given regular lectures by leading hotel managers and restauranteurs of the bay area. Incorporated into their courses are field trips which consist of visits to outlying resorts where observations are taken of actual operational procedures, and the observers really have the opportunity to find out "how things work".

Graduates of the division have been placed directly in countless numbers of hotels in the bay area, and their positions are not limited merely to the preparation of food. The students can also take their places in the business end of such enterprises as managers, directors, and various other executive positions.

The long apprenticeships of yesteryear have been replaced by thorough training at the junior colleges of today.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Water Fountain Condition Bears Improvement; CAB Accused Of Indifference

• Nauseating Sights

Editor, The Guardsman:

Nearly all the water fountains located on the premises of this college are cluttered with wads of gum or other scraps. This nauseating sight greets the prospective thirst quenchers who either takes a very quick sip of water or turns away disdainfully without bothering to quench his thirst.

Two suggestions are offered:

1. Have paper containers or some type of receptacle placed at each water fountain whereby offenders may dispose of their gum, etc.

2. Have posters tacked above each water fountain bringing to the offender's attention the need of more sanitary conditions at water fountains.

E.W.

• Minority Does Not Rest

Editor, The Guardsman:

We wish to congratulate The Guardsman on the democratic stand it took in its editorial "The Minority Rests". It is heartening to see The Guardsman again justifying its name by guarding the students' rights.

As illustration of the valid criticism the editorial levels against the Club Advisory Board is the treatment the Student Unity Club received at the hands of this body. The Student Unity Club's request for recognition was denied by the CAB. This club was judged not by any standards of impartial justice and fairness, but by the prejudiced standards growing from the acceptance of "ordinary hearsay" and rumor-mongering as factual evidence.

However, we don't think the members of the CAB were deliberately and maliciously unfair. We think their error had its basis in lethargy, and, short-sighted indifference. Therefore, we call for the CAB to realize and discharge its responsibilities to the student body; to correct an unfortunate mistake; and to reverse its arbitrary and undemocratic decision.

The minority does not rest.

James Stark, Manuel Joffre, J. A. Kershaw

Guardsman Staff—

Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF..... Robert A. Catudio

MANAGING EDITOR ... Carmel Gannon

ASST. MANAGING EDITOR .. June Sheehy

FEATURE: Betty L. Cavenor, editor; Kenneth Ford, Claudie Lajeunesse, Nancy Nagle, Adele Reinsch.

NEWS: Trav Burrow, editor; John Beular, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chamos, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Hayman, Hank Ivey, Del Plumb, William Pilley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Mario Wheatly, Melvin Hanson, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall.

SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Staten Webster, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.

COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.

PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.

STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.

BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.

Editorial Adviser..... Joan Nourse

Business Adviser..... Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 12 TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1946 Page 3

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

THIS Junior College Rose Bowl idea they cooked up in the south looks like a good thing at first sight. At first reading, visions of dramatic triumph and nation wide recognition for our humble institution came into our minds. Think of the notoriety, the athletic standing if San Francisco Junior College should be named to represent the west in the inaugural classic.

But wait! Delving into this bit of information more deeply, we find some rather jolting details. It seems that this post-season gridiron extravaganza was dreamed up in its entirety by a south state organization with the express purpose of making money and nothing else. Taking this fact into consideration, we can see common sense tells us that the only team that would draw any kind of money-making crowd is a college in that immediate vicinity and no other.

No matter how bad a record that college may have it stands to reason that in a game of this type there will be a considerable crowd attending.

Two out of town aggregations pitted together in a strange stadium probably wouldn't draw enough people to pay for the football.

PIPE DREAMS

So you see, fellow Ramites, Rose Bowl contests make for nice reading and beautiful dreams, but that's about all. We have a great team, maybe the best on the coast, but we just don't live in the right place!

ALL AROUND GUY

Bewildered Bob Cavander is wondering where Coach Lee Eisan will have him playing next! Thus far Bob has held down the end, left half and fullback posts. Reports from our underground have it that the versatile Cavander can also carry water and lead yells!

SMART FOOTBALL

Long Beach City College must not have much respect for the scholastic ability of their gridmen. Long Beach players need only carry nine units and are still eligible to play if they failed the previous semester. In the Northern California Conference players are required to carry a minimum of eleven units, and they must be passing in units taken the semester before.

Colleges that sacrifice education for athletic achievement must be none too well off. Somehow it seems like an unfair exchange.

We have athletes, but primarily we have students.

Lambs Whip State B Team 20 To 14

Bouncing back from their defeat by the University of California Rambler B team, the junior varsity Lamb football squad of this college proceeded to wreak their vengeance on the San Francisco State B team last Thursday to the tune of 20 to 14 in a football game played on the junior college field.

Shifting right into high gear, the Jayvees climaxed a series of spurts up the field by springing Quarterback Otis Williams over for the first tally. State came back to score on a 15 yard run around left end, and the first half ended deadlocked 7 to 7.

The Lambs came back in the second half to score twice, once when Tackle Bob Parno recovered a blocked kick in the end zone, and once when Bob Upp carried the swineskin over for another six points.

State scored once more on a pass play, but that was the end of their scoring for the day, as by this time the "Lambie-Pies" appeared to be clearly the better team. They protected their lead for the remainder of the game and walked off the field with their first victory of the season.

Basketball

Hillsman Hopes For Banner Year At Cage Sessions

Patience and fortitude seem to be Coach Ralph Hillsman's bywords as the basketball coach of the Rams continues to mold together a cagaba five that the mentor hopes will be "the strongest and most efficient team ever to take to the court in the history of the college."

With a turnout of 35 players, the basketball builder still claims that it is too early in the season for any definite prediction to be made about the coming 1946 version of the Ram basketeers.

Tipping off for the Rams this year will be the veteran star center Bill "6-9" Kahn, who is expected to control the back-boards for the Rams on defense, while on offense he has the range and eye to make the important scores. Other returning hoopsters from the previous seasons are Milt Adams, Don Carter, Everett Herrerias and Roland Jones.

The returning players are receiving plenty of competition for their posts in such newcomers to the Ram basketball scene as Horace Abertine, Will Barnes, Nasli Bana, Bill Brederson, William Bygeia, Larry Baldocchi, Astorre Bucciarelli, Phil Burroughs, Don Fricke, Ken Cameron, John Domane, Bill MacGurn and Neil Turner.

Women Endorse Return Of Co-Ed Gym Classes

To the cry "We want more girls!" the women's physical education department again comes to the rescue in the form of Master Cupid.

The solution comes, not in the form of supplying additional numbers of women, but by introduction methods, thus making the man happier about the whole thing.

Seems that several years ago co-educational physical educational classes were included in the schedule of classes. However, with the advent of the war the men decreased, and the co-ed classes were no longer Ed, but only Co.

Now that peace reigns and the men are once again engaged in the quest for knowledge, co-educational classes seem to be in order.

At least the three men could meet another woman—thereby knowing more than one and ruining the ratio of three to one.

ALL CIRCUIT CANDIDATE is what they're saying of blond Denny Miller, the guard with the Golden Boy touch of high-geared performance.—Photo by Lum.

OAKLAND BOY with a first string job on the Modesto Junior College Pirate eleven is Dick Harding, 190 pound linesman.—Photo courtesy Modesto Collegian.

Grid

Rams Tackle Modesto Gridmen Again Friday

The San Francisco Rams play their seventh game of the current campaign this coming Friday, November 8, at Balboa High School Field, when they meet the Modesto Buccaneers.

This will mark the second engagement of these two teams and the Rams will be pointing for victory number two over their San Joaquin Valley foes.

In their first encounter the red and white punched out a clean cut 14 to 0 win on the loser's home grounds. Art Ekdall and Staten Webster teamed up in the air and on the ground to overwhelm the gallant but outlmight Buccaneers.

This contest is the first game in the second heat of the round robin schedule. With a well-deserved two-week rest after the Modesto clash, the Rams play return engagements with the Sacramento Panthers and the San Mateo Bulldogs on successive Fridays.

With the return of Guard Dick Harding, who suffered a bruised shoulder in the Ram battle, the Pirates will be at full strength. Pivotman John Dimblio and End Orville Young, who played hangup ball against Sacramento College, will again be up front.

No serious injuries were reported in the Los Angeles City College fray, and the lownies will be gunning for their fifth straight conference triumph.

Twelve Teams Vie For Touch Football Crown

With two torrid rounds of play under their belts, the intramural football league bounces back into the spotlight this Friday with three games scheduled to be played by the National League.

With the teams divided into two leagues, each squad will play five games. The All-American League is composed of the following teams: Poly Alumni Club, Cowboys, Beta Tau, Galloping Gaels, Seagulls and the Turtles.

The National League is composed of the Tau Chi Sigma, Portals, Albany Bulldogs, XGI, Smoked Irish, and Chinese Social Club gridders.

At 3 o'clock, the Tau Chi Sigma squad will take the field against the XGI team. Forty minutes later the Portals and the Chinese Social Club clash, and the Albany Bulldogs tackle the Smoked Irish in the nightcap at 4:15.

Intramural director Tom Wilson has announced that anyone interested in the job of intramural manager should seem him in the men's gymnasium as soon as possible. The job consists of keeping score of and officiating in the various intramural events.

Intramural

Lambs, Ramblers Set Pace In Hoop Race; Play Resumes Thurs.

Victorious in their first three games of the season, the league-leading Lamb quintet faces the feature game of Thursday's intramural basketball schedule.

Led by big Jim Hughes, the Lambs possess one of the most formidable lineups in the league. Besides Hughes, who has scored 92 points in three games, the Lamb squad consists of Neil Turner, former Lowell eager, Lauren Hartman, Mike O'Neill, Kirk Maegurn, Burr Ward and Bill Kenna.

Operators Upset

The first upset of the season was handed out by the Los Vaqueros five when they decisioned the previously unbeaten Operators 37 to 32 in the third round of play.

With Hughes scoring 27 points, the Lambs won their third game of the season as they rolled over the Buccaneers to the tune of 71 to 29. The Ramblers continued on the Lambs' heels as they scored a 35-13 victory over the Tau Chi Sigma quint.

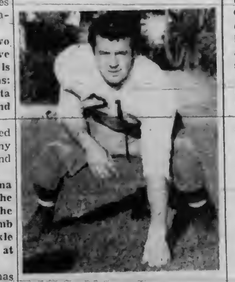
Tigers Stop XGI's

Behind Frank Gonsalves' 20 points, the Tigers remained in the unbeaten class by downing the XGI cagers, 43-30.

With Newman Rebels and Jerry Baldocchi scoring 14 digits apiece, the East Bay Trotters won their game from the Poops, 44-25.

The Chinese Social Club on a forfeit from the Portals.

Following is the schedule for games to be played Thursday, November 7:



Scheduled for 3 o'clock:
Lambs vs. Tau Chi Sigma
Portals vs. Los Vaqueros
Tigers vs. East Bay Trotters

Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
Buccaneers vs. Poops
XGI vs. Operators
Chinese Social Club vs. Ramblers

Following are the league standings including games of October 29:

	W	L.	Pct.
Lambs	3	0	1.000
Ramblers	3	0	1.000
Los Vaqueros	2	0	1.000
East Bay Trotters	2	0	1.000
Chinese Social Club	2	1	.667
Tigers	2	1	.667
Operators	2	1	.667
Tau Chi Sigma	1	2	.333
XGI	0	3	.000
Buccaneers	0	3	.000
Poops	0	3	.000
Portals	0	3	.000

Tennis came originally from France and Italy and was played on an hour-glass shaped court. A cork ball was used in lieu of rubber.

ROCK-RIBBED RUFFIAN can aptly be a title for Tackle Art Psaltis ex-Mission High School performer now planted in the Ram line.—Photo by Lum.

Football

Home Force Batters L.A. 21-6 For Fifth Straight Grid Win

By Bob Catudio

Gilmore Stadium, Hollywood, Nov. 3—Striking for single marker bursts in the first three periods, the Union forces of "General" Lee Elsan overpowered Los Angeles City College's tattered "Reds" 21 to 6 last night in view of 2230 wind-swept fans.

A 15 mile gale canvassed the Dixieland scene which found the Rams belting the Cubs for the first time since 1940. In all, 10 fumbles were spilled on the turf in a battle bereft of "orthodox football."

The Rams hit the jackpot early in the opening panel following an exchange of misconstrued offensive intentions. Danny Miller recovered Cub Chuck Isaacs' fumble on the L.A. 15 yard line which was later turned into a 10 yard TD sweep offered by Quarterback Staten Webster.

Leong Crosses Twice

Nuge Marshall Leong provided the locals with the remaining pair of touchdowns—booming across from the one and three yard lines respectively.

Glen "Automatic" Hoffman booted all three conversions to run his successful PAT string to 10 straight.

The Angelenos' lone score in the final canto came about via luck and Cub Tackle Johnny Josephs' regenerated thinking.

Tailback Cliff Schroeder slipped around the Ram left flank on a naked reverse fumbling on the six, the ball bouncing merrily into the end zone where Josephs recovered for a Cub tally.

Townies Net 193

Vital statistics were figuratively underfed, the Townies racking up 193 net yards to L.A.'s 121 yards. The Rams chalked up nine first downs to the Cubs' five and virtually dominated all departments of offensive.

The Eisans, save for momentary lapses of fumbleitis, struck deep into the reputation of the Monroe Street Angelenos for victory number five—"the longest winning streak in the history of the college."

The "General" leads his Ram Yankees back to Union headquarters at Balboa Park aboard the victory Daylight which leaves for the North at noon today.

Score by periods

San Francisco	7	7	7	0
Los Angeles City College	0	0	0	6

Scoring: LA—Touchdown, Josephs. SF—Touchdowns, Webster, Leong 2. Points after touchdown, Hoffman 3.

Coach Fischer Mgr. Of Sunday Baseball Team

By Dayton Lawson

Students of the college are probably aware that Bill Fischer, men's athletic instructor, is the assistant football coach under Head Coach Lee Eisan, but few are cognizant of the fact that he also coaches the Sausalito Ice and Fuel Company baseball team in his spare time.

This has been a hobby of his for three years, dating back to his Commerce High School coaching days, and is a form of keeping his boys in fair condition the year around, whether they work or go to school. It is strictly an outlet for baseball-minded fellows who like to play the game for the enjoyment they derive from it.

There are a number of students enrolled in this college who are now competing for positions under Coach Fischer's tutorship. One of them, Pitcher Charley Babbit, has won five games and lost none so far this season.

The team plays under the auspices of the San Francisco Recreation Department, is in the American League, and is classed as playing type AA baseball.

Coach Fischer hopes to get more men interested in playing with his team, which has most of its games scheduled on Sundays, in the hope that they will not only enhance their general health, but will have plenty of fun while doing it.

Associated Students

Songsters, Band To Highlight Friday College Hour Rally

Preceding the second game with the Modesto Pirates, the first of which the Rams took to the tune of 14 to 0, a rally will be held in front of the West Campus auditorium during the college hour next Friday, according to Al Moffat, rally commissioner.

Leading the festivities will be a trio of songsters, the Three J's, hailing from San Francisco State Teachers College. They are known as a very talented group and have appeared publicly around the Bay Area.

Students present at the last rally continue to wonder if the very talented "Ram" will put in an appearance at the one held Friday.

In addition to the trio the proceedings will be enhanced musically by the presence of the college band.

With their successful debut a thing of the past, the red and white band, under the direction of Madison Devlin, is preparing for this and future rallies and home games with renewed vigor. The musicians are also looking forward to the coming concerts to be held some time after December.

The matter of uniforms has also reached the planning stage, according to Devlin. A professional designer has been engaged to work out the trappings to be worn by the college brass music makers. If and when the design is approved the uniforms will be well on the way to becoming college property.

To round out the general appearance of the group, the local art department is in the process of placing an appropriate sketch on the face of the bass drum.

In the space of the next few months the "Ram" band is expected to emerge from its cocoon as a colorful as well as a talented musical machine.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

• Art Club: "Get Acquainted" is the theme of the Kappa Alpha Sigma dinner, Thursday, November 7, at the Normandie Restaurant. New president of the society is Alex Apostolides. Guest speakers at the dinner will be William J. Eckert, sponsor; Roy Walker, Carl Beetz, Evans Ecke, Fanchon Gary, and Mr. and Mrs. George Mullany.

Installation of officers will be held this evening at the Bellevue Hotel. New officers are Helen Tanner, president; Jean Tanner, vice-president; Pearl Lee, secretary, and Eleanor Reed, treasurer. Jennie Lau is the installing officer.

• BETA PHI BETA versus BETA TAU

Today, the first fraternity football game of the season will be played at 2 o'Clock on the field back of the college. These two fraternities have long been rivals at the college, and once again the football rivalry will resume its pre-war pace.

Starting for the Beta Taus will be Bill Holmes, Paul Yde, Ted Noble, Bob Wichmann, Alf Uddenberg and Bob Weingardner. For the Beta Phis the starting six will be Mel Dyckman, Tom Kellogg, John Wilk, Frank Reed, Fran Stiles, and Joe Sheehan.

BENNY'S RAM SHACK

1051 Ocean Avenue

Phone—RAndolph 9632

Mu Iota Psi Leaders Beat The Measure

SETTING THE PITCH for campus music lovers, Mu Iota Psi officers relax on the West Campus. Left to right, Raymond Biggs is historian for the club, Howard Lum is vice-president, Helen Setalov is secretary, Jim Finley, last semester's choir manager, "counts the pennies" as treasurer, and Jane Swendsen, the college's Lily Pons, is president. Gertrude Norgard is now the faculty sponsor. —Photo by Wechter.

By Marge Whearty

Providing the fingers that dip into most campus musical pies, the Mu Iota Psi, college music club, measures out another semester of activities with President Jane Swendsen setting the pitch.

Planted on the common ground of music lovers, the organization serves as a medium through which the outer world of "Big Gun" entertainers is reached.

When the crystal ball is clouded over, the group pull themselves up by their violin strings by staging their own performances.

Sponsored by Gertrude Norgard, new music instructor, the group assists in the production of programs put on by the music department, the most famous of these being the annual Christmas Festival.

Headed by a panel of five officers the club plans to hold at least three on-campus meetings and one off-campus each month.

Swinging the baton for the group, President Jane Swendsen has a full background of singing performances including shows for the Red Cross and the U.S.O. for three years, plus various outside programs.

Coming from University High in Oakland, she rounds out her musical major by holding the secretaryship in the A Cappella Choir for two semesters.

Although a Pre-medical major, Howard Lum finds time to serve the group as vice-president. He completes his academic program with voice class and the choir, and plays the clarinet.

Financial lord James Finley finds his musical hobby in collecting classical phonograph records. Manager of the A Cappella Choir this spring, Finley has sung in various choirs and choruses and sang with the Russian Opera Company last season.

Known as "Randy" to some, Helen Setalov records the details of the organization with her duties as secretary. Having sung not only in the choir, Miss Setalov has appeared at the Stage Door Canteen, and programs for the U.S.O. and War Relief.

A newcomer in the musical world, Corporal Raymond Biggs, stationed at Letterman General Hospital, holds the office of historian. Without much background in the field, Biggs is enthusiastically interested in the club and is in the choir this semester.

These are only a few of the 30 members now in the Mu Iota Psi with more students expected at the next meeting this Thursday evening, November 7, at the home of Mrs. Norgard.

Music

Annual Christmas Concerts Scheduled December 6 And 10

Although the Yuletide season is still some seven weeks hence, the Music Department announced last week the dates for its annual Christmas concerts. If the past performances are a way of foretelling the outcome, this year's concerts should be one of the highlights of the semester.

"It has been a long time since the college has possessed such an array of talent, both vocal and instrumental," Fiossita Badger, choral conductor, remarked.

The first performance, or the preview, will be given on Friday, December 6, on the campus, the site is the auditorium on the West Campus, now a part of the college.

The second and complete recital will be held on Tuesday, December 10, at the Veterans' Auditorium in the Civic Center. This particular program has, during the past two years, thrilled many people in the city with its sincere and professional presentation.

Again this year, the stage effects will be under the direction of William Eckert. A considerable amount of the time during the Fall semester is devoted to erecting the stage material for the concert by Eckert and his advertising art classes.

In making up the program for the coming performance, the problem arose of filling the many requests submitted by members of former audiences. Consequenly, a repeat of some of the more popular renditions is expected, along with some new and equally beautiful selections.

Faculty Plans Buffet Supper Party Nov. 15

Faculty members, and their wives, husbands, or escorts, will have a chance to get further acquainted at an informal faculty get-together to be held Friday, November 15, in the Student Lounge of the West Campus at 7 p.m., Jack Brady, of the Association, said.

"The program will include a buffet supper, after which the fun begins!" Brady said. The tickets will be on sale at the college bank in Room 188 at $1.50 per person. It will be a stag or drag affair.

Brady explained that this get-together will give the faculty members a chance to become better acquainted. The party is being given by the Faculty Association, and the committee is under the direction of Reg Porter, chairman of the social committee.

Brady added that this will be the only faculty party to be held by the association before the Christmas holidays.

Patricia Gano Winner Of Elk Scholarship

Proof of the scholastic fame of the college comes all the way from Kelso, Washington, in the person of Patricia Gano.

Miss Gano was recently awarded a Scholastic Scholarship of $125 by the Kelso, Washington, Chapter of the Order of Elks.

The scholarship allows the winnings contestant to use the cash prize at any institution she chooses.

Even in the wooded hills of Washington the fame of the college as an educational institution was heard, and down from the North came Miss Gano set on getting her preparatory college training here.

A tribute to the Elks of Kelso, Washington, Miss Gano, and the scholastic standards of San Francisco's rapidly expanding junior college.

Surveying Students Raise False Visions

By William T. Wilson

Many curious students, and even faculty members, have gaped at the young men around the campus who look and act very efficient while measuring various sections of the college campus with enormous tape measures.

These measurings have caused much confusion and chaos around and about, because the word has been whispered that these measurements were for the new college buildings that have for a long time been expected.

But, disheartening as it is, those parties having such happy hallucinations may relax because there are still plenty of material shortages.

Those measuring gentlemen are simply majors in the surveying getting some practical experience under the jurisdiction of Cecil Aggeler of the engineering department.

Tuesday Cabinet Meets Approved By Council

In a short meeting last Tuesday, the Student Council voted to hold the President's Cabinet meetings on Tuesdays, and council meetings on Thursdays. The meetings will be held in the Administration Building at 12 o'clock.

The cabinet is composed of Associated Student President Dean Haug, Vice-president Nancy Cunningham, Secretary Nancy Ruttencutter, Associated Men Student President Bill Holmes, Associated Women Student President Nancy Stookey, Sophomore President Millie Laube, Freshman President Raymond Bisio, Women's Athletic Association President Frances Scilipoti, Rally Commissioner Al Moffet, Publications Board Chairman Bob Catudio, and Men's Athletic Commissioner Joe Sheehan.

Bob Winegardner, council member, moved that the council appropriate $5 for the Community Chest Drive. This was unanimously passed.

More Shelves Relieve Book-Packed Library

Temporary relief for overcrowded library shelves has been received and more shelves will be installed immediately, according to Marcus Skarstedt, college librarian.

The library has more than 30,000 volumes at the present time and the space available is for 12,000 volumes. This has created a hardship on the staff and the students. The arrival of new book shelves will enable the shelving of approximately 6,000 more books.

"The original plan of the college calls for a library building on the lot south of the main building, but until that time the present library will have to do and we will just have to do the best with what we have," Skarstedt said.

Skarstedt also pointed out that more books are arriving all the time and are available to the students at the new book shelves.

For those interested, Forever Amber is in the library, but is not required reading by the English department. Skarstedt attributes this to the "high intelligence of the college English department."

AGS Opens Official Office On West Campus

Officially located next door to the fountain on the West Campus, the new official office of Alpha Gamma Sigma, college scholastic honor society, was opened to members last week, according to Nancy Stookey, president.

Although not large enough to accommodate too great numbers of visitors at one time, the room will serve at the official meeting place of the organization on the West Campus, while a room in the science building will be the scene of general meetings.

Miss Stookey stressed the fact that because of the convenient location of the room, members should find it an ideal place to gather and become acquainted with one another.

Brady Clarifies Traffic Regulations

In an attempt to clarify the muddled parking regulations for the students, Assistant Dean of Men Jack Brady last week released the information that parking regulations have remained static.

Brady disproved the recent rumor that parking on the left curb of the driveway behind the college is illegal. He also re-emphasized the fact that parking on the main driveway, the ramps and on the dirt hill is illegal. Students parking in these restricted areas will be tagged by the police, he said.

Spaces on the north end of the campus, formerly reserved for members of the faculty, are now open to student parking. Students may ignore the Reserved sign stenciled on the pavement.

Concerning the much talked of walkway between the East and the West campus, Brady disclosed that the police are about to paint a pedestrian safety zone to protect the students. An arterial was proposed but the police believed that it would cause a traffic bottleneck; consequently the proposition was thrown out.

Dr. Jones Moves To Room 150, Main Bldg.

Office of Dr. Thomas Jones, college physician, has been moved from the men's gymnasium to the main building, Room 150.

Dr. Jones will be available for consultation, or medical attention between the hours of 9 and 12 every day. This service is offered to men and women of the college, and although no infirmary service is in effect, minor injuries sustained on college premises are treated at time of injury.

Bakers Stage Dinner In Cafeteria Tomorrow

A dinner for the San Francisco Retail Bakers' Association will be given in the cafeteria tomorrow under the auspices of the commercial baking class, directed by Carl Reichmann.

Leading personalities of the Bay Area baking industries will be present and will give their views on conditions in the baking world.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

College Hour Schedule
9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1946 No. 13

Freshman Dance Tonight

West Campus Scene Of Sports Attired Frosh Fantasy

High point of the semester for Freshman occurs tonight when the class acts as host to the college at its semi-annual dance, scheduled for the former WAVE's Auditorium on the West Campus.

The affair will be known as the Freshman Fantasy, according to Raymond Bisio, class president. Hal Lent and his band, who have appeared at previous college affairs, will provide the music, and dancing will last from 8:30 until midnight.

The fee is "as nominal as possible," Bisio said, the only requirement for admission being the presentation of a Associated Student card.

Those responsible for the social preparations are Bisio, Bill Riley, vice president; Lynn Krotoff, secretary; and committee members Marie Wispell, Patt Sullivan, and Mary Cretan.

Lounge Takes Overflow

Bisio stated that the committee members have been making every effort to assure the success of the dance. As this is the largest Freshman class in the history of the college, plans have been made to accommodate the largest turnout at any college affair. In addition to the Auditorium, the Student Lounge will be used to handle any overflow.

The Fantasy will have the privilege of officially initiating the Auditorium as it will be the first Associated Student affair to be held there since the West Campus was relinquished by the Navy. The auditorium was selected as the site for the dance because of its large size.

No Parking Allowed

Dean Edward E. Sandys announced that parking will not be allowed on the West Campus as cars permitted to enter would be a menace to students.

Because the dance is being held on the campus, attire for the evening will be sport.

Riley announced that the no corsage rule will be in affect.

As yet there has been no faculty sponsor appointed for the Freshman class.

LEADERS IN THE SPOTLIGHT on the campus this week are the Freshmen Class officers. Pictured left to right above are the three, Raymond Bisio, president; Lynndell Krotoff, secretary; and Bill Riley, vice-president, who will direct the affair of the week, the Freshman Fantasy, tonight in the West Campus auditorium.

Bisio attended Commerce High School, was all-city drum major for two years, and was graduated in the spring of 1942. In July, 1943, Bisio joined the Sixth Marine Division. Bisio's unit took part in the Okinawa campaign.

Riley attended Saint Ignatius High SCchool where he held a Lieutenant's commission in the ROTC. He was graduated in spring 1943 and shortly after was called into service where he spent two "happy" years. Riley entered the college in February of this year. He was Club Advisory Board representative for Beta Tau and he also had the lead in the college production of Thunder Rock.

Lyndell Krotoff attended Polytechnic High School where she was graduated in Fall, 1945. She entered college soon after, and she is treasurer of Alpha Lambda Chi and a member of the Pep Club.

American Education Week

World Unity Subject Of Faculty Panel Discussion Tuesday Night

Speaking particularly on a world organization of teachers, President A. J. Cloud will preside as chairman in a program sponsored by the College Council, a faculty-and-friends-of-the-college organization, and given for American Education Week, Tuesday evening, November 12, at 7:45 p.m., in the Administration Building on the West Campus.

Three members of the faculty, John E. Ross, John F. Gerstung, and William A. Goss, will take part in a panel discussion on the question, "Can We Attain World Unity?"

The 26th annual observance of American Education Week is sponsored by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the United States Office of Education, and the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Leaders believe that to develop one world in which all nations can live together at peace with each other, American youth must be trained in the importance of the United Nations Organization.

If automobiles are driven, entrance to the West Campus can be made from the Ocean Avenue gate, administration officials said. Those arriving by streetcar should take the "K" line and enter through the same gate.

Colleges To Honor State's 100th Year

Details and new plans for school participation in events concerning the California Centennial will be discussed in a statewide meeting of junior college executives in Bakersfield in the near future, President A. J. Cloud announced this week.

The contest for the design of a 1949 50-cent piece will also be discussed and rules for competition made, President Cloud declared.

'Spirit' Depends On Cooperation

By Trev Burrow

NAVY VETERAN William J. O'Connell calls for "less standoffishness" to increase college spirit.

Husky, 26 year old Navy vet, William J O'Connell believes that one thing which would increase interest in college activities and bring out more college spirit would be "closer cooperation and less stand-offishness among the student organizations at the college."

O'Connell, a mechanical engineering major, came to San Francisco from Lodi, California, and is attending this college because, he says, "I believe that I can get a better education here because of the smaller classes and the more competent instructors."

As an example he cited his problem with algebra: "In high school I found algebra my toughest subject, but here it is presented in a better fashion and is much easier to understand."

Also pointed out was the fact that the majority of classes are located in one building; therefore the donning of roller skates to travel between classes is not necessary.

A Stanford diploma is the goal set by O'Connell, but he will attend the University of California if Stanford is too crowded.

AWS To Sponsor Noon Dance Next Wednesday

Associated Women Students will again sponsor a noon dance Wednesday, November 13, in the Student Lounge on the West Campus from 12 to 2 p.m.

"The two noon dances held in the Student Lounge have proved to be such successes that arrangements are now being made to have these alternate weekly noon dances an established function in the college's social affairs," Nancy Stookey, AWS president, declared. Hours of the dances will vary accordingly.

Committee members for the AWS affair are: Irene Brislawn, Jo Ellen Cain, Roberta Robb, Lee Ann Bonar, Eleanor Wagerle, Clarie Baciquallippi, and Leona De Bique.

College Hour

Rally This Morning Preludes Modesto-Ram Grid Fight; College Band, Singers Entertain At West Campus Auditorium

Heralding the second game of the season with the Modesto Buccaneers, from the first of which the Rams emerged victorious, a football rally will combine guest entertainers and unexcelled campus spirit this morning at 10:45 during the college hour in front of the West Campus auditorium, under the direction of Rally Commissioner Al Moffatt.

Featured on the entertainment menu are the Three J's, a trio of songbirds from San Francisco State College. These traveling troubadours are known around the bay area for their talent displayed in previous public appearances.

College Band Appears

Setting the mood for the spirit of the occasion will be the college band, under the direction of Madison Devlin, which has already attained a reputation for spirited ability to promote enthusiasm as a result of previous appearances at rallies and gridiron clashes.

Although the Ram band is not yet in uniform, professional designers are in the process of creating the costumes to be worn by the melodious group in the near future at rallies and sports events.

The bass drum is being given a new face by the art department to correspond to the colorful attire the band will soon don.

Spirit Runs High

The contest between the Rams and the Pirates promises to be an exciting game. The two foes will meet on the Balboa High school field this afternoon, the Rams being backed by cheer groups and music by the red and white band.

Moffatt revealed that the next rally, to be held on Friday, November 22, will be highlighted by the appearance of the well known guest artist of the Copacabana, Joaquin Garay.

The college hour schedule slates club meetings for Friday, November 15, and Friday, December 13, Moffatt added.

Registrar

Application Deadline For UC January 17

Applications of admittance for the spring semester will not be accepted after Friday, January 17, 1947, officials of the University of California disclosed last week.

All students who expect to enter the university for the spring semester are urged by Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, to request a transcript from the registrar's office. Students should also fill out a personal application and file it at the University. Miss Learnard advised.

"Wednesday, November 13, is the last day on which to drop a course, and petitions to do so must be on file on that date. The excuse that a student could not find an instructor will not be accepted," Miss Learnard warned.

CAB Charters Two New Campus Organizations

Two club charter applicants, those of Tau Sigma Fraternity, and the American Veterans Committee, respectively, were approved by the Club Advisory Board last Tuesday.

Tau Chi Sigma, a newly organized fraternity this semester, is sponsored by W. H. Ogle, faculty adviser, and membership is by invitation only.

The American Veterans Committee, Veterans of World War II only, will be active on the campus and will have interest in the veterans' welfare as does the XGI Society. John Booker and Thomas Gabbert are the faculty advisors.

Blithe Spirit Is Moffatt Objective

By Marge Whearty

RALLY COMMISSIONER Al Moffat, producer of some of the semesters' better rallies, is working on another rally to end all rallies.—Photo by Lum.

Elusive man about the campus is Rally Commissioner Al Moffatt, who moves from activity to activity like a grasshopper bent to the wind.

Sinking his teeth into many phases of student affairs, Moffatt is a predental major, planning to attend a dental college when he completes his work here.

Engaging in many extra-curricular enterprises, he holds the vice-presidency of Beta Phi Beta and was at one time a member of the Publicity Board.

In his search for improvement of the campus rallies, Moffatt believes that the campus is in desperate need of a place in which to hold such assemblages. With such a place he thinks that the college could look for full attendance of the majority of the students.

Although he attended Galileo High School, here in the city, Moffatt took to the hills for two years when he moved to Grass Valley.

In the top planning position for campus rallies, Moffatt must look for entertainment of the best to appeal to students. Pushed by the problem of college spirit, he has a full schedule of moments to fill almost every Friday.

One of the "better boys," Moffatt is a true college hustler for the old alma mater.

An appointive office, the Rally Commissioner is chosen at the beginning of each semester by the President of the Associated Students with the approval of the Student Council.

The Commissioner then appoints his Rally Committee and Yell Leader to help him carry the planning load. Appointed by Dean Haug, and the council, at the beginning of this semester, Moffatt has already directed five rallies.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 13 Friday, November 8, 1946 Page 2

Mixer Dances

Friendship, Spirit Result

IN the interest of furthering a good cause, an Associated Student dance was held last Tuesday in the Student Lounge on the West Campus. This dance which benefited the local Community Chest, and another one sponsored by the AWS last week proved to be successful and attended by a fair sized crowd.

In view of the good results of these experiments, a continuation of the practice of school dances seems to be the order.

In past years, before the number of male students in the college was depleted by the war, mixer dances were held to acquaint the students with one another, create a more friendly atmosphere and finally to increase that unknown quantity, school spirit.

A revival of this system would be a solution to the double problem.

The veterans complain that the women who are attending the college are unfriendly and hard to get acquainted with. The women, on the other hand, answer that the men are the ones who are unfriendly. They expect the women to make the first overtures of friendliness, but shy off like frightened deer if a strange girl should smile and say hello. All of which gets everybody nowhere.

If mixer dances could be restored to the college agenda, at a different time each week, or even every other week, all students would be able to attend at some time or other. In that way, both problems would be taken care of, and a happy, friendly atmosphere would again prevail throughout the college.

Ford

After Dark

SO now the S.P.C.A. (Society For Prevention of Cruelty to Artists) can write down in their ledgers that the college youth of San Francisco frown (as a whole) on the censorship of literature and music and advocate free expression in art (as a whole) and wish Heck-a-Tee a long life. Soooo the all inclusive searching probing inquisitive eye that tirelessly roams about the bay area After Dark can move on to the Elysian Fields of the Almight Fecund Fop.

° ° ° °

And, again, have you heard about the young pre-med student here that received a physical check-up from the college M.D. the other day? Halfway through the physical, young Cadaver Jr. looked professionally up at the doc and said, "Say doctor, what's the death rate here at the college?" The doctor put down his stethoscope and gazed reflectively out onto Phelan Avenue for a moment. Then he turned with equal seriousness to the young pre-medical student, and stroking his chin replied, "Oh—about one to a person I'd say."

° ° ° °

Including tonight, there are just four performances left to Group One of the Art In Cinema Series at the San Francisco Museum of Art. Tonight (at eight sharp) Fantasy Into Documentary is the program title and will include Alberto Cavalcanti's Rien Que Les Heures, Walther Ruttman's Berlin, and Ralph Steiners The City.

° ° ° °

And to those aspiring studeits of English Letters. After Dark would fain ask a question: Would Chaucer have written these lines today, or what?

"I'd ride a cock horse to Banbury Cross
For Giblet gravy and cranbury sauce,
Two treats which are held in reserve by the waiter,
Till you've finished your turkey and mashed potater."

And to the equally aspiring student of science: Can you name the termite?

"Some primal termite knocked on wood
And tasted it, and found it good
And that is why your cousin May Fell through the parlor floor today." (O. Nash)

Students interested in classical music should heed the notices regarding the Symphony Forum. Forum members are planning their first meeting Wednesday, November 13 at 2 p.m. at the West Campus Student Lounge, with a soloist from the Symphony Association providing the entertainment.

Around And About

with Nagle

THAT it's a man's world will again become the by-word within the riot too distant future is evident with so many men taking up culinary art.

Once the woman's place was in the home, and her place in the home was in the kitchen, perspiring over a flaming hot wood stove. But modern design and a few ingenious ideas have changed all that.

A woman now can put a complete dinner in her Swiftly-little-mother's-helper Electric Range, set an alarm clock, and dash out to the neighbors for a few rubbers of bridge and come home to find the table set, the dinner cooked and on the table, even her chair pulled out and waiting (all with the help of an alarm clock, too).

But the hungry male beast is not content with slaving all day over a hot desk, he must now whisk home and whip up his favorite biscuits or salad melangee.

MALE INVASION

The strong manly gent wants to complete this man's world stuff by invading the kitchen, too.

Magazines have recognized this fact and now print recipes "for men only". Such tempting tid-bits as Mugsy's Mighty Muffin", and "Stephen's Super Spaghetti", are printed and invariably tried by Mighty Male, Esq.

Instead of rushing home to the newest copy of Esquire or Time, our man now runs home to his newest copy of the Modern Males Monthly, so he can see what's cookin'.

Movie magazines have been caught in the whirlwind, and now print such recipes as Boris Karloff's Angel Breath Gold Cake, and Dennis Day's Walk of Death Tomato Sauce. (No doubt Boris never heard of Gold Cake until his press agent sent him a copy of the article for his scrap book.)

TRUMAN TRIUMPHS

After election day a column will probably be read in daily newspapers entitled "My Way", which, authored by Harry S. will give all the secret herbs he used to flavor his special dishes at official White House dinners.

After all, if men wish to run the world, throw women out of jobs, and take over the cooking too. Why not let them? Women still can vote and play bridge.

STANDBY

GEORGE MULLANY, the publications maestro, planed in from Chicago the other ayem. The rumors are flying concerning the nature of business conducted in the Windy City, to which Mullany replies:

"The weather was nice . . ."

Bewhiskered western star GEORGE "GABBY" HAYES was reputedly heckled to death in the plush-lined Los Angeles Union Station by "15 local football thespians." Top line:

"Hey, Schuehard, there goes your father!" (All in fun, though.)

LLOYD D. LUCKMANN, the ex-USS legalite, now assistant to PRESIDENT A. J. CLOUD, leaves Mills Field tomorrow afternoon, scheduled to arrive at Fushing, N. Y., Sunday in time for a week long "study" of the Russo-US-British-China-France peace muddle.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Eyewitness Speaks Piece On Nuremberg and Home Criminals

AFTER months of intimate contact with the Nuremberg war criminals Dr. Douglas Kelley, Army phychiatrist, recently returned to offer America a choice of " . . . following the Nazi party into the sewer of civilization" or functioning as a true democracy.

Dr. Kelley made daily visits to the cell of the late Fatso Goering, victim of his own rat poison; to that of Hess, ex-ambassador of peace; Ley, Streicher, Rosenberg, and all the remaining remnants of a minority group that rode to glory over the bodies of a beaten majority who chose to look the other way while their mode of life was being eaten out from under them.

GOERING TRUE TO FORM

All the gory details of how this group twisted and warped the German mind to their own will was heard by Dr. Kelley for hours on end in his personal talks with each of the condemned men. He had to leave the jail for fresh air after two or three hours with each Nazi.

Goering, the front man who sold the bill of goods was termed, " . . . the most ruthless human being I have ever experienced" by Dr. Kelley.

When asked why he ordered the death of Roehm, his best friend, Goering, " . . . shrugged his shoulders, his big fat hand came up and he looked like he didn't think I was quite bright . . . he just said, 'well, he was in the way'."

THE BEARER OF PEACE

From Hess' own lips came the story of his fantastic flight to England. Hess made the flight without Hitler's knowing of it. Dr. Kelley stated, and actually believed he could walk into England and end the war with a few deals that would have left Germany on top of the heap and free to go after Russia with no interference.

Prying into the minds of 21 living tools of the Hitler political machine, Dr. Kelley checked and rechecked their testimony against the words of 200 lesser prisoners held in Nuremberg and he returns to this country with plenty of authority to back his statements.

SAME WORDS, NEW LOCALE

What the psychiatrist saw on his return doesn't make pleasant reading and it reflects the same hidden rumblings that tore Germany apart when that entire nation ignored existence of a powerful minority group.

Dr. Kelley's words are aimed directly at the common man in his country, the citizen eligible to vote. He might well be speaking to the student body of this college; the returned veteran now on the Hill and the other fifty per cent who will soon be eligible to exercise their right to sane voting.

Referring pointedly to a Southern senator who advocates deporting the Negroes to Africa, Dr. Kelley's argument is a sound one. " . . . exercise our prerogatives and see that the people who decide elect are the people who do not think emotionally but function intellectually". He warns of a constant guard against voting for candidates who attempt to stampede into office on an emotional tide of non-thinkers.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

THE question of maturity and the characteristics of adulthood have been the basis of much name-calling at the college in the last few weeks. The Ram's Horn section of The Guardsman has begun to look like the script for the Bob Hope show when he is planning to play host to Bing Crosby, but it is about time that such childishness be cut out of the extra curricular activities here. Their very ubiquitousness demonstrates clearly that the "callers" on either side are by no means fully matured.

Certainly, each individual differs from all others in many ways, with the greatest difference rooted in the brain where interests and prejudices lie side by side.

It is obvious that the men who fought the war were exposed to entirely different elements than were those who remained at home, ignorant of the violence and brutality of combat. The veterans have returned to a comparatively serene existence older, wiser, and far more serious than they were when they left.

Something which has rarely been taken into consideration, however, is the fact that if the war had not been fought these same men would be the same age today. They would either have finished college and be taking their places in a mature society, or, most likely, would have four or five years of hard work behind them, trying to get by on a small salary, and struggling with little prospect of an outlet or a choice for self-improvement such as is offered by college.

Experience, which normally comes with the accumulation of years brings about an adult outlook, and it is understandably difficult for the student-veteran to bridge the gap which separates him from his fellow stu-

(Continued on page 4, column 3)

Ram's Horn

Citizen First, Veteran Second, Says Respondent To Harold Levy Letter

Letters to the Editor

• Women Not Condemned

Editor, The Guardsman:

In the October 25th edition of The Guardsman, in the Ram's Horn column, was a letter, written by one Herbert Levy. To this letter I take offense, both as a veteran and as an American citizen. Mr. Levy states, and I quote, "in the present situation, with the young men of our nation, who are returning or have returned from the bloody battlefields of the world, it would be the patriotic duty of the girls, to relinquish their entry into college so an ambitious veteran may have a chance at education."

When the veteran returned from service, he expected to be completely forgotten, to return and become "just another civilian". He does not demand "special privileges" because he fought, or because he served in the Army or Navy. Nor does he call a person greedy because that person, male or female, wants an education. Yet Mr. Levy does. Again I quote, "It seems inevitable that greedy people will always violate the rights and privileges of the people who should have them."

I, as a veteran, have no more right to attend college than the next person. I hold no priority, and I expect none. If the college is filled when I arrive, I wait until my turn comes. It is not for me to condemn women for attending college, as Mr. Levy does, but to congratulate them for having the foresight to further their education. I am a civilian first, a veteran afterwards. I have forgotten those days, months, years of service, as well as I can forget them, because they are a thing of the past, and they will not in any way affect my future.

There is no special priority that I ask for, neither in school nor in anything else. I want to live, not only as a veteran, but as a proud American.

For lonee, try forgetting us as veterans, and think of us as just good American citizens.

Ray King

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR.....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivien Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Gold man.
COPY: Lucille Scott, editor.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 13 FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1946 Page 3

Rams, Bucs At Balboa Today

Rams Vs. Buccaneers

Balboa Field—2:30 P.M.

8 Ray Poznekoff	LER	Orville Young 54
21 Art Psaltis	LTR	Robert Rayl 42
9 Stan Belcher	LGR	Don Armstrong 59
22 Johnny Didio	C	(C) John Dinubilo 41
19 Denny Miller	RGL	Dick Harding 34
88 Glen Smith	RTL	Bob Smith 67
15 Jim Cronn	REL	John Chinn 16
7 Staten Webster	Q	Bill Duncan 60
12 Art Ekdall (C)	LHR	Gail Henley 18
18 Carter Corey	RHL	Dick Emerzian 14
25 Marshall Leong	F	Al Ohanis 40

MODESTO ROSTER
10 Lacoste, Louis, q
11 Baba, Henry, h
12 Andrioni, Al, q
13 Fowler, Louis, q
14 Emerzian, Dick, h
15 Dier, Reul, q
16 Chinn, John, h
17 Geist, Norman, f
18 Henley, Gale, h
19 Shaffer, Roy, q
20 Duncan, Chester, h
21 Freeman, Arthur, h
22 Quarante, Dick, q
23 Lovell, Fred, h
24 Kirk, Glenn, q
25 Larson, Rowland, e
26 Allen, Chuck, q
27 Clark, Dick, e
29 Jones, Laurence, e
28 DeGraff, Thomas, q
30 Williams, Melvin, g
31 Fletcher, Richard, h
32 Stovall, Albert, h
33 Highlet, Barry, h
34 Harding, Richard, q
35 Collins, Forrest, f
36 Summers, Jr., f
37 Brewer, Jess, h
38 Rodgers, John, e
39 Gordon, Bob, e
40 Ohanis, Al, f
41 Dinubilo, John, c
42 Rayl, Robert, t
43 Papalis, Jerry, c
44 Downing, Howard, t
45 Diez, Nick c
46 Smith, Hinton, g
47 Blodgett, William, q
48 Landreth, Bob, t
49 Booth, Everett, q
50 Kirk, Glenn, f
51 Allen, Art, f
52 Sayed, Eddie, t
53 Carlson, Bob, c
54 Young, Orrville, e
55 Posthumus, Bob, t
56 Phillips, Don, t
57 Rose, Ken, e
58 Cummins, Bob, e
59 Armstrong, Don, q
60 Duncan, Bill, q
61 Clark, Dick, e
65 Polous, Steve, c
66 Edwards, Robert, e
67 Smith, Bob, t
71 Allahan, Chet, t
72 Moorad, Willie, t
64 Wadsworth, Jim, e
63 Barry, David, e
62 Ede, Fred, t

SAN FRANCISCO ROSTER
1 White, Ken, q
2 Asimo, John, e
3 Grant, Don, g
4 Greene, Jim, h
7 Webster, Staten, q
8 Rainey, John, h
9 Poznekoff, Ray, e
Belcher, Stan, q
10 Henry, Mack, e
12 Ekdall, Art, h
13 Newell, George, q
14 Orosin, Sterling, e
15 Cronn, Jim, e
16 Cavender, Robert, h
17 Crouch, Howard, t
18 Corey, Carter, h
19 Miller, Denny, g
20 Slattery, Wilfred, h
21 Psaltis, Art, t
22 Didio, Johnny, c
23 Woodworth, Bob, h
24 Stern, Roland, e
25 Leong, Marshall, t
26 Dotur, Paul, t
31 Swanson, Len, c
33 Drake, Al, t
34 Hardeman, Stanford, h
35 Ihle, Walter, t
36 Biess, Isadore, t
38 Gallischon, Phil, e
41 Cassidy, William, t
44 Magnanti, George, q
45 Johnson, Dick, c
55 Schuchard, Ken, c
66 Hofman, Glenn, t
77 Booker, Don, t
88 Smith, Glen, t
Castro, Manuel, h
Kyle, Kermit, f
Lanthier, John, g
Williams, Otis, f

Locals Rule As Favorites To Chalk Up Sixth Straight Victory At Pirate Expense

By Bob Catudio

Modesto Junior College's Pirates sweep in from their inland sea of grass today for a scheduled 60 minutes of "conference manenvers" on Balboa Field sod starting at 2:30 p.m.

The Rams, bedecked with five straight wins, will host the invading Bucs and will attempt to batter the Pirates for the second straight time this season.

Odds 3 To 1

Celestial high odds of 3 to 1 favoring the townies seem outlandish if one may take the sympathetic word of Head Maestro Lee Eisan, whose devilry masks an air of psychological concern.

"Modesto has always been tough," Eisan complains.

Spasmodic remembrances of the recent success involving Los Angeles City College's 21 to 6 setback at the hands of the provincials may affect the Eisans' performance.

Light scrimmaging was ordered this week with the emphasis on passing as authorized by Quarterbucks Staten Webster and George Newell, and Halfback Art Ekdall.

Williams In Backfield

Pre-war vet Otis Williams enlisted in the local home guard last week, and insiders are booming the hard-running back to add impetus to an already remarkably improved backfield.

Tackle Don Rooker, who missed the LA tour because of an attack of poison ivy, will be ready to spell either Glen Smith or Art Psaltis.

The Bucs, 6 to 0 victims of San Mateo Junior College last week, may surprise one and all, according to Coach Fred Earle, who hinted a revamped Modesto lineup may be seen by partisan onlookers.

Guard Dick Harding has returned from sick bay as has Orv Young, the Ceres, Calif. flankman, to bolster a pre-season weak water line.

Hopes of posting win number six will either be realized or vainly shattered long bout 5 o'clock this afternoon. The Rams, currently traveling on the most successful romp in history, will cast a potential "white sweater" ensemble at the sea of grass family and, indeed, all fingers will be crossed.

IT'S GLEN AGAIN and meaning ponderous Glen Smith, ex-Jefferson High School performer, currently a member of the local Eisans and Company.—Photo by Lum.

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

LEADING WINGMAN in the Northern California Junior College circuit is Ray Poznekoff, former Mission High School flankster. Poznekoff faces Modesto today at Balboa Field.—Photo by Lum.

WITH the season's lone Southern junket behind them, illustrious Ram gridmen can look back on an enjoyable as well as profitable week end. No doubt the 200 more enthusiastic hilltop inmates had more than a little to do with the team's showing. Fifteen hundred Los Angeles rooters didn't come close to rivalling the Ram contingent in spirit competition.

A sidelight of the victory down in the land of the wet sunshine is that the local college seems to be the lone Northern aggregation to do itself proud on the southern football field of honor.

Stanford, Santa Clara, St. Mary's and Oregon, in that order, went down to dastardly defeat at the hands of big bad "Southerners." Along came the little heralded Rams to take on Los Angeles City College, the fourth ranking junior college in the nation! Boom 21 to 6! Bring on UCLA! Well, almost.

A few of the grid greats should follow the medical profession. At least following their "major operation" performed on the home bound choo-choo it appears that way.

All was serene when suddenly an elderly woman collapsed from a heart attack. Sizing up the situation at a glance, the heroes ran for their little black bag and made with the spirits of ammonia. In no time at all said lady was on her feet feeling fine.

No doubt the Rams have acquired a football fan for life.

Modesto Grid Go Free To A.S. Card Holders

Admission to the San Francisco-Modesto game this afternoon falls in three groups, Assistant Dean Jack Brady said today.

Ram rooters will enter the Balboa High School field without charge provided they present an Associated Student card.

Modesto rooters will pay 50 cents with their Associated Student card.

High school and other college students will also pay 50 cents on presentation of student cards.

General admission costs $1.00.

Feminine 'Robin Hoods' Sharpen Up For November 16 Play Day At Santa Rosa

Archery club members are practicing weekly for 45 minutes between the hours of 9 and 12 Friday mornings, according to Francis Scilipoti, Women's Athletic Association president, in preparation for the play day Saturday, November 16, at Santa Rosa Junior College.

Members of the club include Yvonne Domergue, Helen Evans, Mary Lou Evans, Joyce Ke", Madeline La Fond, Virginia Lawrence, Donna Shoun, Leora Bear, Barbara Borwick, Carol Benson, Melba Mallery, and Alga McMillan. Members who will go to Santa Rosa have not yet been announced by Miss Scilipoti.

In addition the hockey club will accompany the archery club to Santa Rosa, Miss Scilipoti said.

Play-days are held by various colleges and junior colleges in the immediate vicinity to foster activities among women students, and the purpose is to acquaint students with other women at various colleges, Miss Scilipoti said.

AMS Society Sets Date For Boxing Carnival

The Associated Men Student boxing show to be held in the men's gymnasium Thursday, December 12, is destined to be quite a success if the current interest in the affair is an indication.

Coach Tom Wilson of the physical education department is in charge of the show, and is interested in interviewing any man who thinks he would like to compete in any one of the various weight divisions, ranging from flyweight to heavyweight.

Of the many veterans enrolled in the college, Wilson believes there are undoubtedly many who have had previous experience and some instruction in the art of self-defense, and it is these men whom Wilson is anxious to have sign up.

Any man who does sign up, however, must start a period of supervised training approximately two weeks prior to the night he competes, in order to arrive in the necessary condition. The deadline for entries is November 22.

Awards will be given to the winner and second place contestants, and also to the winning clubs and organizations. Some of these will be medals and some will be cups.

Badminton and ping-pong finals will precede the boxing show, and a championship basketball playoff precedes those. The main event, boxing, will come at 8:15 p.m.

Basketball

Formidable Ram Quintet Looms

Patiently awaiting the official opening of the college basketball season, Coach Ralph Hillsman, in his quiet manner, continues his formation of a strong basketball squad.

With the heavy turnout of 85 players, Hillsman admits he is not rushing the process of selecting his varsity squad.

"However from the turnout of fellows, I believe we can form a strong team. At the present time from the men that have been out for practice, I find that we are strong in the guard and forward positions. The weak link lies in the center spot," the Ram coach declared.

Regardless of the strong or weak positions in the team, Hillsman admitted with the utmost confidence that the Ocean-View boys will produce a well-balanced and smooth ball handling group of basketball players.

For the first time since the basketball turnout, Hillsman commented about some of the basketball players who have gleaned out during the recent practice sessions.

Hillsman will expect much from such cagaba hauglers as Vic Giannini, all-city forward from Balboa; Ken Cameron, leading prep scorer in the East Bay during 1944; Everett Herrerias, former college standout; Andy Roberts, and Jack Ginley, from Alameda. All of these players, who occupy the forward spots on the team, are reasons for an optimistic look.

Back court guardians will include Michael O'Neill, Neil Turner, Jim Hughes, Astore Bucciarelli, and Rury Pfister.

"Practice will continue as usual until the regular varsity team and junior varsity squads are formed, and then we will commence the regular schedule which will include the use of plays and various basketball fundamentals," Hillsman said.

From all indications, the Rams are in for a heavy season of basketball with 23 games scheduled at the present time dating from November 13 to February 28, and more contests still to be included between those dates.

Intramural

Cage Upsets Mark Fourth Round Play; Footballers Vie

Two major upsets were handed out in the fourth round of intramural basketball competition, leaving only two teams with perfect records.

The highly favored Ramblers went down to their first defeat of the season as the undefeated East Bay Trotters rolled to a 44 to 26 victory. Len Simpson headed the scoring parade with 12 digits for the losers.

Led by Dan Gee, who scored 26 points, the Chinese Social Club knocked the Los Vaqueros five from the undefeated ranks as they won a 66 to 55 decision.

With center Jim Hughes scoring 28 points, the Lamb quintet strengthened their hold on first place by trouncing the hard fighting Tigers, 72 to 48.

The XGI squad broke into the win column for the first time as they eked out a 31 to 27 win over the Tau Chi Sigma cagers. Ignacio Ruiz led the scoring with 19 points.

The Buccaneers received credit for their first win of the season, and the Operators their third, as they won on defaults from the Portals and Poops.

Following is the schedule for games to be played Tuesday, November 12.

Scheduled for 4 o'clock:
Lambs vs. Los Vaqueros
Tau Chi Sigma vs. East Bay Trotters
Poops vs. Portals
Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
Tigers vs. Operators
Buccaneers vs. Ramblers
XGI vs. Chinese Social Club

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL STANDINGS

	W	L	Pct.
Lambs	4	0	1.000
East Bay Trotters	3	0	1.000
Chinese Social Club	3	1	.750
Ramblers	3	1	.750
Operators	3	1	.750
Los Vaqueros	2	1	.667
Tigers	2	2	.500
Tau Chi Sigma	1	3	.250
XGI	1	3	.250
Buccaneers	1	3	.250
Portals	0	4	.000
Poops	0	4	.000

Results from the first round of play in the intramural football leagues prove that the All-American League is going to provide some close competition if nothing else.

Although the Poly Alumni Club won from the Seagulls on a forfeit, the other two games ended in scoreless ties. The curtain raiser saw the Turtles and the Cowboys struggling vainly to emerge with a victory, with the Beta Tau squad and the Galloping Gaels repeating the performance in the second game played.

Next Wednesday the teams from the National League will parade their strength with the Tau Chi Sigma team meeting the XGI squad at 3 o'clock. At 3:30, the Portals clash with the Chinese Social Club and the Albany Bulldogs tangle with the Smoked Irish in the nightcap.

Competition will be among the teams from the AA League Monday. The Turtles and Galloping Gaels clash in the first game at 3 o'clock, the Cowboys take on the Poly Alumni Club at 3:40, and the Beta Tau team and the Seagulls meet in the nightcap.

Little Rams Collide With Army Tomorrow

Definitely on the improved side after giving the San Francisco State Reserves a trouncing in their last game, the Lamb football squad is all ready and patiently waiting for their next little scrum with Army Supply Depot's team at the college field, tomorrow.

Coach Grover Klemmer hasn't been able to gain any information on their opponents, the Army, but "they have quite a few big men on their squad, and a couple of good 'scat' backs."

Klemmer avers the game may prove whether or not the Lambs have the qualifications to continue winning.

Curriculum

Paint Technology Course Announced For Next Semester

New horizons will open for students here next semester, when a course in paint technology will be offered.

The course will train students for the technical end of the paint and varnish production and will lead to jobs in the industry's laboratories, and as raw material salesmen and plant supervisors.

Final plans for the course were worked out last Tuesday, when a meeting took place between Arthur Furst, Chemistry Instructor, who will head the course, and W. T. Butner, Superintendent of the Pacific Paint and Varnish Company and representative of the Golden Gate Paint and Varnish Production Club.

Butner stated, "The course should fill a very great need for trained personnel in the laboratories of the paint and varnish and allied manufacturers, and offers training for a highly profitable career." He further remarked that the industry is looking to the college for trained personnel.

The course is the brain-child of Walter Forbes, Chemistry Instructor, who started plans four years ago to make the course possible.

Students interested in the course are advised to see Furst who may be reached in the chemistry department at almost any time.

The course in Paint Technology is not offered by any university or college in the West and by no junior college in the country.

The course will be a professional one and will take two years to complete. It is thought that 30 or more students can be accommodated in the course.

Clubs Donate Funds To Community Chest

The Feather Merchant's Dance, which was held last Tuesday in the Student Lounge for the benefit of the Community Chest, was a tremendous success, Trev Burrow, in charge of the affair, announced.

College organizations which sponsored the dance on a cooperative basis were quite pleased with the results of their efforts.

Donations collected at the dance, plus the contributions of the organizations participating, swelled the coffers of the Community Chest by $154.30 with approximately $40.00 more expected from various college clubs.

Alpha Lambda Chi and the Chinese Club led the organizations in the extensive time and effort that they put into the dance. Their assistance made the dance possible and successful

College Honor Society Pins Arrive On Campus

Pins for the new members of Alpha Gamma Sigma college honor society, arrived last week and may be called for in Room 340 any day next week, it was announced by Edwin Cranston, faculty adviser to the society.

Room 340 is not the new official office of the organization, which is located on the West Campus of the college next door to the fountain, and which is open to members whenever they wish to drop in.

We Deliver—FLOWERS—We Telegraph
Chain of Flowers
Florists
CORSAGES—FLORAL DESIGNS
WEDDINGS
JUniper 4-9038 1803 Ocean Avenue
San Francisco 12

Sophomores

King, Queen Contest Applications Ready

Applications for the sophomore king and queen elections may now be obtained from Mildred Laube, sophomore president, or Frisco Sarto and must be turned in not later than Monday, November 18, Miss Laube announced this week.

Qualifications stipulate that the candidate must posses 30 or more units and be a registered student of the college. Anyone of the college organizations may sponsor a candidate or the student may enter the contest independently.

Contestants will be photographed Tuesday and Thursday, November 19 and 21, at the West Campus, while campaigning will begin January 2 and will end with the election on January 8, Miss Laube said.

Candidates will be limited to three campaign posters and all portraits will be restricted with the exception of the official picture which will be posted in the show case.

Veterans

Campus Policies Subject Of Survey

Veterans will have a chance to air their opinions on changes that have occurred within the college, during the College Hour, on Friday, November 15.

Printed forms, to be filled in by the veteran, to aid him in deciding what he considers satisfactory or unsatisfactory, will be available at the West Campus Auditorium, according to James S. Hughes, instructor in speech, and political science.

This survey, which is under the supervision of the School of Education, at the University of California, is being conducted at eight junior colleges in California.

The primary purpose of this research project is to secure from veterans attending junior colleges reactions as to changes that have been made in the general curriculum inso-far as the large enrollment of veterans is concerned.

Scheduled to participate in this research project are Los Angeles City College, Glendale Junior College, Long Beach City College, and Pasadena, Fullerton, Compton, San Mateo, and San Francisco Junior Colleges.

Hughes, who is in charge of the project, began teaching here in 1935. He was one of the first instructors to be called into active duty with the Army, which he entered in 1940.

Having completed five years service, and having won the Legion of Merit award, Hughes' final assignment was as a Lieutenant Colonel in the Inspector General's Department. Since his separation from the service, he has returned to his former position here.

Postal Service Jobs Available On Campus

All students who can meet the requirements of the post office department are assured of placement for holiday jobs, according to Joseph Amori, college placement officer.

The requirements for the jobs are that students be at least 18 years of age and be citizens of the United States. No exceptions to the above will be allowed.

Mail sorting, general clerical work, mail carrying, and a few truck driving jobs, are among the jobs open in the Post Office. Wages are $1.01 an hour in the daytime and $1.14 after 6 p.m.

No guarantee is given to the length of the work period and salaries for these jobs will not be paid till after the first of the year.

The final date for filing for post office jobs is Tuesday, November 12. No applications will be accepted after this date, Ameri said.

A limited number of jobs for men who weigh over 150 pounds and are United States citizens are available at the Railway Express at $1.20 an hour.

'XGI Foxhole' Here

SPONSOR OF many campus doings, the XGI's last week inaugurated a flag raising ceremony on the West Campus daily batwaen 8 a. m. and 8:30 a. m. with a sundown lowering each evening. Participating in the ritual are Don Hillendahl, Hal Freeman, Bob Bartram and Lon De Laringo, bugler. Below are three society officers, left to right, Les Holden, John Flaherty, and Trev Burrow.

By Marge Whearty

Where the "Old Guard" meets—the XGI office in Building 2 on the West Campus is the fox hole of college veterans.

With President Trev Burrow at the wheel, the machinery of the XGI Society moves to promote student activities, fostering comradeship among the returning veterans on the campus.

As an active organization, the club tackles such problems as veteran housing, coaching in studies, keeping as one of its aims the furthering of any legislation which will aid the veterans.

Meeting on the fourth Friday of every month in Room 1 of the War Memorial Building, the society asks one dollar a semester from each member for dues and an initiation fee of one dollar.

Requirements for membership consist of one veteran emblem—with both men and women welcome to join.

Administrative duties are channeled through an Advisory Council of 12 members elected by the society. Chairman of the council is Vice-President Leslie Holden while Treasurer John Flaherty completes the officer panel on the council.

Majoring in journalism, Burrow left the Marine Corps to accept the position of News Editor of The Guardsman, joining the campus to become President of the XGIs.

Active hustler—and rustler when selling tickets—Holden uses his major in languages for the post of vice-president. In his third semester, Holden plans to attend the University of San Francisco.

Keeper of the key to the society bankroll is Flaherty, treasurer, recently of the Paratroopers. With a tour of Japan to his credit, Flaherty entered the college during the summer to study accounting.

Only woman on the Advisory Council, Martha Spry is an ex-Wave now attending the Excelsior branch of the college.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

- Beta Phi Beta: New pledges for this semester are Ed Bardin, Johnny Bay, Pete Casenova, Joe Corbin, Ron Forbes, Ed Gallamore, Ed Hancock, Roy Lienau, George Newell, Fran Steil, and Bill Tannawitz. The fall season will be climaxed tomorrow night by the formal initiation and banquet at the Lido Cafe.
- Beta Tau: Formal initiation is planned for this evening at the home of Paul Yde, 33 Marcela Avenue.
- Engineers' Club: A resolution committee includes James White, Charles Le Week, Robert Creedy, William Davis, Charles Jarret.
- Kappa Phi: Formal pledging will be held Sunday night at Barbara Christenson's home. Next week will be pledge week for the new pledges.
- Phi Beta Rho: The second rush affair was held at the Camp Fire Girls Club House last Sunday.
- Pick and Hammer Club: First meeting of the fall semester is tomorrow evening at Adviser George Green's home, 160 Lunado Way, at 7:30 p.m. Election of officers and the planning of a schedule of field trips will be discussed.

In Club Cavalcade of Tuesday's Guardsman, the club title Alpha Theta Epsilon was inadvertently omitted above the organization's activities. Following is the corrected version:

- Alpha Theta Epsilon: Installation of officers was held last Tuesday evening at the Bellevue Hotel. New officers are Helen Tanner, president; Jean Tanner, vice-president; Pearl Lee, secretary, and Eleanor Reed, treasurer. Jennie Lau is the installing officer.

More Hilltop Manner

(Continued from page 2).

dents. The majority, however, have been doing a magnificent job.

Inasmuch as this incongruity stems primarily from the age difference, and the greater and less worldly experience in each group, the solution is to be found in trying to understand and tolerate degrees of maturity or immaturity as the case may be.

Music Appreciation Jumps In Volume

By Mel Hansen

The term music appreciation suggests many strange and for the most part unhappy remembrances dating back to high school days when students were required to undergo long and laborious sessions under the above mentioned title.

The local music department under the direction of Flossita Badger, Gertrude Norgard, and Madison Devlin, is striving to correct this misconception of a very important phase of education.

Music appreciation is a very broad term, and because of this it has been dropped, as such here at the college.

There are two main ideas kept in mind when this problem is being attacked, according to Miss Badger, the first being to offer the student intending to make music his career a sound and, at the same time some what of a detailed background of composition, great works, and composers.

The second and perhaps the most important, in view of the fact that it embraces a larger group of active participants, is that of presenting to the student body as a whole a very basic and yet enjoyable introduction to music.

In connection with this second topic, the college offers a course in "listening to" planned recorded programs of various types of music.

Educational Purposes Discussed By Peterson

Educational contributions of California and purposes of the junior college were discussed in an article by Dr. Basil H. Peterson, President of the California Junior College Federation, in a recent issue of the Sierra Educational News, official publication of the California Teachers Association.

California has done much to establish the junior college as a community institution to meet the educational needs of the populace, according to Dr. Peterson. The junior college first originated as an extension of the high school in 1910, in conjunction with Fresno High School.

Having 74, at the present time, California has more junior colleges than any other state.

Dr. Peterson lays out five types of educational opportunities or purposes. They are Semi-Professional Training, Pre-Professional Training, Opportunity to Remove High School Deficiencies, General and Cultural Education, and Training for war veterans to prepare them for high school graduation, entering an industry, or for more study in a University.

BENNY'S
RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—RAndolph 9632

B & L RADIO SERVICE
HOME AND AUTO RADIO
SALES AND SERVICE
OWNED BY EX-JC STUDENT
377 Jules Ave. At Ocean
JUniper 4-3019

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1946 No. 14

'Operation West Campus' Managed By Former Army Colonel Fred McFarland

By Harold Levy

A good portion of the responsibility of maintaining a smooth-running West Campus, rests upon the able shoulders of long-time faculty member, Fred C. McFarland.

With a stirring military background beginning with Police Training Instructor at the college, and extending to commanding officer of numerous military units at home and overseas, McFarland now plunges headlong into the job of aiding Dean Edward E. Sandys with "Operation West Campus."

Known popularly as "Mac", McFarland came to the college in 1938. He taught police training, and coached the men's and women's rifle teams, until 1941, when he was called into active service in the capacity of Major.

Placed with the San Francisco Board of Education, McFarland was Professor of Military Science and Tactics. This assignment terminated and "Mac" was transferred to Camp Roberts, California, where he commanded an infantry battalion, under the Infantry Replacement Training Center there.

OPERATIONS "WEST CAMPUS" is the unenviable task of Fred MacFarland who has moved from the man's physical education department to the west campus, where he is in charge of all housing and maintenance.—Photo by Lustig.

The ex-faculty member then traveled to Camp Luis Obispo, as Commanding Officer of the 5th Headquarters Special Troops, of the Fourth Army.

This period of command lasted one year, after which time the versatile McFarland again packed his bag and headed for Little Rock, Arkansas, to take command of the 76th Infantry Division Regiment at Camp Robertson.

A year later found McFarland in Japan, serving as Special Service Officer for the 98th Division and the Osaka area of Japan.

Discharged from the army as a Colonel, McFarland returned to the college in May, 1946. Since the opening of the West Campus he has officially taken over the job of getting the new gears oiled, and into operation.

McFarland's office is located in Building 2. He is qualified to help students with queries regarding living accommodations on the West Campus.

Student Council

AYD Group Unleashes Explosive Blast Aimed At Students, Campus Policies

By Bill Riley

American Youth for Democracy and its affiliate, the campus unrecognized "Student Unity Club," projected themselves into the spotlight at last Thursday's meeting of the Student Council.

During the council meeting, President Dean Haug brought to light the pertinent fact that although the "Student Unity Club" has three times been refused recognition by representative college bodies, members of the club persist in illegally distributing their literature on and about the campus. Haug submitted as evidence two pamphlets which have been given to members of the Associated Students. One bore the name of the college twice and the other named the Club Advisory Board.

Rules Unconstitutional

The following rules in reference to publications as established by the Constitution, was made in the October 26 issue of The Guardsman, "The Publications Board is responsible for all publications bearing the name of San Francisco Junior College . . . and regulates distribution of any other printed material on the campus.

"No publications, other than Associated Student official or recognized publications, may be distributed on the campus without the board's approval."

The "Student Unity Club," formerly known as the "Free World Club," has been a center of controversy for the past two semesters. Last semester the "Free World Club" twice applied to the Club Advisory Board for recognition. The first application was voted down by the board. The second time they applied, the proposed organization passed the board but was refused recognition by the Student Council.

Group Downed 13-5

This semester, under the brand new name, "Student Unity Club," the organization again applied for a charter but was squelched by the board by a vote of 13 to 5.

One of the main issues involved has been the implied association between the "Student Unity Club" and Communism. The American Youth For Democracy has been hailed by many as a Communistic organization. It is stated on their literature that they oppose red baiting.

Because of lack of time Nancy Rutencutter, secretary, moved that further discussion be tabled until the following meeting of the Student Council this Thursday.

CAB

Clubs Meet During College Hour Friday

With new volunteers entering the campus club line-up at each meeting of the Club Advisory Board, college organizations will present a strong front this Friday when they meet during the college hour at 10:45 a.m., according to administrative decree of Dean Edward E. Sandys today.

Joining the association list since the last on-campus round of meetings are the YMCA, the American Veterans Committee, and the Tau Sigma, a fraternity, each with its approved charter filed with the CAB.

In the making are the Latin American Club and the Lutheran Student and the Ski Club, which meet for organizational purposes on Friday.

AVC Expects 100 Members

Claiming more than 75,000 members throughout the country in its various chapters in colleges and universities, the AVC is open to all men and women veterans of the armed forces and merchant marine.

Sponsored jointly by instructor-veterans Thomas Gabbert and John Booher, the club was started on its way by student Dan Golden who expects to have more than 100 members before the end of the current semester.

Lutherans In Room 309

Also a national organization is the Lutheran Student Association, which will meet in Room 309 on Friday.

Begun by Edith Todd, Leona Dakenbring, and Frances Thollander, students on the campus, the chapter will have Edward Larson, business instructor, as faculty sponsor.

As soon as it is working, the club plans to schedule Reverend Lloyd Jacobson, pastor for the Lutheran students at the University of California, as guest speaker, according to Miss Todd.

Skiers Plan Trips

With a tentative date already set

(Continued on page 3, column 3)

Registrar

Deadline Tomorrow For Program Changes

Final deadline for any change in student's programs is tomorrow, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, again reminded this week.

Students may still drop courses prior to this date, Miss Learnard revealed, although there is now no chance to substitute another subject since classes were filled to capacity from the beginning of the semester. To avoid penalty, all clearances must be completed and filed in the registrar's office tomorrow, Miss Learnard emphasized.

Students desiring a leave of absence are directed to obtain one through the proper channels of the Registrar's office. To withdraw from the college without obtaining approval will result in automatic "F" grades in all courses, Miss Learnard warned. The final date that students may be granted a leave of absence is Friday, January 3.

Students who are contemplating entering the University of California next semester are instructed to file their applications before Friday, January 17, Miss Learnard disclosed, pointing out that the registrar's office is ready to assist students with individual problems.

American Education Week

Problem Of World Unity Is Subject Of Faculty Discussion Tonight On West Campus; Pres. Cloud Chairman

Major problems that stand in the way of world unity and paths along which that unity can be obtained will be discussed by John E. Ross, John F. Gerstung, and William A. Goss, social science instructors at the college, tonight at 7:45 p.m. in the Administration Building on the West Campus.

Chairman of the evening, President A. J. Cloud will speak on a world organization of teachers, and Ross will relate some of his personal experiences from his service with United Nation's work in Europe.

The program is being held as the college's participation in American Education Week, November 10 to 16.

How Can We Attain World Unity? is the formal title of the evening's discussion. Those planning it pronounce it to be both interesting and educational.

This problem concerns all Americans, and as Americans every student, parent, wife and friend who can should attend the program, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President Cloud, said.

"Schools and colleges are called upon to assume many new tasks in serving the peacetime needs of the country," he said, "and only by development of an understanding among nations can the United Nations Organization pour forth its full power."

Entrance to the West Campus may be made through the Ocean Avenue gate. The cafeteria will remain open for service.

Sophomores

Rules Announced For Royalty Race

Deadline date for submission of Sophomore King and Queen applications has been set for next Monday, November 18, according to Millie Laube, Sophomore President.

Applications may be obtained from Miss Laube or Frisco Sartor, who make up the election committee.

Qualifications for king and queen candidates state that the contestant must possess 30 units or more and be a registered student of the college.

Entrants in the contest may be represented by a college organization or run independently, Miss Laube added.

Photographs will be taken of the candidates on the West Campus on Tuesday, November 19, the day following application deadline, and Thursday, November 21.

Contestants are limited to three posters and only the official photograph which will be posted in the first floor display case. Miss Laube concluded that campaigning will begin Thurday, January 2, and run to Wednesday, January 8, with the election.

Ushering Jobs At SF Symphony Offered Here

Dean Margaret Dougherty announced today that students desiring to attend the first symphony of the season this coming Friday, November 15, as ushers submit their names immediately while openings are still available.

Ushers, or usherettes, are still in demand for Tito Schipa, The Prince of Singers' Concert, at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium November 23.

Dean Dougherty reported that many students have availed themselves of this chance to attend San Francisco's finer musical and theatrical productions.

Evans Of Cafeteria Staff Wins Chevrolet

By Harold Levy

A very happy woman was Happy. Lest that sound like a repetitious error, listen further.

At 8:30 p.m. on election night, Happy Evans answered the telephone to learn that she had just won a new Chevrolet Sedanette.

Chances on the car were offered by the Veterans' Farm and Home Committee of the American Legion.

Mrs. Evans, who is cafeteria checker here, was quite sure that she could never win when she purchased her ticket from John Crose, hotel division student, and member of Oakland Post, Number 5, American Legion.

Yet Wednesday morning, when Mrs. Evans arrived at Veterans' Memorial Building, Oakland, she was a very happy woman. Ted Hoffman, Tenth District Chairman, made the presentation of the car, which came complete with "pink slip" and new-car gloss.

Mrs. Evans reported for duty in the cafeteria on schedule.

Block SF Dance In Auditorium Friday

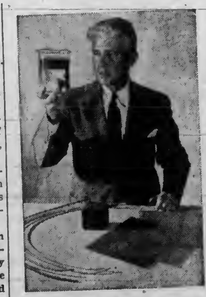
Pigskin toters of the college toss out more social entertainment this Friday night.

While the faculty busily treads the floors of the Student Lounge at their Buffet Supper, slated for the same evening, the Block SF Society will invade the Auditorium with another dance.

This social is being sponsored to raise funds for the 12th Annual Block Society Banquet, an annual dinner sponsored by the group each year to commemorate their list of victories and hear plaudits from the coaches.

Tickets for the dance are on sale throughout the campus, 25 cents for women, 50 cents for men.

Du Pont Plastic Age Here



Livingston To Speak On Campus Nov. 19

New plastics, nylon products, and explosive rivets, will be among the display of new products of the chemistry industry, when L. F. Livingston, extension division manager of the du Pont Company, presents a lecture-demonstration before a meeting of the college Engineering Society, here, next Tuesday, November 19.

Since developments within the industry have been so numerous in recent years, Livingston will discuss only the current and most interesting advancements in this field.

In addition to the demonstration on actual products, the extension division head will consider chemistry in relation to future jobs within the broad fields of chemical science, and engineering.

A former faculty member of the University of Wisconsin, Livingston is prominent in such technological societies as the American Forestry Association, and the Farm Chemurgic Council.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 14 Tuesday, November 12, 1946 Page 2

Armistice Day

Hope For Future

ARMISTICE DAY raced across the American scene yesterday in a mood of passing remorse.

The mood of high prices, housing problems, muddled global peacemakers, industrial strikes, increasing crime waves, and minor discomforts too numerous to mention were here.

The mood of the American public was a foregone conclusion. It was anything but satisfactory.

For the memory of old "Blood and Guts," and Rodger Young are still framed in gold star brightness.

The strife of a nation imbued with relentless fortitude is indeed inherent in the days of our years.

Armistice of another battle long ago is here for the men of dreams and futurity to tear apart.

Not many people will close their eyes and remember the past that rattled with gun shot and replacement depots.

A slight 10,000,000—the leftovers of last year's Armistice—will remember too well the well of loneliness of utter despair.

People were small and helpful yesterday.

People were cooperative and honest and real yesterday.

And out of the darkness that threatened a world came a sudden transposition to greed, jealousy, and fear.

People were too big and not too helpful.

People were uncooperative and false and discreditable.

The Armistice of a battle of arms long ago has now assumed a battle of a fading dollar and celestial maximums of American Society.

The American scene—the cobble stone streets of Boston and the narrow thoroughfares of New Orleans.

Certainly, the day will come when Armistice Day will mean more than "life for the living, hope for a future."

The stain of red soil across the divide will never wash away!

Ford

After Dark

A LITTLE late in reviewing, but The Kid From Brooklyn, with Danny Kay, comes next on the don't-look-for-any-plot list; you won't find one. Don't look for the Grand Manner; it has been crucified. If you want to look (and it is here presumed that when you go to the cinema you look at the screen), look at the many and varied expressions that vascillate over the cute countenance of Senor Kay. Why, the man can really act!

Notwithstanding the fact that he has been restricted to stereotyped roles, it is all too evident that Danny Boy has all the ingredients that go into the making of a fine dramatic actor. His satire is an art in itself and his fast vocal manipulations are nothing short of miraculous.

One of the best parts of the picture is Kay's takeoff on the gentle and precise art of the ballet. The show is currently playing at various neighborhood theatres. It's economical that way, you know (you know?).

You're as old as you feel. An amusing incident happened in a downtown show the other night. An old woman, between 90 and 95, was standing in a long line, waiting to see a movie. A young usher spotted her and called out, "Folks, let's let that old lady have the first seat. She shouldn't have to stand in this line." Immediately, everyone turned around to see the "old lady, including "the old lady."

On the non-fiction side of Book of the Month selections is "The Snake Pit" by Mary Jane Ward, a New Yorkese, and resident of Greenwich Village. It is the story of a young girl (not a college student) who lost her mind and found it again knocking about in a mental hospital. The book is written very well and the style is both fluid and interesting.

In fact, you will find the book perched nonchalantly on the doctor's bookshelf when you trip on down to your favorite psychiatrist next week. Most of the book is a wierd confusion of images and recollections which show great understanding and insight on the part of Mrs. Ward.

Around And About

with Nagle

YEARS ago several energetic damsels spoke speeches, fought fights, and just plain insisted until they acquired voting rights for women.

Now at the age of 21 a woman runs to the nearest registration booth and gives forth with vital statistics. Probably this is the first, last, and, and only time a woman ever tells the truth about her age. But she does! She registers, and becomes a full-fledged citizen.

EENIE MEENIE MYNIE MO

Then comes election day. She reads the papers (at least Lil' Abner) and tries to pick up a bit of important political information. Of course she can't figure out a thing; so she looks at the campaign pictures. The Democratic candidates are better-looking than the Republican, so she votes the Democratic ticket. If there is a choice, the best looking eligible man wins—if he is ineligible—then the family man gains another vote.

So the choices are made. Oh yes, the papers, editorials, and radio columnists advise one to be an intelligent voter, but intelligence is so hard to acquire when it comes to voting, so the line of least resistance is followed by checking the list in the daily paper.

CROWDS CRY AT LINE-UPS

Election day arrives. The polls are open at 7 a.m., but who wants to arise and shine in a stuffy garage at 7 a.m. Tempus fugit, so the Romans said. Nightfall comes. So the "intelligent voter" takes her stand at the polls. Takes her stand is right, for the polls are crowded. Students cry about book-store lines, servicemen cry about chow-lines, women cry about Nylon lines, housewives cry about meat lines, even voters cry—about voting lines.

With so many "waiters" standing around, the conversational ball starts rolling, and talk ranges from whether Jimmy-Joe is too young to go to a formal dance to how good-looking the last male voter was . . . nothing is said about the charter amendments, or Schnitzelbaum's campaign for Master Garbage Collector.

The public-minded citizenette finally lifts her chin, goes to the booth, pulls the proper levers, and walks out proudly, feeling like Miss America of November, 1946, because she did her civic duty.

STANDBY

GLEN SMITH, of the local football squad, is trying to obtain recognition for a plan that has as its goal "financial benefit for the orphans of men killed in wartime service." The plan calls for the winner of the A.A.A. league to play the champs of the P.A. league. Should be an interesting game and it's for a good purpose.

The Block SF's dance really went over big. DON GRANT reports that plans are now in progress for another dance by that organization by popular request.

MARCUS SKARSTEDT, the college librarian, received an interesting package the other day from Shanghai, China. The package had a total of $120 worth of stamps on it and contained a book catalogue.

The good dean, we mean ED SANDYS, likes the local hinterland so much he has planned a "million years ahead." "I like the city (SF), but when I retire I feel like settling down somewhere in Southern California—don't know where yet."

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

GOP Still In Run, Cars Going, Too, Dogs Also Ran

RADIO programs are going back to the lesser evil again—singing commercials instead of singing politicians now that the election returns are in and counted up. Still not much choice for tuners.

Surveying the wreckage it has been definitely established for the new generation that there actually does exist a second party within the country, that Washington isn't completely left-handed.

Riding the comeback trail after being on a detour route since 1932, the Grand Old Party made sizeable gains in favor throughout the nation except, as usual, below the Mason Dixon line where a Republican has no more social standing than a Union war veteran.

HECTOR THE COLLECTOR GETS RAISE

As for revisions in the city charter, the voter showed conclusively where his sympathies lie; the garbage collectors stand to get an up in pay but the city fathers, the supervisors will have to struggle along with the same weekly check for awhile.

Citizens lucky enough to own an automobile got a break in the business district, where they can now violate parking regulations as of old and it will only come to two bucks instead of five, so it's still cheaper in the long run and far more convenient to get a pink doily under the windshield than trying to crack the Union Square Garage at high noon.

Stalling off the threat of another streetcar strike, the voters okayed a new pay raise for the car jockies. This doesn't mean however that the streetcars won't stop running; the earmen may be quite happy now but the equipment is still groaning from old age and ready to quit any day.

EMPLOYERS STILL FREE

State propositions ran fairly true to form and most observers were glad to see the little sleeper, the Fair Employment Practices measure, take a beating at the polls.

The voters saw nothing in it but a threat to private enterprise under the guise of abolishing racial prejudice. The FEPC would have placed vicious power in the hands of the state over the employer, a lot worse than the closed shop agreements they have to meet now.

DOGS DEPORTED TO FLORIDA

As expected, the powerful horse racing industy and its angel, the motion picture business, sent the dogs running back to Florida where they flourish in a big way, with their tails between their legs. This still doesn't solve the problem of just what constitutes a game of chance.

Bringing up all the guns they could against the greyhounds, the race tracks called dog running the worst kind of gambling that ever threatened to corrupt a state.

Yet the set-up is the same, two dollars on the nose, a mad dash across the finish line, the torn ticket stubs after the race and everyone making faces at the corner bookie for a bum steer.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

FOR several thousands of years now, the words "students" and "books" have almost been synonymous, and libraries have been closely associated with both.

The college library was not always as efficient as it is today, and it looks forward to an even brighter future following the present transition period. The old days were, however, times not to be envious of; a united college library was an unknown entity ten years ago.

It is difficult to picture the college student of 1936 sitting cramped up on a tiny concrete balcony which had been created as a rooting section in the Galileo High School gym, and which was converted into a library reading-room.

BASEMENT LIBRARIANS

It is equally hard not to sympathize with the energetic librarians of that era who worked in their "central office" in the dank basement of the University of California Extension Building of Powell Street.

Conditions were such that, even with the few books the library owned, not more than one librarian at a time could watch them. There just wasn't enough room for both the books and the librarians at the same time.

DONATIONS FREQUENT

Many of the books included in our present collection were donated by either large organizations or by interested individuals. Many of the faculty members have given generous contributions, in addition to suggesting titles of books that should be bought from funds allotted for that purpose.

The first large single donation was made by the University of California library back in 1935, and another 2,000 volumes were added when the WPA called a halt to its activities

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

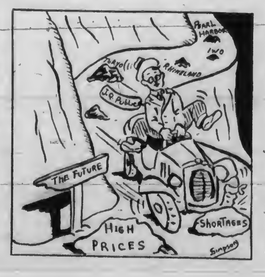
Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Front Lawn Suggested For Rally Site; Vegetation Desired Around College

• Campus Grasses Nil

Editor, The Guardsman:



What is the most noticeable attraction of any college? Of course, the campus.

Have you ever gazed upon our excuse for a campus? It wouldn't take long, in fact about one quick blink and you have seen its vastness. From a distance, driving along Ocean Avenue, the campus appears to be beautifully veiveted with the greenest of grass; but let the same person walk around the building, down to the auditorium, or walk along the well-trampled path leading to the West Campus and he will receive an amazing "letdown" about our campus.

I don't imply that hedges, flowers and trees should cover these desolate spots; but at least, some sort of vegetation should supplant the gravel and weeds. It is doubtful that students are proud to call these grassless areas their campus, especially at times when visitors wander curiously around our "grounds." Numerous people are hearing how highly rated our college is becoming—some are, in fact, proud that we are progressing scholastically.

Wouldn't it be equally important to have these people, and our students also, become as proud of our "outside" offerings as a growing college as well as our "inside" scholastic offerings.

Jim Beuerlein

• No Harm To Lawn

Editor, The Guardsman:

As long as the ideal spot to hold college rallies has not been found, we feel that we are not too out of place to suggest one.

We believe that the large lawn in front of the school would be near perfect. If a small but stable collapsible platform was placed near the lower sidewalk for the band and yell leaders, etc., the result would be more space, more convenience, and more comfortable sitting space for larger crowds. Rallies spaced a week or more apart will not harm the lawn.

Meivin H. Cheney
Don Branson
Jim Gerecke

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Cstudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR..June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Rainisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manual Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffar, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

AS we take our daily stroll out by the flagpole we seem to hear the muffled roars drifting seaward apparently originating cross town way. We stop and listen more closely; ah yes we can hear it now. "What do those little tikes from the junior college think they're doing. Don't they know that State isn't supposed to lose to "smaller colleges. Looks bad for our prestige."

Well, well, isn't that too bad! Imagine our little insignificant Lambs taking the measure of the big bad Gater. Not just a point, mind you. No siree, beat the tar out of them we did!

We're sorry Mr. State, it won't happen again. Nope, not until next season!

TAKE SALINAS . . .

If you think State is in a bad way, just take a quick squint at Salinas. The lads from lettuce land not only haven't posted a victory as yet but also haven't scored so much as a digit! Our advice: Salinas, take your lettuce and leaf!

BOWL PICK

The National Junior College Committee will this week pick the two colleges to compete in the inaugural Junior Rose Bowl Game. There are many who believe that the western representative has been picked weeks ago. As for us it looks like a shoo-in for Compton College of Los Angeles. Oh well, money is money!

BOOT BOY

If extra points have any bearing on the outcome of games played for the remainder of the season, our rambunctious Rams will be on the long end of the score. Glen "Golden Hoof" Hoffman has seemingly discovered the formula for true, unerring placements, hitting the mark the last 10 consecutive times out. All told, Hoffman has made 11 points after touchdowns in 15 attemps, his best effort being in the San Mateo fray when "the Hoof" booted five between the uprights. That's what we call getting a kick out of life.

Chinese Club Routs Irish In Intra Grid

By Art Paymiller

That at least one team in intramural football competition possesses scoring power was proved when the Chinese Social Club romped to a 24 to 0 victory over a hard-fighting Smoked Irish aggregation in the first round of play in the National League.

The Tau Chi Sigma and XGI Bulldogs won forfeit victories from the Portals and Albany Bulldogs squads.

Schedule Changed

Because of interference with the varsity schedule, the games originally scheduled last Friday were postponed to tomorrow. The contests will be played at the regular time. At 3 o'clock, the Tau Chi Sigma gridders will engage the men from the XGI Society.

The Portals and the Chinese Social Club tangle in the 3:40 game, with the Albany Bulldogs and the Smoked Irish clashing in the finale.

This Friday afternoon, the All-American League gridders will take the field for the third round of play. The opening game will pit the Turtles against the Poly Alumni Club. At 3:40, the Galloping Gaels meet the Seagulls and the Cowboys and Beta Tau tangle in the nightcap.

National League Standings:

	Won	Lost	Tied
Chinese Social Club	1	0	0
Tau Chi Sigma	1	0	0
X. G. I.	1	0	0
Smoked Irish	0	1	0
Portals	0	1	0
Albany Bulldogs	0	1	0

BENNY'S RAM SHACK

1051 Ocean Avenue

Phone—RAndolph 9632

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 14 TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1946 Page 3

Sixth Straight For Rams; Modesto Pulverized 38-7

By Bob Catudio

A bold Pirate stole onto Balboa Field sod Friday and was massacred in plain view of 1275 shocked partisan customers!

Shocked is a mild adjective in view of the Rams' sixth straight win, 38 to 7, over the rapidly fading Modesto Junior College Bues who sulked back into the haunts of San Joaquin's inland sea of grass.

The Rams scored in every panel, the battle becoming a decided rout after nine minutes had elapsed. After two exchanges of kicks, Stan Belcher recovered a Bue bobble on the Pirate 34 yard line.

Locals Go Score Crazy

Staten Webster hit for three, then passed to End Jim Cronn for 28 yards to the three from whence Howie Crouch scored over the Buc left tackle.

Thus began the beginning of the end for the invaders as TDs were counted with effortless alacrity. Scoring—

Two: Webster snake-hipped 12 yards into paydirt after a brief but prolonged drive of 34 yards.

Three: Ekdall pilfered Gail Henley's awkward backward lateral on the Buc 14 yard marker. An offside penalty and a three yard setback set up a 22 yard payoff aerial from George Newell to End Ray Poznekoff.

Four: A sustained drive of 69 yards, topped by Ken White's backhand lateral to Carter Corey, whose pass hit Ekdall on the sideline, the play covering 42 yards. Two plays later, White passed to Ekdall from nine yards out.

Five: Reserve Halfback Bob Woodworth slipped over from the two yard stripe behind George Maganaris' helpful block on Modesto's Art Freeman on the goal line.

Six: Strictly Merriwellian in style, but it counts in the total tabulations. Hard luck Jim Greene reared back and tossed a tremendous 47 yard aerial to End "R. Glen" Stern who outlucked two Pirate defenders on the seven and raced over, the pass eating 54 yards in length.

The lone Pirate tally was registered in the final canto via Albert Stovall's 19 yard scamper past the Eisans' right flank. Gail Henley booted the extra point.

Interesting to note was the end of a placement "PAT" record for provineial Tackle Glenn Hofmann who kicked successfully on only two occasions.

Smith, Psaltis Brilliant

Line play of the townies was brilliant, especially on the part of Tackles Glen Smith and Art Psaltis who proved their claim as the best pair of tackles in the circuit bar none.

Wingman Cronn and John Didio performed convincingly and frosh back Crouch, who replaced the injured Marshall Leong, displayed the most improved individual offensive spark of the waning campaign.

Modesto's Orv Young, Center John Dinuolo, and Dick Harding, guard via Oakland, deserve plaudits for a job well done, and, needless to say, the trio need not fear facing the home folk sarcasm back home.

Lineups:

MODESTO (7).	POS.	SAN FRANCISCO (38)
Chinn	LER	Cronn
Smith, R.	LTR	Smith, G.
Harding	LGR	Miller
Dinuolo	C	Didio
Armstrong	RGL	Belcher
Ral	RTL	Psaltis
Young	REL	Poznekoff
Duncan	Q	White
Lovell	LHR	Corey
Henley	RHL	Ekdall
Ohanis	F	Crouch

Score by periods:

Modesto	0	0	0	7 — 7
San Francisco	7	13	6	12 — 38

HEAVY SET George Maganaris is the hombre who splits left guard duty with Stan Belcher. Maganaris weighs an even 200 pounds and is usually "to silent for words."—Photo by Lum.

Great Man Exploits Superb Bench Game

The great man of the '29 Rose Bowl classic climaxed a three mile hike in front of the home guard bench and quick-like a frightened whippet observed "that this is a better showing by far. We have improved." Thus spoke Lee Eisan.

Then silence and more hiking!

Even when the flood of provincial TDs rained on Balboa sod in serene monotony, the great man walked.

"Hey, you guys really want a story?"

"Sure."

"Hate to do this, but the guy has been sitting on the bench laughing and doing nothing."

"Who?"

"Leong. Put this in The Guardsman."

Pencil, paper, and ears were sharpened. The great man would at last say vital words.

"Quote: Leong played the best game of the day today. He didn't make a single mistake throughout the game. Unquote."

"PLAYER OF THE EAR" is what they're calling Johnny Didio, the 190 pound center. Off seasons, Didio is found broad-jumping for Jim Jensen's tracksters.—Photo by Lum.

Intramural

Lambs Still Undefeated In Cage Play; Meet Tough Los Vaqueros Five Today

By Art Paymiller

As the intramural basketball season nears the halfway mark, a heated battle is developing for second place with three teams tied with four wins and one loss.

The league-leading Lamb quintet garnered their fifth victory in as many starts as they won on a default from the Portals.

In one of the roughest games played this season, the Chinese Social Club took the Poops into camp, 46 to 27.

The Ramblers dropped their second game to the up and coming Operators by the seore of 46 to 30, while the Los Vaqueros squad won their third game of the season as they downed the Buccaneers, 50 to 38.

The Tigers remained in the upper division by handing the Tau Chi Sigma team its fourth straight defeat, 50 to 40.

The East Bay Trotters won a forfeit from the XGI cagers.

Two hard fought games are oif the docket for this afternoon as the pace setting Lambs take to the hardwoods against the third place Los Vaqueros five to 4 o'clock. At 5 o'clock, the Tigers, boasting a record of three wins and one loss tangle with the second slot Operators.

Following is the schedule for Thursday, November 14:

Scheduled for 4 o'clock:
Lambs vs. East Bay Trotters.
Los Vaqueros vs. Poops.
Tau Chi Sigma vs. Operators.

Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
Portals vs. Ramblers.
Tigers vs. Chinese Social Club.
Bucaneers vs. X. G. I.

Intramural Basketball Standings:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Lambs	5	0	1.000
Chinese Social Club	4	1	.800
Operators	4	1	.800
East Bay Trotters	4	1	.800
Los Vaqueros	3	1	.750
Tigers	3	1	.750
Ramblers	3	2	.600
Tau Chi Sigma	1	4	.200
X. G. I.	1	4	.200
Bucaneers	1	4	.200
Poops	0	5	.000
Portals	0	5	.000

'Aquacade' On Swim Club Fall Calendar

Preparations are now under way for a water show given by members of Women's Athletic Association swimming club, according to Gloria Swiecgood, adviser to and instructor of the club.

Members of the club now working on endurance and diving include Jaquiline Deasy, Mary Borg, Rosemarie Curley, Betty Easter, Mildred Ergas, Marion Francis, Helen Joakinson, Pricilla Mantyla, Tosca Martinelli, Carol Porter, Barbara Serivani, Patricia Thompson, Claire Warner, Angela Cook, and Elinor Maekie.

Two managers have been elected by the above members, Mary Jemes and Vesta Gray.

"Under these capable managers," Miss Swiecgood said, "the club is making great headway toward swimming perfection, and we hope before the end of the semester to present a great aequacade exhibiting the skill of the club members."

Swimming club meets at the YWCA pool at 620 Sutter Street on Thursday afternoons between 2 and 3 p.m., and women desirous in swimming instruction or WAA activities are invited to attend the meetings.

More About CAB

(Continued from page 1)

for an excursion to Yosemite during the Thanksgiving holidays, the SKI Club, sponsored by instructor Joseph Jacobsen, slides into its first semester.

Co-organizers Harold Freedman and Bill H. Smith said Friday that applications for membership can be obtained at the ski display case located at the south end of the main hall.

Basketball

Cagers Tangle With Marines Tomorrow

By Sam Goldman

Bolstered by the return of numerous pre-draft vets and blessed with a deluge of untested material, the Ram hoopla entourage opens its 1946-47 campaign tomorrow afternoon in men's gymnasium against the San Francisco Marines quintet.

Tipoff is scheduled for 4 p.m., the beginning of coaching duties for one Ralph Hillsman, ex-UC performer, who is now chieftain for the locals for some time to come.

Climaxing a three week practice session, the home court standard bearers were slashed from 85 original hopefuls to a current 35 men.

Save for the appearance of Roland Jones, returning letterman at center, the provincials will present a brand new, fast moving production.

Forwards Ken Cameron and Jack Ginley, both six-footers, enlisted in the home guard via Oakland. Hibernian backcourt defenders Mike O'Neill and Neil Turner, both newcomers, round out the first five.

Hillsman, who is "not too optimistic" concerning the chances of his charges, hinted that all out replacements may be made in an effort to determine the best men on the court.

Contrary to the untried townies, the Marines have been to the post thrice, defeating a Marine Civilian Employee outfit, 48 to 31, and turning back a Federal Building Coast Guard squad, 60 to 35.

The Leatherneck's lone setback was administered by the Sportsmen Club, 31 to 29.

Understudies for the initial fracas thespians are Everett Herrerias and Al Roberts, Center Bill Kahn, projected on a 6 foot, 9 inch frame, and guards Bill Bahr and Bob Hughes.

Lineups:

MARINES	Pos.	RAMS
Smith	F	Ginley
Griffin	F	Cameron
Morris	C	Jones
Stewart	G	Turner
Malcolm	G	O'Neill

More Hilltop Manner

(Continued from page 2)

in 1931 and books on literature, social science and language found their way to our shelves.

Under the able direction of Marcus Skarstedt, the present library is one of the few of its kind which allows prospective borrowers to browse through the stacks. The honor system is employed, and has proven satisfactory to all.

Even with recent addition of more shelves, the present library is just about busting its seams. A happy day it will be indeed when the original plans for the campus are fulfilled at last and the literary missiles can repose themselves permanently in a building which is all their own.

Speech

Bi-Weekly Events To Be Produced By Local Radio Section

Discussion of coeducational problems involving the growth of American education will highlight two forthcoming radio programs slated tomorrow and Friday, November 15, according to Marie Weller, college speech instructor.

Herb Markall, a campus radio and publicity student, will appear on tomorrow's Katherine Kerry Show aired via KQW at 12:45 p.m.

Scheduled appearances with two Mills College students will find Bob Catudio, Guardsman editor, and Markall participating in a radio panel entitled, Are Sports Overemphasized In College?

The program will be aired Friday over KQW at 2 p.m. following a direct release from the Columbia Broadcasting System network in New York, according to Miss Weller.

"The educational directors of 'the American school of the air' have been generous to select radio students here to take part in local programs twice-monthly," Miss Weller said.

Modesto Extends Offer To Join 'Buc Tourney'

Invitation offered the Northern California Junior College Conference to join the Modesto Conference in acting as co-sponsor of the forthcoming basketball tournament in January was received and accepted last week by Vice President J. Paul Mohr, athletic commissioner of the conference for approximately 13 years.

A committee composed of Paul Clymer of Marin Junior College, James Corsen of Stockton Junior College, and Ralph Hillsman of San Francisco Junior College, has been appointed by Mohr to the executive board of the Modesto basketball tournament.

Advantages of the conference are seen in the opportunity for coaches and players to get together early in the season to discuss methods of play and "to have a more uniform interpretation of the rules," Mohr declared. "This will tend to create a spirit of sportsmanship and friendliness," he continued.

Bridge Tournament On Schedule This Week

The first intercollegiate bridge tournament ever held in the West will take place Saturday and Sunday, November 16 and 17, at the Mayflower Bridge Club, located in the Mayflower Hotel, and Bartons Bridge Studio, in the Cecil Hotel, Lee Martin, intercollegiate bridge committee chairman of the University of California Bridge Club, said last week.

Martin, a graduate of the college and now a student at U.C., said that participating schools would be "Stanford, California, San Mateo Junior College, San Francisco State, and San Francisco Junior College."

K A Sigmas 'Paint The Campus'

Commercial Artists Born Not Of Strife

By Marge Wheatly

Out to paint the town in the commercial art field is the Kappa Alpha Sigma, college trail to the "bread and butter' and of ar.

Primary workman in the organization is President Alex Apostolides with aides Lois Dehmal, secretary, and Syl Winchester, historian, and Annie Lee, vice-president.

Promoting interest in the field of commercial art, the club is also a social organization bringing together the majors in advertising art.

Members Get Scoop

Members get the "scoop" on the inside jobs in the business through talks with representatives from various firms, and contacts with speakers.

Definitely not "armchair craftsmen," these artists scan the different exhibits shown at city museums, stores, and other institutions during club field trips.

Sponsored by William Eckert of the college art department, the group includes all phases of the field in ceramics, sculpturing, drawing applied to the business world.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE could possibly be the byword of the trio pictured above. Left to right are Alex Apostolides, president, Lois Dehmal, secretary, and Syl Winchester, historian, of the campus Kappa Alpha Sigma club. Faculty advisor is William Eckert.—Photo by Kennerson.

Appreciation of lines is seen in the club emblem, a black and gold pin designed in the shape of a small pallet worn this segmester by members.

Publicity Is Sideline

Helping shape club plans, Apostolides is a major in commercial art with sideline interest in publicity or public relations. With two and one-half years in South America behind him through the Air Corps and Royal Navy, Apostolides has dabbled in many fields, including foreign langues, and criminology.

In his studio on Telegraph Hill he rounds out his campus courses with pursuits of his own in the art line.

Art

Sufficient Time Requested By Poster Committee For Completion Of Orders

The newly formed campus poster committee requested Friday that all college organizations desiring publicity posters submit their orders at least one week before the completed display is required.

This is necessary because the artists who paint the showcards are at work only on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., and must complete all orders within those hours.

Several clubs have been unavoidably refused service because of insufficient advance notice. With orders on file a week in advance, the poster committee feels it can organize the weekly work and give equal service to all campus groups.

When requesting posters, individuals can assist the art staff by writing all the data desired on the completed article. Rough sketches of the general layout will also be appreciated.

Poster orders may be left in The Guardsman office other than Tuesday and Thursday providing individuals leave definite instructions about the work to be done, as well as the date copy was submitted and the date the finished poster is needed.

Because of the previous heavy amount of art work, the artists have insisted that no rush orders can be handled unless the request comes from an organization such as the Community Chest, or when clubs are advertising charity affairs.

Members of the poster committee are Steve Kritikakos, Peggy Macdonald, and Richard Wells.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

• Alpha Lambda Chi: A pledge meeting was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Pat Sheerin. The joint meeting with Beta Tau Fraternity takes place tomorrow night in the Student Lounge at 7:30 p.m.

• Symphony Forum: There is a meeting tomorrow and time and place will be posted in Room 200 today.

• Tri Epsilon: Further plans for a dance at the St Francis Hotel November 27 were discussed at a meeting last night.

• Beta Phi Beta: The formal initiation of new members was held Saturday night at Club Lido.

• Beta Tau: Formal initiation takes place tomorrow night at the home of Dick Farrell, after which members will attend a joint meeting with Alpha Lamba Chi in the Student Lounge.

• Kappa Phi: A pajama party will celebrate the last night of pledge week. Formal initiation plans are still being formed.

• Alpha Theta Epsilon: An important meeting is scheduled for Room 158 next Friday during the college hour. All new members are requested to attend.

Rally

Rams, Panthers Rally Entertainment Ready

With Joaquin Garay, star of stage and screen, headlining the entertainment bill, a pre-game rally is scheduled for Friday, November 22, during the college hour, in front of the West Campus auditorium, to propagate spirit for the gridiron contest with Sacramento College, Al Moffatt, rally commissioner, announced last week.

The college music makers, now veteran entertainers at the campus rallies, will again make a melodious appearance adding to the spirit of the occasion.

The design for the face of the bass drum is now complete and consists of a red Ram head encircled by red letters spelling out San Francisco Junior College on a white background. The transfer of the new design is expected to be completed by the next rally, according to Madison Devlin, director of the musical group.

Fountain Juke Box Gains In Popularity

The world famous bands of Benny Goodman, Harry James, Freddy Martin and all the other "name" bands may be heard daily on the "juke box" in the soda fountain on the West Campus.

The juke box was placed in the fountain through the efforts of the Hotel and Restaurant Management Society. It is in the fountain to increase business and to add to the enjoyment of the students lunching there. Domm Rogers, president of the society, said that the music machine has helped the fountain immeasurably.

He further stated that the small profits realized from the machine are added to the funds of the society, which uses them for field trips and social functions.

Veterans To Aid In Junior College Survey

A cross-section of veterans' opinions regarding changes that have been effected at junior colleges in California, will show itself here, during the college hour on Friday, November 15.

Specially designed leaflets, to be filled out by student veterans will be on hand in the auditorium during that time.

This research project is being conducted under the supervision of the School of Education of the University of California. It is designed to determine whether changes, the result of the large veteran enrollment within the state, are being received favorably or otherwise.

Approximately 4000 students attending eight junior colleges will be interviewed as part of the study. In charge of the project here is James S. Hughes, instructor in Speech and Political Science.

Amori Authors Article For Collegiate Journal

Joseph Amori, placement officer at the college, added another feather in the literary cap of the college, when he wrote an article on the growth of junior colleges. The article appeared in the October issue of the Journal of School and College Placement.

Amori was requested to write the article by the editor of the journal, Ida Landenberger, because of the many requests for information on the college and its work in placement and terminal education.

The article traces the growth of junior colleges, their original objectives, their courses of study and the place or terminal courses in junior colleges.

Mixer Dance On Tap Tomorrow Afternoon

Associated Women Students will again sponsor a mixer dance tomorrow noon in the Student Lounge from 12 through 2 p.m.

Enthusiasm was so high at the success of the previous two that it is now established as an alternate weekly social affair, Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, declared.

Active on the committee busy formulating plans for tomorrow's dance are Roberta Robb, Jo Ellen Cain, Lee Ann Bonar, Eleanor Wagerle, Clairie Baciquallippi, Leona De Bique, and Nancy Cunningham as well as the AWS president and officers.

WARSHAWSKI'S
Since 1922
DRY GOODS STORE
FURNISHINGS, SHOES
6340 Mission Street
Daly City, California
DElaware 0231

Curriculum

New Agricultural Program Planned By Board Of Ed.

In a conference held on Thursday, October 24, in the Board of Education offices, plans were discussed for an agricultural program for veterans, J. Paul Mohr, vice-president, announced last week.

Leading the discussion was E. W. Everett, Regional Agricultural Supervisor for a number of counties along the Pacific Coast.

Work Supervised

Under this agricultural program a veteran will attend school for approximately 200 hours a year or twice a week. He is at the same time working full time in some field of agriculture. For another two hours a week an instructor visits him on the job and points out mistakes, improvements, and suggestions.

The veteran gets his subsistence just as if he were attending regular college classes. The college has a contract with the Veterans Administration for reimbursement.

Training Given On Job

A number of workers are in such fields in San Francisco of agriculture as nurserys, various zones of the park department, and gardening. Veterans employed in these fields would receive training on the job.

"Although not in effect as yet, it is felt that over a four year period, by this combination of practical and classroom work, the individual can cover as much as a regular student for two years," Mohr declared.

Harry Nelson, faculty member at the college, is currently conducting a survey to see if there are enough veterans who are employed in that field and who would want that type of class set up. Mohr estimates that about 50 or 60 men would respond to the suggestion.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1946 No. 15

College Hour Schedule
9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

College Hour

34 Campus Clubs Assigned Rooms For Meetings Today At 10:45; Local AVC Opens First Gathering To All Students

Growing steadily in number, campus organizations open a strong channel of student activity when they meet this morning during the college hour at 10:45 a.m., Assistant Dean John Brady announced.

Two new clubs entering the arena are the Lutheran Students and the Latin-American Club, both of which will organize today.

Organized since last month's campus meetings, the YMCA, American Veterans' Committee, and Tau Sigma have been added to the list.

Rooms Listed

The following meeting rooms have been assigned: Alpha Delta Epsilon, 160; Alpha Gamma Sigma, 205; Alpha Lambda Chi, 211; Alpha Theta Epsilon, 158; Beta Phi Beta, 111; Bible Study Club, 312; Beta Tau, 254; Block and Cleats, 194; Bachelors Club, 256; Chinese Students, 258; Cosmopolitan, 113; Engineers, 136; Forum, 215; Kappa Phi, 213; Mu Iota Psi, 200; Newman Club, 212; Phi Beta Rho, 190; Pick and Hammer, 45; Pi Mu Gamma, 204; Theta Tau, 191; Tri Epsilon, 132; Women's Service Society, 193; Delta Psi, 206; Symphony Forum, 208; Dramatics, 310; Phi Epsilon Rho, 255; Y.M.C.A., 214; Chess and Checkers, 37; Club Advisory Board, 257; XGI, old cafeteria; Lutheran Students, 309; Latin-American Club, 346; AVC, 100; Ski Club, 344; Hotel and Restaurant Society, building 11.

Holding an open meeting, the American Veterans Committee invites all members of the faculty and student body, both veterans and non-veterans, to attend this first meeting in room 100, where leaders will outline the group's purposes and activities.

Latin-Americans Go Spanish

For its first meeting, the Latin-American Club has printed its invitation in Spanish as follows:

Se ruega a los estudiantes latino-americanos del colegio asistir a la primera reunion oficial del "Club Latinoamericano," que se llevara a cabo hoy a las 10:45 a.m. en el cuarto numero 346.

Non-High School Grads Must File Petitions

Non-high school graduates, who anticipate receiving their diplomas in February, are advised by Mary Perry and A. L. McMillan, counsellors, to file their petitions for graduation immediately.

Social

Second Block SF Dance On Tonight

Only a few hours remain in which to purchase tickets to the Block SF dance to be held tonight in the auditorium west campus. Tickets are on sale throughout the campus, 25 cents for women, 50 cents for men.

Tonight's dance will mark the second social sponsored this semester by the athletic society. The first dance, pronounced by those present a "whooping success," was held in the latter part of October to raise funds for train fare so that all the college's gridders might go to the game with Los Angeles City College.

Proceeds from this evening's fracas will be spent at the 12th annual Block Society banquet, a dinner commemorating the football team's victories.

The Block Society dance will come off simultaneously with the faculty's buffet supper, scheduled for this evening in the student lounge.

Units Awarded Vets Of Service Schools

Findings taken by the Veterans Administration here reveal that a good number of veterans attending the college have not filed petitions for graduation credit.

This credit is not automatic; it must be applied for, veteran counsellors warned.

For those students who attended schools while in service proportionate credit is given, while basic training alone earns six units.

All veterans who have not applied for this credit, should do so at the Veterans Administration counselling center, building 3.

Sophomores

Applications Due Monday For King, Queen Candidates

Final deadline for submitting applications for the sophomore king and queen contest is next Monday, November 18, Millie Laube, sophomore president, emphasized yesterday.

Applications are obtainable from the election committee members, Miss Laube and Frisco Sarto.

Contest rules stipulate that entrants must be registered students of the college and possess 30 or more units. Contestants may represent any one of the college clubs or may run independently, Miss Laube said.

The official photographs of the candidates will be taken on the west campus, Tuesday, November 19, and Thursday, November 21, Miss Laube added.

Campaigning will begin Thursday, January 2, immediately following the Christmas holidays, and will be limited to three posters and only the one official photograph.

The coronation of the "elected royalty" will take place at the sophomore formal, Friday, January 24.

Christmas Programs

Choir Schedules Two More Concerts; New Club For Music Majors Organized

That the coming Yuletide season will be a busy one for the local music department was apparent yesterday with the announcement of two concerts to be given by the A Cappella Choir in addition to the annual Christmas presentations.

First of these performances will be in the form of a Vesper service and will take place at Grace Cathedral Sunday, December 8, at 4 p.m.

The second will be presented in the downtown store of O'Connor and Moffat, Thursday, December 12, at 2 p.m. Traditional Christmas programs already announced are the college hour concert, Friday, December 6, and the annual open-to-the-public big festival, Tuesday, December 10, at the Veterans' auditorium.

Soloists to Sing

In addition to the choir arrangements there will be featured soloists to enhance the four programs. Two of the singers, Madeline La Fond and Elmer Dickey, have made successful debuts here at the college, appearing at the recent inaugural song rally.

Other singers to appear in solo are Jane Swendsen and Johne Owen, sopranos.

Honor Society Underway

Although the members of the music department are at the moment embroiled in preparations for the coming concerts, they have found time to meet and decide to organize a college chapter of an honor music fraternity.

This organization will be open to music majors who have completed at least a semester's work here at the college and have during that time maintained a specific scholastic average.

A committee, under the direction of Grace Mayfield, Adele Lee, and Roy Abad, has been organized to work out the detailed plans for the society.

Flossita Badger, music department adviser, explained that the invitation to organize the local honor chapter came from Modesto Junior College which will assist in chapter installation proceedings.

Tea Honors Student Nurses Studying Here

Student nurses studying on the campus and in training at six San Francisco hospitals were entertained yesterday at tea by the home economics department.

Dean Margaret Dougherty, and Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, poured tea at the party arranged by the hostess group of the department.

Faculty superintendents of the schools of nursing included guests from Mt. Zion, St. Francis, St. Luke's, Mary's Help, Children's and French Hospitals. Dr. J. Paul Mohr, Lloyd D. Luckmann, and faculty members of the biological science department were present to welcome the guests.

Veteran Research Project

Hughes Leads Meeting In College Hour Today To Survey Opinions On Changes In State Educational Curriculum

A survey, the result of the large veteran attendance at junior colleges within the state, will be conducted during the college hour this morning in the main building study hall (the old cafeteria) under the direction of James S. Hughes, instructor in speech and political science here.

NOT THE MAN ON THE STREET, but pretty close to it! That's JAMES HUGHES, college political science instructor.—Photo by Kennerson.

Designed to determine what changes in curriculum have come about with the return of veterans to colleges, the survey will give veterans a chance to air their opinions on this issue.

Decisions will be facilitated through the use of printed forms which list a series of questions regarding the present curriculum as related to the veterans.

Eight Colleges Participate

This research project is being conducted at eight junior colleges in California and is under the supervision of the School of Education of the University of California.

Included in the printed "questionnaire," are such questions as, "This junior college attempts to help the veteran solve his housing problem when necessary," and, "This junior college attempts to provide emergency financial assistance to the veteran when necessary."

In all, there are 30 questions to which the veteran has a choice of answering either "satisfactory," "unsatisfactory," or "not attempted."

Director Hughes, who served during the war as a lieutenant colonel with the Army's Inspector General's Department, returned last week from a tour of some of the junior colleges concerned with this survey. His trip included visiting six junior colleges, and involved contacts with more than 2,000 student veterans.

Interviews End December 1

The survey here will be held in conjunction with the regular meeting of the XGI Society, according to Trev Burrows, XGI president.

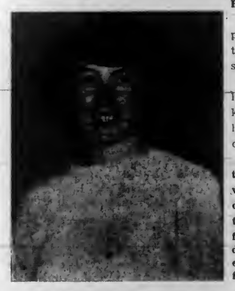
The interview phase of the survey is expected to be completed by December 1, with final classification of the completed forms accomplished at a later date.

Marsh Clarifies Leave Of Absence Procedure

Procedure for obtaining an official leave of absence from the college was outlined last week by F. Grant Marsh, head counsellor, in an attempt to save students from permanent records of failure in college work.

A student desiring a leave of absence must obtain and fill out an official form from the registrar's office to avoid automatic failures. If the student is under 21 years of age, the signature of parent or guardian must appear on the form before the student is signed out by the library, physical education department, and any laboratory course.

Any student who is a veteran must obtain the signatures from the representatives of the Veterans' Administration and the veterans' business office.



Finally the student, whether veteran or non-veteran, must have the form approved by Marsh or any member of the counselling staff.

Friday, January 3, is the last day that a student will be granted a leave of absence, Marsh warned.

"Withdrawing from college is a serious matter," Marsh emphasized, "and we are endeavoring to keep students from risking an automatic failure on their records."

Nancy Ruttencutter Is 'Minutes Woman' Of Year

By Marge Wheatly

ANOTHER NANCY found her way onto the collegiate scene in the person of Nancy Ruttencutter, current Associated Student Secretary.—Photo by Lum.

Leading queen of the campus pencil-pushers is Nancy Ruttencutter, current Secretary of the Associated Students.

Member of the party casting college policies, Miss Ruttencutter keeps to the middle of the road in politics because she "listens in on so many varied points of view."

In addition to serving on the Student Council as minutes-woman, she is one of the President's Cabinet and a representative to the Club Advisory Board from the Theta Tau—which bodies, dishing out different angles on every issue, keep her "on the fence" with her political strategy.

In her final semester at Fog Hill, Miss Ruttencutter has been active throughout her college career, holding the post of class secretary in her high freshman semester, last year becoming one of the councilmen serving as chairman of the election committee.

Without waving any flag, she expressed her pleasure on seeing so many veterans continuing their education. In her own words, Miss Ruttencutter summed it up, "I am glad that the vets are getting the square deal they deserve."

Adamant in her desire to see all students participate in college activities, Miss Ruttencutter believes that some of the veterans are excluded from campus spirit because they are placed apart by the terminology "veteran."

Graduating from Lowell in the class of Fall 1944, Miss Ruttencutter began her interest in student affairs by editing the high school journal, the Red and White.

Stookey Increases Campus Tempo

By Marge Wheatly

DESIGN FOR LIVING, combining both beauty and brains, could possibly be what others think of NANCY STOOKEY, AWS president.—Photo by Kennerson.

Leader of the "woman's angle" in student affairs, Nancy Stookey does not stop with her official title, president of the Associated Women Students, but lends her helping hand to many extra-curricular activities.

Heeding the outcry that the campus lacks enough spirit, Miss Stookey is striving for more activities, for through college doings, "acquaintances are made and spirit is always improved where students come to know one another."

As a means to this end, she has been the guiding force in establishing mid-day "mixers," dances held on the campus during the day for the purpose of acquainting students with one another.

Major In Pre-Med

Majoring in pre-medical work, Miss Stookey adds to her courses by serving as a laboratory assistant. Not specializing as yet in any one field, she is concentrating mostly on the biological sciences.

Friend to the animal kingdom, she draws no lines excluding any animals, having at one time made pets of horned toads, chipmunks, hamsters, besides dogs and cats. At the present time, she complements her home with a salamander plus the usual canines and fence-screamers.

Heads AGS

A graduate of Lowell High School, Miss Stookey finds time in her program to maintain a high grade average, heading the college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, as president.

Fond of sports, she likes riding, although her program does not leave her much time to pursue such activities. A one-time student of ballet, she found it necessary to let this sideline alone when she took to the headlines in campus government.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 15 Friday, November 15, 1946 Page 2

UNO Turmoil

Let 'Em Eat Cake

THE United Nations meeting is slowly becoming "second rate copy to toss at a news hungry American public."

Problems weighted with the approval and non-support of all nations involved are still caught in a swinging door.

Charges that indicate "a none-too-clear policy" on the part of Russia, the United States, Great Britain, France, and China may be true, yet no one can deny the charge that "the UNO is honestly trying."

What was once a determined stand on the part of all the accepted nations to suggest universal ills has in turn harvested headlines on the adamant policies of Russia's Foreign Secretary Molotov and Capitol Hill's James Byrnes.

Agreement on purported disagreements is still nil.

UNO has accomplished "little less than nothing" in its blistering one year of life that has found its home in San Francisco, London, Paris, and New York.

The Palestine issue looms high on the British agenda.

Zone control has found a cascade of arguments pouring forth from Russia, France, and less powerful team mates.

The problem of world finance, and endless millions of invisible dollars, is still deftly managed by the US.

And the horror to end all arguments, "the problem of atomic warfare," is still taxing the mental giants of Canada, Britain, and the "men of Oak Bridge."

That the UNO must clarify its stand for the future is still hoped for by the little guy whose newspaper still bears dismantled idioms of confusion.

Ford

After Dark

LAST night: at the Opera House The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra with Pierre Monteux as conductor presented the first Symphony Forum sponsored concert for students of Bay Area universities and colleges. It was the first concert of the 1946-47 season and a good crowd turned out, with regalia consisting of soup to nuts, to Glen Plaid. (Doesn't make much sense does it?) The program included Brahms's Third Symphony. The Romantic Suite of Max Reger, Ravel's second Daphnis and Chloe Suite, and Isadore Freed's Festival Overture. There will be a regular repeat performance of last night's concert tomorrow night at the War Memorial Opera House at 8:30 p.m.

It's really too bad Richard Henry Dana is not in San Francisco to see his immortal book, Two Years Before The Mast, cinematized. Yes, it would be interesting to see the register of surprise as he watched his loving brig, the Pilgrim, sailing around the horn—somewhere in the vicinity of Catalina Island—with Alan Ladd shouting up to the wheel, "Nor' by Nor' Nor' East, Hollywood and Vine Streets — Get your fares ready!" And so, poor old Richard Henry would probably sneer and say, "I can see the Melville on the wall!"

Tonight the Art Institute Cinema presents a program called Experiments in the Fantastic and the Macabre, and will include Jean Epstein's Fall of the House of Usher, and Man Ray's Mysteries Du Chateau Du De. If you want a good old gorey evening, don't miss it.

A series of 31 watercolors, drawings, engravings, and prints by Ecuadorian artists is now being exhibited at the San Francisco Museum of Art. The exhibit has been in circulation in the United States for some time now, and hopes to acquaint art-loving Americans with the work of Ecuador's native artists.

Much of the work seems to be similar to the exaggerated work of Gaugin, however, all of the work is refreshingly (at least in an artistic sense). The exhibit includes some very fine work by Diogenes Parades and Leonardo Tejado.

And was someone mad when Proposition No. 2 got thumbs down! You see, he never lost any spaghetti on the dashing Greyhounds—He always bet on the rabbit.

Be it ever so humble, there's no place . . . (Fort Worth Press).

Around And About with Nagle

THE $64 question to the veteran today is "How can I live on $65?" And the answer to the problem is just as important to the college woman as to the college man. For thereupon hangs the key to her social life. Will it be dates, or will it be long evenings listening to the radio and reading monthly "Literary Guild" selections?

Methods of spending the paltry sum are many. The "high stepping" socially conscious gent prefers to be seen on the evening of pay day sipping his favorite beverage and tripping the light fantastic with his orchid-dripping "one and only" at some tres expensive, tres chic spot.

Same gent is seen for 29 days thereafter crawling on all fours in the college lounge seeking fallen crumbs from his more economical, well-heeled fellow-$65-permonthers. If this student's desire for entertainment is satisfied by this monthly splurge, all is well and good; provided the "one and only" has a well stacked reading shelf.

LET'S SIT THIS ONE OUT

Some day, Splurgy Sam may be required to sit one out at the reliable neighborhood movie while contemplating whether he really should buy those new shoes, or cover the holes with another half inch of cardboard.

Another campus cut-up prefers the less popular hide-aways where maybe the elite don't meet, but where one can eat—and oftener than once during a 30 day period.

The neighborhood movie also provides steady entertainment. Particularly on Friday or Saturday nights, when in balconies of certain reel-rolling palaces, loaves of bread, packages of luncheon meat, and even mustard have been passed among the patrons (not by the management).

BEAUTIES PLEAD CAUSE

All in all though, with the cost of living higher, and a tendency toward even higher strata, something should be done. Perhaps the change in legislative personnel will prove advantageous, and a delegation of beauties reeking of feminine pulchritude could invade the state Congressional study-hall, lobbying for higher monthly allowances for college veterans.

With placards signifying their desires for "More money for veterans—more dates for us," no lawmaker remembering his colorful college days, could deny their plea.

STANDBY

IN her best New England (Maine) accent, CATHERINE SHORB of the language department announced, "My hobbies are art and the piano, but I neither paint nor play the piano." Mrs. Shorb is probably an art lover, and the piano doesn't need painting at the present.

There are still a lot of the same type of jobs in the placement office," says JOE AMORI, "but capital isn't giving anything away. On second thought, neither is anyone else." True!

The svelte Mare Hopkins sends word that TED BOFINGER, ex-AMS chieftain is now liaison man between the campus and Nob Hill. Anyone want to stage a party?

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Pro Sports A Worry To Ol' School Spirit Mob

WHETHER local colleges like it or not, out and out professionalism has arrived here by drawing a throng of well over 40,000 enthusiastic followers last Sunday at Kezar Stadium.

While this ordinarily belongs on the next page over, it can stand some treatment here if only to point up a return to the hypocrisy of alleged amateur sports in the Bay Region.

A new industry has gotten off to a shaky start in this stronghold of rah-rah, rackety-rax and I-didn't-graduate-but-hold-that-line-anyway spirit.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

A PLEASANT spirit of cooperation has been seen in this vicinity in recent days.

It is viewed in those sympathetic drivers who come to class by way of Monterey Boulevard and are generous enough to stop for a few bewildered hitch-hikers now and then.

The shuffling bus has not been quite all that it should be, insofar as service goes. Many students have been forced to wear out precious shoe leather in traversing the six-blocks-and-a-hill to the college portals.

The goal is to get to class, however, and whatever the means or conveyance thanks and humble commuter-type appreciation is voiced for those drivers who know when and where to step on the brake on a cold and dismal morning.

Those who stand and wait salt[e]
you, but it does seem a pity that those transfers must go to waste.

* * *

The Navy architects may not h[ave] had beauty in mind when they signed the present west campus.
utility was something they aco[m]
plished to a fairly accurate deg[ree]

The protection provided by the co[v]ered walks between buildings lead[s] to the thought that perhaps a similar plan should be used between all the buildings of the college. The idea should certainly be filed for future reference when the remainder of the planned campus buildings are finally constructed.

If the overhead protections are not desirable, tunnels might be incorporated into the plans, saving time, clothing, and wave-set lotion. Many other improvements might be suggested, also, but this will someday be very much appreciated—when there is a little snow, hail or sleet in January.

WRATHFUL GRADS FIGHT BACK

If it succeeds it will be in spite of opposition from Monday morning quarterbacks who waved pom-poms last Saturday afternoon and yet never quite got through high school, and the too-too cute wordings of a football writer on a morning fishwrapper who holds weekly alumni meetings in a Third Street watering post handy to his desk.

Like the voter a few weeks ago who paused at the polls long enough to vote "no" against the gambling menace of dog racing while [he]
to the corner cigar st[ore]
a bet on a likely fifth, the o[ther] worried to t[he]
W[ho]

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

"Issue Printed Regulation" Says Frosh; Non-Dancer Urges Co-Ed Dance Class

• Trial And Error Method
Editor, The Guardsman:

Most of the entering freshmen have discovered by trial and error the various rules and regulations governing school procedure at the junior college. Wouldn't it be a good idea to issue to entering freshmen a mimeographed sheet containing the campus regulations in regard to automobile parking, class cutting, and so forth?

I realize that the orientation meetings are intended to convey this information, but due to the crowded conditions and stepped-up schedules the treatment has been somewhat sketchy. The proposed information sheet could also include such helpful data as west campus facilities, adviser and counseling functions, and schedules of mid-term and final examinations.

J. P. B.

Editor's Note: A handbook is printed in the spring containing the above information, and incoming students are issued a Freshman edition of The Guardsman enumerating such regulations.

• Call For Art Murray
Editor, The Guardsman:

The Guardsman recently printed a proposal that co-education gym classes be made a part of the college curriculum. I am heartily in favor of the idea, and would like to see it carried through.

However, it may take a little while for the wheels of officialdom to grind into action, so I want to make a supplementary proposal that will start the ball rolling.

With the revived interest in afternoon and evening dances, and with almost every Friday night during the semester booked solid with one dance or another, how about co-educational dancing classes so that droops like myself can learn to better wheel around the dance floor without looking like two-ton trucks.

Personally, I'd like to learn to jitterbug, rhumba, waltz, tango and fox-trot. And while we're at it how about a little folk-dancing?

I'd also like to see a student body that is so well educated in social dancing that it doesn't have to sit out any dances.

J. D. L.

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayley, Jo-Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatty, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hale.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burr Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 15 FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1946 Page 3

Rams Capture NCJCC Crown

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

NOTES on the cuff from the Modesto fray: Looking over the score in the Rams-Buccaneer contest it would have been interesting to note just how high it would have ran had our all-conference plunging fullback Marshall Leong been in there. Though he watched the game from the bench because of an injured ankle he had every bit as much spirit and team fight as any of the boys on the field.

Art Ekdall, not having scored a single point as yet this year, finally came through in the Buc tussle with his much sought after td. Here's hoping it's not your last, Art.

POINTS? THEY GOT 'EM

The scoringest team in the intramural circuit this year is the Lambs by far and away. To show you what we mean they took on the XGI's and handed them an overwhelming 105 to 25 defeat. This little exhibition tied the scoring record for intra-mural play at the college. Do you think they [were] content with merely tying the [record]! They came back to [beat] Sigma a 147 to 37 [established] a record [that] and for many [years] to not break [even] the boys [scored] for 200!

[Sev]er[al] one [of] are [ma]-[jor] has [man]age[r] [Sig]ma [Yes] [we] have [a] bad [ha]bit [of] coming [up] famous sport-[writ]ers with slot in the na-[tion] college ratings this [year] two other California insti-[tut]ions rank above us, Compton College and Long Beach City College. A Compton-San Francisco tussle would be a game worth watching. We think mighty Compton would have a tough time holding on to her first place national rating. How about you?

STATE SLIPS AGAIN, TSK, TSK

Our favorite subject, to wit: the losing ways of Brer Gater from San Francisco State took a favorable jump yesterday when our rivals dropped a decision to Southern Oregon College of Education to the tune of 26 to 6. You know, the more we read of the antics of dear old State the more we wish our cross town cousins had scheduled a contest with us. Oh well, you can't have everything.

WAA Sport Day On At Santa Rosa Tomorrow

Hockey and archery players belonging to the Women's Athletic Association are traveling to Santa Rosa Junior College tomorrow for the first play-day of the semester, according to Frances Scilipoti, president.

Hockey players attending the play-day with their instructor, Nancy Sparks, are Pat Hersey, Fritz Worden, Clydagh Enos, Joyce Lewis, Olga McMillan, Kay Chow, Annette Lo Bea Howard, Rose Elms, Ann Hockus. Archery participants will include Carol Benson, and others not yet announced.

This play-day is the first play day of the semester, Miss Scilipoti said since the postponement of the first scheduled play day, a hockey play-day with Sacramento Junior College.

In addition to the members listed above, officers of the club, including Miss Scilipoti, Alma Pucci, D. Roberts, and Gloria Swiecgood, faculty adviser, are planning on attending the play-day.

NCJCC Grid Standings

	W	L	PS	PA	Pct
SAN FRANCISCO	5	0	112	31	1.000
Sacramento	3	2	83	33	.667
San Mateo	2	2	34	62	.500
Modesto	2	4	45	77	.400
Salinas	0	3	0	63	.000

Basketball

Rams Beat Marine Five 69-31; Kahn, Cameron Top Locals

By Sam Goldman

Clearing the bench and tossing everything onto the court but the water bucket, the Rams opened their 1946-47 cage season by thoroughly trouncing a hapless San Francisco Marines quintet, 69 to 31, Wednesday afternoon in men's gymnasium.

Spindly-legged Bill Kahn, townie 6 foot, 9 inch center, topped the Rams, scoring 12 points, while Dave Kallwaski, leatherneck via Des Moines, Ia., counted seven for the losers.

Boxscore:

MARINES (31)	fg	ft	pts
Smith, f	2	2	6
Griffin, f	0	1	1
Morris, c	0	0	0
Stewart, g	0	3	3
Malcolm, g	3	0	6
Wiley, f	0	0	0
Davis, f	0	1	1
Kallwski, c	3	1	7
Nelson, g	2	1	5
Sackett, g	1	0	2
Totals	11	9	31

RAMS (69)	fg	ft	pts
Herrer's, f	2	0	4
Ginley, f	3	0	6
Reberts, f	2	0	4
Cameron, f	4	1	9
Arteres, f	1	0	2
Bucc'relli, f	1	1	3
Baldorhi, f	0	0	0
Giannini, f	1	0	2
Jones, c	0	0	0
Hughes, c	3	0	6
Kahn, c	5	2	12
Tminsn, c	1	1	3
O'Neill, g	2	0	4
Domene, g	0	0	0
Burr'gh, g	3	0	6
Bahr, g	1	0	2
Turner, g	1	0	2
Siler, g	1	0	2
Totals	32	5	69

LONG VOYAGE HOME for ex-Ram cager Mel Dropo who returns to the old stamping ground for the Borlo Athletic Club which faces the locals next Wednesday afternoon in men's gymnasium, starting at 4:15 p. m.

Lamb Gridders Humble Fighting Army, 18-0

Proving that their big brothers on the varsity haven't any monopoly on what is known as "moxie," the Lamb football squad completely outfought and outplayed a tough Army Supply Depot squad to the tune of 18 to 0, on the college field last Saturday afternoon.

First Grid Pennant Since 1940 Copped By Happy Townies

By Bob Catudio

Beloved, beautiful, stupendous Sacramento College threw a bouquet of championship roses at the locals on Armistice Day by swamping San Mateo Junior College, 20 to 7, in Hughes Memorial Stadium.

The Mateo defeat means the locals' acquisition of their first football championship since that happy era of 1940.

But the local band of chalk mark thespians continued their winning ways today by blasting an open date right off the Julean calendar.

And if you don't think the Eisans are happy, you're crazier than a loon. Scrimmaging sessions this week were lightened as the townies pummeled the tackling dummies that come to life next week in the form of Sacramento College.

"Glad the boys have an open date this week," Lee Eisan sighs contentedly, "because the boys have played hard. We'll be at full strength when we face Sacramento."

Marshall Leong, 215 pound fullback who sat out the Modesto Junior College farce, is still favoring a gimpy right leg which is slowly responding to therapy treatments.

That the 1946 version of the Ram football ensemble is the best balanced squad in partisan history was last week voiced by unhappy Fred Earle of Modesto. Maestro Earle ought to know!

Earle's club was splattered by the provincials, 14 to 0, and 38 to 7, marking the first time a Ram squad has set back a Modesto aggregation so convincingly twice in a row.

At present, the locals have the markings of an outfit "with the best junior collegian line in the state," and one can include Compton, Long Beach, and Santa Ana on the list.

BURST OF SPEED around end found Art Ekdall picking up eight yards in the recent Ram, Modesto game. Guard Denny Miller [19] is warding off Modesto's Orv Young [54], Jim Wadsworth [64], and Bob Smith [67] on the ground.—Photo by Wechter.

Big Entry On Hand As Ping Pong Play Opens

Friday, November 22, has been announced by intramural director Tom Wilson as the final day of play for the first round of the table tennis tournaments.

The complete list of opponents has been posted on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium. Contestants should arrange their playing dates by getting in touch with their opponents at college or at their homes.

Following are the pairings for the first round singles tournament:

Less Holden vs. Don Clark; Edgar Espinosa vs. Earl Morway; Charles Jordan vs. Bill Buckley; Erv. Boxer vs. Roland Gee; Charles Arnone vs. Marino Mangiola; Rene Giron vs. Kenneth Ott; John Rooney vs. Bob Wiegand; Phillip Silverman vs. Julio Bergman; Myron Eichen vs. Charles Higgens; Robert King vs. Kaya Apaydin; Harold Lansing vs. Ramon Fauria; West Hammond vs. Harold Wilson.

First round doubles competition, also to be completed by November 22, will be as follows:

Bill Bahr-Horace Aubertine vs. Erv. Boxer-Don Clark; Less Holden-Bill Buckley vs. Charles O'Neil-Turner; Cyril Jeung-Dan Gee vs. Harold Wilson-Jones; Rene Giron-Julio Bergman vs. Phillip Silverman-Myron Eichen.

Football

Panthers Toss Title To San Franciscans

Sacramento, Nov. 12 — The speed-lined "Pony Express" offensive of Sacramento College upset the San Mateo Junior College Bulldogs, 20 to 7, at Hughes Memorial Stadium yesterday afternoon before an Armistice Day crowd of 5,000 fans.

The Matean defeat was unexpected and it "practically cinches the Northern California Junior College grid title for the San Francisco Junior College Rams who draw a bye this week.

Scat back Austin Brown and Joe Kline scored for the Solons on runs of 14 and nine yards respectively. Right Halfback Roy Sules counted the third tally on a 14 yard sweep around end.

CONVINCING AND READY for oppositional offensive is Jim Cronn, right end, playing his first regular season for the home guard. Cronn has been improving steadily and can be looked upon to deliver a telling performance. — Photo by Lum.

Three Intra Football Games Set For Monday

After a slight delay, intramural football returns to the agenda Monday, with the National League teams scheduled to play their third round.

The high-flying Chinese Social Club tangles with the Tau Chi Sigma gridders in the opener at 3 o'clock. At 3:40, the XGI and Smoked Irish aggregations clash, and the C. Y. Club and the Albany Bulldogs end the day's activities when they meet at 4:15.

All-American League Standings:

	W	L	T
Turtles	1	0	0
Cowboys	0	0	1
Beta Tau	0	0	1
Poly Alumni Club	0	0	1
Seagulls	0	1	0
Galloping Gaels	0	0	1

Intramural

Lamb Cagers Score 147 For New Mark

Surpassing all previous records, the Lamb cagers set a new intramural high scoring mark as they walloped the weak Tau Chi Sigma five, 147 to 37, in the sixth round of competition. Earlier this season, the Lambs tied the high mark of 105 points set in 1942.

Rangy Jim Hughes, Lamb center, set his own individual high scoring record as he personally accounted for 58 of his team's tallies.

Sparked by diminutive Sherrill Houghton, the Ramblers returned to the win column after two straight losses as they decisioned the Chinese Social Club 45 to 41. Houghton led the scoring parade with 19 digits.

The East Bay Trotters remained in the unbeaten class as they handed the Tigers a 30 to 20 defeat. Bob DeMaris pushed through 14 points for the losers with Wetuuka Moffatt getting 10 for the Trotters.

Yet to win a game, the Poops and Portals defaulted to the Buccaneer and Los Vaqueros fives. The Operators won their fifth game of the season on a default by the XGI squad.

Tuesday, the undefeated East Bay Trotters square off with the once defeated Operators, and the third place Los Vaqueros five tangles with the fourth slot Ramblers in the feature games.

Following is the complete schedule for Tuesday, November 19:

Scheduled for 4 o'clock:
Lambs vs. Poops.
East Bay Trotters vs. Operators.
Los Vaqueros vs. Ramblers..
Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
Tau Chi Sigma vs. Chinese Social Club.
Portals vs. XGI.
Tigers vs. Buccaneers.

Intra-mural Basketball Standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Lambs	6	0	1.000
East Bay Trotters	5	0	1.000
Operators	5	1	.833
Los Vaqueros	4	1	.800
Chinese Social Club	4	2	.667
Ramblers	4	2	.667
Tigers	3	3	.500
Buccaneers	2	4	.333
Tau Chi Sigma	1	5	.167
X. G. I.	1	5	.167
Poops	0	6	.000
Portals	0	6	.000

Big Beef Date Changed To Thursday, Dec. 12

The Associated Men Students Boxing Carnival to be held on Thursday, December 12, will have as one of its main attractions a basketball game where a team picked from members of the college faculty will oppose the winner of the intramural games now in progress.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 15 Friday, November 15, 1946 Page 2

UNO Turmoil

Let 'Em Eat Cake

THE United Nations meeting is slowly becoming "second rate copy to toss at a news hungry American public."

Problems weighted with the approval and non-support of all nations involved are still caught in a swinging door.

Charges that indicate "a none-too-clear policy" on the part of Russia, the United States, Great Britain, France, and China may be true, yet no one can deny the charge that "the UNO is honestly trying."

What was once a determined stand on the part of all the accepted nations to suggest universal ills has in turn harvested headlines on the adamant policies of Russia's Foreign Secretary Molotov and Capitol Hill's James Byrnes.

Agreement on purported disagreements is still nil.

UNO has accomplished "little less than nothing" in its blistering one year of life that has found its home in San Francisco, London, Paris, and New York.

The Palestine issue looms high on the British agenda.

Zone control has found a cascade of arguments pouring forth from Russia, France, and less powerful team mates.

The problem of world finance, and endless millions of invisible dollars, is still deftly managed by the US.

And the horror to end all arguments, "the problem of atomic warfare," is still taxing the mental giants of Canada, Britain, and the "men of Oak Bridge."

That the UNO must clarify its stand for the future is still hoped for by the little guy whose newspaper still bears dismantled idioms of confusion.

Ford

After Dark

LAST night at the Opera House, The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra with Pierre Monteux as conductor, presented the first Symphony Forum sponsored concert for students of Bay Area universities and colleges. It was the first concert of the 1946-47 season and a good crowd turned out, with regalia consisting of soup, to fish, to nuts, to Glen Plaid. (Doesn't make much sense does it?) The program included Brahm's Third Symphony. The Romantic Suite of Max Reger, Ravel's second Daphnis and Chloe Suite, and Isadore Freed's Festival Overture. There will be a regular repeat performance of last night's concert tomorrow night at the War Memorial Opera House at 8:30 p.m.

It's really too bad Richard Henry Dana is not in San Francisco to see his immortal book, Two Years Before The Mast, cinematized. Yes, it would be interesting to see the register of surprise as he watched his loving brig, the Pilgrim, sailing around the horn—somewhere in the vicinity of Catalina Island—with Alan Ladd shouting up to the wheel, "Nor' by Nor' Nor' East, Hollywood and Vine Streets — Get your fares ready!" And also, poor old Richard Henry would probably sneer and say, "I can see the Melville on the wall!"

Tonight the Art In Cinema presents a program called Experiments in the Fantastic and the Macabre, and will include Jean Epstein's Fall of the House of Usher, and Man Ray's Mysteries Du Chateau Du Dc. If you want a good-old-gorey evening, don't miss it.

A series of 34 watercolors, drawings, engravings, and prints by Ecuadorian artists is now being exhibited at the San Francisco Museum of Art. The exhibit has been in circulation in the United States for some time now, and hopes to acquaint art-loving Americans with the work of Ecuador's native artists.

Much of the work seems to be similar to the exaggerated work of Gaugin, however, all of the work is refreshingly (at least in an artistic sense). The exhibit includes some very fine work by Diogenes Parades and Leonardo Tejado.

And was someone mad when Proposition No. 2 got thumbs down! You see, he never lost any spaghetti on the dashing Greyhounds—He always bet on the rabbit.

Be it ever so humble, there's no place . . . (Fort Worth Press).

Around And About

with Nagle

THE $64 question to the veteran today is "How can I live on $65?" And the answer to the problem is just as important to the college woman as to the college man. For thereupon hangs the key to her social life. Will it be dates, or will it be long evenings listening to the radio and reading monthly "Literary Guild" selections?

Methods of spending the paltry sum are many. The "high stepping" socially conscious gent prefers to be seen on the evening of pay day sipping his favorite beverage and tripping the light fantastic with his orchid-dripping "one and only" at some tres expensive, tres chic spot.

Same gent is seen for 29 days thereafter crawling on all fours in the college lounge seeking fallen crumbs from his more economical, well-heeled fellow-$65-per-monthers. If this student's desire for entertainment is satisfied by this monthly splurge, all is well and good; provided the "one and only" has a well stacked reading shelf.

LET'S SIT THIS ONE OUT

Some day, Splurgy Sam may be required to sit-one-out at the reliable neighborhood movie while contemplating whether he really should buy those new shoes, or cover the holes with another half inch of cardboard.

Another campus cut-up prefers the less popular hide-aways where maybe the elite don't meet, but where one can eat—and oftener than once during a 30 day period.

The neighborhood movie also provides steady entertainment. Particularly on Friday or Saturday nights, when in balconies of certain reel-rolling palaces, loaves of bread, packages of luncheon meat, and even mustard have been passed among the patrons (not by the management).

BEAUTIES PLEAD CAUSE

All in all though, with the cost of living higher, and a tendency toward even higher strata, something should be done. Perhaps the change in legislative personnel will prove advantageous, and a delegation of beauties reeking of feminine pulchritude could invade the sedate Congressional study-hall, lobbying for higher monthly allowances for college veterans.

With placards signifying their desires for "More money for veterans—more dates for us," no lawmaker, remembering his colorful college days, could deny their plea.

STANDBY

IN her best New England (Maine) accent, CATHERINE SHORB of the language department announced, "My hobbies are art and the piano, but I neither paint nor play the piano." Mrs. Shorb is probably an art lover, and the piano doesn't need painting at the present.

"There are still a lot of the same type of jobs in the placement office," says JOE AMORI, "but capital isn't giving anything away. On second thought, neither is anyone else." True!

The svelte Mark Hopkins sends word that TED BOFINGER, ex-AMS chieftain, is now liaison man between the campus and Nob Hill. Anyone want to stage a party?

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Pro Sports A Worry To Ol' School Spirit Mob

WHETHER local colleges like it or not, out and out professionalism has arrived here by drawing a throng of well over 40,000 enthusiastic followers last Sunday at Kezar Stadium.

While this ordinarily belongs on the next page over, it can stand some treatment here if only to point up a return to the hypocrisy of alleged amateur sports in the Bay Region.

A new industry has gotten off to a shaky start in this stronghold of rah-rah, rackety-rax and I-didn't-graduate-but-hold-that-line-anyway spirit.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

A PLEASANT spirit of cooperation has been seen in this vicinity in recent days.

It is viewed in those sympathetic drivers who come to class by way of Monterey Boulevard and are generous enough to stop for a few bewildered hitch-hikers now and then.

The shuffling bus has not been quite all that it should be, insofar as service goes. Many students have been forced to wear out precious shoe leather in traversing the six-blocks-and-a-hill to the college portals.

The goal is to get to class, however, and whatever the means or conveyance thanks and humble commuter-type appreciation is voiced for those drivers who know when and where to step on the brake on a cold and dismal morning.

Those who stand and wait salute you, but it does seem a pity that all those transfers must go to waste.

* * *

The Navy architects may not have had beauty in mind when they designed the present west campus, but utility was something they accomplished to a fairly accurate degree.

The protection provided by the covered walks between buildings leads to the thought that perhaps a similar plan should be used between all the buildings of the college. The idea should certainly be filed for future reference when the remainder of the planned campus buildings are finally constructed.

If the overhead protections are not desirable, tunnels might be incorporated into the plans, saving time, clothing, and wave-set lotion. Many other improvements might be suggested, also, but this will someday be very much appreciated—when there is a little snow, hail or sleet in January.

WRATHFUL GRADS FIGHT BACK

If it succeeds it will be in spite of opposition from Monday morning quarterbaeks who waved pom-poms last Saturday afternoon and yet never quite got through high school, and the too-too cute wordings of a football writer on a morning fishwrapper who holds weekly alumni meetings in a Third Street watering post handy to his desk.

Like the voter a few weeks ago who paused at the polls long enough to vote "no" against the gambling menace of dog racing while enroute to the corner cigar store to place a bet on a likely nag running in the fifth, the ol' school spirit mob is worried stiff over a threatened end to their era.

WHAT! PAY 'EM FOR IT?

Pure amateurism has been an elusive thing in college football being more or less on the shush-shush side and it was only a coincidence that the all-city halfback got a new car out of nowhere when he was kicked out of high school at the end of his third year of eligibility and reappeared the following year to do or die for the college colors.

But the thing is, the men of brawn and talent are at last being offered cold cash right out in the open and can walk into any bank and cash a well-earned check for it.

No longer will the All-American drop off the headlines into an oblivion of a stock and bond salesman's job nursing a trick knee and a scrapbook of blood and thunder headlines that temporarily idolized him.

GIVING IT BACK TO PLAYERS

There is nothing more holy than college baseball in its simon-purity and no comparison can be made between it and the quality of professional baseball that furnishes a respectable means of living for thousands of men.

The threat of college football reverting to that status is more than can be borne by both alumni and those whose education has been restricted to a stroll through the campus enroute to the big bowl.

Now the taint of filthy lucre is wafting over the oval citadels within the hallowed boundaries of learning, and Saturday's frantic millions are sniffing the ozone and fearful lest the odor reach the nostrils of contestants on the gridiron below knocking themselves out for the sheer love of it.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

"Issue Printed Regulation" Says Frosh; Non-Dancer Urges Co-Ed Dance Class

• Trial And Error Method

Editor, The Guardsman:

Most of the entering freshmen have discovered by trial and error the various rules and regulations governing school procedure at the junior college. Wouldn't it be a good idea to issue to entering freshmen a mimeographed sheet containing the campus regulations in regard to automobile parking, class cutting, and so forth?

I realize that the orientation meetings are intended to convey this information, but due to the crowded conditions and stepped-up schedules the treatment has been somewhat sketchy. The proposed information sheet could also include such helpful data as west campus facilities, adviser and counseling functions, and schedules of mid-term and final examinations.

J. P. B.

Editor's Note: A handbook is printed in the spring containing the above information, and incoming students are issued a Freshman edition of The Guardsman enumerating such regulations.

• Call For Art Murray

Editor, The Guardsman:

The Guardsman recently printed a proposal that co-education gym classes be made a part of the college curriculum. I am heartily in favor of the idea, and would like to see it carried through.

However, it may take a little while for the wheels of officialdom to grind into action, so I want to make a supplementary proposal that will start the ball rolling.

With the revived interest in afternoon and evening dances, and with almost every Friday night during the semester hooked solid with one dance or another, how about co-educational dancing classes so that droops like myself can learn to better wheel around the dance floor without looking like two-ton trucks.

Personally, I'd like to learn to jitterbug, rhumba, waltz, tango and fox-trot. And while we're at it how about a little folk-daneing?

I'd also like to see a student body that is so well educated in social dancing that it doesn't have to sit out any dances.

J. D. L.

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR.....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

NOTES on the cuff from the Modesto fray: Looking over the score in the Rams-Buccaneer contest it would have been interesting to note just how high it would have ran had our all-conference plunging fullback Marshall Leong been in there. Though he watched the game from the bench because of an injured ankle he had every bit as much spirit and team fight as any of the boys on the field.

Art Ekdall, not having scored a single point as yet this year, finally came through in the Buc tussle with his much sought after td. Here's hoping it's not your last, Art.

POINTS? THEY GOT 'EM

The scoringest team in the intramural circuit this year is the Lambs by far and away. To show you what we mean they took on the XGI's and handed them an overwhelming 105 to 25 defeat. This little exhibition tied the scoring record for intra-mural play at the college. Do you think they were content with merely tying the score? No siree! They came back to hand the Tau Chi Sigma a 147 to 37 swamping. This established a record that will no doubt stand for many seasons if the Lambs do not break it themselves. In talking to the boys they say they want to try for 200! Could be they may do it.

BIG GUN

Jim Hughes, center for the powerful Lamb intra-mural quintet, is one big reason why the scorekeepers are forced to carry auxiliary adding machines to keep an accurate tally. In the four games to date James has swished to the hoop for an average of 37½ points a contest. His personal high being in the Tau Chi Sigma fray when he hit for 58 digits. Yes Jim, I guess that hoop you have set up in your bedroom isn't a bad idea after all.

GOING UP

The just deserts are finally coming our way. A prominently famous sportscaster has sent San Francisco Junior College into the fifth slot in the national Junior college ratings this week. Only two other California institutions rank above us, Compton College and Long Beach City College. A Compton-San Francisco tussle would be a game worth watching. We think mighty Compton would have a tough time holding on to her first place national rating. How about you?

STATE SLIPS AGAIN, TSK, TSK

Our favorite subject, to wit: the losing ways of Brer Gater from San Francisco State took a favorable jump yesterday when our rivals dropped a decision to Southern Oregon College of Education to the tune of 26 to 6. You know, the more we read of the antics of dear old State the more we wish our cross town cousins had scheduled a contest with us. Oh well, you can't have everything.

WAA Sport Day On At Santa Rosa Tomorrow

Hockey and archery players belonging to the Women's Athletic Association are traveling to Santa Rosa Junior College tomorrow for the first play-day of the semester, according to Frances Scilipoti, president.

Hockey players attending the play-day with their instructor, Nancy Sparks, are Pat Hersey, Fritz Worden, Clydagh Enos, Joyce Lewis, Olga McMillan, Kay Chow, Annette Lo-Bea Howard, Rose Elms, Ann Hockus. Archery participants will include Carol Benson, and others not yet announced.

This play-day is the first play day of the semester, Miss Scilipoti said since the postponement of the first scheduled play day, a hockey play-day with Sacramento Junior College.

In addition to the members listed above, officers of the club, including Miss Scilipoti, Alma Pucci, D. Roberts, and Gloria Swicegood, faculty adviser, are planning on attending the play-day.

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 15 FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1946 Page 3

Rams Capture NCJCC Crown

NCJCC Grid Standings

	W	L	PS	PA	Pct
SAN FRANCISCO	5	0	112	31	1.000
Sacramento	3	2	83	33	.667
San Mateo	2	2	34	62	.500
Modesto	2	4	45	77	.100
Salinas	0	3	0	63	.000

Basketball

Rams Beat Marine Five 69-31; Kahn, Cameron Top Locals

By Sam Goldman

Clearing the bench and tossing everything onto the court but the water bucket, the Rams opened their 1946-47 cage season by thoroughly trouncing a hapless San Francisco Marines quintet, 69 to 31, Wednesday afternoon in men's gymnasium.

Spindly-legged Bill Kahn, townie 6 foot, 9 inch center, topped the Rams, scoring 12 points, while Dave Kallwaski, leatherneck via Des Moines, Ia., counted seven for the losers.

Boxscore:

MARINES (31)	fg	ft	pts
Smith, f	2	2	6
Griffin, f	0	1	1
Morris, c	0	0	0
Stewart, g	0	3	3
Malcolm, g	3	0	6
Wiley, f	0	0	0
Davis, f	0	1	1
Kaliw'ki, c	3	1	7
Nelson, g	2	1	5
Sackett, g	1	0	2
Totals	11	9	31

RAMS (69)	fg	ft	pts
Herrer's, f	2	0	4
Ginley, f	3	0	6
Roberts, f	2	0	4
Cameron, f	4	1	9
Arteres, f	1	0	2
Bucc'reli, f	1	1	3
Baldo'hi, f	0	0	0
Giannini, f	1	0	2
Jongs, c	0	0	0
Hughes, c	3	0	6
Kahn, c	5	2	12
Tminsn, c	1	1	3
O'Neill, g	2	0	4
Domene, g	0	0	0
Borr'gh, g	3	0	6
Bahr, g	1	0	2
Turner, g	1	0	2
Siler, g	1	0	2
Totals	32	5	69

LONG VOYAGE HOME for ex-Ram cager Mel Dropo who returns to the old stamping ground for the Borlo Athletic Club which faces the locals next Wednesday afternoon in men's gymnasium, starting at 4:15 p.m.

Lamb Gridders Humble Fighting Army, 18-0

Proving that their big brothers on the varsity haven't any monopoly on what is known as "moxie," the Lamb football squad completely outfought and outplayed a tough Army Supply Depot squad to the tune of 18 to 0, on the college field last Saturday afternoon.

First Grid Pennant Since 1940 Copped By Happy Townies

By Bob Catudio

Beloved, beautiful, stupendous Sacramento College threw a bouquet of championship roses at the locals on Armistice Day by swamping San Mateo Junior College, 20 to 7, in Hughes Memorial Stadium.

The Mateo defeat means the locals' acquisition of their first football championship since that happy era of 1940.

But the local band of chalk mark thespians continued their winning ways today by blasting an open date right off the Julean calendar.

And if you don't think the Eisans are happy, you're crazier than a loon. Scrimmaging sessions this week were lightened as the townies pummeled the tackling dummies that come to life next week in the form of Sacramento College.

"Glad the boys have an open date this week," Lee Eisan sighs contentedly, "because the boys have played hard. We'll be at full strength when we face Sacramento."

Marshall Leong, 215 pound fullback who sat out the Modesto Junior College farce, is still favoring a gimpy right leg which is slowly responding to therapy treatments.

That the 1946 version of the Ram football ensemble is the best balanced squad in partisan history was last week voiced by unhappy Fred Earle of Modesto. Maestro Earle ought to know!

Earle's club was splattered by the provincials, 14 to 0, and 38 to 7, marking the first time a Ram squad has set back a Modesto aggregation so convincingly twice in a row.

At present, the locals have the markings of an outfit "with the best junior collegian line in the state," and one can include Compton, Long Beach, and Santa Ana on the list.

Big Entry On Hand As Ping Pong Play Opens

Friday, November 22, has been announced by intramural director Tom Wilson as the final day of play for the first round of the table tennis tournaments.

The complete list of opponents has been posted on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium. Contestants should arrange their playing dates by getting in touch with their opponents at college or at their homes.

Following are the pairings for the first round singles tournament:

Less Holden vs. Don Clark; Edgar Espinosa vs. Earl Morway; Charles Jordan vs. Bill Buckley; Erv. Boxer vs. Roland Gee; Charles Arnone vs. Marino Mangiola; Rene Giron vs. Kenneth Ott; John Rooney vs. Bob Wiegand; Phillip Silverman vs. Julio Bergman; Myron Eichen vs. Charles Higgens; Robert King vs. Kaya Apaydin; Harold Lansing vs. Ramon Fauria; West Hammond vs. Harold Wilson.

First round doubles competition, also to be completed by November 22, will be as follows:

Bill Bahr-Horace Aubertine vs. Erv. Boxer-Don Clark; Less Holden-Bill Buckley vs. Charles O'Neil-Turner; Cyril Jeung-Dan Gee vs. Harold Wilson-Jones; Rene Giron-Julio Bergman vs. Phillip Silverman-Myron Eichen.

BURST OF SPEED around end found Art Ekdall picking up eight yards in the recent Ram, Modesto game. Guard Denny Miller (19) is warding off Modesto's Orv Young (54), Jim Wadsworth (64), and Bob Smith (67) on the ground.—Photo by Wechter.

Football

Panthers Toss Title To San Franciscans

Sacramento, Nov. 12 — The speed-lined "Pony Express" offensive of Sacramento College upset the San Mateo Junior College Bulldogs, 20 to 7, at Hughes Memorial Stadium yesterday afternoon before an Armistice Day crowd of 5,000 fans.

The Matean defeat was unexpected and it "practically cineles the Northern California Junior College grid title for the San Francisco Junior College Rams who draw a bye this week.

Seat back Austin Brown and Joe Kline scored for the Solons on runs of 14 and nine yards respectively. Right Halfback Roy Sules counted the third tally on a 14 yard sweep around end.

CONVINCING AND READY for oppositional offensive is Jim Cronn, right end, playing his first regular season for the home guard. Cronn has been improving steadily and can be looked upon to deliver a telling performance. — Photo by Lum.

Three Intra Football Games Set For Monday

After a slight delay, intramural football returns to the agenda Monday, with the National League teams scheduled to play their third round.

The high-flying Chinese Social Club tangles with the Tau Chi Sigma gridders in the opener at 3 o'clock. At 3:40, the XGI and Smoked Irish aggregations clash, and the C. Y. Club and the Albany Bulldogs end the day's activities when they meet at 4:15.

All-American League Standings:

	W	L	T
Turtles	1	0	0
Cowboys	0	0	1
Beta Tau	0	0	1
Poly Alumni Club	0	0	1
Seagulls	0	1	0
Galloping Gaels	0	0	1

Intramural

Lamb Cagers Score 147 For New Mark

Surpassing all previous records, the Lamb cagers set a new intramural high scoring mark as they walloped the weak Tau Chi Sigma five, 147 to 37, in the sixth round of competition. Earlier this season, the Lambs tied the high mark of 105 points set in 1942.

Rangy Jim Hughes, Lamb center, set his own individual high scoring record as he personally accounted for 58 of his team's tallies.

Sparked by diminutive Sherrill Houghton, the Ramblers returned to the win column after two straight losses as they decsioned the Chinese Social Club 45 to 41. Houghton led the scoring parade with 19 digits.

The East Bay Trotters remained in the unbeaten class as they handed the Tigers a 30 to 20 defeat. Bob DeMaris pushed through 14 points for the losers with Wetunka Moffatt getting 10 for the Trotters.

Yet to win a game, the Poops and Portals defaulted to the Buccaneer and Los Vaqueros fives. The Operators won their fifth game of the season on a default by the XGI squad.

Tuesday, the undefeated East Bay Trotters square off with the once defeated Operators, and the third place Los Vaqueros five tangles with the fourth slot Ramblers in the feature games.

Following is the complete schedule for Tuesday, November 19:

Scheduled for 4 o'clock:
Lambs vs. Poops.
East Bay Trotters vs. Operators.
Los Vaqueros vs. Ramblers.
Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
Tau Chi Sigma vs. Chinese Social Club.
Portals vs. XGI.
Tigers vs. Buccaneers.

Intra-mural Basketball Standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Lambs	6	0	1.000
East Bay Trotters	5	0	1.000
Operators	5	1	.833
Los Vaqueros	4	1	.800
Chinese Social Club	4	2	.667
Ramblers	4	2	.667
Tigers	3	3	.500
Buccaneers	2	4	.333
Tau Chi Sigma	1	5	.167
X. G. I.	1	5	.167
Poops	0	6	.000
Portals	0	6	.000

Big Beef Date Changed To Thursday, Dec. 12

The Associated Men Students Boxing Carnival to be held on Thursday, December 12, will have as one of its main attractions a basketball game where a team picked from members of the college faculty will oppose the winner of the intramural games now in progress.

Alpha Theta Epsilon Celebrates Eleventh Birthday

By Marge Wheatly

Candlelight lit the path of the Alpha Theta Epsilon recently as it entered its eleventh year of campus activity with a traditional installation of officers led by President Helen Tanner.

Born the same year as the college, the organization is a campus branch of a national and state college home economics group. As a member of this coast-to-coast society, the club provides the motivation for many worthy activities, acting not only as a social organization but as a college service group as well.

While its membership springs mainly from those women enrolled in home economics courses, the club draws upon a much larger resource of energy by opening its doors to all students wishing to become members.

Affiliation with other such groups comes to a head each year at the annual conference held on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

With 59 active members, the group moves around a nucleus of eight officers. Miss Tanner has Jean Tanner as her aide in the vice-president's chair, while Pearl Lee, secretary; Eleanor Reed, treasurer; Evelyn De Maestri, historian; Murney Cunningham, custodian; Barbara Hendrickson, reporter, carry the rest of the business burden.

As one of its activities this semester, the club is holding a spaghetti dinner next Thursday, November 21, for one dormitory of the on-campus veterans.

A major project in the making is the annual Yuletide drive for gifts for hospitalized veterans. Appealing to the Associated Students for donations, the women wrap each gift in Christmas wrappings.

BIG GUNS OF ALPHA THETA EPSILON include the mustering of the following campus home economic group. (Left to right), Back row—Murney Cunningham, custodian; Barbara Hendrickson, reporter; Eleanor Reed, treasurer; Myra Coffman, CAB representative, and Evelyn De Maestri, historian. (Front Row)—Pearl Lee, secretary; Helen Tanner, president, and Jean Tanner, vice-president. Co-Advisers of the group are Claire Cuneo and Frances Mount who this semester celebrates the club's eleventh birthday.—Photo by Kennerson.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

- Beta Tau: The student lounge will be the setting for the joint meeting with Theta Tau Wednesday, November 20.
- Delta Psi: Plans are now underway for the informal which is a traditional pajama party.
- Engineers Club: A motion picture will be shown during next Friday's college hour in Room 136. A representative from General Electric will speak on Jet Propulsion at an evening meeting scheduled next Tuesday, November 19, at the college.
- Kappa Phi: Pledging will be climaxed this evening by a pajama party at the home of President Roberta Robb.
- Phi Beta Rho: Officers for this semester are President Jackie Faxon, Vice-president Doris Pederson, Treasurer Rose Murphy, Recording Secretary Rita Cox, Corresponding Secretary Jeanne Stewart, and Historian Lillian Trangalio.
- Pick and Hammer: Today's meeting during the college hour will feature moving pictures from Tidewater Oil Co. The meeting will be in Room 45.
- Pi Mu Gamma: A social is scheduled for this evening at the home of Winsten Taeger, at 544 28th Street, Oakland.
- Newman Club: A meeting, followed by dancing, is scheduled Monday, November 18, 8 p.m., St. Emydius Hall.

Tri Epsilon Sponsors November 27 Dance

Remember When is the theme of the Tri Epsilon dance scheduled Wednesday, November 27, at the St. Francis' Colonial Room. Al Butler, chairman of the dance committee, announced.

Admission price is two dollars a couple, and the dance will be informal, starting at 9 o'clock, Butler said.

WARSHAWSKI'S
Since 1922
DRY GOODS STORE
FURNISHINGS, SHOES
6340 Mission Street
Daly City, California
DElaware 0231

We Deliver—FLOWERS—We Telegraph
Chain of Flowers
Florists
CORSAGES—FLORAL DESIGNS
WEDDINGS
JUniper 4-9038 1805 Ocean Avenue
San Francisco 12

Drama

December Production Hinted For Casts Of Male Animal, Black Flamingo

With December performance dates rolling closer with each rehearsal, the casts of The Male Animal and Black Flamingo bear down more and harder to memorize their lines.

The Male Animal, directed by Ruth Somers, rehearses each Tuesday and Thursday at 1 p.m.

The cast includes Raymond Bisio, Jack Kermoin, Eugene Carlson, Julian Pace, John Blauer, Walter Mahoney, Joyce Barsanti, Shirley Dilke, Mary Dreifuss, Margery Fulton, Laurce Kaye, and Kathryn Thompson.

The very popular Broadway hit deals with the difficulties of Professor Tommy Turner. The comedy has received rave notices wherever it has been presented.

The cast of Black Flamingo, directed by Lloyd Sisler twice a week in room 28 at 3 p.m., has now memorized the first act of the Sixteenth Century melodrama.

Featuring a style of presentation, never before attempted in the college, the actors have been working to overcome many physical obstacles that the former student lounge presents as a theater.

The problem of getting the actors on and off the stage in a room where there is but one exit, fighting echoes in a room where the slightest whisper bounces off all four walls then starts the trip over again, have been two problems.

The costumed epic includes in the cast Bill Komons, Hal Harris, Elbert Priddy, Betty Young, Caren Alvarez, Bill Riley, Merlon Bercovich, Marie Wispell, Carla Perkins, Phil Markinson, Dorothy Geenan, Isabelle Kohmann, Sal Maeda, Regina Warchot, and Gilbert Craig.

Copa Emcee, Local Talent Set For Rally

Joaquin Garay, well known star of the Copocabana nightclub, will top the sparkling entertainment marquee, billed for the football rally slated for next Friday, November 22.

The rally is slated for the college hour in front of the west campus auditorium in anticipation of the pigskin tussle with Sacramento Junior College.

Further inspection of the scheduled program reveals the exploitation of the musical talent of the football team, with a "drop-shot" on the Ink Spots, plus a jam session made up of members of the team.

Topping this parade of entertainment will be the college band, instilling spirit for the Ram-Panther contest which will be settled in his city.

Not yet in uniform, but now veteran music makers, the Ram band will also make an appearance at the game under the direction of Madison Devlin.

Cruzon Replaces Duffy As Fountain Manager

Urdon Cruzon was appointed manager of the fountain lunch last week to replace Tom Duffy, Hilda Watson, chairman of the hotel and restaurant division, announced.

Cruzon graduated from here last June and has been at the Casa De Vallejo in Vallejo, California, where he was last employed as a room clerk. He is now living on the west campus with his wife.

Duffy asked to be relieved of his duties as manager of the fountain lunch, so that he may be able to devote his full time to instructing his classes in the hotel division.

Cruzon's father was the late Don Cruzon, who for many years was the state editor of the Oakland Tribune.

Mrs. Watson said, "This shows that when a job is open in the hotel and restaurant profession, a trained person will have first consideration."

The fountain is located at the south end of building 12 and is open between the hours of 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

• MODEL BUILDERS •
TIRED OF BEING TAKEN?
TRY US ONCE AND COMPARE
BY MODEL BUILDERS FOR MODEL BUILDERS
FRANCISCAN HOBBIES
1803½ OCEAN AVENUE OPEN EVENINGS

Forum

Literary Magazine Calling For Talent

Although the next issue of the Forum magazine will not be ready for publication until the middle of next semester, stories and poems are now being accepted for consideration in room 251, Dorothy Mercer, Forum faculty adviser, said last week.

Manuscripts of prose may be either fiction stories or essays but should not exceed 1500 words in length, Miss Mercer added.

AMS

Mardi Gras Revelry Scheduled Nov. 22

Costumes, prizes, music, weird decorations, and a kangaroo court will predominate the festivities of the Associated Men Student Mardi Gras, scheduled for next Friday, November 22, in the west campus auditorium, from 8 to 12 a.m.

Booths, sponsored by various organizations in the college, are expected to line the walls of the dancing room, and games of skill and refreshments will be offered there for a nominal sum.

The committee, which had up to now included only Janet Caine, Roy Barnett, Steve Kritikakos and Jane Doran as well as all AMS officers, has been expanded to include Jim Edwards, Mildred Laube, Nancy Ruttencutter, Bill Riley, and Bob Winegardner.

Enormous plans for the dance are now underway, and Bill Holmes, AMS president, has engaged Howard Fredericks to supply the music for that evening.

All students are asked to wear costumes, and if they are unable to secure one they should wear jeans, plaid skirts, or pinafores for the ladies, Holmes said, and "no heels allowed."

"Anyone caught wearing dress clothes will be tossed into the Kangaroo court," Holmes warned.

All clubs wishing to sponsor a booth at the affair must turn in a notice to Holmes immediately, and it is understood that they are to decorate, design, and take charge of their respective booths, he said.

Mohr Will Report On State Centennial Role

J. Paul Mohr, college vice-president, will deliver a report on the participation of junior colleges in the California centennial celebrations at a state-wide meeting of junior college executives in Bakersfield this morning, President A. J. Cloud revealed this week.

"Mohr is vice-president of the federation and is presiding at one of the meetings. Those attending the conference from the college are Mohr, President Cloud, Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, and Edward E. Sandys, dean of men. Cecil Parker and Edward Redford, representatives of the office of the superintendent of San Francisco schools, will also attend the meeting.

During the absence of President Cloud and the three administration members, F. Grant Marsh will serve as acting head of the college.

BENNY'S
RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—RAndolph 9632

Books

New Store Opening Slated December 1; Student Jobs Open

Featuring a combined textbook division and soda fountain, a student book store will open its doors to the general public Sunday, December 1, Edward Medford, co-owner of the proposed venture, announced this week.

Located at 1039 Ocean Avenue, the new store will be a modified prototype of the San Francisco Student Store, according to Medford, who also emphasized that part time employment for college students will be offered.

That the establishment of the store would ease the problem of student textbook purchases in the coming spring semester was a major point involving numerous potential customers, Medford explained.

Efficient service, quality merchandise, and fair prices of commodities are the main principles upon which the store will operate, Medford said.

Library Art Collection Currently On Display

On display in a portfolio in the college library at the present time is a collection of 26 reproductions featuring the works of some of the best artists of the early Rennaissance period up to the present day contemporaries.

These reproductions, 16 by 20 inches, are all in color and are located in the reading room of the library. They may be seen at anytime by those who are interested, Marcus Skarstedt, librarian, said.

Early nineteenth century French artists are well represented in this collection. Some of them are Van Gogh, Gaugin, Toulouse-Lautre, Cezanne, Daumier, and Rousseau. Some of the later artists are Braque, Modighani, Rouait of the French, and Woods, Sessians, and Flint of the American and British.

Evans Ecke, art instructor, pointed out that some students might not appreciate the artistic value of these paintings because they "look for realism instead of true art."

The collection also illustrates the type of subjects of different periods. Paintings by the Dutch are almost exclusively interiors, while the Fren exclusively interiors, while the French paintings of early periods are almost all of a religious nature.

AGS Offers Students Tutoring Assistance

Students desiring coaching help in any subject may now apply to an Alpha Gamma Sigma representative in the organization's office on the west campus at 10 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and 12 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday, AGS officers said yesterday.

The office is located in building number 12 next door to the fountain, and a member of the club will be on duty during those hours to interview and arrange tutoring hours.

He's coming to the
MURAL ROOM
Tuesday, Nov. 19th
•
JOE
REICHMAN
"The Pagliacci of the Piano"
AND HIS ORCHESTRA
•
St. Francis
Geo. E. London • General Manager
OPPOSITE UNION SQUARE
SAN FRANCISCO

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1946 No. 16

BEHOLD A MAN OF THE AGES! That's Larry F. Livingston, front man for the Du Pont Company of Wilmington, Del. That the plastic age is here is apparent by the sheets of plastacele cellulose acetate plastic and tubes of polythene-insulated wire in his hands. Quite a barrage of words meaning science is here to stay.

Plastic Age

DuPont's Livingston Speaks To Engineers

L. F. Livingston, extension division manager of the Du Pont Company, will present a lecture-demonstration before a meeting of the college engineering society, this afternoon in Room 136 at 1 p.m.

The speaker will display a number of new plastics, nylons, synthetic rubber, rayon tire cord, cellophane, flame-proof cloth and wood, and explosive rivets.

Livingston will also show other chemical materials which are examples of what industry has to offer in the future.

The extension division manager will show that the American standard of living has been steadily improved not only by inventions, but also by constant research to improve processes and reduce prices.

A graduate in engineering at the University of Washington, a former faculty member at the University of Wisconsin, Livingston joined Du Pont in 1929.

Milton Polissar, chemistry department head, yesterday announced that all interested students are invited to attend.

Student Council

Campus Authorities Issue Conduct Order

College authorities cracked down on campus clubs on the question of cleanliness on the premises yesterday when Dean John Brady issued an ultimatum of orderliness or no extra-curricular activities on the college grounds.

This action was precipitated by the state of the administration building last Thursday evening after a joint fraternity-sorority organization meeting the previous night.

It was brought to the attention of the administration when the janitors found pop corn, peanuts, and coke bottles distributed around the building.

Brady's statement is as follows:

"When any college organization is given the privilege of using a room or building on the campus it is assumed by the administrative staff that said room or building will be left by that organization in the same state of order and cleanliness as when it was entered.

"We feel that it is unfair to burden our janitorial staff with the task of cleaning up after extra-curricular activities of this nature.

"That responsibility rests with the organization or organizations involved. If any group neglects such responsibilities we feel it necessary to refuse it the privilege of again using campus facilities."

Examinations For Navy Careers Set Next Year

Competitive examinations are scheduled for January 18, 1947, by the Navy for its Officer College Training Program. The examination will be open to high school seniors or graduates within the age requirements.

Successful candidates will be given a four-year college education at government expense and will be commissioned officers of the regular Navy or Marine Corps, or of the Reserve, upon graduation.

AMS

Mardi Gras Site Shifts To West Campus Auditorium

The Mardi Gras, semi-annual dance sponsored by the Associated Men Students, will be held this Friday, November 22, in the auditorium rather than the student lounge, according to Bill Holmes, president of AMS.

"The expectations for the turnout of this dance are tremendous and we want to make doubly certain that there will be sufficient room for both the booth displays and dancing," Holmes said.

Various clubs on the campus will have gayly decorated concessions along the insides of the building for entertainment purposes. Proceeds from these booths will be kept by the clubs and placed in their respective treasury. Any organization wishing to install a concession at the dance is asked to get in touch with Holmes immediately.

Steve Kritikakos, one of the nine committee members, disclosed that decorations and banners for the dance are now being drawn.

A carnival spirit will be the main theme of the dance, and all students are asked to wear either costumes, or jeans and plaid shirts; pinafores or costumes for the ladies.

Anyone caught out of costume at the dance will be tossed into the kangaroo court and will have to work out a sentence before release.

Announcing that various prizes will be given, Jane Doran declared, "As is the usual custom, prizes will be presented as awards to the club having the best booth, and to various students on the campus for outstanding costumes."

Committee members include Jim Edwards, Roy Barnett, Janet Caine, Mildred Laube, Nancy Ruttencutter, Bill Riley, and Bob Winegardner.

That the presentation of last semester's Mardi Gras was a success was emphatically pointed out by Holmes who yesterday predicted, "nothing short of total success" for the Friday affair.

Reduced Magazine Rates Offered Vets

Veterans who desire to subscribe to Life, Time, Fortune or Newsweek may do so at reduced rates by writing the Veterans Magazine Service, 5710 Maryland Avenue, Chicago 37, Ill.

The offer closes December 28, and veterans are advised to include with their order, their former rating, serial number, and full remittance.

State Coin, Stamp Contest Announced

Organization of a committee under the supervision of Archibald Wedemeyer, art director of San Francisco Public Schools, has begun for statewide stamp and coin design contests to be held during the Spring semester of 1947.

A sub-committee has been formed, chairman of which is William Eckert, art instructor at the college. Eckert has composed his committee of Richard Stevens, representative of the Academy of Fine Arts, and Douglas MacAgy, director of the California School of Fine Arts.

Competition carried on among senior high school art students for design of a 1948 stamp commemorating the discovery of gold and for a 1950 federal stamp commemorating the admission of California to the Union. Another contest among junior colleges, colleges, universities, and professional and private schools of a college level will be conducted for a 1949 50 cent piece.

Final authority on the designs rests in the hands of the federal government and not the state government or the state chamber of commerce. The contests are to be sponsored by the Pacific Arts Association and the State Art Commission.

One World To Win

UN Official Urges Universal Peace On American Campuses; Veterans Hold Key Role In Protecting US Future Security

This is the first article written by Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud, from Lake Success, N. Y., scene of the United Nations Conference. The Guardsman is one of few colleges in the nation with "an accredited observer" at the meeting.

By Lloyd D. Luckmann

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 11—In choosing among the three committee meetings scheduled here today, local pride and the Headquarters Committee lost out to the opportunity to hear first hand the Russian position on Trusteeships, as presented by Nikolai V. Novikov, Soviet Ambassador to the U. S.

High point of yesterday's calendar was the opportunity to visit host Trygve Lie. The pressure of official duties being less than usual for the "Ambassador to Humanity," our talk was a leisurely one. The dominant topic was the Secretary-General's secondary concern with the passive-administrative aspects of his position.

It is his political responsibilities, as he interprets the charter, that weigh the heaviest.

This was exemplified, I believe, by his indictment of France in his opening address, when he literally appealed over the heads of the Security Council with a call to world public opinion, a typical effort to force UN action.

Dr. Lie is certainly not of the diplomatic school. A vigorous democrat, he eschews politeness and palaver where practical political problems are concerned.

In response to a request for a message to the students of this city's college, Lie urged constant discussion of the problems on the UN's agenda.

"Tell your students," Lie said, "that the idea behind the UN is for your minds, minds open to the price of peace. The veterans now in your college ought to be able to convince the youth who follow them that we must insure ourselves against Caesarism. Right now the best insurance policy we have against that threat is the United Nations Charter."

Before meeting my appointment with Mr. Lie, a curiosity of long standing was satisfied yesterday when, among 2500 others, I visited Riverside Church to hear John Foster Dulles, the U.S. member of the U.N. Trusteeship Committee.

The onetime candidate for Secretary of State in the Dewey Cabinet told the assemblage that the force which can assure unity among nations is "the force of moral law." At about the same time—but in Chicago—Winston Churchill's son told his audience that "war is as certain as it was ten years ago."

College Hour

Joaquin Garay To Appear At Rally

Joaquin Garay, vibrant personality of stage and screen, will be the spotlight entertainer at the football rally scheduled for this Friday, November 22, during the college hour, in front of the west campus auditorium, Al Moffatt, rally commissioner, disclosed last week.

Designed to promote enthusiasm for the gladiatorial clash between the Rams and the Sacramento City College Panthers, the pigskin rally will also feature local talent composed of two members of the football team.

Accompanied by Roland Jones at the piano, Howard Crouch will give his rendition of the popular song, I Know.

Topping the entertainment bill will be the capable musicians composing the college band. The red and white band will also make an appearance at the game Friday afternoon.

670 Enrolled Here In Psychology 10 Course

Six hundred and seventy students are enrolled in psychology 10, F. Grant Marsh, head counsellor, disclosed last week when he stated that this two unit course is offered with a two-fold purpose, one to improve study habits, secondly, to help the student in the selection of a suitable vocation.

In the first part of the course, where emphasis is placed upon the development of successful study habits, a student learns how to read effectively, prepare lecture notes and term papers, and how to study for various examinations.

The second purpose of the course involves the principles underlying the selection of vocational objectives and the evaluation of a student's choice by endeavoring to find his interests and aptitudes.

Forum Tops On Best Seller List

By Marge Wheatly

MODERN TIMES is an ideal portrait of two present day exponents of the old "forum system" in the front row closeup of Helen Ringius and Adele Reinisch, president and secretary respectively of the campus Forum Club.

Sponsored by Dorothy Mercer and John Gerstung, the organization publishes a magazine during the spring semester via student contributions.—Photo by Kennerson.

Main steam vent for campus parley champs is the Forum club, a discussion group under the chairmanship of Helen Ringius, which hits upon everything and anything at its meetings occurring once every three weeks.

Started by Dorothy Mercer, English instructor, in 1935, the group now has two backers in the persons of Miss Mercer and John Gerstung, history instructor.

Not entangled in cumbersome club routine, the Forum asks nothing of its participants, only that those interested students and faculty members appear. In this way the group has a steady flow of members, besides the old standbys, depending upon the topic under consideration. As the agenda presents everything from music to politics the club is in constant fluctuation.

Chairman Ringius was also editor of the 1946 Forum Magazine. A graduate of Mission High School, she is a major in English.

Serving as secretary is Adele Reinisch who came to the campus from New York City. Majoring in English at the present time, Miss Reinisch has been thinking off entering radio and television work as a script writer. She is at present a Guardsman columnist.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 16 Tuesday, November 19, 1946 Page 2

GOP

Victory Won—Spoils Lost

THE Grand Old Party can well be proud of its recent political steamrollering tactics that shattered a Democratic Party myth.

Yet the balance of power, as it were, still is vested in the thinning ranks of the Democrats who yield a "veto power" that is certain to spring out from the White House closet.

Assuredly the Republicans have control of the House and the Senate. The Truman administration, purportedly hinted at rope's end, is still "in control."

Top flight defense of the "minority Democrats" is the coming over-all use of the veto. The Republicans are not yet strong enough to carry a two-thirds measure in either the House or Senate.

Therein lies the groundwork of a bitter struggle.

Therein lies the framework of political bickering.

The GOP standard bearers can not expect to pass legislation that would eventually bear a Democratic rejection mark.

Both parties are now concerned with "our foreign policy" with respect to those policies already established by Russia and Great Britain.

Both parties are, in fact, acutely aware of the attitude of the people in reference to labor and management disputes, and the current existence of "priority bamboozling."

American politics is cast onto a "critical arena" for the first time since 1928.

The balance of power, despite its potential complexities, is not representative of the American people, for the nation is now facing a political "six day bicycle race."

The GOP, for all its intended glory, is certainly none too happy tonight.

They have won a victory but have lost the spoils.

Ford

After Dark

THE Forum Magazine, sponsored by Dorothy Mercer and John Gerstrung, is now taking contributions for the issue which will appear sometime next semester. So far, no deluge of manuscripts has appeared. Students are urged to contribute to the magazine. Short stories, essays, one act plays, articles, and poetry are all acceptable.

Last semester, the college turned out a first rate magazine of college writing. Next semester, the editors and faculty supervisors want to do the same thing, but it will take some cooperation on the part of the students.

You don't have to be an English major to contribute. In fact . . . but that's another story and belongs to the era when knights were bold, Duke Ellington was a wee tot, and ladies did not wear plastic things. (Turn contributions into Room 237 or Room 251 — cheek?)

Anyone would agree with Herb Caen that some of the court reporters in this city have little knowledge of the classics. For instance, Defense Attorney Jim MacInnis' discovery of "Candy, by Vulture" in the transcript of the Memoirs of Heeate County Trial. "Well-done, by Throw" is another good one.

A Scandal in Paris is another one of those flicks with such a plot like you've never seen before. It could be a sequel to The Huge Snooze for all the audience would know.

It also moves a little onto the shady side of the tracks in certain Purple Passages (ahem . . .), however, George Sanders, as a dashing, pulse-quickening schizoid sort of chap, gives forth with the usual assembly of broad "A's" and cold inscrutable sneers. The first scene shows him as a jail bug and the closing scene as a prefect of police about to lift considerable mazuma from the Bank of Paris.

In between he meets various women, steals questionable garters, poses for a fresco of St. George slaying the dragon, and takes a ride on a Pateozoic merry-go-round . . . .All through the night this goes on . . . and on.

Signe Hasso says absolutely nothing until a few scenes before the close of the picture and then, with perfect timing, expressive voice control, and superb emotion, she musters up a "Oh yes, we've met before." By the time the audience recovers the picture is over.

Around and About with Nagle

COMIC books, otherwise known as funny books, are becoming less funny. The day of comics has been surpassed by the day of intellectual pursuits. So where one used to read funny quips from round-faced cherubs, one now reads "The Life of Marco Polo" (complete with cartoons). But the best is yet to come.

Life insurance salesmen have put out a "funny book" telling of the advantages of buying life insurance. Now kiddies will run to Poppa and ask—not for a penny for a lollypop—but for several pennies for a $1000 Retirement Income Plan at 65. What's more the kiddies will insist on double indemnity, and guaranteed loan and surrender value. Aren't funny books wonderful?

"GET A HORSE" PAYS

Seems like Old Home Week in The Guardsman office these days with ex-staff members dropping in. Witness last week, when Ed Wunsch, ye old 1939-40 business staff member arrived.

The young gent is now pursuing his old college advertising line, only in a better-paid fashion—with The Chronicle. Advertising men must have transportation, and Ed was unable to get a car, so remembering the cry of the first auto-haters, went out and "bought a horse." So far he hasn't ventured down Market Street, but we're waiting for the day.

MARRIAGE RATE IMPROVED

Ram's Horn gets some interesting bits of pen and ink banter, 99-44/100% of which gets into print. One portion of the other 56/100% which didn't arrive at the print shop was a notable, quotable letter received from a co-ed. Said letter states, "Penn. State College has a course in marriage and all that it involves. It has done much to improve the marriage and divorce rate in that area. Why can't JC have a course of the same sort?"

Certainly the marriage rate in this city needs no improvement. A glance at the Sunday Women's Section of a newspaper will prove that marriage isn't yet a forgotten institution.

The divorce rate in this area is likewise doing quite well, thank you, and needs no help from a college course. Unless the right instructor could suggest some new causes, other than the over-worked "mental cruelty."

STANDBY

LUTHER LYON, a business instructor at the college, figured out a way to make his wife's housework easier, wrote an article on it, and lo! it is to appear in the January issue of American Home magazine, under the title of Isn't There A Lazier Way? Lyon says, "This article wasn't written to lend any prestige to the college; it was written strictly for mercenary reasons."

A past editor of The Guardsman, BORRIE HYMAN, dropped into the office last week, looked around and said, "This is terrific. The staff is really lucky to have such a spacious office. In fact, the whole school is lucky to have the extended campus. It is really terrific."

PAT FRENCH, the Examiner's "Debbie," covered seven weddings, three engagements, and a brace of showers which prompts her to yell: "I'll probably not get married until I witness my one-millionth wedding."

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Relax! The Japs Did Us A Favor At Pearl Harbor

AS long overdue as one of the ancient battleships under his old command, Senator Thomas Hart has finally put the people straight on the effects of the Pearl Harbor disaster; if anyone can remember that far back.

Ex-Admiral Hart, former commander of the Navy's Asiatic fleet, took time out after a robust dinner in New York City recently to search the back of his mind for a few choice comments on the subject.

He came up with the good news that the Jap attack on December 7th wasn't so important after all and at best it liquidated old remnants of the fleet that were only in the way at the time.

DINNER FIVE YEARS OVERDUE

His words, some five years too late, would have been welcomed with lusty cheering on that Monday night after the news of the sneak bombing had come in.

The first blackout in San Francisco's history found a lot of taxpayers running wildly about the city looking for such a voice to soothe the confusion that was so rampant at the time and to answer the stock question of the day, "Where's our Navy?"

Hart would have been royally welcomed by the long lines of junior college students down at the Federal Building several days later trading in their textbooks for a railroad ticket to San Diego, some fast boot training, and a boatride to the Far East.

NOW THAT WE'VE WON . . .

It is said time is a great healer but a four year gap out of a student's life seems a little too wide to sew up with a tardy after-dinner speech years later—the memory lingers on despite such personal reminiscences of a victorious commander.

Saying he was "sick" of hearing about Pearl Harbor and its overstressed importance, Hart has decided to brush off the entire tragedy in his own mind for all time.

The former Admiral seems to lose sight of his old responsibilities and just why he was so diligently trained in the art of warfare at Annapolis and later paid a comfortable salary for safeguarding the lives of the people who established such an academy.

PINS SET UP IN ALLEY

He's quite right at that, in stating the Japs rid us of a lot of hulks that Sunday morning, but at the time that's all we had out there.

The Japs did the job with equipment that was on the same par, only they had more of it, along with the convenience of finding all the "hulks" tied up in a neat line like milk bottles at a beach baseball throwing concession.

Hart's memory is a little foggy on what he was doing in those rosy days of '39 to '41 when his gleaming new flagship, the Augusta, was tied up in Shanghai and his staff spent glorious nights under a China moon while the Jap navy carried out dress rehearsals before their eyes.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

"A ROSE by any other name would smell as sweet." So it has been said; but what work and care went into the growing of that lovely flower? What artistic knowledge was combined to make those colorful arrangements, both in the ground and in the vase?

To learn all the intricate details of this subject is the goal of the students of the floriculture department of the college.

It was first organized in 1936, with about six members who studied in the basement of the Powell Street building and did "laboratory" work at the Howell Nursery. The sole subject for study at that early date was plant propagation.

The following year, because of increased interest, classes in floral shop work were added and conducted in the basement of Galileo High School to train future florists in the art of making corsages and sprays to delight the heart of any Juliet.

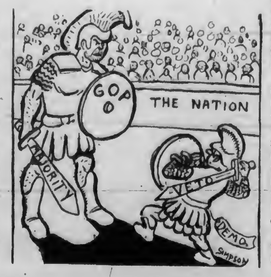
Later at the present site of the college, courses in landscape gardening were added to the department. Students then worked in the greenhouses and outdoor gardens constructed in Balboa park.

The war was a serious detriment to the membership of the department which had depended largely on a male membership. However, the women found themselves quite at home in commercial flower shops and many women graduates of the department have been placed in shops in the bay area.

Now that masculine forms are once again plentiful about the campus, the demand for men florists is again being met. The opportunities in this field are numerous both for continuance of education after leaving here as well as for entering directly into the various professions.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor



Public Code Violated In Sale Of Car Tickets; Share Ride—Win Friends

• Co-Op Ride Suggestion

Editor, The Guardsman:

I should like to take advantage of the Ram's Horn to remind the business staff of the college of a technical illegality in their sale of street car tickets.

Over the window of the bank hangs a sign requesting purchasers of car tickets to ". . . please show your Associated Student Card when buying car tickets." This is an illegal requirement, and violates the provisions of Public Utilities Resolution No. 3942 of 1940.

The reduced rate car tickets are restricted for sale to students, not to members of some dues-paying student association. If the business staff is afraid of outsiders buying the tickets, they should request the presentation of an enrollment card.

I hold an Associated Student card (No. 1478), but I think that the above-mentioned method is an extremely unfair and unethical way to coerce students into joining the Associated students.

J. B.

• Bank Violation?

Editor's Note: The bank is established mainly for handling Associated Student funds. As an extra service, it sells car tickets to recognized members of the organization which it serves—the Associated Students.

Editor: The Guardsman:

Men students of the college complain about the unfriendly attitude of the women here, but do nothing to relieve the situation. One way of winning friends and influencing people would be for those who own cars, to offer rides to the J.C. students waiting on the corners for streeteers. It's bad enough to have to jam onto a K car full of polite little junior high students on the clear and sunny day, but to have to do it in the rain, while empty cars bound for the college go sailing by, is maddening.

There are plenty of students, both men and women, who would be glad to accept a ride, if offered. Let's cooperate, please.

Margaret Hogan.

Guardsman Staff—
Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adelo Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Herold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Heil.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

The Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 16 TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1946 Page 3

Cagers Face Borlo Toughies

Hillsman Clan On Spot At BAC Quintet Expense; Dropo, Filiberti Face Rams

Test package number two on the college court arrives tomorrow evening at 8:15 p.m. when the San Francisco Borlo Athletic Club, neatly wrapped and coached by one Ben Neff, invades the cave of Ralph Hillsman's Rams.

Whatever the odds are prior to the ensuing battle, the locals will have to consider themselves definite underdogs to the Borlomen.

Even Hillsman has admitted the Rams' standing when he remarked that Neff's players had "experience, age, and speed" over his players.

The five portion package to be delivered by Neff will include Mel Dropo, former Ram star in 1941, and Ken Leslie, familiar flare via Lowell High School, at the forward corners.

Clearing off the backboard are rebounders Ed Conroy, field general for the starting five, who hails from Lowell, Santa Clara and Olympic Club, and Dave Thurm, ex-University of California performer.

And add to this foursome Pivotman Ernie Filiberti, All-City via Poly High in 1939.

Hillsman peered out of the gymnasium office to announce his men were ready to give the Borlos a battle with a Ram starting five consisting of Forwards Ken Cameron and Jack Ginley, both of whom can move rapidly on the courts.

Mike O'Neill and Neil Turner will start at the guard posts, while Roland "Deacon" Jones, holdover vet and pivot player, rounds out the five for the townies that will tangle with Neff's mob.

Hillsman's lighties present themselves for the first time this season on the court at 6:45 p.m. when they face the Borlo Babes.

BORLO A.C.	Pos.	RAMS
Mel Dropo	F	Jack Ginley
Ken Leslie	F	Ken Cameron
Ernie Filiberti	C	Roland Jones
Dave Thurm	G	Mike O'Neill
Ed Conroy	G	Neil Turner

Gaels Bop Turtles, 6-0; Tied For Tourney Lead

The Galloping Gaels gained a tie for first place in the All-American League in intra-mural football competition as they handed the Turtles a 6 to 0 defeat in the second round of play.

The only other game scheduled was forfeited by the Seagulls to the Beta Tau squad.

Because of the unpredictable antics of Jupe Pluvius, the contests scheduled for Wednesday, November 13, were postponed until tomorrow. The games will take place at the regular times.

This Friday, November 22, will feature play by the teams of the National League. At 3 o'clock, the Tau Chi Sigma gridders meet the Smoked Irish. At 3:40, the Chinese Social Club clashes with the Albany Bulldogs and the X.G.I. squad and the C.Y. club tangle in the finale at 4:15.

The final signups for tennis and bowling have been extended until tomorrow.

Pairings for the first round of the badminton tournament, to be completed by Thursday, November 21, have been announced by Intramural Director Tom Wilson.

First round opponents are as follows: Don Huber vs. Rane Giron; Don Huber vs. Rene Giron; ard Patcher vs. Jo Snyder; Ray Lewis vs. Walter Schroeder; Andre Schmidt vs. Peter Muller.

Doubles competition, the first round of which is also to be completed by the 21st, is as follows: D. MacGregor and J. Manning vs. C. Van Mook and Geannacopulus; W. Schroeder and J. Benson vs. L. Reader and R. Tennler.

HOLDOVER VET from last year's squad is Roland "the Deacon" Jones, who will share current pivot duty with spindly-legged Bill Kahn, 6 foot 9 inch center.—Photo by Lum.

Boxing

Drake Announces Bid To Enter Tournament

Collegiate boxing was given a shot in the arm yesterday with the announcement that Al "Duke" Drake would participate in the forthcoming Associated Men Student-Intramural boxing carnival slated for Thursday, December 12.

Drake has gone ringward four times and has emerged successful on each occasion save for last semester's heavyweight standstill with newcomer Leon Seyranian.

Sponsored by the AMS-college intramural combine, the semi-annual fistic carnival has produced an epic array of talent on each outing.

Indications of a brand new record attendance of more than 2,000 fans is foreseen by Tom Wilson, campus intramural director, who broadly hinted that "a parade of athletic talent already has been secured for the show."

Awards in the form of silver and gold miniature boxing gloves will be presented each boxer.

Preceding the boxing bouts, finals in many of the intramural sports will be held, namely basketball, table tennis, volleyball, and badminton.

Presentation of the President Cloud Perpetual Trophy will be awarded the organization compiling the highest number of points in the current intramural tournament play.

Women Badminton Players Journey To San Mateo For Play Day Clash Friday Afternoon

San Mateo Junior College will act as hosts to members of the Women's Athletic Association badminton club, Friday, November 22, according to Frances Sellipoti, president.

Arrangements for the play-day are being made by Dee Roberts, manager of the club, and Nancy Sparks, instructor.

Names of the women attending the play day will be announced in the next issue of The Guardsman, Miss Scilipoti announced.

This is the second-play-day of the semester, according to Miss Scilipoti, the first one held last Saturday at Santa Rosa with both archery and hockey clubs attending.

Women interested in playing volleyball with WAA are requested to sign up in the women's gymnasium this Thursday at 3 p.m. Miss Scilipoti added.

Organization of the club was delayed this semester in order to coincide with San Francisco State College's sport schedule, so that play days could be arranged with them, and so that hockey could be played the first half of the semester, and volley-ball the second half.

According to present plans, Miss Scilipoti said, hockey will remain on the roster, and will be played weekly by the hockey club.

"We hope that many women will take advantage of this new club," Miss Scilipoti said, "as several colleges and Junior colleges in the bay area have expressed the desire to schedule play-days with the new club."

Intramural

Lamb Quintet Still Flying High, Nabs Seventh Straight

By Art Paymiller

Garnering their seventh consecutive win, the Lamb five continued to lead the intra-mural basketball league as they handed the Los Vaqueros quint their second loss of the campaign, 54-36.

Lamb center Jim Hughes copped scoring honors once again as he dropped 16 digits through the mesh.

Paced by Dan Gee, the Chinese Social Club downed the X.G.I. cagers, 53 to 26.

Although Frank Gonzales hit 12 points for the Tigers, they were unable to cope with the Operators and went down to a hard-fought 32 to 29 loss. Jim Riley was high point man for the winners with 10 tallies.

The East Bay Trotters remained undefeated as they won an a default from the Tau Chi Sigma squad. The Poops and Ramblers also won on defaults from the Portals and Buccaneers.

Highlighting this afternoon's competition will be the game between the undefeated East Bay Trotters and the once-downed Operators at 4 o'clock. The Portals, striving for their first win of the season, will face the once victorious X.G.I. aggregation at 5 o'clock.

Following is the complete schedule for Thursday, November 21:

Scheduled for 4 o'clock:
Lambs vs. Operators.
Poops vs. Ramblers.
East Bay Trotters vs. Chinese Social Club.
Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
Los Vaqueros vs. X.G.I.
Tau Chi Sigma vs. Buccaneers.
Portals vs. Tigers.

Intra-mural Basketball Standings:

	W	L	Pct.
Lambs	7	0	1.000
East Bay Trotters	6	0	1.000
Operators	6	1	.851
Chinese Social Club	5	2	.714
Ramblers	5	2	.714
Los Vaqueros	4	2	.667
Tigers	3	4	.429
Buccaneers	2	5	.286
Tau Chi Sigma	1	6	.143
X. G. I.	1	6	.143
Poops	1	6	.143
Portals	0	7	.000

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

STEP by step San Francisco Junior College is ascending to the pinnacle of the National Junior College football ladder. She is now in the fifth slot having come out of virtually nowhere since season's beginning. Only Compton, Kilgore (Texas), Long Beach, Santa Ana rank above the Friscans.

Compton, now occupying the number one bracket, has yet to drop a decision on the gridiron this year. They have taken the measure of such powerhouses as Bakersfield, who was unbeaten going into that game. Santa Ana, previously mentioned in this column, and Long Beach, the only aggregation to mar the record of our own Rams.

Kilgore seems to be the power of the two year colleges in the East and is the probable committee choice for the coveted Rose Bowl bid. Should another eleven be chosen it looks like the Junior colleges of Cameron (Oklahoma) and Scottbluff (Nebraska) have the inside track.

Last Chance

The San Franciscans have a better than even chance to move still higher in the stratosphere of national ranking should they sweep their remaining games against Sacramento and San Mateo. Incidentally, the Ram-Panther fray coming up this Friday will be the last chance to see your heroes in action at home. They play their final contest with San Mateo on the Bulldogs' home field.

Who's Tops?

It's too bad that they don't match the top teams of the Northern California A and B leagues to decide THE team of the area. A San Francisco-Vallejo clash would be a fine drawing card billed as a post season gigantics. Although the boys from up Carquinez way have yet to drop a contest and tieing but one, the Rams could be counted on to give them a better than even struggle. A Big Boy Now.

Last week, November 13 to be exact, inter-collegiate football commemorated the 77th anniversary of said sport. Our comment: Happy birthday to you, happy birthday to you, happy birthday dear football, happy birthday to you.

Ralph Hillsman will go to any means to have the latest equipment both on and off the court this coming casaba season. One of the modern features to be installed by manager Herb Markell will be a new electric timer and a public address system to keep the fans informed on the scores and players.

Panthers Hope for Win

Sacramento, Nov. 18—Sacramento College continued hurried preparations today for its gridiron encounter against the league leading San Francisco Rams in San Francisco. The Panthers are underdogs, but Coach Earl Hoos is "still hopeful" of an upset.

Football

Fischer Line Key To Ram Victory Trail

By Bob Catudio

The fifth best junior collegian team in the nation is host to the best club in Sacramento this Friday.

Thus, the Rams again meet the likes of Sacramento College which receipted for a 13 to 6 setback exactly a month ago before 5,500 cash customers.

And again the question arises: Just how good are the Rams? And just how strong is the provincial line?

Perhaps the key to success that rides high on the shoulders of the current conference champions lies from end to end. The work of one Bill Fischer in developing the Poznekoffs, Smiths, Millers, Psaltises, and company, is due for pulpit exploitation.

Figures prove that the "Fischer line" has yielded but an average of 1.85 yards through the middle.

Marshall Leong and Tackle Don Rooker, who have been sidelined temporarily, will rejoin the townie cast today, strengthening the squad to top-lined offensiveness.

"Looks like we finally have started to click on everything," Lee Elsan gleefully entones, "and, believe me, right now, I wouldn't trade any man on the team. Yep, we have 'the team' this year."

Earl Hoos, the ex-Stanford U. running man, brings his revived Sacs into town early Friday. The Solons, fresh from a 20 to 7 upset win over San Mateo Junior College, will hurl its Pony Express backs at the locals.

Seat back Austin Brown, 145 pounds dripping wet, has won himself a veritable starting berth alongside Ray Sules, Jim Price, and Joe Kline.

Frank Sanches, Panther co-captain, who reported to practice earlier in the season complaining of a wrenched shoulder, apparently has recovered fast enough to receive plaudits for his line play in the last two circuit contests.

On the presentation of a paste-board student card you can see "the nation's fifth ranking football team" in action this Friday at 2:30 p.m. on Balboa Field.

BOARD OF STRATEGY for the locals in the being of (left to right) Quarterback George Newell, Guard Denny Miller, Lee Elsan, head man, Art Ekdall, halfback, and Tailback Staten Webster. Elsan and his mates face Sacramento College this Friday.—Photo by Lum.

Lilliputian Myth Rises Anew On Campus

Mortin Acclaimed Top Master Of Mysticism

By Hank Weiss

If there had been a Lilliput and Lilliputians, the college's Johnny Mortin, professionally known as Master Magician Ja Doo, would have probably beaten Gulliver there.

His adventures and travels, enough to triple the ordinary biography, are just two steps behind the fabled exploits of comieland's Mandrake the Magician with his zombies and cat women.

Mortin was born in London, England, at the close of the first World War. As an infant he sat in on the first bombing of London and later his parents migrated to the wilds of New Zealand where John received his secondary education.

He took an interest in professional magic and completed a correspondence course from the United States later touring the thespian circuits of New Zealand as a magician.

His travels brought him on oge occasion to the Fiji Islands where he encountered "some interesting mystic competition from the native Madrasi fire-walkers, who ambled back and forth bare footed on white hot coals."

After a brief sojourn in Australia, Mortin joined a group of anthropologists — the Denison Crockett Expedition, and set out exploring the unknowns of the South Seas.

The group left Australia in a 60 foot schooner on a tour of the Solomons and Dutch New Guinea, where in one instance Mortin's magical talents saved the day—entertaining and awing a primitive wild band of Malayan pirates that had beset the expedition.

After a series of such adventures including the 1937 earth-quake volcanic eruption at Rabaul and a sizeable battle with a China Sea typhoon, Mortin moved to Manila, married and settled down for three years.

Wanderlust prompted him to venture to the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong as an assistant freight agent for a large shipping concern. Then came the war.

Mortin made arrangements for passage to the States, and it happened . . . The Japanese siege and capture of Britain's Eastern bastion at Hong Kong.

After several months of Jap captivity (during which time he managed to attract a few more meager rice kernels into his food basket by entertaining his captors with magic) he was repatriated aboard the liner Gripsholm with many distinguished American personages including then Ambassador to Japan, Joseph Grew.

No sooner did Mortin hit the States than he was on his way baek to Hawaii, Auckland, and Australia as an agent of the Pan American Airways.

His health regained, Mortin quit his job, returned to the United States and enlisted in the U. S. Marine Corps, coming in on the tail end of Okinawa and moving on to occupy strategic parts of China—and yes you Gyrenes, Sing-Tao.

Back now with his wife at home here in San Francisco, Mortin, college student and still a master magician, busies himself as a business major working off and on in the evenings, entertaining with a large repertoire of mystifying feats whenever he is able.

One of the many interesting personages who found their way to the bay city to take advantage of the educational opportunities offered at the college.

That's Ja Doo.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

• Alpha Lambda Chi and Beta Phi Beta: A joint meeting is scheduled for both groups tomorrow night at 1625 Oakview Avenue, Oakland.

• Alpha Theta Epsilon: "The circus is coming—and it's not what you think," is the theme of the booth for the semi-annual Mardi Gras, Nov. 22.

• Beta Tau and Theta Tau: A joint meeting is scheduled for tomorrow night.

• Delta Psi: Tentative plans are being diseussed for the traditional pajama party to be held at the summer home of Lucy May Lippert, at Russian River.

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Final plans have been made for the "Remember When Dance" at the St. Francis' Colonial Room, November 27. Music will be provided by Hal Lent's orehestra.

• Kappa Phi: New pledges this semester are: Barbara Burke, Joan Fitzgerald, Carolyn Fonseca, Marvalee Fuller, Beverly Huddleson, Dolores Mazierz, Peggy McCormick, Miriam Pratt, Marie Upland, Barbara Wilke, and Nancy Wallace. Plans call for a formal initiation Nov. 30.

• XGI: Members are urged to attend a special meeting Nov. 29, in Room 1, at the War Memorial Building. The viee-president of the Standard Oil will be present to deliver a brief address. All veterans are invited and requested to bring a guest. "

FOR SALE
G-M Exposure Meter
See Charles Boehnke
Guardsman Office

Sophomores

King, Queen Photos Taken Today, Thursday

Photographs for sophomore king and queen candidates will be taken today on the west campus and Thursday, November 21, Mildred Laube, sophomore president, emphasized last week.

Applications submitted to date reveal that among the candidates are Jane Swedsen representing the Mu Iota Psi running for queen, and Pat Harris representing the Tri Epsilon for king. Miss Laube added that although more applications have been obtained they have not as yet been submitted by contestants. No further applications may now be obtained.

Voting procedure will follow previously set rules with the Associated Men Students voting for the queen and the Associated Women Students casting their ballots for the king. All voters must possess an Associated Student card, Miss Laube stated.

Tri Epsilon Sponsors Thanksgiving Dance

Touching off the Thanksgiving holidays will be the Tri Epsilon Remember When dance in the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel, Wednesday evening, November 27, Don Burger, president of the fraternity, announced.

With dancing from 9 p.m. until 2 a.m., the affair will be informal and to the music of Hal Lent and his orchestra.

Theme for the dance came from the veterans who were overseas when many songs became popular. These pieces will be played in sets so that the boys can "remember when."

Administration

William Olsen Reaches Campus Locale From Stanford; Top Vet Director Here

By Arnold Wechter

One of the many conveniences offered to veterans here is the campus office of the Veterans' Administration, which is located at building three on the west campus.

The function of the office is to serve all veterans who are studying at the college, especially those who are taking advantage of Federal legislation.

The office is under the direction of William I. Olsen, a native San Franciscan. He received his masters degree at Stanford University.

After graduating from the "Farm" he taught social studies and counseled at Los Gatos schools, one of his pupils during this period being the now famous actress, Olivia DeHavilland.

At the outbreak of the war he entered the Army, serving in the Adjutant Generals' Department as a Captain in the personnel and classification section.

Upon his discharge, Olsen joined the Veterans' Administration, first serving as training officer at the University of California Medical Center before being transferred here to replace Richard Dettering as senior training officer.

He is unmarried and lives in Burlingame.

Mu Iota Psi Dance Tomorrow in Lounge

Mu Iota Psi Society stages its initial dance of the semester tomorrow in the west campus student lounge in an effort to "obtain donations for the purchase of ornaments with which to decorate a campus Christmas tree."

The dance, an off-the-record event, will be held from 11 to 3 p.m., according to Helen Setalov, group committee chairman.

Others on the society committee include Madeline Le Fond, Howie Lum, and Faculty Advisers Madison Devlin, Flossita Badger, and Gertrude Norgard.

Band Money Request Hit By Controller

Rejection of a music department request of $3,500 for the purchase of uniforms for the college band highlighted a Thursday afternoon meeting of the Student Council.

Refusal to approve the bid submitted by Madison Devlin, music and band instructor, was accomplished because of a lack of funds in the student reserve, according to Jack Brady, assistant dean of men.

Announcement was also made concerning the formation of a United California Junior College Presidents' Council slated for a Saturday, November 30, gathering in Salinas.

Dean Haug and Nancy Cunningham, student president and vice-president, and Dean Edward Sandys will attend the meet.

Music

Top Flight Musical Talent Secured For Christmas Concert

By Mel Hansen

Backed by an array of top flight musical talent, the collegiate curtain goes up in a matter of days heralding the presentation of the annual Christmas concert, first performance being given Friday, December 6, in the west campus auditorium.

Numerous talented campus criers will be sharing the kleiglight.

Elmer Dickey, former student of Fisk University in Tennessee, is the man that sings in the lower register and has been favorably compared to the great Paul Robeson.

Dickey has appeared in various operas, including The Marriage of Figaro and Hansel and Gretel. The bass singer appeared locally at the recent song rally and was received enthusiastically.

Madeline La Fond, a soprano, also sang at the song rally for her first appearance here and, as in the case of Dickey, was warmly received.

In her first semester here, Miss La Fond was graduated from Our Lady of Victory High School, where she appeared in important roles in two operettas, The Gypsy Rover and Huida of Holland.

Lois Smith, another soprano, completed high school in Santa Rosa and is in her first semester here.

Miss Smith has been featured at recitals and has sung the role of Anna in the production, Merry Wives of Winsor, performed at Stanford University.

Soprano Jane Swendsen, ex-University High student, is a fourth semester student and the president of the Music Club.

She sang with the Russian Opera Company and while with this organization appeared in two major presentations, Snow Maiden and Prince Igor.

Bob Sherrat, who sings baritone, is from Mission High School, where he sang the male lead in the operetta Pinafore.

WARSHAWSKI'S
Since 1922
DRY GOODS STORE
FURNISHINGS, SHOES
6340 Mission Street
Daly City, California
DElaware 0231

B and J
BEACON GAS STATION
CORNER OCEAN AVENUE AT PLYMOUTH
COURTEOUS SERVICE
FACILITIES FOR
EXPERT TIRE RECAPPING
— CARS SERVICED WHILE YOU ATTEND CLASSES —

BENNY'S
RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—RAndolph 9632

What is a CAREER?

Webster defines a career as a course of continued progress in the life of a person; a pursuit of consecutive, progressive achievement.

Dictionary definitions mean but little until applied to you and your future. The question of what a career means to you can only be answered by yourself, but here is a worthwhile suggestion. The Emporium now has many interesting, well-paying opportunities in Retailing careers. Come in today to the Employment Office, Gallery Floor, or inquire at the Employment Booth, Main Floor—The Emporium would like to discuss these opportunities with you.

The Emporium
SAN FRANCISCO'S SHOPPING CENTER • 835 MARKET STREET

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1946 No. 17

College Hour Schedule
9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

Thanksgiving

Classes, Guardsman Stop For Holiday

Classes will not meet Thanksgiving day, next Thursday, or Friday, according to the college calendar. Classes will be resumed on the regular schedule the following Monday, December 2.

Because of the coming holidays, this is the last issue of The Guardsman until Friday, December 6.

The original Guardsman budget request called for the regular edition next Tuesday, November 26. A second budget request, cutting the November 26 and a paper the last week of classes in January, from the schedule, was the one accepted by the Student Council.

The second midterm period ends Friday, December 6, with classes closing for the Christmas vacation Friday, December 13. The Guardsman will appear in its regular editions Friday, December 6, and Tuesday, December 10.

This is the first year in several that the college has not held classes the day after Thanksgiving.

Future Rembrandts

Art Students Paint Local, City Scenes

By Doris Hall

Rembrandt, Gainsborough, Corot, Van Dyke, Da Vinci—such geniuses as these, some day to make their mark in the world, are blooming under the supervision of Richard Allman, art instructor at the college.

Fifty such aspirants, working in oils and water color, paint scenes around the campus, such as the vegetable gardens and hillsides, as well as scenes around the city. Points of interest in San Francisco's art paradise, visited by the groups, include Chinatown, Fisherman's Wharf, Golden Gate Park, and the Police Department horse corral in Balboa Park.

College art students who are members of the art society, Alpha Delta Epsilon, show their best works each spring in the Paul Elder galleries. Students become members automatically when they attain a B grade in the art courses.

Each semester a dinner is held by the club, to introduce to members their elected officers.

Officers of the honor society are Gene Hargens, president; Nadan Chileduax, vice-president; Barbara Fong, corresponding secretary; Ruth Anderson, secretary; Bill Weiner, treasurer, and Art Franzer, Club Advisory Board representative.

Associated Men Students

15 Campus Clubs Sponsor Booths At Mardi Gras Tonight; King Neptune To Appear Before Costume Clad Audience

With a festive air of color coupled with such outstanding features as the appearance of royalty, in the person of King Neptune, the second presentation of the Mardi Gras, sponsored by the Associated Men Students, will make its appearance in the west campus auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.

Beginning with dancing to the music of Howard Fredericks and his orchestra, some fifteen college organizations are destined to display their talent for showmanship in the form of entertainment booths. The fete promises to be one of the highlights of this semester's student activities.

Attractive booths will be operated by college organizations, including Beta Tau, Theta Tau, Chinese Club, Beta Phi, Phi Beta Rho, Hotel and Restaurant Division, Delta Psi, Alpha Gamma Sigma, Alpha Lamba Chi, Kappa Phi, Pi Mu Gamma, Mu Iota Psi, Alpha Theta Epsilon, Tri Epsilon, and the XGI Society.

The Mardi Gras committee members include Steve Kritikakos, Roy Barnett, Jane Doran, Janet Cain, Mildred Laube, Nancy Ruttencutter, Bill Riley, Bob Winegardner, and Jim Edwards, with publicity and posters handled by Jo Ellen Cain and Kritikakos. In charge of the entire affair is Bill Holmes, Associated Men Student president.

Holmes promised a gala evening surpassing even last semester's presentation. The Spring Mardi Gras proved a triumphal success, but the Fall presentation offers possible competition even to the original New Orleans annual classic, Holmes said.

Entrance is by Associated Student card, and everyone must appear in costume with a penalty of having to face a Kangaroo Court if this motif is not followed, Holmes said.

Alpha Theta Epsilon

Club Starts Gift DriveNextMonday

Expected to be backed wholeheartedly by the XGI Society, the Christmas gift drive of Alpha Theta Epsilon is slated to begin Monday, November 25, and end Wednesday, December 11.

Gifts, collected for hospitalized servicemen, will be distributed in the hospitals by the Red Cross.

The gifts, games, wallets, cigarettes, playing cards, combs, razor blades and other small articles, will be wrapped by the Alpha Theta Epsilon members before distribution.

The XGI Society, according to Frances Mount, of the Home Economics department, has suggested to the group a collection of money by various other college clubs for the purchase of a movie projector for one of the hospitals.

Helen Tanner, president of the club, expressed the wish that all clubs at the college will cooperate in this campaign.

Gift Box in Main Hall

A gift box is to be placed in the main hall for all students who wish to contribute to some G.I.'s Merry Christmas.

Another Alpha Theta Epsilon project was the recent cheering of lonely G.I.'s, "foster children of the college," who make their home in one of the former WAVE Barracks. This was achieved last evening when Alpha Theta Epsilon and hostess group members of the home economics department entertained at a spaghetti dinner and dance.

Dean Edward E. Sandys, who promoted the affair, suggested to Miss Mount that the women sponsor a series of social events for the G. I.'s living on the West Campus.

Dance Follows

The buffet spaghetti feed, held in the student lounge, was followed by dancing to the strains of famous bands of the time, via the juke box.

Autumn, the theme for the evening, was carried out by Chairman Tanner and Norma Johnson of the hostess group.

Tri Epsilon Schedules Lent Orchestra For Remember When Dance At St. Francis Nov. 27

Sentimental songs will be the feature of the Remember When dance to be held in the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel Wednesday evening, November 27, Allan Butler, dance chairman for the Tri-Epsilon fraternity, announced yesterday.

Music, beginning at 9 p.m. and concluding at 1 a.m., will be furnished by Hal Lent and his orchestra for the informally attired dancers who can afford the norminal admission fee of two dollars. The no corsage rule will be in effect.

"The theme of the dance is "remember when," so that old songs which were popular during the war years will bring back fond memories of happenings which occurred at that time," Butler said.

Hal Lent and his orchestra were chosen for this dance because of the tremendous success of last semester's Harvey Hop, which also featured Lent and his orchestra.

Entertainment will be provided during the intermissions by a three-piece orchestra, unannounced specialty acts, and some novelty records by Danny Kaye.

Members of the Tri Epsilon fraternity will be found around and about the campus vending tickets for the dance. To this date approximately 200 tickets have been sold, but the sponsors hope that all 400 tickets which were printed will be bought before the night of the dance.

Music

Faculty Offspring Lead Yule Concerts

Selection of the candle bearers for the annual Christmas concerts presented by the college music department Friday, December 6, and Tuesday, December 10, was announced this week by Flossita Badger, director.

Susan Wilson, daughter of Associated Men Student advisor Tom Wilson, and Assistant Dean John Brady's son, Jack, have been chosen to take part in this year's ceremony.

Appropriately attired in miniature investments, the children of the two faculty members will be following established tradition in leading the processional in the impressive program planned, Miss Badger said.

Placement

Post Office Age Mimimum17Years

Students who are 17 years of age and desire to work in the post office during the Christmas holidays are urged to report to the placement office here immediately. The age requirement of 18 years to work in the post office has been waived, Joseph Amori, placement officer, announced Tuesday.

Jobs in the post office pay $1.04 an hour and $1.14 after 6 p.m.

To date the office has placed more than 800 students in the post office, with the ratio five to one in favor of the men.

All jobs for the holiday season for the department stores are filled, but there are still some jobs available in specialty shops, Amori said.

An exceptional job opportunity is available to a secretary who desires part time work for a nationally known sporting goods firm. The work entails full-time work during the holiday season and may turn into a full-time job.

Those students who signed up for resort jobs will be notified of all details, Amori added.

College Hour

Garay, Grid Stars Perform Today At West Campus Rally

With Al Moffatt, rally commissioner, as emcee, Joaquin Garay, Copacabana star, will lead the parade of star-spangled entertainment scheduled for the pre-game rally showing this morning, during the college hour in front of the west campus auditorium, weather permiting.

Intended to instill spirit for the grid clash with the Sacramento City College Panthers, the rally will also bill Howard Crouch as singing star, accompanied by Roland Jones at the piano, in their version of the popular song, I Know. Both musicians are members of the Ram football team.

Crouch, organizer of the quartet which was formally billed to give an "Ink Spot imitation," said that the group of musicians will be unable to perform at the rally.

Musicians composing the college band will top the scheduled program with lively renditions of mettlesome music. The Ram band will also make an appearance at the afternoon game, the scene of which has been changed from Balboa Field to the college field, located near the men's gymnasium.

The college hour program until January calls for the music department's Christmas concert on the campus Friday, December 6, when excerpts from the annual Christmas festival at the Veterans' Auditorium will be presented, and club meetings Friday, December 13.

Radio Engineer Group Elects Officers Today

Seeking the approval of the Club Advisory Board to obtain a charter, the Radio Engineering Society, organized by Lloyd Nordwick, radio engineering student and sponsored by E. M. Sheldon, college instructor, will meet today to elect officers.

The society hopes to take over operation of college sound equipment and make available a maintenance service for the equipment, according to Nordwiek.

28 Strong Men's Chorus In First Appearance Dec. 6

THE APPROACHING CHRISTMAS CONCERTS, the first of which will be given Friday, December 6, in the west campus auditorium previewing the downtown performance, to be presented Tuesday evening, December 10, in the Veterans' Auditorium, will mark the first appearance of the newly organized college Men's Chorus under the direction of Flossita Badger.

The program of selections to be presented has been completed, Miss Badger said yesterday.

They include O Little Town of Bethlehem, with Bob Sherratt, a newcomer to the college, as soloist; Deck the Halls, Welsh Carol and The Three Kings, by Bizet. This program will be repeated at the festival performance—off-campus.

The chorus meets as a class twice a week in Room 28, and carries one unit of credit. It works under "physical" handicaps similarly encountered by the drama class which is currently preparing a production of Black Flamingo in the same room. Despite Room 28's "bouncing echo," with which the men compete, Miss Badger said yesterday that they are developing into a fine band of lusty music makers.

Pictured above from left to right beginning with the first row, are 21 members of the 28 strong group: Wayne Green, Tony Jue, Robert Sherrett, Elbert Priddy, Leon Sher; second row, Richard Maurer, Gordan Nelson, Henry Cravotto, Robert Posey, Williem Kenna, Robert Genger, Colin Koseck, Kenneth Schildt, librarian; back row, Charles Smith, Al Tura, Melvin Ryan, John Simons, Richard Hunter, Edward Engle, Freng Dolezal, and Charles Boehnke. —Photo by Lum.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 17 Friday, November 22, 1946 Page 2

One-hoss Shay

A Farewell To Shuttles

HERE we go again!

Last year in time for the rainy season, the city fathers decreed that the shuttle bus be used for the supposed convenience of junior college students. That was bad enough, trying to squeeze a full load from one of the regular sized buses onto the shrunken miniature.

Now, authorities have issued another order. We still don't have the use of the big bus, and the one we have will no longer be routed up the hill.

Instead, the groaning caterpillar is being sent cavorting around Ocean Avenue for the accommodation of Ingleside residents.

It is all well and good to make life a little easier for the San Francisco residents, but in their anxiety to do this, the Municipal Railway officials should not lose sight of the fact that the bus was originally designated for the college.

The people who are now profiting by the change, which allows them a connection to the 10th Avenue bus, live near the K street car line, thus having direct transportation downtown.

Must students walk up and down the hill in the rain so that the people of Ingleside can take the long way home? Instead of sitting back and taking this, we should do something about it while the iron is still hot.

We have found by sad experience that a petition will do no good, therefore, it is up to the powers that be in the college, backed by the Associated Students, to go to the bat for us and do something constructive, immediately.

Ford

After Dark

RHUBARB by H. Allen Smith is still skyrocketing in sales throughout America. The plot is typically Smithsonian and involves an eccentric old man, Thad Banner, who wills his baseball team, The New York Loons, to his ferocious, and equally eccentric cat, Rhubarb.

You will definitely knock yourself out as you read of the fantastic, hilarious antics of this queer cat, who not only defeats Banner's bobby-sox daughter in a law suit, but spurs his ballteam on to a World Series Pennant. A strange and motely assortment of erratic characters tramp through the pages of this best of Smith's humorous contributions to American letters. He is also the author of Low Man On A Totem Pole, Life In A Putty Knife Factory, Lost In The Horse Latitudes, and Desert Island Decameron. Please consider Rhubarb a don't miss on your reading list.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the classic movie, St. Francis of Assisi, will be presented at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor. It is a biographical cinema interpretation of the life of Saint Francis. The following week, November 30, at the same time, the Legion will present another film classic, Foreign Correspondent, starring Joel McCrea, Lorraine Day, and Herbert Marshall. An interesting fact about this two week series: IT'S FREE!

While on the subject of film classics, those of you that are interested should keep a weather beaten eye on the ole' town's movie schedules. There has been a whole wave of masterpieces of the past passing through. Several Sundays ago, Orson Welles' Citizen Kane passed through, en route to Zanadu for a special performance. The Plainsman, The Male Animal, Lives of a Bengal Laneer, Ghost Breakers (with ski chute Hope), No Time For Comedy, Gaslight, City For Conquest, and that rip-roarin', gun-totin', hog-laig-slingin', bronco-bustin', bacon-fryin', pancake-sizzlin', rag-bumpin', shot-ringin', cow-punchin', bandit-chasin', tag-riffin' (you figure that one out!), lariat-throwin', Ralston-eatin', western film classic, Rough Riders of Cheyenne, starring daring, dauntless, five minute cream of wheat eaten, William Carson, King of the Cowboys, Indians, Tennessee Valley Authority, CAB, Yellow Cab Company, and UN Site-Location-Committee-Head.

• • •

It is more difficult to organize peace than war; but the fruits of victory in war will be lost if the peace is not well organized.—Aristotle, quoted in Alexander of Macedon by Harold Lamb.

• • •

Truth is the secret of eloquence and virtue, the basis of moral authority; it is the highest summit of art and of life.

Around And About

with Nagle

THROUGHOUT the halls of the college, literally millions of small favors have been granted to the student body as a whole, but does any one ever rush into Doctor Cloud and thank him for them. No! So during this Thanksgiving season, let's be grateful for a few of the poor forgotten items.

The silver pole in the center of the first floor corridor should definitely come first on this list.

If it weren't for the silver pole, where would one student meet another student? With 2,600 students planning to meet the other 2,600 at the silver pole between classes, friendships are begun, dates are made, dance tickets are sold. Who knows, a marriage license branch office may set up shop near the pole any semester now.

LECTURE DRYNESS RELIEVED

The water fountains are a great asset to the college and certainly all thirsty folk are very thankful for a drop of lukewarm water after listening to some dry lecture.

But the distilled water in the same fountain is really something to be thankful for. Just think of the car batteries that can be made re-useable because of this distilled water faucet.

The inter-communication phone system is another "thankful" item. But, if these phones were outside phones, think how much more thankful everyone would be. Students during the lecture lull could take the little black book to the phone and really get busy.

PAVEMENT SUBSTITUTION

Although the pavement smatteringly covering the walk from the West Campus to the main building is far from being the acme of foot paths, just think of how it would be with a pure clay covering. So what, if there are holes . . . or if occasionally the dirt gives way with you sliding along with it. The pavement there is still better than pure, unadulterated mud.

Flossita Badger's painted five line musical staff in Room 200 should be added, too. Imagine the time wasted if Miss B. had to draw five lines every time she wanted to draw a whole or half note.

Just stop, look, and listen while making your way through the silver pole maze, and you'll find all sorts of "things to be thankful for" this Thanksgiving season.

STANDBY

ANOTHER member of the faculty hits the limelight this week. CARL BEETZ, art anatomy instructor, has an exhibit at the San Francisco Museum of Art. This exhibit consists of lithographs. Trekking down to see this exhibit on Tuesday evening were the members of the Art Society of the college, the KAPPA ALPHA SIGMAS. They also saw a classic motion picture, entitled, The Goelem.

Beware, men! If you have any gripes or are discontented, be careful what you say. CPL. GRANT BARTON is attending the college but in a dual role he is employed by the United States Army Recruiting Service. He is Uncle Sam's liasson man. So, beware! A word to the wise should be sufficient.

JAN MERRILL, who was registered here at one time as JEANNE VELLGUTH in 1941, is still booked along the New-York night club scene.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Apartment Soon Available, No Pianists Please

THIS will come as sad news to anyone enrolled in music classes but it's beginning to look like that old chestnut about " . . . they laughed when I sat down to play" is all too true.

Every child born in these United States is technically eligible for the Chief Executive's job sooner or later, and some have been known to make it. College piano players can throw in the towel as of now however, especially if they're familiar with the first chorus of the Missouri Waltz.

It's a tough situation all right but the fact remains—presidential timber is not to be found any more within music appreciation classes.

RADIO'S FUTURE SECURE

If the split between the executive and judicial branches of government does nothing else for the country it has saved the future of all radio comedians by providing them with a wealth of greatly needed material.

Between Harry's piano playing and the big separation in the ranks resulting from the last election the nation's comics have all the stuff ready-written all the way into 1948.

Radio scripts need only to be slightly rehashed and all the old gags about saxophone players will be altered to fit the hapless piano player of today.

PAPERHANGERS KAPUT

Through process of elimination the satirists of the air have completely eliminated members of several fields from ever aspiring to public office.

It's getting so a guy has to be plenty careful about his background and make sure that paperhanging and piano playing isn't among his accomplishments.

Paperhanging was a respectable profession until an Austrian apprentice named Shickelgruber, or something like that, made good in a big way. Now it is generally agreed that no ex-wallpaper draper will ever become president of these forty-eight sovereign states and the assorted number of territories in the outlying precincts of the globe.

NEXT PRES. TO HAVE TIN EAR

Pianists are now receiving the like treatment and when the wits exhaust their supply of gags no public servant will dare seat himself before an ivory keyboard, and the piano will join the sax in social status.

Any comparison between Adolf and Harry ends right there; it was just a case of a skeleton in each closet coming out, one slinging plaster and the other musically inclined; leaning a bit to old fashioned waltzes.

Maybe it will all be for the best in the long run. Music does have its points but there is always the underlying threat of Spike Jones getting elected on a Music Depreciation ticket.

Anything's possible with radio holding such an influence over the land and it's a cinch Spike's arrangement of the Missouri Waltz would outsell anything Truman has yet recorded for posterity.

Remisch

Hilltop Manner

IF the students who daily trek to the top of our beloved hill were to visit it on a Saturday or Sunday, they might think something new had been added.

On the normally deserted terrain on the right hand side of the path leading down to Athletic Gulch may be found, almost any weekend morning or afternoon, entire families from the neighborhood. They come to work on their victory gardens which they have had planted since the first year of the war.

Supervision of their labors is under the jurisdiction of the college floriculture department. Although the war is ended, these people have become so interested in their "back to the soil" movement that they plan to continue their agricultural activities until, presumably, the hillside just gives up.

The division of floriculture here has several additional off-campus activities on its list. Students of landscape gardening and plant propogation serve as the "vegetators" in several grammar and high schools (not necessarily within the students minds) about the city.

Many of them have entered their own businesses, owning both nurseries and flowershops. Others have gone on to various universities and colleges, graduation from which has opened their way to even more diversified branches of the field.

Since a great deal of the work ealls for some physical labor, the greatest demand for workers in agricultural and floriculture is for men. Women, however, have made successful inroads in positions in flower shops, in floral arrangements, and corsage and spray making.

This is perhaps one occupation where women can be purely artistic and the men can, literally, be "down to earth."

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Students Justify West Campus Parking Permits And Ask For More Lockers

• Auto Park Maze

Editor, The Guardsman:

Much discussion and debate has been carried on recently in regard to the parking situation on the west campus. Most students seem to think it unfair that parking be allowed only to certain individuals.

At the present time, there is ample parking space. It will probably remain that way for a time, but as the semester continues a necessity will arise for more and more cars to be parked on the grounds. If the space was not limited to those who have a right to the parking areas, there would be one grand mess. Can you imagine the situation at lunch time? Everyone will want to drive his car to the west campus and the maze of traffic will really be something to see.

There is no reason why a student cannot have a parking permit for his car if he has an authentic reason, but to just hand one out at any time for any reason will leave the ones who really need the space out. For instance, there are many who live in the dormitories who own cars and have no place to park them other than Ocean Avenue or thereabouts. Also there are students who have jobs to attend to on the west campus and it's only right that they be allowed to have a parking space for their cars.

It would be a very good idea, I believe, if the college in some way could have some of the empty space around the campus paved for parking.

Most likely something like this will be done in the near future to relieve the parking situation, but until then there is enough space to take care of the cars without use of the west campus parking area.

John Bayler

• Dance Could Obtain Funds

Editor, The Guardsman:

There is a drastic shortage of lockers here at the college. With winter coming on we will all be burdened with excess clothing, etc. There are many war surplus lockers to be obtained. There should be a way to obtain funds for a cause such as this. Perhaps a dance could be given to raise funds for such a purpose. If such a dance was given, I'm sure it would be a great success.

Jackie Miller

Guardsman Staff—
Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR.....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lejeunesse, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Froodman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wachter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Henk Weiss, Doris Hall.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lewson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldmen.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

GENTLEMEN with revenge on their minds—Neil Bossemeyer and Tackle Dick Slade, top gendarmes of the San Mateo Junior College Bulldog "police force." The Rams face the Mateans Saturday, November 30, at Mateo's McConville Field at 2:15 p. m. But there's football on the agenda today for the locals, meaning Sacramento College on Balboa Field at 2:30 p. m. —Photo by Wechter.

Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 17 FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1946 Page 3

Football

Rams Face Sacs, Weatherman

By Bob Catudio

Assured of its first grid title since 1940, the nation's fifth ranking football power — the Rams, of course — meets pint-sized Sacramento College on the college practice field today at 2:30 p.m.

Hampered by a barrage of rain-soaked scrimmage sessions this week, the locals are still top-lined favorites to turn back the Sacs for a second time this season.

"Sacramento will be tough. They always are," Lee Elsan, the prodigal tutor, boomed. "Let's hope we're not too over confident for this one today."

The townies, thanks to a two week's rest cure, will be at full strength for the first time this campaign. The once injured Marshall Leong, Don Rooker and Ken Schuchard will be available for duty.

Solons Rough and Able

Sacramento has come along at a rapid pace in the last two weeks, having disposed of Salinas Junior College and San Mateo Junior College by scores of 32 to 0, and 20 to 7.

Seat back Austin Brown and veteran Roy Sules, the loop's leading scorer, have combined their talents to add offensive luster to a potent "Pony Express" backfield.

Quarterback Staten Webster. Lum photo.

Not that the provincials are the toughest club in the conference, but they have wreaked havoc against the opposition in six straight outings.

"This is by far the most powerful and best balanced club I've ever coached," Elsan unhesitatingly admits, "the line play has been excellent and we're forunate in having a deceptive backfield."

Threat of rain may force the Elsans to stick to the ground, a division of attack at which they are most proficient. And never having had the opportunity to work under pressure, the locals are indeed a strange lot of artists in mayhem.

Threat of Rain

The weatherman, accused of playing tricks all week, has forecast threatening weather for this afternoon's outing and attendance may be slashed to a mere pittance.

Noteworthy topic of discussion favoring the Rams is the rejuvenated speed and chalkmark ballet stepping of one Staten Webster who has disowned the monicker of "One Play Webster."

Acutely shallow in reserves at one time, the provincials are now backed by a commendable second team unit which showed its offensive genius during the last half of the recent Modesto Junior College fray.

Basketball

Christmas Holidays Hamper Rams' Cage Scrimmage Sessions

By Sam Goldman

Indecision of a tentative starting lineup continued to plague the Ram cage production yesterday as Ralph Hillsman sent his charges into a hurried two hour practice session.

Since no final decision as to the starting fives for the Ram or Lamb squads will be made until mid-December, Hillsman admitted "the boys did show signs of progress in their first game against the San Francisco Marines," and it would be a puzzler for him to select his leading quintet for the coming cage season.

The ex-University of California star stressed that the player reduction recently made did not set the permanent squads for the Rams.

"The signup for players is still continuing. The elimination of certain men from the first turnout does not necessarily contend that the squad will remain at its present status."

Prior to the coming holiday recess, the Rams will brush hips, elbows, and knees against the following quintets:

Nov. 30—Stanford Reserves—6:45 p.m.—Oakland Auditorium (Pre.—Stanford vs. Oak. Bittners game.)

Dec. 5—Olympic Club—8:15 p.m. (Here)—J.V.'s—6:45 p.m.

Dec. 11—S.F.A.C.—8:15 p.m. (Here) J.V.'s—6:45 p.m.

Dec. 20—California Blues—6:45 p.m.—Berkeley (Pre. California vs. Illinois game.)

The Rams will also play host to their cross-bay neighbors, Marin Junior College, Tuesday, November 26. However, both quintets will "only scrimmage" against each other and it is expected that a game between both colleges will be arranged at a later date.

Panthers Vs. Rams

41 Warren Bryant	LER	Jim Cronn 15
67 Ray Connally	LTR	Glen Smith 88
57 Frank Cuffee	LGR	Denny Miller 19
59 Tom Armstrong	C	John Didio 22
55 Frank Sanches (C)	RGL	Stan Belcher 9
62 Nick Doudnik	RTL	Glenn Hofmann 66
61 Steve Orisek	REL	Ray Poznekoff 8
43 John Macias	Q	Staten Webster 7
44 Joe Kline	LHR	Carter Corey 18
37 Roy Sules	RHL	(C) Art Ekdall 12
70 Jim Price	F	Marshall Leong 25

SACRAMENTO ROSTER
1 Rhoades, Jack, c; 3 Vasquez, Jesse, h; 4 Sloss, Bob, f; 5 Sherman, Glen, f; 6 Dorian, Jim, h; 10 Coffe, Marshall, q; 11 Avila, Joe, e; 13 Covich, Jug, e; 14 Akins, John, c; 18 Schwagel, Eddie, f; 19 Watzel, Robert, h; 24 Lopez, Bernard, e; 25 Wold, Casper, q; 27 Moore, Bill, q; 28 Nelder, Ralph, h; 29 Beith, John, f; 33 Foster, Rollin, q; 36 Olwell, Bob, e; 37 Sules, Roy, h; 39 Rose, Bob, e; 40 Hall, LaVerne, h; 41 Bryant, Warren, e; 42 Gwinn, Dick, f; 43 Macias, John, h; 44 Kline, Joe, h; 45 Whitfield, Art, e; 46 Thomas, Elmer, q; 47 Mello, Frank, c; 48 Green, Roy, q; 49 Deliveri, Frank, h; 50 Martinelli, Nick, q; 51 Chambers, Ralph, e; 52 Stephens, Allen, e; 53 Rugaard, Butler, f

SAN FRANCISCO ROSTER
1 White, Ken, q; 2 Alaimo, John, e; 3 Grant, Don, q; 4 Greene, Jim, h; 7 Webster, Staten, q; 8 Rainey, John, h; 8 Ponnatoff, Ray, e; 9 Belcher, Sten, q; 10 Henry, Mack, e; 12 Ekdall, Art, h; 13 Newell, George, q; 14 Orsein, Sterling, e; 15 Cronn, Jim, e; 16 Cavender, Robert, h; 17 Crouch, Howard, f; 18 Corey, Carter, h; 19 Miller, Danny, q; 20 Slattery, Wilfred, h; 21 Psaltis, Art, f; 22 Didio, Johnny, c; 23 Woodworth, Bob, h; 24 Stern, Roland, e; 25 Leong, Marshall, f; 26 Dofur, Paul, f; 31 Swanson, Lan, c; 33 Drake, Al, f; 34 Hardeman, Stanford, h; 35 Ihle, Walter, f; 38 Bless, Isadore, f; 38 Collischonn, Phil, e; 41 Cassidy, William, f; 44 Megenesis, George, q; 45 Johnson, Dick, c; 55 Schuchard, Ken, c; 66 Hofmes, Glenn, f; 77 Rooker, Don, f; 88 Smith, Glen, f; Castro, Manuel, h; Kyle, Kermit, f; Lanthier, John, g; Williams, Otis, f; 54 Brown, Austin, h; 55 Sanches, Frank, q; 56 Ernst, Lane, c; 57 Cuffee, Frank, q; 58 Edmonds, Art, e; 59 Armstrong, Tom, c; 61 Orisek, Steve, e; 62 Doudnik, Nick, t; 63 Stathos, George, q; 64 Lyons, Sam, h; 65 Coury, John, h; 66 Piacentini, Nick, q; 67 Connelly, Ray, t; 68 Simmermacher, Howard, f; 70 Price, Jim, f; 71 Starles, Jim, f

WAA

Badminton Group To Face Mateans

Eleven women have signified their desire to attend the badminton play-day to be held at San Mateo Junior College this afternoon, according to Dee Roberts, manager of the Women's Athletic Association Badminton Club.

Women comprising the six doubles and three singles teams, who plan to make the trip, are: Frances Scilipoti, Alma Pucci, Nan Conover, Betty Howard, Annette Low, Jackie Cohen, Fritz Werden, Florence Brackovich, Pat Watkins, Leona de Bique, and Miss Roberts. Gloria Swiecegood, adviser, and Nancy Sparks, instructor for the group, will also attend.

As San Mateo Junior College is also desirous of playing badminton with a co-ed team from the college, Miss Roberts requested that any men desiring to take part in co-ed badminton play-days at various colleges in the area contact either their own coaches, or any women's physical education instructor in the women's gymnasium.

Members of the badminton club from San Francisco State College will be guests of the WAA here, Tuesday, November 26, for another play-day. Although no definite word has yet been received, it is expected that San Francisco State College will send teams of doubles and single players to compete with the above named WAA players, Miss Roberts said.

Weather Forecast Today

Possible showers will occur this afternoon, clearing skies tomorrow. Slight northeasterly winds. Temperature 52 degrees.

NCJCC Grid Standings

	W	L	PS	PA	Pct.
San Francisco	5	0	112	31	1.000
Sacramento	3	2	83	33	.600
San Mateo	3	2	47	74	.600
Modesto	2	4	45	77	.333
Salinas	0	4	12	76	.000

Intramural

Lamb Cagers Score Eighth Consecutive Tourney Win; Jim Hughes Paces Club

By Art Paymiller

Fighting to retain their undefeated status, the Lambs gained undisputed possession of first place in the intramural basketball tournament last Thursday as they handed the East Bay Trotters their first loss of the campaign, 70 to 34.

The Chinese Social Club retained their slight chance for the title as they nipped the Tigers, 43 to 37, in a spectacular battle.

The XGI cagers won their second tilt of the season by virtue of a default from the Buccaneers. The Rambler, Operator, and Los Vaqueros fives remained in contention for the crown as they gained default victories from the Poops, Tau Chi Sigma and Portal Squads.

After six rounds of play, Hughes leads the scoring parade with 196 tallies. Following are the top ten in the race for scoring honors:

Hughes (Lambs), 196; O'Neil (Lambs), 119; Gee (Chinese Social Club), 93; Hartman (Lambs), 78; Turner (Lambs), 71; Johnson (Tigers), 69; Buccierelli (Ramblers), 63; Kenna (Lambs), 61; Lum (Chinese Social Club), 60; Broderson (Los Vaqueros), 56.

Intramural basketball activity ends Monday afternoon with the playing of the final round.

The second slot Operators tangle with the twice defeated Chinese Social Club in what should be a close battle at 4 o'clock.

The Portals, yet to break into the win column, will face the once victorious Tau Chi Sigma five in the battle for the cellar position at 5 o'clock.

Following is the complete schedule for the final round:

Scheduled for 4 o'clock:
Lambs vs. Ramblers.
Operators vs Chinese Social Club.
Poops vs. XGI.
Scheduled for 5 o'clock:
East Bay Trotters vs. Buccaneers.
Los Vaqueros vs. Tigers.
Tau Chi Sigma vs. Portals.

Intramural Basketball Standings

Team—	W.	L.	Pct.
Lambs	8	0	1.000
Operators	7	1	.875
East Bay Trotters	6	1	.857
Ramblers	6	2	.750
Chinese Social Club	6	2	.750
Los Vaqueros	5	2	.714
Tigers	3	5	.375
Buccaneers	2	6	.250
XGI	2	6	.250
Poops	1	7	.125
Tau Chi Sigma	1	7	.125
Portals	0	8	.000

Rose Bowl Bid Given Compton College Team

COMPTON, Nov. 21.— Compton College was yesterday officially named to represent the West in the December 7 "Little Rose Bowl" clash, according to the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce, co-sponsors of the game.

The Tarters, backed by eight straight wins without a loss, were reportedly seeking Kligore, Texas, Junior College as an opponent. Other eastern teams still in the running include Trinidad, Colo., and undefeated Scottbluff, Neb.

Compton's selection came "as no surprise" in most circles since its number one junior collegian ranking of several weeks ago.

Boxing

Fistic Prelims Set For Monday Evening

Preliminary bouts for the forthcoming Associated Men Students-Intramural boxing carnival will be conducted Monday night in the men's gymnasium, first contest starting at 7 p.m.

All contestants are "urgently requested" to appear, Tom Wilson, intramural director, declared yesterday.

Participants who are unable to comply with the coming Monday date are urged to notify Wilson in the men's physical education office "as soon as possible."

Al "Duke" Drake, 210 pound ex-Commerce High School performer, has already signified his intention of taking part in the coming fistic carnival, and will defend his heavyweight title for the fifth semester.

Drake, in his lone post-war appearance here, was held to a draw by Leon Seyranian, the majority of ringsiders agreeing otherwise.

An eight card menu has tentatively been arranged by Wilson, who hinted another array of sports celebrities and guests would be on hand to aid in the festivities.

Gold and silver miniature boxing gloves will be awarded fistic finalists during the evening, Wilson said. Added attraction will be the finals in many of the current intramural tournaments.

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

COMES it once a year, the winter holidays. This year they will be especially happy ones for our Rams, and for good reason. Have they not fought through to one of their most successful pigskin seasons?

But for dropping the gridiron opener to a tough Long Beach aggregation, they have trampled any and all foes who dared to cross swords with them. Being judged fifth in the rankings of the nation's two year colleges should be proof enough of how successful this season is proving.

This team of ours has been blessed with an array of talent seldom seen in a junior college. Not many realize that the Rams have gained twice as many yards as has the opposition. Staten Webster has averaged almost five yards every time he places his hands on the ball. All in all, he has gained one yard less than a quarter of a mile this season. Four other backfield stalwarts, Marshall Leong, Ken White, Art Ekdall, and Howie Crouch, have ripped out an average of more than four yards a try.

Of course, these backs could have gained nary a yard had it not been for a sensational line, which many believe to be the class of the league. Men like Stan Belcher, Denny Miller, John Didio, just to name a few, have been opening holes big enough to drive a halftrack through.

Rams Dominate Loop Statistics

Unofficial statistics released by the Northern California Junior College Conference yesterday indicated the marked superiority of the Ram grid machine in almost every department of play.

Carter Corey

In five conference outings, the locals have now amassed 1,607 yards via rushing and passing to the opposition's 802 net. The locals have completed 23 out of 78 passes attempted for an average of 228.

Individual total offensive records:

Player	TCB	YG (P'ass)	TY	Ave.
Webster, q	57	273	166	4.79
Newell, q	9	20	229	269	2.22
Leong, f	49	220	0	220	4.49
White, q	30	121	57	178	4.03
Ekdall, h	10	41	77	118	4.10
Corey, h	26	67	42	109	2.58
Crouch, f	22	93	0	93	4.23

Borlos Trample Rams 50-27; Jayvees Win

The Borlo Athletic Club, stocked with an ex-collegian roster, walloped the Rams 50 to 27, Wednesday night. In the preliminary contest, the Jayvees defeated the Borlo "B" team 34 to 27.

Dig This Info

Geologists Explore Earth's Surface

By Del Plehon

Geology may sound like dull work, but George Green, geology instructor, knows otherwise. His experiences in this field show it to be an interesting and thrilling occupation involving travel all over the world and providing an ample amount of danger for thrill-seekers.

After his graduation from Oklahoma State University in 1918 with a degree of geological petroleum engineer, he was attached to the Atlantic Refining Company of Philadelphia in the capacity of commercial petroleum geologist.

While working for this company he traveled through Mexico and the whole of Central America gathering geological data for the company's use.

In a later trip to South America he penetrated into the mountainous country of Colombia and Venezuela in search of oil-bearing rock formations. It was here that he became acquainted with the fierce Motolony Indians who hindered operations in his area by periodic raids.

In 1935 he became a member of the faculty of the college and has been here ever since in the capacity of geology instructor.

In the summer he usually takes field trips throughout the United States in search of geological specimens.

As a hobby on these summer trips he delves into paleontology, the study of dinosaurs, and what he considers to be his greatest prize is a set of dinosaur tracks that he acquired in the Connecticut River Valley. This last summer, however, he remained at the college as dean of men.

"My pet project," he said, "is to offer summer field trips to students majoring in geology or mining. The groups will be small to facilitate handling, but the trips will be interesting and provide valuable experience in field work to the students."

Previous to the war, Green's project was almost underway, but the war caused him to postpone his plans until its close. Now he hopes to continue with his plans and arrange trips for geological students sometime in the near future.

Cooking With Gas

Campus Labs Home Of Pi Mu Gamma

By Marge Whearty

Setting the focus for campus microscope gazers is Pi Mu Gamma, college organization, cooking with bunsen burners both social and educational activities for students of the biological sciences.

Official technician of the club is Arthur Furst, science instructor at the college, who sponsors the group.

Formula of semester activities includes the showing of motion pictures during the campus meetings, held every two weeks in Room 204, plus the addition of guest speakers from various medical and science foundations.

In charge of throwing these items together for a smooth-running program is President Bill Kurz.

Open to all students in the biological science field, the club has a strong appeal to pre-medical and pre-dental majors, and invites all those interested to attend the next meeting held during the college hour, when a film on quintuplets will be shown.

With 35 active members, the club adds a few social gatherings to its makeup. Thereby, the members achieve their aim to acquaint such biological science majors with themselves and their chosen field.

COOKS WITH the bunsen burners, major figures on the officer staff of the Pi Mu Gamma, are left to right: Betty Lee Taylor, publicity manager; Dorothy Wagner, secretary; Bill Kurz, president; Margaret Patropolous, vice-president; and Vivian Tratjin, treasurer.

Top operation for this semester will be a dance planned by the group for some time in January. Held on the campus, the dance will be open to all Associated Students.

We Deliver—FLOWERS—We Telegraph
Chain of Flowers
Florists
CORSAGES—FLORAL DESIGNS
WEDDINGS
JUnipar 4-9038 1805 Ocean Avenue
San Francisco 12

Fall Madness Grips 'Animal' Cast

KING FOOTBALL takes over in this scene from The Male Animal, now in rehearsal twice a week in Room 209, under the direction of Ruth Somers.

Ray Bisio, enacting the part of the all-time All-American, Joe Ferguson, demonstrates a touchdown play to S. "Johnie" Dilke, who plays Ellen Turner, Gloria Orzanco as Rosita, and Julian Paca as the imperturbable Professor Tommy Turner.

"Slolsky cuts down the left side fine deep and takes out Wupperman. That's the jam pot! Wally is running wide around right end, faking as though he had the ball, but hasn't really got it—apparently! Now then," Ferguson tells his enraptured audience, "just as Michigan is charging in on Lindstrom and Wierasocke trying to decide which one has the ball, Wally lets himself out! He's really got it!"

With a well experienced supporting cast, the production will reach theater audiences January 7, 8, 9, and 10, and promises to be one of the finest bits of theatrics that grease paint artists have ever presented in the college.

The supporting cast includes Mary Lou Draifut, Jack Kermoyan, John Bleuer, Kathy Thompson, Walter Mahoney, Marge Felton, Myrtel Keller, and Leuree Keye.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jana Doran

• Alpha Lambda Chi: Pledges for this semester are: Norma Pioll, Lois Dehmel, Gerry Rocha, Jackie Mullin, Carol Schutt, Betty Anderson, Beverly Blume, Shirley Dilke, Marilyn Grey, and Helen McDonough.

• Beta Phi Beta: The Phi Beta Rho will enjoy a joint breakfast with the Beta Phis this Sunday at Boulder Creek. Last Saturday Ernest Rubke, former president of Beta Phi, was married to Pat Mahoney, former president of Alpha Lambda Chi.

• Beta Tau: A business meeting is scheduled for Monday night at 8 o'clock. The football team won their second fraternity game last Sunday when they defeated the Tri Epsilons, 13 to 6, and previous to this won their game with the Beta Phis.

• Delta Psi: Tomorrow night an informal pajama party will informally initiate the new pledges at the home of Phylis Hayes in Oakland.

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Next Wednesday night the Remember When Dance is scheduled at the St. Francis' Colonial Room. Music will be provided by Hal Lent.

• Engineering Club: Ralph Shearer of General Electric will speak December 2 on Jet Propulsion. Time is 7 o'clock.

• Forum Club: Tomorrow night a meeting is scheduled at 157 Kensington Way at 8 o'clock. All students are invited to attend and discuss the topic, Agnosticism versus Idealism.

• Kappa Phi: Plans are still in discussion for the pledge dance to be held at the Claremont Hotel.

• Pep Club: A meeting is scheduled November 27 in the upstairs waiting room of the Administration Building.

•XGI: All members and dates are attending meeting Friday night, November 29, at War Memorial Building in Room 1. Honorary memberships are to be presented. Veterans, not members, are also asked to attend.

Sophomores

Twelve Candidates In Royalty Contest

For the first time in the history of sophomore king-queen elections here, the list of contestants reveals a seven to five majority of candidates running for the king's crown.

With a total of 12 entrants in the royalty race, the candidates for queen are Jane Swendsen, representing the Mu Iota Psi; Jackie Faxon, Phi Beta Rho; Klarese Platt, Theta Tau; Barbara Moule, Kappa Phi; Claire Levesque, Lambda Chi.

Competing to sit beside the campus queen on the royal dias are: Everett Herrerias, Beta Tau representative; Kent Bowker, Tri Epsilon; Art Ekdall, Block SF Society; Steve Kritakakos, Beta Phi Beta; Donald Gerber, Bachelor's Club; Marshall Leong, Chinese Club candidate; and Pat Harris, running independently.

Campaigning will begin Thursday, January 2, and will end Wednesday, January 8, with an election by popular vote.

Vet Housing Available In West Campus Region

That there is still available space for married and non-married veterans in the west campus housing project was the announcement of Veterans' Director Fred C. McFarland.

Student Ushers' Jobs Available On Campus

Outstanding concerts scheduled for the next few weeks at the San Francisco Opera House offer students an opportunity to attend some of the most prominent music concerts in the country.

This information was released when Dean Margaret Dougherty announced yesterday that positions are still open for ushers for two concerts by Victor Wittenstein, noted one-armed pianist, Friday and Saturday, November 29 and 30; Lauritz Melchoir of the Metropolitan Opera, famed on both radio and screen, Monday, December 2; Dorothy Maynor, Vronsky and Babin, duo-pianists, and a host of other well known artists and organizations, including the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra.

Students who are interested are requested to apply to Dean Dougherty as soon as possible. Those who desire may make arrangements to assist as ushers during the Christmas vacation.

BENNY'S
RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—RAndolph 9632

WARSHAWSKI'S
Since 1922
DRY GOODS STORE
FURNISHINGS, SHOES
6340 Mission Street
Daly City, California
DElewere 0231

BUY YOUR CHRISTMAS GIFTS EARLY
Wide Assortment of BOOKS . . . CERAMICS . . . GAMES
On Sale Monday, November 25
at 9:00 a. m.
College Book Shop
1039 OCEAN AVENUE
(Directly opposite West Campus Entrance)

The Emporium OFFERS YOU...
Three packages which will bear looking into. Opportunities for an interesting vocation, coupled with security and good pay is a combination mighty hard to equal. Here is that combination . . .
. . . For men and women, well-paying careers and part-time opportunities in nearly ever phase of Retailing are open at The Emporium. Helen Graham, in the Employment Office, Gallery Floor, invites you to discuss these opportunities with her. If more convenient, inquire at the Employment Booth, Street Floor.
The Emporium
SAN FRANCISCO'S SHOPPING CENTER • 835 MARKET STREET

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1946 No. 18

College Hour Schedule
9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
• College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 •
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

Christmas Concert In Auditorium Today At 10:45

A Cappella Choir, Orchestra Feature Second Post War Yuletide Celebration

By Mel Hansen

When the curtain goes up this morning on the college hour, 10:45 o'clock, the Christmas season will be formally greeted in a melodious blaze of glory as the local music department presents its annual choral and instrumental concert in the west campus auditorium.

Each year the department offers this on-campus performance as a prevue of the main program, slated this year next Tuesday evening, December 10, at 8:15 o'clock, in the Van Ness Avenue Veterans Auditorium.

The festival will be under the direction of Flossita Badger, Madison Devlin, and Gertrude Norgard, who will also act as accompanist, all of the music department.

Built around the A Cappella Choir, the program presents that group singing the traditional processional, Adeste Fideles, with faculty children Susan Wilson and Jack Brady as candlebearers, and Jesu, Priceless Treasure, Lost In The Night, the Hallelujah Chorus from The Messiah, Silent Night, and Merry Christmas, all directed by Miss Badger.

The college orchestra, 35 strong, plays Hadley's Herod Overture under the direction of Devlin.

The Men's Chorus, under Miss Badger's baton, sings two carols, O, Little Town of Bethlehem, and The Three Kings, with Robert Sherratt featured as baritone soloist, and Mrs. Norgard's Women's Chorus will sing Bring a Torch, Jeannette, Isabella.

Soloists, highlighting the program, include Elmer Dickey, baritone, singing Ring Out Wild Bells, Lois Smith singing Ave Maria, and Jane Swendsen, with a double quartet, singing, Cantique de Noel.

With Miss Smith's solo, a tableau directed by Lloyd Sisler of the drama department, presents the following students: Leona Oddstead as Mary; Franklin Turner as Joseph; Merton Bercovich, William Riley, and Howard Crouch as kings; Zorab Bohigian, Robert Sherman, David Diamond, Kenneth Raymond, and Ernest Edwards as shepherds.

The double quartet includes Madeline La Fond, Lois Smith, Geraldine Akey, Jeanne Platos, Ralph Ricks, Joseph Fraser, Charles Thollander, and Leslie MacGowan.

LED BY CANDLEBEARERS Susen Wilson, daughter of Coach Tom Wilson, and Jack Brady, son of Assistant Dean John Brady, members of the A Cappella Choir will follow this angelic-robed youthful couple in the processionel of the Christmas Festival. Behind Susen and Jack are, left to right, Madeline La Fond, Jane Swendsen, Lois Smith and Geraldine Alsey. In the back row are Jim Finley, Ralph Ricks, Leslie MacGowan, Kenneth Schildt, and Joe Fraser. This double quartet sings Cantique de Noel.

Festival

Faculty Progeny In Holiday March

By Adele Reinisch

Carrying the torch for the college A Cappella Choir this morning and Tuesday night when the harmonies of Adeste Fideles are once again heard in the processional at the annual Christmas Festival will be, as tradition demands, two youthful guest angels.

Chosen this year to share in the annual fete have been Jack Brady, son of Assistant Dean of Men John J. Brady, and Susan Wilson, daughter of Tom Wilson, athletic coach.

The young cherubs, six and four years old respectively, have been rehearsing their roles for the past few weeks. Today they will bear tacir candles proudly, with all the poise and composure of veteran pilots—their parents fondly hope!

After the first rehearsal two weeks ago, young Susan gave an impression of such effervescent exuberance about her debut, that it was difficult to picture her in the sedate pageant.

Today, fully matured to her expected task, she will concentrate all her efforts on not holding her candle too tightly. At the rehearsal she gripped the tallow with such force that it was bowed in sadness and pain when the altar was finally ascended.

Master Brady, early evidencing the administrative ability of his dean father, and his grandfather, Associate Superintendent of Schools John F. Brady, took matters into his own hands. One recent morning at about 8, Jack Jr. set out and rang every doorbell on his block to inform the neighbors that HE had been especially selected for the "leading" role.

Both of the angelic ministering spirits will wear miniature vestments, replicas of those worn by the members of the choir, senior angels of the day.

Music

Choir To Broadcast Over KYA Saturday

Originating from the auditorium in the Emporium and through the facilities of station KYA, some 57 music students comprising the college A Cappella Choir will air their vocal talents at 2 p.m., Saturday, December 7, according to Flossita Badger, choral director here.

Miss Badger said that the public will be admitted without charge as long as the seats are available.

The program will be recorded by the station engineers as it is broadcast, and it is hoped that this may be available to the college.

The choir will present two other down-town concerts, one scheduled for Sunday, December 8, at Grace Cathedral, and the other at O'Connor-Moffatt & Co., Thursday, December 12.

Student Government

California Junior Colleges Organize, Unanimously Favor Post Season Games

Salinas, Dec. 4—Unanimous opposition to legislation outlawing post season football games was placed atop the agenda of the newly-formed California Junior College Student Government Conference, according to Dean Haug, representing the northern sector of the state.

Dean Haug

Fifty-two junior colleges were represented at the gathering, the first of its type in the annals of student government.

Emphasis was placed on the commendable task being accomplished by the colleges in absorbing the tremendous overload of veterans seeking further post war study.

Officers elected include Neil Goedhardt, Pasadena; Tony Mercante, Salinas, and Haug, representing the San Francisco area.

That the colleges would be less interested in their outside athletic expenditures was disproved by Haug who foresaw "an all out" fight to enhance college athletic gate receipts.

Next meeting of the conference was placed on a spring semester date by a sub committee which approved an invitation by Jay Mehrundt, Visalia, that the conference be held on the Visalia campus.

Geology Addicts Top Nation From 'Mayan To California'

By Marge Whearty

Mayan Indians live again tomorrow night at 8 p.m. when the Pick and Hammer Society sponsors a meeting at the home of Adviser George Green, head of the college geology department, at 170 Lunado Way, Fred Whisman, society president, announced.

Devoted to an explanation of the ancient culture by Green and his wife, who spent some time on the Yucatan peninsula, this gathering is only one of many such activities planned by the society.

Colored slides, a motion picture, and Mayan refreshments complete the setting for the meeting tomorrow evening.

Organized for and by students enrolled in the geological sciences, the society has set up associate memberships for those sincerely interested in these fields.

Built on a decade of existence, the group brings before its membership field trips, motion pictures, and otherwise revolves around a common interest.

THE MAYAN INDIANS live again tomorrow evening for members of the Pick and Hammer Society at a meeting devoted to interpretation of the ancient civilization. Formulating this and future activities of the campus organization for geological sciences are officers and members of the society planning committee left to right: Secretary-Treasurer Priscilla Mantyle, President Fred Whisman, Sponsor Green, Ray Douglass and Steten Webster.

Second Midterm Marks Available To Students

Grades for the second midterm period will be given students next Wednesday and Thursday, December 11 and 12, by their advisers, according to F. Grant Marsh, head counselor.

Time for the distribution is 10:45 o'clock each morning, when all classes will follow the college hour schedule usually in effect on Fridays.

Students whose last names begin with the initials A to L will report to their advisers on Wednesday, December 11, Marsh said, while those whose last names fall in the M to Z category report Thursday, December 12.

CAB Suspends Charters Of Five Campus Clubs

Five college club charters were suspended last week by the Club Advisory Board "primarily because of their inactivity," according to Pat Pollack, CAB president.

The clubs affected were The Bible Club, Bachelors' Club, Phi Epsilon Rho, Cosmopolitan Society, and Golden Cleats.

Pollack warned that other organizations on the campus may receive the same penalty unless a representative from each chartered club attends CAB meetings. It will also be necessary for clubs which are not active this semester to provide the CAB with good reasons for retaining their charters.

Club members who feel their organizations are in danger of losing their charters were requested to see Pollack, John Tolley, or Jo Ellen Cain, CAB officers.

The CAB announced that five new organizations have been recognized and now need only the approval of the Student Council before receiving official charters. These clubs are Student Christian Association, Radio Engineer's Society, Retail Merchandising Club, Latin American Club, and the American Veterans' Committee.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 18 Friday, December 6, 1946 Page 2

Five Years Ago

Men Of Arms Called It Hell

THE battleship Arizona lay at anchor in the bay when the birth of an American era was launched in shell shot and scrap metal.

That was an hour when barbarism hit hard and fast and unwittingly to awaken a sleeping dog that barked complacent overtures of democracy.

Five years ago, the historians say, earth could be fair but lay below the sun in cluttered turmoil, plowed by steel and bronze, irrigated with hope and seeming futility.

People called it war and men of arms called it Hell.

When the stunned, unbelieving nation rallied to muster a counter force of students, farmers, clerks, all men of arms.

When a surge of mass production became a song of industry, a lyric of home front security, the song of songs that traveled across the world.

When hardships were swathed in priority bandages and secrecy endangered the fate of armies, an epoch period that found a Main Street in every village and closets stored with durational pride.

When an infant nation bounded to invincible stature on the continued remembrance of "a day in infamy."

That was the day of the infidel that delivered a squalling child of might and placed it before an age of atoms and the return of pride's way.

They'll be celebrating birthdays and be praising the liners of transitional peace when the anchor digs at bottom of the place where gold stars flourish.

Five years ago, the patriots say.

Maybe someone can remember!

Ford

After Dark

LAST Friday night, November 29, thrilled Art In Cinematics saw the tenth and final program of the San Francisco Museum of Art's Series One of Non-Objective, Impressionistic, Surrealistic experimental French and American avantegard films.

The program included Marcel Duchamp's Anaemic Cinema, Un Chien Andalou, co-produced by Luis Bunuel and Salvador Dali, Charlie Chaplin's The Count, and The Potted Psalm, directed by Peterson and Broughton. George Leite, editor of Circle Magazine, has stated he hopes to bring Series One to Berkeley for a second showing.

* * * *

Larry Parks, who plays the part of Al Jolson in the technicolor saga The Jolson Story may have an Oscar to decorate his mantlepiece. Jimmy Cagney won one of the little men with crossed arms with a similar role when he played the life of George M. Cohan in Yankee Doodle Dandy. Look out for Parks! His screen depiction of Al Jolson is one of the finest things to come out of Hollywood during 1946.

Prior to the actual shooting of the picture, Parks lived with Jolson for several months until he had every voice inflection, every dance step, every motion down to a science—Oh, by the way, don't let the singing voice fool you—it belongs to Jolson.

Evelyn Keyes plays a role supposedly that of Ruby Keeler. No comment.

* * * *

A note for Sinatra fans: Columbia Masterworks has recently issued an album of small lyric pieces by the American composer, Alec Wilder, and who do you think does the conducting job for the series? Mmmm? This may come as a small shock, but Frank Sinatra keeps those strange lovesick noises within him for a change and turns in a first rate conducting performance. The Wilder pieces have very little oomph (whatever that is) in them, however, half way through the Album one begins to suspect that one of the solo woodwinds has Ann Sheridan behind it.

* * * *

Are you watching the movie schedules for returning film classics? Citizen Kane returned again for a three-day stay. Fifteen Minutes From San Francisco—Free Parking is currently playing at the El Camino theatre. A delightful cast with all the actors honking at each other. The whole thing's a sequel to the Ballet Mechanique. (That's a joke, son. . . .)

Around And About with Nagle

WITH the football championship sewed up by the San Francisco Junior College varsity team, and with only college "bowl" games remaining to be played this year, stadium watchmen all over the country pick up goal posts, store them in mothballs and relax for another nine or ten months —waiting again for the excited, cheering, hopeful thousands of spectators who come to tear down the stadium and spur their favorite half-back or their favorite team on to victory.

Football has been a success for quite a number of years. Famous players have gone down in annals of football history, likewise famous coaches.

FORGOTTEN MEN

But has any rooter ever gone down in history? Has any cheering section become famous? After a game is over who is the Man of the Hour? The quarterback, half-back, or left back, but never the whole-side, left side, or right side.

No, the rooters get a casual filler space mention in a sport section report of the FRACAS which says "the crowd went wild" when "The Run" dashed down 99¾ yards to a touchdown.

But think just what the crowd did when they "went wild". For one thing they lost their voices. The larynx gave out after four hours of constant screeming, yelling and hollering. They got various and sundry black-eyes for casually mentioning to the wrong man that the winning team was only lucky. And those were fighting words. They got their heads smashed, hit, and beaten upon by vivacious enthusiasts in the row behind them. Plus a few extra bumps which appeared after the card-trick cards were tossed in the air.

BIG 15 FOR ROOTERS

Those who decided to take in a hot-dog during the half-time period came out more battered, because some 250 pounder who missed the team because of a D grade couldn't wait for his mustard and bun.

Yes, football is a great game. No doubt about it, like the auto, it's here to stay. But next year why don't the team, coach, and yell leaders, give a Big 15 for the faithful rooters who grace the hard benches week after week to spur their team on to victory. They work just as hard as the players . . . and have to pay to work, too.

STANDBY

CONGRESSMAN FRANCK R. HAVENNER, of the fourth district, who was a big factor in the college's acquisition of the west campus, paid a visit here just before the Thanksgiving holidays. Congressman Havenner was pleased with the organization of the college and also interested in the bake shop at the cafeteria.

ADRIAN J. FALK, campaign chairman of the COMMUNITY CHEST OF SAN FRANCISCO, recently wrote a letter of appreciation to the students of the college for their contributions to the chest in the last drive. The amount contributed by the students was more than $400.

A contemporary Guardsman columnist, KENNETH FORD, is to have some of his poetry appear in not one, but four national poetry magazines. These periodicals print only poetry.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

"Gals Refuse Pick-ups;" More PA Usage And Active Pep Club Urged

• Unheralded Changes
Editor, The Guardsman:

Why are class schedules mysteriously changed without notice to students? Friday, November 22, I haunted the halls for twenty minutes before discovering that the rally was not being held as previously announced.

There is a loud speaker system in the college —why not use it once in a while.

All of my classes start at 12:10 or later and this is the situation with many other students.

If such announcements, as cancelling rallies, following college hour schedules on days other than Friday etc. could be announced at least twice a day, such unfortunate situations may be prevented.

M.S.

• Scarcism Rears Ugly Head
Editor, The Guardsman:

In reply to Margaret Hogan's letter which appeared in the Tuesday, November 19, issue of The Guardsman, all I have to say to you, "That's too bad!"

I own a car and on the majority of mornings when I have had any room, I've stopped and offered a ride to anyone wishing it. My car is old, but it is also roomy. All I have received most of the time is silly, childish glances from one girl to another.

Now the rains are here and you sing a different tune, eh?

Bob Podgett

• Unity In White
Editor, The Guardsman:

It seems to me a good deal of talk is circulating around about the lack of school spirit, but all those groans are just talk. Why doesn't someone get energetic and do something about it?

I've heard of a pep club whose sole function is to promote spirit and attend games etc. The pep club has been attempting to form a rooting section with students wearing the college colors.

If the women would wear white blouses and the men wear white shirts, with their red and white caps, we would not only look better to spectators, but we would feel a sort of unity between all of us which would help our spirit.

Lea Rae Miller

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Presidio of S.F. Ready, Willing— And Unable

LIKE the blacksheep of an old English family who went through the Thirty Years War without firing a shot, the Presidio of San Francisco today stands as a monument to medieval thinking still corroding the mind of a young nation feebly attempting to lead the world into a newer and greater future.

Established by the Spaniards in 1776 the Presidio has been flexing its muscles ever since against enemies that never quite get within sight of its shores; its usefulness has long passed and it still remains as a rest home for the Regular Army.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

HARMONIOUS strains of music produced by students here, have wafted over the college, since shortly after classes began in August, 1935.

At first it was a difficult task to round up from the entering group, students, who were both willing and able to vocalize, but Flossita Badger, who has headed the music department from the beginning, finally got a small group of about 30 together.

It was in November, 1935 that the college A Cappella Choir gave its initial performance in the Galileo High School auditorium. That first concert was such a tremendous success that ever since the fame of the choir has rapidly spread throughout the northern California area.

Separate men's and women's choruses have been organized during various semesters, and throughout the man-scarce war years the women's chorus flourished. However, it has always been the A Cappella Choir which consistently won the applause and commendation of its audience wherever it appeared.

During its eleven year history, the choir has appeared at service clubs, churches, and civic functions, in addition to making annual concert tours during the fall semester to sing before students of high schools in cities and towns throughout northern California.

During the war years repeated performances were presented at various USO clubs in this vicinity. The group also entertained at the launching of a Liberty ship in the Kaiser shipyards.

The two biggest events of the college year for the choir have traditionally been the annual Christmas Festival in December and spring concert which is performed during the Easter season.

In a day of atomic bombs, all-seeing radar, radio controlled rocket projectiles and airplanes approaching the speed of sound, this bulwark of defense stands ready with coast defense guns of fine wine vintage to blast an enemy that won't be seen until it's too late.

COMIC WARFARE

Comparatively, a wild dee shot off the 18th hole at Lincoln Park by a well-fed Army general would be every bit as effective today.

Traditionally, coastal defense organizations within this country have been a haven for broken down officers that couldn't be fitted into an ever changing army that must be ready with modern equipment.

Nowhere in the states can be found more aged-in-the-wood military men still arguing the Battle of Gettysburg and enjoying rounds of golf on some of the city's choicest 1500 and more acres of land.

It is true that the Presidio furnishes a headquarters for the Sixth Army today; it is also true that the function can be moved elsewhere as proven in the early days of the war when it went inland to Utah.

NEW TENANT WITH NEW IDEAS

Today the United Nations is eyeing the Presidio as an ideal location for their permanent site where someday the fate of the world may be voted upon.

After being ridiculed in the New York area by a group of selfish landowners more interested in a roof over their own heads than in seeing a peaceful world planned by sane minds of every nation, the UN must look elsewhere to continue its critical job.

San Francisco has the opportunity to rid itself of outmoded militarism and offer a home to the one organization that can save the world from certain suicide.

UN SUPPORT OR NEWER WEAPONS

The best of three choices lies at hand: to get the UN here at the Presidio site and give it all the backing it so badly needs, instead of comic political cartoons and narrow-minded landlords blocking its progress.

Second choice would be to continue such ostrich-like tradition of maintaining unneeded defense posts that would carry all the wallop of an empty paper bag against atomic warfare.

Last alternative, if the UN fails, lies in the proving grounds of New Mexico's deserts and in the Cyclotron on the UC campus, not in the Presidio Country Club.

Guardsman Staff— Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF..... Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lojouenesse, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Mary Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall.
SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

Denny Miller | Marshall Leong | Art Psaltis | Ray Poznekoff | Art Ekdall | Glen Smith

Six Rams On All Conference Team

Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 18 FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1946 Page 3

NATION'S TOP JUNIOR COLLEGIAN SQUAD. Left to right (front row) Dick Johnson, Izzie Biess, George Maganaris, Stan Belcher, Captain Art Ekdall, Don Grant, Denny Miller, Ray Poznekoff, Evan Goldenburg (mgr.).

Second row—Stanford Hardeman, Jim Greene, Carter Corey, Marshall Leong, John Rainey, George Newell, Sterling Orgain, Art Psaltis, John Cooper (mgr.).

Third row—Coach Lee Eisan, Ken Schuchard, Roland Stern, Bob Woodworth, Bill Cassidy, Bob Cavender, Paul Dotur, Kenny White, Len Swanson, Wilfred Slattery, Sam Goldman (mgr.).

Last row—Howie Crouch, Glen Smith, Glenn Hofmann, Al Drake, John Didio, Jim Cronn, Mack Henry, Walter Ihle, Phil Collischonn, Grover Klemmer (coach), Bill Fischer (coach).

Missing from photo are Don Rooker, Staten Webster, and Manny Castro.—Photo by Lum.

Psaltis Unanimous Line Choice; Leong, Ekdall Spark Backs

By Bob Catudio

Six members of the home guard entry in the Northern California Junior College Conference cluttered the concensus selections of the 1946 All-Conference gridiron production.

Such was the mastery and deception of the locals, a club which climaxed its greatest season in history by winning eight straight games, an organization ranked second to none in the nation.

Speed, power, and pre-war experience predominates in the most powerful band of marauders since the lush era of the early thirties.

A backfield composed of Art Ekdall (SF), Marshall Leong (SF), Jack Donaldson (SM), and Roy Sules (Sac) was easy pickings, despite the hot and cold performance of Staten Webster (SF).

Toughest problem lay at center, where John Dinublo (M) and Johnny Didio (SF) were rated on even par, Dinublo receiving the nod because of his value to his own mates.

Guards Denny Miller (SF) and Frank Sanches (Sac) were awarded intial choice because of their consistent good play which edged performances rendered by Neil Bossemeyer (SM) and Stan Belcher (SF).

Wingman Ray Poznekoff (SF) and Ray Angeli (SM) were standouts, Poznekoff being a unanimous selection. Angeli was one of the most glue-fingered ends in the business.

Tackle Art Psaltis (SF) was a near unanimous choice, being paired with teammate Glen Smith (SF) who barely edged newcomer Bob Smith (M).

Had there been a coach of the year choice, the laurel wreath would undoubtedly be placed atop Lee Eisan, the townie tutor who assayed the role of the mental wreck for eight straight successful outings.

Runner up spots were tossed to Bill Fischer and Grover Klemmer. The conference, after all, never came close to stopping the club that was built on high pressure miracles.

Kilgore, Compton In Rose Bowl Tomorrow

Pasadena, Dec. 5—The first of the nation's bowl games takes place Saturday when unbeaten Kilgore, Tex., Junior College tangles with once beaten Compton College in the "Little Rose Bowl."

Inaugurating the first contest of its kind, the Rangers have been installed six point favorites over the Tartars, who were upset last week, 21 to 6, by the Los Angeles City College Cubs.

Play Days Held With Gators, Richmonders

Women's Athletic Association members scratched off two more important dates on their semester's calendar this week when a play-day was held with members of the San Francisco State College badminton team here last Tuesday.

Thursday, members of the WAA hockey team played with members of the Richmond High School team.

All NCJC Football Team 1946

POS.	PLAYER	COLLEGE	AGE	HT.	WGT.
End	RAY POZNEKOFF	San Francisco	18	5-10	170
Tackle	Art PSALTIS	San Francisco	18	6-1	195
Guard	FRANK SANCHES	Sacramento	21	5-10	175
Center	JOHN DINUBLO	Modesto	20	5-9	215
Guard	DENNY MILLER	San Francisco	18	5-8	170
Tackle	GLEN SMITH	San Francisco	25	5-11	230
End	RAY ANGELI	San Mateo	22	5-10	178
Back	ROY SULES	Sacramento	23	6-1	160
Back	ART EKDALL	San Francisco	23	5-11	172
Back	JACK DONALDSON	San Mateo	23	5-10	185
Back	MARSHALL LEONG	San Francisco	27	6-1	215

SECOND TEAM

Warren Bryant, Sacramento	End
Bob Smith, Modesto	Tackle
Neil Bossemeyer, San Mateo	Guard
John Didio, RAMS	Center
Stan Belcher, RAMS	Guard
Nick Doudnik, Sacramento	Tackle
Jim Cronn, RAMS	End
Staten Webster, RAMS	Back
Keith Bedford, San Mateo	Back
Wellington Smith, Salinas	Back
Jim Price, Sacramento	Back

THIRD TEAM

Orville Young, Modesto
Glenn Hofmann, RAMS
Dick Slade, San Mateo
Chet Garnero, Salinas
Dick Harding, Modesto
Gene Jensen, Salinas
Roland Stern, RAMS
George Newell, RAMS
Ken White, RAMS
Carter Corey, RAMS
Bob Ratcliffe, San Mateo

Lambs Take Intra Title Over Rams

By Art Paymiller

Capping their season with an 86 to 49 victory over the Ramblers, the Lamb cagers captured the college intramural basketball crown by two full games as they finished the season with a perfect record of 11 wins and no defeats. Jim Hughes once again copped scoring honors with 30 tallies for the winners.

The Chinese Social Club gained at least a tie for second place as they handed the Operators their fourth loss of the campaign, 49 to 35, while the Tiger quint eked out a 36 to 34 win over a hard-fighting Los Vaqueros five.

The Portals ended the campaign with 11 defeats as they defaulted to the Tau Chi Sigma squad. The XGI and East Bay Trotters also won on defaults from the Poops and Buccaneers.

The second place club will not be decided until the East Bay Trotters and Los Vaqueros fives play off a postponed game from the second round of play.

If the Trotters take the Los Vaqueros cagers, they will be tied for second place with the Chinese Social Club. A loss to the Los Vaqueros aggregation would drop them into a third place tie.

Opponents for the first round of play in the intramural singles tennis tournament have been announced by Tom Wilson, director of intramural activities. Deadline for games to be played in the first round is Friday, December 13.

Pairings are as follows:

Sidney Oram vs. W. S. Whittier, A. Candelario vs. Fred Bolding, A. K. Louie vs. Ronald Johns, F. W. Carroll vs. Nick Contos, Raymond Watson vs. Ken Raymond, Gilbert Pond vs. Jim Logan, Byron Young vs. Bob Zarick, Harold Lansing vs. Joe Barton, Bill Austin vs. Don Cowderoy, Maurice Fleming vs. Bud Goldman, Marino Mangiola vs. Richard Zolling.

Al Drake, who has floundered about in the heavy division for four straight outings, will not defend his intramural title which was almost purloined six months ago by newcomer Leon Seyranian.

Nonetheless, top bout of the night can be traced to the middleweight setto twixt Tapolan and Spencer Boyne, or the 120 pound classic between Bill Cain and John Fischer.

Heavyweight Louie, heavy set speedster, meets John Brown in the twelfth bout, both men professing a liking to win via the long count.

Roy Diederichsen will be the referee and the judges have tentatively been announced as Louis Conlan, George Canrinus, and Ray Daugherty. Jack Brady and his trusty Bulova fall heir to the timekeeper's legacy.

Basketball

Indian Babes Scalp Ram Quint 38-36 As 6,000 Watch

By Sam Goldman

Oakland, Dec. 4—Providing a preliminary thriller to the Stanford-Oakland Bitner affair Saturday night, the Ralph Hillsman-coached locals lost a 38 to 36 court battle to the Stanford Jayvees before a capacity crowd of 6,000 customers.

With but 60 seconds remaining in the contest, the Rams blew several chances to pull even with the Cards.

Mac Meredith and Bill Carter topped the winners with 11 and 10 points respectively, while Phil Burroughs counted eight for the locals. Mike O'Neill and Hank Roberts, standouts in defeat, tallied six each.

"We'll have to practice more," Hillsman declared yesterday, "but we should be ready for the California Blues on December 20."

Scrimmage sessions were slated during the Christmas vacations and, according to Hillsman, the townies will be ready for the beginning of league play in three weeks.

AMS-Intramural Boxing Carnival Tops December 12 Slate; 12 Bouts Carded

By Bob Catudio

Twenty-six leather-fisted civilians, including three combative defenders, face a battery of kleig-lights next Thursday evening in the men's gymnasium when the Associated Men Students-Intramual Boxing Carnival unveils its semi-annual one night stand.

A capacity crowd of 3,500 is expected to witness the three hour show which has emerged as one of the finest of its kind in the country.

Returning from successful June-time debuts are Gordoi Fell, Larry Louie, and Harry Tapoian, the slender one via Commeree High School who kayoed Dick Mahoney in the first heat.

THURSDAY'S CARD:

115 lbs.—Wilbur Lee vs. Francis Fong.
120 lbs.—Bill Cain vs. John Fischer.
125 lbs.—Newton Hall vs. Mel Taylor.
135 lbs.—Tak Kubata vs. Ken Unmack.
140 lbs.—Leon Scheranyder vs. Walt Zolezzi.
145 lbs.—John Kitta vs. Jack Carlisle.
150 lbs.—Varthes Miroyan vs. Van Critchfield.
155 lbs.—Harry Tapoian vs. Spencer Boyne.
160 lbs.—Charley Gard vs. Dick Norwell.
175 lbs.—Gordon Fell vs. Will Dawson.
180 lbs.—Lou Aronian vs. Stan Hardeman.
Hvy.—Larry Louie vs. John Brown.

Final Grid Standings

	W	L	T	PS	PA	Pct.
San Francisco	7	0	0	144	44	1.000
San Mateo	3	3	1	60	94	.500
Sacramento	3	4	0	83	45	.429
Modesto	2	4	1	45	77	.333
Salinas	0	4	0	12	76	.000

BENNY'S RAM SHACK

1051 Ocean Avenue

Phone—RAndolph 9632

Election

January 3 Deadline For Filing Student Officer Petitions

Deadline for filing petitions for associated student offices is Friday, January 3, at 3 p.m., according to Ed Gallemore, chairman of the election committee, who also announced the candidates would be introduced to the student body during a rally slated for January 10.

General balloting will be held Tuesday, January 14, from 9 to 6 p.m., and on Wednesday, January 15, from 9 to 4:30 p.m., in the old cafeteria.

The current semester's election committee, as appointed by Student President Dean Haug, includes Norma Busse, Hilda Ghio, Jackie Faxon, Frank Reed, Janet Caine, Jo Ellen Cain, Chris Dukas, Dorelyn Patton, and Chairman Gallemore.

Electioneering regulations have already been established and candidates "must comply to the letter of the law" with the rules, lest their individual candidacy be defaulted.

Electioneering "in and about" the vicinity is prohibited, and intimidation of voters may result in disciplinary action by the judiciary committee.

All campaign literature and posters must be approved by Dean Jack Brady who yesterday limited to five the number of electioning posters to be set on the campus by candidates.

Disregarding spreading rumors that the election would be within the complete jurisdiction of the student government, Brady asserted the Dean's office still retains control of student affairs on or about the campus.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

•Beta Phi Beta: Plans are now in discussion for a football game with the Tri Epsilons, to be followed by a picnic.

•Beta Tau: A business meeting is scheduled Monday night at 8 p.m.

•Kappa Phi: Zaro's is the setting for the pledge dance tomorrow night. At the formal pledging Bobbie Krenkel passed the traditional box of candy announcing her engagement to Bill Tubbs of Calistoga. Plans have been made for the Christmas party which will be held at Marvalee Fuller's home in Oakland December 21.

•Phi Beta Rho: Formal initiation will be held December 14 at the Mark Hopkins Hotel. Informal initiation is scheduled for this week end.

•Theta Tau: At a pledge dinner last Sunday the following were pledged: Shirley Collins, Eleanor Grant, Duffy Smith, Barbara Cobb, Barbara Hunt, Joanne Schmidt, Joyce Payne, Pat Stanfield, Jane Portello, Jane Hackinson, and Rosemarie Kapp. Millie Laube passed the traditional box of candy announcing her engagement to Bob Winegardner of Beta Tau. Tonight a joint meeting is planned with the Tri Epsilon Fraternity.

•XGI: A meeting to which other organizations of the college will be invited is scheduled for Wednesday, December 11 in the Wave Auditorium. Refreshments and dancing will follow, and all attending are invited to bring dates.

•American Veterans Committee: A general membership meeting is scheduled in Room 136 at 4 p.m. Guest speaker at the function will be Julius Keller; California vice-chairman of the organization.

Give Gift To Yank Theme Of ATE Group

By Trev Burrow

Give a Gift to a Yank Who Gave is the slogan for the second week of a drive soliciting donations of money and gifts for veterans receiving treatment at one of the bay area government hospitals, Helen Tanner, Alta Theta Epsilon president, announced.

The ATE Society, composed of Home Economics students, is sponsoring the drive, but Elvira Fusco, chairman of the drive committee requests cooperation of all students and organizations in the college.

Murney Cunningham and Barbara Hendrickson, committee members, said, "Gifts and money have been turned in but unless more students take an active part in the drive it will not be the success hoped for."

All gifts may be left at the ATE display or turned over to Claire Cuneo, ATE sponsor, in Room 158.

GIVE TO THE YANKS is the generalized theme of the Alpha Theta Epsilon organization represented (left to right) by Murney Cunningham, Helen Tanner, Barbara Hendrickson, Beatrice Groger, and Elvera Fusco.—Photo by Kennerson.

The drive officially ends Wednesday, December 11, and all gifts will be wrapped in holiday paper at a party to be held in the student lounge, Thursday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Wednesday evening, December 11 from 8 to 12 o'clock, members of ATE will attend an XGI meeting and dance in the college auditorium, to which other organizations have been invited, at which time final cash donations will be accepted, Miss Hendrickson said.

Miss Tanner declared, "Some of the veterans have been in hospitals for three years and longer. People tend to forget their sacrifices, but at Christmas time especially, we should show them that we remember. While not acting overly sentimental, we do believe that appropriate gifts, sincerely offered, will be received with thanks."

Restaurant Division

More Hotel Courses On Watson Report

Need for more two year terminal courses in hotel and restaurant training was stressed by leaders of the American Hotel Association at their recent convention in Chicago, it was said by Mrs. Hilda Watson, chairman of the local curriculum, who returned Saturday after attending the convention.

Mrs. Watson attended the conference upon request of the Association, where she presented a graphic account of the two year practical training now offered here.

"The consensus among educators and representatives of industry who attended the Chicago meeting," Mrs. Watson said, "is that two year terminal courses such as offered here are more needed at present than four years of more academic pattern."

At the present time, the college offers the only two year hotel and restaurant training program, offered on a college level, anywhere in the United States.

Since Mrs. Watson's return to her desk on Monday morning, telegraphic requests for her aid in the organization of courses similar to those given here, have been received from school systems whose representatives heard her talk in Chicago.

Service

Navy OCS Exams Set For Jan. 18; US Seeks New Officers

In an unprecedented move to obtain thousands of commissioned officers in the Navy and Marine Corps, the Navy Department has announced its first nationwide competitive examination scheduled for January 18, 1947 with training to start next September.

Information about the place of the competitive examination, application forms, and other specific details may be obtained from Walter E. McCloud, director of veteran affairs, acting local representative of the Navy, in building 12 on the west campus.

To qualify for the January 18 competitive examination, McCloud warned that applications must be turned in at his office not later than December 13.

The Naval Officer College Training program is divided into two sections, one for regular Naval officers and the other for flying officers.

The regular Naval officers' part of the program calls for the candidates to attend any one of 52 universities and colleges approved by the Navy, providing the candidates have the necessary qualifications for the school of their choice.

Those candidates who qualify under the latter portion of the program, The Naval Aviation College Program, will study for two years at any approved university, college or junior college. Upon completion of the two year period the candidates will then enter a two year flight training program and flight duty as midshipmen, after which they will be commissioned as officers and serve a year of active flight duty.

With the completion of this tour of duty, if accepted as a permanent commission, they will be sent to a Navy designated school and complete their final two years of college with active duty pay.

Requirements for the Aviation Program are that the applicant be at least 17 and not more than 19½ years of age on July 1, 1947, a high school graduate, completed less than two years of college work, and be physically qualified for flight duty.

Mardi Gras Prize To Hotel Gang

—Photo by Fred Lawrence

By Marge Whearty

"The way to a gold cup is through the judges' stomachs"—or so proved the Hotel and Restaurant Society, winners of the Mardi Gras top booth prize. Left to right are William Thourby, Ervin Sliger, Bill Burger, John Wieck, Donn Rogers, Bill Beers.

Armed to the teeth with hot dogs and pastries, the society cooked its way to main position over such attractions as the Theta Tau coke bar, Kappa Phi cider kegs, Lambda Chi ice cream cups, plus the physical tests of the dart throwing Beta Rho's and the ring tossing Beta Phi.

Out of a multitude of mountaineers, racketeers, frontier girls, period and regional costumes, Ed Hancock and Marilyn Wissing as a Persian couple emerged with first prize of dinner and dancing at the Hotel St. Francis.

Bob Winegarden and Millie Laube paraded into the limelight as runners-up, receiving a silver bracelet and a shaving kit for their ball and chain act. Money orders from Bonds and Roos Brothers next went to Lou Nielson and Duffy Steele as Daisy Mae and Lil' Abner, while the Oriental couple was given cologne and a shaving kit.

All prizes were donated by these San Francisco organizations.

Black Flamingo Group Opening December 11

Black Flamingo, the melodrama being directed by Lloyd Sisler in Room 28, is rapidly rounding into theatrical shape for its opening Wednesday, December 11.

The play which will be presented in the most unusual manner ever attempted by a dramatics group in the college, features colorful costumes and settings of the year 1776.

With the audience seated at tables, and the room decorated in the style of a 16th century inn, the action will take the entire length of Little Theatre, Room 28.

We Deliver—FLOWERS—We Telegraph
Chain of Flowers
Florists
CORSAGES—FLORAL DESIGNS
WEDDINGS
JUniper 4-9038 1805 Ocean Avenue
San Francisco 12

WARSHAWSKI'S
Since 1922
DRY GOODS STORE
FURNISHINGS, SHOES
6340 Mission Street
Daly City, California
DElaware 0231

GRAND OPENING
The College Book Shop
1039 Ocean Avenue Directly Opposite West Campus Entrance
JUniper 5-3772
SUNDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1946—1 P.M.
FEATURING . . .
• Complete Line of college texts
• Stationery
• Foreign books and publications
• Various gift items
MEET THE AUTHOR
8 TO 10 P.M. . . .
• Mr. Philip Lamantia, S. F. Poet, will autograph his book.
A Modern, Completely Equipped
RESTAURANT AND FOUNTAIN SERVICE OFFERED
S. HARVARD, Book Shop
E. MEDFORD, Managing Owner, Restaurant and Fountain

WHEN YOU'RE IN THE MISSION, PARK YOUR CAR IN THE O'CONNOR BROS.
HONOR PARKING LOT
Between Mission and Valencia on 16th

The Time... NOW

And the Place... for a Position in Retailing
The Emporium now has some outstanding opportunities in selling and non-selling career positions. With the oncoming holidays, temporary positions, too, are available.
For an interesting well-paying career, or holiday employment to bring you that extra-handy pocket money, see Helen Graham at The Emporium. Ask for her at the Employment Office, Gallery Floor, or inquire at the convenient Employment Booth, Street Floor.
The Emporium
SAN FRANCISCO'S SHOPPING CENTER • 835 MARKET STREET

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947
Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1946 No. 19

College Holiday Show Tonight

CHRISTMAS MUSIC; in keeping with the Yuletide season, again will be presented by the College to the City of San Francisco tonight at 8:15 o'clock, in the Veterans Auditorium, Van Ness Avenue and McAllister Streets, as part of the annual music festival. This program, one of the biggest events of the fall semester, involves the contributions and assistance of a large number of college departments.

The music department will be represented by the singing of the A Cappella Choir, Men's Chorus, and Women's Chorus, and the playing of the college orchestra.

A tableau of the familiar Nativity Scene will be presented by the drama department, accompanied by selections of the men's and women's choruses.

Members of the art department and poster committee joined forces to produce the colorful advertising for the event. Dick Walls, of the latter, was the artist responsible for the banner poster placed over the doors near the silver pole, and Laura Chatelain designed the covers of the programs.

Another organization, Mu Iota Psi, the college music club, arranged and set up the display, in accordance with the holiday spirit, in the first corridor of the main building.

Even the typing department, under the direction of Ruth Nelson, helped out for the ultimate success of the festival by typing and forming the on-campus programs.

Financial aspects of the event, of course, are being handled by the budget of the Associated Students who will in turn profit by their enjoyment of it and realization of the college's contribution to the cultural life of San Francisco.

Pictured above is the A Cappella Choir which forms the crux of the festival.

In the front row, reading from left to right are Marion Bryant, Helen Setalov, Frances Thollander, Jane Chambers, Jane Swendsen, Geraldine Akey, Peggy Gay, Jo Anne Oakes, and Jeanne Platos.

The second row is filled by Kenneth Schildt, Jim Finley, Gertrude Brown, Madeline La Fond, Margery Fulton, Lois Smith, Juanita McKinney, and Curtis Sundel.

In the third row are Elmer Dickey, Charles Kahman, Marvin Ransom, David McDade, Raymond Biggs, Lawrence Dupree, Leon Sher.

The fourth row is made up of Edward Gong, Roy Abad, Joseph Fraser, Gertha Williams, Ruth Poole, Martha Lee, Jeannette Petersen, Gloria Orfanco, Mary Roberts, Doris Doyle.

In the fifth row are Ralph Ricks, Harry Wong, Wesley Hammond, Charles Watson, Louise Moore, Gwendolyn Jones, Alice Hanu, Vyetta Moffatt, Harold Freedman, and Leslie MacGowan.

Standing in the last row are Albert Rasum, Charles Thollander, Gordon Smith, Robert Sherratt, Howard Crouch, Roland Jones, Jacqueline Deasy, and Leonard Butler.

To the left of the group is one of the angels, Susan Wilson, daughter of Tom Wilson, intramural director, and to the right is Jack Brady, Jr., the second angel and son of Assistant Dean of Men Jack Brady.

—Photos by Devlin and Lum

Registrar

Grades Distributed Here Tomorrow

Following a schedule similar to that at the end of the first midterm period, grades will again be issued by advisers during a college hour program tomorrow and Thursday of this week.

Adhering to the usual alphabetical schedule, those students whose names fall into the A to L category should report on Wednesday, December 11. Initials M to Z are scheduled for Thursday, December 12.

Final date for service credit application is this Friday in Building 3.

F. Grant Marsh, head counsellor, emphasized the fact that the college hour schedule is so arranged that students should apply to their advisers for grades at 10:45 a.m., as follows:

Cecil Aggeler, 136; Alfred Azosti, 100; Richard Allman, 160; Arthur Austin, 178; Flossita Badger, 200; Marjorie Ballbache, 309; Mildred Barnard, Building 3; Margaret Bectem, 113; Howard Benninghoff, 229; Louis Berman, 179; James Billwiller, 209; Waddington Blair, Building 3; John Booher, 230; Charles Chesterman, 193; Edwin Cranston, 208.

Claire Cuneo, 158; Dora Doolin, Building 3; Thomas Dutcher, 311; William Eckert, 347; Margaret Flournoy, 303; Frederick Foultz, 310; Marjorie Fox, 335; Jules Frideu, 201;

(Continued on page 4, column 2)

NORMAN HAMLIN, concert master of the college orchestra, who takes an active part in tonight's Christmas Concert.—Photo by Lum.

Basic Skills

Dreifuss Pen Wins Magazine Award

By Harold Levy

Guest College Board Editor of Mademoiselle, a national glamour publication, is a far cry from Basic Skills here. As evidence of this statement, lend an attentive ear to this testimonial of literary skill.

Participating in a national contest to pick a college woman to act as guest editor in that department, Mary Lou Dreifuss last month submitted an essay to Mademoiselle magazine.

This week she was notified that she had won the much coveted prize, which includes a trip to New York in June and submission of four more essays, for which Miss Dreifuss will receive the lucrative award of 50 dollars per essay.

Miss Dreifuss, who is a member of the cast of the Little Theater's current venture, The Male Animal, is also, it should be noted, enrolled in the college's Basic Skills, 3-a course.

Those who are professionally aware of the importance of basic English to successful writing expressed justifiable amazement, but their surprise in no way lessens the facts.

Whoever said, "some people got it, and some people haven't," was apparently right.

AWS

Usherettes Named For Yule Festival

Usherettes at the yuletide celebration performances of the Christmas festival tonight at 8:15 in the Veterans Auditorium, include women selected from various college organizations, Nancy Stookey, president of the Associated Women Students, announced Friday.

Wearing formals and greeting the guests at the door the usherettes include Ginny Souder, Lucille Hoffman, Phyllis Hayes, Pat Duffy, Jean Carrasco, Pat McDonald, Betty Hartmann, June Wong, Virginia Murphy, Barbara Robbins, Betty Taylor, Annie Wong, Mary Wong, Josephine Teh, Beverly Thal, Grace Keh, Betty La Vassar, Helen Read, Margaret Dotson, Geraldine Marks, Pat Arensburg, Roberta Rohh, Elinor Maekie, Barbara Murphy, Yvonne Donerque, Gloria Wu, Adele Reinisch, Nancy Nagle, Pat Sullivan, Ruth Gainella, Dolores Mazlanz, Mary Mardalo, Hank Hurely, Mary James, Barbara Hendrickson, Betty Mullins, Jeanne Nuberry, Vivian Benjamin, and Betty Sommers.

"Next on the agenda of the AWS," Miss Stookey added, "will be a Mixer Dance in the social hall, Thursday, January 2, from 1 to 3 in the afternoon." This dance will mark the resumption of a social activity which had been discontinued lately due to midterm examinations and the holidays. This will be the first dance of the New Year for the college.

Administration

Classes Adjourn For Holidays This Friday

By Marge Whearty

The administration slipped a two-week-plus holiday into the Christmas sox of students today, allowing them 13 days beginning this Friday, to rake in the sheckles for the usual happy handouts and one day to recover from New Year's Eve.

Recovery will begin on Thursday, January 2, when wanderers attempt the return to normal conditions on the campus.

The Guardsman begins its vacation today, re-appearing on Friday, January 10.

Should there be any wishes to stray from the flock, the registrar warns students that the final day to file a leave-of-absence is Friday, January 3.

Beta Tau Dance At Edgewater Dec. 16

Featuring a goodly array of kiss-provoking mistletoe, coupled with the danceable music of Buddy MacDonald and his orchestra, Beta Tau, men student's fraternity here, will hold a dance next Monday, December 16, at Edgewater Beach Ballroom, according to Bob Wighmann, president of the society. Admission is $1.80 per couple.

Dancing is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. amid a decorative theme in timely yuletide fashion. Arrangements for the affair are creditable to Ted Noble, and Bill Riley.

Veterans Praised

Education Official Lauds Servicemen

A favorable first hand impression of veterans attending the college was given by Dr. Karl Schaupp, member of the San Francisco Board of Education, who "praised the individual instruction given veterans here."

"Without exception, every veteran with whom I talked said he was under the compulsion of necessity to work at the college," Dr. Schaupp said.

"The courses are very tough," he declared, "but the veterans assure me they have efficient instructors and wonderful cooperation."

That the majority of veterans were receiving a justifiable education was emphasized by the Board official who added "the thought everyone could be aware of the veterans and the records made by graduates of the college."

"I do not doubt, as in all colleges, there are in attendance a very small minority who are not getting much for the reason that they don't want much," Dr. Schaupp asserted, disproving rumors that veterans were veritably "loafing their way through college."

GLORIA CRAIG, sopohomore student, who delivers the narration in the annual Yuletide production tonight in the Veterans' Auditorium.
—Photo by Lum

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 19 Tuesday, December 10, 1946 Page 2

Approaching Yuletide Season

Time To Bury Hatchet

AS sure as clockwork, Christmas is coming around again this year.

The signs are everywhere, in the Santa Clauses in the department stores, the decorations on Market Street, and the Salvation Army people stationed all over the city.

To some this surface atmosphere is the real thing, the only thing that Christmas represents.

Last year it meant a little more to some people because it marked the first Christmas in several years that their families were all together again. For this reason, the day had a special significance and was thought of as more than tinsel and mistletoe.

Now with that idea again lost in the past, we are likely to forget again what we are celebrating, and why.

In hailing our friends with the usual Yuletide greetings, we should not lose sight of the reason for our greeting, nor confine it to our friends alone. Now is the time to mend fences, and to bury the hatchet with our enemies, not in our enemies.

Let's change that old proverb a little bit.

Instead of saying "don't let the sun go down on your anger," why not alter it to "don't let the year end on your anger."

Medic Hits Campus Critics

FIRST rate complaints that make the college seem as inadequate as a pebble on the shore are being blasted—but good—by Dr. Karl Schaupp, member of the San Francisco Board of Education.

"My investigation convinces me that veterans in the student body (here) sincerely believe the college is doing an excellent job."

Rightly so, for it's about time someone with "the authority" has had the common sense to speak in behalf of a so called lost generation.

Ford

After Dark

NUNNALEY JOHNSON'S The Dark Mirror starring Olivia de Haviland and Lew Ayres is the greatest psychopathic thriller knocking about the old town. Olivia, who plays the part of twins, no less, turns in a hair rising schizoid sort of a performance, which one lady of the college terms as "hitting too close to home for comfort."

It is indeed a small revelation to find that Hollywood has finally discovered the existence of Sigmund Freud, especially in the form of lovely Miss de Havilland!

There is a force exerted here in America of which too few people are aware. It is the force of The Little Magazine on literary trends throughout the country. Some of these magazines are dedicated solely to new trends in literature, poetry, painting, sculpturing, ceramics, and music. Other members of the Little Magazine Family deal with current political, social, and economic problems; all vital facets of the whole scope of the ever changing American scene. These non-commercial, non-advertising publications are practically unheard of by the majority of average American citizens, which, in a sense, does not speak too well for the cultural scope of the United States as a whole.

Most of these minor magazines are backed, directly, or indirectly by political or literary schools of thought, and form a basis of criticism for the majority of intellectuals operating in the Western Hemisphere.

Among the major literary publications are Poetry Magazine (published in Chicago), The Kenyon Review (published in Ohio), Accent Magazine (published in Illinois), Partisan Review (published in New York), Circle Magazine (published in Berkeley, Calif.), and Story Magazine (published in New York) to mention a few.

In reality, these magazines serve as an outlet for the non-commercial creative efforts of native born artists. Without such outlets, there would be little or no circulated channels for such men who are idealistic enough to want a truly genuine native art form in America, and in lieu of that, one can only say, hats off to the little magazine in America!

Around And About

with Nagle

WITHIN fifteen days, the atom bomb and J. Llewellyn Lewis permitting, Mr. Santa Claus will arrive throughout the world spreading his good cheer plus a few material tid-bits.

It seems only a few years ago that this was a red-letter day to all of us. Months were spent in breathless anticipation waiting for the wonderful night when Santa was scheduled to slide down the chimney with his gift laden pack.

AFTER ENDLESS SLEEPLESS HOURS

Pajama clad figures crept down stairs to take a glimpse at the wonderful tops and surprises that had been left for them.

Yes, it seems like years since those letters addressed to the North Pole were mailed, asking for all sorts of toys, games, dolls, etc. During the short pants and pigtail era, painstakingly printed notes, hardly legible, were written asking for a new doll (one that cried and shut her eyes), an erector set, and a wind-up train.

Later when the long pants stage was reached, requests also growing longer varied from an electric train to a pair of ice skates to a bicycle . . . more years passed, and in the grown-up high school years, a typed letter asked Santa for a cashmere sweater, the first pair of high heels, a leather jacket or a wrist watch.

SANTA RECEIVES LETTERS NOW

From his college students, who, not content with the electric train of yesteryear would be quite satisfied with a fur coat or convertible with red leather seats.

Apprehensive moments will be given our poor behiskered friend when he gets requests from such college students as Al Kipnis, who had outgrown the red wagon stage, and this year only wants the return of his prized binder complete with a semester's worth of lecture notes; and Helen Ringius, Forum Club chairman, who wants contributions to the Forum magazine, instead of the doll buggy she wanted a decade or so ago.

Even Louis de St. Cyr has changed, all he wants is the students to continue playing the fountain juke box. (money to the Hotel and Restaurant Society).

Yes, this year Santa will really be perplexed, but with the convertible and the fur coat, he will remain on the good side of all.

STANDBY

AN inside tip! Now that this year is drawing to a close, it is time once more for the frenzied campaigns, the colorful posters, and the heated arguments pro and con. The tip—TREV BURROW, BILL HOLMES, and AL MOFFAT will be running for the office of student president.

The name of AL TURA was inadvertently omitted from the program of the Christmas Concert last Friday, but thanks to the generosity of two of the choir members the name was filled in. JIM FINLEY and KENNETH SCHILDT had a rubber stamp made with the name and stamped by hand over one thousand copies.

ARNOLD WECHTER, Guardsman photographer, is taking a little jaunt to Vicksburg, Mississippi on December 13, via the wild blue yonder. Purpose not for publication.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Newsweek Goes To A Party. Party To Meet Elliott At Dock

VODKA, Russia's alleged secret weapon, has the reputation of loosening the tongue of a stone statue if taken in sufficient quantity.

Citizen Elliott Roosevelt has once more been eight-balled by the US press, as an aftermath of one of those celebrated Red clambakes in Moscow recently, when he was quoted and misquoted all over the lot after the party broke up.

It seems a member of the US Embassy threw a celebration in Moscow and invited a gang of comrades including Comrade Elliott and his actress wife, Faye Emerson, as guests of honor; it turned out to be quite a brawl.

SOMEBODY SPILLED THE BORSCHT

It was so big, in fact, that the hangover spread this far, and aspirin is being passed out in the State Department offices at Washington.

Elliott may be met at the dock by a delegation from Congress anxious to get a rehash on some wild wordings that have been credited to him during the course of the memorable evening.

Some American correspondents were present at the affair and sent back the word that Elliott waxed eloquent in accusing the US and Britain of breaking pledges made at Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam.

GATE CRASHERS THERE TOO

But Elliott was supposed to have saved the biggest sentence for dessert when he wound up by saying, "You know as well as I do, that the United States is supporting the UN for purely selfish and imperialistic reasons."

That did it: now he's in a bigger jam than his celebrated dog Blaze ever got tangled up with when he bumped a GI out of a cross-country airplane ride during the war.

Inevitable denials are flying like mad now. The Embassy denies any kind of part in the party, Newsweek Magazine who reported the incident wasn't even supposed to have been invited to it, and Elliott has clammed up for the time being.

AMERICAN HORN BLOWING

The fact remains though, somebody opened his big bazoo, and the US foreign policy takes another stiff jolt in the ribs at a time when a pat on the back is needed a lot more.

Elliott isn't alone in his indiscretions, however, if he committed any. No American abroad, be he civilian or serviceman, has ever been accused of being lax in his conversation, and he has a reputation for shooting off his yap at the drop of a bottle cap or cork.

Plenty of military secrets went down the drain during the war following a few short snifters of cognac, Calvados, rice wine and even notoriously weak Limey beer.

PASSPORT AND A MUZZLE

The Navy has been scuttled more than once over a jigger of "gilley" that was originally brewed to drive submarine torpedoes through the waves.

Freedom of speech is a pretty good privilege if taken in the right doses but when the State Department issues a passport to a wandering citizen it ought to be accompanied with the order, "Shaddup!"

Molotov can write his own scripts for his daily blasts, not get them relayed from his own backyard.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

FOR students who are merely interested in furthering their appreciation of fine music, as well as for those who are interested in becoming professional musicians, the college music department offers a wide variety of courses.

In a strictly amateur division there are listening hours, and the study of the history of music and literature of music. When it comes to the more technical aspects, the study of harmony, musicianship, voice and instrument are all incorporated into courses for those who have the skill and prerequisites necessary to enroll.

Those people in the music department who aspire to careers in that field pay little attention to the thin line drawn between class work and extra-curricular activities, however. Their world of music is so engrossing that even if twenty-six hours a day were spent in pursuit of the sharps and flats, the time would be well spent.

Above all other musical groups, it has always been the famous A Cappella Choir which is most widely noted for its many activities over and above those usually expected.

The choir is really a "going concern." Besides being a regularly scheduled class, the group is also organized in club form. Its manager this semester is Leslie McGowan, who, with his assistants, has the task of making arrangements for the programs to be presented, calling special rehearsals, securing travel accommodations and reservations when the occasion demands it, and arranging for any equipment which has to be used.

Altogether, it is a big job to keep an organization comprised of sixty people in working order, but nevertheless the evidence that it can be done is obvious in the finished performances the choir has repeatedly turned out for the past eleven years.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

"Petition Urged For Extension Of Bus Service"; Patriotism Questioned

• Swimmers Replace Busses

Editor, The Guardsman:

Two semesters ago a student of this college could board a bus at California Street and Tenth Avenue and be delivered to the front stairs of this institution for a nickel. Each time the fare was raised, the service decreased.

No one except the Municipal Railway knows where the two shuttle buses, that crawl comparatively close to the college were between 9:45 and 10:00 a.m. Tuesday, November 19.

Many students were compelled to swim to school, very healthy and good for the text books too!

How does one go about the formation of a committee for the large scale signing of a petition, or a car caravan to see the Mayor, if necessary? What ever became of the petition we signed last year? A count could be taken, and a definite ratio set up as to the number of riders of this bus that goes to the college against the obvious minority. Efficient service could be reinaugurated with the "Miraloma Bus" extended to the J car over the present number one bus route, from Monterey Blvd. and Genessee Street.

Pete Kehrlein

• Dirty Flags Flying

Editor, The Guardsman:

I have read many ways of improving our school in looks, but there is one very important step which has not been taken.

No matter which class room a student enters, he sees an American flag. But most of these flags are either very dirty or are wrapped around the flag pole.

I believe that something should be done to make the American flag at this college not an ornament, but a symbol.

Why is there an empty flag pole at the entrance of the West Campus? Is our college ashamed of our country's flag, or is it too much of a bother to put the flag up every morning and take it down at night.

A Patriotic Student

Guardsman Staff—

Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio

MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon

ASST. MANAGING EDITOR...June Sheehy

FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Reinisch.

NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chemas, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Merq Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall.

SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowdery, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.

PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.

STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.

BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir, Florence Grant.

Editorial Adviser.....Jean Nourse

Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

12 Bouts Highlight Thursday Show

Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 19 TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1946 Page 3

Intramural

Chinese Quintet In Intra Second Place Behind Lamb Five

By Art Paymillier

The Chinese Social Club gained undisputed possession of second place in the intramural basketball tournament, as the Los Vaqueros five upset the East Bay Trotters, 35 to 30, in the final game of the season.

Although Bob Callan gained high point honors for the day with 13 tallies, the Trotters were unable to hold the Los Vaqueros eagers and dropped the decision in a close, well played game. Bill Broderson, former Poly lightweight star, led the winners with 11 digits.

The defeat was the third of the season for the Trotters and dropped them into a tie for third slot honors with the final league standings with the Los Vaqueros squad. Both teams finished the season with a record of eight wins and three defeats.

After a late start, the C. Y. Club has won four straight and clinched the National League title in the intramural football tournament. The Clubbers replaced the Portals after the first round and are undefeated in league competition with a record of four wins and no defeats. Close behind in the fight for second place are the Chinese Social Club and the XGI aggregations with two wins, one loss and one tie.

The Poly Alumni Club leads the All-American league with a record of three wins and two ties. The Beta Tau squad, with a record of two wins and two ties, can tie the Poly Alumni Club for the title if they defeat the Turtles in their final game. The Turtles have a record of two wins and two defeats and might put the skids on the Beta Tau's title hopes.

The leaders of the two leagues will meet in a post-season playoff to determine the winners of first and second place awards.

Basketball

Locals Meet Favored SFAC Tomorrow Eve

By Sam Goldman

Undaunted by superiority in experience, the confident charges of ambitious Ralph Hillsman meet the San Francisco Athletic Club quintet tomorrow in men's gymnasium, tip off at 8 p.m.

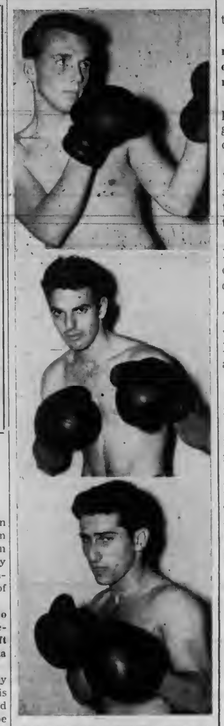
The invaders, coached by Carl Minetti, are gilded with numerous collegiate stars and service thespians. Definite underdogs, the locals have but one win to their credit since four games ago.

AC Guard George Mossler, ex-Ram, returns to the home pavilion tomorrow evening for the first time in six years. Mossler was on the 1940-41 townie show bill.

Starting lineups:

S.F.A.C.	Pos.	RAMS
Fred Reuther	F	Jack Ginley
Leroy Peters	F	Ken Cameron
Maurice Lilot	C	Bill Kahn
George Mossler	G	Mike O'Neill
Ken DeBrunner	G	Neil Turner

WAA



Women's Gymnasium Site Of Group Party

Christmas celebrations will begin in full swing Friday, December 13, when the Women's Athletic Association stages its annual Christmas party from 2 to 4 p.m. in the women's gymnasium, Frances Scilipoti, president of the club, announced.

An invitation has been issued to all women of the college with the request that they bring a 15 cent gift which will be distributed by Santa Claus in person.

Decorations provided by the Hockey Club, refreshments by the Tennis Club and entertainment by costumed members of the Dance Club will be the order of the day, Miss Scilipoti said.

"We hope that all women will attend, sing carols, and get in the spirit of Christmas at our first social event of the semester," Miss Scilipoti said.

PUNCH ROW ARTISTS. Three of the 26 finalists in Thursday's fight card (top to bottom) Gordon Fell, Harry Tapoian, and Varthes Miroyian. Tapoian and Fell are defending champions and will provide action galore.—Photos by Wechter.

All-Intra Cage Team, Fall 1946

FIRST TEAM

Forward	DANIEL GEE	Chinese Social Club
Forward	JAMES HUGHES	Lambs
Center	MICHAEL O'NEILL	Lambs
Guard	PETER BUCCIARELLI	Ramblers
Guard	JOHN DOMAINE	Los Vaqueros

SECOND TEAM

Forward	VICTOR GIANNINI	Buccaneers
Forward	WILLIAM WONG	Chinese Social Club
Center	RAYMOND SQUERI	Operators
Guard	WILLIAM BAHR	Los Vaqueros
Guard	BEN JOHNSON	Tigers

HONORABLE MENTION: Robert De Maris (Tigers), Jerry Baldocchi (East Bay Trotters), Tak Kubata (Poops), Cyril Jeung, Richard Tong, Benton Wong (Chinese Social Club), Leonard Simpson (Ramblers), James Jacome (Tau Chi).

Vikings, Solons Snare All Enemy Team Spots

Sacramento College and Long Beach City College flooded the roster of the college's rendition of their 1946 All Opponent Football Team. The Saes garnered three spots while the Vikings grabbed two positions.

First Team:

Ends—Warren Bryant (Sacramento) and Orville Young (Modesto)

Tackles—John Josephs (Los Angeles) and Ted Hovig (San Mateo)

Guards—Frank Sanches (Sacramento) and Dick Harding (Modesto)

Center—Hank Ennen (Long Beach)

Backs—Joe Riccobono (Long Beach), Wellington Smith (Salinas), Roy Sules (Sacramento), and Jack Donaldson (San Mateo)

LOST

Man's Tan Wallet

LAVERNE SMART —

Many Important Papers

REWARD

All Gifts Reduced 10 to 50%

Perfumes — Shaving Outfits — Leather Goods — Watch Bands

Costume Jewelry — Gold and Silver Ceramics — Pictures

Lamps — Aluminum and Silver Trays — Dishware

Sugar and Gravy Boats — Picture Frames

TONS OF BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS CARDS

GEMS OF ARTS STUDIO

1516 Ocean Avenue at Miramar Open 10 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Prep Cage Tourney At Kezar Pavilion Friday

The third annual high school basketball tournament, sponsored by the college, will get under way Friday night, December 13, at Kezar Pavilion. Four games are scheduled for the first round—Commerce vs. St. Peters, Lincoln vs. Lick Wilmerding, Lowell vs. St. James, and St. Ignatius vs. St. Mary's.

The members of the winning team will be awarded gold basketballs and second place awards will be silver basketballs.

Teams competing from San Francisco are Lowell, Commerce, George Washington, Polytechnic, Lincoln, Lick Wilmerding, Galileo, Balboa, St. Ignatius, Sacred Heart, St. Peters, and St. James. Oakland representatives will be: St. Joseph's, St. Elizabeth's, Serra and St. Mary's.

AMS-Intramural Card To Draw 2,500 In Men's Gymnasium; Tapoian, Boyne Tops

By Bob Catudio

They're clearing the decks for the greatest pugilistic carnival in the history of the college.

Some 26 finalists will step ringward Thursday night in the men's gymnasium at 8 o'clock facing an expected 2,500 gathering of the faithful who will witness three of the finalists defend their respective titles.

Sponsored by the Associated Men Students and Intramural department, the show will be graced by exhibition judo matches, guest artists, a flash of symbolic trinkets, and a continuous display of leather-fisted civilian style action.

Number one match of the evening will be the 155 pound brawl twixt Harry Tapoian, the good looking track season pole vaulter, and newcomer Spencer Boyne. Tapoian stretched Dick Mahoney to the deck last carnival time with a first round straight right to the jaw.

Blond Sophomore Gordon Fell, another defender, tackles Will Dawson in 175 pound division, a maul that looms slightly in favor of the rangy Fell. In his last outing, Fell decisioned Lou Ryan, decisively though not spectacularly.

Judges are Louis Conlan, George Canrinus; and Ray Daugherty. The ring's third man will be Roy Diederichsen and Jack Brady will be timekeeper. Festivities' announcer is Herb Markall and Bill Holmes, AMS student chief, will be around to distribute the awards.

Stan Hardeman, the ex-footballer, tackles Lou Aronian in the 180 pound semi windup. Evenly matched, insiders claim the three rounder could conceivably end in a knockout.

A wisp of mystery still encircles the entire program as Al Drake, four time heavyweight champion, will witness the proceedings from the stands, an opponent not having been found for him.

Drake was at one time matched to battle Larry Louie, but was left in the cold when Louie was pitted against John Brown. Louie announced his withdrawal from competition two days ago, and AMS officials are hinting a "complete withdrawal" of the scheduled heavyweight clash.

Fight Card

115 Pounds—Wilbur Lee vs. Francis Fong
120 Pounds—Bill Cain vs. John Fischer
125 Pounds—Newton Hall vs. Mel Taylor
135 Pounds—Tak Kubata vs. Ken Unmack
140 Pounds—Leon Schexanyder vs. Walt Zolezzi
145 Pounds—John Kitta vs. Jack Carlisle
150 Pounds—Vathes Miroyan vs. Van Critchfield
155 Pounds—Harry Tapoian vs. Spencer Boyne
160 Pounds—Charley Gard vs. Dick Norwall
175 Pounds—Gordon Fell vs. Will Dawson
180 Pounds—Lou Aronian vs. Stan Hardeman
Heavyweight—Larry Louie vs. John Brown

Admission prices for Thursday's boxing carnival are as follows:

General admission . . . . . 60 cents

Other students (with student card) . . 40 cents

SFJC students will be admitted free upon presentation of their student card.

FEATURE ATTRACTION with Spencer Boyne and Harry Tapoian in the leading roles in the 155 pound division.—Photo by Wechter.

QUICKIES DELICATESSEN

6208 Mission Street

Next to the Daly City Theater

•

You've tried the rest now try the best Quickies' Milkshake—Thickest in Town

Hot Foods - Cold Meats - Salads

Hamburgers . . . To Take Out

Janney Play Turns Out Priddy Good

Dramatic Fop Of The Year Steals Top Laurels In Black Flamingo Production

By Kenneth Ford

Taking everything into consideration, the romantic melodrama, The Black Flamingo, by Sam Janney, by no means the best play in the world, opened last night in the old student lounge.

The audience, consisting of critical faculty members and invited students, seemed to enjoy the production, especially the brilliant performance turned in by Elbert Priddy in the role of a court fop, whose contributions to the play include dancing, displaying "the finest leg in all France," and some very witty dialogue.

The three acts are set in an old castle, converted to an inn (pre-war) in the Northern part of France. There is nothing to distinguish the inn from any other inn in Northern France except that it contains the weirdest assortment of characters ever assembled on one stage. This may be due in part, however, to the exceptional make-up job done by Mike Griffin.

The play is directed by Lloyd Sisler, dramatics coach here at the college. It is one of those cases where the director and cast are not used to working with each other, but with a little "smoothing up," Sisler should have one of the finest dramatic teams on the West Coast.

Other members of the cast are Isabelle Kohman as Clotilde, Hal Harris as Trigaud, Nick Clamies as Gavroche (a very villainous villain who, by the end of the play, one suspects of being a Stalinist), Marie Wispell as Diana De Lussac, Bill Riley as Bourien, Carmen Alvarez as Nicole Bodier, Phil Markinson as Felipe Bodier, and Merton Bercovich as Cagliostro.

MAKE LOVE TO ME, Clothilde (Isabelle Kohman) remarks to a very dismayed Popo (Elbert Priddy) in a scene from The Black Flamingo, which is shown to student audiences tomorrow for the first time.—Photo by Lum.

XGI Stages Student Dance Tomorrow

An important meeting of XGIs and other students will take place Wednesday evening, December 11, from 8 o'clock on, in the west campus auditorium. Information about XGI elections will be made public as well all knowledge of the disposal of War Surplus items. Immediately following the meeting there will be a dance, admission free. All students of the college are invited to attend and bring guests.

Clubs To Occupy Final College Hour Friday

Campus clubs will occupy the last college hour before the Christmas holidays when they meet Friday, December 13 at 10:45, the college hour, according to John J. Brady, assistant dean of men.

The following meeting rooms have been assigned: Alpha Delta Epsilon, 160; Alpha Gamma Sigma, 205; Alpha Lambda Chi, 211; Alpha Theta Epsilon, 158; Beta Phi Beta, 111; Beta Tau, 254; Block Society, 194; Chinese Students, 258; Engineers, 136; Forum, 215; Kappa Phi, 213; Mu Iota Psi, 200; Newman Club, 212; Phi Beta Rho, 196; Pick and Hammer, 45; Pi Mu Gamma, 204; Theta Tau, 191; Tri Epsilon, 132; Women's Service Society, 193; Delta Psi, 206; Symphony Forum, 208; Y.M.C.A., 214; Chess and Checkers, 37; Club Advisory Board, 257; XGI, old cafeteria; Lutheran Students, 309; Latin-American Club, 316; AVC, 100; Ski Club, 344; Hotel and Restaurant Society, building 11.

Drama

Four Shows Still On Black Flamingo Slate

With dress rehearsals and special faculty performances behind them, the cast of Black Flamingo, excitedly await the opening performance tomorrow at 3 p.m. in Room 28.

The schedule of performances is Wednesday, December 11, from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.; Thursday, December 12, complete shows beginning at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.; and Friday, December 13, starting at 10 a.m.

The play will run three acts, which means that the performances will be given on the two following hours of the schedule listed above. As is customary, there will be no charge for admission.

The audience will be introduced to a new seating set-up. In the place of the student desks, Room 28 has been turned into a sixteenth century inn, and the audience is seated at tables after the fashion of the day.

Since only 18 persons can be seated at one time, it would be advisable for those desiring seats to arrive at Room 28 as soon as possible, Director Lloyd Sisler said.

More On Midterms

(Continued from page 1)

Arthur Furst, 202; Thomas Gaffney, 312; Ruth Gavin, 300; John Gerstung, 204; Virginia Gohn, 258; William Goss, 211; George Gould, 307; George Green, 145.

John Hare, 140; Rex Harris, 28; James Hughes, 133; Joseph Jacobsen, Building 3; James J. Jensen, 191; Mildred Jensen, 302; Brigitta Koerting, 307; Hulme Kinkade, 111; Edward Larson, 254; Luther Lyon, 207; William C. Marsh, 212; William Mayo, 132; Walter McCloud, Building 12.

Alva McMillian, Building 3; Eugene Meade, 215; Dorothy Mercer, 205; Thomas Murney, 190; Harry Nelson, Building 3; Glenn Noble, 307; Gertrude Norgard, 256; Joan Nourse, Guardsman Office, Building 12; William Ogle, Building 3; Alden Olson, Building 3; Robert Parker, 215; Beverly Pasqualetti, 31; Mary Perry, Building 3; Milon Polissar, 242; Thomas Porter, 322.

John Ross, 257; James Schou, 194; William Schoon, Building 3; Jane Scribner, 323; John Selig, 206; Claude Skull, 344; Claude Silva, 346; Llewellyn Snyder, 213; George Stenberg, 255; Adolph Stoll, Building 3; Stephen Tomer, 243; Roy Walker, 160; Hilda Watson, Cafeteria; Samuel Ziegler, 258.

BENNY'S
RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—RAndolph 9632

Is Your Record Collection Complete?
IF NOT, VISIT
THE RECORD RACK
MISSION AND SAN JOSE
And we'll show you some good additions
Remember Records are IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Show Cases

New Regulations Set For Displays

To guard as far as possible against misuse of display cases, Fanchon Gary, advertising art instructor in charge of displays, announced today a new set of regulations below governing their use, effective immediately following the Christmas vacation.

1. Arrangement for displays must be made through Miss Gary at least three weeks in advance.

2. The display plan must be approved by the advertising art department at least a week before the exhibit is posted.

3. Exhibits will be scheduled for display from Monday through Friday, and must be completely arranged in the cases by noon Monday.

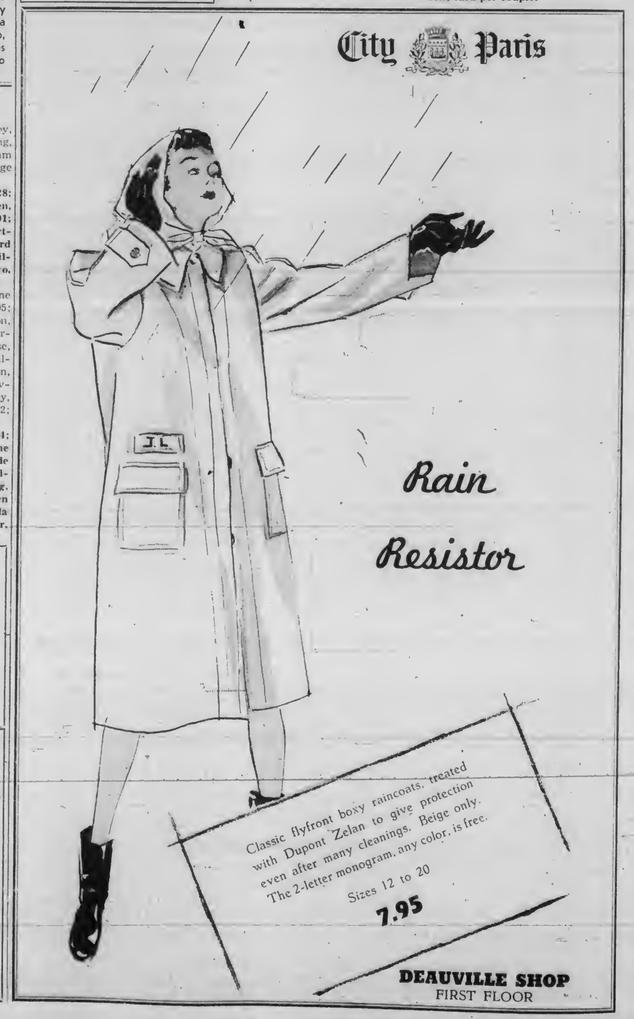
4. Failure to have exhibit ready on time, forfeits the use of the case for that week.

5. Keys to the cases are available only through Miss Gary, and the person in charge of the exhibit, will be held responsible for the safety of the keys.

6. Miss Gary is in Room 374 or 349, Monday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. or Tuesdays through Thursdays, 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

AMS-AWS

Friday 13 Date Of Student Barn Dance



To the tune of Turkey in the Straw, the semi-annual Associated Men Students and Associated Women Students' Barn Dance will begin promptly at 9 o'clock p.m. this Friday in the west campus auditorium, presidents of the associations, said today.

Bill Holmes and Nancy Stookey, presidents of the respective associations, will combine efforts to make it one of the biggest barn dances of the season.

The theme will be based primarily on Friday-13-bad-luck, and will include broken mirrors, black cats and ladders placed along the wall.

Paul Law's orchestra will provide the music for the occasion, and dress costume includes jeans and plaid shirts for men, and pinafores for women.

A selected committee has been named and is now engaged in drawing plans and decorations for the affair. Members have stressed the point that admission is by Associated Student card per couple.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 10, 1947 No. 20

SOPH KING QUEEN Elections Today 10 to 4 o'clock MAIN BUILDING

College Hour

31 Spring Officer Candidates To Bow At Rally Today

Thirty-one aspirants for spring student offices make their campaign bows to the Associated Students from the stage of the the auditorium during the college hour, 10:45 a.m., this morning, according to Rally Commissioner Al Moffatt.

The campus finds a heated issue in the question of Associated Student President since only two, Trev Burrow, Guardsman News Editor, and Bill Holmes, president of the Associated Men Students, are battling it out.

Political factions again made a warm struggle when Betty Davis, and Nancy Stookey began their campaigns for the Associated Student Vice-presidency.

Just a positive nod from the students is needed for Frank Nelson to assume control of the AMS as president.

Another uncontested candidate is Claire Levesque, one and only hopeful to the Associated Women Students' presidency.

The Sophomores will back Astrid Wettin as their president to carry out all spring activities.

Jim Edwards will take the Freshman lead as the only candidate for president.

Seats on the council are being highly bid for with 13 looking for Sophomore representation on the body.

These are Pat Pollock, Bob Wiengardner, Louis Luna, Rita Buchaglia, Mark Atwood, Karl Markman, Millie Laube, Gloria Jean Wu, Carol Schutt, Roberta Robb, Foster Jones, Leslie Holden and Jackie Faxon.

Freshman positions on said council will be doled out to seven of ten persons. Beverley Huddleson, Roy Llenan, Marilyn Conover, Robert Reilly, Nancy Wallace, Lou Neilson, Peggy McCormick, Helen McDonough Nick Dirtiman, and Byrne Davis.

Elections Slated Tues. And Wed.

Associated Student elections will be held next Tuesday, January 14, and Wednesday, January 15, in the old cafeteria, where regular voting machines will be used to tabulate the ballots.

Students must have an Associated Student card to vote, and only one vote will be allowed per card. Fred Kelly, instructor in charge of the Excelsior division, will handle the voting at the Excelsior campus for students there.

Votes must be cast between 9:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Tuesday, and between 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. on Wednesday.

This specific election information was released Tuesday by Ed Gallemore, election committee chairman.

The campaign rules, as set down by Gallemore and his committee specify that no restrictions are, placed on publicity for candidates except in regards to posters.

These regulations are as follows:

1. All campaign posters must be approved by Fanchon Gary, advertising art department instructor, and must not exceed 22 inches by 28 inches.

2. Five posters will be allowed each candidate on all the campuses of the college, and one poster for each candidate will be allowed in each of the five stores around the campus.

3. Candidates will be responsible for the posting, maintaining, and removal of their posters.

4. On election days campaigning will be prohibited in the vicinity of the old cafeteria.

A complete set of election rules is posted on the main bulletin board. "Any candidate violating the rules as posted by the election committee will be disqualified from running," Gallemore warned.

Cafeteria

XGIs Deny Probe Of New Food Price

By Arnold Wechter

Denial of charges made yesterday by a San Francisco evening newspaper that an investigation was being made by the XGI Society on price rises in the college cafeteria, was made today by Trev Burrow, president of the group.

"The XGI Society did not instigate an investigation regarding the rise in prices at the college cafeteria," Burrow stated, expressing the unanimous opinion of other society officers, including Les Holden, vice-president of the society, John Morton, secretary, and Jack Flaherty, treasurer.

The Hotel and Restaurant Division head, Hilda Watson, revealed the rise in prices was caused by an operating deficit in the cafeteria. Mrs. Watson said that portions were increased at the beginning of the semester and no one is under compulsion to eat in the cafeteria. "There are many excellent restaurants near the college campus, where students may purchase meals," Mrs. Watson pointed out.

Charges by an unknown person that somebody was making a profit were answered by Fred Stanley, student representative of the Hotel and Restaurant Division. He said, "all auditing of cafeteria funds is done by accountants appointed by the school board."

Burrow, in reiterating a caustic denial, said:

"If and when an investigation of any sort might seem warranted, and it appears unlikely, the society would request one through the college administration, not through the columns of a downtown newspaper.

"The incident seems to be a part of a concentrated campaign to discredit veterans and veteran activities at this college. Because the XGI Society is deeply appreciative of the help and assistance rendered by the faculty and administration to all students, the society is on record as standing firmly with them in all matters pertaining to campus regulations and campus authority.

"Any other statement representing XGI policy is false and may be credited to irresponsible persons antigonistic to veteran activities."

Associated Students

Council Hikes Price Of Membership Dues

Increase of Associated Student dues from four to five dollars was unanimously passed by the Student Council at its last meeting in December, Dean Hang, Associated Student president, announced today.

The increased price will go into effect at the beginning of the new semester.

Citizens Form AVC Club On Campus

CITIZENS FIRST, VETERANS SECOND is the theme of the American Veterans Committee whose charter members on the campus include (left to right) Dan Golden, Granville Forrest, Joe Stanley, and Paul Lippman.—Photo by Wechter.

By Marge Wheatly

The American Veteran's Committee is new to the college, and like most new organizations, has taken this semester to shake the cradle-cap from its hair.

Yet, unlike new clubs, the AVC has the solid basis of a nation-wide organization behind it.

The chapter on the campus was started by Dan Golden, who as the club caught hold, soothed its growling pains and became the first chairman.

Golden was assisted by Granville Forrest and Joe Stanley, the vice-chairman and secretary, respectively, who aided in the necessary "changes" of an infant movement.

When the chapter was fully organized, Lee Mendelson was elected treasurer, and Glenn Smith Sergeant-at-arms.

An organization for veterans, it has two vets, Tom Gabbert and John Booher for faculty advisers.

"Citizens first, veterans second," is its slogan. This, as explained by Golden, makes the aim of the AVC one of improving the lot of all the people instead of only one section.

Accomplishment of this purpose, it is felt by the AVC'ers, can be done through legislation promoted by the veterans on a national scale. Beginning next semester such a goal will find its making in action on various housing projects. The college chapter has not yet indicated whether it will join the national efforts striving for a subsistence raise for veterans.

It has been pointed out by officers in both the AVC and the XGI Society that the two clubs are by no means rivals.

The XGI Society is purposely a campus club with no national affiliations, and primarily interested in community and college affairs, while AVC provides the national organization for college veterans.

At the next meeting on Monday evening, new officers will be elected and AVC will be ready for its second step of growth.

Sophomores

King, Queen Race Closes Today With Student Election

The fate of 13 Sophomore king and queen candidates will be at stake when students cast their votes today in the main college building between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., concluding a week long splurge of campus campaigning.

Voting polls will be located in the alcoves of the first floor, while the traditional voting procedure will be followed, with the men voting for the queen candidates in one alcove, and the women casting their votes for the king candidates at a separate ballot box in the corresponding alcove.

Contestants running for queen are Jackie Faxon, Claire Levesque, Barbara Moule, Pat McDonald, Klarese Platt and Jane Swendsen.

Competing for the honor of reigning with the campus queen are Everett Herreras, Kent Bowker, Art Eldall, Steve Kritakakos, Donald Gerber, Marshall Leong and Pat Harris.

Climax of the event will be the naming and coronation of the king and queen which will occur at the Sophomore formal, Friday, January 24, in the Colonial and Italian Rooms at the St. Francis Hotel.

Frisco Sartor and Millie Laube, sophomore class officers are in charge of all details of the royal elections.

Voting for the king and queen this semester was scheduled two weeks earlier than the class dance to allow the photography class, under the direction of Beverly Pasqualetti, sufficient time to add a professional touch to the pictures displayed in the main corridor show case and in this issue of The Guardsman.

Pre-Meds Sponsor Campus Jig

Jumping into a major operation under the title of Scalpel Jockey Jig, the future medicos and nurses, comprising the Pi Mu Gamma Society, will play host at the dance tonight in the auditorium on the west campus.

Dancing will be from 8 p.m. to midnight, with music being furnished by Eddie Murphy and his eight piece band.

The price of admission is one dollar per couple, and the dress will be informal.

Vice-president of Pi Mu Gamma, Marjorie Petropolous, in charge of decorations, discussed that the red and white colors of the club would be used in streamer decorations plus multi-colored balloons.

This is the first dance ever given by this group for general student participation, and it will be the climaxing event of an active semester for this organization.

"We hope that our initial dance will be very successful," Betty Taylor, publicity director for the group, said.

College Hour Schedule

9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
● College Hour—10:45 to 11:30 ●
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

Hotel Division

Women Span U. S. To Enroll Here

"Go West young man, go West."

These famous words of advice by Horace Greeley were taken seriously by Margaret Wyman and Virginia Soffer, who traveled cross-country in a house trailer, from Washington, D.C., to study in the hotel and restaurant devision here.

Both women decided on a career in the hotel and catering profession while serving in the WACs together, and hope to operate a summer resort after their graduation from the college.

Marin County Residents

Miss Wyman, who was a Lieutenant and served as an ordnance property officer in the service, hails from Detroit, Michigan. Miss Soffer, who did personnel work as a captain in the Army, calls Middletown, Connecticut, her home. She is a graduate of the University of Chicago and is familiar with the hotel business, as her family has operated a summer resort in New England.

The women are now living in their trailer in Mill Valley, with their faithful "pooch" Beau Brummel. Beau was rescued from a small mid-western city pound and has been the guardian of the pair ever since. Beau claims no particular breed as an ancestor, but prefers to be known as a trailer dog.

Local Course Best In Nation

The women chose the hotel and restaurant division here, after studying the catalogs of the nation's universities and colleges and claim the course here is unparalleled in the country. They intend to complete the entire course here before entering the profession.

Quizzed on their trip cross-country, both women say that it was entirely unadventurous and calm. Lake Tahoe was their favorite spot on the trip and they name it the most beautiful spot in the country.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 20 Friday, January 10, 1947 Page 2

State Of Union

Public Waits For Show

THE State of the Union is beginning to reflect the trend of American living and political doings for the next two years as national legislators settle down in the midst of a Republican-controlled Congress.

The man from Missouri is, as the poets would say, "between the devil and the deep."

The complicated portrait that bulges at the seams indicates a Picasso-like view that has many a citizen quaking in his boots.

Assuredly, all the actors are on stage.

And the public demands a "show for its money."

Reduction of the proverbial "death and taxes" policy is still in the look-see stage, but the truth of the matter lies in the fact that neither party will make a definite step lest the wrath of the public be incited to mercenary deeds.

A battle of forces struggling to survive a Senate prize drama not seen since the Hoover era.

One party is in power facing the challenge of the veto that is the President's ace in the hole defensive card.

The State of the Union will headline the American scene as never before.

Resolutions enacted by individuals may call for "peaceful negotiations" between both parties in an effort to dissuade the American public from clamping down on the current session of Congress.

Who knows what the next two years may bring into effect?

Certainly, no gain can be seen on a virtual standstill that boils down "a State of the Union" message of simple hope and nothing else.

Ford

After Dark

NEW DIRECTIONS has recently published Nightwood, by Djuna Barnes, which some critics, and, strangely enough, readers consider to be one of the most remarkable literary productions of our time. It is Number Eleven of the New Classic Series, and T. S. Eliot has written a fitting introduction to commemorate the launching of this unusual work.

The book was first published nearly ten years ago, and after that, for reasons unknown, went out of print. The book, however, continued to enjoy a huge subterranean reputation not unlike that of Lady Chatterly's Lover, Tropic of Capricorn, and Black Spring. Today, after the insistent demands of Naval coordinators, ministers, Westinghouse representatives, and California college students, the volume has been reissued.

There is a peculiar insight on the part of Miss Barnes of the elements that go into the disintegration of an individual's personality. Time-worn cliches do not suffice in the description of this work, for the writing itself is a living challenge to the stereotyped procession of drab adjectives that have been seen tramping out of Beverly Hills in the past 20 years.

In a word, one has to read the book to appreciate the great talent Miss Barnes has created in the person of Robin Vote, a young American girl in Paris during the inter-war period. Although the book seems to revolve around the life of Robin, the theme of the work hangs on the fantastic monologues of Matthew O'Connor, a renegade doctor, also caught in the hedevilled stream emerging from the first war.

Do not look for a conventional novel with the usual assortment of themes, plots, and other literary vehicles exploited by our most able writers of historical novels. You will find none. Instead you will find a daring woman who has rejected realism, and built a careful pattern of dramatic scenes that border on the abstract.

A peculiar treatment of chance, or fate, permeates the book; thus, one sees a strange assortment of people cast into each other's company without especially wanting to be there.

It is this wonderful treatment of the hidden miseries, the universal suffering in life that binds the work into a single thread, following carefully a well coordinated theme, a single motivating ideal, that can only mean what New Directions has intended it to be—A New Classic.

* * * * *

A woman never forgives anybody who tries to keep her from making a fool of herself over a man.

Around And About

with Nagle

THE official college calendar tells us that the Christmas vacation is o'er. Vacation, as the dictionary points out, is "a period of rest, recreation or leisure." However, the students who enjoyed the "vacation" in the fullest sense of the word are certainly in the minority.

During the last week of class a few of the popular professors of the college pinned on their holly sprigs, and with the spirit of Christmas in their jolly voices, announced that the assignment during the holidays would be nil, and instead of working doubly hard to cover the immense backlog of work that invariably piles up on all instructors and their hard-working students, they would allow discussions to take place the first class meeting of the New Year.

But some instructors forgot the holiday spirit. They no doubt had gotten switches in their Christmas stockings as children and had decided to take it out on future generations, so opened up their texts, assigned 5,000 word term papers due (their generosity is overwhelming) the week following the return to class.

They also looked at their schedules and saw the end of the semester was alarmingly near, so to keep the "children" off the streets at night they assigned two or three additional chapters of reading, plus a little research on the side.

Naturally, college students are eager to acquire knowledge, but the majority of them offered their valuable services to some business establishments during the holiday period.

So this tiring chore, plus a bit of Christmas shopping with the battling barrage of last-minute shoppers, put the eager knowledge-seeking student on his knees pleading for 12 hours' uninterrupted sleep plus a double portion of Wheaties, rather than 12 hours knowledge-seeking with dusty, worm-infested reference books.

Days rolled by, and finally bleary-eyed students returned to slap their sad-eyed companions on the back and ask about their vacation studying, only to receive a sad shake of the head for an answer. The feeling being mutual, all whisked the dust off the texts, and slunk quietly and unobtrusively into back-row seats, as quietly as 1946 slunk out of San Francisco this New Year's Eve.

STANDBY

FOR those veterans who graduated from the Navy's boot camp at Farragut, Idaho, that camp has been turned into the FARRAGUT COLLEGE AND TECHNICAL INSTITUTE. For those who keep tab on former students of this college, E. C. "BILL" CODY is the first president of the student body at the nation's newest large college.

The make-up of the characters in the production of the Black Flamingo, put on just before the vacation period, was the job of MICHAEL GRIFFIN, a new member of the English department. Before entering the service Griffin did work in little theater groups.

A surprise was handed the friends of BILL RILEY, Guardsman reporter, and MARIE WISPELL, drama student, when they announced they had used their vacation to go to Reno, Nevada, and get married.

HAPPY EVANS, the Hotel and Restaurant division cashier, who won a 1946 Chevrolet on a raffle, has since acquired a brand new Dodge by trading off aforementioned Chevrolet.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

A Farewell To Arms From Marin County To Latitude (?)

ONE day early this month, totally unheralded and completely unnoticed, a plane winged its way westward into the trackless Pacific far, far beyond the rocky abutments of the Farrallone Islands that may sometimes be seen from the campus high atop Pneumonia Hill.

It is unlikely that any collegians were aware that day that the plane's star passenger was one Private Jimmy Hill, who went from hero to hobo in less time than it takes to get between classes.

All too familiar with many residents in learning here is the story of Private Hill whose vivid imagination succeeded only in bringing on him an ignominous exile into America's Siberia instead of eternal worship as the saviour of $250,000 in payroll money reposing in Hamilton Field's finance office.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

ELECTION'S once more nigh at hand,
And as we at the polls do stand,
Lest we forget our duties to tend
Remember, a politician's an ape's best friend!

The foregoing verse, translated from the Neolithic dialect, in which it was written during the second election to be held in the history of man, expresses at best a barbaric and cave-man-like attitude.

Today, of course, it is decidedly antiquated and hardly applicable to the elections to be held at the college next week. Those prehistoric voters could not help but become a trifle cynical, faced, as they were, on all sides by the necessity of self-preservation.

In the present era, however, with the theories and practices of democracy manifest, it is far simpler to discern the true nature of the contestants.

There is little need to fear or be distrustful of the consequences of corrupt politics. In the wise world today, the elect will invariably be the best choice for his or her particular office if some simple rules will be followed by those voting.

First, following the thorems of the science of physiognomy, each prospective voter should closely examine a photograph of the various candidates. If possible, each candidate should be quietly observed when he or she is unaware of the observation. In this way, much will be made obvious about the individual's character.

Next, bumps on the surface of the aspirant's heads should be carefully examined according to phrenological laws to determine the personality and integrity of the individual. These conclusions may be further verified and given the final acid test grapho-

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

OPERATION EDUCATION

A martyr to the cause is Private Jimmy Hill. A martyr in the eyes of young and old students plodding the Hill in search of knowledge. For Jimmy Hill "needs education, not punishment," said his commanding officer as he benevolently signed his travel orders that came with blinding speed from out of nowhere, crashing miraculously through the insurmountable barrier that is red tape.

Private Jimmy epitomizes the spirit of all students here. Those who went before him into and out of the same exile; those who are about to follow, thanks to their Local Board; and those of the distaff side who await their men as does his fiancee who innocently awaits, bewildered by the mighty powers that consigned her husband-to-be to a forgotten outpost amid the deep waters whose shores awash her native land.

BIRD SCHOOL

This is your obituary, Jimmy Hill. When you arise from the sands and ashes of Kwajaein Atoll, Iwo Jima or wherever you may be out there, may your education be compete. May your vocabulary be enriched with unlimited data on South Pacific bird lore, and may you still be capable of the English language, as guttural as it might sound after philosophizing with the inimitable Gooney birds that are now your brethren.

For you, Jimmy, have left us with a lesson in tolerance and kindness. You are not being punished for your error, Jim, nay, look upon the years to come out there as a glorious adventure and come back to those who wait; older and wiser, chin up and tanned from the gentle buffeting of Pacific tradewinds and typhoons.

RED LEAD IN THE SUNSET

You missed your boat, Jim, so Providence and the Air Transport Command at Hamilton Field just happened to have an airplane handy to speed you on to your new campus of learning.

There will be a boat someday to return you—a banana boat. Look to the horizon that surrounds you and soon will come glad tidings. Perhaps a letter now and then; mayhap a wandering minstrel troupe, a USO show, will put in among the coral reefs to serehade you in song.

Grind not your teeth in bitter anguish, Jim, on the sands of C-ration stew.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Mystery Club Cites Safety Measure; Future Recruit Seeks Enlightenment

• Safety First

Editor, The Guardsman:

Upon recommendation of the executive council of the H.C.H. club, we would like to express the opinion of our entire organization concerning the traffic problem on Phelan Avenue.

It is our suggestion that stop signs should be placed on each side of the crosswalk on Phelan Avenue near the entrance gate to the west campus. We also recommend that a speed limit of fifteen miles an hour be enforced on the avenue.

We have agreed upon these recommendations by popular vote, and feel that there is no need to stress the necessity of this move.

Max R. Call (President)
Wayne L. Green (Vice-President)

Editor's Note:

There is no doubt that the aforementioned suggestion merits action. However, WHO and WHAT is the H.C.H. club? The Club Advisory Board, through which all club charters must pass, has no record of this club.

* * *

• Navy Information, Pls.

Editor, The Guardsman:

I have read a lot about the Navy's new college program in the Guardsman but I wish there were more details.

For instance, what kind of grades are you required to have throughout high school and preferably in your first year at the college?

Another thing I would like to know is what kind of program the Army, or any other branch of the service, has, if they have one?

Ronald Harris

Editor's Note:

As will be noted in the story about the Navy's college program, the details were so intricate that to be fully understood the student desiring further information should see Walter E. McCloud, director of veteran affairs, and acting local representative of the Navy, personally in building 12 on the west campus.

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Cafudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR...June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lejeunesse, Adele Reinisch.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Froedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Mara Wheatly, Melvin Hansen, Hani Weiss, Doris Hall.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Schaeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir, Florence Grant.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

Success Story

Hillsman Basks In Cagers' Wonderland

By Sam Goldman

Success story in the best Hollywood tradition is a mighty fine blueprint for life if one may heed the sage counsel of one Ralph Hillsman.

Call it luck, but the ex-University of Californian maintains it was "the break" of his career to settle down here among the Gaddys, Wilsons, Fischers, Eisans, Jensens, and Klemmers.

Talk about a basketball game and he will dance a veritable jig in saying, "Great game. Swell game, et cetera game."

Despite his penchant for calm, ice water tones of wisdom, Hillsman is not conservative in handling his current cage productions, entitled the varsity and the lambs.

A Navy man via St. Mary's Pre-Flight and way points, the guy possesses a stretch of amiability found only among the lordlier of the old time CPOs.

No one person is more confident of his team's abilities.

"Don't worry about the fellows. They'll win."

Happily married and always willing to listen to advice, be it on gardening or resetting a zone defense, the former Galileo High School grad can be safely called a liberal dresser.

A neat sport suit with a tie instead of the "levi and plaid shirt combo" is more in Hillsman's line. If you want to be a gentleman, dress the part of one.

Quite a philosopher, he is, too!

"If some of the teams are rated so good this season, then we won't have so much trouble this year as I thought we would."

Startling commentary, but sound judgment for one who cherishes a blue traveling suit, a maroon Ford, and his wife.

Just let someone try talking about Luisetti or Dr. Naismith, and certainly a guy with a sure fire method for success will be among the crowd.

Call it luck, he'd say!

Champ Reckoning

28 Gridders Receive White Block Awards

Twenty-eight sweater and block SF awards were distributed the recent 1946 season championship Northern California Junior College Conference football team, Dean Jack Brady announced yesterday.

Award winners are: Kenneth White, Donald Grant, Staten Webster, John Rainey, Raymond Poznekoff, Stanley Belcher, Arthur Ekdall, George Newell, Sterling Orgain, James Cronn, Howard Crouch, Carter Corey, Marshall Leong, Denny Miller, Arthur Psaltis, John Didlo, Robert Woodworth, Roland Stern, Isadore Biess, Phillip Collischonn, George Magnaris, Kenneth Schuchard, Glenn Hofman, Donald Rooker, Glen Smith, John Lanthier, Noland Gregory, and Sam Goldman.

Managers Evan Goldenburg and John Cooper will receive block SF's for services rendered the squad, Brady declared. During the regular season, the Rams captured eight straight loop wins.

RAMblings . .

Ramblings Wrecked By Holiday Treks

By Covall and Cowderoy

AS we support one eyelid with a stray toothpick and let the other just droop, another year of The Guardsman is ushered in. We don't want to say we're worn out but we dasn't put any soft words in this column for fear of lying down on one of them and catching forty winks.

Perhaps you'd like to know what The Guardsman sports staff did over those, Ugh! holidays.

Editor Bob Catudio decided to take in the famous Rose Bowl. Says Bob, "Al Hoisch gave us a lot of trouble but Ray Elliot and I had the rest of the UCLA team all figured out." Mr. Catudio, commenting on the crowds in the southern metropolis, said he didn't want to squawk but he had to pay the parking attendant a peso!!

Sam Goldman, football manager par excellence, didn't have too much to say.

Co-sports editors Covall and Cowderoy (us) were given a holiday assignment of trekking to Modesto to survey the cage courts for the tournament now in progress in that valley burg. The most we could find out was that it was very flat with hoops at both ends!! Hmmmm!

The rest of our stalwarts were scattered for a wide covering such things as the Slavonian A.C.'s annual Bocci Ball tourney, quoting the latest odds at Bay Meadows (Example: Lunch Hour 12-1).

Enough for the Staff.

Coaches Lee Eisan and Bill Fischer should be commended on getting up so early New Year's day and officiating at the East-West game. Both did a fine job.

The only coach starting off the New Year with a headache (whom are we kidding!) is Jack Gaddy. But his is all business.

After due consideration and innumerable rechecks, Mr. G. finds that although he issued 77 pairs of football cleats to our illustrious gridmen only 46 pairs have found their way back. Somehow the figures don't check. The only explanation Mr. Gaddy can figure is that there is a mystery league playing secret games at an unknown field!!! Well—maybe.

We shouldn't feel too badly about dropping a decision to the California Blues in their preliminary tussle to the first Cal-Ill. contest. So far the Blues have trounced 16 straight foes. Their latest victim being Marin J.C. who wasn't even in the game. Looks like good things ahead on the California Basketball horizon.

Speaking of our coaches brings to mind the article we read in a local daily naming Jack Gaddy and Bill Fischer as all-time players on their respective college teams. Jack Gaddy as an end at U.S.F. and Fischer as a tackle at St. Mary's. Of course, this is just one man's idea but it is interesting to note.

We also hear that Tom Wilson is rated the best end ever produced at College of the Pacific. Just like we always said, the best is none too good for San Francisco Junior College.

It looks to us as though you have to be an all-something before you can get a job these days.

Sacramento Favorites To Nab Valley Tourney

Modesto, January 9—Sacramento College's Panthers were still seeded top favorites to win the second post war Modesto Junior College Invitational Basketball Tournament, according to the sideline dopesters who admitted "Pasadena and Modesto also looked pretty good."

First round contests pit the San Francisco Junior College Rams against Pasadena.

(Because of an early deadline, results of the tournament will be included in the next issue of The Guardsman.)

Regular Northern California Junior College Conference play begins January 15, Commissioner J. Paul Mohr said yesterday.

Guardsman SPORTS

WAA

Post War Cruise Is Tourney Theme Ending Semester

Curtain time festivities of the Women's Athletic Association for the week commencing January 13 are immersed in a covering of nautical secrecy as WAA clubs prepare to entertain high school athletic representatives at a Wednesday banquet.

Site of the WAA banquet is the student lounge, Gloria Swiecegood, WAA adviser, announced yesterday. Tickets will be available for purchase daily in the women's gymnasium office.

Theme of this semester's week long celebration is "Post War Crusade."

Women in charge of WAA tourney week affairs are Frances Scilipoti, Annette Low, Priscilla Mantyla, Carol Porter, and Chow Kaji. Emphasis was given the generalized feeling of unity and sportsmanship resulting from each tourney week.

Events scheduled for next week include a club dancing demonstration, badminton against San Mateo Junior College here, and a San Francisco State College play day.

Many see the handwriting on the wall, but only a few can read it.

Baseball

Fischer Foresees Topnotch Season

The collegiate baseball picture took a decided turn for the better yesterday as Bill Fischer, head baseball coach, prophesied a "better than average" season for the locals, defending champions of the Northern California Junior College Baseball Conference.

Despite the loss of Charley Brabbitt, Ralph McIntire, Tom Galvin, Jim McNamara, Dick Sabatini, and Don Keck, the Rams may field a top flight nine come next month when spring training begins on the Ocean View diamond.

Backbone of the 1947 production may be found in the Sausalito Ice and Fuel team now cavorting in the winter Big Bee loop. The Fuel lads have won 15 out of their last 16 starts against top notch opposition.

Pitchers George Koche and Bill Collins will be back, as well Roger Runnio, Chet Andersen, Herb Markall, George Homsey, Ed Allemand, and Sherrill Houghton, letter winners from last year's championship club.

WAA Sponsors Dance Show Here Thursday

A modern dance demonstration will be given in the women's gymnasium on Thursday, January 16, at 2:00 p.m., the dance being held under the sponsorships of the San Francisco Dance League.

Marian Van Tuyl, one of the country's leading modern dance exponents, and Eleanor Lauer will give the demonstration. All women are invited to attend. Swimming classes originally scheduled for this time will meet in the women's gymnasium.

BENNY'S RAM SHACK

1051 Ocean Avenue

Phone—RAndolph 9632

Dixie Fanfare

Southern Paper Tabs Rams As Tops

Vicksburg, Miss., January 9—The Vicksburg Evening Post went on record to predict a possible 1947 football championship for the highly rated San Francisco Junior College Rams.

"Defeating the rest of the pack easily, the San Francisco eleven, which was spurned from the Little Rose Bowl, will dominate the picture in 1947," the Post reported.

The Post rated San Francisco Junior College as national champions of the junior collegians, and gave high praise to the coaching ability of Lee Eisan, head coach at San Francisco Junior College.

Increased interest and spectator attention College Conference will maintain so early New Year's day and officiating Post. "One of the surprising things of the 1946 season, which was full of surprises, was the popularity of junior college football. That was proved by the crowd of 51,000 who attended the Little Rose Bowl this year," the Post stated.

1947 Cage Schedule

Official Northern California Junior College Conference basketball schedule for the Rams this season is as follows:

Jan.	15—Santa Rosa (H)	8:15 P.M.
	17—Napa (T)	8:15 P.M.
	21—Placer (H)	8:15 P.M.
	25—Stockton (H)	8:15 P.M.
	31—Salinas (H)	8:15 P.M.
Feb.	3—Sacramento (H)	8:15 P.M.
	5—Salinas (T)	8:15 P.M.
	7—Sacramento (T)	8:15 P.M.
	12—Santa Rosa (T)	8:15 P.M.
	14—Napa (H)	8:15 P.M.
	21—Placer (Auburn)	8:15 P.M.
	22—Stockton (T)	8:15 P.M.
	26—San Mateo (H)	8:15 P.M.
	28—San Mateo (T)	8:15 P.M.

(H) Here (T) There

Intramural Swimming Meet Postponed; Net Tourney On, Volleyball To Come

A minor setback in the intramural sports program was announced by Intramural Director Tom Wilson with the disclosure that the swimming meet planned for January will have to be cancelled because of the closing of the pool.

"However," Wilson stated, "those students who have indicated their willingness to compete will be given the opportunity early in the spring when the tank reopens."

Opponents have been announced for the second round of the singles tennis tournament. These matches are as follows: Sidney Oram vs. Fred Bodine, A. K. Louie vs. F. W. Carroll, Bud Goldman vs. Chas. Nix, Marino Mangiola vs. Bill Covall, Roland Sutjin vs. Ronald Langton, and the winner of the Watson-Raymond match vs. Harold Lansing. This round should be played as soon as possible in order to finish the tournament before the end of the semester. Those players not wishing to finish the tournament should contact Wilson in the men's gymnasium.

The final deadline for entries in the volleyball tournament has been extended to Tuesday, January 14. This is to be the final sport for the fall semester. Points accumulated in this sport will be added to the total already earned by the competing teams.

The Dr. Cloud Perpetual Trophy will be awarded at a student assembly in the near future. All managers of teams who wish to get full credit for their organizations should see Wilson in the men's physical education office in order to check all participation.

NCJCC Leaders Frown On Post Season Games

Stockton, January 9—Representatives of the Northern California Junior College Conference will maintain an adamant stand in disfavoring post season football games in contrast to the hopes of numerous college student body leaders throughout the state.

Members of the "A" Division gained two new teams with the addition of Marin and Stockton Junior Colleges to a loop which also comprises San Francisco, San Mateo, Sacramento, Modesto, and Salinas Junior Colleges.

TWO BEEG GUNS in the Ram attack are Bill Burroughs (top) and Bill Bahr. Burroughs with his shooting abilities and Bahr with his field-generalship have kept the college in the fray from season's beginning.—Photos by Lustig.

Trinity Churchyard, New York City, is notable for the number of illustrious dead resting there. Among them are Alexander Hamilton, Robert Fulton, and William Bradford, the first printer in the United States outside of Boston, and the friend of William Penn.

Cubs Prep For Coming NCJCC Cage Season

Santa Rosa, January 9—Afternoon cage sessions continue to plague the Santa Rosa Junior College Cubs as Dick Blewett's varsity cagers hurried preparations for their loop opener against San Francisco Junior College on Wednesday, January 15.

More Hilltop Manner

(Continued from page 2)

logically inspecting the handwriting of each office-seeker.

When all of these items have been minutely scrutinized and the policies of each candidate have been accurately compounded, each voter should take his ballot in one hand, a sharply pointed pencil in the other, close his eyes and make his fatal mark.

When the results are announced there will be no doubt that the best choice will have been made. Anyhow, there will be another opportunity in four months!

How often a narrow mind and a wide mouth go together.

Male Animal Showered With Orchids, Fine Performances

By Ed Heyman

After playing to packed houses for three successive days in Room 209, the famed Thurber and Nugent comedy, The Male Animal ended its college run yesterday.

The fast moving story of the problems of Professor Tommy Turner, his wife Ellen, and the visiting former football hero of ten years ago, carried a combined experienced and inexperienced cast over the difficulties of a play which saw several weeks' break in rehearsal during the holidays.

Especially polished performances by John Blauer and Ray Bisio, as the slightly Red-tainted college student and the football hero, respectively, helped to support the talented, but inexperienced leads, Julian Pace, Joyce Barsanti, and Shirlie Dilkey.

A fine emergency performance was rendered by Marylou Dreifuss, who came through in the tradition of the theater by learning her part in one weekend when the actress originally scheduled for the part became ill.

The set, which is the living room in the house for Professor Turner, was pleasurably complete thanks to the efforts of Ruth Somers, director of the production.

More than the fine effects, steady cast, and excellent timing of the actors, the audience was particularly swayed by the cast's own enjoyment of the production.

Fine supporting performances were given by Gloria Orzanco as Rosita, the maid, whose affected Latin dialect was perfect; Jack Kermoian as Wally Myers, football halfback, and eventually star of Midwestern's victory over Michigan; Eugene Carlson as Dean Frederiek Damon, head of the English department whose well played part had many students cheering when the so-called worm turned; Lauree Kaye and Cathryn Thompson, who doubled as Mrs. Blanche Damon, wife of the dean; Walter Mahoney, whose energetic portrayal of Ed Keller, a trustee, overcame his youthful appearance; and Margery Fulton as Myrtle Keller.

The same cast will present Noel Coward's Fumed Oak and Oscar Wilde's The Birthday of the Infanta in Room 209, Thursday, January 23. These productions will be given free of charge in the form of open rehearsals.

THE NICE MAN COMETH, meaning Julian Pace (left), one of the leads in the campus production of The Male Animal, which ended its collegiate run yesterday. Ray Bisio (center) and Shirlie Dilkey (right) are also featured in the famed James Thurber-Elliot Nugent comedy drama. Photo by Lum.

Lambda Alpha

Music Society Installation Slated For Student Lounge

The local music department will add another feather to its already well-plumed cap when a chapter of the junior college music honorary society, Lambda Alpha, is installed here in the student lounge Saturday afternoon, January 18.

On hand to lend an official air will be the Alpha chapter of Lambda Alpha from Modesto Junior College. The students from the inland college will act as installing officers and will preside over the ceremonies in general.

This newly formed organization will serve as a medium through which the students majoring in the field of music can attain for themselves recognition as scholars as well as talented performers.

According to Flossita Badger, music director, the department will also inaugurate for the first time this semester a unique form of final examination for the members of the voice classes here. The final test will be in the form of a recital to be given at a later date in the auditorium on the west campus.

Hotel Claremont Scene Of Frost Frolic Dance

The Florentine Room of the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley will be the scene of the Frost Frolic, a dance sponsored by the Associated Students, on Friday, January 17. Dancing is scheduled from 9 to 12 in the evening, Nancy Cunningham, Social Committee chairman said recently.

Music for the evening will be supplied by Howard Frederics' orchestra which has an excellent reputation for playing sweet music. Admission to the dance will be one Associated Student card per couple. There is no other charge.

The Social Committee, composed of Nancy Stookey, Millie Laube, Bill Holmes and Ray Bisio, is hoping that this informal dance will be as successful as past Associated Student dances.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jene Doran

• Alpha Lambda Chi: Formal initiation is scheduled for tomorrow night at the home of Helen McDonough, 3909 Lakeshore Avenue, Oakland. The ceremony will be followed by a dinner dance at the Hotel Claremont.

• Engineering Society: Earle Crullin, Hydro-Electric Engineer of the P. G. & E., will be guest speaker Monday evening, January 13, at 7 p. m. in Room 136. His topic will be The Progress of Hydro-Electric Power in California.

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Pledges formally initiated New Year's Eve are Bob Averley, Bob Hansen, Jerry Del'Osso, Jack O'Neil, Chuck Single, Art Martin, Ray Bever, Jim Mann, Paul Lehigh, Bill Simon, Nick Derriman, and Hank Perin. Officers have been elected for next semester and are Pres. Bob Kruezberger, Vice Pres. Al Hinds, Treas. Jerry Del'Osso Secretary Bob Hansen, Historian Jack O'Neil, and Custodian Art Martin.

• Kappa Phi: An election meeting will be held January 16 at the home of Barbara Burke, 651 12th Ave. A mother's tea is planned for Sunday Jan. 19, from 2 to 5 at Marie Upland's home, 233 Castenada Avenue.

• Lutheran Club: A winter banquet will be held this evening in the Garden Room of the First English Lutheran Church in Oakland. The Reverend Ross Hidy will speak.

• Newman Club: Next semester's officers will be elected Monday night, January 13, at St. Emydius Hall.

• Forum Club: Will meet Saturday night, January 11, at 2251 Jackson St. Topic to be discussed will be Should the United Nations interfere with the internal affairs of individual nations?

• Alpha Gamma Sigma: A party will be held tonight at 1680 Sloat Boulevard (corner 34th Avenue), at 7:45.

• Latin American Club: New officers will be elected during next college hour meeting in Room 346. All members and others interested are urged to attend.

Vet Housing At Hurley Village Halted By FHA

Housing aspirations of the married veteran students suffered a severe blow with the announcement by Dean Edward E. Sandys, that construction on the Hurley Village Annex had been halted.

Sandys, in his announcement, stated, "The lack of federal funds caused the sudden shutdown on the housing project."

This project of the Federal Housing Authority originally called for 169 units, but shortly after announcement of this plan the number was reduced to 22.

"It is expected that construction will be resumed following Congressional approval of appropriations for the Federal Housing Authority," Dean Sandys said.

Kate Douglas Wiggin wrote her first book, The Story of Patsy, to raise funds to open a free kindergarten for poor children.

Counselling

GI Bill Hits Vet Course Repetition

A veteran will not receive subsistence for any course in which he has previously received an F, if he desires to repeat the course, William I. Olsen from the Education and Training Section, Regional Office, Veterans Administration, announced yesterday.

The following paragraph is directly quoted from Olsen's letter:

"Regulations state that the Veterans Administration will not pay for any course of instruction which the veteran has previously taken and failed under PL346. In the case of a man enrolled in institutional training at a college or a university, the VA will pay for all new courses taken by the veteran. An example would be a veteran enrolling for twelve hours, three hours of which he had previously taken under PL346 and failed. The VA would pay for only nine hours of instruction and the veteran would receive subsistence at the rate of three-fourths training time."

A veteran can enroll for 15 hours, 3 hours of which he has previously taken and failed, but in the repeat course, the VA would not be responsible for books, fees, supplies, or other equipment needed, Olsen concluded.

ATTENTION
Excelsior Extension Students
Get Your Hair Cut Between Classes
3 Barbers — No Waiting
VETERAN'S BARBER SHOP
Excelsior & Mission Streets

Publications

Material Now Accepted For Forum Magazine

Headed by a new editorial staff including Adele Reinisch, and Albert Kipnis, and sponsors Dorothy Mercer, and John Gerstung of the English and history departments respectively, Forum Magazine, the college's annual art-literary publication is accepting material for the current issue, according to Kenneth Ford, editor.

Composed entirely of student-submitted material, the Forum presents a cross section of local literary skill. Particularly welcome for the forthcoming issue are both formal and informal essays, the editor said.

Not alone restricted to essays however is the magazine. Short stories, satirical pieces of every nature, poetry, and new-trend writings are equally acceptable.

In addition budding artists are invited to submit original creations for the cover design.

Students should submit their work either to Gerstung or Miss Mercer in their offices, or leave them at the Forum Office in the main building. First deadline date for submission of material, is Friday, January 24, Ford said.

AWS Sponsors Tea For High School Seniors

A traditional tea honoring the San Francisco Public High School graduating women seniors, was given yesterday, in the student lounge, by the Associated Women Students, Nancy Stookey, president, and a committee acting as hostesses.

Helen Reveal, Norma Addlestone, and Janice Krentzmann, faculty members, assisted in pouring tea.

Scholarships

Schutt, Orr Win Denman Award Presented By Heirs Of Late Educator

Carol Schutt and Dolores Orr were named winners recently of the annual Denman Scholarship Awards by President A. J. Cloud.

Both women were presented checks for $125 each in the name of Judge William Denman and his sister Mrs. Mary Cheatham, who sponsor the scholarship each year in memory of their father, the late James Denman.

Student Ushers Needed For All Wagner Musical

Students interested in attending major musical and theatrical productions scheduled for the Bay Area are encouraged to apply to Dean Margaret Dougherty at their earliest convenience.

Ushers are needed for the forthcoming all-Wagner Musical featuring the San Francisco Symphony and Pierre Monteaux this Sunday, January 12, as well as an all-Brahms Concert by the same organization Sunday, February 9.

Ushers from the college, eight each night, will also be needed for the Skating Vanities, beginning January 14, at the Civic Auditorium. These ushers can expect to be paid. Numerous other productions of local and national repute are also in the offing.

Charters Approved By CAB For Two New Clubs

Acceptance of the charters of the Radio Engineering Society and the Ski Club and rejection of the T.Z.N. Fraternity Charter was enacted at the last meeting of the Club Advisory Board, December 13.

BOOKS-STATIONERY-SUPPLIES
Everything you need for the spring semester
Visit Our Special Alcove For Something Old and New in Books
Campus Picture Available
THE COLLEGE BOOK SHOP
(Opposite West Campus Gate)

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1947 No. 21

Polls Open Today For Student Goverment Race

I BELIEVE THAT the student government should be kept in the hands of all students and not run for the benefit of a select minority.

Student government should concern itself with the problems and desires of the students and not consider its job accomplished when it has offered an elaborate social season, and little else. A well-rounded social season is important, but it is not solely so.

So far the student government has not solved the traffic and parking problem.

Students still run the risk of injury or death because there is no crosswalk on Phelan Avenue.

Students must still walk to the cafeteria in the rain when a sheltered walk is not infeasible.

Student officers should and must work with all groups, regardless of their affiliations, for the betterment of the students as a whole.

My only campaign promise is that I will serve all students in an absolutely impartial manner, favoring no organization or group.

Trav Burrow

Presidential Candidate Burrow —Photo by Lum.

THE MAIN PLANK in my political platform is one of greater unity within the college. While in other school offices, I noticed a marked lack of unity; not only among individuals, but also among separate organizations. With the installation of the proper college spirit by student officers, I feel that this lack of unity can be abolished.

A second ideal that I wish to promote is one of greater individual student participation in the Associated Student government. Every student has the right to express his ideas and differences before the Student Council, and, if this fact can be transmitted to everyone, it will develop a greater interest in government affairs and also provide for a more efficient government.

Lastly, the wish to further the prestige of the college throughout the city and state is ever present in my plans for aiding this, our San Francisco Junior College.

Bill Holmes

Presidential Candidate Holmes. —Photo by Lum.

Burrow, Holmes In Top Battle; Four Posts Uncontested

Undercurrents in college politics center major attention on the Associated Student Presidency and the Vice-presidency during this winter electoral campaign which leaves four offices uncontested.

The eyes and ears of the campus are attune to the tease battle raging between Trev Burrow and Bill Holmes over who is going to be President of the Associated Students during the spring semester.

The second big issue lists Betty Davis and Nancy Stookey on the main ticket for Vice-president.

These are the "Big Four" providing the excitement in the lever-pushing going on today and tomorrow.

When Frank Nelson saw the sun set on the final day for filing petitions to run for office, he knew that he was in, for no one opposed him. All it takes now is a positive vote from the students, and Nelson takes over as President of the Associated Men Students.

Claire Levesque is in a similar seat, since she is the only applicant for the leader of the feminine student body, President of the Associated Women Students.

This plague of non-runners afflicted both the Sophomores and the Freshmen who, with the assent of the Associated Students, will have Astrid Wettin and Jim Edwards as their presidents, respectively.

Conflict again entered the set-up when positions on the Student Council led 13 sophomores to fight it out for seats. These are Mark Atwood, Rita Buchaglis, Jackie Faxon, Leslie Holden, Foster Jones, Millie Laube, Louis Luna, Kari Markman, Pat Pollock, Roberta Robb, Carol Schutt, Bob Winegardner, and Gloria Jean Wu.

Freshmen, too, became aggressive, sending the following ten out to argue over freshmen representation on the council: Marilyn Conover, Byrne Davis, Nick Dirtiman, Beverley Huddleson, Roy Llenau, Peggy McCormick, Helen McDonough, Lou Nellson, Robert Reilly, and Nancy Wallace.

Associated Students

$1 Boost In Membership Cards Backed; Haug Predicts Active Spring Semester

By Hank Weiss

Next semester the Associated Student treasury will be approximately $5,000 richer. By unanimous vote the Student Council has approved a proposal boosting the tariff on Associated Student cards for the spring semester up one dollar.

The raise will move the present fee from $4 to $5 and is slated to swell treasury funds from $18,000 used this semester, to an approximate $23,000 for next semester's expenses.

Despite the additional dollar layout on membership cards, the college will still boast one of the lowest student rates in the state. Several other major state junior colleges maintain student activity fees ranging from $15 down per semester.

Unanimous action of the council in initiating the increase reflected the undisputed opinion of student officers that a larger appropriation has been necessitated by the addition of a whole new campus—the west campus; by resumption of post-war student activities; and by the organization of new clubs and social functions.

Coupled with the increased expenses promulgated by the college's physical growth is the general upward surge of prices and costs necessary in maintaining an effective and efficient student government.

One of the notable restrictions imposed by lack of funds this semester has been recent sporadic publication of The Guardsman—a "twice weekly" newspaper.

President Dean Haug has expressed hope that future student leaders will have sufficient funds to promote not only the uninterrupted twice-weekly publication of The Guardsman, but also be able to instigate improved parking facilities, purchase of band uniforms, enable full participation of the college in the United Junior College Conference, as well as enhancing a host of other student enterprises heretofore infeasible by reason of financial impotence.

"The collective purchasing power of this increase should go toward making the coming spring semester a momentous one," President Haug declared, in commending the resolute action of the Student Council.

Voting To Continue Through Tomorrow

Election polls opened this morning in the old cafeteria at 9:30 and will remain open until 6 o'clock this evening. Again tomorrow the voting machines will start operation at 9:30, but will close at 3 o'clock.

All students are urged by the Election Committee to cast votes for their choices, and everyone must have an Associated Student card to be admitted to the polls.

A review of election figures of past semesters reveals the following testimonial to the interest of the students in the Associated Student elections:

In Fall '43 elections, only 40 per cent of the students voted; Fall '44, 33 per cent; in the Spring of '45, the voting tabulations mysteriously disappeared and no figures are obtainable; in Fall '45, 33 per cent again voted; and in Spring '46, a low of 26 per cent voted.

Electioneering will not be tolerated around the polls, and any organization violating this rule will have its candidate disqualified, the election committee warned.

Members of the election committee, headed by Chairman Ed Gallemore, include Norman Busse, Hilda Ghio, Jackie Faxon, Frank Reed, Janet Caine, Jo Ellen Cain, Chris Dukas, and Doreiyn Patton.

They will be on hand at the polls to issue instructions and to prevent violation of election rules posted in the main building.

Forum Editor Requests Student Contributions

Kenneth Ford, editor of the Forum, annual college magazine, again put forth a call Friday for submission of material suitable for the publication.

The Forum, published each spring semester, presents a cross section of literary work. It is connected with such types of writing as short stories, poetry, essays, and new-trend writing. Especially desired at this time, according to Editor Ford, are contributions written in a humorous vein.

The Forum is scheduled to make its appearance early in April. Ford heads a staff that includes Albert N. Kipnis, Adele Reinisch, and George Lajeunesse.

Advisers include Forum Club faculty advisers Dorothy Mercer, John Gerstung, William Goss, and John Ross, with George Mullany and Samuel Duff acting as technical advisers to the editorial staff.

AWS Dance in Student Lounge Tomorrow 11-3

Because of tremendous success of previous noon dances, the Associated Women Students are again sponsoring a dance tomorrow from 11 to 1 o'clock in the student lounge on the west campus.

Admission is by presentation of Associated Student card at the door, and all students are invited to attend.

Sophomores

First Tickets For Formal On Sale Now

Tickets for the Sophomore Formal go on sale today at the college bank at $2 per couple, Millie Laube, sophomore president, announced.

The dance will be staged in the Italian and Colonial Rooms of the St. Francis Hotel, from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Friday, January 24, with the music of Ray Hackett and his orchestra.

The attire will be formal with tuxedos not required, hence dark suits for men will be permitted. The no-corsage rule has been lifted for the occasion.

The winners of the Sophomore Queen-King contest will not be announced until the coronation at the Sophomore Formal. The coronation is scheduled to take place at 11 p.m., Miss Laube said.

XGIs To Elect Spring Officer Crew Jan. 31

Election of the XGI Society Officers for next semester will be held Friday, January 31, in Room 1, at the War Memorial Building. Nominations will be open until election time, 8 p.m., and new officers will be installed after the voting.

The nominating procedure is being conducted in almost the same manner as in the nomination of Associated Student officers, Trev Burrow, XGI president, said.

A candidate for an office is required to file a petition and to obtain the signature of 10 XGI members of good standing. One also must have at least a "C" average in his past semester's work and n will to do his best in office.

The society's constitution will be completely revised for next semester, Burrow said.

Fink Flings Fags, Setting Off Mob Warfare, Cannibal Era Of United States

By Del Pichon

"Junior! Watch where you drop the ashes from your Betraton cap pistol. It's the little things that mount up to big things and cause great calamities. You know how the American catastrophe occurred, don't you?"

"No, How did it, Grandpa?" Junior asked.

"It all started 5,000 years ago in a little city on the coast of the Pacific Ocean by the name of . . . Frisco!

"It seems that they had a little city college attended by a large number of war veterans, among whom was Moe Fink, a simple, ordinary person. His one bad characteristic was that he dropped his cigarettes on the pavement instead of placing them in the receptacles provided for that purpose.

"Well sir, Moe kept dropping his butts wherever he happened to be, and it wasn't long before the rest of the students started following his example. Cigarette butts piled up. More and more of them were heaped upon the rapidly growing pile, until it grew to tremendous proportions.

"Finally the students found it impossible to get into the building, as a wall of tobacco blocked their way. Their source of knowledge was cut off.

"The students became listless and ignorant. The veterans couldn't get jobs. One thing led to another; the veterans took their souvenir weapons and became gangsters; their girls became gun molls. The city became the scene of bloody gang wars.

"Finally the gangs began taking sides against one another until there were only two great gangs left. One of the gangs got hold of an atom bomb and blew up the district. Ravolt flamed throughout the land! In the end the government was destroyed, and anarchy, and terror became rampant.

"Constant warfare desolated the countryside; atom bombs leveled everything. There was no food as nothing would grow in the seared soil. The people turned to cannibalism and massacred one another until no one was left. It was the end of America!

"So watch where you drop your ashes, Junior. From little butts some mighty ashes grow!"

Claremont Site Of Friday Frost Frolic

The Frost Frolic, a dance sponsored by the Associated Students, will be held in the Florentine Room of the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley this Friday, January 17. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 in the evening, Nancy Cunningham, Social Committee chairman, said recently.

The orchestra of the evening will be Howard Frederic's, which now has the unusual reputation among the students of being in the habit of playing sweet music.

There is no admission charge to the dance, and all that is required is the presentation of one Associated Student card per couple. The Social Committee is hoping for a turnout comparable to those of previous dances held by the Associated Students.

The site for the dance is truly romantic, according to reports, as the Claremont Hotel, situated in the foothills overlooking San Francisco Bay, is very picturesque. Midst an atmosphere of such beauty combined with music it is expected by the Social Committee that the dance is bound to be a success.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 21, Tuesday, January 14, 1947 Page 2

Five Dollar Winner

Student Card Ceiling Up

YOU may start complaining now because the trend in price hikes has hit the entire student body of next semester.

The trend may be unjust, but it is inevitable. "The Associated Student card will be purchased by students next semester for five dollars instead of the usual four dollars."

Truly, an announcement was never released with greater meaning and benefit. And assuredly, one may question the reason for a sudden lift in purchase price.

For an institution of its size, this college has one of the lowest Associated Student card rates in the state.

Activities on this campus are more numerous with a large number of participants necessitating a "record total" in budget expenditures.

Certainly no one will deny himself the benefit of seeing the greatest good accomplished for the greatest number.

The 20 per cent increase, contrary to opinion, will not inflate the current coffers, but will help to balance a financial wheel that has been unexpectedly, through no one's fault, plunged into invisible mire.

In the long run, everyone will benefit.

No one will say he has been left to hold the poetical bag.

The era of the slashed budget will disappear, but do not look for miracles of monetary grandeur. Instead, remember the increase was enacted in good faith.

Your good faith in wanting campus activities, insurance benefits, and other needs is parlayed into a "five dollar winner."

Be prepared next semester.

Be prepared to pay five dollars for an Associated Student card.

There will be some complaints registered, but we still believe the trend in human greatness is all overpowering, beyond all doubt, above all complaints.

Ford

After Dark

FORUM Magazine has received several contributions in the past weeks, however, the staff is still requesting material to be submitted prior to the first deadline on January 24. As has been stated in a previous column, one does not have to be an English major to contribute, nor does one have to be affiliated with the Forum Magazine. The only prerequisite required for any potential contributor is that he be enrolled in the college, and that he will be present during the next semester.

The magazine is especially interested in short stories, either serious or humorous, critical essays, either formal or informal, on world issues, literature, politics, art, and education. The magazine is also interested in poetry, of any type, subject matter, and form, articles on any and all subjects, articles or stories employing satire, art contributions, single photographs or groups of photographs (not of Aunt Jane or Baby Bawler at 9 months), and reviews of outstanding plays, books, art works, etc. In short, any and all contributions are needed. Correct English is not essential—but it helps!

A final deadline will be announced during the first part of next semester. Any suggestions for a better magazine will also be welcomed. Submit material or suggestions to Dr. Dorothy Mercer in Room 251, John Gerstung in Room 237, or care of this column in The Guardsman office.

• • • •

Dalle!'s, A new Art Gallery, opened recently in Berkeley with a fine group representation of bay area artists. The present exhibit started December 20 and will last through January 20. The Sanity in Art Group, a minor organization of some sort who have taken it upon themselves to protect the artistic morals and ideals of home grown painters, will probably not be represented at the new gallery, however, the major bay area artists, who recognize the necessity of abstraction as an art form, will have their work periodically exhibited at Dalle!'s. Among the artists represented at the present showing are Eugene Berman, Ellwood Graham, George Harris, Daniel Milhaud, Man Ray, Jean Varda, Marc Chagrall, Andre Moreau, and others.

Around and About

with Nagle

A FACE is a face, according to some experts. However, this opinion is not shared by the super-swank women in the ultra-modern make-up salons of the glamorous world.

One human guinea pig chanced to be the object of one of these salon experimentations. The beautician assured her that the special, new, improved, scientific cosmetics would work a miracle (provided, of course, that if the patient had a dirty look, Nature gave it and not the cosmetologist).

NATURE TAKES A DETOUR

So with this faithful promise, she mixes powders, smears all sorts of creamy and/or liquid concoctions over the skin, peers at the epidermis with wierd instruments, writes down special chemical formulas and emerges with a self-satisfied expression as though she had just discovered a new way to split an atom.

Our talkative guinea pig happened to mention casually in conversation that she used soap for face washing purposes. With a look of horror which implied that the patient might as well use Brillo on her baby-like complexion, the operator with an anguished look went into a long discourse on skin care. Regaining her composure, she straightened up and said with a disdainful look, "Soap was made for MEN".

SOAPY SOCIAL LEPERS

The moral of this story is that there are a lot of misguided women going happily on their way using soap every day without the slightest notion that they are practically social lepers.

Some public-spirited citizen ought to drop a note to the Palmolive, Camay and Woodbury debs, advising them to wise up and give that soap to the poor before their fiances discover this breach of social code.

A final warning to hopeful hushand-hunters:

Use lard, margarine or peanut oil to cleanse your countenance, but for femininity's sake, remember SOAP IS FOR MEN.

STANDBY

By Chames

ARNOLD WECHTER, the college's unofficial publicity man to Mississippi, really did a job. In a by-line story for the VICKSBURG (Miss.) EVENING POST, WECHTER wrote a very brilliant article with a description of the local football team's success and also his prognostication of the west coast's return to prominence in the national football scene.

DEAN EDWARD E. SANDYS says that a ram, painted red and white, will be placed on the strip of grass in front of the auditorium on the west campus. This will be done some time in the near future.

BOB CATUDIO, Guardsman editor, traveled to Modesto for three days at the invitation of the MODESTO JUNIOR COLLEGE to be present at the basketball tournament held there.

No matter how worthy the cause, it is illegal for any recognized organization to distribute pamphlets on the campus without authority of the PUBLICATIONS BOARD. It is therefore doubly illegal for unrecognized groups to distribute pamphlets on the campus.

LOS ANGELES CITY COLLEGE election rules and regulations state that political advertising shall be permitted in the college paper providing such advertising is paid in advance at regular advertisting rates; and that campaign expenditures may not exceed $7.50 (including cost of glossy picture).

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Rogers Rides Again, In City-Owned Cadillac

IT appears that the mayor of San Francisco hasn't taken to riding his own streetcars lately.

Starting the last year of his four year term, Mayor Lapham reflected in a recent conference that, "provincial thinking and complacency" has halted the growth of San Francisco—a fifty percent correct observation at its best.

Roger was understating in labeling the bay city provincial. Beantown Boston in its height of glory was never choked with such hidebound tradition that hangs about the most beautiful harbor in the world like Spanish moss dripping from Florida swamps.

OVERHEARD ON THE CAR

However he rolled a gutter ball when he said the city was too complacent. If complacency in his sense means not giving a damn, then he's missed a rare treat by not patronizing his municipal "railroad" and listening to the voice of the people that elected him.

Complacency is hardly the tone of voice used by practically every customer on the tin horn, Toonerville trolleys, either on the cars themselves or sweating out a ride on a cold street corner these wintry days.

Someone should mail Roger a couple of tokens for a roundtrip from the city hall to the beach at the rush hour. They're not letting anyone ride for free these days, and he'd be no exception; hence the tokens.

MISSION RELIC CARRIES ON

If he'd straphang incognito for a few hours on the No. 11 line for a random example (any line will do however) he would have his finger right on the pulse of the public and the throbbing is getting wilder all the time.

Known for years out in the Mission district as the "old ladies' express," the No. 11 has been staggering out Mission Street tearing the asphalt to shreds and jangling the nerves of any and all that still survive through private and public ownership of the rolling, laughing stock.

Public mass meetings are held every minute of the day in San Francisco on board the clanking cream and green juggernauts that meet at the Ferry and bridge terminal and sprawl all over town, sometimes even getting back to their original starting point.

PASSENGERS CHAT ON CORNERS

Peace conferences have never equalled the wrathful language, the invective that is heaped daily upon the heads of the city fathers in general and the usually innocent crews of the municipal cattle cars.

And the street corner barrages blueing the air for blocks around from the lips of passengers standing in the cold as the tenth empty boxcar rattles and jolts toward a carbarn are lyric to the ears of any anarchist.

The city's provincialism is partly represented in a useless military post taking a big gap of land that could right now contain enough temporary housing for 15,000 homeless and the continued existence of the Powell Street cable that serves no other purpose than tourist bait.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

A QUICK tour through the former wilderness on our northernmost extremity reveals that Hurley Village is becoming the principal rival for the fastest growing community on Phelan Avenue.

The late-vintage buildings (which actually do not cause curvature of the spine) have been quite adequately fulfilling their appointed tasks of housing and sheltering from the icy winter's blasts, those veterans and their families who have been fortunate enough to acquire front door keys. Now, they even boast their own avenues and streets.

On what used to be a weed-infested tennis court, crumbling in disuse, have been erected two substantial buildings, built according to civilian standards. Their future use is not quite decided, but since they closely resemble the type of building which has heretofore been found serviceable for barracks, they may find themselves classrooms sometime in the near future.

Additions west of the science building were brought to light on January 2, and are, for the most part, highly appreciated. Most helpful to pedestrians is the absence of boulders and canyons on the picturesque front walk of the college. The innovation of hardened tar makes possible the addition of several sports which have heretofore been impossible.

Students may now use bicycles going uphill and roller skates going down to the west campus.

New improvements are in the offing. Before long builders and contractors will be swarming hereabouts. Shortly, it has been announced, several new buildings, to be used primarily as classrooms will be completed. We're waiting with baited breath!

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Landscaping To Add Campus Dignity; Beefs Undeserved By Food Fixers

• Orchids to Hotel Divn.

Editor, The Guardsman:

Noticed in one of the dailies the other day an article stating that prices in the cafeteria were too high and that some students were complaining about the high prices.

Although I am forced to admit that "I am not forced to eat three meals daily in the cafeteria" what meals I do eat there I have always found palatable, and very inexpensive. There are very few places where one can get a hot plate, dessert and beverage for less than 85 cents, and the prices in the cafeteria are considerably lower than that.

Rather than complain, it seems to me that students should praise the Hotel and Restaurant Division for serving such delectable meals, and for maintaining the low prices at long as they have.

B.S.

• Tree-Lover Wants Trees

Editor, The Guardsman:

Some years ago a tree planting program was instigated by the clubs at the college in an effort to beautify the campus.

Apparently this project had the misfortune to fall into that state called dis-interest. Whether it was lack of funds, materials, or hired help is part of the forgotten past.

Isn't it about time that the student council and other responsible groups used a little foresight? The addition of shrubbery, trees, and grass to the campus scene would be a project worthy of a total Associated Student effort.

San Francisco has the honor of being one of the most visited cities in the world, with many beautiful and historical landmarks to point to with pride. But the college, located high atop a wind-swept barren hill is more of an eyesore than a structure to point to with pleasure and eye-filling enjoyment.

By landscaping as much as possible now, in a few years the campus can be a setting of loveliness and dignity. But there has to be a start. How about it?

Ed Heyman

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio

MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon

ASST. MANAGING EDITOR...June Sheehy

FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adela Reinisch, Nick Chames.

NEWS: Trav Burrow, editor; John Bavier, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chamas, Jana Doran, Vivian Finedman, Edward Hayman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechtar, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Malvin Hansen, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall, Harbert Levy, Bill Keast, Clinton Lonas, Paul Lindstrom.

SPORTS: Bill Covell and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lawson, Ken Raymond, Sam Goldman.

PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.

STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Scheffer, Howard Simpson.

BUSINESS: Charles Boshnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir, Florence Grant.

Editorial Adviser.....Joen Nourse

Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

Rams Snare State Basketball Title

O'Neill, Cameron Nab All Star Spots

Modesto, January 12—San Francisco and Compton each placed two men on the ninth annual state junior college all-tournament team while Glendale captured the lone fifth position.

Compton's Bob Crowe was named the tourney's outstanding player, but a capacity crowd of 1,345 was rooting for Ram Center Ken Cameron who scored 75 points in four games and played brilliantly.

The team: Bob Crowe (Compton) and Ken Cameron (SF), forwards; Carl Kraushaar (Compton), center; and Mike O'Neill (SF) and Bill Lewis (Glendale), guards.

San Francisco won the Modesto Bee trophy by defeating Pasadena, 46 to 39; Yuba, 40 to 32; Menlo, 46 to 40; and Compton, 48 to 45. Menlo whipped Modesto 60 to 42 to cop third place honors, and Los Angeles City College whipped Glendale 60 to 59, in two overtime heats to take consolation laurels.

CAGE BOXSCORE

COMPTON (45)					RAMS (48)
Player, pos	FG	FT	TP		Player, pos	FG	FT	TP
Crowe, f	0	0	0		Burroughs, f	1	4	6
Joseph, f	4	1	9		Ginley, f	1	0	2
Kraushaar, c	1	4	6		Cameron, c	9	5	23
Loftus, g	0	1	1		O'Neill, g	4	2	10
Alfanes, g	3	2	8		Psaltis, g	1	1	3
Warren, g	5	0	10		Turner, f	2	0	4
Darrow, f	3	0	6		Baldocchi, f	0	0	0
Garcia, f	1	1	3		Tomlinson, c	0	0	0
Nyquist, c	1	0	2			—	—	—
Owens, c	0	0	0		Totals	18	12	48
Totals	18	9	45

Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 21 TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1947 Page 3

READY FOR TOMORROW'S OPENER are back row (left to right), Mike O'Neill, Roland Jones, Bill Kahn, Ken Cameron, and Jim Hughes. Front row (left to right), Astorre Bucciarelli, Phil Burroughs, Jack Ginley, Neil Turner, Hank Roberts, and Bill Bahr.—Photo by Lustig.

Basketball

Townies Tackle Santa Rosa In NCJCC Opener Tomorrow In Men's Gym

Inaugural clash of the Northern California Junior College basketball campaign unfolds tomorrow in the men's gymnasium at 8:15 p.m., when the Rams, surprise conquerors at last week's Modesto Tourney, meet Santa Rosa Junior College's Cubs.

The locals "will be ready" for what appears to be the start of the toughest season yet, according to maestro Ralph Hillsman, the ex-University of California performer who makes his debut in NCJCC circles.

The Cubs, boasting a none-too-impressive practice slate, face a revamped townie lineup via the insertion of Art Psaltis, former Mission High cager, at a guard spot, and Phil Burroughs at a forward slot.

Bill Kahn, stratospheric center, has been temporarily replaced by Kenny Cameron, who moves over from his forward post. Top guns for the invaders are Jacie Clark, center, and speedy Wayne Wanless, currently one of the leading Cub scorers.

Jayvee squads of both colleges will meet in a preliminary tussle at 6:45 p.m.

Starting lineups:

Cubs	Positions	Rams
Burroughs	Forward	Wanless
Ginley	Forward	Steen
Cameron	Center	Clark
Psaltis	Guard	Magowan
O'Neill	Guard	Pierce

Locals Edge Compton 48-45 In Title Drama; Cameron Nets 23 For Winners

By Bob Catudio

Modesto Junior College Gymnasium, Modesto, January 12—A miracle drama of sheer guts and underdog courage unfolded last night when the Rams, an apparent cast of misfits, annexed the ninth annual state junior college cage title by edging Compton College's Tartars, 48 to 45, in view of 1,345 customers.

Lack of reserve power made the miracle more pretentious than ever when titian-haired Center Ken Cameron twice fell to the floor because of a cramped leg muscle, but only after he had nailed victory with a last minute tip-in.

Trailing 21-20 at half time, the locals drew away to a 37-26 lead on buckets by Cameron and Mike O'Neill. Compton narrowed the gap and assumed a 45-44 lead on Billy Warren's 30-footer.

Art Psaltis, Ram guard, and Cameron swished consecutive charity throws and then Cameron cinched the townies' first state crown with his whirlwind tip-in. Ram Forward Phil Burroughs turned in the tourney's defensive gem holding Tartar speedster Bob Crowe scoreless.

Cameron meshed 23 points for the winners, O'Neill registered 10 as did Warren of the Tartars.

Unseeded, unheralded and the subject of sideline head-shaking, the locals lassoed a sentimental favorite's role that spelled four star performance by a still-dazed, but happy, home force five.

Baseball Clan Ready For February Opener

Although it is still a little early in the season, Coach Bill Fischer's Ram baseballers are beginning to get the kinks out of their systems in easy stages via the medium of stretching exercises and calisthenics in men's gymnasium.

Fischer does not expect too much this year unless he receives more than his share of players from the local high schools. A lot of his men from last year's squad will not be back, and as these men helped win a championship, it won't be easy to replace them. This is especially true in the case of pitcher Charley Brabbit.

The 1947 baseball schedule follows:

March 18—Menlo at S.F.J.C., 3:15.
March 22—S.F.J.C. at Menlo, 2:30.
March 25—Santa Rosa at S.F.J.C., 3:15.
March 29—S.F.J.C. at Santa Rosa, 2:30.
April 8—S.F.J.C. at Marin, 3:15.
April 12—Marin at S.F.J.C., 2:30.
April 15—S.F.J.C. at Vallejo, 3:15.
April 19—Vallejo at S.F.J.C., 2:30.
April 22 and 26—Bye.
May 3—Salinas at S.F.J.C., 12:15.

Tennis

NCJCC Net Play Resumes In Spring

With the first NCJC Conference tennis matches scheduled since 1941, Tennis Coach Tom Wilson announced that all men interested in competing in varsity tennis should sign up in the men's gymnasium before Monday, February 10.

Dual matches have been scheduled with each team in the league. The matches will consist of four singles and two doubles matches. The team winning the most dual matches will be declared conference champion.

Wilson disclosed that practice matches have been scheduled with the frosh teams of Stanford and California, and with the varsity squads of U.S.F., Santa Clara and S. F. State.

A conference meet will be held at Stockton on May 30 and 31 in which individuals will compete for medals and trophies.

Although nothing is known about the team, Wilson is expecting help from Bill Covall, Don Cowderoy, Ken Raymond and J. Logan. Covall and Cowderoy played varsity tennis for Poly High, while Raymond starred for St. Ignatius.

An urgent call for a varsity tennis manager has been sent out by Coach Wilson. Anyone interested should see Wilson in the men's gymnasium as soon as possible.

Coming Track Season Prospects Brighter

Coach Jim Jensen and his band of tracksters have been victims of inclement weather in regard to the training problem, and the prospects are again bright for another championship team.

Jensen expects some talent from the prep schools to augment his present list of stars.

The pole vault, however, is one event which will welcome a couple of more contestants, as Harry Tapolan is the only remaining top notcher who will be back. Tom Kellogg in the half mile will practically have his own way this season as he is much improved and should come close to record time.

The first meet is with the University of California at Edwards Field and will probably take place the first week in March.

WAA Goes Nautical For Tourney Week

Post War Cruise Theme Of 'Coed Navy'

By Nancy Nagle

Feminine pulchritude blossoms forth this week in nautical attire as the Women's Athletic Association launches into its Post War Cruise, the semi-annual Tourney Week.

The week's festivities will provide a crystal ball for future scheduled events, and a glance into the sea of the past semester's activities, Frances Scilipoti, WAA president, revealed.

The good ship WAA was launched early in the semester when bird-batters of the badminton clubs swapped banter and batters with crew members of the San Mateo Junior College and San Francisco State College racketeers. After these successful missions, hockey club members embarked to putter with the puck at both Santa Rosa Junior College and Richmond Union High School.

Not to be outdone, the Dance Club put the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo to shame with theatrical ballet techniques executed under the tuteleage of Janice Kreutzmann.

With true Christmas spirit, the club crews joined forces and gave a Christmas party on the last day of class before the holidays. To strains of Jolly Ole St. Nick and Silent Night, more than 50 women forgot their studies for several hours, played games, and partook of Christmas refreshments in anticipation of Santa's arrival.

As the first Post War Cruise now becomes an exciting memory to more than 100 members of the association, the crystal ball reveals even more exciting reminiscing for the fortunate women who enroll in the WAA next semester.

Silently thinking of the plans for next semester's activities, Miss Scilipoti's face beamed in eager anticipation, but she refused to give forth any military secrets concerning next semester's activities.

Choreography Tops Thursday Program

Modern dance, demonstrated and explained by Marion Van Tuyl and Eleanor Lauer, will feature the Women's Athletic Association Tourney Week in the Women's Gymnasium next Thursday at 2 p.m., Frances Scilipoti, president of the group, announced.

Miss Van Tuyl, as president of the San Francisco Dance League, and Miss Lauer, chairman of the Mills College dance department, both well-known exponents in the modern dance field, will demonstrate techniques and theory used in modern dance, according to Miss Scilipoti.

According to the modern dance choreographers, modern dance has a great future and is active in several colleges throughout the area. The enrollment of the modern dance classes of this college under the guidanceship of Janice Kreutzman is an example of the popularity of the course.

As to the purpose of modern dance, Miss Van Tuyl explains that "it is a phase of modern art reflecting life in our time . . . reflecting the struggle (not necessarily the grim struggle) we are going through."

At present these two dance experts are collaborating with the Museum of Art in the presentation of the winter series of Dance in Your Society series which traces the background of modern dance from the beginning of the century to the present.

Among the future lecture-demonstrations to be presented in this series are Dance and Stage Design, Use of the Voice With Dance, and Function of the Dance.

Miss Lauer's group of dancers will also give a lecture-demonstration at the National Physical Education convention to be held in April in Seattle.

Schedule Of Events

TODAY—Badminton play day with San Mateo, 3 p.m., women's gymnasium.

TOMORROW—Banquet, west campus auditorium, 6:30 p.m.

THURSDAY—Volleyball play day, S. F. State College, 3 p.m.; modern dance lecture-demonstration, 2 p.m., women's gymnasium.

Student Council

Judiciary Committee To Take Action In The Case Of Illegal Distribution Of Hand Bills By Unrecognized Group

Possible disciplinary action may be taken against the "Student Unity Club," unauthorized campus organization, when it is brought before the Judiciary Committee of the Student Council following action taken at a council meting last Thursday.

The "SUC" is accused of violating the constitution of the Associated Students by passing out handbills issued by them on campus. The constitution states that such material may not be circulated on campus by any organization except that authorized by the Publications Board, and distributed by a Council chartered group.

At the council meeting, Chairman Jerry Vogel of the "Student Unity Club" claimed that he had been given permission to circulate his material on Thursday by Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Sandys denied this emphatically and stated: "Although I would like to see the Student Unity Club operated on the campus, I cannot sanction any violation of Associated Student rulings by any organization."

Vogel then brought up the question of what constituted "on and off campus" and stated that he was under the impression that Phelan Avenue, where the handbills were circulated, was not "on campus." Dean Sandys stated, and it was the opinion of the council, that Phelan Avenue is "on campus" and that the circulation of such material at that location is definitely out of order.

Since the "Student Unity Club" is an illegal organization and has been out of order before, the Judiciary Committee will meet to take such action as is deemed necessary to prevent further violation of the constitution by the "SUC."

College Hour

Engineers' Society Calls Mass Meeting

Although no official college hour schedule has been announced the usual Friday schedule for classes will be followed this Friday, January 17, according to John Brady, assistant dean of men.

The free hour will be available for any independent club meetings which may be called, Brady said.

The newly formed Engineering Society has announced that a mass meeting will be held in the west campus auditorium, where the purpose and future plans of the club will be discussed. All engineering majors and interested students are asked to attend.

USC, Pomona College Offers Scholarships

Scholarships for amounts up to 400 dollars have recently been offered to graduates of the college who meet the requirements, it was announced last week by Edward E. Cranston, faculty adviser for the college honor society.

One scholarship is offered by the University of Southern California for students planning to major in Public Administration. Three scholarships are to be awarded by Pomona College, one of which is available only to permanent members of Alpha Gamma Sigma.

Skiers 'Train' For Registration

By Marge Whearty

Winter sports from the college standpoint was confined to running a mad race with pneumonia up the hill prior to this semester when the Ski Club came into being.

Harold Freedman and Bill Smith came forward with a new deal in a club which gave students a chance to enjoy the snow activities which the bay area climate prohibits, and a chance to train for the aforementioned race.

Once the idea was out, progress began. Joseph Jacobsen, college instructor, took the sponsorship, and the Club Advisory Board gave official recognition to the group.

Most student skiers and some plain "hopefuls" met and elected Bill Smith president. The panel of officers (without snowshoes) is seen in the above picture, left to right, Howard Simpson, CAB representative; Gloria Jiminez, secretary; Bill Smith, president; Myrtle Jerner, treasurer; William Williams, vice-president.

Activities began almost immediately with a trip to Yosemite over the Christmas holidays.

Just a few weeks rest and they are off again! This time to Sierra Pine Lodge over February 2 to 7. Just a little builder-upper preparing for spring registration.

In March comes the Ski Meet. Jacobsen announced that more skiers are needed to participate in this. All those interested should see him or one of the officers.

'Greenwich Villagers' At Work In Studio

Firm Of K&W Fills Poster Requests

By Marge Whearty

Growing in The Guardsman office is a small business center where Steve Kritikakos and Dick Walls fill all campus commercial art calls from their small corner in the press room.

William Eckert, art instructor, started the college Greenwich villagers in his commercial art class. As the demand for posters and various type of art work increased, he sent Kritikakos and Walls down the hill to set up the studio alcove to insure better handling of student publicity.

Most campus doings come about after the firm of K & W have set their hands to the task of brushing up the advertising ends.

Not content with the job that they have been doing, Kritikakos and Walls are bent on bettering their output with more materials. They have sent in supply sheets ordering such paper, and new brushes as will improve the college ads.

Since any election campaign would be colorless without the poster plugs of each candidate, K & W spent most of last week handling campaign work.

These artsters, both majors in commercial art, want to do the best work they can and therefore ask all students to place their orders, giving them sufficient time to turn out first caliber jobs.

POSTER ARTISTS Steve Kritikakos (nearer wall) and Dick Walls, at work on the Frost Frolic "Streamer" in their art corner of The Guardsman office, believe in bettering the quality of advertising throughout the campus.

UC Applications Due By January 17

Deadline for filing applications to enter the University of California for the spring semester is January 17, 1947, according to Mary Jane Learnard, registrar.

Miss Learnard further stated that a transcript obtained from the registrar's office, together with a personal application, must be filed at the University of California before a student will become eligible for admittance.

"Education is a better safeguard of liberty than a standing army."—Edward Everett.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

- Beta Phi Beta: At next Monday's business meeting, elections of next semester's officers will be held.
- Beta Tau: Delta Psi will meet with Beta Tau tomorrow night for a joint meeting.
- Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Installation of new officers for next semester will be held at the last meeting of this semester.
- Kappa Phi: Sunday, January 19, a mother's tea will be given at the home of Marie Upland. Thursday night elections of spring semester officers will be held.
- Phi Beta Rho: Formal initiation will be held Sunday, January 19, at the home of Joan Baumont, 202 Urbano Drive. Final plans for the between semester ski trip to Truckee have been made.
- Theta Tau: Tomorrow night a joint meeting with the Beta Phi Beta will be given.
- Lutheran Club: A pot-luck supper will be held Saturday, January 18, at 6:30 p.m. in the social room of Ebenezer Lutheran Church. Reverend R. B. Wiecker Anders will be guest speaker. For further information see Edward Larson, faculty sponsor, in Room 234.

Former Chef Trainer Hjorth Dies In LA

Ernst J. Hjorth, 67, former instructor in chef training, died at his Hollywood, California, home on January 3.

Much credit is due the late instructor for the high standards set in the early development of the vocational training offered in the hotel division, according to college administrators.

Mrs. Hilda Watson, chairman of the division, speaking of his contribution to the college said:

"Mr. Hjorth's work in the division was recognized by educators and by hotel and restaurant men alike as outstanding in conception and accomplishment. His experience in continental and American hotels and in his own business combined with his ability to impart knowledge made him invaluable in a vocational educational program of this nature."

Work books and compilations of recipes for quantity cooking developed by Hjorth were used as texts in training maritime cooks and bakers which the college undertook for the government during the war. Today Hjorth's recipes and texts are to be found in ships galleys wherever American ships sail the high seas.

Final Examination Schedule

FALL SEMESTER, 1946-1947

Classes	Day	Hour
8:15	MWF and Daily	Monday, January 27	8:10-10:30
8:15	TTh	Monday, January 27	11:00- 1:00
9:10	MWF and Daily	Tuesday, January 28	8:00-10:30
9:10	TTh	Tuesday, January 28	11:00- 1:00
10:10	MWF and Daily	Wednesday, January 29	8:00-10:30
10:10	TTh	Wednesday, January 29	11:00- 1:00
11:10	MWF and Daily	Thursday, January 30	8:00-10:30
11:10	TTh	Thursday, January 30	11:00- 1:00
12:10	MWF and Daily	Friday, January 31	8:00-10:30
12:10	TTh	Friday, January 31	11:00- 1:00
1:10	MWF and Daily	Wednesday, January 29	1:00- 3:30
1:10	TTh	Thursday, January 30	1:00- 3:00
2:10	MWF and Daily	Tuesday, January 28	1:00- 3:00
2:10	TTh	Friday, January 31	1:00- 3:00
3:10	MWF and Daily	Monday, January 27	1:00- 3:30
3:10	TTh	Thursday, January 30	3:00- 5:00
4:10	MWF and Daily	Monday, January 27	6:00- 8:30
4:10	TTh	Monday, January 27	3:30- 5:30
5:10	MWF and Daily	Tuesday, January 28	6:00- 8:30
5:10	TTh	Tuesday, January 28	3:30- 5:30
6:10	MWF and Daily	Wednesday, January 29	6:00- 8:30
6:10	TTh	Wednesday, January 29	3:30- 5:30
7:10	MWF and Daily	Thursday, January 30	6:00- 8:30
7:10	TTh	Friday, January 31	3:00- 5:00
8:10	MWF and Daily	Friday, January 31	6:00- 8:30

The final examination for all students taking Basic Skills A-1, A-2, A-3 or English H1 and H2 will be given on Saturday, January 25, in Room 100. Students will be told by their instructors at what time they are to appear. The exam will take two hours.

The RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—RAndolph 9632

J. C. STUDENT STORE
Books — Stationery — Fountain
Student Center for the College
965 Ocean Avenue

Lakeside Music Shop
2525 Ocean Avenue
New and Hot Records
Phonographs — Radios — Radio Repairs
Open 10-6 Daily
Thursday Till 9 p.m.
Operated by Former J. C. Student
(Ex G. I.)
Phone JU. 4-3345

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIII SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1947 No. 22

College Hour Schedule

9 o'clock classes— 9:05 to 9:50
10 o'clock classes— 9:55 to 10:40
College Hour—10:45 to 11:30
11 o'clock classes—11:35 to 12:20
12 o'clock classes—12:25 to 1:10
1 o'clock classes— 1:15 to 2:00

PRESIDENT TREV BURROW (left) via the Marines and McAlester, Okla., shakes hands with his opponent, Bill Holmes. Burrow succeeds Dean Haug as college student president. —Photo by Lum.

Associated Students

Judiciary Committee Asks Probation For Vogel In Illegal Handbill Case

The Judiciary Committee of the Student Council presided over by Don Burger, chairman, last Monday recommended to President A. J. Cloud probation next semester for Jerome Vogel, chairman of the unrecognized "Student Unity Club." Vogel was accused of violation of the Associated Student constitution on the grounds of illegally circulating handbills on the campus contrary to Publication Board rulings.

This action followed distribution of handbills last week by the "SUC" on Phelan Avenue. The handbills, not pronounced objectionable in themselves, were not authorized by the Publications Board.

The Judiciary Committee contended that in view of the fact that the handbills had not been authorized, the "SUC" had infringed upon the constitution.

Vogel held that Phelan Avenue is not "on campus" but actually a public thoroughfare and consequntly not under the jurisdiction of the college.

Because the constitution is not specific as to what can be considered "on campus," a second recommendation was made by the Judiciary Committee that Deans Edward E. Sandys and Jack Brady submit to the Student Council a written clarification of the on-and-off-campus issue to be entered in the student constitution to prevent similar incidents in the future.

The "SUC" has been the center of several other disorders all revolving around the uncharterization of the club. A previous set of handbills was distributed which bore the name of the college without authorization.

Sophomore Royalty To Be Crowned At Formal

Winners of the recent Queen-King contest will be revealed when the "royal" duet will be crowned at the Sophomore Formal, Friday, January 24, in the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel, Millie Laube, sophomore president announced.

The climaxing event of the season schedules dancing from 9 p.m. to midnight to the music of Ray Hackett and his orchestra with the men and women donning formal attire. The men are not required to wear tuxedos but will be permitted to wear dark suits. The no-corsage rule will be dismissed for the occasion.

Tickets for the dance are now on sale at $2 per couple at the college bank, according to Miss Laube.

No Medical Needed To Re-Open GI Isurance

Veterans who have allowed their G.I. insurance to drop or lapse, may have it re-instated, without a physical examination before Saturday, February 1, or a physical examination will be necessary.

Veterans may obtain further information at the veterans affairs office in building 3. Information is also available at the above office concerning terminal leave pay for veterans.

Laube, Sartor Lead Sophs In Home Stretch Finale

By Marge Whearty

The college road ends with the Sophomore class. That's all there is, there isn't any more.

Road-runners in the last length this semester were led by President Millie Laube and Vice-president Frisco Sartor, who will annoint the heads of all sophomores with the formal and coronations just prior to the breaking of the tape of finals.

Miss Laube and Sartor, former freshman president, did all but don track shoes to improve the spirit of this last mile, and conducted the most efficient King-Queen election the college has seen.

They both look ahead to the days when the college will be one active body with no opposing factions, just cooperation from all. Miss Laube is staying for six months more, but the Frisco Kid leaves Fog Furrow for San Jose State.

Burrow Heads Associated Students

161 Margin Defeats Holmes; Stookey Is Vice-President

Trev Burrow, dynamic XGI Society president and Guardsman news editor, snatched the office of President of the Associated Students from Bill Holmes Wednesday when he polled 561 votes to Holmes' 400, a margin of 161.

Burrow, informed of his elevation to the office, made a trigger statement to The Guardsman: "I intend to keep my campaign promises, namely that we will work in a completely impartial manner. I would like to ask now for the support and cooperation of the entire Associated Student organization."

In the only other major office contested, Nancy Stookey, Associated Women Student president, polled 563 votes to win the Associated Student Vice-presidency, defeating Betty Davis by 202 votes.

Frank Nelson, unopposed candidate for Associated Men Student president, was nodded in with 491 votes. Claire Levesque received 274 confidence votes in her unopposed campaign for Associated Women Student leadership.

Sophomores cast 653 votes for Astrid "Ozzie" Wettin, unopposed class presidential candidate, while Freshmen gave 652 votes to Jim Edwards, sole Freshman class presidential candidate.

Sophomores also elected Jackie Faxon, Pat Pollock, Bob Winegardner, Mark Atwood, Roberta Robb, Millie Laube, and Gloria Jean Wu to Student Council membership, while Freshmen elected Peggy McCormick, Beverly Huddleson, Marilyn Conover, Nick Dirtiman, Robert Rielly, Lou Nielsen, and Byrne Davis as their council representatives.

Registration

Innovations Mark Spring Enrollment Starting Feb. 10

By Vivian Freedman

Two major changes in registration procedure will go into effect in the spring semester, starting Monday, February 10, one involving filing of registration books the day of enrollment, the other shifting the start of registration to the west campus.

This information was released yesterday by Mary Jane Learnard, registrar.

In previous registrations, students have filed books approximately one week after registration, but in this new set-up, students will file books on day of registration.

"Students are urged to plan programs with their advisers carefully since any desired change in courses must be made by petition after the books are filed," Miss Learnard warned.

Building 2 will be the scene of the beginning of registration, and students are requested to enter by the west door. Advisers and sign-up rooms will be located in the main building as usual.

Registration of returning students will be from Monday, February 10 through Wednesday, February 12. Those students whose last names begin with letters O to Z will register in the following order on Monday, February 10:

8:30 ..... Wo to Z
9:30 ..... To to Wl
10:30 ..... Sp to Tl
12:30 ..... Sa to So
1:30 ..... Pom to R
2:30 ..... O to Pol

Students whose last names begin with letters G to N will register Tuesday, February 11:

8:30 ..... Me to N
9:30 ..... Lu to Ma
10:30 ..... Kr to Lo
12:30 ..... I to Ko
1:30 ..... Har to Hz
2:30 ..... Ga to Han

Students whose last names begin with letters A to F will register Wednesday, February 12:

8:30 ..... Ep to F
9:30 ..... Da to En
10:30 ..... Che to Cz
12:30 ..... Bro to Cha
1:30 ..... Be to-Bri
2:30 ..... A to Baz

CLAIRE LEVESQUE, above, will lead Associated Women Student activities next semester. She was unopposed for office. —Photography Class Photo.

FRANK NELSON heads all Associated Men Student activities next semester. He too was an unopposed candidate for office.—Photo by Wachter.

Frost Frolic De-Iced At Claremont Tonight

Frost Frolic, last Associated Students dance of the semester, will be held this evening in the Florentine Room of the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley, Nancy Cunningham, Social Committee chairman, said recently.

Music from 9 to 12 p.m., will be supplied by Howard Frederic and his orchestra who have a favorable reputation among the students for playing smooth, danceable rhythm.

One Associated Student card per couple is the only requisite for admission to the dance; there is no charge involved other than that of transportation to the hotel.

The Social Committee, headed by Nancy Cunningham and composed of Nancy Stookey, Millie Laube, Bill Holmes, and Ray Bisio, is hoping for as large a turnout of students as they have had for the past dances given by the Associated Students.

Sheehy Tops Graduates Via 2.38 Grade Rating

June Sheehy, assistant managing editor of The Guardsman and major in journalism, was named to permanent membership Tuesday in the California Junior College scholastic honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma. She is the only Fall '46 graduate to win the honor.

Miss Sheehy maintained a grade point average of 2.38 during her two year stay at the college.

Approximately 100 students who filed petitions to graduate at the close of this semester, will be awarded Associate in Arts degrees in June, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, announced.

An additional 30 students, who filed applications after the announced deadline, may receive such degrees, pending approval of their petitions, Miss Learnard said.

Engineers Hold Open Meet At College Hour

Main event scheduled for the college hour this morning at 10:45 o'clock is an open meeting of the Engineering Society which will be held in the west campus auditorium, according to an announcement by John Brady, assistant dean of men.

All engineering majors as well as interested students are asked to attend the meeting as future plans and organizational ideas will be discussed, Brady said.

Also scheduled for the college hour is an address by Dr. Ethan Colton of the Young Men's Christian Association. The topic of Dr. Colton's talk will be Better Understanding of Europe. A lecturer and traveler for many years, Dr. Colton has recently returned from his 21st trip to Europe.

The final college hour of the semester, Friday, January 24, is booked as an award assembly when football letters and intramural awards will be presented by football coach Lee Elsan, and Tom Wilson, intramural director.

Applications Here For West Campus Parking

Students interested in obtaining a parking permit for the west campus parking area may obtain application blanks in the registrar's office today and Monday, January 20, Dean Edward E. Sandys announced Tuesday.

The applications should be properly filled out and returned to the registrar's office not later than Monday, January 20, Sandys warned.

Only 150 parking spaces are available on the west campus which will necessitate "drawing of lots" to determine which students may be assigned parking spaces.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIII, No. 22 Friday, January 17, 1947 Page 2

Elections

Far-Fetched Travesty

THE shame to end all travesties has ended in a note of silence marked by ballots and still lighter balloting.

New student government officers stand ready today for next semester's parliamentary podium.

But we must certainly be in a rut.

Four major offices went uncontested.

Four candidates were handed "a silver spoon."

Is government wrong and black-hearted to such a point where no one cares one way or the other? Or is it that we are blind enough to allow "certain groups" on the campus to slip into office by "the back door" method?

Student government on this campus can assume "a laughing stock"-rating if students at large continue to lack interest or time for the representatives elected to office.

The recent election will go down in history as one of the most far-fetched travesties ever seen in the number of candidates who filed petitions for office.

We are supposed to live up to standards that merit the record high registration of more than 5,000 students here.

And yet four major offices were sold down the river.

There is certainly an air of farcical disgust heard among conversationalists who have damned every segment connected with student political affairs.

And many people remember too well the student government days of the pre-war era that were "battened down" with maturity and understanding.

When candidates and students hurl verbal misdemeanors at student officers for purportedly mishandling the usage of their offices, a time of reckoning has arrived.

As students and well-meaning men and women, we face a crisis in a period of campus political futility.

It will be difficult to admonish an entire student body for their failure to impede "back door" methods.

A student body of more than 5,000 students is herewith blamed for committing a grievious offense of not finding suitable candidates for four recent unopposed positions.

You, as a student, are guilty of not voting which is the "only sure fire method" to install the student representatives you think capable of holding office in the manner befitting an adult of a collegiate educational level.

But when four major offices are filled via the unopposed manner, a time for future remedy must be found.

The travesty is ended today, but the mark of shame can be erased by your goodness and conscience tomorrow.

Ford

After Dark

AYN RAND is the author of one of the most stirring books to yet be cast upon the American literary scene. The name of the book is The Fountainhead, and this is one time the word stirring is not a bit of columnistic verbiage, whatever that is. Though placing Howard Roark, architect, as its central character, it is, in reality, a treatment of the life of Frank Lloyd Wright, architect and designer of the Imperial Hotel in Tokio (the only building that withstood the quake in 1923).

A word of advice to the girls before reading the book. Don't try to act like Dominic Francon after finishing the book! Please don't; it won't work! But back to the Fountainhead. The work actually deals with a man who has a few ideals knocking about, and with those ideals, there is no street named Compromise.

He is a modernist of the first water, and for four hundred pages get kicked, firmly and solidly in the seat of the pants! A few come and see his work and understand . . . but only a few.

This book is a challenge to each and every one of . . . Read it! Read it and then start thinking!

Around And About with Nagle

AS the soph formal comes nearer to being a reality than a dream, frosh and sophs alike are seen scampering throughout haberdasheries and gown salons buying pretties for their last fling of the semester.

If the scampering doesn't prove productive, one of the new French embroidered net scarfs embellished with bugle beads and sequins dramatically draped a la mantilla, will add sophistication to a simple black formal . . . and gather cries of "I Surrender Dear" from the stag line.

MALE ANIMALS HEAVEN

Emphasis being placed, as it is, on "that bare look," fortunate indeed are the women who have persevered enough summer tan to give them the sun-kissed shoulders so desired when wearing strapless numbers.

Long, low whistles should be forthcoming from every stiff collared, starched front, black garbed male animal who invades the St. Francis on the night of nights, for the trend this year in formal attire can be summed up in one word—decollete! (Or three—tres tres decollete!)

SAY IT WITH FLOWERS

A tip to male contingent: Find out the color of the gown your one and only is donning, and as flowers are in order this time, get something to blend with the dress. Use some originality, choose a "different" flower, or let the florist suggest something.

Bracelet type corsages are quite an idea. This way flowers remain uncrushed, and beautiful to look at during the entire dance, instead of getting crumpled, turning brown and giving up the ghost after two or three dances.

If you want to be the apple-of-her eye, get the scoop before being a droop with a bloom that gives with hay fever.

AFTER THE BALL IS OVER

When the tux has been returned to mothballs (or Selig's) and the formal hung away, don't forget—the semester isn't entirely over. The social life may be, but the scholastic life still has a little life blood in it. This life blood comes in the form of finals, and will continue flowing for a week, slowly sucking the life blood of the students as they cram away for exams.

Speaking of cramming, that's an idea . . . so that's all for this semester.

STANDBY

By Chames

MARY JANE LEARNARD, college registrar, is enjoying her present moments of comparative leisure. In the next couple of weeks she will be right in the middle of the final grades, and right on the end of that little chore comes the inauguration of a new registering system for some 5,000 students. MISS LEARNARD hopes that everyone will read The Guardsman, which carries full details of this new plan.

KATHARINE PEDLEY is another woman at the college who has quite a chore. Her work shop is a wire enclosed cubicle up in the roof of the library, where she classifies and distributes new books for the library.

A letter from the PAN AMERICAN WORLD AIRWAYS news bureau discloses that GORDON S. BURCHETT, a former student is now a co-pilot on the Alaska division of this airline.

At the present time the annual MARCH OF DIMES campaign is under way. Contributions can be made almost any time or any place.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Background Material For Movie With Twist—A Triangle

LOLLY PARSONS, the Ma Perkins of Hollywood who chronicles the trials and troubles of Glittervillage, worked overtime this week in covering the astounding, globe-shaking news that the bobby soxers won't let Van Johnson get married and thus break up a happy home.

Critics of radio and its daily parade of sad soap operas are prone to overlook the real life adventures of movieland and the awful troubles that beset them, and consequently get spilled on the front pages, usually well timed to the moment their latest epic is released for view.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

FOR those students who are not in constant and direct contact with the various activities centering around Athletic Gulch, college life is far less educational.

The principal reason for this is that the sportsmen and their followers seem to be the ones who get a double benefit from their college education. In addition to whatever classwork they manage to find time for, they very often have their minds increasingly broadened by travel—with the wholehearted backing and financial support of the college.

This policy seems an excellent one; almost better in many ways than the more conventional methods.

Not only is the very experience of travel out into the big, bad world (even as far East as Modesto) enlightening, but the time used for traveling may be utilized to the fullest by catching up on such great works of literature as The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire and Boethius' Consolation of Philosophy.

What could be more inspiring to the first string fullback immediately before the season's most wildly contested game than to reflect philosophically on the basis for empiricism in the modern world? Assuredly, football, basketball and track teams pondering on such subjects would really have that old winning spirit.

Not only the actual participants profit by all their journeying upon foreign strands, however. The people who reap the greatest profit from their travels are the ardent newspapermen—the sportswriters.

After spending weekend followed by hollow-eyed weekend chasing bulging muscles over the rough terrain of this state they return to their trusty typewriters and pound out the anxiously awaited details. This goes on for months and, in time, evidence of their

(Continued on Page 4, Col. 5)

GAD, A HOLLYWOOD TRIANGLE

Parsons slipped a bit this week getting relegated all the way back to page three. Usually her stuff hits the front cover sharing the spotlight with such inconsequential news as plane crashes, hotel fires and Molotov socking Byrnes in the choppers over a minor point.

But anyway, as the tale was aired to the public, Keenan Wynn's wife made two trial runs to Nevada for the sole purpose of shearing the bonds of an eight year old wedding and marryin' up with Van.

Neither of the visits got results and she returned to the never-never land still married to Wynn. In the meantime Van was deluged with stern protests from his under-aged worshippers who arose to the occasion when their hero threatened to become a heel.

NEW PIC DUE

Now both contestants, Van and Evie, as she is known to the watching world, have returned from Sun Valley to break the news to Parsons, the poor people's historian, that it's no dice; again.

Und so, with background music by the MGM studio orchestra playing Hearts and Flowers, blessings bestowed on all by studio officials and propmen alike, calm serenity reigns supreme across the nation and Johnson once more resumes his role as the All-American kid that can do no wrong.

Expected momentarily is a technicolored extravaganza starring the three contestants, produced by MGM, and ingeniously twisted so as to allow Van to get the heroine a sort of consolation prize, thus keeping all happy.

Watch the local theater marquees for further developments in this grim saga of real life drama in the American scene.

DILLINGER LOOSE AGAIN

Parson missed a glorious chance to inject some stark realism into her whimsical lines of life as they only wished it would be down there, by not being around when Lawrence Tierney, Monogram's "Dillinger" went into action again after a short rest from Hollywood rounds.

Tierney went a few rounds with a college middleweight champ in a New York hotel donnybrook and came out second best with a torn ear and two of the biggest shantys yet seen around that end of the country.

As it inevitably winds up, Tierney spent the evening in a Gotham gaol along with his opponent who got nothing but a bump on the head.

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

Soph Royalty Expenditures Questioned; Latins Extend Appreciation To Profs

• Them That Has Gits

Editor, The Guardsman:

It is a pity that so many things can be bought with money. Besides a new car, or a home, we unfortunately have reached a point where he who has mostest, getest elected.

This has been demonstrated to good effect in recent national elections. The habit of plunging finances into a campaign and then forgetting how much it was, and where it originated from, is wide-spread and recognized among politicians.

It is a shame that here at the college the same habit has been adapted. Undoubtedly following the example set by so many prominent officials, we have seen the distribution of copius quantities of cigarettes, and book matches advertising a candidate for an honorary position in a student social activities.

It is a shame that the practice of pouring funds into elections has become so widespread that responsible persons merely turn their heads. Action should be taken by these persons to create and enforce regulations.

John W. Mallet

• Orchids To Faculty

Editor, The Guardsman:

Speaking on behalf of the whole of the Latin American club and the Latin American students enrolled in the special English classes, we would like to express the greatest appreciation and gratitude to the Spanish department for the help afforded us throughout the semester.

The founders of the club would like especially to thank Thomas A. Gabbert, head of the Spanish department, George Green, under whose sponsorship the club was first started, and Norma Addlestone, the new sponsor of the Latin American Club.

To Morris Goldner and B. F. Dryden, the two Spanish instructors in charge of the special English classes, go our sincerest appreciation for the splendid help in enlightening the Latin newcomers in the English language.

Raoul A. Martinez and Manuel Castanada

Guardsman Staff—Fall 1946

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF.....Robert A. Catudio
MANAGING EDITOR.....Carmel Gannon
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR....June Sheehy
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, editor; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Reinisch, Nick Chames.
NEWS: Trev Burrow, editor; John Bayler, Jo Ellen Cain, Nick Chames, Jane Doran, Vivian Freedman, Edward Heyman, Harold Levy, Del Pichon, William Riley, Arnold Wechter, William Wilson, Marg Wheatly, Melvin Hanson, Hank Weiss, Doris Hall, Herbert Levy, Bill Keast, Clinton Logas, Paul Lindstrom.
SPORTS: Bill Covall and Don Cowderoy, editors; Manuel Castro, Arthur Paymiller, Dayton Lewson, Ken Reymond, Sam Goldman.
PHOTOGRAPHER: Donald Lum; Fred Lustig, Arnold Wechter, Assistants.
STAFF ARTISTS: Eleanor Scheeffer, Howard Simpson.
BUSINESS: Charles Boehnke, Bob Hanson, Burt Weir, Florence Grant.
Editorial Adviser.....Joan Nourse
Business Adviser.....Joseph Amori

Whiz Kid Stuff

Cameron Paces SF To 62-41 Win Over Santa Rosa Quintet

By Bob Catudio

Initial Northern California Junior College Conference cage win of the campaign was registered by the locals Wednesday night when the Rams trounced Santa Rosa Junior College, 62 to 41, at the men's gymnasium before 1,200 witnesses.

For a time, it seemed as if the Cubs might conceivably give the townies a bit of unwarranted trouble when Dave Mervin potted a 20-footer to give the Cubs a brief 14 to 12 lead.

But Ram Center Ken Cameron pushed two consecutive fadeaways

(Continued on Page 3, Col. 1)

Unofficial statistics released last night show Ram Center Ken Cameron pacing the locals' scoring parade in the last five contests. The red-headed fadeaway artist has tallied 93 points for an average of 18.6 points per game.

and a pair of buckets by Neil Turner shoved the Rams into a lead which was never relinquished.

Halftime score favored the home force, 35 to 19, mainly on Cameron's unerring accuracy from the floor.

The Rams, acting as if they had forgotten they were Modesto Invitational champs, appeared off-form, but a couple of productive performances by Turner and Astorre Bucciarelli saved the day.

Cameron again lead the evening's scoring with 18 digits, followed by Turner and Bucelarelli with 11 and 10, respectively.

Galileo High School defeated the Ram Jayvees, 50 to 40, in a preliminary tussle with Lion Forwards Joe Flores and Bill Brunberg hitting for 11 and 10 tallies, respectively.

The Boxscore:

SANTA ROSA					SAN FRANCISCO
Player, Pos	FG	FT	TP		Player, Pos	FG	FT	TP
Smith, f	3	2	8		Burroughs, f	1	0	2
Wanlass, f	1	0	2		Giney, f	3	0	6
Clark, J., c	1	1	3		Cameron, c	7	4	18
Vasilovich, g	2	1	5		O'Neill, g	3	1	7
Mervin, g	6	2	14		Psaltis, g	0	2	2
Tabor, f	0	1	1		Turner, f	5	1	11
Baste, f	0	0	0		Bucciarelli, g	5	0	10
McGowan, f	3	2	8		Baldocchi, f	0	0	0
Clark, K., g	0	0	0		Tomlinson, c	0	2	2
Collins, g	0	0	0		Squeri, f	0	0	0
					Bahr, g	0	3	3
Totals	16	9	41		Kahn, c	0	1	1
					Totals	24	14	62

Halftime score: San Francisco 35, Santa Rosa 19. Personal fouls: (Santa Rosa 19)—Smith 5, Clark, J. 3, Vasilovich 4, Mervin 3, Tabor, MacGowan 2, and Clark, K. (San Francisco 20)—Burroughs 2, Cameron 2, O'Neill 2, Psaitis 2, Turner, Bucciarelli 4, Baldocchi 3, Tomlinson, Bahr 2 and Kahn. Free throws missed: (Santa Rosa 14)—Smith 5, Wanless, Clark, J., Vasilovich, Mervin 2, and MacGowan 3. (San Francisco 8)—Burroughs 2, Ginley, Psaitis 2, O'Neill, and Bucciarelli 2. Officials—Lou Batmale and Bobby Britt. Attendance—1,200.

Block SF Stages Huge Grid Victory Banquet

Climaxing the greatest football season in the history of the college, a victory banquet honoring the 1946 football squad will be held at Rex Restaurant, 401 Broadway Street, on Wednesday, January 22, starting at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the campus Block SF Society, headed by President Art Ekdall, honored guests will include President A. J. Cloud, Vice-president J. Paul Mohr, Dean Edward Sandy, members of the physical education department, and various bay area newsmen.

VIKING SPORTS CENTER
EQUIPMENT FOR EVERY SPORT
SKI EQUIPMENT
and CLOTHING
Rental Skiis — Repairs
1874 Market St., San Francisco 2

Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIII, No. 22 FRIDAY, JANUARY 17, 1947 Page 3

Track

Cinder Aces Prepare For Berkeley Meet

Last season's champion Ram tracksters have recently started to brave the cold weather by having their daily workouts outdoors for a change, and in spite of the sad condition of the oval surrounding the football field, are managing to get the kinks out of their legs.

Jumpers and vaulters have been taking starts and running wind sprints as a medium of getting their legs in shape prior to the actual jumping. Coach Jensen also has the javelin throwers and most of the weight men doing push-ups to strengthen their shoulders.

The first meet is with the University of California at their stadium, probably the first week in March, and the Bears will definitely be top heavy favorites to win.

WAA

Banquet Is Climax To 'Peacetime Era'

Semester athletic awards for participants of the Women's Athletic Association will be distributed soon to members of the various clubs and WAA sections, Gloria Swiecgood, WAA adviser, declared yesterday.

Climax of the current semester was the Wednesday staging of a semi-annual banquet held on the west campus, an affair which attracted more than 50 WAA members.

"Now that the WAA has again settled to a peacetime level, the emphasis on women's participation in sports as a means of relaxation and enjoyment should be stressed more than ever," Miss Swiecgood said.

Feminine athletic demonstrations and social get-togethers will highlight the coming Spring Play Day, according to Frances Scilipoti, WAA president, who with Miss Swiecgood is in charge of the affair.

Modern dance demonstrations, topped by the appearances of Marion Van Tuyl and Eleanor Lauer, were held yesterday in the women's gymnasium.

Future dance demonstrations to be presented at the San Francisco Museum of Art include Dance and Stage Design, Use of the Voice With Dance, and the Function of the Dance.

Popularity of the dance courses offered here at the college is exemplified by the number of students enrolled in the Janice Kreutzmann-tutored classes.

Announcement that the WAA had been reaffiliated with the Athletic Federation of Women was made by Miss Scilipoti, who explained that the college was once a member of the organization prior to the war.

Intramural

Athletic Awards Rally Scheduled For Men's Gymnasium Friday, January 24

By Art Paymiller

Individual and team medals and trophies for intramural sports competition will be awarded at a special rally to be held in the men's gymnasium on Friday, January 24, Intramural Director Tom Wilson announced today.

LUCK OF THE IRISH exudes from smiling Mike O'Neill, home force guard and recent Modesto All-Tourney star performer.—Photo by Lustig.

Basketball

Napa Guns For Ram Upset Win Tonight

Napa, Calif., January 16—Second conference tussle involving Ralph Hillsman's cage crown hopefuls takes place here tomorrow at 9:30 p.m., when Napa Junior College faces favored San Francisco.

The Rams, losers of six out of seven practice contests, are the current Modesto invitational state champs and are rated to run the little-known Napans into the ground.

Offensive bursts from Ken Cameron, Mike O'Neill, Phil Burroughs, and Art Psaltis are the sole townie hopes to nail a win. In Psaltis and O'Neill, the locals have two of the best guards in the circuit. Both are defensive maniacs and can score when called upon.

Still slowly recuperating from the amazing effects of the Modesto tourney, the starting five may find Cameron, Burroughs, Psaltis, and either Neil Turner or Jack Ginley at one forward spot.

San Mateo's Bulldogs leaped into an early loop lead Tuesday night by walloping Modesto, 49 to 34, thereby slashing the pre-season Modesto invincible myth.

Starting lineups:

NAPA	Pos.	SFJC
Ed McCrea	F	Phil Burroughs
Bob Mattson	F	Jack Ginley
Bob Townsend	C	Ken Cameron
Dale Fisher	G	Mike O'Neill
Dick Tomascia	G	Art Psaltis

INTRA FOOTBALL CHAMPS, that's the Polytechnic Alumni Club, whose football team recently waltzed through all competition to annex the first place medals. Shown above are Joe Barton, Bill Broderson, Jim Wyatt, Bob Nard, and Jim Krelling. Missing from the photo are Bob Ansak, Harry Tapoian, and Bill Maxie. Victory for the Poly club virtually assured them top spot in the race for the President Cloud All-Intramural Trophy which is presented semi-annually.—Photo by Lum.

RAMblings . .

By Covall and Cowderoy

THE following item is a vivid example of just how much confidence the members of The Guardsman sports staff have in our athletic aggregations.

In the process of setting the page for last Tuesday's paper we of the staff, using a great deal of supposed intelligent foresight, took for granted that our Rams would fall by the wayside in the Modesto basketball tourney. Even by the stretching of the imagination which would encompass the fact that San Francisco by a quirk of fate should sneak by heralded Pasadena Junior College, there was no doubt in our "educated" minds that they would be swamped by the next power they should meet.

We had planned to run a large heavy banner across the top of the sport page reading "RAMS BOW OUT IN MODESTO TOURNEY." Smart huh? Nothing to worry about, just sit back and watch our boys go down. Fighting? Yes but none the less go down.

PASADENA PASSED

Needless to say we were shocked beyond comprehension when our never say die five tripped Pasadena, continued to be amazed at the annihilation of highly touted Yuba, staggered when informed that Menlo had been trampled by our giant killers and fell into a dead faint when the final title clenching victory over Compton was posted!

As we flexed our muscles and lifted ourselves to the typewriter (you see we had a very heavy lunch!) we were suddenly overcome with emotion. Just think, our own home town heroes winning the State Junior College Championships! It's almost too good to be true.

But wait! Zounds, gad, and all that sort of stuff. This is Sunday morning, the paper goes to press today. If we don't stop that headline from appearing on Tuesday morn, 5,200 students will read that horrible sentence. Why, it may lead to a major catastrophe!

Quickly we pull our wits together (using both hands) and proceed to hop on our trusty motor scooter and make a mad dash for the publishing house.

Luck was with us, the printer was just about to flip the switch and start the fatal presses as we broke the door down. Quickly we inserted the one you read last Tuesday.

No doubt this will mean little to you but we thought you might like to know just how much we think of getting a true paper to our college mates. Now, isn't that nice of us, Hmmmmmm? Quick, Sylvester, the medals!

Baseball Season Given Coat Of Gloom By Fischer; Underdog Season Foreseen

Opening day for the 1947 baseball season is a month off the winter indoors circuit, but maestro Bill Fischer has already tossed a note of surprising conjecture into the local outlook.

Loss of key men via transfers and graduation has dampened the scene, but Fischer firmly entones "that a good team may be recruited from the Sausalito Ice and Fuel nine."

The Iceman lineup is jammed with campus luminaries which have nabbed a San Francisco Recreation Department winter loop championship, thanks to winning 15 out of some 16 ball games.

Returning lettermen will include George Homsey, Herb Markall, Ed Altamand, Roger Ranulo, Sherrill Houghton, and possibly Paul Cane and Chester Andersen.

But Fischer has reason to weep for he loses Ralph McIntire, Tom Galvan, Jimmy McNamara, and Pitcher Chuck Brabbit, all being All-Conference selectees.

Seeing as how the Rams are defending champs, a wave of prepsters is expected to deluge the campus. Initial signups will begin late in February in the men's gymnasium office.

"In one way, we're better off at this stage than we were last year," Fischer explains. "A lot of the men have kept in training and that should help out a lot."

Pre-league practice will be held at Ocean View diamond days ahead of the Menlo-Rams inaugural next March 18.

MARKED MAN is Bill Fischer because Fischer is coaching the defending conference champion baseball team which opens practice next month.

Whatever the tone, townie head man Fischer hints the league will be more balanced than usual, but declared the Rams will be represented by a capable squad.

Hotel, Restaurant Society Proves It Knows How

STRESS REHEARSAL for three members of the campus Hotel and Restaurant Society who are plotting ways and means to improve current service twixt the cafeteria and its patrons. They are (left to right) Bill Beers, vice-president; Donn Rogers, president, and Pauline Payne, secretary, a trio whose motto could well be "the best for the best." —Photo by Kenneron.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

• Alpha Lambda Chi: A joint meeting is scheduled with Tau Chi Sigma this Wednesday night. Elections of spring semester officers will be held tonight.

• Alpha Theta Epsilon: A spaghetti dinner and dance was given to one of the campus dormitories last night in the student lounge. Officers for next semester are Beatrice Groger, president; Pat Marbel, vice-president; Eleanor Reed, secretary, and Barbara Hendricks, treasurer.

• Beta Phi Beta—Phi Beta Rho: A joint ski trip to Truckee is planned for the week of February 3.

• Beta Tau—Theta Tau: A joint meeting is scheduled for tomorrow night.

• Delta Psi: Formal initiation and election of spring semester officers were held Wednesday night at Ginny Souder's home. Next Wednesday night officers will be announced.

• French Club: All French 21, 22, or 23 students interested in forming a French Club are invited to Room 134, Friday, January 17, in the college hour, to see instructors Doris Hernried and John Stafford.

• Kappa Phi: Installation of spring officers will be held at a dinner January 31.

• Latin American Club: Officers for next semester are Oscar Reyes, president; Fred Behrens, vice-president; Esther Flores, secretary, and Rene Gire, CAB representative. Norma Addlestone will sponsor the organization.

• Newman Club: New officers for next semester will be president, Dick Fahey; vice-president, Marie Upland; secretary, Claire Bacigalupi; treasurer, Al Bacigalupi; corresponding secretary, Mary Ann Cunningham; historian, Mary Ann Hanley; social chairman, Jim Hanley; publicity chairman, Jim Hanley; CAB representative, Jim Hanley; sergeant-at-arms, Jim Hanley.

Goodwill

HRS Plays Host At Dance Today

By Marge Wheatly

Donn Rogers and the rest of the Hotel and Restaurant Society were not satisfied with the serving-rail relations between those who serve the food and those who eat the food, so the society came out of the kitchen this semester to engage in many extra-curricular activities.

Students not only opened their mouths but opened their eyes to the society at the Mardi Gras, where the organization lapped up the gravy of popularity from a Gold Cup for the best booth.

The brains above 120 bodies (in the membership) were Rogers, president; Bill Beers, vice-president; Pauline Payne, secretary; Ed Grogan, treasurer, and John Conrad, historian.

If the society did not make history, it at least made the newspaper morgue, for one of the city's foremost columnists ran across and was more than favorably impressed by the group, sponsored by Mrs. Hilda Watson.

As the final gesture of good-will for the semester, the society is sponsoring a dance in the student lounge from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. today for all students.

Refreshments, the society halo, will be served, while phonograph records grind out the end of a successful string of doings for this semester.

The March of Dimes campaign is now in progress on the campus. Make your contribution now.

Publications

Art Essays, Poetry Needed For First Forum Deadline

Contributions of student-written material for the forthcoming edition of Forum Magazine, published by and for the students here, and sponsored by the Forum Club, are being accepted now for consideration, in Room 251. First deadline date for submission of material is Friday, January 24.

The magazine is endeavoring this year to present a complete cross section of modern literature. To offer an over-all picture, writing, such as short stories, poetry, essays, and new trend material is desired.

In addition, ample provision has been made for student photographers to show their skill. Submission of photographic art, for the cover design, for example scenes about the city, is also invited. The staff expressed the hope that a sincere effort toward fine art photography will be made.

The Forum editorial staff, headed by Editor Kenneth Ford, also includes Adele Reinisch, Albert N. Kipnis, George Lajeunesse, and John Turner. Art editors are Don Honnerd, and Charles Scott. Alex Apostilides handles the difficult job of business manager.

The faculty advisers to the staff, include Dorothy Mercer, John Gerstung, John Ross, and William Goss.

Students currently registered at the college are eligible to submit contributions, even though they do not plan to attend next semester, when the magazine will appear.

Naval Reserve Branch Open To Service Vets

Because of experience in total war as was demonstrated in World War II, the Navy Department announced recently its plan for a large mobile trained organization in reserve in the event of future hostilities.

The Naval program is open to all veterans, regardless of branch of service, and to all non-veterans from the age of 17 to 18½ years.

For information concerning any phase of this program, a representative of the Navy Reserve Recruiting Station, 98 Golden Gate Avenue, will be located in the lobby of Building 2, west campus, during the week of February 6 through 14.

Emphasis to this plan is placed on the fact that reservists are civilians, and in no way will this program interfere with civilian pursuits, such as in any form jeopardizing veteran benefits under the "G.I. Bill of Rights."

All Bills Due In Bank By January 24

Deadline for all bills contracted by college organizations has been slated for Friday, January 24, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, warned this week.

The bank will remain open for the sale of student car tickets only after that date and will close its windows definitely on Wednesday, January 29, for the Fall semester. The bank will re-open on Monday, February 10, for the sale of Associated Student cards.

The price of Associated Student cards has been raised from the usual four dollars to five and they may be purchased at the student bank immediately after the next semester begins, Anderson stated.

Washington Irving, among numerous other pseudonyms, used that of Jonathan Oldstyle.

The Big Sleep

Guardsman Entourage Retires For Semester

There will be a moment of silence for The Guardsman for this is the last edition of the semester.

It was a hard fight, maw, but the newspapers were printed anyway, and now the time has come for a rest.

Next semester, these journalists will wind up slowly, paralyzing innocent newcomers with the freshman edition.

The rest of the slaves will be caught when registration week begins on Monday, February 10.

Until then the only plague left on the campus is finals week, beginning Monday, January 27, dragging slowly to a smeary finish on Friday, January 31.

Floriculture

"Campus Aggies" Win Top Garden Laurels

Scheduled to arrive here soon is a plaque awarded to the college by the National Garden Institute for an outstanding garden program in 1946, President A. J. Cloud revealed this week.

In a letter received by the college from the president of the institute, Edward J. Condon, President Cloud and Harry E. Nelson, floriculture instructor, were commended for their able leadership in the program.

"The contribution made by your college and hy hard-working men, women and children has been a very genuine one and even greater than anyone could have dreamed last Spring when the garden program was announced," Condon declared.

At the present time floriculture laboratories are being carried on under the supervision of Nelson, in the area between buildings 3 and 4 on the west campus.

Language Department Institutes New Policy

A new procedure will be in effect next semester in which foreign students will not receive credit for courses taken in their native tongue, Thomas Gabbert, head of the language department, announced Monday.

These students may obtain credit toward a degree by taking any other language or college parallel courses in English.

Music

Modesto Chapter To Install Honor Society Tomorrow

A campus organization will be created officially tomorrow when the local chapter of Lambda Alpha, music honor society, is installed by the visiting members of the group from Modesto Junior College, at 2 p.m., at 260 San Fernando Way.

Refreshments will be served to those present and the local musicians will conduct the visitors on a tour of the campus.

Flossita Badger, faculty adviser, made public the list of students chosen to make up the new society late this week. They include Grace Mayfield, Roy Abad, Adele Lee, Joseph Fraser, Michel Coco, Peggy Gay, Lois Smith, Martha Lee, Gloria Orzanco, Hal Harris, Marion Bryant, Leona Oddstead, Charles Kahman, and Madeline LaFond.

The above mentioned students were chosen on the basis of scholastic ability plus their major in music, and are full-fledged members of the society.

Following is the list of associate members chosen for their ability in a specific field of music: Jane Swendsen, Elmer Dickie, Ralph Ricks, Robert Sherratt, Emery Mellon, Myra Coffman, Norman Hamlin, Gene McGowan and James Finley.

Highlight of the college semester since 1940 has been the annual Christmas Concert presented by the department as an hour-long campus production.

More Hilltop Manner

(Continued from page 2)

broadened minds makes itself manifest. They decide to major in law or business administration and find a little time for leisure.

The wiser athletes, however, continue their shadow boxing and reading and eventually reach the upper intellectual levels through the pursuit of the empirical philosophy. Ah, that more of us could follow their example!

Marguerite Kilroy
Photographer
PICTURE FRAMING
VAlencia 0088
2312 MISSION STREET . . . . . NEAR 19th

In the Village It's Lakeside Music Shop
LARGE ASSORTMENT OF
New Radios, Records, Phonographs
Open Daily 10-6 p.m.—Thursday Nights till 9 p.m.

The
RAM SHACK
1051 Ocean Avenue
Phone—RAndolph 9632

RUTH SLENCZYNSKI
PIANO STUDIO
Call SKyline 4437

Admiral Florist
Distinctive Floral Creations
Give Her An "ADMIRAL" Corsage
LOIS STOLTE
2863 Mission Street Phone VAlencia 8380

Announcing . . .
The Vocational Guidance Center
IN DOWNTOWN SAN FRANCISCO
Trained vocational counsellors help you decide which occupation is best suited to your talents. Write or phone for free booklet. Listen to . . .
"Adventures in Jobs and Careers"
KYA—SUNDAY, 1:10 P.M.
THE VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE CENTER
530 Powell Street, San Francisco 2
Telephone: GRaystone 3256

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIV SAN FRANCISCO, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1947 Freshman Edition

Burrow Welcomes Frosh

Student President Urges Newcomers To Participate In Campus Activities

Heading an estimated 5000 strong Associated Students, Trev Burrow, elected president last January, expects active participation in student affairs from new students.

Student government, Burrow explained, revolves around two organizations, the Student Council, composed of 14 members, half of whom are elected to represent the sophomore class and half, the freshman; and the President's Cabinet, which acts in an advisory status in conjunction with the council.

ASSOCIATED STUDENT PRESIDENT Trev Burrow expects new students to join activities.

Nancy Stookey, former Associated Women Student president, was selected vice-president, while Jo Ellen Cain was appointed secretary by Burrow.

Members of the cabinet include Miss Stookey, Miss Cain, Frank Nelson, Associated Men Students president; Claire Levesque, Associated Women Students president; Astrid Wettin, president of the sophomore class; Jim Edwards, president of the freshman class; Carmel Gannon, Editor of The Guardsman and chairman of the Publications Board; Frances Seilpoti, president of the Women's Athletic Association; a Men's Athletic Commissioner and a Rally Commissioner, who will be appointed.

All men students who are members of the Associated Students are automatically members of the AMS organization, and all women members are automatically members of the AWS.

Except the Secretary, Rally Commissioner, and Men's Athletic Commissioner, who are appointed, and the Editor, who is elected by the editorial staff of The Guardsman, and the WAA head, chosen by WAA members, all officers are elected by the Associated Students.

Elected to the Student Council by the sophomore class were Jackie Faxon, Pat Pollack, Bob Winegardner, Mark Atwood, Roberta Robb, Millie Laube, and Gloria Jean Wu.

The freshman class elected Peggy McCormick, Beverly Huddieson, Marilyn Conover, Nick Dirtiman, Robert Reilly, Lou Nielson, and Byrne Davis as their representatives.

Membership on the reportorial staff is conditional upon completion of a preliminary course in news writing or evidence of experience in reporting. Courses are numbered English 14, 15, and 16abc.

Radio production, and its allied courses, are listed as Speech 11, 13, and 14 and conducted by Marie Weller. Programs, both over the college's public address system and on the major networks are a feature.

Activities

College Has Music, Drama, Radio

By Ed Heyman

Music, drama, journalism, and radio are the four activities offered students here as part of the college curriculum.

Listed as Music 12a, the A Cappella Choir and Music 13a, the Men's Chorus, are both under the direction of Flossita Badger. Spring semester music activities center around the group including a proposed college festival and participation in the Northern California Junior College music festival.

Expected to assume an active part in both festivals, the newly organized Women's Chorus, Music 11a, is directed by Gertrude Norgard.

Band and orchestra are both conducted by Madison Devlin and are listed as Music 16 and 15, respectively.

Offering students help in personal development, the drama department, under the direction of Ruth Somers and Lloyd Sisler, plans another semester of full scale production in courses listed Speech 42a.

Sisler's plans include play readings, a three act drama, possibly a student one act play contest.

Mrs. Somers' plans for Speech 41b, a course specializing in the reading of dramatic scripts for public performance, include presentation of A Bell For Adano, The Time Of Your Life, Golden Boy, Lilliom, and The Land Is Bright. Speech 41b is open for tryouts.

Element of the journalism curriculum is The Guardsman, college All-American newspaper published twice weekly. Faculty adviser is Joan Nourse.

Regulations

Judiciary Committee Sets Conduct Rules

By Marge Wheatly

Looking to adult cooperation from all students, the college administration has channeled regulatory duties through the student-controlled Judiciary Committee.

Composed of a chairman and two women members, the committee is appointed by the Associated Student President with the approval of the Student Council.

Exercising control over and passing judgment upon all matters pertaining to student conduct, the committee is directly responsible to the office of the Dean of Men.

Main regulations of the campus can be listed under three headings. On Smoking, the rules are few and lenient, for it is allowed in the cafeterias, (old and new), student lounge, fountain, and wherever there are sand urns.

Parking is allowed on the drive circling the building and, with the permission of the dean's office, on the west campus.

The drive in front of the building and the lots at either side are to be kept free from cars at all times.

Students are allowed as many absences in a course as the number of days in the week that such class meets. One more than the allowed number will yield a warning from the registrar's office with an additional absence leading to a failure in the course.

Registration

New Students Will Enroll By Number Next Thursday, Friday; Trek To Start In West Campus Administration Building

By Vivian Freedman

New students, having filled the requirements of registration, will register in the order in which their applications were completed. Registration will begin on Thursday, February 6, and continue through Friday, February 7, according to the official schedule.

Registration procedure will begin in building 2 of the West Campus, and students are requested to enter by the west door. Here students will receive registration books and be directed to Rooms 204 and 205 of the main building, where a faculty member will explain program procedure.

These potential students will then be assigned to faculty advisers by a member of the counseling staff. Following assignment to advisers, where courses will be planned and the practice study list filled out, students will proceed to sign-up room for enrollment in classes and then back to advisers to fill out the registration book. With the adviser's signature of approval, the last step is filing of books in the study hall in north end of the basement.

The following is the registration schedule for new students:

Thursday, February 13
	8:30	1- 165
	9:30	166- 331
	10:30	331- 500
	12:30	501- 665
	1:30	666- 830
	2:30	831-1000
Friday, February 14
	8:30	1001-1165
	9:30	1166-1330
	10:30	1331-1500

Veterans

Book Privilege Procedure Outline

By Nancy Nagle

Veterans attending college under the GI Bill of Rights are advised of the following regulations relative to their registration by Walter E. McCloud, veterans' counsellor in charge of business affairs.

Veterans will file registration books and become eligible for issuance of books and supplies, upon completion of registration, if their certificate of eligibility has been filed with the veterans administration.

Books and supplies will be issued to all veterans having filed for their certificate of eligibility with the veterans administration as follows:

a) The veteran's study list will be collected from the veteran upon completion of registration by a representative of the Veterans Affairs Office;

b) Requisition will be made out by the Veterans Affairs Office and sent to the book-store, where the order will be filled and returned to the west campus book issue room located in the auditorium;

c) The next day the veteran will call for his books and supplies. Each veteran is entitled to one dictionary and stationery kit.

A minimum of 12 units must be maintained to receive full subsistance allowance under the GI Bill of Rights, or the State Veterans Welfare.

Veterans who have applied for their certificate of eligibility but who have not received it, may purchase books and supplies as required by their instructors, and upon receipt of the certificate, the Veterans Affairs Office will authorize reimbursement of money so expended.

Veterans must, however, present cash receipts in order to be reimbursed.

Reimbursement will not be made at any store other than the S.F.J.C. Student Store, 965 Ocean Avenue, or the College Book Shop, 1039 Ocean Avenue, San Francisco, California.

The Guardsman

This Edition Is The Freshman Special

This edition of The Guardsman is a special freshman number, planned for distribution between tests and registration.

The first regular issue of The Guardsman will appear Friday, February 21. Publication days this semester are now scheduled for Tuesdays and Fridays each week. All members of the Associated Students are entitled to copies.

ASSFJC Dues Support Wide, Varied Program

Most of the college activities are wholly supported by student funds and are free to members of the Associated Students.

Appropriations are made through the college budget to provide activities in which students may partieipate or enjoy after paying $5 to become members of the Associated Students.

Publications, The Guardsman, and The Student Handbook, are free of charge to association members. Forum Magazine is semi-supported.

The Associated Men and Women Students, the Social and Rally committee events such as dances, rallies and guest entertainment are provided for in the budget. Dances other than those sponsored by AMS and AWS are also paid for by the association.

College sports, including awards and equipment for the Women's Athletic association and intramural sports, traveling and medical expenses for all team members, are paid for with association funds.

The Instrument of Democracy . . A Message From President A. J. Cloud

PRESIDENT A. J. CLOUD welcomes the 24th class to matriculate at the college.

"THE HISTORY OF EDUCATION is essentially a phase of civilization." Educational organizations grow out of the social climate in which they flourish, and in turn, influence that culture either for good or ill. That culture in the United States is democratic in type; hence the school formation is democratic.

American education made indispensable contributions toward the prosecution of the allied cause in World War II. The schools and colleges of the nation proved themselves to be citadels of strength in every department of the war program.

But, now, as has truly been said, "the United States has a rendezvous with peace." If the American school system is to continue in the fulfillment of its mission as the instrument of democracy, it must throw its full weight behind the efforts of free men to establish the pattern of that peaceful future they seek.

Education is, today, as never before, the main hope of survival of the civilization that we have known. Its burden of responsibility is, therefore, heavy.

This college has remained faithful to its democratic heritage. Students are accepted for registration without reservation on the score of race or creed or financial status.

Capacity to profit from the offerings of the college is the one criterion for admission within its walls.

Students, new or old, are asked only to take fullest advantage of the college opportunities, and to bear their share of the obligations of citizenship in the college community and in the world-at-large.

The college faculty holds itself ready to aid the student in his path of progress toward these ends. The student should avail himself of the friendly counsel of these able and experienced guides.

Greetings to one and all alike!

Going Our Way?

A Typical Freshman Enters College

Steps In The Venture Into A New World

IN JUST a matter of days now, you'll be registered formally as a student of San Francisco Junior College. It's a pretty big step, this one of growing from high school to college standing, and those of us who have already taken the step hope that you will become as easily at home here as we have.

Right now you have completed what we like to call a "battery of tests." This must seem a little like added injury, since not so long ago you were taking your final tests in high school, where you were familiar with the type of tests, the people giving them, and most likely feeling slightly nostalgic about leaving what you have known well for a venture into something new and strange.

But these tests that you have now completed have a different purpose. They are not to determine whether you will be the recipient of a certain grade. They are not to determine whether you will be allowed to register with us at the college. They are to help you in the progress of your work with us, and to help your faculty adviser in assisting you to insure your own success here.

First of all you were tested in English grammar. College courses require a great deal of writing, and unless you are sufficiently prepared in grammar, vocabulary, and composition, you will suffer. If this test shows that you are not sufficiently prepared, you will be provided further instruction here to the end that you need never fail a course because of difficulties with the English language.

You also have had an arithmetic test with the same purpose as the English test. If your chosen course includes mathematics or science, the college will be sure that you will not attempt them without giving you first the necessary preparation.

Then that same day of tests you gave your all in what we call a scholastic aptitude test. You see, some of you may have your hearts set right now on becoming newspaper editors. (You might even settle for becoming Editor of The Guardsman—this, your college newspaper.)

The college wouldn't want you to begin in this field if your own ability would make it impossible for you to succeed. For if you started and found you would much prefer to spend hours in scientific research, think of the time you might waste pursuing the elusive news story facts.

Or on the other hand, you might think you want to become a physician, yet you are unaware that much of the preparation for the medical profession demands science courses. Possibly you've just thought of how nice it would be to be a physician. You haven't considered that you just don't have a scientific mind. (Better be an editor in this case. Invariably reporters are baffled by science.)

So this test of your own ability will act as a guide so that you will not enter a field of study that might prove too difficult for you or of no interest to you. And it will aid in discovering, perhaps, talents that you do not know you possess, and interests that should be developed.

We Won't Hold It Against You . . .

In addition you took two more tests that tie in with this test of your abilities. One is called the Iowa High School Content test and gives your faculty adviser and you a knowledge of what you remember from your high school courses. And if you have not been in high school for several years you have probably forgotten more than your classmates who were there a few days ago, but we promise that won't be held against you. Your standing in this test but adds to the complete picture faculty advisers develop of you as a student.

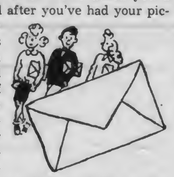
Too, you were tested for discovery of your vocational interests. You see, in the many vocational and professional fields, certain interests are common among persons in the field. If you possess interests in the field of your choice, and those successful in that field possess the same interests, your own chances for success are increased.

Thus, even before you have entered a formal classroom as a college student, your adviser has formed a picture of you as an individual, you as one of us, and from that picture, no matter how it changes as you continue your college career (and it will change) your adviser is better able to give you assistance as you need it.

The Guardsman

Editor's Note: Cartoons on this special Freshman section of The Guardsman were drawn by Eleanor Schaefer, student in the advertising art department.

So Now You Will Register . . .



Two days, Thursday, and Friday, have been set aside for you to register. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, we have been here before you to complete our registration, and some of us will be on hand to answer your questions and help if we can.

Registration is not easy the first time. There will be moments despite all the information you have been given previously when you will be thoroughly bewildered. Then's the time to count ten, remember that all the faculty advisers, the assisting students want to help. Perhaps if you have a word picture of what you will do next week the process will be easier.

In the first place, college classes meet sometimes three days a week, sometimes two days a week, sometimes every day in the week. Thus you may very likely have a program that will allow you two or even three hours in the day with no classes. Ah, what a time to do your studying, so that you can keep your evening date, yet be on the beam in your college classes. And the study hall is a pleasant and excellently equipped place for study. (Basement floor north. You'll be there when you register—once you have a program, a college program.)

The Envelope Contains . . .

In the registration line—after we've asked you a great many questions, and after you've had your picture taken — you will be given an envelope. This envelope will contain a copy of your high school record and the results of your entrance tests. As you proceed through college, it will contain other information, until each envelope is practically a personality in itself, your personality caught in profile. (A word of advice. Don't ask your adviser to draw that profile for you the day you register. There are times set aside for this purpose, but that time is not during registration. You'll understand when you start to register, believe us!)

In Rooms 204 and 205 you will be assembled and given instructions in how to make out a Program Practice Sheet, a Trial Study List, and finally the Official Study List. You will receive a Registration Book containing these pages and others, five pages in all. You will be told how to fill out and file the Registration Book and how to make any absolutely necessary changes after the book is filed. So now let's go to it and get your Trial Study List made out. That's the most important step in the registration process and leads directly to the final goal of the day, the filing of your Registration Book.

A Program Is Chosen . . .

Faculty advisers are assigned to guide students according to their major field. If you are in doubt as to your choice of a major field of study, there are advisers of general college courses who will start you on your way until you know "what you want to be." If you are not in doubt as to your major field, your faculty adviser will study that profile of you that the tests give him, add to the profile your grades in high school, and list for you the subjects that will best meet your aims for the future. Then you will make out your Program Practice Sheet. (You'll find a sample on page 3.)

Let's say for purposes of illustration that your adviser finds you eligible for a general college course that will prepare you for transfer to a four year college or university at the end of two years, or be as a basis for special training to be completed here with us.

You are going to enroll in English, science, a foreign language, hygiene, and physical education to the tune of 15 units, a normal and not overloaded semester program. A new freshman student enrolls in hygiene, separate sections for men and women, and all students enroll in physical education each semester.

Your adviser shows you how to use your schedule of classes, you list all the days and hours the subjects you want are offered, and then, through what may look to you like a trick of Houdini, THEN, you have a program. It's easy. For instance, that English course you want is offered at 9, 10, 11, 12 (oh, no, there's no set hour for lunch here), and 1 o'clock, on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

That science course you want is a combination of lecture hours and laboratory sections. The science lectures come at one hour only, at 9 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Thus that hour is settled and you will no longer consider putting your English in the 9 o'clock hour.

The language you want comes every day in the week, at 9, 10, 11, 12, and 1 o'clock. The 9 o'clock hour is taken with science, and you'd like to eat lunch at 12, so hold out for 10 or 11 for language. If you choose 11, then English will be at 10.

Hygiene (the men's sections are numbered 21, and the women's sections 22, and some time we'll tell you about the student who confused the two) is on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 8, 9, 10, 11, and 12 o'clock. H'm. You want language to be at 10 to 11, and your other courses do not meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and you want lunch every day at 12. Well, easy as pie. Science, Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays at 9. English, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at 10. Language, every day at 11. Hygiene—can it really be that you can choose to take it at 10 Tuesdays and Thursdays and sleep an hour later those mornings? It could be. But for one thing.

Then Confusion Reigns . . .

You forgot all about that science laboratory section. And you need two of them of three hours each. There they are, from 9 to 12 Tuesdays and Thursdays. There's another section from 1 to 4 Mondays and Wednesdays, but that's definitely out, for then you want to play varsity baseball, and baseball practice takes care of the four hours a week for physical education.

Yet all the other hours conflict with one another. It's impossible what with both hygiene and language coming between those 9 to 12 hours that some misguided individual decided sacred for a science lab. You undoubtedly are thinking as we did once: "This schedule is terrible. Why did I decide to come to college? The courses are all at the wrong hours. Doesn't anyone know how to plan things so that I can have what I want when I want it? I'll just refuse to accept such a program unless they'll change things so that I can have lunch every day at 12, play first base on the team, and still take the courses my adviser told me to take! What do they think my block letter's for anyway? Can't they see it?"

Remember what we said about counting ten? All the time you have been getting more antagonistic to your blood pressure, your adviser has been watching

(Continued on page 3, column 1)

More About Typical Freshman

(Continued From Page 2)

you with one eye while he helps another fellow student of yours, and at this point he comes to the rescue.

You CAN Have Your Cake . . .

You see, just because you are unfamiliar with college registration until you have been through it once, you have not realized that you can just about have your cake and eat it too.

Try it this way. Put those science labs Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9 to 12 so that you can fit in your one unit of physical education the way you want to, by turning out for baseball four afternoons a week at 2 o'clock. Put your language in at 1 o'clock every day. Put your English in at 11 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Your science comes only at 9 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays.

And make the sacrifice. Take your hygiene course at 8 o'clock Tuesdays and Thursdays. See how easy it is? Even if you don't like the idea of 8 o'clocks, and we don't either, you want to play baseball, and you want lunch at 12 o'clock, and there are at least 4999 other persons who are having the same difficulty as you are having—only, the chances are much worse. Maybe on the way to those two 8 o'clock classes each week you can discover why the lords who rule our universe invented 8 o'clocks. And maybe one answer will be, so that you can enroll in your chosen program field and still play baseball in the afternoons.

Now you have a program, all filled out as shown on this page with name and number of the course, room number, and instructor's name, in the proper places, all of which information you have on the schedule of classes. From this Practice Program Sheet, it is simple to transfer the information to the Trial Study List. Like this: Physical Ed. . . . Baseball (in place of a course number) . . . Brady . . . 2-5 Daily . . . Men's Gym . . . 1—this last means the number of units of credit.

The Book Is Filled Out . . .

When the Trial Study List is complete, your faculty adviser signs it and gives you enrollment cards, one for each class and laboratory or conference section, to fill out. These enrollment cards really are a workout.

You'll notice that the card is perforated in two places. Beyond these perforations are "tags" on which later in the semester midterm grades will be written. It is important now that you fill out all the information requested on these bits of the whole card. The time will come when you can frame them.

Your next step is to the sign-up room, where you file your enrollment cards according to the classes you wish to enter. This step assures you of a priority if the class eventually becomes too full. You part with the cards, and by golly, you're in class. You're in all your classes. You're practically registered. Now all you have to do is fill out the rest of your Registration Book, including your Official Study List. The sample is on this page next to the Practice Program Sheet.

Back to your adviser now for his all-important signature on the Official Study List, down stairs to the study hall in the basement at the north end of the main building, file your book there, and you're a fully registered student of San Francisco Junior College.

You can go home now until Monday morning, when you report at 9:10 (not later) for your botany class in Room, let's see, what is that room? Look on your Practice Program Sheet.

Ah, Romance . . .

Funny thing. It happened to us this way, and maybe it will happen to you. On your way home on the bus you meet a girl who reminds you of her who used to sit in front of you in the fifth grade. You dipped her curls in the ink well, mainly because you wanted her to notice you. She did, all right! And this is the same girl.

The years intervening have given you a whimisical sense of shame, and given her a tender memory. For she knows now you were really showing her a compliment.

She's signed up for the same English as you, only hers is at 12 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. It would certainly be swell to be in her class. Maybe she would change . . .? But you're a gentleman now, a college student. YOU must make the sacrifice. You can take the English at 12 o'clock Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and eat lunch at 11 o'clock those days. Maybe SHE would have lunch with you then. You'll have to find another opportunity to study her schedule.

Luckily for you, there's a man sitting across from you who was one of the older students helping at registration. You ask him if you can possibly change your program, just a change of an hour. It won't really upset anything, really.

He tells you, then, that the days of reckless changing of programs are gone. He reminisces a bit of the past when some students even "tried out" several different classes before making up their minds on a finished program. Usually, he recalls, in the end they found classes they really wanted too crowded, so were left taking what they could.

He explains the present decree on changes in programs. Aware of the demands that exceed the facilities, he shows you that you cause more trouble to the college, to your fellow students, and to yourself by shifting your program wantonly than one individual among 5000 is worth. In other words, he makes it clear to you that you'll need an extremely good reason for any program change, and romance is not exactly a convincing reason.

You CAN Change Your Program . . .

But you can change your program if absolutely necessary. For example, you may discover that your Italian 21 is more complicated than you expected. It may be easier to enroll in a pre-college language course. If your instructor advises the change, you proceed as follows:

A trip to the registrar's office will get you a change-of-program ship, a blue number that grows in importance by the minute. On this blue slip you must have the signature of the instructor whose course you are dropping, the Italian 21, and the signature of the instructor whose course you are taking up, one of the language A courses.

Once this step is accomplished, you obtain your adviser's signature, and your counsellor's, if you have one. The final step, once you have these approvals, is vital. It involves turning the change-in-program slip into the registrar's office.

Remember this last step. The blue slip is the only official record of your program change, and it will be thoroughly ineffective if preserved in your pocket or between the pages of a book for the rest of the semester.

You're still pretty upset about not being in English with the girl you met on the bus, when you make one of those discoveries that seem almost like a miracle. Her 12 o'clock English section was too crowded, and another was opened at 11 o'clock. She's still not in your English class, but she meets you every day at 12 o'clock for lunch. "God's in His Heaven! All's right with the world!" You're lucky and you know it.

And you really are. Some of your classmates found that every class they wanted to enter was filled to capacity. They went back again and again to their advisers, and eventually they managed some sort of program. Have you learned from them! You had the gleam of an idea that you might register late next semester to avoid the rush. Now you know you'll register when expected to, avoid the risk of meeting full and closed classes, and thereby avoid the risk of being enrolled in a program course you didn't choose just because some 4999 students were ahead of you.

Registration Day

A College Vocabulary

When Charles Thomas Flynn first came to college, he discovered a new world in which even the language was strange. Because he was curious, he studied the language and found that its vocabulary is limited but impressive.

These are the key words on which he concentrated.

- Registration Book: five pages used to record his program.
- Trial Study List: literally a "trial" program followed to determine its suitability.
- Official Study List: the final program.
- Grades: as in A, B, C, D, (or f); midterm and final.
- Midterm Period: divisions of a semester into three parts.
- Finals: examinations in each course given the last week.
- Units: college measurement of a course. Usually if a course meets three hours a week throughout a semester, it is assigned three units of credit.
- Special Student: one limited to a maximum of 11 and ½ units.
- Regular Student: one limited to from 12 to 16 and ½ units.
- Prerequisite: for example, passing English A is prerequisite to enrolling in an English course.
- Requirement: hygiene, physical education—among other things—are required for graduation.
- Major: 20 units in one field required for graduation.
- Certificate of Registration: card in registration book which is stamped when book is filed to indicate completion of registration.
- Adviser: faculty member, usually in student's major field, who—that's right—advises.
- Schedule of classes: list of courses, time, place.
- Drop slip: vernacular for change-in-program slip.
- Leave-of-absence: official notice of withdrawal from all college classes without penalty.

PRACTICE SHEET

PRINT: MR. (MISS, MRS. OR MR.) Flynn (LAST NAME) Charles (FIRST NAME) Thomas (MIDDLE NAME)

	MON.	TUES.	WED.	THURS.	FRI.
8:10 9:00		HYGIENE 21		WILSON 432
9:10 10:00	BOTANY 21a	BOTANY	SMITH	BOTANY	204
10:10 11:00		LAB		LAB
11:10 12:00	ENGLISH 21a	SMITH	JONES	334	255
12:10 1:00
1:10 2:00	— ITALIAN 21 — BROWN — 309 —
2:10 3:00	(— PHYS. ED. — (BASEBALL) — BRADY — MEN'S GYM
3:10 4:00
4:10 5:00

OFFICIAL STUDY LIST

XY 1234 (PHONE) — (SEMESTER IN R. F., 1, 2, 3, 4, ETC.) 1

PRINT: MR. (MISS, MRS. OR MR.) Flynn (LAST NAME) Charles (FIRST NAME) Thomas (MIDDLE NAME)

ADDRESS (NO.) (STREET) (CITY)

SUBJECT (E.G. ENGLISH)	NO. OF COURSE	INSTRUCTOR (E.G. COOK)	HRS. AND DAYS (E.G. 8:00 MWF)	MID-TERM 1ST	MID-TERM 2ND	GRADE	SEMESTER UNITS
PHYS. ED.	Baseball	Brady	2-5 Daily				1
Botany	21a	Smith	9 MWF				4
"	Lab	"	T-Th
English	21a	Jones	11 MWF				3
Italian	21	Brown	1 Daily				4
Hygiene	21	Wilson	8 T-Th				2
							14

APPROVED BY (FACULTY ADVISER) MAJOR General

DATE H.S. OF GRAD. Washington

Guardsman SPORTS

Freshman Edition — Thursday, February 6, 1947 — Page 4

Baseball

DiamondChampions Set For Big Year

By Art Paymiller

Looking forward to the coming horseride season, Bill Fischer, mentor of the Northern California Junior College circuit champion Rams, announced that baseball signups will begin Monday, February 17, in the men's gymnasium. The first official practice session will also be held the same day.

Although many members of last year's pennant winning squad will be missing when the 1947 edition of the Rams takes the field, Fischer is looking forward to a successful season. High school graduates and returning servicemen will be counted on to fill the vacancies and bolster the weak spots in the organization.

The Rams will play a 12-game schedule on a home and home basis, except for the Salinas tussles, with the other six teams in the league. Games will be played with Menlo, Santa Rosa, Marin, Vallejo, Salinas and San Mateo Junior Colleges. The locals will play a twin bill with the Salinas Cowboys here in lieu of making a trip to the Lettuce City.

Fischer advised that all men wishing to try out for the squad should get their arms and legs in condition as soon as possible in order to decrease the possibility of muscle soreness during the practice season.

The home town contingent will officially open the season on Tuesday, March 18, when they meet the Menlo nine.

MARKED MAN is Bill Fischer because Fischer is coaching the defending conference champion baseball team which opens practice next month.

WAA

Frosh Women Select Campus Sports Today

Incoming women registrants may select their Women's Athletic Association sports clubs today and throughout the week of registration on the campus, according to Gloria Swiegood, WAA adviser.

Women may select the following sports: badminton, softball, archery, swimming, basketball, tennis, and possibly bowling and horseback riding.

WAA award winners who have not yet received their blocks are requested to check with the registrar's office immediately following the distribution of final grades.

Track

Oval Champs Have League's Top Squad

Studded with an array of returning lettermen, the home force track squad, attired in the robes of championship luster, are continuing signups in the men's gymnasium throughout this week.

Returning veterans from the outfit, which annexed last year's Northern California Junior College Conference meet, include Bob Caredio, Bill Bahr, Eddie Bryant, Tom Kellogg, Evan Goldenburg, John Didio, Bill Barnes, Harry Tapoian, and Pat McMillan.

"There is still plenty of time for incoming freshmen to sign up for the team," Jim Jensen, townie head coach, declared, "and with the breaks, we should 'do well' this season."

Top Ram performances are to be found in the sprints, Bryant already having run a 9.8 century, and in the half mile via Kellogg's 1:59.8 effort.

Quarter miler Caredio has a :51 flat performance to his credit and was edged last year only by Sacramento's Jim Lytgen; John Didio's 22 foot broad jumps place him up high, as will Barnes' 6 foot, 2 inch job in the high jump.

Bolstered by a stream of local preps, the Rams are expected to again dominate the circuit with trouble coming from Modesto and Sacramento Colleges.

Jensen, the ex-Washington Stater who lassoed a track and field title on his first conference outing, would welcome a turnout of local ex-GI's to add to his present array of returning lettermen.

Basketball

SF Regains NCJCC Lead With 50-42 Win Over Sacs; O'Neill, Psaltis Big Guns

The Ralph Hillsman cage clan regained undisputed possession of first place in the Northern California Junior College Conference last Wednesday night by edging Sacramento College's Panthers, 50 to 42, before 1100 fans at men's gymnasium.

The locals maintained a three point advantage throughout the first half on shots by Mike O'Neill and Art Psaltis. Sacramento used a spirited fast break with Center George Stanich on the front end of the charge.

Trailing, 24-23, at halftime, Sac Stanich and Guard Paul Cooper brought the Senators in front of the locals until five minutes of the final gun.

A 30 footer by O'Neill tied the score at 35-35, and then Reserve Neil Turner potted a corner shot married with a pair of charity tosses and the Rams "were in."

A pair of free throws by Bill Kahn and O'Neill's two hard-pressed layups shoved the locals into a 48-38 yead.

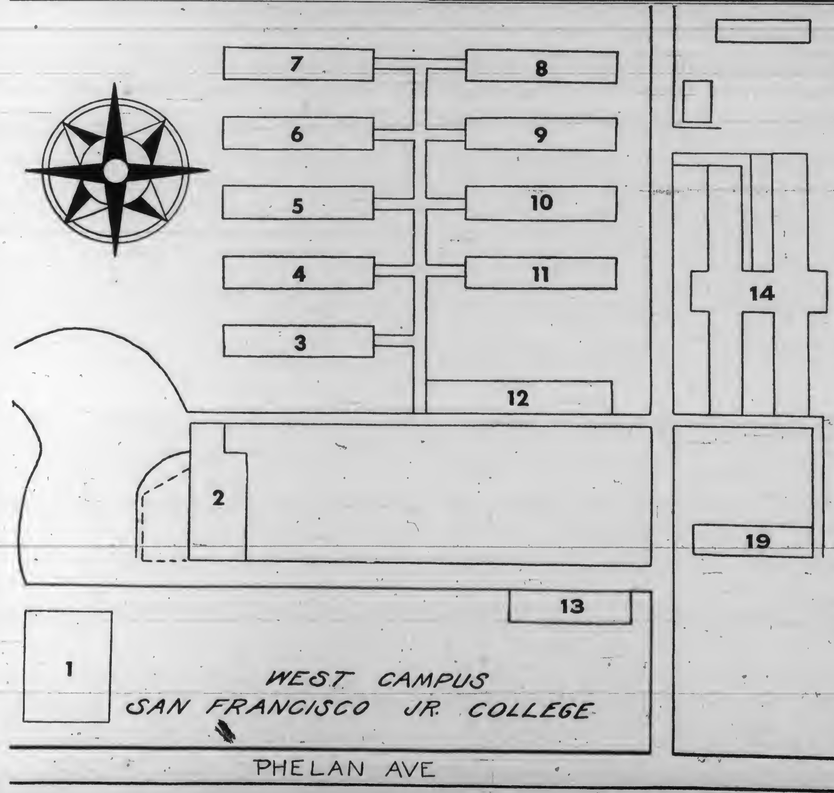
O'Neill lassoed high scoring laurels for the winners via 15 points, while Larry Baldocchi and Psaltis garnered 11 and 10, respectively. Stanich led the Sacs with 15 points.

THE BOXSCORE:

SACRAMENTO (42)				RAMS (50)
Player, Pos.	FG	FT	TP	Player, Pos.	FG	FT	TP
Linck, f	2	3	7	Buroughs, f	0	1	1
Peletta, f	1	1	3	Baldocchi,f	5	1	11
Stanich, c	6	3	15	Cameron, c	1	1	3
Urbano, g	0	0	0	Psaltis, g	5	0	10
Cooper, g	4	2	10	O'Neill, g	7	1	15
Scurfield, f	1	2	4	Kahn, c	2	0	4
Chase, g	0	0	0	Turner, g	2	2	6
McDonl, c	0	0	0
Totals	15	12	42	Totals	22	6	50

Halftime score — Sacramento 24, SFJC 23. Free throws missed—Sacramento 5, SFJC 4. Officials—Lloyd Leith and Ernie Bailey.

A sure way to gain a reputation for being fairminded is to have no convictions on anything.



LUCK OF THE IRISH exudes from smiling Mike O'Neill, home force guard and recent Modesto All-Tourney star performer.—Photo by Lustig.

PAVILION CHATTER: Statistics will bear out the fact that the Rams have two of the highest scoring guards in the jaysee loop in Psaltis and O'Neill. In two games, the SF duo has scored 48 points.

Rumors have Sac Center Stanich bound for UCLA in the wake of John Stanich, the slender Senator pivotman's brother.

Monticello, Virginia, was the home of Thomas Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, and third President of the United States of America.

The West Campus

Map Shows Office, Building Locations

1. AUDITORIUM: Classrooms; books for veterans on GI Bill.
2. ADMINISTRATION BUILDING: Student lounge; Associated Student office; XGI office; Dean of Women Margaret Dougherty — women's personal problems, attendance; Dean of Men Edward E. Sandys — housing, parking, men's personal problems, attendance; Assistant Dean of Men John Brady, student activities; Secretary Rosemary Borg—claim lost articles; Placement Director Joseph A. Amori; Dormitory Director Fred MacFarland; Student Council meeting room.
3. COUNSELLING CENTER: F. Grant Marsh, head counsellor; Mildred Barnard, Waddington Blair, Alice Castro, Don Doolin, Joseph Jacobsen, Alva McMillan, William Ogle, Alden Olson, Mary Perry, William Schoon, Adolph Stoll, counsellors. Representatives of Veterans Administration, William I. Olsen, Myron Makower.
4. FLORICULTURE: Harry Nelson.
5. FLOWER ARRANGEMENT: John Lawrence.
6, 7, 8, 13: DORMITORIES.
9, 10, 11: CLASSROOMS.
12. THE GUARDSMAN: Veterans Business Office, Walter McCloud; Alpha Gamma Sigma office; Soda Fountain.
14. CAFETERIA: Hotel and Restaurant Division and Society offices, Hilda Watson.
19. ENGLISH, communications and skills offices and workshop, Paul McKelvey.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIV — SAN FRANCISCO, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1947 — No. 1

ASSFJC Faces Financial Crisis

LEADERS OF STUDENT GOVERNMENT at the college are shown here holding a pre-semester meeting to outline a program for Spring 1947. Back row left to right: Don Burger, Finance Committee Chairman; Marilyn Conover, Frosh Council representative; Jackie Faxon, Sophomore Council representative; Bob Winegardner, Sophomore Council representative; Bob Riley, Frosh Council representative; Roberta Robb, Sophomore Council representative; Lou Neilson, Frosh Council representative; Byrne Davis, Frosh Council representative.

Front row left to right: Gloria Jean Wu, Sophomore Council representative; Astrid Wettin, Sophomore Class president; Claire Levesque, AWS president; Millie Laube, Sophomore Council representative; Frank Nelson, AMS president; Jim Edwards, Frosh Class president; Nick Dirtiman, Frosh Council representative.—Photo by Wechter.

Editorial

Student Activities Bring Recognition To College

"COLLEGE is more than Classes."

Some students claim that this statement doesn't apply to them because they don't attend any of the extracurricula activities and therefore have no need for an Associated Student card.

There's more to it than that. Pride in the successes of the college obligates students to be members of the Associated Students.

The choir and music departments are well known in San Francisco for the annual Christmas Concert, paid for by the Associated Students.

The athletic teams are known throughout the state as a result of having acquired recent championships—expenses paid by the Associated Students.

The fact that The Guardsman is nationally known is evidenced by the requests of colleges all over the country for copies of the paper because of its consistent All-American rating. The Guardsman is Associated Student supported.

Thus, when anyone says "I've heard of S.F.J.C.," for any of these activities, each registered student reflects pride in being a part of the college. As a consequence, he owes something in return, and the only tangible way of paying this debt is by purchase of an Associated Student card.

To some students these reasons may seem too abstract, but as a result of action pending by the Student Council, more concrete ones are in the offing.

Commencing as soon as legislation is completed, students who participate in all drama, music, or sports department activities, or who are working on any college publication will also be required to possess a card to qualify.

Another drastic measure going into effect immediately is in regard to distribution of The Guardsman. After the first edition which you are now reading, copies will be distributed only to student card holders.

In essence, the above means that no student may participate in any activities directly or indirectly supported by student funds, unless he be a member of the Associated Students.

If you who are reading this paper are not a member of the Associated Students, remember, your neighbor paid for this copy.

Carmel Gannon, Editor

Student Council

Members Act To Restrict All Student Financed Programs To Card Owners

The necessity of restricting Associated Student activities to noncard holders was the primary concern of the Student Council in its first two meetings of this semester held last week.

President Trev Burrow presented the fact that although the college now has an enrollment of more than 5,000 students, only 66 per cent of these have purchased Associated Student cards. Burrow stated that the poor showing in amount of sales was due to the laxity in limiting the use of activities paid by Associated Students funds to members of the Associated Students.

Jim Edwards

A committee composed by Jim Edwards, chairman; Pat Pollack and Gloria Wu, was appointed to draw up a by-law to the constitution to define and regulate the use of activities.

Among the proposed restrictions was limiting to Associated Student members the participation in sports as well as any awards paid for in full or part by student funds. Admittance to dances, athletic events, and the like, would be allowed only on presentation of cards.

It was also proposed that any Club Advisory Board chartered organization have at least a majority of its members in the Associated Students or forfeit the privilege of using the P. A. system, being represented in The Guardsman display advertising department posters, or having a date on the social calendar.

Also under consideration was the limitation of participation in the activities of the music, drama, and any publications department. Students could enroll in these classes but not use production or award facilities furnished by student funds.

Site Of Frosh Dance Depends On Funds

The Freshman Class dance will be held at Larkspur if sufficient funds are made available through the sale of Associated Student cards.

This was the edict pronounced by Jim Edwards, class president, last week.

Previous class dances have been held at hotels, and that this is the first time to his knowledge that an open air dance at Larkspur has been given, Edwards said.

As an alternative to holding the dance at Larkspur, Edwards stated that it could be held in the west campus auditorium.

"I am against holding the dance in the auditorium unless it is air conditioned," Edwards added.

"It will be necessary to sell more Associated Student cards if we want to hold the dance at Larkspur; therefore we will have to conduct an extensive drive to boost the sales," the president said.

Dean's Offices Will House Lost Articles

All articles found on or near the campus can be turned in at the telephone switchboard in the main building, or at the dean's offices in Building 2.

Dean Edward E. Sandys told students last week that persons looking for lost items should inquire about them at the office.

From time to time, The Guardsman will list the more valuable items that have been turned in, enabling the owners to claim their property.

Legal Edict

Snafu, State Ruling Bans Vet Fee Payment

Since junior college students in California are not legally compelled to pay Associated Student fees, the Veterans Administration will discontinue supplying these fees to veterans beginning with this semester. Veterans may buy their Associated Student cards at the college bank now.

The administration's earlier decision to pay the veterans' fees had been in effect through the Fall, '46, semester; this spring marks the expiration of this service. The administration has arranged with the college to pay all required fees only.

Faculty To Give English Tutoring

In an effort to offer additional help in spelling, speech, punctuation, and sentence structure as well as vocabulary, usage, and diction, Harold Miller, basic skill workshop head, announced today that individual instruction will be afforded students by faculty members of the English department.

Students who wish to enroll will sign up in Room 4, workshop, Building 19, west campus, at the following times: Today, February 25, from 9 to 4 p.m.; Wednesday, February 26, from 9 to 12 p.m. and 1 to 4 p.m.; Thursday, February 27, from 10 to 4 p.m.; Friday, February 28, from 10 to 12 p.m.

A schedule of hours and classes will be posted on the bulletin board outside the workshop in Building 19, Monday, March 3. Instruction will begin the same day, and this service is open to all students.

March 7 Last Day For New Class Signup

Students will not be allowed to enter a class after Friday, March 7, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, announced last week, but they may continue to drop courses until Wednesday, April 9.

Miss Learnard urged all students to file petitions to graduate immediately in order to discover any possible deficiency in requirements for graduation.

"Once more we are warning students who desire leaves of absence to get the proper clearance from the registrar's office. Failure to do this will result in automatic F's in all courses in which the student is signed up," Miss Learnard said.

Miss Learnard added that she considered the registration of some 5,200 students the smoothest in the history of the college.

Miss Learnard also took the opportunity to thank various student groups who volunteered to help in the registration of new students.

Share-A-Locker Plan To Be Enforced

Previous reports that locker combinations have been changed are incorrect, Oscar E. Anderson, Controller, declared last week. Former students will keep their lockers and share them with new students.

"An investigation of lockers will be made in the near future, and attempts will be made to ease the situation by distributing the empty lockers to those who need them," Anderson said.

AWS President Names New Officers

Virginia St. John was appointed vice-president of the Associated Women Student organization last week by Claire Levesque, president. Mary James and Rosemarie Kupp were named recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively, subject to Student Council approval.

Registration Hits 5200; Polytechnic Grabs Lead

By Del Pichon

With total registration figures hitting the 5,200 mark following the close of official filing of books, Moe Fink, college character and man about the west campus, surveyed the mob, and dashed for the registrar's office, muttering, "Think I'll go in and ask the registrar what the odds are."

Fighting his way through the mob, Moe finally made it to the counter and attracted the attention of one of the officials working there.

"Could you tell me what the odds are between the men and the women here?" he asked sweetly.

"Well," she said, "we have many new students, quite a large enrollment this time. Ninety students from Polytechnic, 85 from Washington, Mission 79, Lincoln 73, Balboa 64, Commerce 58, Galileo 54, Lowell 61, Girls High 15, private schools 69 . . ."

"Please, all I want to know is what the odds are!" Moe interrupted.

"Yes, we have a large enrollment from the East Bay, 261 students. Amazing, isn't it—and 363 from miscellaneous schools and—"

"Wait a minute! What are the odds of girls to boys?" Moe said savagely.

"Oh, that! Well we have about 1,300 new students, of which approximately 1,050 are men and 250 women, giving an average of 4.2 men to every girl," she ended breathlessly.

"Four to one," Moe said incredulously. "Gee! I haven't got a chance."

Then he trudged out of the office mumbling about last night's dish towel.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIV, No. 1 Tuesday, November 25, 1947 Page 2

Registration Lauded

Havoc, Chaos Disappear

TURNABOUT being fairplay, it is only right on the part of The Guardsman to praise the system employed by the registrar this semester.

In past semesters registration has been a tedious, jumbled affair, confusing to all, including those conducting it. As a result of this mess, much adverse editorial comment has been made.

This time, contrary to previous conceptions by many justified skeptics, the registration was run smoothly, efficiently and with a minimum of stress and strain on both the students and the faculty.

In view of this, it seems that at last a workable system has been evolved and the person or persons responsible certainly should be commended.

Old students familiar with the havoc and chaos associated with former registrations should be the first to recognize and laud the present situation.

It is apparent that the necessity of standing in lines was practically eliminated in the case of the non-veteran students, and greatly lessened in the case of veterans.

Unfortunately, it is unavoidable that the veterans be required to line up so often, but it can easily be seen that otherwise they could not be given the necessary personal attention.

Registration systems have been tried and junked so often by the college that it is certainly to be hoped that this practical onex will not go the way of all the others.

Now that "the way" has been discovered, it should be kept with alterations as they are needed.

Ford

After Dark

FORUM, the college annual literary magazine, is still desirous of contributions, especially humorous or satirical articles and short stories. A final deadline will be announced in the near future, however, ANY and ALL contributions are welcome NOW. Don't wait! Contributions may be turned in to Dr. Dorothy Mercer or John Gerstrung. Provided desirable types of material are submitted, Forum will endeavor to present a good literary magazine that will appeal to everyone.

Bring in your short stories, long stories, long short stories, short long stories, short-short stories, literary articles, essays, surrealism, poetry (rhymed and free verse), reviews of books, plays, ballet, movies, and opera, psychological articles, romantic fragments—anything! Just make it in English!

* * * *

A great many of you probably get high kicks from the torrid tunes of the able maestro, Stan Kenton, and, if you do, why not try a long hair Kenton? Why not try Roy Harris for instance? Harris is a modernist composer, not unlike Bartok or Gershwin, who has endowed America with true authentic originality and a great measure of comprehensive nobility. Speaking of his work generally, Paul Rosenfeld has said that, in some passages there is a limitless feeling of the plains, the fierce impulses and frustrations of the American migrations, the long patience of the poor; in brief, the heartbeat of the American soul.

Harris can in no way be considered a traditionalist. He is building a rich native music, a music for the future and to do this he is forced to break with some of the traditions of the past. Three Variations On A Theme, Sonata For Piano, and the 3rd Symphony are several of his greatest works.

Serge Koussevitsky, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, who has conducted much of Harris's work, believes that the 3rd Symphony is the first great orchestral work to be produced in America. Here Is Music runs an account of the work in Modern Music, "of the bleak and barren expanses of Western Kansas, of the brooding prairie night, of the fast darkness of the American soul, of its despair and courage, its defeat and its triumph, its struggles and its aspirations."

Around And About

with Nagle

OPEN LETTER TO FRESHMEN:

REGISTRATION is a bewildering procedure.

When you arrived at the campus a line of equally bewildered students greeted you. After waiting the line out, you certified that you lived some place.

After attempting to remember all this pertinent data you went into another room, where someone handed you a blackboard with your name imprinted, and pointed to the college "Romaine."

There, after replenishing your lipstick and coiffeur, like Convict No. 5605, you stuck out your chin for the first time in your college career and smiled at the birdie.

Several beautiful women then accosted you, pleading with you to buy Associated Student cards. If you were fortunate enough to have the do-ray-me, you also received the "Can't Tell A Professor From A Student Without 'Em" handbook.

Then with a gentle shove you were pushed out-of-doors, toward the hilltop and told to "go see your adviser."

Once in the tender arms of your adviser you felt safe and secure. But program filling proved to be a dismal task. The adviser worked fruitlessly on a program which gave you free periods from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., and as you left his office you mentally pictured him grasping the trigger of the gun in his left hand drawer.

Attendance cards! Registration books! Study lists! Finally you were handed the "Official Registration Card" and at that moment became A COLLEGE STUDENT. You saw great fields ahead of you . . . you could explore the unknown . . . could conquer science, literature, art . . . perhaps even get a date with that cute sophomore!

The grind may become hard, students—ah yes, indeed it does. But statistics prove that fewer students die in class than any place . . . so lighten that heavy heart, relax and enjoy yourselves. When you feel sad or down at the mouth, you can gripe by writing to the Ram's Horn (located below) . . . but if you are blissfully contented and have no gripes at all, drop into The Guardsman office.

Here you will be preserved in a bottle of formaldehyde and exhibited with the other Rare Specimens of Contented Students in the College Museum (to be built as soon as we get a specimen.)

STANDBY

By Bill Riley

THE reputation of the college has become an international magnet. There are now enrolled at this college students from as far-distant points as Japan, China, Australia, France, England, and nearly every country in South America. Applications from New Zealand, Greece, and Switzerland are now under consideration.

MARIE DYSEN, PBX operator, holds one of the most interesting positions at the college. Although the PBX is supposedly dedicated to business and emergency calls, there are many in-coming messages which fall into neither of these categories. An example of this was the call from the wife of a faculty member in which she asked that her husband be notified that his appointment with his tailor was at 3 o'clock that afternoon.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Where Not To Sin In S.F.; Permanent Curfew In Some Spots

NIGHT clubs are as much a part of the American scene as the four gas stations at each intersection of any big town.

As such they deserve mention even within the confines of a junior college paper that circulates among present and future patrons of such social establishments catering to mass frustration. Especially when said college contains a considerable majority of legally eligible pleasure seekers.

That is, it is hoped the college sheet will once again be in the hands of one and all, if the student card tangle is ever unraveled.

SEND TO A SERVICEMAN

In the meantime allow a vet to peer over your shoulder until the Veteran's Administration decides to give its wards the complete college education that was once promised them, including the benefits that go along with being a member of the Associated Students.

Right along in here somewhere a nicely timed mature voice might roar: "What benefits, pray tell us, are wrapped up within the five bucks it costs us to join the union?"

But all this is wandering away from the original starting point which began as an inquiry into the status of San Francisco's unique after-dark activities. The other can rest for the moment until Prexy Burrow can be reached for a statement.

The mass frustration mentioned above can now be applied to the club owners themselves in addition to the fun-loving patrons.

Thanks to the midnight curfew, a hangover from war days, the mortality rate among Cafe Society joints folding their doors may soon surpass the death rate of their own customers—induced by bad food and watered stock.

TWO STANDBYS UNDER TABLE

When the Bal Tabarin did the El Foldo, bar owners and customers alike cried in the brew as much as if someone had ripped up the Powell Street cable tracks in the middle of the night—It was that much of an institution.

A few blocks off Columbus Avenue, down on the Wharf, the Copacabana, a stainless steel, upstairs-to-save-you-money palace, is now tottering on the brink.

Featuring a postage stamp-sized dance floor and alleged poisoned musicians, the Copa is in the hands of receivers and ready for the lock.

But metallic substances seem to run in all our veins and the faculty looks like it will get about without wheelchairs for a little while longer at least.

But that is for the future to tell. For now, how about putting our shoes back on and tottering off to class?

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

PARDON us while we slide gracefully out of our shoes. On second thought, let's all slide our shoes off and be comfortable. Assuming, that is, that at this stage of the game we are all in the same sad condition; tenderfooted, that is!

Students have been seen running up the front hill from the west campus, only to have to run down the back slope to Athletic Gulch soon afterward. Then, after a quiet hour of varied physical exercise, these same persons puff their way up the 30 degree angle, roll down the frontal greenery, and arrive, in good time, at the end of a mile-long waiting for food.

Now, it is fairly obvious that students here are a hale and hearty lot, boasting, for the most part, only an occasional fallen arch, and, under normal conditions, holding their complaints to a minimum. However, as things stand (or should that be walk?), the wear and tear on the lower appendages seems to be constantly increasing.

From outward observation, most of the brainirusts represented here have held their own remarkably well during the first week. The most telling effect has been observed in the more mature generation amongst us.

Yes, certain faculty members, it appears, have had revelations during the short period the west campus has been in full operation. It seems that some of them have been heard muttering words to the effect they are no longer as young as they "onct wuz."

Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

"Practice What Preach"—Student Card Advocate; AWS Officers Say Thanks

Editor's Note: Through the medium of this column, the student may voice his complaints, criticism, praise, discussions, and what-have-you. The editor preserves impartially in publication of letters, and further he reserves the right and responsibility of editing material should there be a question of good taste involved. If you wish to write, write to the Ram's Horn. Your material will be published.

• $5 Isn't Cheap—But

Editor, The Guardsman:

At registration, I purchased my Associated Student card (which I believe every student attending college should have); and received the college handbook.

Upon reading through the booklet, I discovered various fraternities, sororities, and clubs claim their purpose is "to render service, to promote good fellowship and to create school spirit."

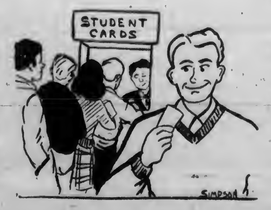
If this is one of their purposes, this year more than ever these cluhs should back the college to the fullest measure in the drive to acquaint the student with the privileges and benefits brought to owners of student cards.

Five dollars isn't cheap, but if these clubs would put forth membership drives they would be "rendering a service to the school," and "create a strong school spirit."

The progress of the college depends upon the interest held by its students. Thus, if these organizations practice what they preach, they will maintain 100 per cent Associated Student membership, possess student cards.

Associated Student Card No. 2384

• In Appreciation



Editor, The Guardsman:

The officers of the Associated Women Students wish to express their thanks for the assistance they received from the women who volunteered their help during registration.

Various members of the faculty have also expressed their appreciation for the help which they were given with the new students.

Claire Levesque, President; Virginia St. John, Vice-President; Mary James, Recording Secretary; Rosemarie Kapp, Corresponding Secretary.

"HOW ABOUT YOU?"

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1947

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Carmel Gannon
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Trav Burrow
ASST. MGN. EDITOR ..... George Lajeunesse
ASST. MGN. EDITOR ..... Edward Heyman
Editorial Assistants: William Keast, Howard Simpson, Paul Lindstrom.

NEWS: Herbert Levy, editor; John Bayler, Ralph Bargendorf, James Beuerlein, Herbert Bishop, Jo Ellen Cain, Barbara Cuhy-house, Edward Engle, William Franklin, Vivian Freedman, Sheila Grang, Doris Hall, Melvin Hansen, John Hulse, Albert Kipnis, Paul Lindstrom, Raoul Martinez, Stanley Medders, James Merrigan, William Riley, John Shea, Gordon Smith, Lawrence Truitt, Hank Weiss, William Wilson.

FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, Editor; Del Pichon, Assistant; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Reinisch, Bill Riley.

SPORTS: Bill Covall, Don Cowderoy, editors; Paul Cane, Sam Goldman, Dayton Lawson, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Arnold Wechter, editor; Donald Lum, Fred Lustig, Jim Edwards.

BUSINESS: Bob Hanson, manager; Charles Boehnke, Max Call, Florence Grant.

Editorial Adviser ..... Joan Nurse
Business Adviser ..... Joseph Amori

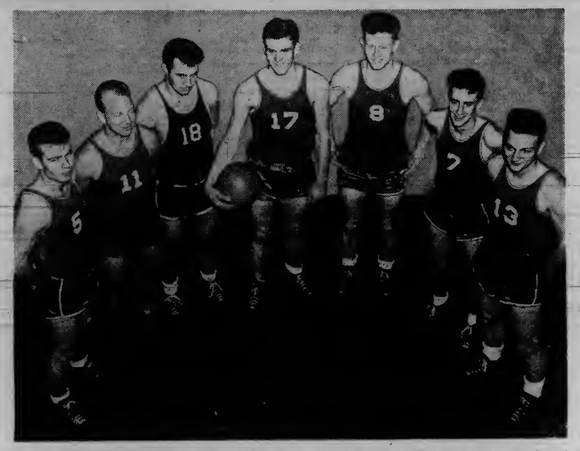
Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIV, No. 1 TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1947 Page 3

Baseball

Fischer's Mittmen Set For Big Year; Newcomers Shine

By Art Paymiller



Fifty-one diamond hopefuls, candidates for positions on the Ram baseball squad, greeted mentor Bill Fischer at the first practice session of the 1947 season held on February 17.

Five members of Fischer's championship Sausalito Fuel and Ice nine, including three returning Ram mittmen, were among the players putting in an appearance. They were Ed Allemand, pitcher; George Homsey and Herb Markall, catchers, and fielders Zane Kaplan and Al Gannon.

Allemand put in several relief appearances as a hurler last season, but has been performing in the outer gardens for the Icemen. Markall hit .500 for the locals, getting one bingle in two trips to the plate. Homsey, mainstay of last year's catching staff, clicked for a .189 average, batting in six runs and scoring eight.

Outfielder Chet Anderson, who smacked the apple at a .372 clip for the title-winning Rams last year, will be expected to wield a big stick for the Fischermen again this year.

Among the prep notables signing up were Ernie Demecus of Commerce, and Jim Hughes, Bill Maxey, and Bob Nard of Polytechnic.

SAN FRANCISCO JUNIOR COLLEGE'S league leading and Modesto Tournament Championship Rams are lined up and ready to go against their traditional Peninsula rivals, San Mateo Junior College Bulldogs, tomorrow night at the Men's Gymnasium and again Friday night at the San Mateo Gymnasium. Left to right are Phil Burroughs, forward; Bill Behr, guard; Art Psaltis, guard; Mike O'Neill, guard; Ken Cameron, forward and center; Larry Baldocchi, forward and Hank Roberts, forward.—Photo by Wechter, Courtesy of San Francisco News.

Max's Deluxe Barber Shop

One Block From the Campus

1334 Ocean Ave.

Denny Dairies Offer Premiums To Cagers

Showing dynamic interest in the Ram's fast-stepping basketball team, Denny Dairies, 737 Portola Drive, has again offered a premium of one free hamburger, with or without onions, to members of the team for every six points scored individually. The offer applies to forthcoming games only.

To retrieve one of these delicious 'burgers, a member of the team has only to bring a slip signed by the coach or manager indicating that the necessary number of points has been scored by the player.

Denny Dairies

Invite You To Try . . .

The Thickest Milk Shakes,
Fanciest Sundaes and the Creamiest Ice Cream Sodas
in San Francisco

No. 1
321-A West Portal

No. 3
400 Dewey Blvd.

Table-Talk and Coffee Only a Dime
Refills on the House

No. 2
737 Portola Drive

The Home of Heaven-Scent Hamburgers

Basketball

San Mateo Games Tomorrow Night, Friday Renew Long Standing Rivalry

The Bay Area's distinctive junior college rivalry will be renewed here on the college court of the men's gymnasium tomorrow evening at 8:15 p.m., when the San Francisco Rams enter their thirteenth contest of the current cage season by tipping off against the San Mateo Bulldogs.

At or near the top spot in the Northern division all season, the Hillsman basketeers will be the top favorites to overcome the Peninsulans, who themselves possess a fifth place holding in the Southern division.

Although the San Mateans are in the opposite league, the cage battle tomorrow and a scheduled Friday night fray will be counted toward each team's league standing, although the outcome will not decide the outcome of which could decide whether the Ram players will take the fourth successive sports championship for the home college and the invitation to the Compton Tournament in Los Angeles.

San Francisco's Lambs take on the San Mateo Pups at 6:45 p.m. in the preliminary grab prior to the main event.

Starting lineups:

Rams		Bulldogs
Burroughs, Phil	F	Matuttich, Joe
Baldocchi, Larry	F	Waters, Lloyd
Cameron, Ken	C	Goodler, Bud
O'Neill, Mike	G	Babcock, Dick
Psaltis, Art	G	Merriott, Gene

Spring Intramural Sports Start March 4

With an emphatic "best program we have ever planned" statement, Tom Wilson, head of the college intramural sports department, ushered in the first episode of this spring semester's athletic trials.

Badminton, ping-pong, and basketball are the sports scheduled for first run off, Wilson said, with the deadline for sign-ups for these activities set for Tuesday, March 4.

Later on in the spring competition will be offered in softball, volleyball, tennis, horseshoes, track, swimming, touch-football, and boxing, Wilson said.

The bespectacled mentor urged that prospective participants apply to him at their earliest convenience in the men's gymnasium.

"And just wait'll they get a load of the medals each individual will receive. What about the teams? Oh, the winning teams with the highest number of points will have their names engraved either on one of the Perpetual Plaques, or better yet, on the Dr. A. J. Cloud Perpetual Trophy."

Placer, Stockton End Ram Cage Hopes

By Sam Goldman

STOCKTON, Cal., Feb. 22.—Inability to send the ball through the hoop and the effect of a tiring car caravan were factors that sent the S. F. Ram quintet out of the NCJCC basketball title race, when the Stockton Tigers delivered the local college five its fourth loss of the cage season, 46 to 31, here tonight.

Placer Junior College started the "lost weekend" affair for the Rams on Friday night in Auburn by handing the Ram brigade its third seasonal licking, 60 to 54.

The Tiger five trailed the Ram brigade but once during the hoop affair, 10 to 6, but successive field goals by Buster Clements and Jack Dyhre sent the college five's hopes for victory into space. Clements pocketed 17 points for the victors. Guard Mike O'Neill tanked in 13 markers for the Bay City losers.

In the Friday night battle, the Placer Spartans for the second time this season proved to be the voodoo jinx on the court for the Phelan campus quintet. The Placer five trailed the Hillsman men, 39 to 30, during the second period, but field goals by Dick Gallbreath and Cliff Hyatt sent the Spartans into the lead. Gallbreath and Hyatt tallied 16 and 14 points, respectively, for the winners.

O'Neill with 17 points, and Art Psaitis with 14, were high for San Francisco.

NCJCC STANDINGS (N.D.)

Sacramento	10	2	.833
San Francisco	8	4	.666
Placer	8	4	.666
Salinas	6	6	.500
Stockton	6	6	.500

The RAM SHACK

1051 Ocean Avenue

Phone—RAndolph 9632

Track

Track Talent Good; New Cindermen Vie For Vets Top Spots

With the 1947 track season coming on like Gangbusters, Coach Jim Jensen took time out the other day to appraise his prospective talent.

A perusal of the roster caused the mentor to stroke his chin thoughtfully and come up with the comment, "Kinda looks as though we might be stuck with another bunch of champions this year."

Eddie Bryant, a point winner in the hundred yard dash last year, leads the pack in the sprints, figuring to cop both the century and the furlong in most of the meets. Harry Tapoian was another point winner in the pole vault last year, and is figured to have things pretty much his own way, come the warmer season.

One of the best prospects, Ferdy Olivas, is a miler. This lad took first place in his event in a track meet staged in Europe during the war by the armed forces stationed in the area around Berlin.

In the high jump, Fred Lawson, first place winner for Poly High last spring, is figured to be right up there in the running. Lawson has a mark of six feet one inch to his credit, and should garner lots of points for the Red and White in dual meets.

A definite asset to the coaching staff is the addition of Grover Klemmer as co-coach and trainer. He will act in the capacity of adviser to Jensen, and his knowledge of conditioning methods will be of great value.

The first workout the men will get will be in a dual meet with the University of California, slated for some time in March.

ASSFJC Cards Admit Holders To Game

Students possessing Associated Student Spring Semester 1947 membership cards will be admitted to the San Francisco Ram-San Mateo Bulldog basketball contest tomorrow evening free.

General admission is 60 cents for non-card holders.

student bank on the first floor of student bank on the first floor of the main building.

WAA Signups Begin Today In Women's Gym

Signups for the Women's Athletic Association activities will be conducted in the women's gymnasium this week, Gloria Swiegood, WAA adviser, announced today.

The actual classes will have their beginning Monday, March 3, with the schedule set as follows:

Softball, Mondays at 4; tennis, Tuesdays at 12; archery, Fridays between 9 and 12; modern dance, Fridays at 10; swimming, Thursdays at 3; badminton, Wednesdays at 4; basketball, Thursdays at 11, and riding, Thursdays at 3:30.

All any woman asks of her husband is that he love her and obey her commandments.

Music

Big Choral Group Sixty-Six Strong Plans Active Schedule; Initial Concert Set For March At Army YMCA

With a choir 66 strong to start out the year, the college A Cappella Choir is getting under way for a full semester of activities, according to Flossita Badger, choral director.

First program on the docket will be given Thursday, March 20, at the Army Y.M.C.A. by the choir and soloists.

The Men's Chorus includes 20 vocalists, but as yet the number for the Women's Chorus is not determined.

Shortly before the end of last semester, the choir elected the officers for this spring. They are Kenneth Schildt, a returning veteran who attended the college before he entered the service, manager, and Grace Mayfield, a veteran of long standing with the choir, assistant manager. The secretary of the group is Adele Lee, a member of the mixed choir last semester.

The local vocalists have a heavy schedule lined up for the coming months and are at the present time very busy preparing for the first of these performances.

They will appear at the Junior College Festival, probably to be held at Stanford, the San Francisco Festival to be given at the Opera House, and the Spring Festival to be presented here at the college as the highlight of the semester from a musical standpoint.

Miss Badger also revealed that there is a "slightly unbalanced" condition in the first tenor and alto sections and that applications will be considered for these two groups of voices. Students interested should apply to Miss Badger for auditions.

Faculty

President Cloud Authors New Book

Publication of a new educational book, Faith Of Our Fathers, written by President A. J. Cloud, was effected recently by D. C. Heath and Company, textbook publishers.

This is not the first literature by President Cloud that has been published. Besides several articles, he has written a book entitled Our Constitution, and is co-author of Episodes In The Life Of George Washington, which appeared in 1932.

He is also author of a section on government in California in fundamentals of citizenship, which he wrote in 1942. All of these books are in the college library.

President Cloud is now attending a meeting of the American Association of Junior Colleges in St. Louis, and will afterwards attend the meeting of the American Association of School Administration.

During his absence Dr. Paul J. Mohr, vice-president, will be in charge of the college. President Cloud is not expected to return to the college before March 10.

Cafeteria Sets New All-Time Record

Cafeteria and fountain service to students in the first week of this semester exceeded the total served last semester, Hilda Watson, hotel division chairman, revealed last week.

Cafeteria hours are as follows: Breakfast, 7:30 to 10:30 a.m.; lunch, 11 to 1:30 p.m., and dinner, 5 to 6:30 p.m.

New materials are expected soon to construct a new counter which should speed service to patrons, Mrs. Watson said.

Hall Displays Under New Restrictions

To set a new and higher standard for main building displays, a new policy regarding the use of show cases and the placing of posters will become effective immediately, Fanchon Gary, advertising art instructor in charge of displays, announced today.

A schedule of all show case exhibits to be displayed during the semester will be drawn to effect better plans, design, and exhibits. This makes it necessary for all organizations and departments to place their order well in advance, Miss Gary warned.

Organizations will be given display space only in the glass covered bulletin boards. The lack of materials displayed in the large show cases by organizations in the past, and their limited interest to the students as a whole has made this restriction necessary, Miss Gary explained.

Posters in the main buildings will be confined to the established bulletin boards, although banner posters may be allowed in the west campus buildings. Miss Gary also warned that posters displayed in any unauthorized places will be removed immediately.

Choral Director To Solo At Music Hour

Students of the Music 7B class, listening hour, will hear a vocal recital to be sung by Flossita Badger, choral director here, Monday, March 3, in Room 200 at 12 noon. She will be accompanied by Gertrude Norgard, the class instructor.

Miss Badger is a soloist of considerable note and has sung many of her own concerts throughout the Bay Area and elsewhere. The program will be announced at a later date.

The recital is open to all students free at that hour even though they are not registered for the class, Mrs. Norgard said.

Symphony Hour Open To All Students

The students comprising the Music 7B class will hear their regular symphony tomorrow at 12 noon, according to Gertrude Norgard, class instructor. An invitation is extended to all members of the student body and faculty to attend, whether signed for the one unit of credit or not.

The program for the hour of music is as follows:

The Sorcerers Apprentice.....Dukas
Peter And The Wolf.....Prokokieff
Till Eulenspiegels Merry Pranks .....Strauss

Handbook Remains On Sale At Finance

The Students' Handbook, written by a committee of artists and writers under the direction of Frosoula Balchios, contains general information on student affiairs, needs, interests, and organizations.

This book, given free with the sale of each Associated Student Card, may be purchased for 50 cents at the finance office.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jane Doran

• Alpha Lambda Chi: Spring semester officers are Betty Davis, president; Sue Capeland, vice-president; Alice Clayton, recording secretary; Angela Cooke, corresponding secretary; Genie Helm, treasurer; Beverley Mayers, historian; and Phyllis Beetz, sergeant-at-arms.

• Beta Phi Beta: A joint meeting is scheduled with Phi Beta Rho tomorrow night in the student lounge. Members who have returned to the college this semester are Paul Ford, Don McKelvey, and Gale Newcomb.

• Beta Tau: Spring semester officers are Paul Yde, president; Frank Grant, vice-president; Bob Reilly, corresponding secretary; Lou Nielson, recording secretary; Don Langendorf, treasurer; Jack Coates, custodian; and Avery Consta, historian. A smoker is planned for Sunday, March 2, at Charlie's Beach.

• Delta Psi: Officers for this semester are Irene Brislawn, president; Frances Thollander, vice-president; Clare Hanaway, corresponding secretary; Phyllis Hayes, recording secretary; Carmel Gannon, historian; and Donna Duffield, treasurer.

• Horticulture Society: Anyone interested in joining may see any of the following officers or advisers: Edward Hetzer, president; Jack Elliot, vice-president; Geraldine Hetzer, secretary; Kenneth Pedersen, treasurer; Richard Rohrman, social chairman; C.A.B. Representative Luella McIntosh, adviser; Harry Nelson; and associate advisers Raymond Herman and John Lawrence.

• Kappa Phi: Spring semester officers are Jane Doran, president; Laurel Nelson, vice-president; Pat Arensburg, recording secretary; Audrey Kemme, corresponding secretary; Jean Fraser, treasurer; Joan Fitzgerald, historian, and CAB Representative Barbara Larson.

• Theta Tau: Spring officers are Millie Laube, president; Clarisse Platt, vice-president; Jane Portello, corresponding secretary; Rosemary Kapp, recording secretary, and Duffy Steel, treasurer. There will be a meeting tomorrow night at 20 Agua Way, reached by the Miraloma bus.

• XGI Society: All veterans are invited to a meeting Friday, February 28, at the War Memorial Building, Room 1. Tentative plans are being made for the showing of motion pictures of the Bikini bombing.

• Latin American Club: Will hold a meeting during the first college hour in Room 346. All new Spanish and American students are invited to attend.

• AVC: General membership meeting in Room 100 during Friday College Hour.

Women Eligible For Fashion Scholarships

The Tobe-Coburn School For Fashion Careers in New York City, New York, is currently offering a scholarship course of one year to the winner of a fashion contest now being held.

Women students in the Bay Area wishing to compete should file their application either with Virginia Gohn, merchandising instructor, in Room 222, or with Claire Cuneo, home economic instructor, in Room 158, before Saturday, March 1, 1947, deadline date for applications.

The contest will consist of written test topics to be mailed to the contestants by O'Connor, Moffatt & Co. after the application blank has been filed. Women who will complete two years of college by June, 1947, are eligible to enroll in the contest.

"CALIFORNIA HERE WE COME," was the theme song of John Keblinsky and his bride, Helen, who crossed the continent in a trailer. John and his wife are shown being greeted by Registrar Mary Jane Learnard and Hilda Watson, chairman of the Hotel and Restaurant Division. —Photo by Devlin.

Popular Curricula

Vet Migrates For Hotel Div. Course

John Keblinsky, whose home is in Worcester, Mass., came across the continent to enroll in the Hotel and Restaurant Division of San Francisco Junior College.

Keblinsky heard of the hotel and restaurant training offered in the local college through the vocational guidance dircetor in the veterans counselling office in Boston. He had also heard of the national housing shortage, so he took no chances that he and his new bride, whom he married on January 18, would be without living quarters.

He brought a trailer, drove south along the Atlantic seaboard, across the southern states and the southwest and an hour after registering for the spring semester here, had established residence at a local trailer camp.

Veteran of the war in the Pacific area, where he served with an outfit of combat engineers, Keblinsky plans to enter the hotel industry by way of operating a tourist motel somewhere in the southwest. His bride is the former Helen Kamendulis, whom he knew in high school, in Worcester.

Clubs Must Apply For New Meeting Rooms

Announcement that clubs no longer have claim to their meeting rooms was made by Assistant Dean John Brady last week. All organizations must file a request for a room for this semester with Brady before noon tomorrow.

Clubs will meet this Friday in the first college hour of the spring semester. Emphasis was placed by Brady on the importance of every club applying for rooms, since there are not enough to go around.

Representatives of organizations, when seeing Brady, in the Administration Building on the west campus, should be prepared to give the size of room desired or an estimate of the number of students in the club.

The Lark
Fountain Lunches and Dinners
1410 Ocean Avenue
8 A.M. 12 P.M.

THE COLLEGE BOOK SHOP
1039 Ocean Avenue
Opposite West Campus Entrance
TEXTBOOKS • STATIONERY
REQUIRED GYM SUPPLIES
(WE CARRY THE YALE COMBINATION LOCKS)
Everything You Need for the Spring Semester

RAndolph 8806 — RAndolph 8026
TASHIN
Ladies' and Gents' Tailor
Where Quality Is Supreme and Reasonable Prices a Revelation
1535 Ocean Avenue

Are You . . .
Preparing for the Right Career?
TRAINED VOCATIONAL COUNSELLORS HELP YOU DECIDE WHICH OCCUPAATION IS BEST SUITED TO YOUR TALENTS.
Listen to: "Adventuras in Jobs and Careers" Sunday at 3:30 on KSFO. Dial 560
WRITE OR PHONE FOR FREE BOOKLET
VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE CENTER
530 POWELL STREET
Monday through Friday 10:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m.
Saturday 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

The Guardsman

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College

Vol. XXIV SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1947 No. 2

College Hour Schedule
8 o'clock classes— 8:10 to 8:50
9 o'clock classes— 9:00 to 9:40
10 o'clock classes— 9:50 to 10:30
• College Hour—10:40 to 11:20 •
11 o'clock classes—11:30 to 12:10
12 o'clock classes—12:30 to 1:00

Rally Committee

Auditions Slated Here For Collegiate Talent To Play City Circuit; Campus To Be Combed For Star Entertainers

The Rally Committee of the college took the initiative this week in forming a city-wide "Orpheum Circuit" comprised of talented students from various colleges in the bay area. The program has been launched by Freshman President Jim Edwards, acting rally head, and members of the music department faculty.

The gist of the plan is to form a talent pool of student entertainers from this and other city colleges from which groups may be taken to provide entertainment at rallies and other student functions.

In addition to providing enjoyment for the audience, the plan would give those students who have talent a chance to exercise it before varied audiences. Besides being available to other colleges, the students would be available at certain times to outside organizations such as the USO and other service clubs.

According to Flossita Badger, choral director, auditions will be held to determine which students are suited to the plan. Auditions will be held also in other colleges who partake in the plan.

"All types of entertainment are needed," Miss Badger said; "singers, both popular and classical; dancers, musicians, magicians, and others are welcome to try out."

The auditions will be held by Assistant Dean Jack Brady, the Rally Committee, and members of the music department. The first audition is tentatively set for the college hour on Friday March 6, in Room 200. Miss Badger said that those students desiring an accompanist should apply to her or another member of the music department or should supply their own.

This program would be invaluable to the Rally Commissioner of any college who is in search for entertainment for his rallies, social functions, and other programs, the commission here believes.

Another series is planned at Letterman General Hospital where student entertainment would be provided in the wards and recreation hall every two weeks. "Officials at Letterman show a great interest in the program and volunteers are especially desired for this series," Miss Badger said.

Some features for campus im-

(Continued on page 4, column 4)

Music

Instructor Gives Vocal Recital Here

The college music department will take the spotlight for the first time this semester when a vocal recital to be sung by Flossita Badger, member of the music faculty, will be presented next Monday, March 3, at 12 noon in Room 200 with Gertrude Norgard, also a music instructor, as piano accompanist.

Miss Badger, voice and choral director here, is a distinguished San Francisco singer in the concert, radio, and opera fields. She also spent several seasons with the San Carlos Opera Company in Naples, Italy, and the San Francisco Opera Company.

Next Monday's performance will be in the form of a typical vocal recital including such selections as Aria from La Tosca by Puccini, songs by Handel, Mozart, Brahms, and Strauss, coupled with some modern American, French, and English vocals.

Mrs. Norgard said that the recital is not restricted to the members of the Music 7b listening hour class, but is open to all members of the student body and faculty free at that hour and as long as there are seats available in Room 200.

CAB In First Meet Of Semester Today

The Club Advisory Board will hold its initial meeting of the new semester this morning during the college hour in the student lounge.

Trev Burrow, president of the Associated Students, will open the meeting and election to the following offices is scheduled: president, vice-president and secretary.

The CAB consists of one member of each officially chartered college club.

Council Delays Card Action

GENIAL DON BURGER, Finance Committee chairman, believes each student enrolled should belong to the Associated Students, thus develop the college to its proper importance.

ASSFJC Membership Passes Half Way Mark; Controller Points Out Benefits

Action by the Student Council on Associated Student activities was postponed last Tuesday pending further investigation by the council. President Trev Burrow said that failure to increase the sale of Associated Student cards will definitely restrict all Associated Student activities. Burrow expressed the hope that an increase of sales will allay the need for further action.

Out of an enrollment of approximately 5,200, 2,642 Associated Student cards have been sold up to the present time, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, disclosed.

That means about 2,558 students have not purchased their cards. "Of course many have waivers filled out, but there is still a large number that have made no move to obtain cards as yet," Anderson remarked.

Pointing out the advantages of the Associated Student card, Anderson told of the graduation arrangement here. No student after completing graduation requirements has to pay fees for caps and gowns. Also the payment for use of an auditorium comes from the Associated Student fund. This procedure is not carried out in other colleges in the state.

Anderson encouraged all students to purchase cards not only for the building-up of the Associated Student fund, but for the many benefits offered them through membership.

The council moved and approved to send President Burrow, Vice-President Nancy Stookey, and adviser Assistant Dean Jack Brady to the Northern California Junior College Conference at Visalia on March 21 and 22. The council also moved and approved to send Dean Haug, who was appointed vice-president of the conference last year.

Associated Men Student President Frank Nelson submitted for approval the names of Frank Grant and Alf Uttenburg as vice-president and secretary of the AMS. Both appointments were unanimously approved.

Finances

Fees Here Among Lowest In State

By Hank Weiss

Don Burger, Finance Committee chairman, is busy putting his associates through their paces working out plans for this spring semester.

These plans, if allowed to mature, will see such improvements on the campus as the addition of new parking facilities, purchase of band uniforms, increased and more elaborate social functions, an active pre-season and season sports calendar, guaranteed uninterrupted publication of The Guardsman, as well as participation by the college in the United California Junior College Conference, active participation commensurate with the college's physical and scholastic growth and importance.

Burger disclosed that the committee now finds itself in a peculiar position. The slow start by students in obtaining their Associated Student cards has effectively disrupted the treasury and student government program. "As things stand now, we have just enough money on hand to carry out the fundamental requirements necessary to maintain the student government," Burger said.

Some features for campus im-

(Continued on page 4, column 4)

There's Nothing Junior About This College, Kids!

By John Huise

James Nicklen, Jr., like other students of the college, sat on the staircase waiting for classes to begin. He was unlike his fellow students in that he wore sober clothes and a generous beard.

This man, with his youthful, eager mind, is 80 years old.

A student of chemistry and anatomy, Nicklen stared at his black shoes and adjusted his glasses.

"Some people wonder why a man of my age wants to study," he sighed. "The reason is simple. I believe that a man leaves two things in the world: his children and his work. An education will further my work."

The gentleman touched his beard with one hand and twirled his plain black hat with the other.

"I have had some trouble," he said ruefully, "with bothersome questions about my beard. I wear a beard because God intended a man to look like a man, not a woman. Besides," he added vigorously, "my father wore one."

The student adjusted his glasses again, picked up his books, and stood up briskly.

"I've got to go to class now," he smiled. "I don't want to take a cut."

A resident of San Francisco since 1911, Nicklen came to this country from Reading, England, as a boy of 11. Since then he has worked alternately as a plumber and an employee of the Matson Lines.

YOU'RE ONLY AS YOUNG as your thoughts, James Nicklen, Jr., 80 years young, seems to be telling Dean Jack Brady as he turns in his registration card on "D" day at the Campus. Nicklen has registered in chemistry and anatomy classes at the college. He hails from Reading, England, but is a naturalized citizen of this country.—Photo by Lustig.

Registrar

Friday And Daily Schedule Changed

Effective today, 8 o'clock classes will convene at 8:10 a.m., and be dismissed at 9 o'clock, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said in a bulletin today.

The college hour will be on Friday from 10:40 a.m. to 11:20 a.m. "We will run 40 minute periods with ten minutes between each period," Miss Learnard added. This practice will continue throughout the semester on Fridays.

The first college hour today will be given over to club meetings. Rooms for the club meetings will probably be posted by the Silver Pole.

To give students a complete picture of the college hour schedule, The Guardsman publishes a complete schedule at the top of this page every Friday.

When The Instructor "Fails," Try Fire

By William Wilson

The hottest story to come out of any of the departments is the one reported by a certain math instructor.

It seems that during an early and quite dull math class one student fell into a blissful stupor. Irritated students around and about the vicinity became ferocious at the ceaseless snoring followed by whistles off-tune. This led to an uprising in the form of "ye olde hotfooty." Naturally the snoozer became hot in a hurry and did much skipping and shouting about the classroom, to the glee of all concerned.

Needless to say the victim was burnt up more than a little and still growls when remembering the hot incident.

Early Bids A Must For Student Lounge

In a move designed to facilitate the use of either the student lounge or auditorium in the evenings, Assistant Dean Jack Brady said yesterday any college organization desiring to utilize these facilities will have to make their requests for the evening desired at least a week in advance.

Brady added that this procedure is necessary, so as to have a janitorial engineer on duty while the lounge or auditorium is in use, as required by rules of the Board of Education.

President Cloud To Attend UN Meetings

President A. J. Cloud, who left last week to attend two conventions in the east, received an invitation to attend the United Nations peace conference at Lake Success, New York, Edward Denhard, the president's secretary, revealed yesterday.

Miss Denhard pointed out that the invitation had come from Trygve Lie, president of the United Nations Conference.

President Cloud attended the convention of the American Association of Junior Colleges from February 19 to February 23 at St. Louis. This coming week the president will attend the American Association of School Administrators convention from March 2 to March 6 at Atlantic City.

Between the two conventions, Dr. Cloud will attend the United Nations conference. He plans to return to San Francisco by March 10.

Dance For Vets' Phonographs Delayed

Postponement of Alpha Theta Epsilon's dance, to have been held Saturday, March 1, has been forced by difficulty in clearing with the social committee, Frances Elizabeth Mount, co-adviser of the group, announced this week.

A meeting will be held during the college hour today to formulate plans for holding the dance some time later in March or April. Location and theme of the dance have, as yet, been unannounced.

The delayed dance was part of a combined sorority effort sponsored by Alpha Theta to raise funds for additional phonograph machines to be given to the patients of Letterman General Hospital. Three machines have been purchased at this date, and presentation will be made at Letterman when the machines are delivered.

Alpha Theta Epsilon sponsored a Christmas gift drive last semester and collected 85 gifts which were distributed to servicemen by the Red Cross.

The Guardsman
Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of San Francisco Junior College
1946 Member Associated Collegiate Press 1947

Vol. XXIV, No. 2 Friday, February 28, 1947 Page 2

Sure, It's Trouble

These Measures Necessary

COMMENCING with this issue of The Guardsman, each student who receives a copy must present a student card and that card is to be punched. This means delay, standing in line, crowding, and all the other evils which go with lack of time and space.

Trouble? Sure, it's going to be trouble.

The Guardsman staff, along with the rest of the students, dislikes a condition which makes such action necessary. However, because only 66% of the students have paid their Associated Student dues, the Student Council has ruled, that for participation in any activity, paid for from student funds, a card showing membership must be presented and punched.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY THE BEST MEANS THE COUNCIL HAS to protect the students who have paid their dues from also paying for a "free ride" by those students who have failed, so far, to purchase Associated Student cards.

In the past, 95% or more of the total students enrolled have paid dues for membership in the Associated Students, thus alleviating such stringent checking of student cards.

With things as they stand now, the method for ending this added distraction is restriction of ALL ACTIVITIES to associated members only, or increasing the sales of student cards.

The Student Council has acted in the fairest manner possible thus far, but, if the students who have failed to pay their dues do not do so soon, the council will be forced to take further and more harsh action, designed to prevent the recalcitrants from enjoying the benefits paid for by their fellow students.

Such measures will tend to develop friction between members and non-members and is certainly not desired, but unless the student budget is augmented by additional dues, these measures will be necessary.

Ford

After Dark

WHEN the silent man in mocha brown rolls around next year, or the next, or the next, and says, "Going my way?" shove a copy of In The Nature Of Materials into his face with the assurity that Illustration 321, the Edgar J. Kaufmann House at Bear Run, Pennsylvania, will drive him off, even if Duz (which, as everyone knows, does everything . . . . almost) doesn't do the trick.

If this is too confusing, the name of the book you are recommended to read is In The Nature of Materials and is a complete chronology, both written and pictorial, by Henry Russell Hitchcock, of the stone erections of America's greatest contemporary architect, Frank Lloyd Wright.

LADIES AND FUNCTIONALISM

During the closing years of the last century and the opening years of this century, the theory these men advocated, functionalism, was frowned on by the Crown Heads Of Commercial Concrete. However, today, these early works of stone idealism are finally coming into their own, or, as the secretary said after viewing Wright's S. C. Johnson & Son Administration Building In Racine, Wisconsin, "This is one business building a lady has to live up to, not from!"

The majority of people in the United States take architecture for granted, without realizing the infinite planning, the sweat, blood, and tears that went into actual construction processes. Some time, in the not too distant future, lift your eyes to the facade of the college and then compare it to the Little Red Schoolhouse where your granny studied readin', writin' and Grade A-1 American prejudice. Then look at other buildings, hank buildings for instance.

WEIRD? PERHAPS—BUT

In Greece, thousands of years ago, they were designed as religious edifices to the gay assortment of Olympian residents, and today the sole function of these buildings is to receive piles of good legal tender, American mazula. This is directly or indirectly responsible for that functional home you've had your eye on for some time.

Wright's homes are a little weird (to some) but they have more heat, better light, more air, are more livable, and, in the main, they are less expensive to live in than a bank building built to divine Diana, 3,000 years ago.

Every woman thinks some other woman's husband a mighty patient man.

There is always somebody to help you if you have difficulty in opening your pocketbook.

Any man will become hard-boiled after being in hot water a few times.

Around And About with Nagle

Today's Column Was Written By Del Pichon

THEY lay their plans with devilish knowledge of their intended victim, arranging each detail so that he may not escape their snares. Alas! The poor prey, guileless and unknowingly, walks innocently into the trap lured on by the attractive bait offered him.

All too late he realizes that he is caught and strives to escape, but the hunter closes in upon him and he is captured. The hunted?—Men. The hunters—Women.

Yes, that is the way it goes. The young, charming, winsome, lissome girls are like hunters going out to stalk their prey. For bait they have an alarmingly large set of gimmicks ranging from false eye lashes to false fingernails.

AH, THE PITY OF IT ALL

In conjunction with this goes a curvaceous figure, long tresses, short dresses and a set of eyes which appear to say, "Won't you please help me? I don't know anything." AH! The cunning behind those eyes!

The unsuspecting male, however, fails (and will continue to fail) prey to these insidious devices of women. The slow, deliberate, coquettish wink attracts him, a smile lures him on, and a kiss captures him. It isn't very long before he is dragged to the altar by his triumphant bride and by a few words is sold down the river by one of his own kind. Oh! Ironical gods!

Then the worst happens. The formerly gay, carefree college youth is confronted with that horror of horrors (the very mention of the word causes one to shudder with revulsion) . . . WORK!

WORK REARS UGLY HEAD

No longer will he cavort lightheartedly along the seashore. No longer will he sing bawdy songs with his buddies while quaffing tall glasses of cool brew. No longer will he spend idyllic hours dozing in the warm summer sun. He must (ugh!) work!

Then comes one of those screaming, squalling bundles from Heaven. Then another and another. Responsibility piles on responsibility and the man is forced to spend a doldrumic life surrounded by his impish brood and a multitude of household duties.

It can't happen to you? It will though if you don't beware the wiles of women. Beware! They'll get you yet.

STANDBY

By Bill Riley

AMONG those injured in the wreck of the SAN JOAQUIN LIMITED was ELLA NOWELL, business English instructor at the college. MRS. NOWELL suffered severe burns and a broken ankle and is confined at the VISALIA MUNICIPAL HOSPITAL.

Also on the college casualty list is MARGARET FLOURNOY, business education instructor. MISS FLOURNOY'S car was hit by a truck. Although suffering from shock, the victim has returned to her classes.

Another interesting tidbit from MARIE DYSON, PBX operator, was a phone call from a distraught mother who had mislaid her house keys and wanted her student daughter to come home to the rescue.

MARTHA SPRY, new student and member of the A Cappella Choir, sang with a group of WAVEs, 80 in number, while stationed at Hunter College in New York. The choral group sang on coast-to-coast broadcasts.

Lajeunesse

Spectator . . .

Of Bathrooms, Steel Mills, and The British Empire

SUPER salesman of the tottering British Empire, Randolph Churchill, was in town this past week to lecture at the Town Hall series.

It seems every time he calls for room service in a hotel he gets nothing but a bad time from men in the street that aren't in entire sympathy with his or his father's ideas on the world.

A Denver plumber, before he plugged the leak for Randolph, not only remembered to bring along his tools but also brought with him a whole kit full of gripes the average man has against the Empire.

STILLSON WRENCH DIPLOMAT

He left Randolph with his bathroom in A-1 shape and a few choice statements to muse about while showering.

The latrine or head engineer paused long enough in his work to inform Randy that "the British haven't listened to anyone for the past 400 years."

Evidently Churchill listened for the story reached all the papers and he got plenty of badly needed publicity for his remaining lectures.

TROPIC FEVER FOR PATER

Proving the sun never sets on the British Empire, Randy's father, Winston Churchill, is back in London running hot and cold much the same as his son's plumbing in Denver before it got the treatment.

Britain's depleted coal supplies are undoubtedly leaving the elder Churchill cold but the present administration's foreign policy is burning him plenty.

Winnie survives the cold blasts of a heatless homefront only long enough for someone at No. 10 Downing Street to apply a hotfoot in the form of the situation in the Orient.

He can't get enough coal to keep the body warm but his old imperialistic ideas of holding the colonies together are being set on fire time and again.

In the first fire they built under Winnie the government came out with the offer of complete independence for India.

India's neighbor, Burma, seeing which way the timber was dropping, came in with much the same request and it looks like they'll soon be able to call their homeland their own.

INDIAN STEEL MILL

One wonders if Churchill gets a warm glow these chippy London days while thinking about the biggest steel mill in the British Empire, resting a little uneasily now in Jamshedpur, a hundred or so miles above Calcutta, India.

Built by American engineers and worked by thousands of anonymous Indians drawing down an average wage of twenty-five cents a day, the Tata Steel Works in Jamshedpur is a model community that Britons in India point to with pride.

Clean, well built barracks type homes house the fortunate workers in the town of Jamshedpur and a modern railroad goes between there and Calcutta carrying the goods to England.

For every lucky native working at the mill there are a thousand living along the railroad right of way starving to death.

Reinisch

Hilltop Manner

AUTOMOBILES driven by students here have been heard to be equipped with a most diverse of chimes, sirens, bells, and horns, which are continually combining their sonorous voices and lending that certain "atmosphere" to the campus.

Certainly, there is nothing more pleasing to the musically attuned ear than the melodious voices of these various instruments as they are pumped and pushed by their relaxing owners. This holds especially true when the treated listener is lolling through a few aimless hours in the third floor book room, just wishing for a release from his boredom.

What with so little work to do, and so many extra hours of freedom, as, we are sure, is the case with most of the students here, it is so uplifting, so spiritually satisfying, to be serenaded by the hour with musical potpourri including "Mary Had A Little Lamb," taps, and the theme from the Andante Cantahle of the Fifth Symphony by Tschaikowsky.

Then, too, there are the few in-between hours when, by necessity, students are painfully exposed to a stream of words by some lecturer or other. At moments like these, when an Einsteinian theory is being expostulated to the fullest, the harmonious strains coming from the driveways nearby tend to bring out the most important points and lend such a pleasing background to the entire proceedings.

It is also interesting to note faculty response to the aforementioned accompaniment. The throat muscles tighten, breathing becomes sporadic, and the face assumes a lovely vermillion hue. Almost better than Danny Kaye!

Since those long awaited balmy

(Continued on page 3, column 3)

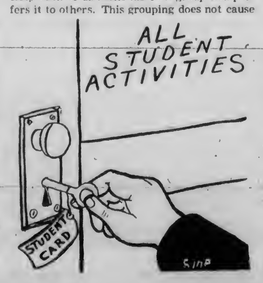
Ram's Horn

Letters to the Editor

No Room For Prejudice; De-barricaded West Campus Suggested

• American Brotherhood



Editor, The Guardsman:

The history of the United States can be summed up in one small phrase, "the story of a free people." The story of America is the greatest that has ever been lived; it has weathered many a stormy conflict and now it has come right up against one more problem, from which once again it must emerge victorious: Discrimination.

In human society there is "our group" and "the other groups." In any community or society each of us seeks his own group and prefers it to others. This grouping does not cause friction, but when "our group" endangers the welfare of those in the various "other groups" the situation is serious because discrimination and its best buddy, prejudice, have moved in.

In our colleges today there is a large representation of each race, religion and class. Therefore we must strive to respect the beliefs and ways of others, even if they do not comply with our own individual taste. We must not criticize but accept one another's general viewpoints in order to lick discrimination before it licks us; and in order to succeed in this, we must strive realistically to understand that which is of great importance to others though it be of little significance to us.

Lillian Witt

• Human Traffic Jam

Editor, The Guardsman:

The entrance to the west campus is terrific to say the least. Particularly on Phelan Avenue. Students must enter and depart single file, and the human traffic jam during the few minutes between class is quite bad.

A barricade similar to the entrances at University of California, where removable posts are placed strategically to prevent autos from driving into certain areas, but which are open enough to allow students to pass back and forth without jamming the entrances would be a suggestion to ease the tight situation. Since this is no longer a military reservation, why the fences, barbed wire, and guards anyway?

Student Card No. 497

Guardsman Staff—Spring 1947

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF ..... Carmel Gannon
MANAGING EDITOR ..... Trev Burrow
ASST. MGN. EDITOR George Lajeunesse
ASST. MGN. EDITOR ..... Edward Heyman
Editorial Assistants: William Keast, Howard Simpson, Paul Lindstrom, Henry Weiss.
NEWS: Herbert Levy, editor; John Bayler, Ralph Bergendorff, James Beuerlein, Herbert Bishop, Jo Ellen Cain, Barbard Calvehouse, Edward Engle, William Franklin, Vivian Freedman, Shalia Gragg, Doris Hall, Melvin Hansen, John Hulse, Albert Kipnis, Paul Lindstrom, Raoul Martinez, Stanley Medders, James Merrigan, William Riley, John Shea, Gordon Smith, Lawrence Truitt, William Wilson.
FEATURE: Nancy Nagle, Editor; Del Pichon, Assistant; Kenneth Ford, George Lajeunesse, Adele Reinisch, Bill Riley.
SPORTS: Bill Covall, Don Cowderoy, editors; Paul Cane, Sam Goldman, Dayton Lawson, Don Lucey, Arthur Paymiller.
PHOTOGRAPHY: Arnold Wechter, editor; Donald Lum, Fred Lustig, Jim Edwards.
BUSINESS: Bob Hanson, manager; Charles Boehnke, Max Call, Florence Grant.
Editorial Adviser ..... Joan Nourse
Business Adviser ..... Joseph Amori

Rival Fives Clash In Cage Finale

Guardsman SPORTS

Vol. XXIV, No. 2 FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1947 Page 3

RAMblings . .

By Arnold Wechter

WE happened to be in the Call-Bulletin's library looking over some of their old files, and lo and behold what did we come across but a picture of Lee Eisan, as a basketball player during his earlier days, while playing for an outfit known as "Ellery Arms."

If there was ever a piece of material suitable for blackmail, this picture is it.

Senor Eisan, who is known far and wide as a natty dresser, exceeded only by Lefty O'Doul and the doorman at Shreve's, didn't possess this fastidious talent in his earlier days. In fact, the picture shows him wearing one white sock and one black sock. Teh! teh! Mr. Eisan.

COLLEGE BASEBALL BORING

It says here that baseball season is almost here again, so what! College baseball is boring and nobody will deny it.

The old national pastime needs a shot in the arm if it is to remain a major sport at colleges. Maybe we need a man like "Lippy" Durocher, that is, if Laraine Day is included, to liven up the game.

HILLSMAN TRIBUTE

If ever a man deserved a pat on the back for a job well done, it is Ralph Hillsman, who has turned in a fine job as head basketball coach here in his first year.

The Rams were slated to go no place fast, but while they did not win the conference championship, they did win the Modesto State Tournament, and with it the mythical title of State Champions. Not half bad for a coach and team who were scheduled to be doormats this season.

It would be a fitting tribute to the team and Ralph Hillsman if the students of this college would be at the final game of the season, which is being played tonight against San Mateo, at San Mateo.

PAGE MR. SHAW

According to an AP dispatch of a few days ago, our San Francisco professional football team (the 49'ers) signed the star back of the Compton College football team, one Bev Wallace. This is a signal honor for junior colleges.

Never before has any player from a Pacific Coast junior college jumped straight to major league professional football. The dispatch went on to say that Wallace was personally scouted by the 49'ers' coach, Buck Shaw. The question is: why did Buck Shaw choose to scout Los Angeles area junior colleges and fail to attend a single San Francisco Junior College game? We're awaiting your answer, Mr. Shaw.

Intramural

Tuesday Deadline For First Three Spring Sport Events

By Paul Cane

With next Tuesday, March 4, set as the entry deadline for the aspiring basketball, ping-pong, and badminton athletes, Tom Wilson, charge d'affaires of the intramural tournaments, today named Tuesday, March 11, at the date on which his spring program and the aforementioned pastimes will officially get under way.

The affluent and diligent mentor is enthusiastic concerning the number of participants he is expecting to take part in his athletic syllabus which will be climaxed by the semi-annual boxing finals held at the men's smoker late in May.

That a record enrollment is anticipated was evidenced by the number of activities the Wilson itinerary inventoried.

In addition to the four earlier mentioned contests, skill struggles are planned in horseshoes, softball, swimming, tennis, touch-football and track, with prizes in all sports being awarded on a point system of ten points for first place, seven for second place, five for third place, and three for fourth place.

Awarding of the Perpetual Trophy and Perpetual Plaque honors will be done with a presentation depending upon an aggregate score; that is, a team emerging victorious in the basketball tournament will receive ten points per man, or a total of 50 points. If these 50 points are the highest total accumulated during the tournament, the organization or club sponsoring the entry of the basketball team will have its name engraved on the Dr. A. J. Cloud Perpetual Trophy.

"What we are trying to develop," Wilson emphasized, "is an opportunity in athletic competition for the great number of students here at the college who are unable, for numerous reasons, to take part in the varsity sports program.

"Also, it is through this intramural tournament," he continued, "that the coaching staff may uncover 'hidden talent' with ability that has never before been developed because of lack of training. This activity gives both the physical education department and the student an advantage without parallel."

TRACK BOSS, genial Jim Jensen, will lead his newly formed track and field groups this year in defense of his 1946 cinder championship.

Cinder

Boosts Ram Stock Prep Track Talent

Starting off with a day that began by some all-around cavorting for the camera man, the Ram track and field champs of 1946 opened the new season officially on last Friday.

Although a little early in the year to tell definitely how things will shape up, it is still considered a safe bet that Coach Jim Jensen's harriers will be well up on, or close to, the top of the NCJCC heap come time for the big conference meet. Reason for this preseason optimism lies partly in the fact that the local high schools are contributing generously to the cause.

From Polytechnic High comes Werner Plagge in the shot put, and Jim Wyatt in the sprints, along with Julian Griffin. From Balboa the Rams draw Bob DeGrazia, also a sprinter.

The high schools of Oakland are doing their part too, relinquishing such men as Bill Williams in the 440, Leon Jackson in the high and low hurdles, and a number of others. These men, along with the returning stars of last year's squad, should more than hold their own with any school in the league.

Coach Jensen and his assistant, Grover Klemmer, are anxious to interview any man now enrolled in the college who thinks he has ability as a runner, jumper, or weight man.

More Hilltop Manner

(Continued from page 2)

spring days are almost within our grasp, an additional form of entertainment is in store for everyone with two fairly good ears. Namely, those groups of weekly picnickers who settle themselves on every available lawn with their sandwiches, portable radios, and barbershop quartet in attendance.

It is during these next few months that the entertainment season on the hill is bound to reach its peak. Come one, come all! Tickets available; seats for all; convenient transportation, and refreshments will be served.

It is the college graduate of today who is the hope of the future.

Intramural Basketball Entries Due March 4

Those interested in the opening intramural round robin must have their entries in by Tuesday, March 4, according to Intramural Director Tom Wilson. Entries will be accepted every day by Wilson in the office of the men's gymnasium through March 4. Managers of club or independent teams should fill out the application below.

Name of college organization represented .....

If independent team, name of team .....

Manager of Team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Captain of team: Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....

Name of Players: 1 .....
2 .....
3 .....
4 .....
5 .....
6 .....

Signed ..... (Team Manager)

Sac'to Cinches Second Conference Crown Season Finisher At San Mateo Tonight;

What probably would have been their deciding week in the Northern California Junior College Conference title race will turn out to be just the last week of the 1947 basketball era for the San Francisco Ram cagers.

The campus five, who at one time during the present cage battle were the leaders in the casaba league, tonight will pen the "finis" of their schedule in the second meeting with their peninsula rivals, the San Mateo Bulldogs, in the Matean men's gymnasium, tonight at 8 p.m.

With 15 basketeers to choose from, the Ram mentor, Ralph Hillsman, will field a starting five in players of Forwards Larry Baldocchi and Al Munn; pivot spot holder Ken Cameron; and Guards Mike O'Neill and Art Psaltis.

Munn, who recently returned to the college, last year was one of the standout forwards for the Rams. With Munn's addition to the lineup, Hillsman expects to conclude his first year as head man of the locals with a final victory.

However, the warning of "beware" will come from the Bulldog coach, Ray Baisley, when the Southern division fifth place Mateans will have the same quintet which played Wednesday night. Joe Matulich, Lloyd Waters at forwards; Bud Goodier at center; and guards Dick Babcock and Gene Merriott complete the rival starting lineup.

Deciding frays for the championship in the Southern division will be the scrap for first place between Menlo and Grant Technical Junior Colleges, who at the present time are tied for the top position. Menlo duels Salinas, while Grant is favored over Stockton. Sacramento, which has already sewed its hitches to the Northern division first place, goes on the court against Modesto.

The preliminary contest between the San Mateo Pups and the San Francisco Lambs will tip off at 6:45 p.m.

Rams		Bulldogs
Larry Baldocchi	F	Joe Matulich
Al Munn	F	Lloyd Waters
Ken Cameron	C	Bud Goodier
Art Psaltis	G	Dick Babcock
Mike O'Neill	G	Gene Merriott

Rams Edge Bulldog In Opener 49-47

By Sam Goldman

Two free throws via the hands of guard Mike O'Neill, and a two pointer by center Bill Kahn in the remaining three minutes of play, were the deciding points for the San Francisco varsity five which held back a hard fighting San Mateo rival quintet 49-47, here, in the men's gymnasium last Wednesday evening.

The resounding calls, cheers, and enthusiastic spirit of the San Mateo rooting section were enough tempo to send the Peninsula squad into a second half scoring parade which found the college Rams trailing by a 32-31 count after only four minutes had dwindled by.

The initial period witnessed the Hillsman five in their former ways of basketball when led by forward Phil Burroughs and ranging pivoter Bill Kahn, the second place red-clad homesteaders were on the upper portion of a comfortable 28-9 halftime score.

However, the illusion for an easy victory went completely to pieces, when the Bulldog forward Lloyd Waters had himself a field night under the hoop by collecting a total of 15 markers for the high scoring spot of the evening. Once again the Phelan Avenue campus quintet's high tallier was Mike O'Neill, who hooped in 13 points.

San Francisco Lambs won the first of the evening's twin cage bills by tipping over the San Mateo Pups 54-45 to make it victory number five for the junior varsity.

Lack Of Student Funds Curtail Minor Sports

Minor spring sports, such as swimming, boxing, and golf, face curtailment to the point of oblivion here this year unless the current Associated Student drive for 100 per cent membership succeeds.

This situation was indicated Monday in a report from Swimming Coach Jim Jensen in which he revealed his fears that water sports may be entirely curtailed because student funds now on hand, provided by about one-half the total enrollment, will go to the major sports.

At the present time, however, swimming classes are in session from 12 to 2 p.m., but since the Jefferson High School pool will not be available until next week, actual practice and formation of teams will begin then.

WAA Officers Lead In New Membership Drive

Officers of the Women's Athletic Association remain unchanged since last semester, and are as follows:

Frances Seilpoti, president; Anne Aholas, vice-president; and Leona De Bique, secretary-treasurer. The club adviser is Gloria Swiegood.

The WAA has had an increasing membership during the past semester, and Miss Swiegood hopes that this semester the club will have even more members. Women students who have a free period at the times WAA sports are offered and who have maintained a "C" average in academic subjects are eligible to join, she said.

Can Rams Repeat 1946 Cinder Title?

COACH JIM JENSEN, faced last year with the task of molding a squad of veritable newscomers into a championship track aggregation, came through with flying colors by turning out a well-balanced group that swept to the NCJCC cinder championship.

With only a handful of last year's group available, Coach Jensen will be counting heavily on the performances of ex-GI's and high school stars.

The 1946 champs are the following named spikemen: Back row (left to right) Evan Goldenberg, Bob Elliot, John Didio, Bill Barnes, Al Drake, Jack O'Connor, Ed Benedetti, Jim Folger, C. E. Anderson. Front row (left to right), H. K. Anderson, Bob Ceradio, Tom Kellogg, Track Coach Jim Jensen, Hervey Roscelli, George Albertus, and Eiddie Byent.

Honor Society

Alpha Gamma Sigma Boasts Largest Enrollment With Membership Of 255

Alpha Gamma Sigma Honor Society now boasts of 255 members, which is the largest membership of any previous semester. Edwin A. Cranston, faculty adviser for the society and president of the Alpha Gamma Sigma of the state of California, stated that the membership is more than doubled since the spring semester of 1946.

Of the 255 members, Cranston added that 200 are new members, most of them veterans in their first semester at the college.

To gain membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, a student must have a minimum of 30 grade points, exclusive of physical education, in 12 units during one semester, Cranston said. A, D, or F will exclude students from joining the society. Also any repeated courses or high school courses exclude him from the society.

A member may fail to meet requirements one semester, but may meet the requirements the following semester, Cranston explained. Upon graduation, however, he must have a 2.3 average to receive Alpha Gamma Sigma honors. The highest average will be awarded with a gold pin and a certificate of honor from the Alpha Gamma Sigma Society.

The state regulations further provide that students who have met requirements for temporary membership three out of four, or four out of five semesters, and who have maintained a total grade point average of 2.3 or above, are eligible for permanent membership.

Facilities

New West Campus Library Postponed

The branch library scheduled to open on the west campus has been postponed, Marcus Skarstedt, college librarian, said yesterday. He added that it is hoped that the library will be ready for use after the Easter vacation.

Skarstedt also stated that the main library has remained open this semester from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., an hour later than usual, but will return to the 5 o'clock closing as the extra hour is neither needed nor used by the students.

